VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XCII JANUARY 24, 1974 'Tis A Privilege To Live In Vermont UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT BURLINGTON, VERMONT NUMBER 1

Barbara Snelling and President Edward Andrews

Andrews Names Snelling To Be New Vice-President

In a very casual press conference on Friday UVM President Edward Andrews announced and then presented the new Vice President for Development and External Affairs Barbara Snelling.

"Mrs. Snelling was chosen," he said "out of a field of more than 400 who had been nominated or had applied for the position." The search committee chaired by Dr. Wayne Patterson took the 400 applications and then narrowed them to 15 or so and then again to six "finalists."

The announcement has received unanimous agreement from the Academic Council of Deans as well as informed approval from the board of trustees. The actual confirmation will take place at the next trustees' meeting February 16.

The search began a year ago when Walter G. Brutka left the post to accept a position at Kent State University as vice-president for administration. Lawrence J. Doolan, an alumnus and former trustee who has long been active in UVM development work has served as interim vice-president. The position is now an expanded one which now includes assistance for the president, vice-president and academic deans in external affairs in addition to the development and fund raising activities already involved.

Dr. Andrews noted that Mrs. Snelling was among the six "finalists" who were invited to UVM for formal interviews and said he was "just delighted" that the first choice of the selection committee and the deans and my own first choice turns out to be a Vermonter and a woman." He said that Mrs. Snelling's extensive background of community and public service includes very solid experience in fund raising and public affairs and stressed that "Barbara was not chosen because she was a woman. That just happens to be a bonus."

"She was chosen," he said, "because she is well qualified. We are delighted to have her join the University in a period in which it must be a high priority for us to build on the rich tradition of private philanthropy which has helped make UVM a fine institution."

When asked about a possible conflict with her other numerous activities, she said that she will probably drop something but that she would like to stay on with the Vermont State Board of Education. When asked what she hoped to do she said she would be just talking to the state legislature and would be offering UVM as a resource to the state. She would also be trying to increase giving, public relations and external affairs and continue as Doolan did.

Mrs. Snelling, a magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Radcliffe College is a member of Radcliffe's alumnae board of trustees, a member of the Vermont State Board of Education, a trustee of Champlain College where she chairs the board's academic policy committee.

She is also a member of the Medical Center of Vermont board of governors, a member of the board of directors of the Chittenden Trust and of the Burlington International Games.

She has served as chairman of the regional school directors committee and subsequently on the board of directors and as chairman of

(continued on page eight)

3 Fired Professors Go Different Routes; Paskow, Anderson Hope To Sue UVM

by Barbara Frankel

The three philosophy professors Alan Paskow, Gerald Anderson and Bob Rice who were denied reappointment in a controversial issue last semester have gone their separate ways. The fourth professor involved James Corcoran was eventually rehired.

Both Paskow and Anderson are anticipating court battles against the university. Both have been given funds from the National Education Association (NEA) for exploratory investigations to see if they have valid legal cases. If a case can be made, and Paskow and Anderson seemed optimistic, the NEA will fund it.

Their cases although similar in several respects are separate. Paskow who was denied tenure strongly feels that untenured faculty members have no rights at this university. He advocates the unionization of faculty members at UVM although he doubts if this will become a reality until tenured faculty members are also threatened.

Paskow compared the attitudes of faculty members at UVM to those of Germans during the Nazi regime. "The Germans knew but they didn't know. The faculty here knows what's going on but they really don't want to know," he commented.

Paskow fears that many untenured faculty members who have good relationships with their department chairmen feel privileged and don't fear the administration's axe. "Those who believe in the good will of the administration are deluding themselves. My own case proves that you're not safe as an untenured person because an untenured person has no rights even if you've satisfied all the requirements," he added.

Paskow cited the Roth Case in which the Supreme Court recently ruled that untenured faculty members do not have to be given reasons for dismissal. His lawyers are trying to find some technical violation of his constitutional rights. "The law isn't interested in justice, but, rather, in making sure due process has been observed. Everyone on campus knows my firing was for political reasons but that won't stand up in court. The Courts aren't interested in moral justice," he observed.

Looking for another teaching position, Paskow has been finding the competition incredible. His court case which may take two to three years, Michael Patent's case against the university is still pending; further jeopardizes his chances for a new job because administrators are reluctant to hire someone who is suing another university.

Gerald Anderson also waging a court battle is optimistic for the future of his case. His plans depend on his lawyers' advice and on "what will give me the most freedom to do what I tried to do here" and was stopped from doing.

Anderson feels that what has happened at UVM is similar to what is occurring at other schools across the country. "What was special in our case," he added "was the number of people involved. Usually they only have one or two people."

Anderson, who is pursuing

(continued on page eleven)

Lovell Expects Ample Fuel, Little Feedback On 4-Day Week

by John Van Hoesen

"We think we're going to be able to make it." This statement, in reference to the fuel shortage, came from Director of Administrative Support Services Proctor Lovell on Tuesday. Lovell pointed out that the University's fuel consumption was up ten per cent for the first week since students returned. He considered this a modest increase.

Last week the University used 62,000 gallons of oil, what Lovell considered a favorable figure. However he said, "The degree day represents a truer figure."

"We try to emphasize the only yardstick is this experience of the whole year last year, because we do take an inventory of our fuel tanks each June. The only yardstick we have is the degree days as what practically everybody uses."

The director emphasized that the University is working on the crisis continually and that they inform the state energy chief Forest Orr concerning UVM's fuel status weekly.

The Administrative Support Services office is a step between maintenance and administrative departments. The office is responsible for campus-wide thermostat settings and boiler problems as far as the energy crunch is concerned.

Lovell cited current oil prices. No. 6 27.9 cents per gallon. No. 4 - 26.7 cents per gallon. No. 2 - 27.8 cents per gallon. He added that these prices reflect an increase of about five cents per gallon.

The budget for this year, which was set a year and a half ago allowed 11.9 cents per gallon for number six fuel oil.

Feedback

"The feedback we are getting is in the form of comments to the registrar, but we do not have much negative feedback," Executive Vice President Wayne Patterson reported late last week.

After two days of classes, Patterson described student

(continued on page eleven)

"Isn't that ducky?" Photo by Wynn Gold

Universities Take Drastic Measures To Conserve

The energy crisis is having a two-fold effect on state and land grant universities. Among the largest consumers of energy in their respective states, the institutions must come up with drastic measures aimed at cutting back on their energy usage. As educators and researchers, the institutions also have a responsibility to offer programs designed to educate the public on ways to conserve energy and to produce research results that will help develop new sources of energy and achieve more productive use of that already available.

Although practically none of the universities anticipate that they will have to close because of a lack of fuel and electricity, virtually every institution has noted that it must make a wide range of conservation efforts to keep from running out of its storehouse of energy.

Two New England universities, the University of Maine and the University of Massachusetts, have announced one-week closings. The University of Massachusetts has reduced by one week the length of its formal intercession activities in January. The university estimated that by powering down to 55 degrees in most of its buildings between December 22 and January 13 it would achieve savings in heat and light of approximately 80 per cent in residential space and 50 per cent in academic space. The University of Maine delayed the start of its spring semester from January 14 to January 21. The university is maintaining a temperature in all or part of 75 buildings on the Orono and Bangor campuses of 55 degrees during the four-week vacation between semesters.

The close-down is part of the institution's commitment to reduce fuel and energy consumption at all campuses by 20 per cent. To help in achieving this goal, the university has appointed 65 Energy Advisers to serve as assistants to building managers in administering energy-conservation programs. The university, like a number of others, has also created an Energy Advisory Committee to develop long range plans for improving and conserving energy sources.

CONSERVATION MEASURES ADOPTED BY CAMPUSES

Although no other universities announced special closings, many readjusted the temperature to 55 degrees in most buildings during the scheduled vacation recesses, and, in some cases, gave employees extra days off to conserve campus energy consumption. Other practices that are mentioned by almost all universities that have already anpounced energy conservation programs include:

Reducing temperatures in all buildings to 68 degrees with lower settings in classroom buildings overnights and on week-ends. (Exceptions are made in areas where scientific experiments require different temperature settings.)

Requiring that all university vehicles be driven at speeds no greater than 55 mph, and restricting the usage of these vehicles to only the most essential purposes.

Minimizing travel and encouraging employees to make trips at the same time in order to share a car.

Reducing lighting in hallways and outdoor areas to as great an extent as possible without jeopardizing security requirements.

Revising work schedules of custodians where feasible so that duties can be accomplished during daylight hours.

Cutting down on the number of buildings in use at night and on Saturdays and

(continued on page nine)

S.A. Senate Meeting Drags

by Bruce Maddern

With a big "Welcome back for another semester," S.A. Chairperson Steve Rollins gaveled the first S.A. Senate meeting of the semester. Besides the usual number of fraternity and sorority absences a goodly number of dorm senators failed to appear.

Dean Powers discussed the University energy policy the senators heard announcements concerning the Stills concert and the Winter Weekend Ice Show, and senators discussed recognition procedures during the course of the night.

Committee Reports

The Concert Bureau announced the coming February 15 concert featuring Stephen Stills and Maria Muldaur. Sig Heller gave the Coordinating Committee report. He also announced the coming Winter Festival, which will hopefully be a winter city sponsored by IRA and an Ice Show at Gutterson. Applications for the skits are available in Billings.

The Recognition of the Wrestling Club was offered under the Student Activities Committee report. Some discussion was raised about recognition procedure but Rollins asked that discussion be withheld until New Business. Rollins also announced that sign-up sheets for standing and special ad-hoc committees were available. Positions would be assigned if they were not filled voluntarily. Ed Pasquajin questioned the chair's power to assign people to committees, the question was never resolved.

Old Business

Under old business the senators heard a proposal from the Finance Committee to appropriate $770 to the Lacrosse Club. Matt Jones presented a very detailed budget for the club and he explained that this money

(continued on page eight)

New Cynic Editorial Board Creates 2 New Positions

In an effort to expand and improve the quality of the newspaper, the Cynic has added two new editorial board positions, copy editor and arts & entertainment editor. It is hoped that the addition of these two positions will not only ease the load on the already overburdened and underpaid editors, but allow the newspaper to diversify the scope of its coverage as well. In addition to these two positions this year's editorial board also has some new faces.

Barbara Frankel was elected the new editor-in-chief, replacing Steve Wood who will be graduating this year. Ms. Frankel, who is from Brooklyn, New York, is majoring in English and has been working for the Cynic the past two years in the capacities of co-feature editor and assistant editor this past semester. She hopes to probe more deeply into relevant university issues and create a greater concern on the part of the students for college affairs. "We do not only want to report the facts, but are trying to find out why things are happening on campus," Ms. Frankel stated.

Rick Steinberg, last year's sports editor, was elected assistant editor. Mr. Steinberg is from Hillsdale, New Jersey and is majoring in economics. He is also concerned with the "why" of reporting but would like to analyze and discuss world and national events as well.

Taking over Jim Bradley's position as news editor is Bruce Maddern, a sophomore zoology major from Cheshire, Connecticut. Mr. Bradley will still remain on the board in an advisory capacity. Helping Mr. Maddern will be freshman Kathy Stiassni from Rye, New York, who will be assuming the position of assistant editor.

Taking over as sports editor will be Mike Schwartz. Mr. Schwartz, an economics major from New York City, hopes to make sports "more than just scores" and also to "try to make an effort to cover the variety of sports on campus not just hockey but also the women and intramural sports scene."

This year feature and arts and entertainment has been split to form two positions. Margo Howland, the assistant editor in the department last year, is the new feature editor. Ms. Howland is from Windsor, Vermont and is majoring in political science. Lissa Charles, last year's feature editor, will be filling the new arts and entertainment editor position. Ms. Charles is from Schenectady, New York, and is a mass communications major. Assistant arts and entertainment editor is Peter Campbell of Saxton's River, Vermont, who is majoring in religion.

Replacing Ruth Hay as managing editor is Eileen Driscoll, a junior history major from Essex Junction. Rounding out the staff is John Van Hoesen, who is filling the newly created position of copy editor. Mr. Van Hoesen, who will be graduating this May, is from Springfield, Vermont, and is majoring in history.

Photo by Rick Taylor

Featured This Week:

Dear Flabby—p.12 Reviews Of Dylan— p.6

S.A. Films Spring'74—p.10

Table Of Contents

Arts and Entertainment ..... p. 6
Calendar Announcements ..... p. 2
Crossword Puzzle ..... p. 11
Cryptoquote ..... p. 11
Doctor's Bag ..... p. 4
Editorial ..... p. 5
OP ED ..... p. 5
Sports ..... p. 13

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar Presents

Welcome back to the new Spring Semester.

The period for adding courses and for turning in your pass/no pass option cards ends Friday, January 25, 1974 at 6:00 p.m.

The new final examination schedule has been posted on the bulletin board outside the Registrar's Office in Waterman. This new schedule reflects all those recent changes to the spring schedule plus some additional adjustments.

Workshop About Women

"Woman Searching for Self" is the title of a workshop, sponsored by the Vermont Division of the American Association of University Women, to be held on Saturday, February 2, from 9:30 am to 3 pm at Vermont College in Montpelier. Place is the main administration building. A registration fee of $2.00 includes coffee and a box lunch.

Registrations including the fee should be sent by January 25 to Joann Cusman, 86 College Street, Montpelier, Vermont 05602. Indicate which workshop sessions you are interested in.

Schedule

9:00 am coffee, displays
9:30 to 10:00 am coffee, chance to meet others and see displays
10:00 am to Noon brief presentations by a number of speakers
After lunch, a series of workshops, starting at 1:00 pm and others starting at 2:00 pm. For more information about the workshops, contact Joann Cusman.

First Annual Skit Night

On February 16 in the Gutterson Field House, the first Annual Skit Night will be held. Skit night will include any University student or faculty member who wishes to enter the competition and present a skit on ice with a time limit of five minutes. The three winning skits will appear in the University of Vermont's first annual Ice Show which will be held on Friday and Saturday, February 22 and 23 from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Entry blanks are available in all dorms and in Billings Center. All rules are listed on the entry blank which must be turned in by February 13.

A few suggestions for skits might be a take off on nursery rhymes, fairy tales, males dressing up as females, and females dressing up as males, cowboy and Indian skits, cops and robbers, or just about anything your imagination can conjure up.

Skits may be practiced any time during student skating at Gutterson, or on the basketball court behind WDW. Practice time will be available for skits the night before skit competition. More details about this will be posted.

Union Meeting

The Union of College Faculty, a local union of faculty members in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Vermont, will decide next week whether to affiliate with a national teachers' union. The membership will vote on two questions: whether to affiliate with a national union, and, if affiliation is approved, whether to affiliate with the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) or the National Education Association (NEA). The meeting, which is for U.C.F. members only, will be held on Monday, January 28, at 12 noon in the Marsh Lounge of Billings Center.

Fleming Museum Print Display

Beginning January 15th, the Fleming Museum will be displaying framed prints for students to rent for the Spring Semester. The Museum's rental collection now has a number of new additions, and prices will vary according to the value and condition of the prints. The $2.00 deposit on any print framed with glass will be refunded when the print is returned at the end of the semester. The prints will be displayed around the Museum balcony and renting will continue Tuesdays through Fridays until February 2.

Democratic Women Conference

The 1974 Campaign Conference for Democratic Women was announced today by Margaret Hartigan, Democratic National Committeewoman. The Conference, termed a political pacesetter, will be held in Washington, D.C. March 29-31, 1974, at the Sheraton Park Hotel.

The Conference's theme, "It Takes a Woman," will be woven through a series of innovative workshops to be led by political experts. Workshop discussions will be directed towards How To Run for office, Run a campaign, Lobby a Legislature, Raise the money, and How to Raise the Issues.

For more information contact Ruth Poger, Executive Director, Vermont Democratic State Headquarters, P.O. Box 231, Burlington, or call 862-9681.

Infirmary Info

Students to be seen as patients at the Wasson Infirmary must present their new photo-identification cards to the receptionist. Please remember to bring your cards.

Pershing Rifles Open To All

Company I-12, Pershing Rifles has recently ended its pledge program for the fall semester resulting in the election of the following members: William Barber, Kevin Batten, Steven Emerson, Henry Ferguson, Charles McMaster, Roger Murfitt, Roger Simmons and Dean Terry.

During the whole year Company I provides its members with extra military training, not usually conducted by the UVM ROTC Battalion. In addition to this training, Company I provides many services for the University and the Burlington community. Some of the services provided include ushering at home football and hockey games, co-sponsoring the semi-annual Red Cross blood drives, the latest one yielding 730 pints of blood for the New Hampshire-Vermont chapter of the Red Cross. We also provide classes in Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation, open to the entire University during the spring semester. The importance of knowing how to respond if you come across a person suffering from cardiac arrest cannot be emphasized strongly enough.

Last, but by no means least, Company I also supplies saber and color guards that perform at various functions for the University and the community. Our color guard for example, performs at UVM home football games and also regional parades such as the annual Burlington Veteran's Day Parade.

If anyone is interested in learning more about Pershing Rifles, drop by our office, located on the Military Studies floor of Williams Science Hall between 9-3, Monday through Friday.

Computer Program

ACM Program on Computer data banks and Individual privacy will be presented on Thursday, January 31 at 8:00 pm at the Roostertail Restaurant on Williston Road in South Burlington.

The speaker will be Mr. Ronald Cusman, Director of Budget and Management for the State of Vermont and member of a state committee working on legislative proposals affecting the use of computerized data.

This program is sponsored by the Burlington Chapter of the Association of Computing Machinery which will hold its monthly dinner meeting at 6:00 pm that evening. Persons interested in the activities of the association are invited to join the group for the program at 8:00 pm. Dinner reservations are requested. Please call Chuck Bigalow, ACM Chapter President, Ext 4060, or home at 985-2760.

Roundhouse Begins Friday

The Roundhouse, UVM's only coffeehouse, begins this semester Friday night, in Billings Center. Starting at 9:00 pm, the Roundhouse experience is varying flavors of music and other entertainment. Highlights for this first Roundhouse will be poetry recitations, juggling acts and folk music.

Almost anything goes in the Roundhouse. Last semester slide shows, short movies, jazz duos, and comedy acts were on stage. All participants perform without a stipend. This is the basic philosophy: people can greatly enjoy providing entertainment as well as receiving it.

Most performances are scheduled but usually some time does exist in the evening for one to play some tunes. Bring your guitar or kazoo or whatever you wish; there is a piano. When Friday rolls around, drop by the Roundhouse for a different experience.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 24

7 to 9 p.m., Home Economics Faculty Research Symposium, sponsored by Omnicron Nu home economics honor society, Vermont Room, Terrill Hall.

8 p.m., a regular weekly seminar in Jewish history, taught by Mitch Fried, on "Essenes", recreation room of Harris Millis Halls. Open to all.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 25

9 - 11:30, Roundhouse, "Coffeehouse atmosphere," lower Billings, music and entertainment.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 26

9 p.m., Gay Dance, 73 Church St., 50 cent donation.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 27

2 - 5 p.m., Gay open house, 73 Church St.

At Fleming Museum through February 6: Australian Bark Paintings, from the collection of Edward L. Ruhe (Main Gallery); and in the Lounge Gallery, Photographic Images by Dan Higgins of the Art department. The Museum is also displaying framed prints for students to rent for the Spring Semester. Rental prices vary according to the value and condition of the prints, and a $2 deposit for any print with glass is required. Rental will continue through Friday, February 1.

Lane Series reminders include a departure from the regular hour for the performance of "Godspell" slated for January 30. Please note that starting time will be 7:30 p.m. for this concert at Memorial Auditorium, rather than the usual 8. Tickets are $3, $5, and $6 from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, tel. 656-3418. Tickets are now also available for pianist Garrick Ohlsson, who appears February 1, and for the Chamber Arts Series of four concerts (Camilla Williams and David Glazer, Cleveland Quartet, Early Music Consort of London, and Eastman Brass Quintet), and for the spring science fiction film series which begins February 22.

MONDAY, JANUARY 28

4:10 p.m., Zoology Seminar, Dr. Hans Lauter, University of Connecticut, "Gene Activity During Development of Chironomus," Room 107, Marsh Life Sciences Building, preceded by coffee at 3:45 p.m.

8 p.m., Women of UVM Antiques Group meets at the home of Mrs. Robert O. Sinclair for a talk by Mr. James Brown, industrial arts teacher at South Burlington Middle School, "Repair and Refinishing of Antique Furniture." Call Mrs. Sinclair at 864-5055 afternoons and evenings if you are not a member and would like to attend.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 29

8 a.m. to 7 p.m., Office of Volunteer Programs (OVP) Volunteer Fair, at Billings Center, and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Vista/Peace Corps recruiters will have a booth at the Fair. Vista/Peace Corps recruiters will also be at the Placement Office, Mansfield House, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

8 p.m., Philosophy department presents Noam Chomsky, Professor of Linguistics, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Prof. Chomsky will speak about "Problems and Mysteries in the Study of Language."

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30

8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., OVP Fair continues at Billings Center. Vista/Peace Corps will again have a booth at the Fair from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and will also be at the Placement Office in Mansfield House during the same hours.

9 a.m. to 4 p.m., a Navy information team will have a booth at the lobby of Billings Center.

12 noon to 1:30 p.m., Associates in Ministry (AIM) presents "Voyages in the Spirit," a weekly program. Coffee and tea are served, bring your own lunch. Place is Conference Room C, Billings Center.

4 p.m., Radiology conference, Dr. Joseph Dickerman, Pediatrics, "Childhood Leukemia," Austin Auditorium, Mary Fletcher Unit, Medical Center Hospital of Vermont.

4 p.m., "Women in '74: Diverse Needs and Common Goals," a panel discussion presented by the UVM Women's Caucus, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Panelists include Huldine Elyan, administrative assistant, department of Pathology, and former president of the Non-Academic Employees' Council; John Perry, D.D., a graduate student in psychology who will discuss a proposed women's research group; Karen Preis, M.D., resident in psychiatry; Mary Wilson, Ph.D., associate professor of communications and theatre; and others. Open to all.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents a movie, title unavailable at press time. Place is North Lounge, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., Lane Series presents "Godspell," Memorial Auditorium. Note early starting time. Tickets available at $3, $5, and $6 from the Lane Office.

Bailey Library Hours

January 14 Until Further Notice

Monday	8 AM – 12 Midnight
Tuesday–Thursday	8 AM – 12 Midnight
Friday	8 AM – 10 PM
Saturday	8 AM – 5 PM
Sunday	12 Noon – 10 PM

Please Note Exceptions:

Sundays: Feb. 24, March 3, Apr. 28, May 5
9 AM – 12 Midnight

Fri.–Sat., Mar. 22-23	8 AM – 5 PM
Sunday, March 24	CLOSED
Monday, March 25	12 Noon – 6 PM
Tues.–Fri., Mar. 26-29	8 AM – 6 PM
Sat., Mar. 30	CLOSED
Sat., May 11	8 AM – 5 PM

All Night Study: Jan. 15, 1974 – May 11, 1974

Monday	12 noon – 8 AM Tuesday
Tuesday–Friday	9 AM – 8 AM
Saturday	10 – 7 AM Sunday
Sunday	10 AM – 8 AM Monday

CLOSED SPRING VACATION: Sunday, March 24 – Saturday, March 30

AGR

The brothers of Alpha Gamma Rho are proud to announce that our cook, Mrs. John Sidebotham, gave birth to a baby girl the morning of Sunday, January 20. Her husband, John, is an alumnus of AGR.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

WELCOME BACK

FREE DELIVERY

864-7444
WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333
NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

NEW HOURS
Sun. thru Thurs.
4.30pm to 1.00am
Fri. & Sat. till 2.00am

Aid to education

It's the real thing. Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

CORAGUZA

1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.

bedspreads, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

DUNHAM'S
campus boots
MAZEL'S since 1909

S.A. Elections

S.A. ELECTIONS

Two students are needed to replace the S.A. senators from Living/Learning buildings D and E and one from Patterson Hall. If you are interested in running for election, please call the S.A. office at 656-2053, or Chris Milaneu at 656-2229. The deadline for submitting your name is January 30. Voting will take place in each of the above residence halls on February 4.

Infirmary Improvement

Make a note on your calendar to attend a meeting at the Wasson Infirmary 8:00 p.m. on Monday, January 28.

There will be a meeting of all those who are interested in working on the Student Advisory Committee of the Infirmary. The Infirmary wants to better serve your needs, but needs input in the form of ideas and suggestions from you.

Lecture Postponed

Phil Kapleau's lecture and workshop scheduled for January 25-26 has been postponed to April. The East Asian Club will announce the date.

Sailing Club Meeting

The UVM Sailing Club will hold its first meeting of the semester February 1 in the North Lounge of Billings Center. The meeting will be followed by the movie Voyage of the Brigentine Yankee narrated by Orson Wells. Admission will be free.

Women's Caucus Discussion Of

"Women in '74: Diverse Needs and Common Goals" is the title of a panel discussion to be presented Wednesday, Jan. 30, at 4 p.m. in Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Sponsoring the panel is the UVM Women's Caucus.

Panelists include Huldine Flynn, administrative assistant, Department of Pathology and former president of the Non-Academic Employees' Council; John Perry, former Protestant Chaplain at UVM and now a graduate student in psychology; Karen Preis, M.D., resident in Psychiatry; and Mary Wilson, Ph.D., associate professor of Communications and Theatre. It is anticipated that more panelists will be added before the date of the discussion.

The Women's Caucus is an organization of UVM women faculty, staff, students and wives; its name is meant to indicate that all women, with their diverse interests and needs, are welcome. It was organized last fall with temporary officers and has been working toward the goal

VISTA & HAVE THOUSAND

Both Peace Corps and VISTA some practical experience in a poverty problems. VISTA Appalachia and Detroit; Peace nations.

Representatives will be on experiences like these, to go into

VISTA: Law, Pre-school, Counseling, Social Sciences, Economics, Construction work, PE, Elementary/Secondary Engineering, Vocational Educ Personnel administration, Pharm

Peace Corps: Architecture, Agricultural Engineering, Accou Pathology, Business Administ Hospital Administration, Con Technology, OT, Public Health, Civil Engineering, Speech pat Heavy Equipment Operators, I speakers, MS and BSRN's, Math

The above is only a partial l many fields and people with f solving experience, literacy, tuto

Peace Corps and VISTA pay completion of service allotment

Representatives will be on Placement Office now for more

TS

Mrs. Robert O. Sinclair for a talk by Mr. Jamas industrial arts teacher at South Burlington Middle Repair and Refinishing of Antique Furniture.
Sinclair at 864-5055 afternoons and evenings if not a member and would like to attend.

-TUESDAY JANUARY 29

to 7 p.m. Office of Volunteer Programs (OVP) Fair at Billings Center and from 9 a.m. to 4 the Peace Corps recruiters will have a booth at the
The Peace Corps recruiters will also be at the Office, Mansfield House from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Philosophy Department presents Noam Chomsky a of Linguistics, Massachusetts Institute of Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Prof. will speak about "Problems and Mysteries in the Language."

WEDNESDAY JANUARY 30

11 a.m.-5 p.m. OVP Fair continues at Billings the Peace Corps will again have a booth at the and 4 p.m. and will also be at the Office in Mansfield House during the same to 4 p.m. a VISTA information team will have a the lobby of Billings Center.
to 7:30 p.m. Associates in Ministry (AIM) Voyages in the Spirit," a weekly program. Coffee are served; bring your own lunch. Place is Room C, Billings Center.
Radiology conference: Dr. Joseph Dickerman, Childhood Leukemia," Austin Auditorium,
ber Unit, Medical Center Hospital of Vermont.
Women in '74: Diverse Needs and Common panel discussion presented by the UVM Women's Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Panelists Gilding Flynn, administrative assistant, Department gy, and former president of the Non-Academic Council; John Perry, Ph.D., a graduate student Psychology; Karen Preis, M.D., resident in psychiatry;
Dr. Ph.D., associate professor of communication and others. Open to all.
8 p.m. Vermont presents a movie, title at press time. Place is North Lounge, Billings
Lane Series presents "Godspell." Memorial Note early starting time. Tickets available at $6 from the Lane Office.

Bailey Library Hours

Until Further Notice

	8 AM 12 Midnight
Thursday	8 AM 12 Midnight
	8 AM 10 PM
	8 AM 5 PM
	12 Noon 10 PM

Exceptions
Feb 24 March 3 Apr 28 May 5

	9 AM 12 Midnight
Mar 22-23	8 AM 5 PM
March 24	CLOSED
March 25	12 Noon 6 PM
Fri. Mar 26-29	8 AM 6 PM
30	CLOSED
31	8 AM 5 PM

tudy Jan 15 1974 May 11 1974

	12 noon 8 AM Tuesday
Friday	9 AM 8 AM
	10 7 AM Sunday
	10 AM 8 AM Monday

SPRING VACATION Sunday March 24
March 30

ion

AGR

The brothers of Alpha Gamma Rho are proud to announce that our cook, Mrs. John Sidebotham, gave birth to a baby girl the morning of Sunday, January 20. Her husband, John, is an alumnus of AGR.

CORGUZA
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
bedspreads, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

DUNHAM'S
campus
boots
MAZEL'S SHOE STORE
190 Church Street

Spiritual Corner

S.A. Elections

S.A. ELECTIONS

Two students are needed to replace the S.A. senators from Living/Learning buildings D and E and one from Patterson Hall. If you are interested in running for election, please call the S.A. office at 656-2053, or Chris Milanesi at 656-2229. The deadline for submitting your name is January 30. Voting will take place in each of the above residence halls on February 4.

Infirmary Improvement

Make a note on your calendar to attend a meeting at the Wasson Infirmary 8:00 p.m. on Monday, January 28.

There will be a meeting of all those who are interested in working on the Student Advisory Committee of the Infirmary. The Infirmary wants to better serve your needs, but needs input in the form of ideas and suggestions from you.

Lecture Postponed

Phil Kapleau's lecture and workshop scheduled for January 25-26 has been postponed to April. The East Asian Club will announce the date.

Sailing Club Meeting

The UVM Sailing Club will hold its first meeting of the semester February 1 in the North Lounge of Billings Center. The meeting will be followed by the movie Voyage of the Brigentine Yankee narrated by Orson Wells. Admission will be free.

Tenants' Council

There will be a special meeting of the UVM Tenants' Council for off-campus students on Thursday, January 31, 7:30 p.m., Marsh Lounge, Billings Center. The group will discuss projects and elect officers.

Ski Trials

International Freestyle Skiers' Association, Eastern Regional Qualifying Trial: January 23, Ballet; January 24, Freestyle; January 25, Aerials. The trials will be held at Smuggler's Notch.

Symposiums

The Phi chapter of Omnicron Nu, a national home economics honor society, will sponsor a series of three home economics research symposiums during this spring semester. They will be open to the university and public and will be held in the Vermont Room of Terrill Hall (first floor).

The first symposium will be Thursday, January 24, from 7–9 p.m. It will involve the recent research and study of three home economics faculty members. The three are: Jane Emanual, "flammable fabrics"; Marilyn Osborn and Marion Brown, "competency-based teacher education"; and Robert Tyzbir, nutritional study involving "The effect of maternal dietary protein levels on enzymatic activity in the developing rat brain."

The second and third symposiums will be in March and April and will include graduate and undergraduate study.

Horse Club Clinics

The UVM Horse Club will hold two clinics during February. On February 9 the members of the horse club will give presentations on the proper winter care for horses. Included will be: blanketing, clipping, feeding, shoeing, and other aspects of winter care. This will be presented at the UVM barns on Spear St.

On February 18, Paul Quinn, a professional horse photographer, will discuss how to photograph your own horse. This will be held at the MAT lounge at 7:30.

The next horse club meeting will be on Wednesday, January 30 at 7:30 p.m. Anyone is welcome to come.

"Winter Traditions" Is Week's Theme

"Winter Traditions" is the title of this year's Winter Week at the University of Vermont. A week full of concerts, ice skits, ski movies, powder-puff hockey, broom-ball hockey, snow sculptures, and an ice show have already been planned. February 15-23 will be a week full of spirit and fun.

The winter week will start off with the Steven Stills and Maria Muldaur concert on Friday, February 15, at 10 p.m. Saturday night Skit Night will be held in Gutterson Field House from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Following, in the rink, from 9 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. will be Powder Puff hockey between Pi Beta Phi and Delta Delta Delta. On Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. there will be a broom-ball tournament at Phi Gamma Delta. Then on Thursday, there will be ski movies shown at Billings Center from 7:30 - 11:00 p.m. On Friday and Saturday the First Annual Ice Show will be presented in Gutterson Field House from 7:30 – 9:30 p.m.

An effort is being made to bring back the old tradition of snow sculptures. Dorms, fraternities, and sororities are invited to participate and build snow sculptures, keeping in mind the theme of Winter Traditions.

Newman Center Activities

PROGRAMS: Most programs at the Center will begin next week:

Bible Study: Monday evenings.

Basic Catholicism: Tuesday evenings.

10 p.m. Liturgy will continue each Tuesday evening.

LEAP PROGRAM: The next LEAP is February 22-24. The Leap is a spiritual formation and renewal program for young men and women age 18-25. The Leap program presupposes the possibility of Christian Community which finds its origin and strength in the teachings and Person of Jesus Christ. A Leap weekend attempts to provide a taste of Christian Community and the gift of one another highlights the Leap weekend. The Eucharist summarizes and celebrates in a unique way what the weekend has meant. Should anyone want more information on the weekend please contact Sister Lindora at the Newman Center. (862-8403)

MASS SCHEDULE:

Each day at 4:15 p.m. Also: Monday: 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday 10 p.m.

Weekend: Saturday: 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.; Sunday: 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

ALABAMA GROUP: The Alabama Group is back with many experiences to share. It was a rewarding experience and certainly a learning one! On the weekend of February 9 and 10, the students who went to Mobile, Alabama, and worked in various Social Action programs will share their experiences at the various Masses. They will also be available for discussion and questions after each Mass. We hope to have slides ready at that time also.

St. Anselm's

SERVICES:

Holy Communion-Sunday 11:00 a.m.; Tuesday 10:00 p.m.

Evening Prayer-Monday–Saturday, 5:45 (Led by students) (Services Episcopal, all denominations welcome.)

Ecumenical Morning Prayer- Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. (This term held at the Newman Center. Service is sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant, and Roman Catholic Chaplaincies).

CHOIR: Wednesday, 6:30 p.m. in the Chapel. Anyone interested in singing is welcome.

DISCUSSION GROUP: Friday, 6:30 Burgess Lounge. Students raise any questions, concerns, doubts, etc., they have about their faith, religion, church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join in the group, which is led by Chaplain Odie.

STUDYING GROUPS: St. Anselms's Chapel will be open 24 hours a day as usual for anyone who is looking for a quiet place to pray, meditate.

The Common Room will agin be open for anyone who needs a place to study, cook, or meet for some fellowship. Feel free to build a fire in the fireplace and to help yourself to free coffee or tea.

Any group or activity that needs a place to meet should contact Chaplain Odie at the office (656-3882) or his home (864-6354).

National Church Unity Week

The week is National Church Unity Week. All around the nation and in the city of Burlington churches have scheduled special events to signify their efforts to get together and assert their common beliefs. And what are the church's and religious groups on campus doing? Well, to tell the truth, nothing special at all. But don't be shocked, because in reality they practice church unity all year round. A closer look reveals that there is a cooperative and ecumenical spirit between the religious denominations and groups on campus that is probably not surpassed anywhere. And to let you be the judge here is some of what the religious people on campus have been up to: Early last term The Episcopalian, Protestant and Roman Catholic Chaplains got together to sponsor a 15 minute morning prayer service daily at 8:30. It was held last term at St. Anselm's but will be held this term at the Newman Center. The service is led each day by a different person from each of the groups. The Protestant and Episcopal Chaplaincies also got together to do the Christmas Candlelight Service that was held before Christmas. Perhaps by now you have also heard of the Religious Counselors Association. This is an organization of all the religious groups and denominations on campus and it meets every other week. This group sponsored the Ecumenical Thanksgiving Service last term. The R.C.A. has also decided to take its work quite seriously this year. After many weeks of hard work, thought, and input by all members, the R.C.A. came up with the Residency Ministry Plan. They divided the campus into four major areas: Main Campus, East Campus, Redstone, and The sororities and fraternities. The R.C.A. then assigned ecumenical teams of three or four members to each area. These teams will be responsible for being the prime movers of ministry and religious resource in that particular area. This plan will hopefully help the campus' religious leaders to more effectively and efficiently reach out to the needs of the UVM community. What also needs to be emphasized is that this is one of the first real significant tasks that the religious groups have ever undertaken together. Well, these are some of the highlights which would give you the general idea. Church Unity Week? The religious denominations and groups on campus prefer to think that Church unity is a daily, yearly activity.

Women's Caucus To Present Discussion Of Needs And Goals

"Women in '74: Diverse Needs and Common Goals" is the title of a panel discussion to be presented Wednesday, Jan. 70, at 4 p.m. in Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Sponsoring the panel is the UVM Women's Caucus.

Panelists include Huldine Flynn, administrative assistant, Department of Pathology and former president of the Non-Academic Employees' Council; John Perry, former Protestant Chaplain at UVM and now a graduate student in psychology; Karen Preis, M.D., resident in Psychiatry; and Mary Wilson, Ph.D., associate professor of Communications and Theatre. It is anticipated that more panelists will be added before the date of the discussion.

The Women's Caucus is an organization of UVM women faculty, staff, students and wives; its name is meant to indicate that all women, with their diverse interests and needs, are welcome. It was organized last fall with temporary officers and has been working toward the goal of obtaining a room for a headquarters on campus, which would be staffed by volunteers.

In this way, the group hoped it could reach more women especially students who find it difficult to meet during the lunch hour, and secretarial and other staff who might not be able to attend meetings during the day.

To date the group has had no success in finding a room, and the outlook is not hopeful.

Realizing that a women's center may not materialize on campus, at least for a while, the Caucus has begun sponsoring what members feel are needed and valuable activities. In addition to the January 30 panel, five income tax sessions are scheduled for Thursdays starting on January 31 from 12:15-1:15 p.m. in Memorial Lounge, Waterman.

Other events in planning stages include seminars for women looking for advice on going back to work or getting back into school. These are being coordinated through the Office of Continuing Education in order to avoid duplication of services.

A proposed activity of particular relevance to students is the Women's Research Group (WRG), which the Caucus endorsed. It will be discussed at the January 30 panel by John Perry.

With growing interest and an increasing amount of research being done in various aspects of sexism, discrimination, sex differences and so forth, the proposal "proceeds on the assumption that some improvement in the quality, as well as quantity, of research could be facilitated by the formation of a Women's Research Group."

The WRG might provide counsel to students doing research projects; collect, copy and catalog worthy student papers; provide publicity about student work on these issues; publish exceptional student work and so on.

While the activities sponsored by the Women's Caucus may be primarily of interest to women, they are by no means closed to men. All are welcome to attend.

VISTA & PEACE CORPS
HAVE THOUSANDS OF INTERESTING JOBS

Both Peace Corps and VISTA have job openings for college grads, people with some practical experience in a trade and people with a first-hand knowledge of poverty problems. VISTA wants people to serve in places as diverse as Appalachia and Detroit; Peace Corps has requests for volunteers in 58 developing nations.

Representatives will be on campus soon looking for people with majors and experiences like these, to go into programs baginning in July - September:

VISTA: Law, Pre-school, Special Education, Psychology, Guidance Counseling, Social Sciences, Recreation, Journalism, City Planning, Home Economics, Construction work, Carpentry, Community Health, Lab Technician, PE, Elementary/Secondary Teaching, BBA's, Accounting, Architecture, Civil Engineering, Vocational Education, Spanish majors and fluent speakers, Personnel administration, Pharmacy, Agriculture, LPN.

Peace Corps: Architecture, Agricultural Economics, Biology, Liberal Arts, Agricultural Engineering, Accounting, Public Administration, Agronomy, Plant Pathology, Business Administration, Geology, Home Economics/Nutrition, Hospital Administration, Construction work, Auto body Repair, Medical Technology, OT, Public Health, Plumbing, Elementary and Secondary Teaching, Civil Engineering, Speech pathology, Cabinetmaking, Surveying, Statistics, Heavy Equipment Operators, Industrial arts, French/Spanish majors and fluent speakers, MS and BSRN's, Math and Science.

The above is only a partial list. We're looking for people about to graduate in many fields and people with farm experience and rural backgrounds, problem solving experience, literacy, tutorial and organizational experience.

Peace Corps and VISTA pay a living allowance, travel, medical expenses, and a completion of service allotment of $50 to $75 per month on the job.

Representatives will be on campus January 29 – 31. Stop by the Placement Office now for more information and to sign up for an interview.

Advent BOSE Carver SONY JBL PIONEER Technics

The reviewers agree: TEAC 450 is a masterpiece.

Magazine reviewers and lab technicians have their own way of testing audio equipment and drawing conclusions. Yet they have one thing in common: they're tough. They take published specs and try to rip them apart. These connoisseurs of electronic precision really sink their teeth into the equipment in an effort to draw a malfunction or an untrue specification.

For that reason, serious audiophiles have come to respect the opinions of magazine reviewers, who are indeed experts in their field. So when the critics decided to take a close look at our famous 450 cassette deck, we knew the word on just how great it was would finally get out. And we were right. The test results were published: the TEAC 450 not only stood up to its unbelievable specs, but it outperformed them, even under pressure. The audio veterans were impressed, very impressed.

We reprint those test reports and comments from two of the most highly regarded audio magazines: Stereo Review and High Fidelity. Take a look at the findings. Then give a listen to the incredible TEAC 450—the only cassette deck on the market with WRMS record and playback wow and flutter of less than 0.07%. Then try to settle for anything less.

TEAC
The leader. Always has been.
TEAC Corporation of America—Headquarters: 7733 Telegraph Road, Montebello, California 90640 TEAC offices in principal cities in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Japan. ©TEAC MFG. PRINTED IN U.S.A.

Visit our new store at 157 Pearl St. Essex Junction
also 370 Shelburne rd. Burlington

We reserve the right to limit quantities.
STORES COAST-TO-COAST
Lafayette RADIO ELECTRONICS
Listen to us, you can't go wrong.
Assoc. Store owned and operated By I. E. S.

audio-technica. TEAC Interaudio PHILIPS maxell dynaco AKAI SHERWOOD KLH JVC PIONEER Rectilinear. SUPERSCOPE SENNHEISER SUPEREX
MEMOREX TANDBERG HITACHI Scotch AKOSS AMPEX REVOX KENWOOD SANYO Fisher

Editorial

Our Only Hope—Unionize

Things are happening at this university. Things that nobody pays attention to. Professors, good professors, are fired and only a handful of people even try to protest. And many of those who do protest quickly lose interest because of the total futility of what they're doing.

Recently, members of the faculty were asked by both the NEA (National Education Association) and the AFT (American Federation of Teachers) if they wanted to form a union here at UVM. Many of them are scared by the word "union." They must realize, however, that the Faculty Senate is a powerless organization. Their only hope for a real say in what goes on at this university is to join together and stick together to protect their rights.

Students' rights have also been violated here. They have been more than violated, they have virtually been annihilated. Our "Student Association" is a farce. No one cares what they do, probably because they do nothing. They serve effectively only as treasurers for student organizations.

The time has come for students, if we want a voice in university policy, to unionize also. Students were not consulted on the move to the four-day week or on any of the administration's decisions which affect us. When students are consulted, it is only, as in the case of the Philosophy Four, a front. Student opinion has no bearing on the real decisions of the administration.

The only way for both faculty and student to have a say in this university is for each group to organize and work together for our rights. Faculty members have the chance to join the union. Students must now look for either a new student organization or a way to completely change the old one. If we all work together, the odds are in our favor.

B.F.

Letters To The Editor

Thanks From Park Commission

To the Editor:

On behalf of the members of the Burlington Park Commission and Sid Bakie, our Superintendent, I wish to convey appreciation to the Cynic and its readers for the cooperation they have given towards solving the parking problem along the East edge of the UVM green. Not many are aware of the fact that the City of Burlington does own a belt of the green on all of the four edges. The use of this area, therefore, for automobile parking purposes is illegal. We in the Park Department are very much concerned about the reestablishment of new trees in the tree belt throughout the entire City to replace the American Elms which have been lost to Dutch Elm disease. It is virtually impossible to establish trees in the tree belt which is being shared with automobiles for parking purposes. Deterioration of the tree belt caused by parking results in soil compaction, rotting, killing of grass by salt drip, and as a result the grass is soon exterminated. The next natural step is the asphalt jungle. Concern on the part of interested students and others and their cooperation to help solve this problem without reverting to the use of parking tickets, towage expenses, and other disciplinary action is very greatly appreciated on the part of the Burlington Park Department.

C. Lyman Calahan
Dept. of Plant and Soil Science
Chairman, Burlington Park Commission

Our Faith's Been In The Wrong Energy Source

To the Editor:

We're cold, and the reason we're cold is that we have put our faith and resources into atomic power (nuclear fission) instead of making use of the sun's rays directly and indirectly.

After thirty years of atom splitting with thirty billion dollars invested in the Atomic Energy Commission, atomic power is proving unreliable and unsafe, and the AEC has not yet found a way to dispose of, or store radioactive wastes. The care of what does not escape is a major expense, hazard, and problem. Yet the powers-that-be plan to carry nuclear fission into bigger, more difficult and more dangerous technology.

I don't know who's winning, but I know who's losing," says The Small Society. Indeed, we are all losing and will continue to until we, the people who go to the polls, insist that present solar technology be used now to give us quick, reliable, safe energy. We must also demand that all atomic power plants and their construction be stopped.

We see little rationale for believing that Alaskan Oil or nuclear fission can fill our needs as quickly or reliably as several other sources of power, if we have the will to harness them.

The following quotations are from a communication of the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility, Inc., which includes four Nobel Laureates on its Board of Directors.

"To me it seems self evident that engineers and industry could produce wind generators and methane-makers and solar heat-concentrating devices just as quickly as they could deliver on the so-called 'immediate' fossil-and-fission options. Yet the notion is prominant that solar energy can't even be considered as a near-term contributor."

"Professor Willian Heronemus has shown convincingly that, with mass production of wind-power equipment), wind-power plants built from now on would be just as cheap or cheaper, for New England than nuclear plants."

"When overt and covert enemies of solar energy are confronted with the near-term competitiveness of wind-power, they retreat to the claim that wind-power is too limited to make any significant contribution to our energy supplies. According to Heronemus, however, the total energy available to this country from the winds via practical wind-power systems complete with the necessary storage subsystems, could total at least one trillion kilowatt-hours per year. That amount sepresents two-thirds of our total 1970 electric power consumption, and about one-quarter of total alleged requirements for electric power even in 1985.

"Space limits me from discussing all the other solar-energy technologies which could be made cost-competitive in the very near future, so I will just quote the conclusions of the National Science Foundation (N.S.F.) Solar Energy Panel in December 1972: 'For most applications, the cost of converting solar energy to useful forms of energy is now higher than conventional sources, but due to increasing prices of conventional fuels it will become competitive in the near future.' By near future, the N.S.F. Panel specified 5-15 years."

"The panel also singled out sea-thermal power for special mention: sea thermal power is based on solar hear collected naturally by the sea. The panel said that if the U.S. tapped sea-thermal power from the Gulf Stream alone, 'the total annual production could exceed the year-2000 projected total energy demands.'"

"It is true that after 20 years of hard work and promotion, nuclear power contributes to only about one per cent of our energy."

The AEC uses large quantities of electricity in producting nuclear fuel, in its gaseous diffusion plants. We don't know how much of this is used for power plants because some of the product goes to the military and that's secret. But, at one time, these diffusion plants used 12 percent of all the power generated in the land.

The danger of atomic plants is precipitous and imminent. Such top experts as Dr. David R. Inglis who helped pioneer "Atoms for Peace," and Dr. Dean Abrahamson who once designed nuclear reactors have become apostles for closing down active nuclear plants and curtailing future construction. We think poeple should listen to these men. A few years ago they were hopeful of making nuclear fission safe enough to be acceptable. Now they speak not only of the harmful radioactive releases related to their operation, but of the complete and total defenselessness these plants impose on us. The bomb-producing plutonium and other radioactive substances, which accumulate and are transported and reprocessed, could be released through sabotage, fanatics, war, acts of God, or human error.

We're cold, and the powers-that-be tell us we can't use solar energy for 20-30 years.

When the big power companies realize that this is not true and that the more they invest in nuclear power, the greater their losses will be, our problems will be solved. If they would start now to put up the dollars to begin mass production of solar technologies, as wind, sea-thermal, methane, and heat, these could become competitive in the 1970's.

But Exxon does not own the sun and will be hard to convince. We, the people, must educated and pressure, every place that we can, for a moratorium on nuclear power and full steam ahead on solar.

David Chandler and Gladys Lodge,
Legislative Chairman Vermont Natural Food and Farming Association and Legislative Co-chairman, Federated Garden Clubs of Vermont.

Reflections On Vacation & A Welcome Note

by Jeff Ryback

The year had just begun, at least so it seemed, and then, all of a sudden half of it was gone. The hustle bustle of the fall green had abruptly ebbed into the hoariness of bare trees and lifeless skies, and earth trodden paths became slowly lost to the brigades of snow. The bars once droning with the scuffle of myriad footsteps subsided into the dullness of a siberian wasteland, and the bands of hairy-faced drinkers no longer quaffed mugfulls of beer, and for the few of us that remained the respite became like a reprieve or a stay of hard labor alone and shivering under the blanched hammer of hyperboream skied. So the wheels of the university halted like the intermission of a long movie and everyone was home for popcorn.

My own situation had me stranded for a few days after my roommates had packed off for home. There was hardly a thing to do outside watching the large snowflakes pile high or warming myself with hot rum and coffee. Then one night I braved the snow for an hour to see Papillion, 'bout a half-mile drive. I slid from side to side dodging this car or that, cursing at the stocking-capped heads hiding behind frost covered car windows until I found myself deeply imbedded in a snowbank in the movie parking lot. The movie was billed a great escape and believe me after sliding about in the cold, Steve McQueen's prison trek in the tropics seemed an enviable deliverance. The next day I hopped on a plane and winged for the family Christmas thing at Cocoa Beach, Florida.

There I experienced the letdown most of us suffer. "Don't tell me, I'm your mother. Look son, will you eat some more, it's not often you get a chance to eat a decent meal." And I would reply obsequiously, "Yes mother, looks real good." Some people thrive on parental relationships, but most have become part of that glaring statistic blaming the breakdown of the family as one of the major causes for dissatisfaction in the world. Perhaps it's true, but hanging around the folks for extended periods is traumatic, at least for me. I remember getting up bright and early so I could rush off to the beach before six eggs, milk, orange juice, etc., and of course two large blue eyes encumbered me threatening, "You go nowhere until you eat every bit of it." And I ate every bit of it with no lost love, just irritation. It took about a week for my sanity to edge past parental love and I left the sun with a tear in my eye and my head ringing for a frigid new year. It was on the plane that the typical ambivalence set upon me, the feeling of joy to be going home and the feeling of sadness that accompanies leaving the people who have done more for you than anyone in the world, who have born the brunt of your problems, the people you have always loved and yet sometimes find it hard in your heart to really show it. And for some the realization comes too late and they find themselves walking down a lonely path towards a haunting sarcophagus wondering why. So I promised myself I would write a thank you note.

Burlington was cold but exhilarating. Lights were off, buildings were cold, and again I felt the absurdity of "Energy." Gas prices were up, food prices still crippled, policemen tagged cars, the university changed its schedules, and thousands of footprints marred the smooth snow surface. Then I took a walk down to Hannibals and discovered there was still hope for the human race - beer was still 35 cents - something to write home about.

And so it begins, a new year, the hustle bustle of the intellectual life, new faces, hard work, the excitement of learning. For some it will be the end of a long struggle for others it's only the beginning of a quest— whichever— it's good to be back— have a fruitful semester.

Aspects Of The Energy Problem

To the Editor;

This is a copy of a letter I am sending to Energy Chief William Simon. Hoping you may wish to use it.

Gladys Lodge

Dear Mr. Simon,

I am hopeful of your integrity and judgment. Can they be used, or has corruption become so powerful that no man is allowed to be a true patriot but only to be a robot of the manipulators?

Regarding your five aspects of the energy problem, they are to the point, but please consider the following with relation to them.

First: "The need to achieve energy self-sufficiency over the next ten to fifteen years." This can be done by intensive development of three energy sources: 1. Wind power, particularly offshore winds; and 2, ocean thermal differences, both of which can produce electricity and fuel gas; 3. direct sun rays which can supply a large percentage of our space heating and can be implemented by the passage of Bill H. R. 10952, the Solar Energy Heating and Cooling Act of 1973, by the Hon. Mike McCormack.

Not only could these make us self-sufficient in ten to fifteen years but we could be receiving considerable benefit from them in five or less. Bill H. R. 10952 is very specific regarding solar heating. Professor Willism Heronemus has plans for wind and ocean thermal differences all worked out and ready to go. I beg you to give Professor Heronemus the green light and the wherewithal to go full speed ahead.

The above methods promise reliability, are relatively simple, competitive in price, and ecologically clean and sound.

The second aspect of my comments is on "The need to develop vast coal and oil shale resources as alternatives to conventional petroleum." These processes pose many difficult problems involving water shortage, pollution and defacing of the earth. They should be developed only as rapidly as ways to prevent these problematic conditions can and will be used. Also, these resources should be conserved and not gobbled up when other better methods of obtaining energy (those mentioned above) can and should be used.

I appreciate your not recommending nuclear fission. It is ridiculous and indefensible that sensible solutions to our problems are treated as if they did not exist while the difficult, degrading methods to pour money into the pockets of manipulators are presented to the hurting public as if they were the solution and the only solution to our problems.

Yours most hopefully,
Gladys Lodge

Legislative Co-Chairman
of Federated Garden
Clubs of Vermont

Frozen Raisins

They tell me that the world has almost run out of raisins
Dumbfounded I believe them.
The scarcity of oil and Franklin's discovery
do not penetrate me.
I have never seen them,
They only create room temperature and keep my typewriter humming.

Ah but raisins, aged grapes who have known the drying proceds they are wise.
When people say "Lets eat them"
them to me is human,
we are eating personalities.

They look so romantic when they are massed in baskets held close to the corseted tan breast of the sunmaid who always smiles because she is perpetually in the warm.

It must be snowing there now,
And she must be shivering in the drying room still clothed in her warm proof frock tearfully watching the freezing raisins who had once made her famous.
who will no longer travel here to know my warm tongue.

by Joseph Olshan

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR IN CHIEF ..... Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR ..... Rick Steinberg '75
MANAGING EDITOR ..... Eileen Driscoll '75
NEWS EDITOR ..... Bruce Maddern '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR ..... Kathy Stiassni '77
FEATURE EDITOR ..... Margo Howland '75
ARTS EDITOR ..... Lissa Charles '75
ASSISTANT ARTS EDITOR ..... Peter Campbell '75
SPORTS EDITOR ..... Mike Schwartz '75
COPY EDITOR ..... John Van Hoesen '74
CONSULTANT EDITOR ..... Jim Bradley '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER ..... Loren Wilson '74

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Dave Campagne, Bill Campbell, Cecelia Elwert, Jill Market, Andrew Morse.
FEATURE: Sari Bodi Carol Dufault, Laurie Rapp.
ARTS: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Doug Collette, Barbra Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, Elliott Freeman, Sig Heller, Randy Jansen, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Dave Raneri, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilensik.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Camilyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Joan Westcot.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices: 1 week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Questions

In September most members of completed the national student completed an anonymous questionn driving. We are still analyzing the r we are trying to answer some of the almost 300 questions asked of us.
the 1350 freshmen who cooperat questionnaire.

How is it spelled: marijuana or mari
Both ways are correct.

What is hashish?
The refined resin of the marihuana p

How many people on campus use ma
We don't have this year's figure ye cent of the freshman class report infrequent) during the previous yea many upper classmen or faculty a study suggests that perhaps 80 perc campus have tried marihuana at least

Where can I get some?
Ask those who are using it. Last ye users said they could get marihuana wanted it.

What are the laws in Vermont and on
In Vermont possesion or use of misdemeanor (in large amounts it potential sentences may be very h reduction in the actual sentences in year when a trend back in the opposi have started. In Chittenden Count the usual sentence for the first o amounts has been a $150 fine. The under Vermont laws for the first o jail, $500 fine, or both. It is muc offense. Persons arrested for sellin time in jail. We do not know if co counties are giving more of less strin under the influence of drugs can license. This stringent a sentence i fact that no one knows if marihuana
In general the University does not possession off campus cases. Howeve campus, in relation to campus activ can expect discipline from the univer the courts.

Which is more harmful - alcohol or m
Each appears to affect the brain in d laboratory studies suggest that a mo more hazardous to driving than marihuana. Most, but not all, of re that both are relatively harmless if that both have serious chronic frequently and in heavy amounts.

Isn't marihuana a good aphrodesiac
Sorry, the scientific evidence do whatever turns you on.

Can one become addicted to marihu
Physical addiction, no; psychologica
Can marihuana affect one's genes?
There is some conflicting evidence,
it doesn't.

Tick My Tock

Bugs on my body, frogs in m grabbed hold of a hammer
nailed me a cross
Latched on to a clock didn't want to wake the neig
but i had to tick my tock

If those are my footprints
then these are my tracks
if this is my highway
then where is my map
I look for my ticker
all i got is my tock

Margaret the milkmaid
said she knows what i need that i should meet her at neath ye old apple tree
we sat on a boulder then she stole my ticker and

ng Energy Source

methane-mak-heat-concentra-t as quickly as deliver on the 'immediate n options. Yet prominant that can't even be a near-term

r Willian hat shown hat, with mass
f wind-power wind-power from now on as cheap, or New England
lants."

l and covert lar energy are with the petitiveness of hey retreat to wind-power is o make any ntribution to supplies.
Heronemus,
total energy country from vis practical tems complete ssary storage ould total at trillion per year. That nts two-thirds 1970 electric mption and rter of total gments for even in 1985. ts me from the other technologies be made in the very
I will just lusions of the e Foundation
Energy Panel
72. For most he cost of r energy to energy is now conventional e to increasing conventional will become n the near ar future, the specified 5-15

also singled out wer for special thermal power solar hear ally by the sea
that if the U.S. ermal power Stream alone ual production
the year 2000
otal energy that after '20 d work and uclear power

contributes to only about one per cent of our energy."

The AEC uses large quantities of electricity in producting nuclear fuel in its gaseous diffusion plants. We don't know how much of this is used for power plants because some of the product goes to the military and that's secret. But, at one time, these diffusion plants used 12 percent of all the power generated in the land.

The danger of atomic plants is precipitous and imminent. Such top experts as Dr. David R. Inglis who helped pioneer "Atoms for Peace," and Dr. Dean Abrahamson who once designed nuclear reactors have become apostles for closing down active nuclear plants and curtailing future construction. We think poeple should listen to these men. A few years ago they were hopeful of making nuclear fission safe enough to be acceptable. Now they speak not only of the harmful radioactive releases related to their operation, but of the complete and total defenselessness these plants impose on us. The bomb-producing plutonium and other radioactive substances, which accumulate and are transported and reprocessed, could be released through sabotage, fanatics, war, acts of God, or human error.

We're cold, and the powers that be tell us we can't use solar energy for 20-30 years.

When the big power companies realize that this is not true and that the more they invest in nuclear power, the greater their losses will be, our problems will be solved. If they would start now to put up the dollars to begin mass production of solar technologies, as wind, sea-thermal, methane, and heat, these could become competitive in the 1970's.

But Exxon does not own the sun and will be hard to convince. We, the people, must educated and pressure, every place that we can, for a moratorium on nuclear power and full steam ahead on solar.

David Chandler and Gladys Lodge, Legislative Chairman Vermont Natural Food and Farming Association and Legislative Co-chairman, Federated Garden Clubs of Vermont.

Of The Energy Problem

by of a letter I Energy Chief Hoping you
e it.
Gladys Lodge

eful of your udgment. Can ed, or has become so no man is a true patriot a robot of the

our five aspects problem, they inf, but please following with n.

eed to achieve fficiency over fifteen years," né by intensive three energy
Wind power,
ffshore winds,
ean thermal oth of which lectricity and irect sun rays pply a large our space can be y the passage 952, the Solar and Cooling
by the Hon.
ck

uld these make nt in ten to ut we could be derable benefit five or less. Bill s very specific lar heating.
m Heronemus
ind and ocean Heronemus all d ready to go. I give Professor Heronemus the green light and the wherewithal to go full speed ahead.

The above methods promise reliability, are relatively simple, competitive in price, and ecologically clean and sound.

The second aspect of my comments is on "The need to develop vast coal and oil shale resources as alternatives to conventional petroleum." These processes pose many difficult problems involving water shortage, pollution and defacing of the earth. They should be developed only as rapidly as ways to prevent these problematic conditions can and will be used. Also, these resources should be conserved and not gobbled up when other better methods of obtaining energy (those mentioned above) can and should be used.

I appreciate your not recommending nuclear fission. It is ridiculous and indefensible that sensible solutions to our problems are treated as if they did not exist while the difficult, degrading methods to pour money into the pockets of manipulators are presented to the hurting public as if they were the solution and the only solution to our problems.

Yours most hopefully,
Gladys Lodge

Legislative Co-Chairman
of Federated Garden
Clubs of Vermont

Questions Most Frequently Asked On Marijuana

In September most members of the freshman class who completed the national student profile forms also completed an anonymous questionnaire on marihuana and driving. We are still analyzing the results, but at this time we are trying to answer some of the more frequent of the almost 300 questions asked of us. We would like to thank the 1350 freshmen who cooperated in filling out the questionnaire.

How is it spelled: marijuana or marihuana?
Both ways are correct.
What is hashish?
The refined resin of the marihuana plant.

How many people on campus use marihuana?
We don't have this year's figure yet, but last year 49 per cent of the freshman class reported some use (mostly infrequent) during the previous year. We don't know how many upper classmen or faculty are using it. One small study suggests that perhaps 80 percent of the students on campus have tried marihuana at least once in their lives.

Where can I get some?
Ask those who are using it. Last year over 90 per cent of users said they could get marihuana almost as often as they wanted it.

What are the laws in Vermont and on campus?
In Vermont possession or use of small amounts is a misdemeanor (in large amounts it is a felony). Although potential sentences may be very harsh, there has been a reduction in the actual sentences in recent years until last year when a trend back in the opposite direction appears to have started. In Chittenden County during the past year the usual sentence for the first offense involving small amounts has been a $150 fine. The maximum permissable under Vermont laws for the first offense is six months in jail, $500 fine, or both. It is much stiffer for a second offense. Persons arrested for selling can expect to spend time in jail. We do not know if courts in other Vermont counties are giving more or less stringent sentences. Driving under the influence of drugs can result in loss of one's license. (This stringent a sentence is imposed despite the fact that no one knows if marihuana really affects driving!) In general the University does not get involved in simple possession off campus cases. However, persons arrested on campus, in relation to campus activities, or for "pushing" can expect discipline from the university as well as from the courts.

Which is more harmful - alcohol or marihuana?
Each appears to affect the brain in different ways and some laboratory studies suggest that a modest dose of alcohol is more hazardous to driving than is a modest dose of marihuana. Most, but not all, of research so far indicates that both are relatively harmless if used in moderation, but that both have serious chronic side effects if used frequently and in heavy amounts.

Isn't marihuana a good aphrodesiac?
Sorry, the scientific evidence doesn't support this. But whatever turns you on. . .

Can one become addicted to marihuana?
Physical addiction, no; psychological habituation, yes.
Can marihuana affect one's genes?
There is some conflicting evidence, but most scientists feel it doesn't.

Can smoking marihauna cause lung cancer?
Chronic inhalation of any combustion products may be harmful, even if it's cornsilk. The more you smoke, the greater the risk. At least one study of long term marihuana users shows they have more lung disease than non-smokers of the same age and sex.
What are the long-term effects of marihuana use?
Light smoking (for example, one joint, weekly or less often) appears to be harmless for most people, except for the occasional individual who has a bad trip and becomes temporarily paranoid or anxious. Heavier smoking has been very well documented in several studies as being associated with chronic lethargy and dulling of thought processes. One recent study, however, did not find that chronic users were less motivated; but they were less able to function effectively while high although they thought they functioned better. In India, where heavy use of marihuana and hashish is common, there are skid rows of hash users just as there are alcoholic skid rows in the United States.
Why isn't it legal?
There are two answers to this very difficult question. On the one hand there may be some harmful effects associated with marihuana in some individuals, but this is, of course, true regarding alcohol also. Basically, the question is a social question and not a medical legal one. It can only be answered from a cultural point of view. The Judeo-Christian tradition has accepted alcohol and has tended to place negative prescriptions on hallucinatory drugs. In India the opposite holds true. Alcohol is the drug which is frowned upon.
What are the results of the study?
We are still analyzing the data, but last year 4 persons reported crashes and 42 reported near crashes in about 15,000 driving trips after using marihuana. In many cases, alcohol was also involved. We do not yet know whether this is excessive when compared with crashes and near crashes for persons not using marihuana. The present study should tell us. Based on the information so far, we suspect that there is some hazard to driving after smoking marihuana alone, but that it is not as great as driving after using alcohol, or marihuana and alcohol combined. The results of the study should show whether or not our impressions are right.

Paradise Lost

by Elliot Freeman

Seward Thomas lived alone in a one room apartment over on West Avenue, right across from where the funeral home used to be. He was forty-four years old. During the daytime he worked as a bus driver, a job he had started twenty-two years ago. In the evenings, after work, he spent his leisure time taking care of himself and pursuing his hobby of writing stories for children. Seward kept the stories locked in the top drawer of the wood desk that sat next to his bed. He had no wife, no children and no friends. Twenty years ago he had a wife and a friend. Seward never had any children. Mrs. Thomas had been run over while carrying a bundle of groceries across Wilson Avenue. Burt Harris, Seward's friend, was driving the bus that ran over Mrs. Thomas. Mrs. Thomas died. Burt Harris went mad.

The Yellow Bus of Paradise was Seward's favorite story that he had ever written. He kept it locked in the bottom drawer of the wood desk that sat next to his bed. The Yellow Bus of Paradise was about a bus that Mr. Thomas drove in his dreams. A big, yellow bus that floated from town to town on a cushion of air. It was a big, yellow, tireless bus. "Only the Strong Survive" was written in bright red letters in the little window where the destination sign was suppose to be. Seward had once seen those words written across the back of a silver 1959 Chevrolet Corvette Sting Ray. Inside the bus, above where he would sit and drive was written in three inch block letters, "this vehicle owned and operated by the S. Paradise Bus Co." Sal Paradise was the name of Seward's landlord. He also used to own the funeral home directly across the street.

Three years ago, on August 16, 1968, about eight o'clock in the evening, Seward looked out of his front door to see if the store on the far corner of Wilson and West End was still opened. He noticed the funeral home was on fire. There was thick black smoke pouring out of the windows. Mr. Thomas thought the funeral home looked like a terribly dark black mistake. He went inside his house and called the fire department. The fire engines arrived ten minutes later. The firemen sprayed water on the smoldering ashes and broken skeleton of what twenty minutes before had been the funeral home and then announced that the fire was under control. Ten minutes later the fire engines and firemen were gone. Seward spent the rest of that night thinking about the three bodies that had been burned instead of buried.

Ad Man To Set Self Ablaze !!

by Jim Bradley

In the great tradition of saintly protest, inspired by the many Buddhist monks who burned to a crisp in Vietnam, Vermont Cynic ad man, Loren J. Wilson, 21, of Burlington, threatens to make himself a human torch in the Billings Center fireplace.

Wilson, sporting what appeared to be the beginnings of a Fu Manchú, told this reporter of his devilish scheme over a cup of cider in the Den.

"Listen, man, don't hassle me," he grinned. "Let me tell you, this is no jive. Seriously, here we are in the middle of the energy crisis, freezing our asses off in this building, and just look upstairs, man. There's these two enormous fireplaces up there and they aren't even being used. Just think of how cool it would be to have fires burning in those fireplaces! Listen, man, the only thing holding us back is this jiveass administration. They have something against fires. So I've decided to commit a symbolic act of protest, can you dig it? I take a seat in the middle of the fireplace, lotus position, pour a can of gasoline over my head, and ask Sig Heller for a light. I mean, picture that scene, man, President Andrews will freak out."

This reporter had the distinct impression that Mr. Wilson was not fully cognizant of the ramifications the deed would create to his own person.

Elliot Freeman, a friend of Wilson's, commented, "I mean, what can I say, man? L's a far-out dude."

When asked if this wasn't an extreme form of protest to take for such a relatively minor injustice, Wilson replied, "Listen man, it's a funky thing to do."

When queried as to the precise meaning of the word "funky," Wilson said, "Don't bug me, man."

Tickets for the event, tentatively scheduled for Friday, January 25 at high noon, are available at the Bookstore, Bailey's Music Rooms, and the Cynic office, for two bits. Proceeds will go towards the purchase of a giant ashtray to hold his remains, to be placed in Marsh Lounge, and known as The Loren Wilson Memorial Ashtray.

Tick My Tock

Bugs on my body, frogs in my socks grabbed hold of a hammer
nailed me a cross
latched on to a clock didn't want to wake the neighbors
but i had to tick my tock

If those are my footprints
then these are my tracks
if this is my highway
then where is my map
i look for my ticker
all i got is my tock

Margaret the milkmaid
said she knows what i need that i should meet her at midnight
neath ye old apple tree
we sat on a boulder then on a rock she stole my ticker and left me my tock

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

©COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES · BOX 841 · BERKELEY, CA 94701

From The President : S.A. Making Strides

by Sig Heller, S. A. President

As the second semester gets underway, it is important to look back, evaluate, criticize and commend the Student Association. The S. A. has started to become a rational, logical and practical student governmental organization. As students, we can be proud of S.A.'s stand on the Smallwood Blue Ribbon Commission on Higher Education. We were the only student government in the state of Vermont to take a well thought out position. For this action we were praised by Senator Smallwood.

During the first half of my term as president, I have tried to initiate some new programs and increase the student's voice in the decisions and policies of the administration. Certain new programs are becoming visible. In the February issue of the Alumni Magazine, there is an open letter to alumni, parents and friends of UVM, asking for summer jobs for UVM students. Both the Placement and Alumni offices are interested in the new program and will be handling the response. Another project that is still in the blue print stages is an art acquisition program. This proposal is designed to improve the intellectual and aesthetic atmosphere of the campus. It will hopefully increase the amount of art around UVM. The art will consist of student work as well as established artists' work.

In the area of student participation, we haven't been as successful. There is still a disgraceful hesitation in the way the administration informs students of decisions and plans. We still do not have any real say in how professors are hired, dismissed or given tenure.

We are still pushing for this involvment and presently are working on a plan to involve students with voting privileges in faculty hiring procedures. Dr. Rollins will have the final say, but through meetings this past semester, there is a good chance a better situation will result.

The accomplishments can be counted on a few fingers but our improvements as a workable organization has increased tremendously. Let's hope this improvement can continue.

If you have any suggestions, complaints or nebulous theories, let me know and maybe the Student Association can put them into effect.

EULOGY FOR A DEAD PRESIDENT

STILL LIVING

He had no vision, only a nation.
He liked the Redskins, avoided conflict, and built himself a wall as long as China's.
He flew in style from here to there, out of fear, a guilt ridden man, and walked alone the California beach, planning a new story to tell, not hearing the crash of waves, remembering thunderous ovations from convention delegates, who, now silent, wait impatiently for 1976,
America's two hundredth birthday.

On television, he looked the same in color and black and white:
A tired, overweight man, lacking emotion, sincerity, and honesty as he delivered the same, tired words to a nation, sick of all of it.

What does he think today?
Yesterday or his place in history?
But, can a man without soul think?

Steven C. Rice

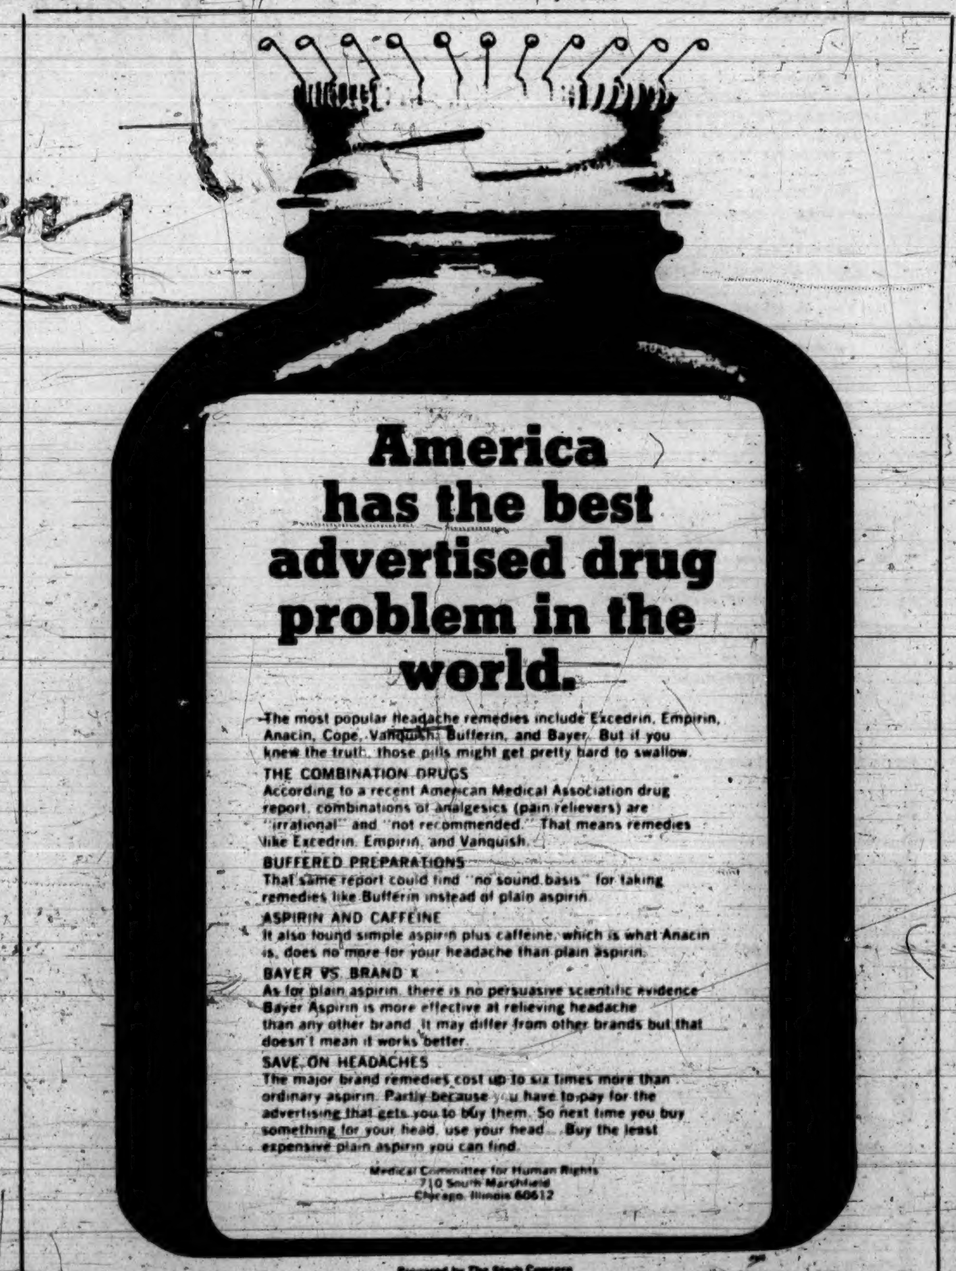
S.A. Question Forum

by E. A. Liberty

As Secretary of Communications for S. A., my job is to establish open lines of communications to the students from the S. A. Senate and vice-versa. Hence, the purpose of this column will be to inform the student body of what is happening within the S. A. In the following weeks, S. A. Senators will also have the opportunity to communicate to the student body through this column about issues which concern them.

I am concerned that students are not being made more aware of opportunities for more student involvement in campus and S. A. related activities. I am sure that a small minority of students hear about these opportunities but it is the majority that I am concerned for. So by means of this column, I shall attempt to let all the students know where they are needed.

Through this column I will try to answer questions about S. A. which I feel may have many students puzzled. So if you have a question, comment, or issue which you would like some response to – please let me know. I can be found at the S. A. Office sometime every day and if by chance you miss me – leave a note and I will get back to you as soon as possible.



This space made available by the Vermont Cynic.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Grease -- Really One Hell Of A Bitchin' Show!

by Jeff Blum

For those of you cats who were hanging out at the local malt shop, or out stealing hubcaps, or rumbling with some street gang in a back alley, you really missed a bitchin' show last Monday night. We were just rollin' along in the '54 Chevy with its overhead lifters, four-barrel quads, and thirty-inch fins on our way to the drive-in movie when we heard over the radio that "Grease" was being presented at Memorial Auditorium. Betty Sue and I bopped down the aisle to Chuck Berry's "Johnny Be Goode," prepared for what, we weren't sure. As we sat there we wondered if it could possibly beat the double feature "The Green Slime Devours Philadelphia" and "Frankenstein Meets The Blob from Planet X." But then, who watches the movie anyway? The steamed windows, the "passion pit," the back seat in the "Blue Devil." Our questions were soon answered as the opening scene and those to follow brought with them with them some of the greatest moments of a teenager's life in the 1950's.

Rydell High School's 1959 class reunion, presided over by the valedictorian, the editor of the yearbook and an aging teacher, is the contrivance responsible for triggering off the flashback to an age inspired by Elvis Presley, Little Richard, and Jerry Lee Lewis. As the "Alma Mater" draws to a conclusion, the "Pink Ladies" and the "Burger Palace Boys" dart out from underneath the podium and whisk on from the wings, for their first sensational number. This same tempo of continual motion is sustained from beginning to end, while permitting the viewer time to "catch his breath" only at intermission. The audience is transposed to another era and is allowed to rejuvenate in the tonic of the flavorful fifties atmosphere. The diversified age groups occupying the seats, appeared equally mesmerized by this fleeting step backwards in teenage culture.

A common characteristic of many nostalgic productions includes the non-existance of a plot and "Grease" is no exception. The teenager's quest for excitement achieves the only cohesive factor in the play's entirety. A minor theme is presented, through the rocky relationship between Danny Zuko and Sandy Dumbrowski (a confirmed greaser and an imitation Sandra Dee). Generally, the attention doesn't gravitate toward one of the twelve major characters or focus on any specific instance but rather produces a conglomerate effort and effect.

The exaggerated stereotypes of each teenager-the obnoxious cheerleader, the every-minute-eater, the moon chucker, the beauty school dropout, the naive nellie, and the brash babe- enabled a wide variety of situations and songs perpetuated by each one. The moon chucker or "Rump" as he was called, crooned to his girl with a romantic tune, appropriately entitled "Mooning." Rizzo,tthe tough babe, relayed something of the feelings of a female's view of sexual encounters in her song "There Are Worse Things I Could Do," while Danny Zuko handled the male attitude with "Alone At A Drive-in Movie." Rizzo maintained that she would rather be in her predicament of facing a possible pregnancy than be considered a tease who doesn't "put out." Danny agonized over his fate after Sandy rejected him at the drive-in: "I can't believe it - Unsteamed windows I can see through Might as well be in an igloo - 'Cause the heater doesn't work. - As good as you." The songs move the show along but don't provide a stepping stone to a climax, as none exists.

When guys discarded their tubes of Brill Creme and girls their maidenforms, the teenage era of good times apparently drew to an untimely finish. If the show had one significant comment attached to its frivolous culture, it could be the, bemoaning of the early arrival of adult standards in present teenage society.

Considering a few previous Lane Series musical productions such as "No, No Nannette" and "Applause" (mainly second rate shows) "Grease" came as an agreeable surprise. The cast of first rate singers and actors did great justice to the music and lyrics of Jim Jacobs and Warren Casey. One problem existed in the vein of an acoustical setback, mainly due to Memorial Auditorium itself although in a few cases the songs were indistinct of their own fault.

We left knowing that not the two best flicks or even the extra-curricular activities in the back seat of the car could surpass a part of our so recent past presented on stage. A glimpse of life from the front seat. A history lesson off an old record, presented in a seemingly short two hours, filled with "Sh-boo-bob sha-wadda-wadda" and some "Yippity boom-de-boom." Boogie, broads and bitchin' times, hotrods, class rings, and teenage love.

"Serpico" Is Sensational + Super

by Joseph Olshan

In America there seems to be a dichotomy in film appreciation. We have the heavy introspective film if it can be catagorized as such. It deals with some profound existential question or tries to convey a philosophical idea more effectively using the medium of visual art. The other side of the spectrum features suspence thrillers, slapoking comedies, and motley combinations of stars who have all made it before. Obviously money makers, these films appeal to those whose lives have been drained of romanticism and exclusively to the eternally crazed Frank Sinatra lovers, bobby soxers who will cream for a four by four section of his pants. Where others fail to communicate an intelligible theme, Al Pacino easily succeeds and gives us a provocative film to sink our teeth into. Not only is Serpico light enough to be entertaining, it has a relevant theme which could compete with the philosophical film, without allowing the pants to stick to the crushed velvet seats.

Al Pacino plays the same type of character he played in the Godfather. Interestingly though, in Serpico, he plays the honest man in a dishonest world, who is really dishonest. Serpico progresses from an honest straight cop who wants to refuse a lousy sandwich as part of a payroll, to a hippy type detective who refuses thousands of dollars in payoffs. The man whose initial appearance is as a no-good plays it straight and honest while the straight cops play it crooked and dirty. This condition unveils itself as a major theme which ultimately is a great paradox in America. The long hair who is one of the first citizens not trusted by the general public suddenly plays the just man who is driven by truth and the unsuspected cop turns out to be the crooked man driven by greed. Suddenly we must deal with a new fear which is injected into our veins. What if by chance we meet the prospect of a gleaming knife blade and the "cop on duty" must look the other way to avoid a gambling operation across the street? All this to insure the thousand in his pocket.

The setting of the film is in New York City, the progressive city of the United States which is undermined by a rash of bribery and payoff in its own Police Department. (Although the movie exaggerates this condition, it seems necessary, for too few people know of this condition in America.) The city is depicted in choice scenes which give the outsider a perspective as to where crimes are mostly committed. The scenes featured intelligent mixtures of city sounds and photography. Where music is used in other films, gun shots, sirens, and the continual drone of New York suffice with a stark reality. The Serpico story needs no music save for the song of crime and law enforcement. And with this music, we see the brazen characters of the city who know too well the totality of injustice. A victim of rape tells the story with the voice of tired fear, one who has endured and who will endure. These people have been made hardened by the injustice and see the futility of the city's own protective body, the Police Department.

When luckless Serpico tries to right this cardinal wrong, he discovers that the rest of the city's government has the same crack running beneath its surface. Since the city depends upon the police, they let them continue their lawlessness. The man who struggles with his life to secure and redefine justice must give up with barely a glint of satisfaction. This film is one of the first to cry out against the injustices in our society and strikes to uncover this crack which is neatly concealed by the bureaucracy of the city.

Serpico will come to the Flynn Theatre the first week in February.

Last Year's Most Popular Hit, "Godspell" To Return To Burlington

The musical Godspell, the most popular attraction on last season's Lane Series and the first to sell out, will return on Wednesday, January 30, at Memorial Auditorium. The cast will be completely different this season.

The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m., instead of the usual 8 p.m. curtain time, in order that the company may be able to meet its next engagement on Thursday. The new driving limit of 55 m.p.h. is adding to the travelling time for bus-and-truck companies.

Tickets, $3, $5, and $6, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

The musical adaptation of the Gospel of St. Mathew, Godspell opened in May 1971, at the Cherry Lane Theatre in New York's Greenwich Village. In August of the same year it moved to the Promenade Threatre, where it still plays to sold-out crowds every night.

Conceived and directed by John-Michael Tebelak, with music and new lyrics by Stephen Schwartz, Godspell has won a number of awards, including the National Theatre Arts Conference Award. Tebelak, the 24-year-old creator-director, was named the most promising director by the Drama Desk, and additional Drama Desk Awards went to Stephen Schwartz, the musical's composer- lyricist, and to Susan Tsu, its costume designer. The original cast albumon Bell records won the 1971 Grammy Award.

In addition to the New York company, other companies have been playing to capacity audiences in the United States, Canada, England, France, and Australia. (The company to visit Burlington next week is the eighth U.S. Touring ensemble.) Productions of Godspell are proliferating at a rate which will make it the most popular musical attraction in the country, outdistanced only by Hair.

As well as the original cast album on Bell, several singles have been released: Day by Day (which has sold over 300,00 copies), By My Side, b/w Crucifixion/Resurrection; All Good Gifts, and Prepare Ye the Way.

Godspell is a lot of "nots". It is not Hair with a halo, nor is it a sweet rock show of Jesus Christ Superstar. Nor is it a theatrical surfboard riding the crest of the Jesus revolution. In essence, Godspell (which is the archaic form of the word gospel) attempts to envelope its audience with its message of joy communication and renewal; it is at its core, eucharistic theatre.

Mr. Tebelak has drawn his material from the spirit of Christ and his teachings rather than from the Bible in its literal sense. Judaism, Zen, Babe-- all religions profoundly influence the presentation, which is at its heart an attempt to create a new mass for today.

Sci-Fi Horrors

For the spring semester the Lane Film Society Series will offer six feature classic movies in the science fiction category, all on Friday nights.

Opening the series on February 22 will be the highly regarded Andromeda Strain, hailed as a trail-blazer in science fiction. Arthur Hill, David Wayne, James Olsen, and Kate Reid are starred in this classic movie.

On March 1 the Academy-award winner The War of the Worlds, based on the novel by H. G. Wells and starring Gene Barry, will be shown.

The Time Machine, starring Rod Taylor and based on another H. G. Wells novel will be featured on March 15. It, too, won an Academy Award.

The Invisible Man, with Claude Rains, Gloria Stuart, William Harrigan, and Una O'Connor, described as a literate adaptationof the H. G. Wells' book, will be presented on April 6.

Flash Gordon in his Spaceship to the Unknown will be unreeled on April 12. Based on the serial Flash Gordon, the film features Buster Crabbe and Jean Rogers.

The concluding film, April 19, will be Kent Neuman's The Fly, starring Vincent Price, Patricia Owens and Herbert Marshall.

There will be two showings on each Friday night at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. (except for The Andromeda Strain, when, because of the length of the film, the second showing will be at 10:00 p.m.) in Marsh Life Science building Auditorium.

Season tickets, $5.00 for all six films, and single film admissions, $1.00 each, are now on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. Reservations may be made by telephoning 656-3418. Mail orders will be accepted.

Interested in writing style? Stop in at the Cynic Copy Department — we'd like to get to know you.

Chopin Sp... At Mem...

Standing six feet, four inches tall, pianist Garrick Ohlsson might well be mistaken for a football player when he appears on the stage of Memorial Auditorium on Friday, February 1, in a Lane concert. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Tickets, $3, $5 and $6, are available in the Lane Office at 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Mr. Ohlsson, who is a Chopin specialist, will devote the first half of his program entirely to this composer: Scherzo No. 3 in C sharp minor; Nocturne in D flat major; Polonaise in E flat minor; Waltz in A flat major; Two Mazurkas; and Andante Spianato and Grande Polonaise in E Flat. After the intermission the artist will play Four Preludes by Scriabin and Pictures at an Exhibition by Mussorgsky.

The twenty-five-year-old artist, who has firmly established himself as one of the leading pianists in the concert world today, leaked into fame in 1970 when he was the first American to win first prize in the Chopin International Piano Competition in Warsaw. When he returned to the U.S., he gave four concerts in New York and Philadelphia with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Eugene Ormandy.

Appearances with other leading orchestras have included the New York Philharmonic (conducted by Seiji Ozawa), Minnesota, San Francisco, Toronto, Buffalo, Houston, and many others.

His festival concerts have included Caramoor, Grant Park, Ann Arbor, Hollywood Bowl and Saratoga.

Now performing more than 90 concerts a year, Mr. Ohlsson has recently returned from a highly successful tour of Germany, England, al + Super

the prospect ife blade and y must look to avoid a ion across the o insure the ocket.
the film is in City — the of the United undermined bribery and own Police although the erates this ms necessary, ople know of in America.)
cted in choice
e the outsider s to where committed.
featured ures of city photography used in other sirens, and one of New ith a stark rpico story save for the and law d with this the brazen

characters of the city who know too well (he totality of injustice. A victim of rape tells the story with the voice of tired fear, one who has endured and who will endure. These people have been made hardened by the injustice and see the futility of the city's own protective body, the Police Department.

When luckless Serpico tries to right this cardinal wrong, he discovers that the rest of the city's government has the same crack running beneath its surface. Since the city depends upon the police, they let them continue their lawlessness. The man who struggles with his life to secure and redefine justice must give up with barely a glint of satisfaction. This film is one of the first to cry out against the injustices in our society and strikes to uncover this crack which is neatly concealed by the bureaucracy of the city.

Serpico will come to the Flynn Theatre the first week in February.

urn To Burlington

watds went to wartz, the oser- lyricist, u, its costume original cast cords won the ward to the New any other been playing diences in the es, Canada,
England, France, and Australia. (The company to visit Burlington next week is the eighth U.S. Touring ensemble.) Productions of Godspell are proliferating at a rate which will make it the most popular musical attraction in the country, outdistanced only by Hair.

As well as the original cast album on Bell, several singles have been released: Day by Day (which has sold over 300,00 copies); By My Side, b/w Crucifixion/Resurrection; All Good Gifts, and Prepare Ye the Way.

Godspell is a lot of "nots". It is not Hair with a halo, nor is it a sweet rock show of Jesus Christ Superstar. Nor is it a theatrical surfboard riding the crest of the Jesus revolution. In essence, Godspell (which is the archaic form of the word gospel) attempts to envelope its audience with its message of joy communication and renewal; it is at its core, eucharistic theatre.

Mr. Tebelak has drawn his material from the spirit of Christ and, his teachings rather than from the Bible in its literal sense. Judaism, Zen, Babe — all religions profoundly influence the presentation, which is at its heart an attempt to create a new mass for today.

S

film features and Jean

ing film, April ent Neuman's ring Vincent
-Owens and ll
two showings night at 7:30 p.m. (except Andromeda
because of the lm, the second be at 10:00
Life Science
rium.
ts, $5.00 for nd single film
.00 each, are in the Lane Waterman
ay be made by 56-3418. Mail
ccepted.

MOVIE GUIDE
ters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE
THE PAPER CHASE
7 + 9 PM

CINEMA 1 & 2
The Tall Blond Man with One Black Shoe
7 + 9 PM
LONG GOOD BYE
7 + 9 PM

Showcase 1 & 2
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
7:10 + 9:30 PM

ROBIN HOOD
Call theatre for times

FLYNN
DOUBLE FEATURE
CLOCKWORK ORANGE
THE DEVILS
Call theater for

Chopin Specialist To Play At Memorial Auditorium

Standing six feet, four inches tall, pianist Garrick Ohlsson might well be mistaken for a football player when he appears on the stage of Memorial Auditorium on Friday, February 1, in a Lane concert. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Tickets, $3, $5 and $6, are available in the Lane Office at 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Mr. Ohlsson, who is a Chopin specialist, will devote the first half of his program entirely to this composer. Scherzo No. 3 in C sharp minor; Nocturne in D flat major; Polonaise in E flat minor; Waltz in A flat major; Two Mazurkas; and Andante Spianato and Grande Polonaise in E Flat. After the intermission the artist will play Four Preludes by Scriabin and Pictures at an Exhibition by Mussorgsky.

The twenty-five-year-old artist, who has firmly established himself as one of the leading pianists in the concert world today, leaked into fame in 1970 when he was the first American to win first prize in the Chopin International Piano Competition in Warsaw. When he returned to the U.S., he gave four concerts in New York and Philadelphia with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Eugene Ormandy.

Appearances with other leading orchestras have included the New York Philharmonic (conducted by Seiji Ozawa), Minnesota, San Francisco, Toronto, Buffalo, Houston, and many others.

His festival concerts have included Caramoor, Grant Park, Ann Arbor, Hollywood Bowl and Saratoga.

Now performing more than 90 concerts a year, Mr. Ohlsson has recently returned from a highly successful tour of Germany, England, Scotland and Japan. The tour included appearances with the NHK Symphony in Japan and engagements with the New Philharmonic Orchestra in England.

In November of 1970 he was invited by President Nixon to play at the White House for the State Dinner of Prime Minister Heath of Great Britain, who is also a musician.

Garrick Ohlsson, born in White Plains, N. Y., on April 3, 1948, began studying piano at the age of eight with Thomas Lishman at the Westchester Conservatory of Music. At age thirteen he became a pupil of Sascha Gorodnitsky of the Juilliard School, and later studied with Olga Barbini, his present teacher. He has also coached with Rosina Lhevinne.

He has appeared on many network TV programs, including the Today Show, the Dick Cavett Show, and a CBS Special with Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra. He currently records for Angel Records.

The concert on February 1 here in Burlington will mark Garrick Ohlsson's third appearance on a Lane concert: in 1972, soon after winning the Chopin International Piano Competition, he gave extensive concerts in both Springfield and St. Johnsbury, Vt.

Lane Chamber Arts Series To Feature Four Ensembles

This season's fourteenth annual Lane Chamber Arts Series will feature four chamber ensembles during the months of February, March and April.

The series will open on February 23 with the prestigious Eastman Brass Quintet, now in its second decade. The five members of the ensemble are all associated with the Eastman School in Rochester, N.Y.; their instruments include trombone, french horn, tuba and two trumpets.

The next concert, March 13, will be performed by two artists of world fame, Camilla Williams and David Glazer, who join in presenting the special chamber music for soprano voice and clarinet.

Miss Williams made her debut with the New York City Opera in the title role of Madame Butterfly, while Glazer is a virtuoso member of the famed New York Woodwind Quintet.

The Early Music Consort of London, directed by David Munrow, will be heard on April 9 in a program of pre-classical music: medieval, renaissance and baroque. The unusual instruments of the five artists include the crwth, crumhorn, recorder, citole, dulcian, gershorn, kortholt, and shawm, as well as the more conventional bagpipes, harpsichord, lute and tambourine.

The concluding concert, April 17, will be given by the Cleveland Quartet, which in the two years since its debut at Vermont's Marlboro Festival has stepped into the front rank of chamber-music playing — something like earning your Ph.D. in your sophomore year.

All four concerts will be held in Ira Allen Chapel and commence at 8 p.m.

Tickets, reserved seasons at $10.00 for all four concerts, and $3.00 for general admissions to each single concert, are now on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at Baileys Music Rooms, 88 Church St., Burlington, Vermont. Reservations may be made by telephoning the Lane Office at 656-3418. Mail orders should be sent to the Lane Series, University of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont 05401; make checks payable to UVM and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"You Go Your Way And I'll Go Mine" The Dylan- Band Concert-- Montreal And Boston

by Jim Bradley

When Bob Dylan had his near fatal motorcycle accident back in the summer of 1966, I was a wild and longhaired not-quite-16 year old holding tickets to his very next scheduled concert. Blonde on Blonde was just out, and in the middle of those hot summer nights I often brought my little battery powered record player outside and let the sounds of "Memphis Blues Again," "Sooner or Later," and "Visions of Johanna" cut through the dark, heavy air. Oblivious to the feelings of the neighbors, Dylan moaned, "Ain't it just like the night to play tricks when you're trying to be so quiet" for me and my friends, and I went crazier and crazier. When I heard the radio disc jockey saying Dylan had been in a terrible accident, and was, depending on which rumor you heard, either dead, a vegetable, or "only" seriously injured, but had at any rate cancelled all the remaining concerts on his tour, the one I had tickets for in New Haven was only two days away. Frankly, my initial sorrow was for myself, not my idol.

Six and a half years later, less than two weeks ago, I watched him stroll onto the stage in the Montreal Forum, so small from where I was sitting that I couldn't make out his face. I was psyched so high, my friends and I working ourselves to a live wire edge all day through the snowstorms and icy roads, through the grey rural countryside, through the slush and excitement of the Montreal streets, that with the sight of the man my body was washed with chills. Time changes almost everything, but not the way I intuitively react to Bob Dylan.

And suddenly there he was, without saying a word, halfway into the first verse of "Most Likely You Go Your Way and I'll Go Mine," with The Band rocking behind him. The initial surges of adrenalin were immediately replaced by a feeling of letdown. And through almost the whole concert I was haunted by the feeling that I was only watching a ghost. This man I was watching, this small fragile looking man with the tough stance, legs apart, voice gliding through the old songs, was not the same man who sang them when they were new. Bob Dylan could never write "Ballad of a Thin Man" or "Like a Rolling Stone" now. He's just not the same person. And throughout the concert I was filled with the sad feeling that he could no longer sing them, either. The way he sang them in Montreal they weren't the same songs anymore. I loved hearing them, but distinctly felt I was holding on to something which had long since ceased to exist.

Whether many other people in the audience shared my feelings or not, I don't know. Whatever, it was a very enthusiastic, appreciative crowd. It was a long concert, with Dylan and the Band playing together to open and close the show, and both The Band and Dylan playing alone in between. The Band played very well, especially on their own songs, but people hadn't gone to this concert to hear them, so the enthusiasm for their performances was limited. Dylan's acoustic set, which included "The Times They are A Changing" and "It's All Right, Ma," was the most popular part of the show. As seems to happen at every concert in every city on this tour, the latter song, with lines like "Even the President of the United States sometimes must have to stand naked", evoked particularly great pleasure in recognition of its relevance to the contemporary political scene. A thousand matches and candles and even sparklers were lit and held aloft.

By the end of the show my own enthusiasm was almost back to its earlier heights. The ghost-like feeling in the hall was far from my mind as the lights came on for a closing "Like a Rolling Stone." Every one in the place was on their feet, clapping in unison. Thinking back on it, there's something a little eerie about 15,000 people openly and happily clapping in unison in sing along spirit with the wildest and most vengeful of Dylan's songs, but then again the song no longer exists on the same level especially as he sang it.

Dylan's voice is, as always, different again. While no more melodic than in the old days, he no longer sings with the same raw edge. He glides over the notes now, with many of the old and familiar tunes now carrying Spanish lilts, especially in "Tom Thumb's Blues".

Dylan did two songs from his new album, Planet Waves, both with the Band. They were "Something There is About You" and "Forever Young". Neither sounded especially good. With the exception of these two new songs and "Knocking On Heaven's Door" and "Lay Lady Lay", Dylan did only pre-accident material. He spoke only once all evening, saying "I always love to come back to Montreal."

They did only one encore, repeating the opening "When You Go Your Way and I Go Mine". It was hard to escape the feeling that there was a message in that. The matches and candles glowed in a thousand flames of faith and longing and appreciation again, and after the song rhythmic clapping and applause continued and built up for ten minutes, but the hero never returned.

This did leave a decidedly bad smell in the air, as disappointed people muttered and thought about "just what does he need all this money for, anyway, to charge $7.50 for a ticket practically halfway across town" began to drift across the mind.

My own feeling afterwards was definitely, "Wow, what a great concert." But even more than that it was, "Wow, it sure was great to see Dylan."

(continued on page nine)

Another View Of Dylan At The Forum: Dylan's Still Got It

by Doug Collette

BOB DYLAN/THE BAND
Montreal Forum
January 12, 1974

Dylan's still got it. There's no question about it after seeing the man in a two and one-half concert with his old cronies, The Band. Whatever it is that got him mountains of superlatives and titles like 'spokesman of a generation,' Dylan is still in full possession and command of it.

It would have been enough of a thrill to see this legend in the flesh even if he'd been no more than a ghost of his former self. I could have told myself "I've seen Bob Dylan."

But there was much more than that. Actually, there was less legend in front of those twenty thousand people than a remarkably perceptive composer and evocative singer complemented by as savvy a rock and roll band as you could ever hope to hear.

Last fall, Bob and The Band compiled a repertoire of over fifty songs in preparation for this tour and, believe it or not, there are no set arrangements as such. Dylan seemed to be choosing the selections on the spot, setting the tempo for The Band to pick up and follow. That kind of instantaneous interaction depends on an almost magical chemistry; it was working that night, no doubt about it.

That was enough to leave me gaping, but it was astonishing to notice the difference between the two distinct musics I heard. The Band's is true American music, a refined blend of nearly every folk idiom that's evolved here in America: it is rich music, warmly honest and soulfully performed.

And so is Dylan's. But Bob's music, as played with The Band, is raw and angular: there's an urgency in this music that's only hinted at in The Band's, sort of like the difference between feeling a tap on the shoulder and a very firm grasp. The Band beckons you, Dylan and The Band confront you.

Dylan is the catalyst and his vocal delivery is as uncompromising as it is elusive. Dylan is an unorthodox stylist, because he's as unpredictable a singer as Jeff Beck is a guitarist. Just as Beck can make the most farfetched figures sound like the most logical of solos, so Bob can take daring vocal stances and chances, piling words on top of each other, stre-t-c-hing them out or clipping them short, making it all sound right. His voice is deep and hoarse, no, not a 'good' voice in the conventional sense, but the control he's mastered is what makes him sound as emphatic as he does, more so than ever before.

Dylan played only two songs from his new LP Planet Waves. He chose the remainder from all his so-called periods. They all seemed like new songs, things we'd only heard a few times and were just learning to care about. As The Band poured it on behind him, keeping them all close to the edge, Dylan showed us he still cared about them. He wasn't just singing the required lyrics and playing the proper chord changes all the anger or hurt or humor or self-righteousness carried through his lyrics ran as deep as ever. As much as he possesses them, Dylan's songs possess him and whether it's something topical like "Blowin' In The Wind" or a more personal statement such as "Don't Think Twice, It's All Right," Dylan radiates as much pride and dignity as he does sensitivity. That's why he can make his songs ring so true, again and again.

Dylan and The Band have been using pretty much the same format for each concert. The Band's set was a comparative respite after Dylan's forty-five minute opening and the alternation of Bob's solo acoustic spot with raucous chuggers like "The Shape I'm In," most of the audience maintained a rather respectful reserve. But the electricity in the atmosphere exploded for "Like A Rolling Stone." The Forum was an intimate place that night.

WHO SAID THIS IN WHAT BOOK?

50% OFF ALL TITLES BY THIS AUTHOR WITH CORRECT ANSWER THROUGH JANUARY 28, 1974.

"Pick an apocalypse, any apocalypse. A sea of black oil and dead things. No wind. No light. Nothing stirring, not even an ant, a spider. A silent universe. Such is the end of the flicker of time, the brief hot fuse of events and ideas set off accidentally and snuffed out accidentally by man. Not a real ending of course, nor even a beginning. More ripple in Time's stream."

The Vermont Book Shop

GLENDALE COLLEGE OF LAW
• A Degree Program Qualifying Graduates For Calif. Bar Exam
• 5 Min. From Downtown Los Angeles In A Suburban Community
• Enrollment Now Being Accepted For March Term
• Inquiries Are Invited By The Dean Of Admissions
GLENDALE COLLEGE OF LAW
220 NO. GLENDALE AVE
GLENDALE, CA. 91206 (213) 247-0770

APPEARING FOR ONE WEEK
RAT RACE CHOIR
JAN 28 - FEB 3
MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED FEMALES FREE
WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10¢ NITE
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE
THE SILVER KEG
156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

SIZZLING STEAK--
TREAT YOURSEVES TO A DELICIOUS STEAK DINNER AND A FEW DRINKS
SIZZLING STEAK
1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(NEXT TO SHOWCASE I & II)
(ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
HOURS
DINING ROOM 4 P.M. TO 11 P.M. MON.-FRI.
ROOM TO 11 P.M. SAT.-SUN.
LOUNGE 4 P.M. TO 1 A.M. MON.-FRI.
ROOM TO 1 A.M. SAT.-SUN.
SERVING ALL LOCAL BEVERAGES

Special low college rates for campus pick up of The New York Times
(It goes to your head)
Contact
University Bookstore on Campus
U.V.M.
Weekdays
Mon.-Fri. $8.00
Daily subscription rates on campus are 20% below the newsstand price.

"The Long Goodbye" Has Problems That Are Never Resolved

by Peter Campbell

On one level Robert Altman's The Long Goodbye works fine – the plot.

Elliot Gould, as Philip Marlowe, a private-eye in Hollywood, gets tangled in the murder of his friend's wife, which happened the same night the friend mysteriously had Marlowe drive him to Tijuana. The police hold Marlowe in custody until ... surprise, his friend commits suicide somewhere in Mexico. The case is closed.

But not for the intrepid Marlowe. Something is fishy about his friends' deaths so he decides to investigate. Besides, apparently his friend split with several hundred thousand dollars of gangland money. The gangsters want Marlowe to find the money, pronto. So Marlowe snoops around weird Hollywood and Mexico looking for clues till he solves the mystery – just before we do. Then Marlowe murders the murderer.

The Long Goodbye has a lot of merits. The sequences were tight and usually interesting after the movie got off the ground, especially those with the gangsters, the role of the lead gangster being a particularly good performance (I did not catch his name.) The acting is consistently good. And of technical interest is the sound editing, as in Mash, another Altman movie.

There is an inevitable conflict that is never resolved in The Long Goodbye. Robert Altman took the story from the novel by Raymond Chandler, who wrote the Philip Marlowe series in the thirties and forties, and Altman cannot decide whether we are back there or here in the film. Marlowe drives an old Packard and his favorite bar has nineteen-forty prices. More disturbing is the moral tone. The plot is hard-boiled and it demands a hard-boiled character. But Gould is playing the hero of the seventies, the nice sort of slob who takes a lot of grief from everyone. Gould's characterization is totally reversed when he shoots the murderer. We could readily identify with this Marlowe until he squeezed the trigger. Then, his catharsis is not ours.

Altman is intentionally satirizing the detective story genre as he satirized the war movie genre in Mash, but is never the manic black humour of Mash and the situation is not as universal as the situation in Mash. So The Long Goodbye is weaker. This lack of catharsis may be intentional, and Altman may be trying for something new. Still, I would rather go see an old Howard Hawks detective movie with Humphrey Bogart and identify all the way with him – and then call it a goof.

J. Geils Band Scores With Latest Album

by Doug Collette

LADIES INVITED
The J. Geils Band
(Atlantic SD 7286)

This is the only J. Geils album I've liked on first listening.

But wait a minute now. I LOVED Ladies Invited right from the foot-stomping intro of "Did You No Wrong." Like the man say: "Hot stuff! Can't get enough!!"

J. Geils' first two studio recordings are handsome rock and roll records; I play them a lot and enjoy them still. But if you've ever heard this band in concert or listened to Full House, the live set of last year that deserves the appellation 'high-energy', minus the triteness that phrase has accumulated), you know that The J. Geils Band and The Morning After are not very accurate representations of true J. Geils rock and roll. The music on those records is thick and burly – it punches!

Real J. Geils rock and roll, the kind of stuff on Bloodshot and Ladies Invited is lean and mean, and it stabs. J. Geils' root music is as well-defined and just as limited as the Rolling Stones'. Like the bawdy Britons, these rough and ready Bostonians aren't afraid to reach into other idioms (check "Give It To Me" on Bloodshot), but they are content to work within the strictures of blues, soul and r&b because they know how rich these mines are with veins of musical inspiration. The J. Geils Band have the deserved self-assurance that they infuse their very own identity into their original songs as well as their interpretations.

Bloodshot came out only last spring and here it is less than six months later – these honchos are making up for lost time! That album was the worthy payoff of the extra time J. Geils took to make it; the live lp was actually released to satisfy a product demand from Atlantic while the band finished the studio album at their chosen pace. Ladies Invited again captures the group's raw live sound as closely as it's possible to do that in the sterile environs of the studio, no small achievement for a band whose music depends so much on spontaneity to work its magic. Very much like the Who's who with the Stones and J. Geils one of the very few true rock and roll bands left alive, J. Geils' music is tense, it's energy never completely expended. You know and I know that if they wanted to, this band could blow us all through the wall instead of just up against it. But it's more of an accomplishment to ration their power as they do, releasing it through taut rockers like "Can't Go On," high-strung struts like "The Lady Makes Demands," or soul-searching sighs like "That's Why I'm Thinking of You." The metaphor that pops into my mind first is that of a spring wound tight as can be, with the J. Geils Band controlling the rate of that spring's unwinding with infinite precision.

And speaking of tight, let's talk about this six-man band. J. Geils are an ensemble group, an 180-degree opposite to the improvisatory likes of, say, the Allman Brothers. Much like the Band, no one dominates and no one forces the others to carry extra weight, they each have their roles and those roles fit together like the pieces of a jig-saw puzzle.

J. Geils is one of my favorite guitarists, 'cause he plays greasy and filthy and puritans would probably X-rate his solos, until they heard one of his melodious ones, like the one on "Chimes," that would bring tears to their eyes. Magic Dick breathes fire whenever he takes the spotlight, his fills, which reach the niches the other instruments can't, make the J. Geils sound so complete, and damned if he doesn't sound like a whole horn section sometimes – he may be multi-tracked for "Take A Chance On Romance," but I doubt it 'cause he doesn't need that.

With J. and Dick, Seth Justman gets an equal share of solos, tinkling the ivories bluesily, pumping the organ or layering out the richness that adds to the fluid dimension of the music.

With Moon/Entwistle and Watts/Wyman rhythm sections, Daniel Klein and Stephen Jo Bladd are one of those made in heaven, functioning as one mind, keeping the bottom where it belongs, lowdown and dirty. They got the backbeat, they don't lose it and neither do I.

And Wolfman? Besides being the consummate showman and all-around grade-A gas, Peter is as indispensable to this band as Roger Daltrey and Mick Jagger are to theirs. No one could move with the shifting airs of J. Geils, much less guide them as he does. Wolf's sincerity is always without question too, because he makes his vocal limitations work for him: you can't help but believe him all the time, even when there's such an abrupt shift of mood as there is between the overwrought "My Baby Don't Love Me" and the jaunty "Diddy-bop-pin."

Ladies Invited is the first collection of all original Wolf/Justman compositions and the tunes are coming much more naturally to them now, the influences more unconscious than ever before I think. Each cut has a no-frills arrangement, but the congas that additionally ripen a few cuts and the touch of mellotron strings at the fade of "Chimes" hint at even more possibilities.

I really didn't want to write about Ladies Invited. It's hard to sit down and analyze a record that makes you MOVE and it's even harder to convey all the fun of it. Well, I made myself do the former and I hope I've done the latter.

Top Ten '73

This list is no more or less valid than any others you may see, but it is one you can't argue with: it's almost exclusively a product of gut-reaction. These ten albums may not be the best records I heard all year, but they are the ones I enjoyed most fully and care about most deeply.

1. QUADROPHENIA – The Who
2. GOATS HEAD SOUP – Rolling Stones
3. MOTT – Mott The Hoople
4. DESPERADO – Eagles
5. STILL ALIVE AND WELL – Johnny Winter
6. LAID BACK – Gregg Allman
7. IT'S LIKE YOU NEVER LEFT – Dave Mason
8. OVERTURE AND BEGINNERS – Rod Stewart/Faces
9. LIFEBOAT – Sutherland Brothers and Quiver
10. SELLING ENGLAND BY THE POUND – Genesis

S. A. Meeting...

(continued from page one)

might be reimbursed in the future if the Physical Education department decided to make Lacrosse a full program. Dean Powers brought up the problem of insurance for the group. S.A. might have to offer more money to the club to meet insurance costs.

New Business

Steve Decsesznak proposed that $200 go to the Warren Austin Model UN Club. The UVM Chapter will participate in the Model UN in Boston where UVM will assume the diplomatic and political role of Canada. A recommendation to allocate $360 to the Student Photo Service was heard.

Some senators wondered whether the S.A. should recognize athletic organizations. Some senators felt that this was a responsibility of the Physical Education department. A motion to change the recognition procedure was tabled until next week. The motion would divide organizational recognition into two types: (1) aa group just wanting to use facilities and the UVM name; (2) those groups that want money.

UVM Energy Policy

Dean Powers explained that overheating in the dorms was due to uncontrollable heating systems and he spoke on actual savings for the University. The four-day week brings a savings of about seven per cent and UVM has an overall savings of about 20 per cent.

Snelling...

(continued from page one)

the board of the Champlain Valley Union High School; and as chairman of the Vermont teachers certification study committee. Mrs. Snelling also served from 1966-73 on the board of directors of the United Fund of Chittenden County and as president of the UCS in 1972-73.

She is married to Richard Snelling, president of Shelburne Industries, who is a Republican member of the Vermont House of Representatives and the 1966 G.O.P. candidate for governor.

She will start her new position January 28.

State An

reducing the number of night-time hours during which buildings are used.

Turning off ornamental fountains and motors that cool water fountains.

Increasing the amount of recirculated air in the ventilation systems and shutting down fans in the air handling systems at night.

Reducing hot water temperatures to the minimum in areas where water temperature is not crucially important.

Additional conservation measures frequently mentioned are largely dependent on voluntary participation of consumers. This includes such things as turning off lights when rooms aren't in use, using stairs instead of elevators, closing outside doors and closing draperies or blinds at night to reduce heat loss through windows. Universities are also

The Dylan Bost

(continued from page seven)

The Boston concert, three days later, was an entirely different story. I wasn't even convinced it was such a great idea to go. I wasn't sure I wanted to spend another few hours watching a legend and a myth walk the stage. But it was anything but a mistake to be there. The start of the show was forty-five minutes late, and I waited patiently, lacking almost entirely that razor-sharp edge that was so real in Montreal. There was more time to observe the crowd, which was distinctly less hard core, and much younger than the Montreal one. Many of the people there couldn't have discovered Dylan until the time of Nashville Skyline or thereabouts.

This time I had a seat much closer to the stage, and binoculars as well, which made quite a difference. Dylan finally strode out wearing a black baggy suit with bell-bottom pants, a white shirt open at the throat, black high heeled boots, with a harmonica holder around his neck. He was clean shaven and all in all looked really good. Healthy. He and the Band opened with "Rainy Day Women No. 12 & 35" this time. And after that one, with Robbie Robertson

January Clearance

STORE-WIDE SAVINGS

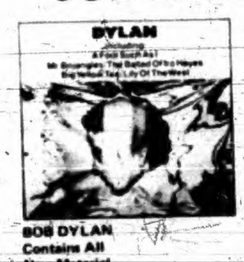
EVERY LP* & STEREO TAPE IN OUR GIGANTIC STOCK IS INCLUDED IN THIS STORE WIDE SALE

$3.69 (5.98 LIST) $4.29 (6.98 LIST) $5.49 STEREO TAPES

3 BIG DAYS!
THURS - SAT
JAN 24 - 26

SPECIAL MAJOR LP LABEL PURCHASE
Pop-Rock-Classics-Jazz-Shows
$1.98 Per Disc

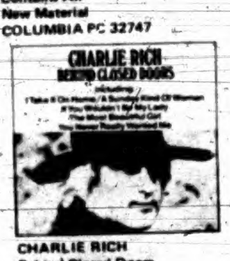
COLUMBIA • EPIC •



BOB DYLAN
Contains All New Material
COLUMBIA PC 32747

SANTANA
Welcome
COLUMBIA PC 32445

HERBIE HANCOCK
Head Hunters
COLUMBIA KC 32731

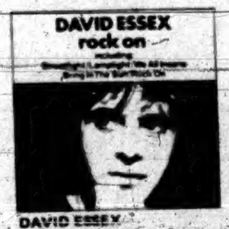


CHARLIE RICH
Behind Closed Doors
EPIC KE 32247

LOGGINS & MESSINA
Full Sail
COLUMBIA KC 32540

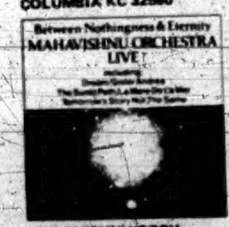
RICK DERRINGER
All-American Boy
BLUE SKY KZ 32481

DAVE MASON
It's Like You Never Left
COLUMBIA KC 31721



DAVID ESSEX
Rock On
COLUMBIA KC 32560

THE O'JAYS
Ship Ahoy
PHIL. INT. KZ 32408



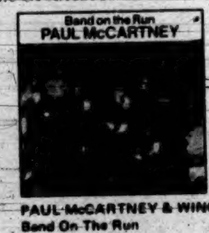
MAHAVISHNU ORCH.
Live
COLUMBIA KC 32795

DONOVAN
Essence to Essence
EPIC KE 32600

Columbia Epic

Lettermen

Every Lettermen LP in Stock is On Sale Now!



CAPITOL SW 11249

Capitol

Ten of the Lettermen's most requested songs together in one All-Time Greatest Album!

STEVE MILLER BAND
The Joker
CAPITOL SW 11235

PAUL McCARTNEY & WINGS
Band On The Run
APPLE SO 3415

PAPILLON Original Score
CAPITOL ST 11260

THE BAND
Moondog Matinee
CAPITOL SW 11214

PINK FLOYD
A Nice Pair
HARVEST SABB 11257
A Specially Priced Two LP Set

LEO KOTTKE
Ice Water
CAPITOL ST 11262

EXCEPT IMPORTS & BUDGETS

discount records
LONG PLAYING RECORDS AT A SAVING!

93 CHURCH ST - Next to Magrams - Burlington 863-4587

Store Hours: Monday thru Friday 10:00a.m. - 9p.m. - Saturday 10a.m. - 6p.m.

THE LAST CHANCE

A NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

20¢ ALE Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM
PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE
OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST.

IT'S NOT T

W

If you elect t

Y

Your service

Currently, several m military affairs. For

FOR MOR

Latest Album'

like "Can't Go On," ing struts like "The Makey Demands" or rching sighs like Why I'm Thinking Of." The metaphor that to my mind first is a spring wound tight be; with the J. Geils ontrolling the rate of ring's unwinding with precision.

speaking of tight, let's out this six-man band are an ensemble an 180-degree to the improvisatory f, say the Allman s. Much like the Band, dominates and no one the others to carry ight, they each have and those roles fit like the pieces of a puzzle.

eils is one of my guitarists 'cause he reasy and filthy and would probably his solos until they ne of his melodious like the one on ," that would bring o their eyes. Magic reathes fire whenever the spotlight hits which rivals the highest instruments can't. he J. Geils sound so e, and damned if he sound like a whole ection sometimes he multi-tracked for A Chance On e," but I doubt it e doesn't need that J. and Dick, Seth gets an equal-share tinkling the ivories pumping the organ ing out the richness dds to the fluid on of the music.

Moon/Entwistle and Wyman, rhythm Daniel Klein and Jo Bladd are one of made in heaven ning as one mind, the bottom where it lowdown and dirty t the backbeat, they se it and neither do I Wolfman? Besides the consummate an and all-around A gas, Peter is as nsable to this band as Daltrey and Mick Jagger are to theirs. No one could move with the shifting airs of J. Geils, much less guide them as he does. Wolf's discretion is always without question too, because he makes his vocal limitations work for him: you can't help but believe him all the time, even when there's such an abrupt shift of mood as there is between the overwrought "My Baby Don't Love Me" and the jaunty "Diddy-bop-pin'."

Ladies Invited is the first collection of all original Wolf/Justman compositions and the tunes are coming much more naturally to them now. The influences more unconscious than ever before I think. Each cut has a no-frills arrangement, but the congas that additionally ripen a few cuts and the touch of mellotron strings at the fade of "Chimes" hint at even more possibilities.

I really didn't want to write about Ladies Invited. It's hard to sit down and analyze a record that makes you MOVE and it's even harder to convey all the fun of it. Well, I made myself do the former and I hope I've done the latter.

Top Ten '73

This list is no more or less valid than any others you may see, but it is one you can't argue with: it's almost exclusively a product of gut-reaction. These ten albums may not be the best records I heard all year, but they are the ones I enjoyed most fully and care about most deeply.

1. QUADROPHENIA—The Who
2. GOATS HEAD SOUP—Rolling Stones
3. MOTT—Mott The Hoople
4. DESPERADO—Eagles
5. STILL ALIVE AND WELL—Johnny Winter
6. LAID BACK—Gregg Allman
7. IT'S LIKE YOU NEVER LEFT—Dave Mason
8. OVERTURE AND BEGINNERS—Rod Stewart/Faces
9. LIFEBOAT—Sutherland Brothers and Quiver
10. SELLING ENGLAND BY THE POUND—Genesis

S. A. Meeting...

(continued from page one)

be reimbursed in the if the Physical ion department to make Lacrosse a gram. Dean Powers up the problem of e for the group. S.A. have to offset more to the club to meet e costs.

New Business

Decesznak proposed 00 go to the Warren Model UN Club. The hapter will participate Model UN in Boston UVM will assume the tic and political role ada. A recommenda- allocate $360 to the Photo Service was senators wondered the S.A. should mize athletic ations. Some senators that this was a bility of the Physical on department. A to change the tion procedure was until next week. The would divide ational recognition o types: (1) as a group hting to use facilities UVM flame, (2) allow groups that want money.

UVM Energy Policy

Dean Powers explained that overheating in the dorms was due to uncontrollable heating systems and he spoke on actual savings for the University. The four-day week brings a savings of about seven per cent and UVM has an overall savings of about 20 per cent.

Snelling...

(continued from page one)

the board of the Champlain Valley Union High School; and as chairman of the Vermont teachers certification study committee. Mrs. Snelling also served from 1966-73 on the board of directors of the United Fund of Chittenden County and as president of the UCS in 1972-73.

She is married to Richard Snelling, president of Shelburne Industries, who is a Republican member of the Vermont House of Representatives and the 1966 G.O.P. candidate for governor.

She will start her new position January 28.

THE LAST CHANCE
A NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW
20¢ ALE Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM.
PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE
OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK
47 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

State And Land-Grant Universities Attempt To Conserve

reducing the number of night-time hours during which buildings are used.

Turning off ornamental fountains and motors that cool water fountains.

Increasing the amount of recirculated air in the ventilation systems and shutting down fans in the air handling systems at night.

Reducing hot water temperatures to the minimum in areas where water temperature is not crucially important.

Additional conservation measures frequently mentioned are largely dependent on voluntary participation of consumers. This includes such things as turning off lights when rooms aren't in use, using stairs instead of elevators, closing outside doors, and closing draperies or blinds at night to reduce heat loss through windows. Universities are also urging employees to refrain from using supplemental heating equipment and to limit their use of electrical appliances such as coffee pots.

A few campuses have announced additional conservation measures which offer possibilities for savings beyond the standard actions. The State University of New York at Binghamton has announced that the campus pumping station will pump water only in evening hours, conserving both electricity and money by using the non-peak hours.

West Virginia University will reduce the vehicles in its motor pool by 10 per cent, and the University of Houston is replacing automobiles used by maintenance personnel with motor scooters. The University of Massachusetts at Amherst is making a reassessment of how the 500 buildings on campus are being used to determine if any may be closed completely. The University of Vermont reports that the crowding of some classroom space results in abnormally high temperatures. Therefore, spaces so utilized will be reduced well below the 68 degree level. The University of North Dakota has announced that it will use lignite, the state's most plentiful fuel, rather than fuel oil, to heat its physical plant this winter.

At Kansas State University students and faculty have adopted the theme "Wednesdays are for walking!" Everyone on campus is encouraged to walk, rather than ride, every Wednesday.

BENEFICIAL SIDE EFFECT

Savings derived from cutting back on energy consumption are proving to be a beneficial side effect for universities. A year-long program to economize through utility savings in 1972-73 at Purdue University resulted in combined savings of more than five per cent, totaling $212,689.

"At a time when the university's operating funds are critically short, this means that many employees who received pay increases would not have gotten them because these funds otherwise would have literally gone up the stack," noted Vice President and Treasurer Lytle J. Freehafer in a letter to all university staff members.

As a dramatic example of savings, fluorescent lights were removed from every other fixture on the second floor of the Administrative Services Building. It was calculated that reducing light levels in this one building would reduce coal burned to produce power by 452.5 tons and a resultant reduction in sulphur dioxide pollutants of 11.8 tons, plus a maintenance savings of more than $12,000.

Michigan State University has predicted that it may save at least 10,000 tons of coal over this winter, representing approximately $200,000, as a result of its conservation program. It also reports that electricity consumption on campus has been running about seven per cent behind the same period last year.

Cornell University is now reaping the benefits of a commitment it made 13 years ago to minimize operating costs in new facilities being constructed on campus, particularly those with critical environmental requirements. The university installed a central monitoring panel at a cost of $50,000, with the capability of monitoring 10,000 separate system temperatures. It was the first of its kind in the nation. According to university estimates, "if individual plants had been installed in each of the major facilities constructed during the period, the labor cost of operating engineers alone would have been $4 million. Of equal importance, the major ventilation systems can be started and stopped remotely from this panel. At present rates, this schedule saves $75,000 per year.

UNIVERSITIES TO OFFER PROGRAMS TO EDUCATE PUBLIC ABOUT CRISIS.

Special efforts to educate the public regarding the energy crisis are being undertaken by campuses throughout the nation.

Clemson University, the University of Massachusetts and the University of Florida have cosponsored conferences to study energy saving changes in building design and codes. The conferences, which drew several hundred participants, were designed to help the building construction industry and state governments meet problems of the energy crisis. The viewpoints of architects, engineers, and governmental policy makers on energy conservation as it relates to the energy crisis were presented. Emphasis was on conservation options for construction, design, renovation, and operation of all types of buildings.

The University of Maine has appointed an Energy Coordinator to work directly with state, federal or other officials on problems relating to energy. The University of Oklahoma is holding a lecture series on energy, beginning in January, which will include educators, industrialists and governmental officials. The University of Vermont through its School of Home Economics, is sponsoring an evening "minicourse" in February entitled "Energy Conservation in the Home." The University of Pittsburgh has scheduled a weekly energy seminar.

The campus-based public AM and FM radio stations which are part of the Continuing Education Service of Michigan State University kicked off a new series of call-in question-and-answer monthly programs with a show devoted to the "Energy Crisis in Michigan." Listeners could call in questions to a panel of experts.

ENERGY RESEARCH INCLUDES ALL AREAS.

State and land-grant university energy-related research runs the entire gamut of the field. A recent report issued by the University of California on its involvement in such research gives an idea of the extensiveness of the study. Research at the several campuses of this one institution encompasses areas ranging from plasma physics to public administration. This includes:

*A fifteen-month study to aid in the creation of a national energy policy. This report will be published in book form within six months as a guide for Congress and the nation at large. The book will deal with such topics as environmental impact, adequacy of supply, demand modification, use of taxation, effet of competition, foreign policy and conservation.

*Development of a practical hydrogen car which is getting a serious tryout at UCLA.

*Study at the university's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory regarding two approaches to thermonuclear fusion. The laboratory is the nation's center for mirror fusion research and also has the nation's largest effort in the newer and less fully explored laser fusion approach. *Much emphasis on solar and geothermal energy as subjects of study. The Institute of Geophysics and Planetary Physics at the Riverside Campus is pursuing the physical sciences side of the geothermal research while the institution's Graduate School of Administration and the Departments of Economics and Political Science are undertaking such research from a social science perspective. Scientists at UCLA have been doing basic research in solar energy use and control since 1955. Much of the work has been related to solar energy use in home heating and cooling. The following examples offer a mere sampling of other types of research under way at state and land-grant universities. Ohio State University is spearheading a $415,000 study to determine how homeowners can reduce energy consumption by as much as twenty-five per cent. The Electric Power Institute of New York City is sponsoring the research, which will extend to dwellings in seven cities.

A University of Oklahoma professor has developed a method of combining water and gasoline to provide better fuel mileage and to sharply reduce exhaust emissions. He has now formed a company with a California consulting engineer who has been doing similar research, to license oil companies to use the process. Michigan State University is carrying out research into clean fuel from coal via gasification. Kansas State University is carrying out experiments designed to produce energy from manure and other agricultural products. A Kansas State engineer predicts that energy produced in this way could supply up to thirteen per cent of the total residential demand for electric power in Kansas within a few years.

"Wind power" research is now in its third year at Oregon State University. A new grant from four utility districts in the area will make it possible to continue research in both the Columbia River Gorge and on the Pacific coast. Scientists believe that wind power can become a valuable source of supplemental electrical power for many areas of the nation, including the Northwest.

Texas A & M University through its Texas Transportation Institute is involved in a continuing fuel economy research effort. Information resulting from detailed studies will be made available to any group interested in transportation economy. The Institute has just completed an interim study on fuel conservation in Texas conducted at the request of Governor Dolph Briscoe.

The Dylan Experience: Boston And Montreal

(continued from page seven)

The Boston concert, three days later, was an entirely different story. I wasn't even convinced it was such a great idea to go. I wasn't sure I wanted to spend another few hours watching a legend and a myth walk the stage. But it was anything but a mistake to be there. The start of the show was forty-five minutes late, and I waited patiently, lacking almost entirely that razor-sharp edge that was so real in Montreal. There was more time to observe the crowd, which was distinctly less hard core, and much younger than the Montreal one. Many of the people there couldn't have discovered Dylan until the time of Nashville Skyline or thereabouts.

This time I had a seat much closer to the stage, and binoculars as well, which made quite a difference. Dylan finally strode out wearing a black baggy suit with bell-bottom pants, a white shirt open at the throat, black high heeled boots, with a harmonica holder around his neck. He was clean shaven and all in all looked really good. Healthy. He and the Band opened with "Rainy Day Women No. 12 & 35" this time. And after that one, with Robbie Robertson really driving the song with his guitar, Dylan even spoke, announcing that the next tune was going to be "Lay Lady Lay". They didn't do that one so well. But thereafter everything was excellent. The songs they played were almost all the same ones they'd done in Montreal, but the difference in quality was really something. Songs not previously mentioned included a rocking, hard driving "Hollis Brown", "I Don't Believe You", "It Ain't Me Babe", and acoustic "Just Like a Woman" and "Don't Think Twice, It's All Right". The songs were alive for me once again as they did them, not in the old way, but in a new way. It wasn't just an exercise in nostalgia. They simply played music which is as good as anything else being played right now.

The Band deserves special mention. After Dylan, they are my favorites and have been for five years, and in that time I have seen them four times. They never sounded as good as they did this night. Drummer Levon Helm's singing was exquisite, especially on the great "The Night They Drove Old Dixie Down". Not only were they great to listen to, they were fun to watch, too. They clearly are good friends and enjoy playing together. They get off on each other's playing. Looking through the binoculars you'd see them smiling at the one who'd just gotten off a particularly good lick. And you'd see Robbie Robbertson's face covered with ecstasy as he played his leads. Unlike most of the great guitarists, Robertson's inspiration, revealing itself in his face as he plays, comes not from feelings of pent up hostility, anger, aggression, revenge, and the like, but from joy and beauty and rapture.

The candles and matches were in evidence in Boston, too, and the lights came on for a closing "Like A Rolling Stone" again, and most of the people were standing up and clapping again, and the encore was "You Go Your Way and I'll Go Mine" again, but after it was over there was no clamoring for one more song. The audience simply got up, put on their coats, and started the tedious process of filing out.

Back on the street and all that night I was really feeling pleased and alive. This time it wasn't only because I'd seen Dylan, but even more because I'd seen and heard a really great concert.

UVM To Host Peace Corps Recruiters Again This Year

by Kathy Stiasni

The University of Vermont will once again host members of the recruiting staff for the Peace Corps program. On January 29, 30, and 31 Peace Corps representatives from regional and local offices will be on campus to talk to prospective applicants.

Mr. Todd Baumgurdt, who visited briefly on January 17, explained the role of ACTION the new federal agency which combines Peace Corps, Vista, and other voluntary agencies, all which deal with social and economic problems in the U.S. and in developing countries. Thus, ACTION is a regulatory agency which centralizes federally funded programs and therefore facilitates the individual's invitation into a volunteer activity.

Once again the important dates are January 29-31, but where and how will students meet with representatives? Individual interviews will be arranged for seniors and graduate students in Mansfield House. Peace Corps is interested mainly in seniors and graduate students as its program is designed around a minimum commitment of two years. Undergraduates are rarely accepted into the programs, though exceptions are made for those who have special technical skills.

It is important for people interested in working this summer to apply now. Although the representatives will return in March, the spring deadline is too late for entrance into a summer program. The interviewers have requested that applications be ready by the end of January in time for their visits. Prior to these visits at the end of the month it will be possible to get information from the placement office in Mansfield House or from Mr. Tom Hitchcock who lives in the near vicinity and can be reached at 434-2700. Hitchcock and his wife were Peace Corps volunteers in the Phillipines. While the program's representatives are here giving interviews, there will also be an exhibit in Billings in conjunction with UVM's office of volunteer programs.

In past years UVM has been one of the most receptive schools toward the ACTION programs. In the fall

(continued on page eleven)

UVM FRESHMEN MEN & WOMEN

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO TRY ROTC (WITHOUT SERVICE OBLIGATION) TO SEE IF IT'S FOR YOU

WE OFFER:

CHALLENGING LEADERSHIP EXPERIENCES

Courses in military affairs
Field training (weapons, equipment, tactics, map reading, etc.)
Extracurricular activities
Civilian career enhancement
Opportunity for full tuition scholarship

If you elect to continue ROTC through your junior and senior years,
YOU WILL RECEIVE MONETARY BENEFITS OF APPROX $2200 DURING COLLEGE AND BE COMMISSIONED AS AN OFFICER
Your service obligation would be two years or three months active duty plus a period in the Reserve

UVM STUDENTS OF ALL CLASSES

Currently, several non-ROTC men and women are taking our courses in military affairs. For the spring term we offer:

MS 2 U.S. DEFENSE ESTABLISHMENT — Principles of war. Relationship of war to society. Impact of technology on warfare. Role of logistics and administration. Political, social, economic factors making up current military power.
Two hours. CPT Walz

Our non-ROTC students have found our courses challenging. Perhaps you would like to join them by adding MS 2 to your spring schedule?

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

VISIT THE DEPARTMENT OF MILITARY STUDIES,
3rd floor, Williams Hall or call 656—2966 2967

Photo by Ted Henderer

S.A. Films Presents

Due to the energy crisis at UVM, SAFilms has been forced to reschedule and cancel films for second semester. Film showings on Saturday evenings are completely cancelled because no hall on campus is heated. Two series originally scheduled for this semester, The Films of Lillian Gish and THE LUBITSCH TOUCH: Comedy At Its Best have been cancelled. There is some chance that they will be rescheduled for next year.

Here is the line up of film offerings for this semester. This list supersedes any previous announcement.

Monday Evenings in North Lounge Billings: SWASHBUCKLERS, ARCHERS, AND OTHER GOOD GUYS. A series of action films starring such people as Errol Flynn, Douglas Fairbanks Sr and Jr, Robert Taylor, and Elizabeth Taylor. There is one show at 8:00 pm. Admission is Free. NB: The first offering of this series will be a double feature of THE ADVENTURES OF ROBIN HOOD and CAPTAIN BLOOD, both films starring Errol Flynn. The films will start at 8:00 pm, in order of listing, in 101 Votey Hall on Monday, January 28. This will be the only showing of this series in Votey.

Tuesday Evenings in Cook Hall, B106: ALFRED HITCHCOCK. Part II. This semester we do the famous films that all of us know, including PSYCHO, NORTH BY NORTH WEST, and FRENZY. Our series shows all but four films (two recently shown on campus) made by Hitchcock since 1939. One show at 8:00 pm in Cook, B106 with no admission charge. The first film in the series will be on Tuesday, January 29, LIFEBOAT starring Tallulah Bankhead and William Bendix.

Wednesday Evenings in North Lounge Billings: A SERIES OF MODERN FILMS BY AVANT GARDE FILM MAKERS. Each evening, beginning January 30, will feature a series of short, rarely seen, films made by such film makers as Stan Brakhage and Jonas Mekas. One show at 8:00 pm with an admission charge of $.75. Shown in cooperation with the Orchid Film Society.

Thursday in Cook Hall, B106: MARLON BRANDO. A rather complete traversal, excluding THE GODFATHER and LAST TANGO IN PARIS and one or two others, of Brando's best films, from THE MEN (his first) to BURN! (his last before THE GODFATHER and generally considered one of his most interesting films). Included in the series will be A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE and his directing debut, ONE-EYED JACKS with Karl Malden. Two shows at 7:30 and 9:30 pm with an admission charge of $.75.

Friday Night in Cook Hall, B106: HUMPHREY BOGART. The very best of Bogie including the classics: CASABLANCA with Ingrid Bergman, THE TREASURE OF THE SIERRA MADRE, HIGH SIERRA, THE BIG SLEEP (the best of all the Philip Marlowe films), and THE AFRICAN QUEEN costarring Katherine Hepburn. Two shows at 7:30 and 9:30 pm with a $.50 admission charge.

Sunday Night in North Lounge Billings Center: THE SILENT CLASSICS. A series of films owned by SAFilms including such great films as THE LAST LAUGH, WAY DOWN EAST, and DESTINY. One showing at 8:00 pm with Free admission.

SAFilms will list all films in a special ad in next week's Cynic as well as maintain weekly listings in THIS WEEK, with WRUV-AM, and with the Billings Center Information Desk (X 2068). During the week of February 1 SAFilms will publish a complete list for the year in the form of a wallet sized card and a large poster which will be distributed to the dorms, the Bookstore, Billings, and Information in Waterman.

SAFilms this semester encourages any student to make suggestions, complaints, and film suggestions by writing a note to: SAFilms, Box 76, Billings Center. Our phone is 2029. We hope that as many students as we know there are on campus who attend films that you will take time out and let us know what you think about what we are offering, how we are offering it, and what you would like done better or at least different.

A Warner Brothers publicity photo of HUMPHREY BOGART.

From The Cynic Files: An Unmysterious Mystery

A small village in the western part of Mississippi had just experienced the most stirring event of its whole history. A mob composed entirely of its own citizens had lynched a man the day before, for a crime which he was supposed to have committed on the day previous to his death. The village was a quiet, peaceful spot, and its citizens were, ordinarily, law abiding and prosperous. This ghastly manner of punishment came as a shock to all the surrounding country, and provoked much disgust. Upon the receipt of the news, the writer was immediately detailed to the scene of the tragedy by a paper of a neighboring city, and insturcted to write a description of the condition of affairs there.

It had been a hot, sultry day, and the excitement and tension had run high. I sat on the piazza of the little hotel, puffing intermittently at a weed of the one variety which the genial landlord possessed. The night promised to be an uncomfortable one. The faling shades of twilight brought little relief. The leaves of the surrounding trees at intervals moved listlessly. All nature as well as mankind seemed to feel keenly the oppressive heat. Slowly and gradually the light of day gave way to darkness, and all was still over the village. The tension was removed.

I had left the hotel, and was walking slowly along the road which leads out of the village. Before going far, the woods on both sides of the road. The moon which was just rising, shonfeebly through the light clouds, casting undefined, gruesome shadows about. The wind moaned dismally through the trees, moving them slightly. The strain of that day's work and incidentally nerves were veritably "on edge." I noticed these things, and even more. Shadows made again, forms of weird, ungainly shapes loomed up before me, and but vanished upon closer scrutiny. I heard foot-steps as though some object were running beside me. I could see nothing, however. Again there were footsteps behind me; and again a look backwards disclosed nothing.

Directly ahead of me was a clearing which was traversed with vague shadows drifting aimlessly about. A high pine tree near the road rose abruptly in the clearing. As I was passing this place, I glanced back at the moon struggling vainly to throw its feeble rays through the clouds, and there I saw a sight which chilled my blood. There against the clouds was a form dangling from a bough of the lone pine tree. For a moment I was dazed, almost senseless. This, then, was the place of the lynching. It was a horrible scene. The poor wretch's body was fastened to the bough by a noose about the neck, and it swayed to and fro with the breezes. Should I move? I dared not take my eyes from that swinging mass, and yet what a spectacle. But did I move? I was positive it did. Again the limp arms showed signs of life. Was I mad? Did I see this? Was I, a respected reporter, losing control of my faculties? I could not move. I stood there motionless, rigid as a post, but weak as a rat. My muscles refused to act. The skin of my face seemed to draw tight, my head felt as though every hair on it were erect, my eyes bulged from their sockets. Again the body showed indications of life. Swaying toward the tree, it deliberately stretched out its arms, reaching for the trunk. It was coming down, and there I stood, almost directly in the path it would probably take. I crouched in the shadows, I caught the expression of that face, as the light from the moon struck it, and it was hideous. It was void of the semblance of any manly quality. And now it seemed to be looking me through and through. Would it go up the road? For a moment I made some hasty deductions. What if it should? What could I do? I was powerless to move if it did. But it turned its back, and went down the road, back over the same route that I had just traversed. When my faculties returned, I was undecided what

(continued on page twelve)

CLASSIFIED ADS

STUDENTS ARE REMINDED THAT CLASSIFIED ADS ARE FREE BUT THEY MUST BE SUBMITTED BY MONDAY NOON FOR THE FOLLOWING THURSDAY'S PUBLICATION. ALSO THEY CAN NOT BE LISTED FREE IF THEY CONTAIN ITEMS TO BE SOLD BY THE STUDENT WHO IS REPRESENTING A COMPANY, I.E. AS A CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE. IN ALL CASES THE FINAL JUDGMENT OF WHETHER THE AD QUALIFIES FOR A FREE LISTING IS THAT OF THE CYNIC.

Representative Needed! Earn $200 + each semester with only a few hours work at the beginning of the semester. INTERNATIONAL MARKETING SERVICE, 519 Glenrock Avenue, Suite 203, Los Angeles, California 90024.

EARN UP TO $1500 a school year hanging posters on campus in spare time. Send name, address, phone and school to: Coordinator of Campus Representatives, P.O. Box 606, Ann Arbor, MI 48107. Call (313) 662-5575.

Kastle CPM Grand Prix New — Never used. Best offer. 658-2833.

WET SUITS WANTED: Any condition, men's and/or women's. Contact Tom Stasz, Room 324 Life Sciences Bldg. (656-2930, ext. 45) or Al Coulter, Coolidge Hall (656-2593).

Need 2 people to share apartment $50-$70/mo. Phone 864-5262

For Sale. BSR 510 Auto turntable with sure cartridge and dustcover still like new. $35 Call Cliff 863-2945.

Male needed to share lakefront house in Malletts Bay. Skating rink, X-C trails, own room $67 a month. Call 878-8288

Tape deck for sale TEAC 1230, excellent condition, dust cover, cleaning equipment, and mikes included. Cheap price. Cr. David 863-2466

Ski boots-size 12-Koflach-used twice-$35. Steve Cash 658-4251.

For Sale. 1973 Vespa Ciao-motorized bicycle-only 42 miles-average number of miles per gallon-168. Contact Mark 410 Davis Hall Ext 2518.

GREAT INTRODUCTORY OFFER!..

FROM YOUR SMILING TAPE MAN

MEET

MAD MAN MURRAY!

50¢ OFF

ANY TAPE OR RECORD PURCHASED

Reg $2.99 for TAPES

Reg $3.99 for RECORDS

PLUS A FREE GIFT!...

GIANT 5 FOOT HOROSCOPE POSTER

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE CYNIC

WE DISCOUNT THE DISCOUNTERS

tape city, u.s.a.

RT. 7 AT BLAKELY ROAD, COLCHESTER, VT.

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK 10am to 10pm 879-0448

ENGINEERING • COMPUTER SCIENCE • MATHEMATICS

UNPRECEDENTED WORK . . .

UNPARALLELED OPPORTUNITY . . .

CAREERS AT THE NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY

"The cipher disk, one of the world's oldest crypto-graphic devices, is a crude forerunner of the sophisticated communications security systems being developed and tested at NSA today."

Because of the nature and scope of the National Security Agency's mission, we can offer job challenge and career opportunities that are impossible to match.

AT NSA, we are responsible for designing and developing secure invulnerable communications and EDP systems to transmit, receive and analyze much of our nation's most vital information. The advancing technologies applied in this work are such that they will frequently take you beyond the known and accepted boundaries of knowledge. Consequently, your imagination and resourcefulness are essential qualifications for success.

The Career Scene at NSA: Engineers will find work which is performed nowhere else . . . devices and systems are constantly being developed which are the most advanced in the Western World. As an Agency engineer, you will carry out research, design, development, testing and evaluation of sophisticated, large-scale cryptocommunication and EDP systems. You may also participate in related studies of electromagnetic propagation, upper atmosphere phenomena, and solid state devices using the latest equipment for advanced research within NSA's fully instrumented laboratories.

Mathematicians define, formulate and solve complex communications-related problems. Statistical mathematics, matrix algebra, and combinatorial analysis are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. Opportunities for contributions in computer sciences and theoretical research are also offered.

Computer Scientists participate in systems analysis and systems programming related to advanced scientific and operational applications. Software design and development is included, as well as support in hardware design, development and modification.

Starting salaries are based on education and experience, and increase as you assume additional responsibility. Further, you will enjoy the varied career benefits and other advantages of Federal employment without the necessity of Civil Service certification.

Check with your Placement Office for further information about NSA, or write to: Chief, College Relations Branch, National Security Agency, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20755, Attn: M321. An equal opportunity employer, M/F. NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY

Our representative will be on campus January 31, 1974

nsa

. . . WHERE IMAGINATION IS THE ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATION

«the do

Address letters to Dr. Arnold
Box 974, East Lansing, Mi.

QUESTION: Many times after I have some pain on urination. The pain has after a week or so. I was checked for V was negative. (Written by a woman).

ANSWER: Painful urination may be a s kidney infection. When this occurs follo you describe, it is often a sign that b introduced into the bladder during infection has occurred. Such an infectio and not be allowed to just disappear by i

Women are more susceptible to urina than men because the urethra (the tube the bladder out) is very short allowing ba way into the bladder. This can occur fo because of direct and vigorous stimulatio the shaft of the penis.

In addition to treatment of the urin which should take precedence, attempt prevent future infections. A careful urologist should be made to determin abnormalities of the urethra or bladder to such frequent infections is qui predisposing circumstances within the b it more susceptible to infection. Such w pattern of urinating rather infrequent which permits large amounts of urine bladder much of the time, increasin bladder wall and disturbing its blood such women are advised to urinate every during the day. In addition, the immediately before having intercour possible after having intercourse. Th likelihood of bacteria growing.

Changes of position in sexual in stimulation of the urethra are s physicians, but it is questionable a maneuvers are effective since it is p intercourse in any position that is satis being some stimulation of that general a

Career Inter

Beginning with January 24, the C Placement Office will be conducting On- with visiting Employer Recruiters from Service, and various other agencies. Y register with the Placement Service and very worthwhile program. The progr benefit to seniors, graduate students, an Recruiting Period Number 1 and 2: Je 1, 1974. Sign up for interviews in the Mansfield House.

January 24 — The Badger Company, S

January 29, 30, 31 — ACTION (Pe Seeks: All academic areas.

January 30 — Xerox Corporation, Liberal Arts, Engineers.

January 31 — National Securit Engineers, Math, Languages.

January 31 — Paul Revere Life Ins. Arts, Math, Acctg.

February 1 — Hartford National Bank for Training Prog.

February 1 — Norton Company, Comin & Econ.

Complete Recruiting Schedules are Placement Office.

Interested in writing style? Stop in at the Cynic Copy Department — we'd like to get to know you.

Dis

Discus held at Burlingto peace- r year old time is M Wednesd For mo 658-4496

Wool

THE FUN PLACE TO S

10% OFF AL

with presentat

Store Hours: Monday Saturd Frida

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED REPLAC

The Good Courts!

Student rates from $1.50 each
Doubles • Good Lessons
Stop action TV available courts • Attractive lounge
• Attended nursery
Pro Shop — 24-Hour
Expert Advice • Oppo
— 6 AM-11 PM S
Reserved Time

Photo by Ted Henderer

S.A. Films Presents

Due to the energy crisis at UVM, SAFilms has been forced to reschedule and cancel films for second semester. Film showings on Saturday evenings are completely cancelled because no hall on campus is heated.

Two series originally scheduled for this semester, The Films of Lillian Gish and THE LUBITSCH TOUCH: Comedy At Its Best have been cancelled. There is some chance that they will be rescheduled for next year.

Here is the line up of film offerings for this semester. This list supersedes any previous announcement.

Monday Evenings in North Lounge Billings: SWASHBUCKLERS, ARCHERS, AND OTHER GOOD GUYS. A series of action films starring such people as Errol Flynn, Douglas Fairbanks Sr and Jr, Robert Taylor, and Elizabeth Taylor. There is one show at 8:00 pm. Admission is Free. NB: The first offering of this series will be a double feature of THE ADVENTURES OF ROBIN HOOD and CAPTAIN BLOOD, both films starring Errol Flynn. The films will start at 8:00 pm, in order of listing, in 101 Votey Hall on Monday, January 28. This will be the only showing of this series in Votey.

Tuesday Evenings in Cook Hall, B106: ALFRED HITCHCOCK. Part II. This semester we do the famous films that all of us know, including PSYCHO, NORTH BY NORTH-WEST, and FRENZY. Our series shows all but four films (two recently shown on campus) made by Hitchcock since 1939. One show at 8:00 pm in Cook, B106 with no admission charge. The first film in the series will be on Tuesday, January 29, LIFEBOAT starring Tallulah Bankhead and Wilham Bendix.

Wednesday Evenings in North Lounge Billings: A SERIES OF MODERN FILMS BY AVANT GARDE FILM MAKERS. Each evening beginning January 30, will feature a series of short, rarely seen, films made by such film makers as Stan Brakhage and Jonas Mekas. One show at 8:00 pm with an admission charge of $.75. Shown in cooperation with the Orchid Film Society.

Thursday in Cook Hall, B106: MARLON BRANDO. A rather complete traversal, excluding THE GODFATHER and LAST TANGO IN PARIS and one or two others, of Brando's best films, from THE MEN (his first) to BURN! (his last before THE GODFATHER and generally considered one of his most interesting films). Included in the series will be A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE and his directing debut, ONE-EYED JACKS with Karl Malden. Two shows at 7:30 and 9:30 pm with an admission charge of $.75.

Friday Night in Cook Hall, B106: HUMPHREY BOGART. The very best of Bogie including the classics: CASABLANCA with Ingrid Bergman, THE TREASURE OF THE SIERRA MADRE, HIGH SIERRA, THE BIG SLEEP (the best of all the Philip Marlowe films), and THE AFRICAN QUEEN costarring Katherine Hepburn. Two shows at 7:30 and 9:30 pm with a $.50 admission charge.

Sunday Night in North Lounge Billings Center: THE SILENT CLASSICS. A series of films owned by SAFilms including such great films as THE LAST LAUGH, WAY DOWN EAST, and DESTINY. One showing at 8:00 pm with Free admission.

SAFilms will list all films in a special ad in next week's Cynic as well as maintain weekly listings in THIS WEEK with WRUV-AM, and with the Billings Center Information Desk (X 2068). During the week of February 1 SAFilms will publish a complete list for the year in the form of a wallet sized card and a large poster which will be distributed to the dorms, the Bookstore, Billings, and Information in Waterman.

SAFilms this semester encourages any student to make suggestions, complaints, and film suggestions by writing a note to: SAFilms, Box 76, Billings Center. Our phone is 2029. We hope that as many students as we know there are on campus who attend films that you will take time out and let us know what you think about what we are offering, how we are offering it, and what you would like done better or at least different.

A Warner Brothers publicity photo of HUMPHREY BOGART.

From The Cynic Files: An Unmysterious Mystery

A small village in the western part of Mississippi had just experienced the most stirring event of its whole history. A mob composed entirely of its own citizens had lynched a man the day before, for a crime which he was supposed to have committed on the day previous to his death. The village was a quiet, peaceful spot, and its citizens were, ordinarily, law abiding and prosperous. This ghastly manner of punishment came as a shock to all the surrounding country, and provoked much disgust. Upon the receipt of the news, the writer was immediately detailed to the scene of the tragedy by a paper of a neighboring city, and instructed to write a description of the condition of affairs there.

It had been a hot, sultry day, and the excitement and tension had run high. I sat on the piazza of the little hotel, puffing intermittently at a weed of the one variety which the genial landlord possessed. The night promised to be an uncomfortable one. The falling shades of twilight brought little relief. The leaves of the surrounding trees at intervals moved listlessly. All nature as well as mankind seemed to feel keenly the oppressive heat. Slowly and gradually the light of day gave way to darkness, and all was still over the village. The tension was removed.

I had left the hotel, and was walking slowly along the road which leads out of the village. Before going far, the woods closed in on both sides of the road. The moon which was just rising, shonfeebly through the light clouds, casting undefined, gruesome shadows about. The strain of that day's work had been too much for me. My nerves were veritably "on edge." I noticed these things, and even more. Shadows made forms of weird, ungainly shapes loomed up before me, and but vanished upon closer scrutiny. I heard foot-steps as though some object were running beside me. I could see nothing, however. Again there were footsteps behind me, and again a look backwards disclosed nothing.

Directly ahead of me was a small clearing which was traversed with vague shadows drifting aimlessly about. A high pine tree near the road rose abruptly in the clearing. As I was passing this place, I glanced back at the moon and incidentally noticed that it was struggling vainly to throw its rays through the clouds, and there I saw a sight which chilled my blood. There against the clouds was a form dangling from a bough of the lone pine tree. For a moment I was dazed, almost senseless. This, then, was the place of the lynching. It was a horrible scene. The poor wretch's body was fastened to the bough by a noose about the neck, and it hung limply, its feet swayed to and fro with the breezes. Should I move? I dared not take my eyes from that swinging mass, and yet what a spectacle. But did it move? I was positive it did. Again the limp arms showed signs of life. Was I mad? Did I see this? Was I, a respected reporter, losing control of my faculties? I could not move. I stood there motionless, rigid as a post, but weak as a rat. My muscles refused to act. The skin of my face seemed to draw tight, my head felt as though every hair on it were erect, my eyes bulged from their sockets. Again the body showed indications of life. Swaying toward the tree, it deliberately stretched out its arms, reaching for the trunk. It was coming down, and there I stood, almost directly in the path it would probably take. I crouched in the shadows, I caught the expression of that face, as the light from the moon struck it, and it was hideous. It was void of the semblance of any manly quality. And now it seemed to be looking me through and through. Would it go up the road? For a moment I made some hasty deductions. What if it should? What could I do? I was powerless to move if it did. But it turned its back, and went down the road, back over the same route that I had just traversed. When my faculties returned, I was undecided what

(continued on page twelve)

CLASSIFIED ADS

STUDENTS ARE REMINDED THAT CLASSIFIED ADS ARE FREE BUT THEY MUST BE SUBMITTED BY MONDAY NOON FOR THE FOLLOWING THURSDAY'S PUBLICATION. ALSO THEY CAN NOT BE LISTED FREE IF THEY CONTAIN ITEMS TO BE SOLD BY THE STUDENT WHO IS REPRESENTING A COMPANY, I.E. AS A CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE. IN ALL CASES THE FINAL JUDGMENT OF WHETHER THE AD QUALIFIES FOR A FREE LISTING IS THAT OF THE CYNIC.

Representative Needed! Earn $200 + each semester with only a few hours work at the beginning of the semester. INTERNATIONAL MARKETING SERVICE, 519 Glenrock Avenue, Suite 203, Los Angeles, California 90024.

EARN UP TO $1500 a school year hanging posters on campus in spare time. Send name, address, phone and school to: Coordinator of Campus Representatives, P. O. Box 606, Ann Arbor, MI 48107. Call (313) 662-5575.

Kastle CPM Grand Prix New — Never used. Best offer. 658-2833.

WET SUITS WANTED: Any condition, men's and/or women's. Contact Tom Statz, Room 324 Life Sciences Bldg. (656-2930, ext. 45) or Al Coulter, Coolidge Hall (656-2593).

Need 2 people to share apartment $60-$70/mo. Phone 864-5262

For Sale. BSR 510 Auto turntable with sure cartridge and dustcover still like new. $35 Call Cliff 863-2948

Male needed to share lakefront house in Malletts Bay. Skating rink, X-C trails, own room $67 a month. Call 878-8298

Tape deck for sale TEAC 1230, excellent condition, dust cover, cleaning equipment, and mikes included. Cheap price. Call David 863-2466

Ski boots-size 12-Koflach-used twice-$35. Steve Call 658-4294.

For Sale. 1973 Vespa Ciao-motorized bicycle-only 42 miles-average number of miles per gallon-160. Contact Mark 410 Davis Hall Ext 2518.

GREAT INTRODUCTORY OFFER!..

FROM YOUR SMILING TAPE MAN

MEET MAD MAN MURRAY!

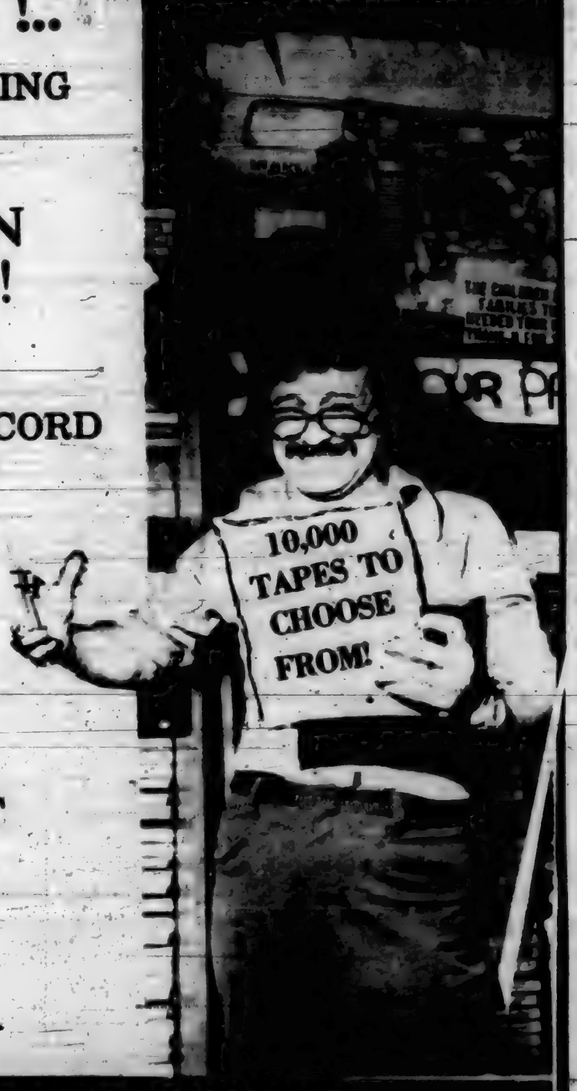
50¢ OFF ANY TAPE OR RECORD PURCHASED

Reg $2.99 for TAPES
Reg $3.99 for RECORDS

PLUS A FREE GIFT!...

GIANT 5 FOOT HOROSCOPE POSTER

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE CYNIC



WE DISCOUNT THE DISCOUNTERS

tape city, u.s.a.

RT. 7 AT BLAKELY ROAD, COLCHESTER, VT.

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK 10am to 10pm 879—0448

ENGINEERING • COMPUTER SCIENCE • MATHEMATICS

UNPRECEDENTED WORK . . .
UNPARALLELED OPPORTUNITY . . .

CAREERS AT THE NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY

Because of the nature and scope of the National Security Agency's mission, we can offer job challenge and career opportunities that are impossible to match.

AT NSA, we are responsible for designing and developing secure, invulnerable communications and EDP systems to transmit, receive and analyze much of our nation's most vital information. The advancing technologies applied in this work are such that they will frequently take you beyond the known and accepted boundaries of knowledge. Consequently, your imagination and resourcefulness are essential qualifications for success.

The Career Scene at NSA: Engineers will find work which is performed nowhere else . . . devices and systems are constantly being developed which are the most advanced in the Western World. As an Agency engineer, you will carry out research, design, development, testing and evaluation of sophisticated, large-scale cryptocommunication and EDP systems. You may also participate in related studies of electromagnetic propagation, upper atmosphere phenomena, and solid state devices using the latest equipment for advanced research within NSA's fully instrumented laboratories.

Mathematicians define, formulate and solve complex communications-related problems. Statistical mathematics, matrix algebra, and combinatorial analysis are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. Opportunities for contributions in computer sciences and theoretical research are also offered.

Computer Scientists participate in systems analysis and systems programming related to advanced scientific and operational applications. Software design and development is included, as well as support in hardware design, development and modification.

Starting salaries are based on education and experience, and increase as you assume additional responsibility. Further, you will enjoy the varied career benefits and other advantages of Federal employment without the necessity of Civil Service certification.

Check with your Placement Office for further information about NSA, or write to: Chief, College Relations Branch, National Security Agency, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20755, Attn: M321. An equal opportunity employer, M/F. NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY

Our representative will be on campus January 31, 1974

nsa

. . . WHERE IMAGINATION IS THE ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATION

«the do

Address letters to Dr. Arnold ... Box 974, East Lansing, MI ...

QUESTION: Many times after I have some pain on urination. The pain has after a week or so. I was checked for V... was negative. (Written by a woman).

ANSWER: Painful urination may be a ... kidney infection. When this occurs follo... you describe, it is often a sign that ... introduced into the bladder during ... infection has occurred. Such an infection ... and not be allowed to just disappear by it...

Women are more susceptible to urina... than men because the urethra (the tube ... the bladder out) is very short allowing ba... way into the bladder. This can occur fo... because of direct and vigorous stimulation ... the shaft of the penis.

In addition to treatment of the urina... which should take precedence, attempts ... prevent future infections. A careful ... urological should be made to determine ... abnormalities of the urethra or bladder ... to, such frequent infections in quite ... predisposing circumstances within the bl... it more susceptible to infection. Such w... pattern of urinating rather infrequently ... which permits large amounts of urine ... bladder much of the time, increasing ... bladder wall and disturbing its blood ... such women are advised to urinate every ... during the day. In addition, they ... immediately before having intercourse ... possible after having intercourse. This ... likelihood of bacteria growing.

Changes of position in sexual ac... stimulation of the urethra are ... physicians, but it is questionable as ... manuevers are effective since it is p... intercourse in any position that is satis... being some stimulation of that general a...

Career Inter...

Beginning with January 24, the Ca... Placement Office will be conducting On-... with visiting Employer Recruiters from ... Service, and various other agencies. Y... register with the Placement Service and ... very worthwhile program. The progr... benefit to seniors, graduate students, an...

Recruiting Period Number 1 and 2: J... 1, 1974. Sign up for interviews in the ... Mansfield House.

January 24 – The Badger Company. S...
January 29, 30, 31 – ACTION (Pe... Seeks. All academic areas.
January 30 – Xerox Corporation, ... Liberal Arts, Engineers.
January 31 – National Securit... Engineers, Math, Languages.
January 31 – Paul Revere Life Ins. ... Arts, Math, Accts.
February 1 – Hartford National Bank ... for Training Prog.
February 1 – Norton Company, ... Comm & Econ.

Complete Recruiting Schedules are ... Placement Office.

Dis...

Interested in writing style? Stop in at the Cynic Copy Department — we'd like to get to know you.

Discus... held at ... Burlingto... peace r... year old ... time is M... Wednesd... For mor... 658-4496

Wool...
THE FUN PLACE TO S...
10% OFF AL...
with presentat...
Store Hours: Monday... Saturd... Frida...
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED REPLAC...

The Good Courts
Student rates from $1.50 each
Doubles • Good Lessons
Step action TV available
courts • Attractive lounge Attended nursery • C... pro Shop • 24 Hour
Expert Advice • Ope...
8 AM-11 PM Sa...
Reserved Times a...

...ty photo of HUMPHREY BOGART

...nysterious Mystery

...ed dismally through that swinging mass, and yet ...noving them slightly what a spectacle. But did it ... of that day's work move? I was positive it did. ...oo much for me. My Again the limp arms showed ...re veritably "on signs of life. Was I mad? Did I ...oticed these things, see this? Was I, a respected ...ore. Shadows made reporter, losing control of my ...ously, but withdrew faculties? I could not move. I ...s of weird, ungainly stood there motionless, rigid as ...ned up before me, a post, but weak as a rat. My ...shed upon closer muscles refused to act. The ...heard foot-steps as skin of my face seemed to ...me object were draw tight, my head felt as ...ade me. I could see though every hair on it were ...sweyel. Again there erect, my eyes bulged from ...eps behind me, and their sockets. Again the body ...look backwards showed indications of life. ...nothing. Swaying toward the tree, it ...ahead of me was a deliberately stretched out its ...ating which was arms, reaching for the trunk. It ...with vague shadows was coming down, and there I ...mildly about. A high stood, almost directly in the ...near the road rose path it would probably take. I ...in the clearing. As I crouched in the shadows. I ...ng this place, I caught the expression of that ...ack of the moon face, as the light from the ...vainly to throw its moon struck it, and it was ...through the clouds hideous. It was void of the ...I saw a sight which semblance of any manly ...blood. There against quality. And now it seemed to ...was a form dangling be looking me through and ...ough of the lone pine through. Would it go up the ...a moment I was road? For a moment I made ...most senseless. This some hasty deductions. What if ...the place of the it should? What could I do? ...It was a horrible was powerless to move. If it did ...poor wretch's body. But it turned its back, and ...ed to the bough by a went down the road, back over ...ut the neck, and it the same route that I had just ...and fro with the traversed. When my faculties ...should I move? I returned. I was undecided what ...take my eyes from (continued on page twelve)

...TER SCIENCE • MATHEMATICS

...NITY ...

...IONAL

...AGENCY

...portunities for contributions in computer sciences and theoretical research are also offered.

Computer Scientists participate, to systems analysis and systems programming related to advanced scientific and operational applications. Software design and development is included, as well as support in hardware design, development and modification.

Starting salaries are based on education and experience, and increase as you assume additional responsibility. Further, you will enjoy the varied career benefits and other advantages of Federal employment without the necessity of Civil Service certification.

Check with your Placement Office for further information about NSA, or write to Chief, College Relations Branch, National Security Agency, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20755, Attn: M321. An equal opportunity employer. M-F. NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY.

Our representatives will be on campus January 31, 1974

nsa

WHERE IMAGINATION IS THE ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATION

«the doctor's bag»

by Arnold Werner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner, Box 974, East Lansing, Mi. 48823

QUESTION: Many times after I have intercourse I have some pain on urination. The pain has always gone away after a week or so. I was checked for VD last month and it was negative. (Written by a woman).

ANSWER: Painful urination may be a sign of a bladder or kidney infection. When this occurs following intercourse as you describe, it is often a sign that bacteria have been introduced into the bladder during intercourse and infection has occurred. Such an infection should be treated and not be allowed to just disappear by itself.

Women are more susceptible to urinary tract infections than men because the urethra (the tube carrying urine from the bladder out) is very short allowing bacteria to find their way into the bladder. This can occur following intercourse because of direct and vigorous stimulation of the urethra by the shaft of the penis.

In addition to treatment of the urinary tract infection which should take precedence, attempts must be made to prevent future infections. A careful examination by a urologist should be made to determine if there are any abnormalities of the urethra or bladder. A woman subject to such frequent infections is quite likely to have predisposing circumstances within the bladder which make it more susceptible to infection. Such women often have a pattern of urinating rather infrequently during the day which permits large amounts of urine to remain in the bladder much of the time, increasing pressure on the bladder wall and disturbing its blood supply. Therefore, such women are advised to urinate every two to three hours during the day. In addition, they should urinate immediately before having intercourse and as soon as possible after having intercourse. This will decrease the likelihood of bacteria growing.

Changes of position in sexual intercourse to avoid stimulation of the urethra are suggested by some physicians, but it is questionable as to whether such maneuvers are effective since it is pretty hard to have intercourse in any position that is satisfying without there being some stimulation of that general area.

QUESTION: I have noticed a white bubbly fuzzy collection of something in the drinking water I get from the tap after it stands for a few minutes. Also, the water sometimes appears slightly orange. What could produce fuzzy water? Is it harmful?

ANSWER: The fuzzy water stems mainly from the fact that you are probably drinking "hard" well water. The term hard, refers to the mineral content of the water and untreated well water contains a lot of stuff that will precipitate out in drinking glasses. In particular, if you use ice cubes in your drinking water you will get a tremendous amount of fuzz because the minerals in the water precipitate during freezing. None of this is harmful and in fact, some people feel strongly that hard water has some health advantages that soft water lacks. There is a small possibility that there is some detergent residue on your dishes which is causing foaming when you fill the glass with water. The likelihood of your drinking water being contaminated with detergent is not very high.

The orange color is due to rust. Most sources of drinking water contain ample amounts of rust which usually settles in pipes. Any disturbance of the pipes such as construction work or sudden increase in water pressure would churn up the rust and liberate it into the drinking water. This is also not dangerous.

••••••••••

QUESTION: How can you explain the somnolence which happens after lunch and what kind of person is subjected to this?

ANSWER: I cannot explain sleepiness which occurs after lunch. I do not even know much about what kind of person is affected, except that I am one of them.

••••••••••

QUESTION: Several weeks ago my boyfriend and I engaged in anal sex. Since then I have had a bad case of constipation. Drug store laxatives seem to have no effect on me. I was wondering if my experience of a couple of weeks ago could possibly be related to my present difficulties as I have never been greatly constipated before.

ANSWER: Anal intercourse can result in a tearing of the skin that lines the anal sphincter which would result in painful defecation until such tears are healed up. Painful defecation almost inevitably leads to constipation. On the other hand, anxiety can work wonders in producing constipation and lasts a great deal longer than it takes for a superficial skin tear to heal.

Anal intercourse without the use of a condom carries with it a very real risk of urethral infection in the man, serious vaginal or bladder infections in the woman can occur if genital intercourse follows under these conditions.

••••••••••

QUESTION: With food prices skyrocketing my roommate and I have sought various means of reducing food bills. Can humans eat dried dog food and is it good for you? Not being gourmets we are willing to try anything once. Also, do you have a brand which you particularly prefer? By the way, keep on printing the truth, but don't try to convince me "it" doesn't cause hair to grow on your palms.

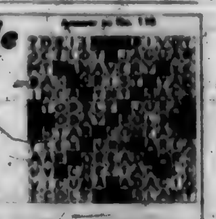
ANSWER: How discouraging, how absolutely discouraging. I sympathize completely with the difficulty of dealing with rising food prices, but to have to point out to me that you are not a gourmet while asking me about eating dried dog food, is too much. And then, you compound the insult by asking me if there is a brand that I personally prefer. Dog biscuits with a glass of milk when you return from class I could understand, but dog food for dinner, never!

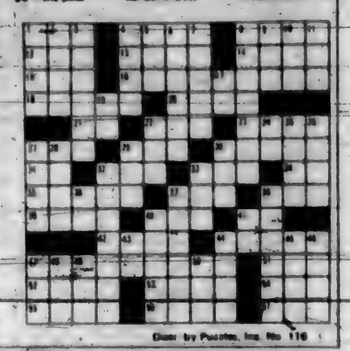
There are no federal standards of purity for animal foods as there are for human foods. Therefore, the likelihood of contamination with bacteria is higher. Much of the contamination occurs after the food is processed, since the processing itself has sterilizing effects. Canned dogfood is probably cleaner than the dried stuff. Dog food is also made from parts of animals considered at least esthetically unpleasant to contemplate eating, such as eyes, snouts, udders and intestines. Some of the animals used in feed have died of natural causes rather than having been slaughtered while healthy.

Nutritionally, dog food may be better than some terribly deficient human diets, but by no means would it be considered really adequate. The taste is also undesirable by most human standards, so by the time you doctored it up to make it palatable and nutritious, I doubt if you'd be saving any money. You would be better off using one of the many available cook books featuring inexpensive menus. Sources of free information about food are Cooperative Extension Services from your local Agricultural college and Office of Information, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250.

If I take your last comment literally, it's less a matter of masturbation causing hair to grow on your palms than it is a matter of not doing "it" leading one to eat dog food.

crossword puzzle





Puzzle by Pantex, Inc. No. 110

cryptoquote

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow
twvonmttwe

In this example, t has been substituted for L, w for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

CJU EZX IQBHGMOJBJHOVX MAN YO NGYB FGVX JFH EQPRAX NGYB JHXFGQHV:
IBYPX CJHHXBF

Solution in next week's Cynic.

Career Interviews

Beginning with January 24, the Career Planning and Placement Office will be conducting On-Campus Interviews with visiting Employer Recruiters from industry, Federal Service, and various other agencies. You are invited to register with the Placement Service and participate in this very worthwhile program. The program is of possible benefit to seniors, graduate students, and recent graduates.

Recruiting Period Number 1 and 2: January 24-February 1, 1974. Sign up for interviews in the Placement Office, Mansfield House.

January 24 – The Badger Company, Seeks Engineers.

January 29, 30, 31 – ACTION (Peace Corps & Vista), Seeks: All academic areas.

January 30 – Xerox Corporation, Seeks Business and Liberal Arts, Engineers.

January 31 – National Security Agency, Seeks Engineers, Math, Languages.

January 31 – Paul Revere Life Ins. Co., Seeks Liberal Arts, Math, Accts.

February 1 – Hartford National Bank, Seeks Liberal Arts for Training Prog.

February 1 – Norton Company, Seeks Engineering, Comm & Econ.

Complete Recruiting Schedules are available in the Placement Office.

Discussions

Interested in writing style? Stop in at the Cynic Copy Department – we'd like to get to know you.

Discussions are now being held at 127 Edgemoor Dr., Burlington, on the inner peace revealed by sixteen year old Guru Maharaj Ji. The time is Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights at 7:30. For more information, call 658-4496.

ACTION...

(continued from page nine)

of 1973, 90 applications were distributed, and 37 were returned completed, 21 for the Peace Corps and ten for Vista. The popularity of volunteer programs has experienced a steady rise since 1967. Last year there were 55,000 applications, 13,000 of which were selected for the Peace Corps and Vista programs.

While the Peace Corps and Vista have traditionally been the most widely recognized programs, ACTION has recently created the "University Year for Action" to generate more interest on college campus in volunteer action. UYA combines voluntary action with the educational process, enabling a student to earn academic credit for a full time, uninterrupted 12 month period of service with an agency in a poor neighborhood. The program operates at 24 colleges and universities one of which is UVM. Here on campus UYA is celebrating its second anniversary this January. Presently, there are 50 UYA volunteers from a variety of academic backgrounds.

Fired Professors...

(continued from page one)

several alternatives for his future, has contacted people in Washington in the hopes of getting some political support for the case.

Bob Rice has taken an entirely different approach to the situation. After being officially notified of his dismissal by President Andrews, Rice decided to change careers.

Not planning any sort of court battle, he is working towards a degree in veterinary technology.

Rice still feels, however, that the charges against him have been trumped up. He explained his reasons for not going to court: "By looking over the court cases of the past few years, I see that non-tenured faculty members have no rights. I've also always had other interests. So, I'm almost eager to do something else."

Little Feedback..

(continued from page one)

reaction as "uniformed lethargy". He hoped that students would hasten to involve themselves with the four-day week.

The move to the four-day week, a result of a 20 per cent decrease in UVM's fuel allocation, triggered discussion of new alternatives to the school calendar. Patterson said that UVM could consider the possibility of holding classes on a Monday-Tuesday-Thursday-Friday schedule instead of a Tuesday through Friday schedule.

With reference to the energy situation, Patterson felt "There is no reason to think that things are going to change," and added, "I think we'll make it."

Emphasizing that the administration would deal with student attitudes once they were accessible to them, the Vice President said, "We will deal with someone who wants to gather ideas and sort them."

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7886
FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS
• Fine work on American cars • Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JOB
Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional. $49.95
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95 Spin Balance $8.50 per Wheel
Front End Alignment $13.

Woolworth
THE FUN PLACE TO SHOP FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY
48 Church Street, Burlington
10% OFF ALL PURCHASES with presentation of college I.D.
until Jan. 31
Store Hours: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday 9:30 am to 6:00 pm
Friday 9:30 am – 9:00 pm
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED REPLACEMENT OR MONEY REFUNDED

The Good Course!
Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons – Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den Pro Shop – 24-Hour Stringing Service Expert Advice • Open 8 AM-12 M Weekdays – 9 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays. Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates
TWIN OAKS TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Ext. S.B. Tel. 862-0459

FOR A FORMAL RELATIONSHIP
The engagement ring marks the next stage in your love story. When you are ready to select your diamond and its mounting, please come in. Our collection of styles is large. Our prices will fit your budget.
PRICES START UNDER $100.00
YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT
Prices start from under $100
F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.
17 UPPER CHURCH STREET • BURLINGTON

OUR LOWEST PRICES
CROSS COUNTRY PACKAGES
SKIIS BY FISCHER, HEAD, BASS
TROLL 3-PIN BINDINGS
BONNA POLES
TRYSIL BOOTS MOUNTING
$64.95
HICKORY BASE SKI PACKAGE
COMPLETE WITH POLES, BOOTS, BINDINGS
$54.95
DOWNHILL PACKAGE
HEAD GK03 SKI Reg. $120.00
BARRECRAFTER POLES Reg. $7.25
MARKER ROTOMAT BINDING Reg. $45.00
VALUE $172.25
SALE $99.95
Swiss Chalet
40 Pearl St., Essex Jct.
878-8991

Soccer Co-Captains Named

Junior Rick Taylor (Ho-Ho-Kus, N.J.) and sophomore Bob Cleverdon (Wellesley, Mass.), have been named co-captains of the 1974 Vermont soccer team, it was announced at the annual post-season dinner, Dec. 11. Taylor, a lineman, had one goal and one assist for the 5-8 Catamounts, while Cleverdon scored three goals a registered one assist. Both are linemen. Captain Chris Chappell was presented the Hal Grieg Award, while fullback Brad Rixford was voted the MVP by his teammates. Chappell missed the entire year because of an ankle injury received skiing last year.

SPEAKING OF HOCKEY

by Bob Wilensky

After defeating Division I RPI last Saturday night by the score of 7-2 the high flying Ice Cats travelled to Danvers, Mass. to take on undefeated Salem State in a Division II contest. The Vikings were undefeated in ten previous starts with big Division II wins over Williams, Massachusetts, Boston State, Middlebury, and St. Anselms twice. But unfortunately for the Vikings, there was no joy in Danvers. Salem took a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period. Kiely was beaten on a well executed two on one breakaway. But with the help of a strong Vermont defense, Kiely shut them out for the rest of the evening, as the Cats won the game 4-1.

The second period was all Vermont as they put three of their shots on the scoreboard. Koch was awarded a freak goal that was actually put in by the Salem defense. Tim O'Connell received the assist at 4:19. Ted Castle scored the prettiest goal of the contest at 6:25 of the period. With Vermont having the man advantage Castle skated in on his left, went around the defense with some great moves and put it past the Salem goaltender. Willie "Ace" MacKinnon continued his scoring string at 15:09 when he put in a rebound. Bill Spence skated across the blue line and left the puck for defenseman John Glynne. Glynne took a hard slap shot that was on goal and Willie was there to finish the play.

In the final stanza Roger Mallette, playing with a fractured wrist, scored the last goal of the game. After receiving a pass from O'Connell, Mallette streaked down the left side and ripped a slap shot past the Salem goalie. That goal came at 9:11.

Salem State is a good team that skated well against Vermont but they are simply not in the same class. They are a very young team and in the future this reporter feels that they will be the big team to beat in Division II.

Defensemen Child, Murphy, Yeates, Glynne, and Curtis played a solid hard checking game and Kiely was again spectacular in the nets. This reporter disagrees sharply with the Burlington Free Press on their first star selection. I picked Michel Lebeau as the first star because of his outstanding skating and forechecking. Michel was all over the ice stealing the puck from Salem skaters and moving well in front of the Salem net. Although he was unable to score, Lebeau was the most spectacular player in the game by far. He played like a pro for a full sixty minutes.

Ted Castle leads the Cats with 13 goals followed by MacKinnon with 11. MacKinnon is averaging a goal a game. Tonight the Cats square off with Division II Colby at Gutterson.

Dear Flabby

Dear Flabby,

I'm an 18-year old freshman, and in my short time here at UVM I've run into a real whopper of a bad scene. On first moving into my room in W-D-W, I was really looking forward to meeting my roommate. I hoped we could become good friends, going on double dates and things like that. But when I did meet her (I'll call her Kim), I found her to be a little strange. In the first place, Kim is about 6'3" and weighs over 200 lbs. She also has a low, gravelly voice, sideburns, and the beginnings of a beard. Her taste in clothes surprised me, to say the least. She likes to wear mauve hot pants, a matching tank top, and a black velvet choker.

At first I felt sorry for Kim with her hairy belly button and unsightly facial growth which forced her to shave every few days. But one night when the moon was full, I came back to the room unexpectedly and, finding Kim lying naked on the bed, I noticed a strange appendage between her legs. I'm not sure, never having been a man naked before, but like that red ball of fire that peaks its head over the mountains each morning, it has dawned on me that Kim may not be a girl like myself.

You can imagine how this has me worried. Now don't call me a prude. It's not that I'm afraid of sex, but I have trouble going to sleep at nights now for fear of what Kim might try to do. At the same time I'm afraid to go to any university officials and try to have my room changed because it is well known that Kim's father works in the Office of Residence Halls.

What should I do?

Signed
Prudish From Poughkeepsie

Dear Prudence,

Won't you come mit to play. Oooops, wrong letter.

Dear Prudish,

Your letter fits into a vast category of letters I've been receiving from students all over the country. It seems to be a current fad among many college girls to try growing such appendages in their spare time. Many psychologists attribute this to a phenomenon known as latent penis envy. This could be the case with your roommate. If so, you have nothing to worry about, and your best policy is to let her outgrow it. Cases have even been documented in which these appendages have fallen off after a while. If such a separation does occur, be sure to have Kim place it under her pillow before she goes to sleep at night and the great appendage fairy will come and take it, leaving a giant molar in its place.

It's also possible, I'm afraid, that Kim really is a boy. If that's the case, and if what you say about his father working in the Housing office is true, I'd say you're in real trouble, sister, and your best bet is to go to the Infirmary and get on the pill immediately.

Fuel Levels May Hurt Colleges: Financial Stability Threatened

by Cheryl M. Fields
From the Chronicle of Higher Education

Washington

Reduced allotments and higher prices for fuel are prompting fears of new setbacks for the financial stability of colleges and universities.

At a hearing held by the Senate Subcommittee on Education, Stephen K. Bailey, vice-president of the American Council of Education, testified that in recent months "there was a mild sense of euphoria as many institutions pulled themselves from the brink of bankruptcy and achieved balanced or near-balanced budgets. But whatever equilibrium between income and expense has been achieved is a fragile one. It appears to us that the energy crisis may shatter it."

Federal regulations covering the allocation of gasoline and heating fuels go into effect tomorrow, with colleges being treated essentially the same as private residences and businesses.

Institutions using residual fuel oils, such as No. 4, No. 5, and No. 6 grades, will be allotted 100 per cent of the amount they used in the corresponding month of 1973 — except that a 6-degree temperature reduction in living units and a 10-degree reduction in other buildings, must be maintained.

The Federal Energy Office will require only a 6-degree reduction in elementary and secondary-school classrooms, but agency officials indicated they felt that college students should be treated the same as adults working in offices and stores.

Medical and nursing buildings that use residual fuels, however, will be allotted 100 per cent of their current requirements and will not have to maintain substantially lower temperatures.

The federal regulations do not specify how universities that have hospitals or other medical or scientific facilities on their campuses should cope with the differing requirements. College association officials here said they expected individual institutions would have to work out such problems with their local fuel suppliers.

Final federal regulations for the distribution of motor gasoline and middle-distillate fuels such as kerosene and diesel fuel were to be published late last week. It was expected that nonprofit users of motor gasoline would be able to get the same amount they used last year, 100 per cent of their last year's usage, minus the same 6-degree and 10-degree reductions necessary for residual-fuel-oil users.

John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office, told the Senate education subcommittee that state energy officials would try to be flexible in hardship cases, especially where thermostats had been set low last year.

He also asked that college officials discourage the use of private cars by students and faculty members where possible.

Mr. Sawhill acknowledged concerns that rising gasoline and heating-oil prices would cost already hard-pressed institutions millions of extra dollars.

William E. Simon, administrator of the Federal Energy Office, has predicted that gasoline and heating oil prices will rise at least another ten cents a gallon by March 1. Gasoline prices already have risen in many parts of the country since the government allowed wholesale price increases to be passed along to retailers and consumers.

The final regulations will allow educational institutions using middle-distillate fuels to be flexible in hardship cases, especially where thermostats had been set low last year.

While the increased costs of fuel in the general economy can be passed on to the consumer, the American Council on Education's Mr. Bailey said, "with the tuition that many institutions must charge already sky-high and in danger of pricing higher education out of the market for increasing numbers of students, we do not see price increases as a viable solution."

"Looking ahead, the Congress and our state legislatures may well have to examine possible solutions to postsecondary education's financial crisis that go far beyond any public policy yet conceived," Mr. Bailey suggested.

"The time may be near at hand when some substantial additional public underwriting of both public and private postsecondary education in America — similar to arrangements that exist in every other advanced industrial nation in the world — may have to be put in effect. The American Council is already at work on responsible designs for such a major shift in public policy."

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, in a statement to the subcommittee, said colleges' increased operational costs might be passed on in the form of higher tuition rates next fall and might "require revisions in our level of aid to institutions, as well as the funding levels for student financial aid."

UVM Ski Club News

UVM, the college ski capitol of the world, has finally got a functioning ski club. Through the efforts of two graduate students and many undergraduates, the skis are turning. Membership has risen to over 75 students. To become a member, one has only to obtain a membership card for $1.00 at the next organization meeting, Tuesday, January 29, in the MAT Lounge.

At this point the membership entitles a student to ski at Smuggler's Notch Ski Area and return to campus for $8.00 ($2.00 for the bus and $6.00 for a lift ticket). Buses are leaving Saturdays and Mondays at 8:15 am in front of Gutterson Fieldhouse. For $9 at this time you can become a member and go skiing that day.

The future is limitless. Projects that are being organized now include a Ski Seminar Week from February 17 to February 21 in conjunction with A. C. E. (Alternative Center of Education) and a trip to Colorado over the Spring break (March 25 to April 1). Come ski with us!

UVM-UMass . . .

(continued from page thirteen)

pole vault, Mark Iverson vaulted 13'0" to tie for second place with Richard Boucher of Fed. D'Athelet. The men's open high jump featured the talented Nate Reeves, who jumped 6'4" to capture third place. The next meet will be at home this Saturday January 26, at 3:00 p.m. against UMass.

Track Team

(continued from page thirteen)

very often. There was little aggressiveness off the boards. Green and Joe Greco could not combat the overall board strength on the UMass squad. Vermont missed Charlie Tripani, out with a hand injury. He could have helped cut down the number of easy shots UMass got off from close range.

The next home game is this Saturday against another Yankee Conference rival, the University of Connecticut, who gave UMass a good game before losing 79-72 and also upset nationally ranked Syracuse, 61-60. Game time is at 3 p.m. at Patrick Gym.

Speed Skating Club Opens

by David J. Raneri

For several months now a group of very interested people here in the Burlington and Essex Junction area have successfully formed a speed skating club open to the community.

It seems that the sport of speed skating in Vermont has been in moth balls too long and those people interested are doing something about it. Looking back to two years ago when the 1972 Winter Olympics were held, this fascinating and unusual competition stirred many spectators to participate.

Here in Vermont the newly established Essex Junction speed skating club is trying to encourage people interested in speed skating by providing ice time and easy access to purchasing the proper equipment. Some people respond to all of this by saying "Oh no! That's not for me." Well, you won't know unless you come to see the club in action every Friday night at Essex Junction rink from 5:45 p.m. to 6:45 p.m. If you are interested in the club, please contact Barb Fullem, 656-3870, or Dave Raneri, 656-2911.

Unmysterious Mystery . . .

(continued from page ten)

to do. The perspiration stood out upon me in large beads. My curiosity, however, overcame my timidity, and I decided to watch its motions from a safe distance in the rear.

The body walked rather sullenly, the head bowed slightly forward, and the rope trailing behind. I followed at a considerable distance, proceeding cautiously and on one side of the road, shadowed as much as possible by the trees. We passed farms, barns and houses, and finally put the hotel behind our backs. Soon after, the form turned on to a side street. The hour was evidently late, as all the houses were dark and no one was stirring. Suddenly the body left the road, and walked up to the steps of a little house. Here lived the ring-leader of the mob which had lynched this victim. What was this soulless form planning to do? What would it say? Could the ringleader stand such a shock? The form started to enter the house, and I hurried up to get in with it, fearing otherwise I could not see this scene. Just as I was mounting the steps, it turned upon me, every feature of its countenance deeply stamped with rage. It was a sight which I hope to never see again. I answered with a terrified cry, which sprang from the very depths of my lungs.

Then I heard some one afar off speaking. I was wet with perspiration. I had clenched my fists so tightly that my hands were stamped, and the skin in the palms was cut and bleeding. The proprietor stood before me, apologizing profusely, but explained that his five other guests could not sleep with such noises going on down stairs. Glad to be relieved of my late strain, I thanked him for waking me, and started for my room. As I went up stairs, I heard him muttering pointedly to himself — "These 'fool reporters' dreams must be as spirited as their reports."

"Heinie-Luft"
March 11, 1905

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE
Retail outlet
FANTASTIC SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES, AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS
145 EAST ALLEN ST.
WINOOSKI, VT.
(at the rear of Frank's Texaco)
OPEN 10 TO 10 DAILY 12 TO 9 SUNDAY
655-2620

DON'T FIGHT THE FEELING X-C PACKAGE
of the YEAR for the YEAR

SKIS - Finnish made, light touring	$36.00
BOOTS - Norwegian made leather	$36.00
POLES - Tonkin	$8.00
BINDINGS - 3 pin, troll or villom	$8.00
INSTALLATION	$3.00
TOTAL VALUE	$91.00

1/2 PRICE
$45.50 while stock lasts
Yaluga Sports
1200 Shelburne Rd. South Burlington, Vt. 862-7551
M-F OPEN 9-9 Sat. 9-5
One Mile South Of Burlington On Route 7

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER
Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

HAS THE WAR ENDED?
For many American students, the Battle of Southeast Asia has ended, but the battle within the hearts of her people—the pains of sickness, hunger, fear and death rage on with horrendous force.
Americans view the signs of Southeast Asia as symptomatic of the global condition.
American missioners labor through subhuman conditions around the globe. We perpetuate the battle—to liberate the struggling masses from the causes of wars.
NO MORE WAR! WAR NEVER AGAIN! Let us work for that goal by delivering the structures that oppress and exploit mankind.
EXAMINE OUR MISSION explore a new and exciting training program for future volunteers. Will you volunteer?
For your free copy of EXAMINE OUR MISSION write: Maryknoll Seminary, Chestnut Hill, Mass. 02167
NAME
STREET
CITY STATE ZIP
TVC

TORTILLA FLAT
317 Riverside Avenue
ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

*Tostada Plate With Rice	$1.95
*Combination Plate Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans	$2.35
*Special Combination Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada Guacomole Salad, Rice & Beans	$3.45
*Tamale Plate Chili, Rice and Beans	$1.95
*Taco Plate (2) Beef and Chicken	$1.95
*Enchilada Plate (2) Plate Cheese, Beef and Chicken	$2.00
*Two franks and chili	$1.95
*Chicken and rice	$1.95

We Have Take Out Service
Telephone 863-9230
TORTILLA FLAT
317 Riverside Avenue

U.V.M.

Ken Yeat

Cats Beat

by Gene Goldberg

The University of Vermont Ice Cats continued their drive towards a possible Division I journey berth with a convincing 7-2 victory over RPI last Saturday at the Field House in Troy. A near capacity crowd of 4900 watched as Vermont sandwiched seven consecutive goals in between a pair by the Engineers. The Cats showed great balance with seven different players credited with scores.

RPI opened the scoring with the East's leading scorer, Barry Martinelli, notching one at 11:49. RPI seemed to gain momentum after killing a penalty and then Vermont failed to clear the puck, Don Hearns fed Martinelli in the crease.

The Engineers lead lasted about six minutes before the Cats drew even. At 17:19 of the period, Willie Mackinnon picked up a rebound and fired into the left side of the net. Ted Castle started the play by carrying over the RPI Blue line and feeding Bill Spence who let go the shot. Both were credited with assists.

In the second period, the Cats broke it open with three goals in the space of one minute. The outburst was preceded by a goal from Bill Koch at 10:24. Tim O'Connell the right Don Cus back to Mallette's by Koch a The bar when Jack an RPI puck at pushed on-charging Michel Le assist

Forty scored af team MacKinno on Curtis at 16:26 the onsla breakaway over the Curtis Th made him for th Calamour

Ted Ch period w from the post and bewilder MacKinno with so ling

Vermo scored working brought zone wi and seco his stick

UVM Clav

by Fred Coombs

The UVM Hockey Team returned to Gutterson Field House and Division II competition on Wednesday, January 16. It was a close contest as the Cats clawed the Middlebury Panthers into a 4-2 defeat.

Tim O'Connell got the Cats off on the right paw when he took a John Murphy pass, beat the left defenseman and wristed it past goalie Larry Perlman's right side, at 5:18.

Middlebury tied it at one apiece as Mark Ceglarski banged in a rebound off Kiely, at 14:20. Bad passing by UV Perlman 13 saves Bill S rebound screamer converte at 3:36 f

Middle powerpla Leary do Kiely

The C good on as Willie pass prompti

Track Team Goes To Dartmouth

by David J. Raneri

On Saturday January 19, the UVM Indoor Track Team traveled to Hanover New Hampshire to participate in the Dartmouth Relays. Since the first indoor meet on December 8, there have been a lot of great improvements in performances.

In the running events there were some outstanding achievements. In the men's open 880 yard run, Rich Clark placed fifth with an impressive time of 1:58.7. Then in the mile relay, UVM took second place in 3:31.9. One of the most exciting highlights of the day was in the two mile event when the distance ace, Mike Berry placed first in his heat and third overall with a personal best of 9:21. The consistent runner, Lynn Capen, placed fifth with 9:32.0.

In the women's 60 yard event there was an outstanding run by Marty Pain who placed second in her heat in 7.9, and later that evening placed fifth in the finals.

There were some excellent performances in the field events. In the 35 pound weight throw, co-captain Mike Bilow tossed 48'8" for a first place and in the men's open shot put he took a third with a throw of 47'0". In the

(continued on page twelve)

Levels May Hurt Colleges: ncial Stability Threatened

yl M Fields
hronicle of Higher

Washington
allotments and es for fuel are fears of new or the financial f colleges and

rning held by the bcommittee on Stephen K
-president of the Council of testified that in the "there was a
of euphoria as stitutions pulled from the brink of and achieved
w near-balanced
But whatever between income ose has been a fragile one It s that the energy
hatter is."
regulations n allocation of heating fuels go tomorrow, with being treated e same as private d businesses
s using residual as No. 4, No. 5, grades, will be
per cent of the y used in the month of 1973 hat a 6-degree reduction in and a 10-degree
other buildings
tained.
al Energy Office only a 6-degree elementary and hool classrooms fficials indicated college students ated the same as g in offices and

and nursing at the residual ever, will be per cent of their rements and will to maintain ality lower

al regulations do how universities ospitals or other cientific facilities campuses should the differing ity College
fficials here said cted individual would have to ch problems with el suppliers.
deral regulations ribution of motor middle-distillate as kerosene and were to be ie last week It
d that nonprofit or gasoline would get the same used last year
nt of their last minus the same and 10-degree necessary for residual-fuel-oil users.

John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office, told the Senate education subcommittee that state energy officials would try to be flexible in hardship cases especially where thermostats had been set low last year.

He also asked that college officials discourage the use of private cars by students and faculty members where possible.

Mr. Sawhill acknowledged concerns that rising gasoline and heating oil prices would cost already hard-pressed institutions millions of extra dollars.

William E. Simon, administrator of the Federal Energy Office, has predicted that gasoline and heating oil

The final regulations will allow educational institutions using middle-distillate fuels priced will rise at least another ten cents a gallon by March 1. Gasoline prices already have risen in many parts of the country since the government allowed wholesale price increases to be passed along to retailers and consumers.

While the increased costs of fuel in the general economy can be passed on to the consumer, the American Council on Education's Mr. Bailey said, "with the tuition that many institutions must charge already sky-high and in danger of pricing higher education out of the market for increasing numbers of students, we do not see price increases as a viable solution."

"Looking ahead, the Congress and our state legislatures may well have to examine possible solutions to postsecondary education's financial crisis that go far beyond any public policy yet conceived," Mr. Bailey suggested.

"The time may be near at hand when some substantial additional public underwriting of both public and private postsecondary education in America — similar to arrangements that exist in every other advanced industrial nation in the world — may have to be put in effect. The American Council is already at work on responsible designs for such a major shift in public policy."

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, in a statement to the subcommittee, said colleges' increased operational costs might be passed on in the form of higher tuition rates next fall and might "require revisions in our level of aid to institutions, as well as the funding levels for student financial aid."

ysterious Mystery . . .

rom page ten)

perspiration stood n large beads. My wever, overcame and I decided to tions from a safe rear.
walked rather head bowed d, and the rope
I followed at a le distance, utiously and on road, sheltered possible by the trees. We passed farms, barns and houses, and finally put the hotel behind our backs. Soon after, the form turned on to a side street. The hour was evidently late, as all the houses were dark and no one was stirring. Suddenly the body left the road, and walked up to the steps of a little house. Here lived the ring-leader of the mob which had lynched this victim. What was this countess form planning to do? What would it say? Could the ringleader stand such a shock? The form started to enter the house, and I hurried up to get in with it, fearing otherwise I could not see this scene. Just as I was mounting the steps, it turned upon me, every feature of its countenance deeply stamped with rage. It was a sight which I hope to never see again. I answered with a terrified cry, which sprang from the very depths of my lungs.

Then I heard some one afar off speaking. I was wet with perspiration. I had clenched my fists so tightly that my hands were cramped, and the skin in the palms was cut and bleeding. The proprietor stood before me, apologizing profusely, but explained that his five other guests could not sleep with such noises going on down stairs. Glad to be relieved of my late strain, I thanked him for waking me, and started for my room. As I went up stairs, I heard him muttering pointedly to himself, "These 'foul reporters' dreams must be as spirited as their reports."

"Home-Loft"
March 11, 1905

JOY
Finest
AN FOOD
$1.95
$2.35
$3.45
$1.95
$1.95
$2.00
$1.95
$1.95
RTILLA
FLAT
317 Riverside
Avenue

U.V.M. SPORTS

Ken Yeates scores a goal against RPI Photo: B. Deming

Cats Beat RPI Again

by Gene Goldberg

The University of Vermont Ice Cats continued their drive towards a possible Division I tourney berth with a convincing 7-2 victory over RPI last Saturday at the Field House in Troy. A near capacity crowd of 4900 watched as Vermont sandwiched seven consecutive goals in between a pair by the Engineers. The Cats showed great balance with seven different players credited with scores.

RPI opened the scoring with the East's leading scorer, Barry Martinelli, notching one at 11:49. RPI seemed to gain momentum after killing a penalty and when Vermont failed to clear the puck, Don Hearns fed Martinelli in the crease.

The Engineers lead lasted about six minutes before the Cats drew even. At 17:19 of the period, Willie Mackinnon picked up a rebound and fired into the left side of the net. Ted Castle started the play by carrying over the RPI Blue line and feeding Bill Spence who let go the shot. Both were credited with assists.

In the second period, the Cats broke it open with three goals in the space of one minute. The outburst was preceded by a goal from Bill Koch at 10:24. Tim O'Connell won a face off to the right of RPI goaltender Don Cutts and dropped it back to Roger Mallette. Mallette's shot was picked up by Koch and driven home.

The barrage began at 15:46 when Jack Clifford outskated an RPI defensemen to the puck at the blueline and pushed it between the on-charging Cutt's legs. Michel Lebeau was given the assist.

Forty seconds later Castle scored after being set up by team scoring leader MacKinnon. Castle cruised in on Cutts' left and lit the lamp at 16:26. Ken Yeates closed the onslaught at 16:47 on a breakaway with a high shot over the goalies shoulder. Cutts' flopping style of play made him easy prey all night for the sharp-shooting Catamount sextet.

Ted Child opened the third period when his low drive from the point caught the far post and dropped by the bewildered Cutts. Castle and Mackinnon set up the play with some nice stick-handling.

Vermont's final goal was scored at 7:36 by hard working John Glynne who brought the puck into the zone with a rink long dash and seconds later found it on his stick in front. His back hand shot rolled over the line with some help from an RPI defensemen. Mallette was credited with his third assist of the night on the play.

Martinelli closed out the scoring with his second goal at 16:38, one second after an RPI power play ended. Continued pressure and the failure of UVM to clear led to the goal.

In the nets for Vermont was senior John Kiely. He again had an excellent night with 31 saves, several in spectacular fashion. Peter Reynolds and Tom MacNamara relieved Kiely late in the game. With the exception of some trouble breaking out of their zone, Vermont played a fine team game and the outlook continues bright.

The win gave the Catamounts an 11-2 overall record and a perfect 5-0 slate against Division I competition. It was the Cats second win over RPI this season. Vermont has 14 games remaining and each one is important but the sixth rated Cats and their fans will be looking forward to that January 30 clash with third rated New Hampshire.

UVM's next tilt is this evening at eight against Colby followed by a Saturday afternoon game at Hamilton.

UVM Claws Panthers 4-2

by Fred Coombs

The UVM Hockey Team returned to Gutterson Field House and Division II competition on Wednesday, January 16. It was a close contest as the Cats clawed the Middlebury Panthers into a 4-2 defeat.

Tim O'Connell got the Cats off on the right paw when he took a John Murphy pass, beat the left defenseman and wristed it past goalie Larry Periman's right side, at 5:18.

Middlebury tied it at one apiece as Mark Cegiarski banged in a rebound off Kiely, at 14:20. Bad passing by UVM set up the goal. Periman and Kiely both had 13 saves in the first period.

Bill Spence knocked in a rebound off a Ted Castle screamer as the Cats converted on the powerplay, at 3:36 in the second period.

Middlebury scored on the powerplay at 14:49 as Jack Leary downed a shot past Kiely.

The Cats took the lead for good, on a two on two break, as Willie MacKinnon dropped a pass for Castle, who promptly tickled the twine from 15 feet, at 16:09.

MacKinnon wrapped up the scoring at 9:13 of the third period, when he flicked the puck in the net to Periman's left with a winging wrist shot.

The Cats outshot Middlebury 36-29 with all lines looking good. UVM plays at Middlebury on February 20 in a rematch that promises to be another competitive game in this Vermont state rivalry. Of course, until then, the Cats face strong opposition in Division I.

Track Team Goes To Dartmouth

by David J. Raneri

On Saturday January 19, the UVM Indoor Track Team traveled to Hanover New Hampshire to participate in the Dartmouth Relays. Since the first indoor meet on December 8, there have been a lot of great improvements in performances.

In the running events there were some outstanding achievements. In the men's open 880 yard run, Rich Clark placed fifth with an impressive time of 1:58.7. Then in the mile relay, UVM took second place in 3:31.9. One of the most exciting highlights of the day was in the two mile event when the distance ace, Mike Berry placed first in his heat and third overall with a personal best of 9:31. The consistent runner, Lynn Capen, placed fifth with 9:32.0.

In the women's 60 yard event there was an outstanding run by Marty Fam who placed second in her heat in 7.9, and later that evening placed fifth in the finals.

There were some excellent performances in the field events. In the 35 pound weight throw, co-captain Mike Bilsta tossed 48'8" for a first place and in the men's open shot-put he took a third with a throw of 47'0". In the

(continued on page twelve)

SCHWARTZ ON SPORTS

by Mike Schwartz

While the students went home Catamount sports teams did not get a rest. Of major importance was the performance of the hockey team. Recent games have vaulted the Cats to sixth place in the national rankings. Only New Hampshire, ranked third, has a higher ranking among Eastern colleges. In St. Louis, UVM upset St. Louis University 4-3 in overtime after tieing the score in the last eight second of regulation play. It was St. Louis' first home loss in 18 games. St. Louis won the second game 4-3 but had to score three goals in the last eight minutes to avert a possible second upset in a row. This performance put Vermont into the national spotlight and even an article in the New York Times. Other hockey scores were a 9-2 rout of Northeastern and a 5-4 squeaker over Boston State. In the coming weeks the Cats attempt to defend their Division II crown or perhaps gain the chance to play in the Division I post-season playoffs.

The basketball team has also been on the road over the holidays. The results were disappointing but the experience of playing top national talent remains an asset. Against nationally ranked Vanderbilt, the Cats lost 91-56 and against Georgia they lost by 88-55. An earlier southern trip saw losses to North Carolina and North Carolina State. In two Yankee Conference games the Cats lost to New Hampshire 53-44 and to Connecticut 69-56. The basketball team must strive for consistency and better offense. They are averaging but 57 points a game and shooting only 39 percent. With the trips south a worthwhile experience of the past, the coming weeks present the challenge of improving the Yankee Conference record and gaining consistency against nonconference opponents the team can be expected to defeat.

Other sports are hitting full swing as the semester begins. The skiing season goes full tilt as the many carnivals on the Eastern ski schedule take place. UVM hopes to defend its Eastern crown and perhaps improve last year's third year finish in the national championships. The feature is the UVM carnival the first week in February. The swim team will have two home meets in January and hope to start a new winning streak that was broken last December by Maine. The track schedule features a number of dual meets including Massachusetts and Dartmouth. There are also many invitational meets on the schedule. With gymnastics, JV Hockey, and women's swimming among the other sports, the winter sports scene has more than enough to please any sports fan. Over the semester I hope to feature many of these teams on the sports pages of the Cynic so that the entire campus knows what is happening in the total variety of sport at UVM.

New Starting Game Times

Due to the change in our 1974 spring class schedule, our VARSITY BASKETBALL AND HOCKEY games scheduled for 7:30 P.M. will now start at 8:00 P.M. The Varsity basketball and hockey games that have an afternoon starting time will remain at the originally scheduled time. THIS CHANGE ONLY AFFECTS THE EVENING GAMES.

Intramural Results

INTRAMURAL COED RACQUETBALL (DOUBLES) TOURNAMENT WINNERS

Mary Dee/Robert Merritt defeated Charlotte Copswell/David Kashulines, 21-8, 21-8.

Ski Bus

A special ski bus to Smuggler's Notch will leave Patrick Gym at 8:40 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday, January 26 and 27. Round trip $3.

UMass Routs Vermont Five

Terry Green lays it in as UMass star Al Skinner watches.

by Al Patashnick SPS Photo: Richard Law

A very determined University of Massachusetts basketball team handed Vermont its eighth straight defeat by easily defeating the Catamounts 92-64 last Saturday at Patrick Gym. The loss drops the Cats' record to 2-9 overall, and 2-5 in the Yankee Conference. UMass is now 10-1 overall, the loss at the hands of nationally ranked Eastern powerhouse Providence by a 77-76 score.

The Minutemen displayed a fine inside game as they consistently scored from close range. Since the Cats could not stop UMass on defense by forcing them outside, the visitors were able to take higher percentage shots and be in position for the rebounds. This is proven by UMass' fine forward, Al Skinner, who shot 12 for 17 and finished with a game high 25 points. Eleven of these baskets were from close range, mostly fine drives and uncontested layups.

Vermont took the opening tap and scored after just one minute when Ron Gottschalk drove from the right corner and hit a layup. That was the only Vermont lead of the night. Skinner tapped in a rebound and Steve Mayfield canned two free throws. Gottschalk tied the score 4-4 but Mayfield, Skinner, and center John Murphy began to connect and before long the lead jumped to 19-10. After Barry Cohen and Warren Premus kept UMass from pulling away Vermont went on a three minute scoring drought. The Minutemen ran off 14 unanswered points and a 27-18 lead became 41-18. For all concerned, the game was over at this point. But the Cats battled back and provided the crowd with something to cheer about. After the lead jumped to 45-20 UVM outscored UMass 10-4 to cut the deficit to 49-30 at halftime and to 53-36 early in the second half. UMass regrouped and dominated the rest of the game as the final score read 92-64.

In the first half UMass outshot Vermont and committed less turnovers. UMass shot 22-39 and Vermont 13-28. Vermont committed 12 turnovers to but four miscues for Mass. Vermont played much better in the second half but could not come closer than 17 points. Turnovers were cut down but they were still outrebounded and outshot. Overall, Vermont shot 25 for 53, for a respectable 47 percent but UMass canned 42 of 74 for an incredible 57 percent. The Cats were out-rebounded 36-22. The Minutemen controlled the backboards and deprived the home team of following up any opportunities that went their way.

Besides scoring 25 points, Skinner had seven rebounds and five assists. Murphy, a 6'8" center, displaying a soft touch for a big man, garnered 15 points. Senior guard Bill Endicott had 13 and Mayfield added 11. A sub, Greg Duarte, had ten. This gives an idea of the UMass balance as five men hit in double figures.

The Cats' Terry Green played a fine all-around game and finished with 22 points on 6 for 11 from the field and 10 of 12 throws. Green led everyone in rebounds with eight. Junior guard Barry Cohen had ten points with four of six from the field and freshman Gottschalk hit on all five of his shots for ten points.

Now that the Cats find themselves mired in a losing streak, one can only hope that Coach Pete Salzberg finds the right formula to get his team out of the slump. Vermont did not take enough shots against UMass to stay with the Yankee Conference leaders. For every three shots taken by the Minutemen the Cats put up two. Unless Vermont can start shooting like UMass they will find themselves on the short end

(continued on page twelve)

FOREST HILLS OUTLET
FOR THE BARGAIN IN YOU
WINOOSKI VT.
WEST CANAL ST.
SHOP DAILY 9 AM to 10 PM

ACCOMPANIED BY THIS COUPON
10% OFF ON ALL DARKROOM EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES
GOOD UNTIL FEB 9

Complete line of darkroom accessories

NOW! 40% DISCOUNT ON ALL PHOTOFINISHING (EXCEPT EK)

CLIP THIS MENU

All previous offers expire. All future coupons honored from Vermont Cynic only. Effective 1/24/74.

YANKEE DOODLE CATERING
864-5718

DELIVERIES MADE FROM 7:00 A.M. UNTIL 2:00 A.M.

1. Ham on Rye ..... .99
2. Ham on Rye with Swiss Cheese 1.09
3. Ham Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
4. Ham Slices on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
5. Roast Prime Sirloin on Pumpernickel 1.19
6. Roast Prime Sirloin on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.29
7. Maine Roast Chicken on Rye ..... .99
8. Tender Tidbits of Chicken Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
9. Tuna Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
10. Tuna Salad on Rye ..... .99
11. Corned Beef on Rye 1.19
12. Corned Beef on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.29
13. Egg Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
14. Egg Salad on White ..... .89
15. Bacon, Lettuce, and Tomato on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.09
16. Vermont Roast Pork on Rye 1.19

SUBS

17. Ham, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss and American Cheese 1.39
18. Roast Prime Sirloin, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions 1.39
19. Tender Slices of Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions 1.39
20. Sea Fresh Tuna Fish, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, American Cheese 1.39
21. Corn Beef, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Pickles 1.39
22. Bacon, Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss Cheese 1.39
23. Vermont Roast Pork, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss Cheese 1.39

CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED

House Accounts Arranged for Business Groups
We Cater Parties and Groups at Discount Rates-Also ask about our Party Platters

HOMEMADE DESERT AND PASTRIES

24. Andre's Brownies $.25
25. Polka Dot Cookies .25
26. Spice Cake .25
27. Butter Pecan Cake .25
28. Devil's Food Cake .25

Desert and Pastries Delivered Free only with Sandwich and Sub Orders.
All Beverages Available

Home Deliveries Any Time
Prices include Vermont Meals Tax and FREE DELIVERY!
Any Sandwich or Hot Dish not listed on menu, available on 24 hr. notice.
Please allow time for preparation and delivery
All meals are prepared to order!

FREE SODA! COUPON FREE SODA!
This coupon good for one free soda with each sub order. Please present to deliverer for redemption.

this is WTSV-AM's margin of success: don adler, paul ajamian, tony bellomo, joel bolon, pat boutlenan, bill brosseau, paul carpenter, john caulo, andy clark, rich dana, larry decind, al dercid, john draper, dirke eaton, joe stakes: to join this group stop at 'the barn' behind pomeroy hall kevin von bruns, holly whitlock, margo shapiro, steve farrar bob stanley, mike stein, dick stillon, ed tracy, jeff twiss, chuck underhill, kevin

WTSV-AM 580 khz

CURRENT CARRIER RADIO

featuring

Hockey night in Catamount Country

as another major event in your Schaefer Circle of Sports

Schaefer

scott mackay,
chris wallace,
sig wysolmerski,
bill newell,

6:35 PM Thursday evening - Catamount Sports Roundup

if you need a ride home, an event published, or a tune played, call us . . .
656-3220

Evening Report

Spotlight UVM

at 6 PM Wednesday

Guitar Player Magazine Presents...

tuesday nights

at 9:30

SPORTS NEWS + THE WEATHER 6:30 PM

wayne roeberg,
mike frazer, bob glazer, 'flash' gordon, ellen hoyecki, dave hurwitz, rich jaffe, peggy johnstone, marty kimiateck, ken lato, tim lewis, rollins, johanna rothman, phil scharf, joe santana, robin sloane, bob stanley, brian marshall, wendy mittler, susan morse, bob neale, dave newcombe, jackie patterson, bob piper, mark rathaus, bob resnik, steve

VOLUME XCII

V

JANUARY 31, 1974

Lost And

Found in The New York Times Sunday, January 20 1974

THREE PHILOSOPHY PROFESSORS

1. Assistant Professor Area of specialization History of Philosophy Area of competence Phenomenology, Existentialism

2. Associate Professor ABD Specialization Epistemology, Philosophy of Language Competent in Philosophy of Mind

3. Associate Professor Specialization in Ethics (analytical and normative) Social and Political

Physical Edu

by Rick Steinberg

Following opening remarks by Executive Vice-President Patterson and President Andrews, the Faculty Senate voted to make mild alterations in the present University-wide physical education requirement. On recommendation from the Academic Affairs Committee, the Senate decided to allow students to take physical education courses on a Pass-No Pass basis and include credits received from these courses in the total number of hours required for graduation whether or not they are taken on the Pass-No Pass option.

But the senate also turned down two of the recommendations of the Academic Affairs Committee. They voted against the proposal to refer the present university-wide physical education requirement to the individual colleges, schools, and programs. The senate also decided not to give students the right to choose Physical Education courses as electives and to apply those course credits to the minimum number of credit hours required for graduation.

The proposals were put before the senate by Dr. Robert Gobin of the Physical Education Department who is the acting President of the Academic Affairs Committee. Dr. Gobin stated that his committee voted unanimously in favor of the recommendations with one abstention.

Following Dr. Gobin's opening remarks and presentation of the initial proposals, which was to refer the requirement to the individual colleges, Dr. Merton Lamden spoke of the necessity of retaining the present all-university requirement. Dr. Lamden discussed the numerous virtues of physical education. Among the points made by

Featured Th

OVP Starts With A Ban

VOLUME XCII

VERMONT CYNIC

NUMBER 2

JANUARY 31, 1974

'Tis A Privilege To Live In Vermont

University of Vermont
Burlington, Vermont

Lost And Found

Found in The New York Times Sunday, January 27 1974

THREE PHILOSOPHY PROFESSORS

1. Assistant Professor. Area of specialization: History of Philosophy. Area of competence: Phenomenology, Existentialism.

2. Associate Professor. Specialization: Epistemology, Philosophy of Language. Competent in Philosophy of Mind.

3. Associate Professor. Specialization in Ethics, (analytical and normative). Social and Political Philosophy. Competent in Philosophy of Law or Philosophical Problems in Medicine.

Normally teach 9 hours per semester. Must have Ph.D. No ABDs. Evidence of high quality scholarship and superior teaching performance.

Apply Box 24, Waterman Building, University of Vermont.

An Affirmative Action Employer

UVM Union Of College Faculty Votes To Affiliate With National AFT

The Union of College Faculty, a local union representing one quarter to one third of the faculty members at this university, voted on Monday to affiliate with the American Federation of Teachers, a national union.

The decision to affiliate with a national union was reached almost immediately by a unanimous vote. After a long discussion about which of two possible unions to join, 94 per cent of those present voted to affiliate with the AFT.

Three steps are involved in the process to affiliate. First, the local union must draft their own constitution in order to assure their independence and autonomy in this university. Secondly, they must recruit enough faculty members to join the national union. The third step involves getting a faculty-wide vote to approve the move to affiliate.

by Kathi Spaun

In recent months there has been an upsurge of collective activity among faculty members. At the present time, 90 of 238 full-time faculty members in the College of Arts and Sciences belong to a local faculty union. The membership comprises one-fourth of the College of Arts and Sciences faculty. This union was established two years ago as a response to the Parenti issue in which a well-published but outspoken radical was denied tenure and reappointment after two years as an associate professor here at UVM. At that time, the faculty, left that there were no objective grounds for denying reappointment and tenure. It was felt that Mr. Parenti's dismissal was a reaction against political activism, and therefore an unjust decision. Though Mr. Parenti left, the issue remained, and subsequent issues which jeopardize the rights of

continued from page seven

Physical Education Requirements Altered

by Rick Steinberg

Following opening remarks by Executive Vice-President Patterson and President Andrews, the Faculty Senate voted to make mild alterations in the present University-wide physical education requirement. On recommendation from the Academic Affairs Committee, the Senate decided to allow students to take physical education courses on a Pass-No Pass basis and include credits received from these courses in the total number of hours required for graduation whether or not they are taken on the Pass-No Pass option.

But the senate also turned down two of the recommendations of the Academic Affairs Committee. They voted against the proposal to refer the present university-wide physical education requirement to the individual colleges, schools, and programs. The senate also decided not to give students "the right to choose Physical Education courses as electives and to apply those course credits to the minimum number of credit hours required for graduation."

The proposals were put before the senate by Dr. Robert Gobin of the Physical Education Department who is the acting President of the Academic Affairs Committee. Dr. Gobin stated that his committee voted unanimously in favor of the recommendations with one abstention.

Following Dr. Gobin's opening remarks and presentation of the initial proposals, which was to refer the requirement to the individual colleges, Dr. Merton Lamden spoke of the necessity of retaining the present all-university requirement. Dr. Lamden discussed the numerous virtues of physical education. Among the points made by Dr. Lamden were that physical exercise is a "counter measure to obesity and over-nutrition" and that studies have shown that coronary disease is reduced in people who exercise. He stated that exercise reduces mental tension and would improve the student's ability to cope with problems.

Dr. David Sylvester who was in favor of the proposal stated that there was no evidence to show that physical education courses would make students exercise more. He believed that those who wanted to exercise would do so and those who did not would not regardless of whether or not they had taken any physical education courses.

Following an hour of discussion and with the aid of a position statement from the college of Education and Social Services Department of Physical Education, which was in opposition to the proposal, the recommendation was turned down.

The senate then considered and passed the second motion which allowed students to include credits received from physical education courses in the total number of hours required for graduation. This action could be nullified by the individual colleges if they so desire. By merely raising the number of credits necessary for graduation they could counteract the inclusion of physical education credits. For instance, if the Arts College raised the credits needed for graduation from 120 to 122 they would neutralize the effect of the senate's actions.

The senate then turned the proposal allowing students to take physical education courses as electives. As one professor stated, if this is passed people will be saying that students play their way through UVM.

After the senate had voted on the recommendations regarding the Physical Education requirement, the Academic Affairs Committee gave its semi-annual report. Dr. Gobin, chairman of the Committee, stated that the major accomplishments up to date were the recommendation of the physical education requirement and the development of a process for

(continued on page six)

Governor Salmon To Speak At UVM

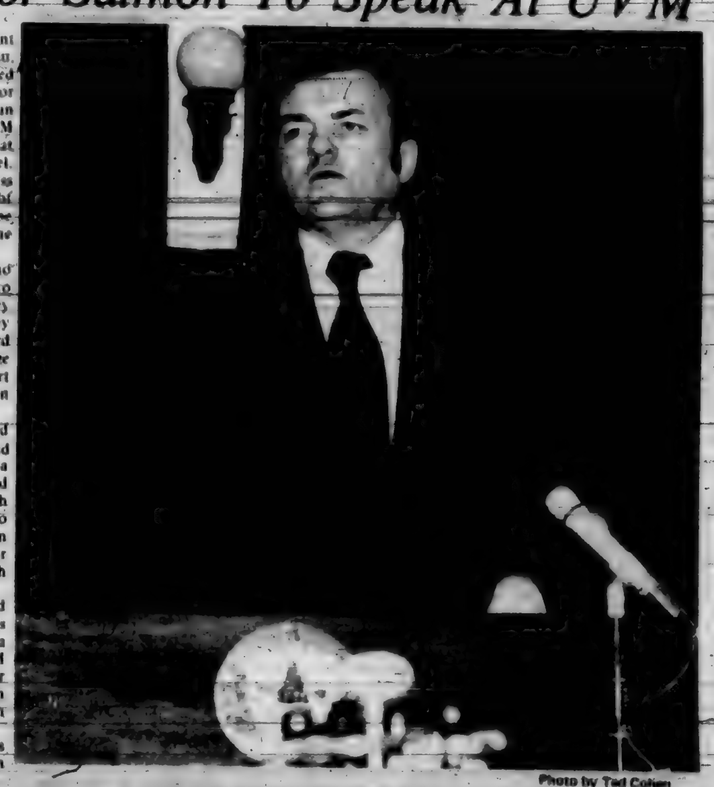

Photo by Ted Cohen

Chairman of the Student Association Speakers Bureau, Richard Cassidy, announced Monday that Governor Salmon has accepted an invitation to speak at UVM on Wednesday February 13, at 8:30 p.m. in Ira Allen Chapel.

Governor Salmon's address will be the first in a series of Public Affairs Forums to be sponsored this spring by the Speakers Bureau.

Other public figures who have accepted invitations to the Forums include Attorney General Kimberly Cheney and Congressman Richard Mallary. Senator George Aiken and Senator Robert Stafford have also been invited to appear.

The Forums were designed to provide the UVM and Burlington community with a means of increased communication with governmental leaders. To facilitate this process, an audience question and answer period will follow each address.

Mr. Cassidy commented that Governor Salmon's appearance would provide a good opportunity for UVM students to express their concerns at a critical point in the legislative decision making process.

All of the Public Affairs Forums will be free and open to the public.

Temperatures On Campus: Some Get It Hot, Some Get It Cold

by John Van Hoesen

Some get it hot and some get it cold, but it appears that few will get constant temperatures in university buildings. There are few solutions to the problems of unbalanced temperatures in campus buildings, according to Superintendent of Maintenance, Wilbur Newton, and Director of Administrative Support Services, Proctor Lovell.

Newton and Lovell responded specifically to student complaints of underheating in Billings, overheating in the library, and uneven temperatures in Old Mill.

"Billings is inadequate as far as heating, ventilating, and lighting go," Newton reported. He added that officials never expected Billings to be frequented by as many people that visit the building daily.

Some students have suggested that stoking a fire in the Billings fire place would add heat to the building. However, Newton said that a fire would heat the immediate area of the lobby but it would cause a 25 percent increase in fuel consumption for the whole building. He implied that a great deal of heat would essentially go up in the smoke.

The solution could be to seal off the fireplace completely. Lovell maintained that this would be the cheapest solution. Jennison Engineering Inc. will be reviewing the building.

Students facing drowsiness in the library because of high temperatures will find that there are few solutions here either. Newton said that it takes 24 hours to effect a three degree change in the temperature of the building. There is no adequate cooling effect built into the heating system. The officials would be reluctant to lower the temperature in the library because cold weather could strike at any time and it would take 24 hours to reheat the building to 65

(continued on page six)

Cynic Compares Burlington Gas Stations

by Margo Howland

This week the Cynic made a survey of every gas service station in the city of Burlington in order to present comparable gas prices to the UVM campus and the Burlington community. The following questions were asked of each station:

1. What hours are you open?
2. Have you had any problem getting gas?
3. Do you limit customer purchases in any way?
4. What grades do you sell?
5. How much per gallon is each grade?
6. How many pumps do you have?
7. What were your gas prices in September? Have you had to raise them, and, if so, how much?

Of the thirty-three gas stations called, three could not be reached by phone or did not answer: Chicome's Gulf Frank's Esso and Ron's Sunoco. One station, Benway's Citgo, sold to taxicabs only; and one, Mike Corey's Gulf Station, refused to answer any questions at all, claiming that the Cynic had asked the same questions last month. Of the remaining twenty-eight, twenty-seven answered every question, and some were very friendly and gave additional information without being asked. Don's Shell, 84 North Avenue, answered the first question, but said he "couldn't give out any more information, the boss wasn't there," etc.

The resulting information may be of interest to Burlington area motorists:

1. No service station in the city of Burlington is open on Sunday.

2. The service station open the longest at night is Dorey's Shell Station, 500 Riverside Avenue, open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday to Saturday.

3. The service stations with "no limit" on gas purchases are: Arco Gasoline, 996 North Avenue, Queen City Arco, 56 North Winooski Avenue, Bill Hood's Citgo, 145 North Avenue, Elmer's Exxon, 471 Riverside Avenue, Lambert's North Avenue Getty, 1555 North Ave., Whittemore Shell, 616 Shelburne Road, Rich's Sunoco, 103 Shelburne Road, Dave's U Save, 505 Riverside Avenue, Lepage's Service Sta. 210 Shelburne Road.

4. Ed's Gulf Station and Auto Repair, on 1 North Winooski Ave., has a $2 purchase limit on gas if the car is from out-of-state; no limit on Vermont drivers. THIS IS ILLEGAL!

5. Cheapest regular gas 46.3, at Doug Cook's Mobil, 1316 North Ave., $3. limit. Next cheapest, 46.6, at

(continued on page nine)

Student-Funded And Student-Led, VPIRG Fights For Public Rights

Two years ago Ralph Nader spoke at the University of Vermont. He spoke of a student-funded and student-led public interest research and advocacy group. Nader reasoned that if students cared about the problems of society they should pool enough of their time and resources to set up an organization with the capability of fighting effectively for their social goals. The students at UVM and other colleges responded by setting up The Vermont Public Interest Research Group (VPIRG).

The full time professional staff, based in Montpelier and Burlington, provide expertise and continuity which is invaluable to an organization working in the public interest.

VPIRG undertakes to identify and evaluate issues involving public policy decisions, including the social and institutional control of individual rights. In all situations VPIRG attempts to determine alternats/solutions available in order to determine what course of action VPIRG will take to bring about corporate, governmental, and other institutional changes that are necessary to further the public interest.

Action taken by VPIRG consists of analysis and research; public education; active representation before legislative bodies and before administrative and regulatory agencies; and litigation where such action is warranted to further public action and the public interest.

At UVM, VPIRG has become an invaluable resource for students and faculty as well. Many students use the VPIRG office at 49 North Prospect for research both in VPIRG projects and for projects of their own. The vast majority of research that is carried on within VPIRG is by students with professional guidance. Their work includes:

The research often becomes the heart of social change. Students at long last get a chance to apply the research to a "real life" situation.

To date the work of the students and the professional staff has been impressive. Their work includes:

Research Projects

THE TOOTH FAIRY BILL—thousands of Vermont children will have dental care for the first time as a result of a VPIRG study which revealed that half of children under the age of fifteen in Vermont never see a dentist. The bill which became a law last year included $800,000 for the program.

SKI INDUSTRY STUDY—a VPIRG study showed that ski-related land development in Warren, Vt. provided more jobs for newcomers than for low income Vermonters.

FOOD PRICE COMPARISONS—monthly surveys, conducted over the last year and a half have provided useful information for consumers and stimulated competition among Burlington area supermarkets.

DANGEROUS PRODUCTS—searches are continuing to locate any of the 1500 banned that may still be on the shelves. Last year, a dozen toys were found in only four stores. This past fall, searches in over 50 stores resulted in removal of aerosol spray adhesives that were on the market a full month after they had been banned by the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

DANGEROUS CANDLES—a health research group in Washington determined that metal core candles had lead as a basic metal in their core. When burned the lead was given off and created a dangerous situation for persons in the room. VPIRG, in cooperation with the Vt. State Health Department, did the research again and found that when the candles with metal wicks were burned the amount of lead in the air was forty times greater than allowable factory standards.

PRESCRIPTION DRUG SURVEY—VPIRG did a statewide

(continued on page eight)

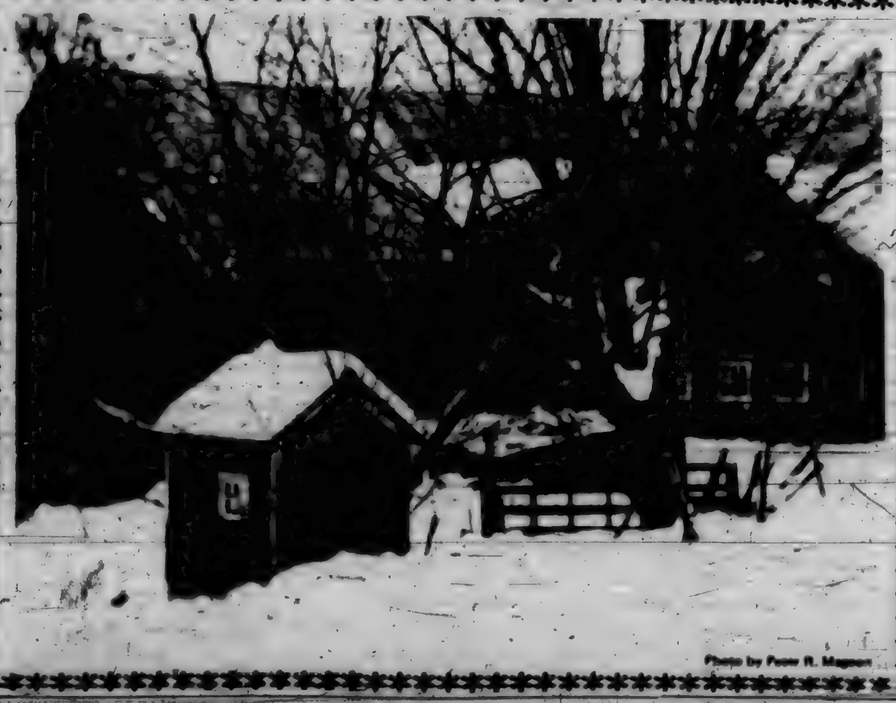

Photo by Peter R. Magnan

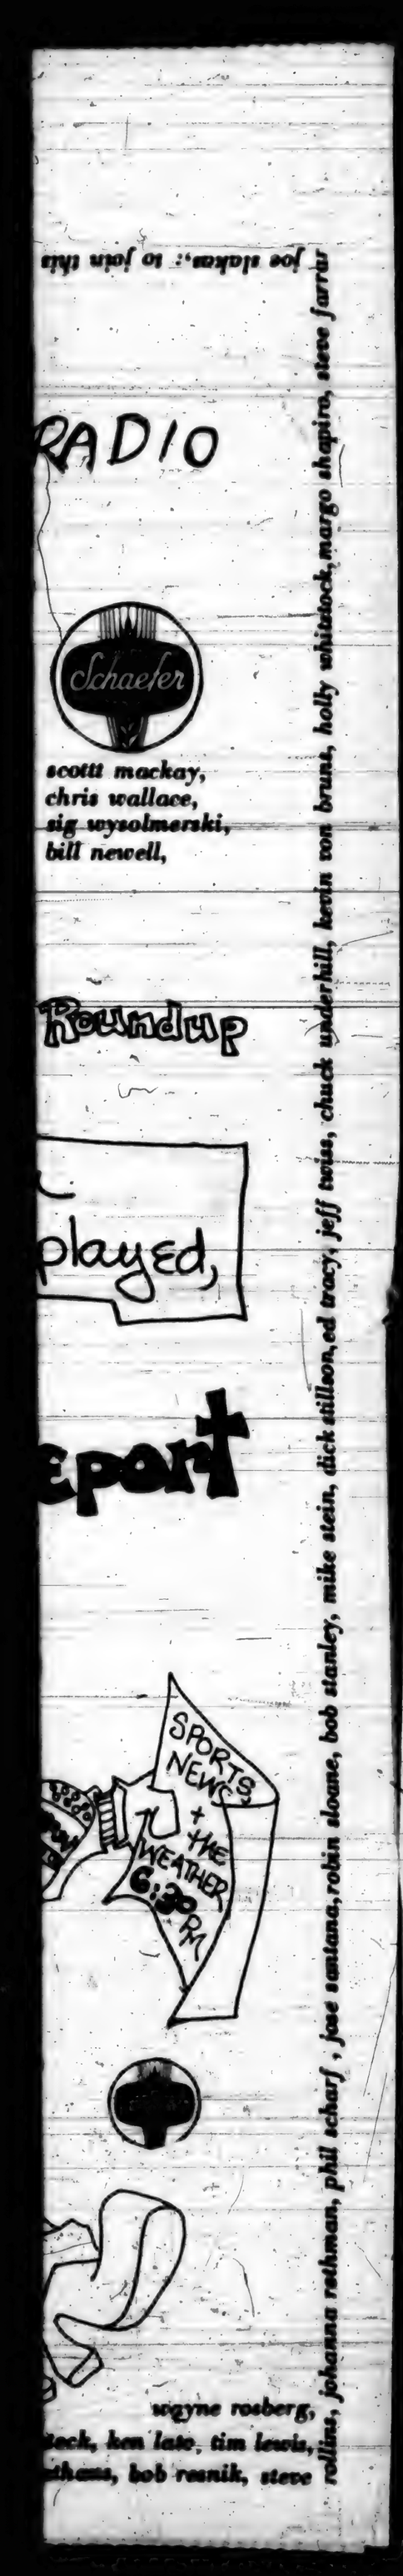
Featured This Week

OVP Starts With A Bang—p.7
UVM Hockey—p.11

Table Of Contents

Arts and Entertainment ..... p. 6
Calendar Announcements p.2
Doctor's Beg ..... p. 8
Editorial ..... p. 4
OP ED ..... p. 9
Sports ..... p. 10



CALENDAR / ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar Presents

The drop period ends Friday, February 8, 1974. All drop cards must be turned in to the Registrar's Office by closing time that day or they will not be processed.

Advance enrollment dates for Fall 1974 have been changed from March 18-22 to April 23-26. These dates will be published around campus as the semester progresses.

VPIRG Section Meeting

There will be a meeting for volunteers participating in the VPIRG Dental Outreach Program Thursday, January 31 at 7:30 p.m. in Marsh Lounge of Billings Center.

Senior Class Meeting

There will be a Senior Class meeting in Marsh Lounge of Billings Center, February 7 at 7:30 p.m.

Next Thing Catalog

The Next Thing, a humanistic drug education, has completed its Winter Workshop Catalog, with over forty-five offerings for area residents and students. The program includes dance, astrology, value clarification, a life-planning lab, communications training, macrame, synetics, altered states of consciousness, mixed CR groups, sensory awareness, parapsychology and others.

To obtain a copy of the catalog, drop by the Next Thing at UVM's Counseling Center, 146 So. Williams St. or call 862-2013 on Tuesday through Friday.

ATTENTION!

ALL SA ORGANIZATIONS. Annual Budget Request Forms for fiscal year 1974-1975 are now available at the SA Office, right balcony, Billings Center. Deadline for return of forms is February 27, 1974 at 5:00 pm.

In order to avoid being locked in Bailey Library for up to fifteen minutes while the custodian clears the building, students and other users are reminded that they should leave promptly at the second warning bell. It saves frayed nerves!

VPIRG Discussion

On Wednesday, February 6 at 7:30 pm, VPIRG highway specialist, Leo Bisson, will be in Billings Roundroom (downstairs) to discuss Vermont highway and land use legislation. Bisson will try to suggest ways in which students can help in bringing about more progressive policies in these areas.

AGR Initiates Three

Alpha Gamma Rho has just initiated three new men into the brotherhood. New brothers are Kim Harvey (outstanding pledge) '73 from Pittsford, Vt; Steve Appleman, a graduate student from Broadhead, Wisconsin, and David Ainsworth, '77, from South Royalton, Vermont.

Tenants Council

There will be a meeting of the UVM Tenants Council for off-campus students this Thursday, January 31st, at 7:30 p.m., in the Marsh lounge, Billings Center. At this meeting, the council will be preparing for Student Association recognition, planning new activities for the semester, as well as looking into long range plans.

The purpose of the Tenants Council is to deal with the special needs of off-campus students. In order to do this, they need your participation.

Pianist At Lane Series

Garrick Ohlsson, the first American to win first prize in the Chopin International Piano Competition (1970), performs on the Lane Series on Friday, February 1, at 8 p.m., in Memorial Auditorium. The pianist's program includes scherzos, nocturnes, polonaises and mazurkas by Chopin, and also "Four Preludes" by Scriabin and "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Mussorgsky. Tickets, $3, $5, and $6, are on sale at the Lane Office, 234 Waterman; telephone 656-3418 for reservations.

Sharpe To Hold Workshop

Lynn Sharpe, senior editor for Encore magazine, is going to speak in 115 Commons Building, Living/Learning Center, on Thursday, February 7, at 8 p.m. Her topic is "The Black Woman in Media" and is sponsored by the Cross-Cultural Communication Component (CCCC). She is also going to do a workshop in the afternoon at 3 p.m. at the Living/Learning Fireplace, Commons Building. The workshop involves the production of Encore a black magazine, and may be of particular interest to journalism students.

CRIP Offers Chance For Reading Improvement

The College Reading Improvement Program (CRIP) is again offering its services to any UVM student who is interested in improving his or her reading skills. The following areas of reading improvement are available:

Comprehension (main idea, details, sequence, inference).

Mental Acuity (concentration, memorization).

Reading Rates (1. intensive 2. study reading 3. rapid 4. skimming 5. scanning).

Sentence and Paragraph Patterns (grammatical structure, organization).

Study Skills (outlining, reviewing, taking exams, SQ3R System).

Vocabulary Development (structure, origin, spelling).

A writing improvement program is also offered.

If you are interested in beginning or continuing a program in any one or any combination of the above areas contact Karen McKinney or Gail Shiman at the Reading Center (405 Waterman, Ext. 3838) for an individual appointment.

VPIRG Refund

Students who do not wish to pay the three dollar VPIRG fee may request a refund next week in Billings Center. Tables will be set up in Billings from 10:00 am to 3:00 pm during the week of February 4th through 8th.

Vermont Public Interest Research Group (VPIRG) is a student-funded non-profit statewide organization devoted to research and action in the public interest. The Burlington VPIRG office is located at 49 North Prospect Street with a telephone number, 863-3435. Individuals who have inquiries about VPIRG or wish to volunteer, should inquire at the Billings table or call or drop by the office.

Herbarium Now Open

The Cyrus Pringle Herbarium is now open as a reference and resource information building on Vermont and New England flora. It is the second largest pressed and dried systematic collection of plants in the Northeast. The building is open to the public for tours and questions Tuesday at 8:00 pm through 4:30 pm, Wednesday 8:00 am through 10:30 am, Thursday 8:00 am through 12 noon, Friday 8:00 am through 4:30 pm excluding 10:30 - 12:15, or phone Bruce Riggs, Curator, at 656-3221.

Tri-Delta Offers Scholarship Eligible To UVM Women

The price of education just keeps going up and there's nothing you can do about it—I beg your pardon!! There is something you can do about it, and Tri-Delta sorority on campus has been working since September to offer you an alternative, $450's worth.

Each year Delta Delta Delta works hard through service projects to raise funds for their scholarship program. This year, 1973-74, Delta sisters have worked for Saga in the concession stands at all home football games and hockey games to earn $450. The money is now given as a scholarship, not a loan, to any UVM woman student to be used for school next semester. As an added feature, all local winners will automatically be eligible for one of the $1,000.00 awards made by Delta Delta Delta national service projects fund.

To be eligible for the award you must be a full-time undergraduate woman student at UVM. Applications may be picked up from the dean of women, director of financial aid, or Tri-Delta sorority, 143 So. Willard Street, on campus.

Deadline is February 25, 1974.

For more information call Tri-Delta at 864-5051, or the service projects chairman, Shelley Bouchard at 862-5816.

You can do something about the cost of education. Apply today!!

THURSDAY, JANUARY 31

9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Vista/Peace Corps recruiters will be at the Placement Office, Mansfield House. During the same hours a Navy information team will be in the lobby of Billings Center.

12:15 to 1:15 p.m., Woman's Caucus presents Doloris Rudolph who will conduct an income tax session, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Open to all - bring your forms and/or your questions. The session will be repeated weekly through the month of February.

4:30 p.m., Mathematics Seminar, "Computer Based Data Security," presented by Mr. Ronald Crisman, Director of Budget and Management for the State of Vermont, at Room 117, Votey Building.

7 p.m., Chess Club meeting, fifth floor, Waterman Building.

7:30 p.m., Sigma Xi national lecturer, Dr. Peter J. Coney, Middlebury College, presents an illustrated talk on "Spreading Sea-Floors, Drifting Continents, and the Origin of Mountain Systems," Sheraton Motor Inn, South Burlington. The public lecture will be preceded by dinner for Sigma Xi members and their guests. Dinner reservations should be made with Chapter Secretary H. Gardiner Barnum, Geography, by Jan. 29.

7:30 p.m., CAPE meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., Tenants Council meets, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

Also, L'Amicale Francaise presents a film, "La Religieuse," ("The Nun,") in French with subtitles in English, Johnson Auditorium, Votey Building. Admission $1 with UVM I.D., $1.25 general.

At Fleming Museum through Feb. 6: Australian Bark Paintings from the collection of Edward L. Ruhe, and through Feb. 12: Photographic Images by Daniel Higgins, art department. The photographs are in color and in black and white, some developed on transparent acetate, and some hand-painted. The subjects range from cows to landscapes to nudes; while Higgins' approach ranges from surrealism to straightforward images to collage.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 1

7:30 p.m., UVM Sailing Club presents a film, "The Voyage of the Brigantine Yankee," North Lounge, Billings Center. Admission free.

8 p.m., Lane Series Concert, pianist Garrick Ohlsson, Memorial Auditorium. Tickets are $3, $5 and $6 from the Lane Office.

8 p.m., Lane Series concert, pianist Garrick Ohlsson, Memorial Auditorium. Tickets $3, $5 and $6 at the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, Ext. 3418.

9 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement, Billings Center.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2

8 p.m., music lecture-recital, "An Evening with Lully," by Martha Kane Tortolano, an M.A. candidate in music, Ira Allen Chapel. Admission free.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 3

7:30 p.m., "ACE (Alternative Center of Education) in the Hall" presents John Brida, a hermit who lives in Vermont, lounge of Marsh, Austin, Tupper Halls.

8 p.m., SA Films presents a movie, title unavailable, North Lounge, Billings Center.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 4

7:30 p.m., "ACE in the Hall" presents one of the so-called "philosophy four," lounge of Marsh, Austin, Tupper Halls.

8 p.m., SA Films presents a movie, title unavailable, at North Lounge, Billings Center.

8 p.m., A course on the Bible, Newman Center.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5

9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Marine information team will be in the main lobby, Billings Center.

9 a.m. - 5 p.m., CAPE information table, also in Billings.

7:30 p.m., "ACE in the Hall" presents Liz Yeates of the American Friends Service Committee, who will discuss "The Post-War War," lounge of Marsh, Austin, Tupper Halls.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for gospel music and Bible inquiry, MAT lounge.

7:30 p.m., A course in Basic Catholicism, Newman Center.

7:30 p.m., UVM Student Wives Club presents John Lindsay, forestry, "Enjoying Vermont," at the community center, married student apartments, Fort Ethan Allen.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6

Last day for changes from credit to audit and for withdrawal from day courses without academic penalty.

9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Marine information team at Billings Center main lobby.

9 a.m. - 5 p.m., CAPE information table, Billings Center main lobby.

12:15 p.m., AIM (Associates in Ministry) presents the weekly program, "Voyages in the Spirit," Conference Room C, Billings Center.

4 p.m., Radiology Conference, Dr. T. Gibson, "Cardiac Ultrasound," Austin Auditorium, Mary Fletcher Unit, Medical Center Hospital.

4:30 p.m., Faculty Senate meets, Carpenter Auditorium, Given Medical Building.

8 p.m., SA Films presents a movie, title unavailable, North Lounge, Billings Center.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7

9 a.m. - 5 p.m., CAPE information table at Billings Center main lobby.

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Prof. Stanley Rush, "Physical Basis of Electrocardiography," Room 320 Votey Building.

12:15 - 1:15 p.m., Women's Caucus presents Doloris Rudolph, communication and theatre, who will conduct a help session on income taxes, designed especially for women but open to all. Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.

3 p.m., Cross Cultural Communication Component of the Living/Learning Center presents Lynn Sharpe, senior editor of "Encore" magazine, who will conduct a workshop on production of "Encore," a black magazine. Place is the fireplace area of the Commons Building. The workshop is open to all who are interested.

4:15 p.m., Graduate College faculty meeting, Room 103 Rowell Building.

JANUARY THAW SALE

Mens — Ladies & Childrens:

Parkas — Warmups & Ski Pants	20% to 50% off
Ski Sweaters	25% off
Gloves — Mittens & Hats	20% to 50% off
T-Neck Tops: Medico — Duofold — Skyr & Head	25% off
Skis — 1973-74	20% to 50% off
Rossignol — K-2 — Olin — Head — Volkl — Spalding — A&T
Ski Boots — 1973-74	20% to 50% off
Nordica — Trappeur — Caber — Hanson — San Marco — K-2
Ski Poles: Scott — K-2 — Tomic — Kerma — Barrecrafter	20% to 50% off
Ski Bindings: Marker	25% off
Ski Racks: Barrecrafter	25% off
Snow Shoes: Vermont Tubbs	20% off
Skates: Hyde & Adidas	20% to 40% off

Sale

Cross Country Package — Special Clearing Skis—Boots—Poles—Bindings & Installation
Total Value $91.00
Now 1/2 price — $45.50

Other crosscountry Skis — Boots & Poles 20% off

All sales final BankAmericard — Mastercharge

Open 9 — 9 Monday through Friday
9 — 5 Saturday

Valuga Sports
1250 Shelburne Rd.
South Burlington, Vt.
862-7561

DO YOU KNOW WHATS NEW AT

YANKEE DOODLE CATERING

864-5718

GIANT PICKLES 25¢

NEW SUBS

#29. SALAMI #30 TURKEY

Any combination of all our regular subs

#31. MEATBALL SUBS

We now have hot CHINESE & THAI FOODS available for immediate delivery

FREE DELIVERY

1 FREE SODA! with each sub & hot dish order

INTERESTED IN ONE DESIGN RACING?

THE UVM SAILING CLUB

Sailing Club Meeting

The UVM Sailing Club will hold its first meeting of the semester February 1 at 8 p.m. in the North Lounge of Billings Center. The topic of the meeting is the organization of a one-design race series for the Fall, 1974. The meeting will be followed by the movie Voyage of the Brigantine Yankee narrated by Orson Welles. Admission will be free.

Outing Club

The Outing Club hopes to plan more 3 day events in the upcoming semester with the new 3 day weekends. It is hoped trips will be going to the White Mts. in New Hampshire and the Adirondaks in New York during the winter camping season.

Regularly scheduled Outing Club events include short weekly meetings where upcoming trips are announced, followed by a program. These meetings are held in the Outing Club house which is located behind the Admissions Building on So. Prospect St. at 7:30 p.m. every Wednesday.

Every Saturday at 9:00 a.m. there is a meeting of

Democrats Hold Conference

The Chittenden County Democrats are sponsoring a Decisions Conference on Saturday, February 2, at St. Michael's College. There will be six workshops throughout the day beginning with registration at 9:30 at Alliot Hall.

Topics to be covered are Public Financing of Elections; Human Services; The Land Use Plan; The Energy Crisis; The Vermont Tax Posture; and the Housing Crisis. The panelists will be from government agencies, the university, the state legislature, and the business community.

Governor Thomas P. Salmon will be the keynote speaker at 1:00. Admission is FREE. Lunch will be available or bring your own.

Though sponsored by the Democrats, this is a non-partisan event. Persons of all points of view are encouraged to attend. Take this opportunity to inform yourself about the issues and to make your opinions known in open forum.

For further information please call 879-0374.

Coke for big thirst!

It's the Coca-Cola

NTS

...realism to straightforward images to collage.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 1

...10 p.m., UVM Sailing Club presents a film, "The ...yage of the Brigantine Yankee," North Lounge, Billings ...ter. Admission free.

...p.m., Lane Series Concert, pianist Garrick Ohlsson, ...ond Auditorium. Tickets are $3, $5 and $6 from the ... Office.

...p.m., Lane Series concert, pianist Garrick Ohlsson, ...rnal Auditorium. Tickets $3, $5 and $6 at the Lane ...e, 234 Waterman, Ext. 1418.

...p.m., Roundhouse, informal entertainment in a ...e house atmosphere, basement, Billings Center.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2

...p.m., music lecture recital, "An Evening with 'Lulu'," ...Martha Kane Tortolano, an M.A. candidate in music, fre... Chapel Admission free.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 3

...0 p.m., "ACE (Alternative Center of Education) in ...Hall" presents John Bride, a hermit who lives in ...ont, lounge of Marsh, Austin, Tupper Halls.

...p.m., SA Films presents a movie, title unavailable, ... Lounge, Billings Center.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 4

...0 p.m., "ACE in the Hall" presents one of the ...ited philosophy faus," lounge of ... Austin, Tupper Halls.

...m., SA Films presents a movie, title unavailable, at ... Lounge, Billings Center.

...m., A course on the Bible, Newman Center.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5

...m., 5 p.m., Marine information team will be in the ...bby, Billings Center.

...p.m., CAPE information table, also in Billings.

...p.m., "ACE in the Hall" presents Liz Yeates of the ...an Friends Service Committee, who will discuss ...Post War War," lounge of Marsh, Austin, Tupper.

...p.m., Lamplighters meet for Gospel music and Bible ...MAT lounge.

...p.m., SA course in Basic Catholicism, Newman.

...p.m., UVM Student Wives Club presents John ... forestry, "Enjoying Vermont," at the community ...married student apartments, Fort Ethan Allen.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6

...day for changes from credit to audit and for ...wal from day courses without academic penalty.

...- 4 p.m., Marine information team at Billings ...main lobby.

...- 5 p.m., CAPE information table, Billings Center ...bby.

...p.m., AIM (Associates in Ministry) presents the ...program, "Voyages in the Spirit," Conference ..., Billings Center.

...Radiology Conference, Dr. T. Gibson, "Cardiac ...ad," Austin Auditorium, Mary Fletcher Unit, ...Center Hospital.

...p.m., Faculty Senate meets, Carpenter Auditorium, ...edical Building.

...m., SA Films presents a movie, title unavailable, ...unge, Billings Center.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7

...m., 5 p.m., CAPE information table at Billings ...main lobby.

...m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Prof. Stanley ..., "Physical Basis of Electrocardiography," Room 320 ...uilding.

...1:15 p.m., Women's Caucus presents Dolores ...communication and theatre) who will conduct a ...ion on income taxes designed especially for ...but open to all, Memorial Lounge, Waterman.

...Cross Cultural Communication Component of ...g/Learning Center presents Lynn Sharpe, senior ..."Encore" magazine, who will conduct a workshop ...ction of "Encore," a black magazine. Place in the ...area of the Commons Building. The workshop is ...ll who are interested.

...m., Graduate College faculty meeting, Room 103 ...uilding.

...ONE DESIGN

...?

...CLUB

Sailing Club Meeting

The UVM Sailing Club will hold its first meeting of the semester February 1 at 8 p.m. in the North Lounge of Billings Center. The topic of the meeting is the organization of a one-design race series for the Fall, 1974. The meeting will be followed by the movie Voyage of the Brigantine Yankee narrated by Orson Welles. Admission will be free.

Museum Holds Photo Exhibition

An exhibition of photographic images by Daniel Higgins opened on January 22 at the Robert Hull Fleming Museum, UVM. Mr. Higgins is the photography instructor at the University. The photographs are in both color and black and white, some developed on transparent acetate, and some hand-painted. The subjects range from cows to landscapes to nudes, while Higgins' approach ranges from surrealism to straightforward images to collage. The exhibition provides an exciting change for the Fleming's gallery. It will remain on view through February 12.

Monday Tryouts For Royall Tyler Play

Tryouts for the musical version of Royall Tyler's THE CONTRAST are scheduled for Monday, February 4th, from 9:00 a.m. to 3 p.m., in the new Royall Tyler Theater. The mutical will require ten majors, four women and six men, along with a chorus of twelve which will be further divided into two groups of six, the "Americans" and the "Continentals." THE CONTRAST is a romantic comedy of manners dating back to the late 1790's and will open on March 15 in the theater which honors its author.

Spiritual Corner

Associates In Ministry

The Associates in Ministry sponsor a weekly ecumenical spiritual exchange called Voyages in the Spirit. This is a time for relaxation and sharing. Everyone is invited.

The next Voyage will be next Wednesday, February 6 at 12:15 p.m. in Conference Room C, upstairs at Billings Center. The leader will be Bill Hollister, Director of the Burlington Ecumenical Action Ministry. His subject will be "The Stuff of Holiness."

The Associates also sponsor a Sunday morning car pool for those interested in attending local church services. Cars will be available each Sunday in front of Coolidge Hall on the Redstone Campus from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Next Thursday night, February 7, the Associates will have an open supper at their office at 389 College St. (basement of Hillel House). It will take place at 6 p.m. and everyone is invited. Musicians, bring your instruments! For those who need rides, there will be cars leaving from in front of Coolidge Hall (Redstone Campus) at 5:45. To give those planning the supper an idea of numbers to prepare for, please call Ted Stronach (863-6970) or Harry Brooks (862-9280) if you'd like to join in the celebration. If you can't reach us, come anyway.

St. Anselm's Chapel

SERVICES

Holy Communion: Sunday-11:00 a.m. Tuesday-10:00 p.m.

Evening Prayer Monday-Saturday-5:45 (led by students) (All services are Episcopal, all denomination welcome)

Ecumenical Morning Prayer-Monday-Friday-8:45 a.m. (This term held at the Newman Center. Service sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant, and Roman Catholic Chaplaincies.)

DISCUSSION GROUP:

Friday-7:15 (Note that this is a new time) Burgess Lounge. Students raise any questions, concerns, doubts etc. they have about their faith, religion, church or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join in the group, which is led by Chaplain Odie.

STUDYING, COOKING ETC.:

St. Anselm's Chapel will be open 24 hours a day as usual for anyone who is looking for a quiet place to pray, meditate, or just look around.

The Common Room is also open to anyone who needs a place to study, cook, or meet for some fellowship. Feel free to build a fire in the fireplace and to help yourself to coffee or tea.

"Any group or activity that needs a place to meet should contact Chaplain Odie at the office (656-3882) or his home (864-6354).

Cunningham Newman Center

CUNNINGHAM NEWMAN CENTER

LITURGY SCHEDULE:

Weekday: Monday - Friday: 4:15 p.m. Also on Tuesday: 10 p.m.

Weekend: Saturday: 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.; Sunday: 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

BIBLE STUDY: Resumes Monday, January 28 and each Monday after that at 8 p.m.

BASIC CATHOLICISM: Each Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. The Sacraments will be the subject of this semester.

MUSIC MEETING: Thursday, January 31 at 7 p.m. for all those involved in music at the Center and any new people interested in participating.

MORNING PRAYER: This Semester the Morning Prayer, sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant and Catholic Campus Ministries will meet at the Cunningham Newman Center at 8:30 a.m. We hope many of you will come and join us in prayer.

Outing Club News

The Outing Club hopes to plan more 3 day events in the upcoming semester with the new 3 day weekends. It is hoped trips will be going to the White Mts. in New Hampshire and the Adirondaks in New York during the winter camping season.

Regularly scheduled Outing Club events include short weekly meetings where upcoming trips are announced, followed by a program. These meetings are held in the Outing Club house which is located behind the Admissions Building on So. Prospect St. at 7:30 p.m. every Wednesday.

Every Saturday at 9:00 a.m., there is a meeting of cross-country enthusiasts who are planning to ski that day, in front of the Outing Club house.

For students who are not able to attend meetings, there is an Outing Club trip book at the SA desk in Billings. This book contains a list of Outing Club members, as well as a list of outgoing trips, who is leading the trip, and what equipment will be necessary.

The Outing Club does have equipment that can be signed out by UVM students. An example of the equipment available is cross-country skis and poles, snowshoes, tents, sleeping bags, stoves, caving equipment, ice climbing equipment, etc.

SA Senate Meetings will be held Tuesday nights at 7:30 pm. All are invited to attend.

NYC Urban Fellowship Accepting Applications

The Mayor's New York City Urban Fellowship is now accepting applications for the 1974-75 academic year.

The program spans the entire academic year, from September through June. During this time, students work with a City agency four days a week and participate in a seminar on the fifth day. Speakers from all areas of the City government and also interesting persons that live in the New York City area are invited to direct these seminars.

A stipend of $4,000 and transportation to and from New York City are provided by the City of New York. In addition, participating universities contribute in addition $500 to the stipend and grant academic credit.

All students who are seniors or graduate students may apply. Applications can be obtained from the Financial Aid or Fellowship office at your respective universities or write to:

Dr. Leonore Loft, Director
New York City Urban Fellowship
250 Broadway
New York, New York 10007

The past five years have shown that the Urban Fellows learned much from their experiences and have also contributed to the improvement of City government.

Yearbooks Available

Students may pick up yearbooks in the Ariel Office Mondays, Wednesdays, or Fridays, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Bahai

UVM Bahai Club is welcoming students to investigate the message of Baha'u'llah. Wednesday, February 6, 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Weekly meetings will be in Conference Room C, Billings Center.

Recycle

This paper is recyclable - bring this and other newspapers, magazines, and paper to Robinson Hall or Davis Hall, Monday through Thursday nights - 6:30 to 8:30 pm and Saturday 10:30 am to 12:30 pm.

Bible Talk

Speaker Tim Dahlin will give a talk entitled "Watergate, What we can learn from a learned country," presenting the relativity of the Bible to today's world. It will be held at the Fireplace Lounge at Living/Learning, February 7, 1974, at 8:00 p.m. Sponsored by the Campus Crusade for Christ.

Bible Talk

Speaker Tim Dahlin will give a talk entitled "Watergate, What we can learn from a learned country," presenting the relativity of the Bible to today's world. It will be held at the Fireplace Lounge at Living/Learning, February 7, 1974, at 8:00 p.m. Sponsored by the Campus Crusade for Christ.

Democrats Hold Conference

The Chittenden County Democrats are sponsoring a Decisions Conference on Saturday, February 2, at St. Michael's College. There will be six workshops throughout the day beginning with registration at 9:30 at Alliot Hall.

Topics to be covered are: Public Financing of Elections; Human Services; The Land Use Plan; The Energy Crisis; The Vermont Tax Posture; and the Housing Crisis. The panelists will be from government agencies, the university, the state legislature, and the business community.

Governor Thomas P. Salmon will be the keynote speaker at 1:00. Admission is FREE. Lunch will be available or bring your own.

Though sponsored by the Democrats, this is a non-partisan event. Persons of all points of view are encouraged to attend. Take this opportunity to inform yourself about the issues and to make your opinions known in open forum.

For further information please call 879-0374.

Communnity Art

A UVM Community Art Program is going to be sponsored by the Art Education Program. It will be located on the second floor of the Williams Science Hall. Classes will meet once a week, for ten weeks, beginning February 10, and continuing through April 27.

Registration for classes will be on February 8-10, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, from 12-4 p.m. Registration will be held at the second floor of the Williams Science Building. At that time a tuition fee of $10.00 must be paid. For information call 656-2014.

PLANTASIA
10:30—6:00 107 St. Paul St
WE'RE RESTOCKED AGAIN!
Terranium Supplies
Decorative and Clay Pottery
ALL KINDS OF PLANTS
large & small hanging & standing flowering & foliage

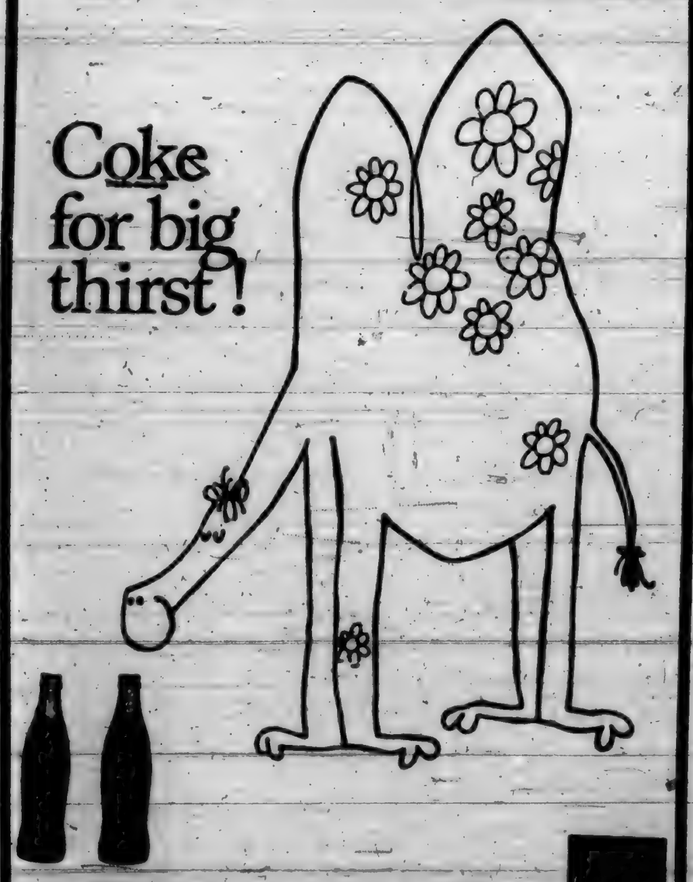
Coke for big thirst!



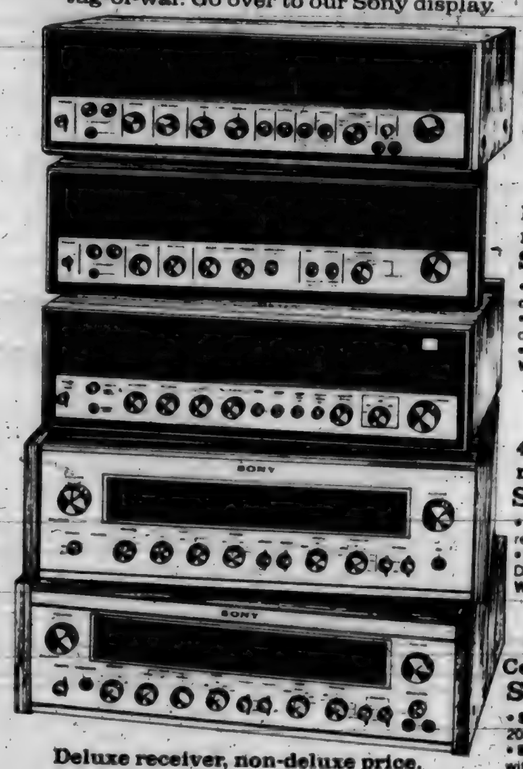
It's the real thing. Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

Advent BOSE Canon SONY JBL PIONEER Technics

We're pulling for you

audio-technica TEAC Interaudio PHILIPS maxell dynaco AKAI SHERWOOD KLH JVC TANDBERG HITACHI AMPEX DBX Satch KENWOOD REVOX SANYO

You want a new receiver but your heartstrings pull one way, and your pursestrings pull another? Stop the tug-of-war. Go over to our Sony display.



New standard in its power output and price category.
SONY STR-6046A
• 20+20W RMS into 8 ohms from 20Hz to 20kHz with THD less than 0.8%.
• Brings in all stations, even the weakest ones without interference from strong signals.
• Features found in Sony's deluxe models—speaker selector switches for 2 full stereo systems, microphone input and line mixing facilities, tape monitoring, tuning meter, Function indicator lights
With walnut finish cabinet.

Everything you'd ever want in a receiver but with modest power.
SONY STR-6036A
• 15+15W RMS into 8 ohms from 20Hz to 20kHz (can drive all but low-efficiency speakers)
• All the facilities of the STR-6046A except the mic mixing control and illuminated function indicator.
• Brings in all FM and AM stations clearly
With walnut finish cabinet.

4-channel for just a few dollars more than stereo.
SONY SQR-6650
• Delivers superior performance from SQ, other matrix records and broadcasts, and 4-channel tape decks.
• Extra power for outstanding stereo performance—Double Stacked Differential circuitry
With walnut finish cabinet.

Could be today's finest receiver
SONY STR-7065
• Superb sound: (60+60W RMS into 8 ohms to 20Hz to 20kHz). Drives even the least efficient speaker.
• Station-pulling power: Sensitive, 2.0μV FET Front end with 1.0 dB capture ratio brings in even the weakest signals, without interference from stronger ones.
• Unlimited versatility: Dual tape monitors with direct dubbing (use one for a four-channel decoder), choice of 3 speaker pairs, high and low filters, stereo mic mixing.
• Convenience: indicator lights show selected function.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Deluxe receiver, non-deluxe price.
SONY STR-7055
All the basic performance of the deluxe STR-7065, but with a bit less power (still a hefty 35+35W RMS) and without microphone mixing and function indicator lights.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Audition SONY Receivers

Visit our new store at 157 Pearl St. Essex Junction
also 370 Shelburne rd. Burlington

Lafayette RADIO ELECTRONICS
Listen to us, you can't go wrong.
Assoc. Store owned and operated by I. E. E.

DBX Electro-Voice SUPEREX SENNHEISER SUPEREX

VERMONT CYNIC

Founded In 1883

Barbara Frankel '75, Editor-in-Chief
Rick Steinberg '75, Assistant Editor
Eileen Driscoll '75, Managing Editor
Bruce Maddaus '76, News Editor
Kathy Stearns '77, Assistant News Editor
Margo Howland '75, Features Editor
Lana Charles '75, Arts Editor
Peter Campbell '75, Assistant Arts Editor
Mike Schwartz '75, Sports Editor
John Van Hoesen '74, Copy Editor
Jim Bradley '74, Consultant Editor
Loren Wilson '74, Advertising Manager

Editorial

The Importance Of Sports

The Faculty Senate's recent decision denying students the right to take physical education courses as electives is another example of society's belief that sports must take a back seat to other more "educational activities." But isn't it about time that people opened their eyes and realized that there is more to sports than just "fun and games." Recent events will reveal that the world of sports is a microcosm of today's society. It is confronted by the same problems facing the rest of society and similarly must find workable solutions. The energy crisis, racism, sex discrimination and a host of other problems are all part of the sports scene.

The past two Olympic games in Mexico City and Munich clearly demonstrate the use of sports as a political forum. The black gloved fists raised in 1969 and the Arab terrorism in 1972 poignantly reveal the changing role of sports.

Participation in sports also is extremely important in character development. An athlete must learn to deal with pressure. He learns the importance of self-sacrifice and dedication. He learns how to strive for goals. He learns how to live with people and cultivate relationships.

As we all know, physical exercise in itself is extremely important to an individual's health. Studies have shown that regular exercise reduces the risk of coronary disease and prolongs an individual's life span.

With all these virtues and with the ever-growing importance of sports in today's society why do many scholars still look down on sports? Why did the senate deny the students the option of engaging in sports activities for academic credit?

There is more to acquiring a well-founded education than just sitting in the library and studying for exams and writing papers. The importance of sports in today's society should be reflected in the university's academic policies. At UVM it is not. Not only is this policy denying the student his right to choose his own program, but at the same time it is de-emphasizing the expanding role of sports in today's society.

R.S.

Those Were The Days

by Tom E. McCormick, '75

Yea, verily, children, there was a time before Watergate. Those were the days when issues were felt; they were believed. But the nation was also emotionally divided.

There was no middle-ground about Vietnam or abortion. Generally, the Left at once decried the carnage in southeast Asia - wasn't it awful that we were bombing and napalming children? - and called for the destruction, the abortion, of "unwanted" children here in the U.S. The Right, on the other hand, pressed doggedly for victory in Vietnam, while resisting the movement to legalize abortion.

On two successive days last year, the Left won both issues. The Supreme Court ruled - and the word is important because abortion was legalized by decree, not democratic concensus - that abortion was a matter of individual choice largely for the first six months. A day later, his excellency, the most eminent Dr. Secretary Henry Kissinger committed the U.S. to withdrawal from Vietnam under cover of the dawning of a generation of peace. Last week, on January 22 and 23, the nation passed (though few observed and less celebrated) the first birthdays of those decisions.

A year later, the strong, shearing emotions have dissipated, leaving the nation scarred and exhausted. Although the issues were officially resolved (and subsequently forgotten), they are still there. But they go unnoticed.

Every day, hundreds of unborn lives are arbitrarily and prematurely ended. But few voices protest. And the war goes on. But American involvement is ended. So it's not our worry when the Chinese overrun Vietnames islands.

The problem is that the country is tired, too worn out to care much about foreign policy, or even justice. The war took its toll in lives and limbs, but more importantly it left the American spirit tattered and frayed. Even the greatest issue of current events - Watergate - isn't a gut issue for the vast majority of Americans. It's a media event: a game played by politicians and newsmen. No, the important issues - more divisive than ever - are closer to home: jobs and gas and prices. So moral questions and foreign relations fade to lesser roles.

The cauldron still bubbles, however. Hope, though we might, the detente and Kissinger peace agreements will bring peace on earth; it isn't likely. Communism hasn't changed. Just ask Alexander Solzhenitsyn, or any of the hundreds of thousands in Soviet concentration camps. Or look at Soviet actions in the Mid-East, arming and re-arming the Arabs, or sending ammunition to IRA forces in Northern Ireland, or underwriting terrorist groups, such as Black September. Or look at the Chinese as they imperialistically seized Vietnamese lands. Unfortunately, ours isn't likely to be a generation of peace.

Examining the situation, a vague uneasiness gnaws at me. Will the U.S. ever be able to rouse itself from internal divisiveness should there be a challenge to its sovereignty? Could it (would it?), say, sustain simultaneous attacks in Southeast Asia, in the Mid-East, and in Cuba?

I can only hope so.

Letters To The Editor

Slow Down

To the Editor,

With gas prices hovering around $.50 a gallon, many citizens appear to be obeying the 55 m.p.h. speed limit. We would hope our legislators would do the same and set an example for Vermont residents.

However, last Friday, at least one resident noted a government car speeding down Interstate 91 at approximately 70 m.p.h. The registration was Vermont registration number two. What is happening is that Vermont residents are paying for the state to waste gas.

Government cars should not be exempt from speed limits which other residents obey, regardless of who is driving the car. This resident loses faith in government officials when they disregard both state and federal law.

(Name withheld by request)

Evelyn Wood Reading Course

To the Editor:

It has recently come to my attention that Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics is soon to offer their course in Speed Reading in Burlington. I would like to share my experiences with and thoughts concerning the Wood Organization with your readers.

I signed up for this incredible experience on October 10, 1972 and for the course of the semester attempted to master the fabulous techniques of speed reading made easy and triple my reading speed and comprehension. After attending all the classes as well as completing considerably more than the minimum homework requirements, I failed to achieve the results of tripled speed and increased comprehension promised me by the Wood Organization. My reading speed increased little and my comprehension decreased 6 per cent according to Evelyn Wood testing at the course's end.

At this time (10 Dec. 1972), I applied to the organization for a refund on my money which was also guaranteed due to the 97 per cent "success" rate among their students. To this day I have received nothing from the Wood Organization but insult after insult. After writing to Wood "Officials" in Weston, Mass., Jenkintown, Penn., and eventually to Westport, Conn., concerning my "gladly refunded" refund, I received neither reassurances of my impending refund or no answer at all. I am now beginning to understand why the Evelyn Wood organization refunds so few "graduates" (as they like to call us) their money. The runaround they give you is something to be seen to be believed.

I simply wish to advise all Evelyn Wood prospective students that there are a great many more worthwhile ways to spend your money then by pouring it into an irretrievable hole and fly-by-night organization as the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute.

My apologies for such a long letter but to those who "can" speed read it won't matter and to those who can not speed read, don't say that you weren't warned.

Sincerely,
James T. Werther

From The Student Association Office

S.A. Allocations

by E. A. Liberty

Perhaps as we start a new semester and I start a new job, it is an appropriate time to clear up some questions about how the S. A. spends the students' money. Before I became involved in S. A., I often wondered just where the money did go and wished I could be enlightened. I am sure that the average student is unaware that the S. A. supports over fifty organizations of the University. Organizations such as News and Weather and Student Photography, which are totally supported by S. A., will probably not be a surprise to the student. However on the other hand there are activities supported by S. A., which the average student does not realize how much is really allocated. I am speaking of organizations such as OVP (Office of Volunteer Programs) and WRUV-AM.

The Office of Volunteer Programs' budget is one of approximately $300,000 annually. The S. A. allocates about $7,000 a year plus the operation and upkeep of the four-thousand-dollar van purchased by S. A. allocated funds.

The rest of the budget is made up by UVM and federal grants. The S. A.'s allocation might not seem that significant until you stop to think about the number of students OVP reaches. Last year, OVP reached over 800 UVM students. So if the student thinks that S. A. spends too much money for OVP - look what it has to offer the students.

WRUV-AM, the campus radio station, is almost completely supported by S. A., with an approximate budget of $17,000. S. A. allocates to them about $13,000, with the rest of the funds made up by advertising. Fifteen thousand dollars may seem like a great amount of money to spend, but does the student realize that besides the Cynic WRUV is the main source of campus news?

So the next time you catch yourself griping to a group of friends about the way S. A. is spending your money - stop and think twice. S. A. is only supporting organizations which will be of some benefit to you, the student.

Big Business

by Steve Rollins, S. A. Chairperson

Your Student Association is a $130,000 business. It's your money and should be used for your interests. The intent of this article is to give you a feel for how the money was budgeted last year.

You pay this money under the title of "Activity Fee" to the tune of $10.75 each semester. Last semester it added up to $70,000. It should be somewhat less this semester.

A healthy curiosity would eventually lead you to an allocations print out available at the S.A. office. To those less content, try reading the following rundown.

Expected income for this past year was set at $110,000 (that was before overcrowding.) Close to 55 percent goes to campus wide oriented organizations - like the Vermont Cynic, WRUV-AM, S.A. Films, etc. The next largest chunk goes to the club-like groups on campus. This comes close to 20 percent of the budget. It's hard to determine exactly how many students this represents, but a safe figure would be less than 10 percent of the undergraduates. About 11 percent of this budget goes for services and supplies. The last 14 percent would come under the infamous title of miscellaneous. The only outstanding item here would be the S.A. Van.

People are always interested in who gets the most. Only four organizations got over $10,000. From the lowest to the highest these are: The Vermont Cynic, S.A. Films, WRUV-AM and S.A. Speakers.

This is the season of the S.A. budget. In a few weeks the first draft of another budget will begin. This then is the prime time for you to effect change.

As of now we are supporting at least three organizations that are little more than an extension of some College department — we are going to be hit with requests to fund Athletic teams — one of our organizations will eventually be forced to move because its building has been condemned. Is it our responsibility to help pay for these?

When you start asking questions you begin to wonder and you should!

You have a Senator, an S.A. office, and a telephone number (656)3054. Answers are available.

American Beauty

by Elliot Freeman

Broken beggars on streetcars whistle through the night. Slick uptown niggers flash animal grace as they pass under the light of the marquees. The beat of the night life, a thundering noise, rumbles off the street an rolls cross the sidewalk. Drunken reflections of the face of the crowd move quick, like a slick porno flick; on the plate glass windows of the store front movie screen. Car horns scream out of caution as a chorus of tires just squeal in the background. Greased puerto ricans click their high heels as a dealer comes wheeling his wares through an alley, tapping his toes to the song of the whores who are cruising lost tunnels of love an feeling the sex off the sides of the buildings. Their eyes branded in blackness, their lips painted blood red, their souls drowned with the smell an the sweat of sick passion, a poison perfume. The gutters run thick with the waste of dead hundreds while thousands of eyes reach out to seek the peak of electrical thrill. Mouths by the millions burn for the juice of the neon, that spills hot an heavy from the fountains of fortune then drips cross the cement an steelgrinder mountains, a reign of misfortune out of control. Hear the stomp of the stormtroopers (blue-badged an angry, red-haired an irish, madder than hell) come through the cracks in the holes in the walls an gather up cripples, sinners, poets an pimps. A black leather nightmare wanders the streets, killing the hope of tomorrow with his switchblade of sleep. An eagle of sorrow weeps on a rooftop. A child still innocent sucks on the breast of the morning. The beat of the city kisses the nightime goodbye.

Silent Distance

by Elliot Freeman

The passing of time. I tried to keep an eye out for it but missed it as it blew on by. It swept past like an enormous diesel powered semitruck. A wall of rumbling energy barreling noise, crushing the nightime silence, overtaking and nearly destroying some foreign bubble of a passenger car. The passing of time. I never got a good look at it although I honestly tried. I felt the shutter of an eyelid, the pressure of the moment and caught just a glimpse of a tail light bounding down the highway. A lonely stark naked roadway sign whispered as it shivered in the night that it was only the passing of time.

Chest bare, brown nakedness looks to me as soft as rich homemade chocolate pudding. Really thick creamy and cool, not cold or frozen, but cool, a perfect coolness. I'm staring wide-eyed and excited, feeling good and soaking up the scene that is flowing forth from her deep brown eyes. Deep as in the depth of a crystal clear country lake when you see it about an hour after the sun rises, deep and silent and clear, a perfect clearness.

It has been a long time since I have seen the flow of that river of pure perfect visions or felt the tide of heartful happiness. It will take the passing of a long time before I enter those peaceful waters again. But I shall swim upstream with all of my earthly strength, hoping that within the passing of time that I will bathe in the perfect pure brown clearness of that moment of love once again.

Vermont Cynic

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Dave Compagne, Bill Campbell, Cecilia Elwert, Andrew Morse.
FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Carol Dufault, Laurie Rapp.
ARTS: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Doug Collette, Barbara Friedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, Elliott Freeman, Sig Heller, Randy Jansen, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Parashuck, Dave Raneri, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilenuk.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Joan Westcot.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4414. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

FRANKLY SPEAKING...

Farewell To A F... Who Said H...

by Steven C. Rice

Died: Mrs. Grace Hess, MAT hostess. Age... 26, 1974

I did not know Mrs. Hess very long... learned about her in our conversations, ... life. Her passing will no doubt touch the... the university community, and certainly... well. For, her living touched many, ... afraid to smile, and say hello.

That is how I met Mrs. Hess over tw... Marsh-Austin-Tupper main desk, whe... hours. She worked faithfully and ... remark, "I enjoy working around here be... people. They're beautiful." And wh... words; her face blossomed, and youth ...

Yes, she was a good worker. There is ... complex that Mrs. Hess would come to ... earlier every morning, without being paid.

She loved the outdoors, and she purpo... in the Patrick gymnasium lot, so that ... morning walk, before work, to admir... especially Camel's Hump. When it rain... with an umbrella, instead of parking clos...

Mrs. Hess was like a second mother to ... wasn't the only one. Last semester, whe... troubles in student-teaching, she would ... then offer these words: "Believe in yo... know you can do it." It wasn't a part ... and to offer, but she did, anyway.

When the nation was beginning to ... Mrs. Hess reminisced the days when she ... liked to, because she enjoyed the ... woods.

I saw Mrs. Hess for the last time ... vacation. As usual, I was feeling blue, ... for the country Mrs. Hess loved. The p... any knowledge of withholding materi... investigation. I told her about this, and ... patiently. Then she said in a voice I ne... know it's dark times, but we will pull ... we will." She looked at me, and I believe...

These are the last words I remember... Hess. Like so many like her, who offer... receive the kind of recognition she dese... way, she would have been amused if she ...

Mrs. Hess, with her smile and her ... woman. In my hour of grief, I feel joy in ... May her soul rest in everlasting peace.

The ...

by Jeff Ryback

It was a windy Sunday. The tre... creaking below the glint of an azure sp... clouds shot by intermingling billows ... with long flat grays. It was as if all ... loomed high above the travesty that h... earth. But then the coffee slipped away ... cumulus sails passed out of sight and t... power station replaced truth with reali... begun spiritually turned its head to ... that was life.

It was true the country was in one of ... had begun more than ten years ago ... unrelenting, forever gathering moss as ... years. It began as a non-violent protest ... military complex, but the ripple was a ... soul took the long haired freaks serious... those). "Communist plots or someth... picked up, there was Cambodia, Kent St... tradition gave way to S. D. S. and the ... before anyone could blink buildings we... in the name of peace. So the protest to ... indeed became the war machine it had ... result was a badly confused country, ... economically, yet determined to qu... billy-clubs on college campuses, an... Richard Nixon.

The mood of the sixties passed in... slowly the unenlightened masses began ... destruction those "communist freak... shouted about. The government, con... their gilded irony that millions for ... peace, and all the guff those damned ... about slowly manifested itself. The m... dangerous was the attack on civil ... tapped, grand juries hauled distinguis... court, reporters who refused to d... thrown into jail, psychiatrists' offices ... dossiers were being compiled on virtu... the United States, and of course the ... Those who found it difficult to unde... could pull the curtains on a voting ... Richard Nixon had their sanity restored.

But all this was as a thorn pricking ... wasn't until the spike began pounding ... of every man, woman, and child did ... pass to the public at large. True Ameri... set forth by the founding fathers and ... cupidity, and it was this attack on th... spelled doom for Richard Nixon and ... important examples were the mea...

d Reading Course

Wood Organization ... speed increased ... my comprehension ... 6 per cent ... to Evelyn Wood ... the course's end. ... this time $10. Dec ... I applied to the ... tion for a refund on ... ney which was also ... ed due to the 97 per ... cess" rate among ... dents. To this day I ... ceived nothing from ... od Organization but ... after insult. After ... to Wood "Officials" ... gston, Mass. ... Penn. and ... to Westport ... ncerning my "gladly ... refund, I received ... ransparency of my ... refund or no ... at all. I am now ... to understand why ... Evelyn Wood ... organization refunds so few "graduates" (as they like to call us) their money. The runaround they give you is something to be seen to be believed.

I simply wish to advise all Evelyn Wood prospective students that there are a great many more worthwhile ways to spend your money than by putting it into an intricately hole and fly-by-night organization as the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute.

My apologies for such a long letter but to those who "can" speed read it won't matter, and to those who can not speed read, don't say that you weren't warned.

Smorrely,
James T. Werther

merican Beauty

by Elliot Freeman

beggars an streetcars whistle through the night. ... town niggers flash animal grace as they pass under ... of the marquees. The beat of the night life, a ... noise, rumbles off the street an rolls cross the ... Drunken reflections of the face of the crowd ... ck, like a slick porno flick, on the plate glass ... of the story front movie screen. Car horns scream ... aution as a chorus of tires just squeal in the ... nd. Greased puerto ricans click their high heels as ... comes wheeling his wares through an alley, tapping ... to the song of the whores who are cruising lost ... of love an feeling the sex off the sides of the ... Their eyes branded in blackness, their lips ... blood red, their souls drowned with the smell an ... of sick passion. A poison in the ... The gutters ... with the waste of dead hundreds while thousands ... reach out to seek the peak of electrical thrill, ... the millions burn for the juice of the neon, that ... an heavy from the fountains of fortune then drips ... cement an steelgrinded mountains, a reign of ... e out of control. Hear the stomp of the ... pers (blue-badged an angry, red-haired an irish, ... hate hell) come thudding the cracks in the holes in ... an gather up cripples, loafers, poets an pimps. A ... ther nightmare wanders the streets, killing the ... tomorrow with his switchblade of sleep. An eagle ... weeps on a rooftop. A child still innocent sucks ... east of the morning. The beat of the city kisses the ... goodbye.

Silent Distance

by Elliot Freeman

sing of time. I tried to keep an eye out for it but ... it blew on by. It swept past like an enormous ... wered semitruck. A wall of rumbling energy ... noise, crushing the nighttime silence, overtaking ... destroying some foreign bubble of a passenger ... passing of time. I never got a good look at it ... honestly tried. I felt the shutter of an eyelid, the ... the moment and caught just a glimpse of a tail ... ding down the highway. A lonely stark naked ... gin whispered as it shivered in the night that it ... the passing of time.

... ure, brown nakedness looks to me as soft as rich ... chocolate pudding. Really thick creamy and ... cold or frozen, but cool, a perfect coolness. I'm ... de-eyed and excited, feeling good and soaking up ... that is flowing forth from her deep brown eyes. ... the depth of a crystal clear country lake when ... about an hour after the sun rises, deep and silent ... a perfect clearness.

... been a long time since I have seen the flow of that ... ure perfect visions or felt the tide of heartful ... It will take the passing of a long time before I ... peaceful waters again. But I shall swim ... with all of my earthly strength hoping that ... passing of time that I will bathe in the perfect ... clearness of that moment of love once again.

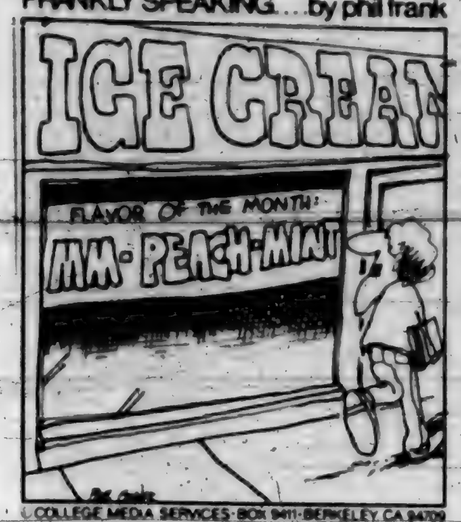
Vermont Cynic

... Andrews, Dave ... Campbell, Cynthia ... Mann ... Bell, Carol ... Rapp ... Bob, Jeffrey Blum, ... Barbara Friedman, ... Joseph Gleason, ... Scott Calhoun, ... Sig Heller, ... Randy Fimon, Alan King, Evelyn ... Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback. SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Paradiseck, Dave Rauseo, Morris Robinson, Bob Widenski. ADVERTISING: Bonnie Bailey, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer. PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lemke, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Joan Westcott.

... explained in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the ... may necessarily reflect the opinions of the University ... faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions ... the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion ... of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board. ... fourth during the college year, by the students of the ... Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and ... ness on the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont ... 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date ... ...

... 1881. Subscription rate $15.00 per year, single copy ... cond class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank



© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES · BOX 9411 · BERKELEY, CA 94709

Farewell To A Hostess Who Said Hello

by Steven C. Rice

Died: Mrs. Grace Hess, MAT hostess, Age 71 Saturday, Jan. 26, 1974

I did not know Mrs. Hess very long, but from what I learned about her in our conversations, she lived a very full life. Her passing will no doubt touch the hearts of many in the university community, and certainly outside of it, as well. For, her living touched many, because she wasn't afraid to smile, and say hello.

That is how I met Mrs. Hess over two years ago at the Marsh-Austin-Tupper mam-desk, where she worked as a hostess. She worked faithfully, and she would often remark, "I enjoy working around here because of the young people... They're beautiful." And when she said these words, her face blossomed, and youth danced in her eyes.

Yes, she was a good worker. There is a story around our complex that Mrs. Hess would come to work an hour or so earlier every morning, without being paid.

She loved the outdoors, and she purposely parked her car in the Patrick gymnasium lot, so that she could have a morning walk, before work, to admire the mountains, especially Camel's Hump. When it rained, she would walk with an umbrella, instead of parking closer.

Mrs. Hess was like a second mother to me, and I'm sure I wasn't the only one. Last semester, when I was having my troubles in student-teaching, she would listen patiently, and then offer these words: "Believe in yourself, Steve, for I know you can do it." It wasn't a part of her job to listen and to offer, but she did, anyway.

When the nation was beginning to run dry of gasoline, Mrs. Hess reminisced the days when she rode the train. She liked to, because she enjoyed the land, especially the woods.

I saw Mrs. Hess for the last time in December before vacation. As usual, I was feeling blue, not for myself, but for the country Mrs. Hess loved. The president had denied any knowledge of withholding material in the Watergate investigation. I told her about this, and again, she listened patiently. Then she said in a voice I never heard before: "I know it's dark times, but we will pull out of them. I know we will." She looked at me, and I believed her.

Those are the last words I remember hearing from Mrs. Hess. Like so many like her, who offered hope, she won't receive the kind of recognition she deserves. I suppose, in a way, she would have been amused if she did.

Mrs. Hess, with her smile and her hello, was a good woman. In my hour of grief, I feel joy in having known her. May her soul rest in everlasting peace.

The Employment Office Revisited

by Jim Bradley

If you ever want to get a little perspective on your college education, take a trip down to the Employment Office some afternoon and try looking for a job. Let me tell you, it's a real happy place. It does a good job of capturing the textures of modern life. Absolutely clean, but just as absolutely stark, its pastel walls and carpets under the bureaucrats feet do nothing to mask the cold and calculatedly distant feel inside. Naked hysteria is covered up by only the thinnest layer of technological clothing. Sitting in the room you get the distinct feeling that no germ could live there. The antiseptic ideal has been achieved. Cleanliness is next to godliness. Everything is under control.

Progress continues irresistably. The old books of job listings have been replaced by microfilm, and you can check out your social uselessness on a brand new microfilm reader. The ads tell us that progress continues just for us, for our benefit. Everything is bigger and better than it used to be, new and improved just for us. The old is replaced by the new, for the new is by definition better. The only thing getting in the way of this progress is the "human element." Humans unfortunately still need love and personal warmth and the feeling of usefulness. These things are beyond control, unadaptable to computer cards, behemoth machines, automation, and the needs, greeds, and moralities of giant corporations.

The Employment Office is a method of trying to control this "human element." People are handled by being given the illusion that progress is working for them, is on their side and is trying to help by finding them something "useful" to do. The bureaucrats try to give you the impression that you are of social value, (and thus human value) but something has temporarily, but only temporarily, gone wrong. But the Office doesn't fool anyone, at least not for long. Germs can't survive there, but neither can the soul.

Inside the front door you see the receptionist, who presents you with forms. You sit down to fill them out in a row of cheap plastic chairs on a bare floor. A gate, defended by the receptionist, separates you from the bureaucrats inside, who pad around on wall-to-wall carpeting carrying forms and papers. The receptionist places your completed form, and those of all the other people sitting in the proletarian section, in baskets on a table by the gate, and the bureaucrats, of various sexes and ages, wander over to pick them up. They read a name out loud and scan the row of proles with helpful and concerned but realistic eyes. The one named rises and proceeds inside with a nervous walk and ready smile, as if being friendly to the social worker made a difference, as if maintaining warm personal relations mattered in that place which is a public relations front for the systematic destruction of personal relations. After a little discussion, very friendly of course, and determination of what occupational category (and there are thousands) you should be coded under, the social worker explains that there is nothing available now, but if anything comes up you may be notified May? Well, there are too many people qualified to be, say, proofreaders who are looking for work, so not all of them will be called even if a job becomes available. That's encouraging. Isn't there something else available other than proofreading, you ask? Proofreading isn't that hot anyway. Well, no, there just are too many people looking for jobs at this time. What should you do? Do whatever you can on your own, you are told, always with a sympathetic, but again realistic, smile.

OK, so you've been to college for a while. You've read a lot of books, done some thinking. You used to think that made a difference in the so-called real world known as the job market. You used to be under the impression that what you knew was important.

But really the notion that a college education is important because it prepares you for life in the society by generally enriching you and humanizing you is a lot of crap. It's a leftover from older days, when the ruling class had fewer management level jackies and such knowledge was important, demonstrating refinement and in a visible manner placing you above the riffraff.

The Cynic welcomes letters and columns from students, faculty, or any other readers. Materials for publication must include the writer's name, but will be withheld upon request.

American Cola Boycott Rouses Mid-East Tempers

by Alan King

With the American Coca-Cola boycott now three months old, the lifestyles of some three million of us have been drastically changed. No longer can one of our wives meander through the camel market and see those friendly red and white disks advertising the bubbly beverage. It is even rumored that the coke dispensers recently installed in the Cadillac El Dorados of high government officials may be going dry. Unconfirmed reports from the Sahara state that vast coke reserves which were built up during Lyndon Johnson's 1966 trip to the Sphynx are now more than half gone. It was reported that camel drivers have been hoarding large amounts of coke syrup for the long treks to Kuwait.

Yesterday, President/Prime Minister/Defense Minister/Line Judge/ Referee El Haram Gamish appointed his brother-in-law, Shah Ullim Sabat, as Soda Czar and bestowed him with great regulatory powers. This first directive from the Shah was to appeal to the Arab people to limit their intake of the precious commodity. "Together" he said, "we can meet this crisis." The Shah outlined his program to make the Arab Nations self- sufficient in Coca-Cola by 1995. The plan involves trading Soviet military secrets to the U.S. for the coke formula. Until then the Shah has proposed many cutbacks which would ease the crisis. The first of these measures is to outlaw the sale of Coke on Holy Tuesdays. The ban would go into effect Wednesday evening at 9 p.m. and last until 6 a.m. on Wednesday. The Soda Czar also announced a Coke rationing system in which the high government officials would be allowed six quarts a week, and the public at large would be allowed what is left over. President El Haram Gamish hailed the plan and called on the Arab people to voluntarily conserve Coke, so that the necessary functions of government could continue. To help motivate the voluntary action, the president also passed a law restoring the death penalty for the hoarding, illegal drinking, bathing in and wasting of Coca-Cola. But even as the words were leaving his lips, a Coke truck overturned at the corner of Sarcophagus and King Tut Aves., causing a massive Coke spill. Undercover security agents opened fire on a large group of youths who had gathered round the spill, allegedly with soda straws in their hands. Four of the insurgents were killed by the brave agents.

The public's reaction to the coke shortage has been unpredictable. Hour-long lines have formed at soda fountains and supermarket checkouts. Some stores, out of their monthly allocation of Coke, have been selling TAB at premium prices. Because of the higher Coke prices, up to 45 krupees per bottle, and the general unavailability of the soft drink, things which "go better with Coke" are also selling at higher prices. Hamburgers, long the favorite foreign dish, have climbed to 65 krupees. The manager of the downtown Cairo McDonald's reports that sales have dipped by 45 percent since they were forced to stop serving Coke.

The Soda Czar reports that some friendly countries, such as the Soviet Union, have increased their exports of Pepsi-Cola, but it has not been enough to avert the crisis.

It was announced this morning in another conservation act from the Czar that all six-packs of Coke would now consist of four bottles. When asked how soon this action might be lifted, Czar Sabat said, "Perhaps by 1976 we can go to five bottles per six-pack." Until that time the government will be investigating new ways of converting some common commodity, such as crude oil, into a coke substitute. "We won't be able to call it the real thing," said Sabat, "but then again, by then you will have forgotten the taste of the stuff anyway!"

In a related story, the Safety Minister warned the public not to hoard Coke for health reasons. He said that storing Coke in hot basements could cause the bottles to explode, sending slivers of glass all over. "If you must keep it," he said, "wait until the cool of the Arabian nights."

Possible fig and date boycotts of the U.S. have been rejected, as the American economy is not that dependent on the foodstuffs. Olives are still being investigated.

The public has now leveled criticism at the heads of the conglomerates that control the local soda industry. This has arisen because the prices of local soft drinks have also sky rocketed. The board chairmen of these companies were summoned before the Soda Czar this noon to explain the 300-600 percent rise in their companies' profits. The President of Oasis Orange Soda and Oil Co. said that the increased profits were justifiable, as the increase is just over last year's profits, and last year was a bad year for soda. He suggested the Czar compare the profit figure to a more logical year, such as 1970. The Czar responded that he did not have records from that year due to the fact that the great plague occurred then.

This justification was echoed by the heads of the Arabian Dry Ginger Ale & Oil Co. and the Sahara Soda and Oil Co., the largest manufacturer of root beer. Many people have accused the companies of manufacturing the crisis. Rumors have been circulating about dealings between their Oil subsidiaries and the U.S., but it is presumed they are unfounded. In any event, the government has agreed to a "trial by the masses" for the Soda Executives to be held in Nephertiti Square next Tuesday at 10:00 a.m. The square is now being readied. Workmen have begun work on a large gallows in order to carry out the expected sentences.

In the meantime, the president is considering a move which would turn the clock backwards twelve hours, so that the people would not see the light of day until the afternoon. The President reasons that people would be so depressed working in the darkness that they would not think of drinking Coke.

The Seed Of Revolution

by Jeff Ryback

It was a windy Sunday. The trees whipped about, creaking below the glint of an azure speckled sky. And the clouds shot by intermingling billows of curlicued whites with long flat grays. It was as if all that was perfection loomed high above the travesty that had become mother earth. But then the coffee slipped away and the full blown cumulus sails passed out of sight and the tall girders of the power station replaced truth with reality. The day that had begun spiritually turned its head to the overcast burden that was life.

It was true the country was in one of its moods, one that had begun more than ten years ago, one that seemed unrelenting, forever gathering moss as the days passed into years. It began as a non-violent protest against an industrial military complex, but the ripple was a mild one for hardly a soul took the long haired freaks seriously; it was just one of those "Communist plots or something." But the war picked up, there was Cambodia, Kent State, and the Quaker tradition gave way to S. D. S. and the "Weathermen," and before anyone could blink buildings were being blown apart in the name of peace. So the protest took on new light and indeed became the war machine it had tried to destroy. The result was a badly confused country, a country suffering economically yet determined to quell the thunder of billy-clubs on college campuses; and so they elected Richard Nixon.

The mood of the sixties passed into peace time and slowly the unenlightened masses began feeling the trends of destruction those "communist freaks" once peacefully shouted about. The government continued to propound their gilded irony that millions for defense insured the peace, and all the guff those damned intellectuals blabbed about slowly manifested itself. The most evident and most dangerous was the attack on civil rights: phones were tapped, grand juries hauled distinguished professors into court, reporters who refused to divulge sources were thrown into jail, psychiatrists' offices were broken into, dossiers were being compiled on virtually every citizen of the United States, and of course there was "Watergate." Those who found it difficult to understand how a person could pull the curtains on a voting booth and vote for Richard Nixon had their sanity restored.

But all this was as a thorn pricking a calloused foot, it wasn't until the spike began pounding deep into the heart of every man, woman, and child did the torch of dissent pass to the public at large. True America had lost the ideals set forth by the founding fathers and replaced them with captivity, and it was this attack on the pocket book that spelled doom for Richard Nixon and maybe America. Two important examples were the meat boycott and the truckers' actions (closing off traffic). Important because finally the public at large began flexing its muscles. Ten years ago such action was unheard of, in fact the truckers were spitting on the dissenters.

Still, the real result of the energy crisis, money problems, etc. has not yet been seen. Potentially, a revolution looms on the horizon and believe it or not, it won't start with the young radicals. The day will come when a housewife will march into a grocery store with three scrawny children at her side, check the prices, and then pull a gun. She won't want the money for it will have become worthless, she'll simply have the grocery cart filled with food and leave. And then the frenzy will begin, the big rush; riots in the cities, in the towns – it won't matter, "Soylent Green."

Yes today we can feel some comfort that buildings are not being bombed, but an undercurrent of unrest exists and continues to seek release. And I dare say Project Crush will have its hands full, sweeping the drunks off the lost streets of America.

THIS MAN IS ARMED, DANGEROUS AND IN OFFICE.

HELP REMOVE HIM.

NATIONAL IMPEACHMENT LOBBY-IN

FEB. 4th-8th in WASHINGTON, DC

Join US! bring a busful of friends!

sponsor: national Campaign to impeach now!
[illegible] 202-659-8[illegible]

Three little words can save you medicine money.

Frequently when you're sick, nothing hurts as much as the cost of the medicine to help you get better. But there is a way you can save money on prescription drugs and medicine. By remembering three little words ... "the generic name."

What do these words mean?

Simply this. Your doctor can write a prescription two ways. He can write the "brand name" or the generic name (pronounced jen-air-ic) of the drug. The difference is that prescriptions can cost a lot less if the doctor uses the generic name.

How come?

Most well-known advertised brands of anything cost more than unknown or store brands. You pay for the advertising that makes the "brand name" well-known. Brand name drugs also usually cost more. For example, one drug used to reduce high blood pressure costs drug stores about $4.50 under its "brand name," yet only 99¢ under its generic name. What's more, up to half of the most widely prescribed drugs (the top 50) are available under their generic name.

Here's what to do.

First, ask your doctor to write down the generic name instead of the brand name. Don't be afraid to tell him you need to save money on medicine. Second, tell your pharmacist that the prescription calls for the generic name at your request. Ask for the lowest-priced quality generic drug he or she can recommend.

You could tear out this message and wrap it around your finger to help you remember. Or you could keep thinking of the dollars you want to save. Either way, remembering three little words can save you lots of medicine money. Please remember the generic name.

Public Communication, Inc.
2005 L Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036
Citizen-supported advertising and research in the public interest.
Prepared in cooperation with D.C. Public Interest Research Group [illegible] Washington, D.C. [illegible]

THIS SPACE MADE AVAILABLE BY THE VERMONT CYNIC

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Lane Series Brings Harkness Ballet

On that toes the forty members of the Harkness Ballet will dance onto the stage of Memorial Auditorium on Thursday, February 7 at 8:00 pm and perform under the auspices of UVM's Lane Series.

Tickets - many still available in the balcony are on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, at $3.00, $5.00, and $6.00. For reservations call 656-3418.

The varied program of classical and modern works includes "Schubert Variations" with music by Franz Schubert and choreography by Vincente Nebrada; "The Brood" with music by Pierre Henry Schaeffer and choreography by Richard Kuch; "Le Corsaire" with music by Riccardo Drigo and staging by Bill Martin-Vincount; and "Ceremonials" with music by Alberto Ginastera and Norman Walker.

"Schubert Variations" is classical ballet in the grand tradition set to various piano music of Franz Schubert. "The Brood" is a powerful and touching modern work suggestive of Brecht's "Mother Courage and Her Children". "Le Corsaire" is a spectacular pas de deux in the great Russian tradition of classical bravura; and "Ceremonials" is a modern work celebrating the rituals of life.

The company is recently back from a triumphant tour of Europe. The tour included Spoleto, Italy; several towns in Yugoslavia; Villach, Austria, Athens, Greece, Paris and Nice, France; and Montreux and Geneva, Switzerland.

The Harkness Ballet's appearance at the Spoleto Festival was covered by the Christian Science Monitor, whose critic wrote, "The Harkness Ballet, a young, handsome company left spectators gasping at its power, verve and electricity." In Lausanne, Switzerland, The Tribune wrote: "With artists of such high quality, the Harkness Ballet can face a hard-to-please audience."

The current U. S. tour, with Burlington as its third stop, includes twenty-three cities and begins on February 5. Stops include Chicago, Minneapolis, Richmond (Virginia), Duluth, Columbus (Ohio), and Durham (North Carolina), before ending March 17 in Montclair, New Jersey.

Founded in 1964 by its Artistic Director, Rebekah Harkness, the Harkness Ballet is one of the nation's leading dance companies. It was founded to preserve the great tradition of classical ballet and, at the same time press forward into new frontiers of dance, sponsoring a fresh approach to dance technique, choreography, musical composition and design.

After the U.S. tour the Harkness Ballet will appear April 9-21 in New York at the new Harkness Theater, Broadway between 62nd and 63rd streets, near Lincoln Center. May through August, the Company once more tours Europe and, also, the Middle East.

The current appearance of the Harkness Ballet in Burlington is the second under Lane Series auspices; the first was in 1969, when it gave two performances.

The next Lane concert will be Ambakaila, a folk dance company of 60 from the West Indies, featuring a steel band. The date is February 19.

LP Reviews: Taj Mahal, Mahavishnu Orchestra

by Michael Thurston

OooOh So Good 'n Blues Taj Mahal/Columbia/Purity and Pointer Sisters. This new album by Taj is a great little number. This is some of the purest blues you'll find on record, with a bit of class added by the Pointer Sisters on back-up vocals. A variety of music and style, including bits from Willie Dixon Mississippi John Hurt, and Elmore James.

It has been interesting to watch the progress of this artist, as he has gone from the complex, band blues, to the simple, gutsy, classic blues. Going from complexity to simplicity has been smooth, refreshing, and intelligent for Taj. His blues are natural, heartfelt, and sincere. A simply amazing album, in this time of electroparaphernalia. Production credits go to Taj. Cuts include Little Red Hen, Railroad Bill, and Dust My Broom.

Between Nothingness & Eternity/Mahavishnu Orchestra/Columbia/This live album, as the title implies, is total fantasy and dream. Musical excursions that scratch the skies, permit travel unparalleled by other bands boasting rock-jazz fusion. McLaughlin, the cornerstone of this remarkable group, remains low-key and camouflaged in this effort. His attempt at an underwhelming performance presents the rest of the band's greatness, in just the right proportion. At the same time, his presence is felt, and respected. In similar fashion, Billy Cobham, after his dramatic solo album-Spectrum, paces himself and does business with the boys.

Between Nothingness & Eternity is a recording of a beautiful concert in Central Park. It's as pure as an April shower, with fruits twice as rich. An excursion that remains an imagination trip. An emotional, spontaneous, nearly perfect record. Its tragic flaw lies in the length...which is much too short.

Stephen Stills and his very special guest, Maria Muldaur, will be appearing at 10 pm in UVM's Patrick Gym on Friday, February 15. Tickets ($4.50 with UVM student ID; $5.50 general admission) are on sale now at the UVM Bookstore and Bailey's Music Rooms.

The Paper Chase: Bottoms Excellent In Desperate Search For Identity

by Lissa Charles

If you are at all familiar with the pressures of law school, then go see "The Paper Chase" at the State Theatre. Even if you know nothing about the insanity of such an academic environment—go anyway, it is an educational experience (in the most ironic sense). For this film not only depicts the grossly competitive world of a law student, but discusses the real human emotions and relationships which threaten the delicate balance and organization of this academic and professional pursuit.

The plot of this film is simple, but the impact of certain scenes is truly penetrating and complex. James Hart (played by Timothy Bottoms) enrolls in Harvard Law School as a first year student, seeming to be the only person not consciously prepared for the greedy competition. The film follows Hart in chronological progression of the academic year as he joins a study group comprised of six students who collectively prepare for final exams. About the same time, Hart meets Susan (played by Lindsay Wagner) in Harvard Square. This particular scene, I might add, is a bit unrealistic or unnatural, at least. For she latches onto Hart as he is walking out of a pizzeria, in a desperate effort to escape from the "stranger" who is following her (knowing all the while that Hart is as much a stranger). For quite a while this romance progresses on a superficial level until Hart discovers that Susan is the daughter of his "Contracts" professor, Dr. Kingsfield.

The remainder of the plot is fairly predictable, and duly secondary to the underlying message of the film. What really matters is the psychological development and stability of Hart's mind, which the film so accurately expresses. For we view this character in constant battle with himself, Susan and Kingsfield trying to understand, master, and conquer all.

Timothy Bottoms does an excellent job in portraying the desperate search for identity, the struggle between the rational and irrational, and the painful sacrifices in a love relationship. His fine artistry produces a convincing role of the student who progresses from the destructive obsession with "grades" and the "upper echelon of students", to the penetrating point of self-realization.

Lindsay Wagner, however, only seems to compliment Timothy Bottoms' outstanding performance. She handles her part competently, but does not develop Susan's character to the fullest extent. Compensating for this dramatic weakness is the commendable performance of John Houseman, who plays Dr. Kingsfield. Houseman proficiently handles the role of a staunch, aristocratic, bastardly professor who intimidates, badgers, yet builds the psyche of each student.

The film as a whole seems a bit slow, but the pace is insignificant in light of this penetrating theme. James Bridges, the director, should indeed be commended for his artistry; for the film is a healthy melange of drama and comic relief. The supporting roles in addition to the skillful combination of cinematography and classical music, certainly add the finishing touches to this thought-provoking film.

"The Paper Chase", however, is not for everyone. If you are suffering from the repercussions of a nervous breakdown, or are simply disgusted with the angry world of competition, then go see Robin Hood instead—the impact will not be as bewildering.

Campus Temperatures...

(continued from page one)

degrees.

One solution to combat winds that regularly storm Old Mill is to affix storm windows to the structure. Windows are expected to arrive in February. The possibility of putting storm windows on other buildings has not been considered.

Newton summed up the problem: "A heating system is designed to maintain 72 degrees throughout—the building when the outside temperature falls to -20 degrees. We are asking some systems to maintain a 62-65 degree temperature under the same circumstances." According to Newton this creates something less than the maximum efficiency in a heating system.

Phys. Ed.

(continued from page one)

review and approval of new programs and courses.

The opening remarks of Andrews and Patterson both concerned the energy crisis. Andrews spoke of the four day week and the mixed reaction he has received. He also urged the senate to discuss the four day week in an effort to decide on whether or not retain the schedule for upcoming semesters. Patterson stated that he was sufficiently satisfied with the fuel situation for this year but was significantly worried about 1975 and 1976. He mentioned that one problem was that companies can sell fuel to homeowners cheaper than to the university and this could possibly result in a reduction of fuel allocation in the future.

The Faculty Senate will meet next on Wednesday, February 6, at 4:30.

Affiliate

(continued from page one)

Two untenured faculty have brought pressure to unionize.

"The present swelling of the faculty union has occurred largely as a result of the infamous Philosophy Four case. However, now the union is seriously contemplating more drastic action. Many of its members are anxious to join a national union. The threat of a loss of autonomy is decisively outweighed by the supportive power a national union would provide. The active union members on campus are younger, widely involved faculty who must publish to establish a reputation. Thus, they are already overworked and must struggle to find time to implement a long range sustained organization. Furthermore, the local union is not officially recognized by the University, and as such, does not have access to funds or facilities. A national union would automatically provide funds for recruitment and even more importantly for legal representation in the event that a faculty member feels he or she has been unfairly judged.

MOVIE GUIDE
Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE
THE PAPER CHASE
7 + 9 PM

CINEMA 1 & 2
The Tall Blond Man with One Black Shoe
7 + 9 PM
Chariots of the Gods
7 + 9 PM

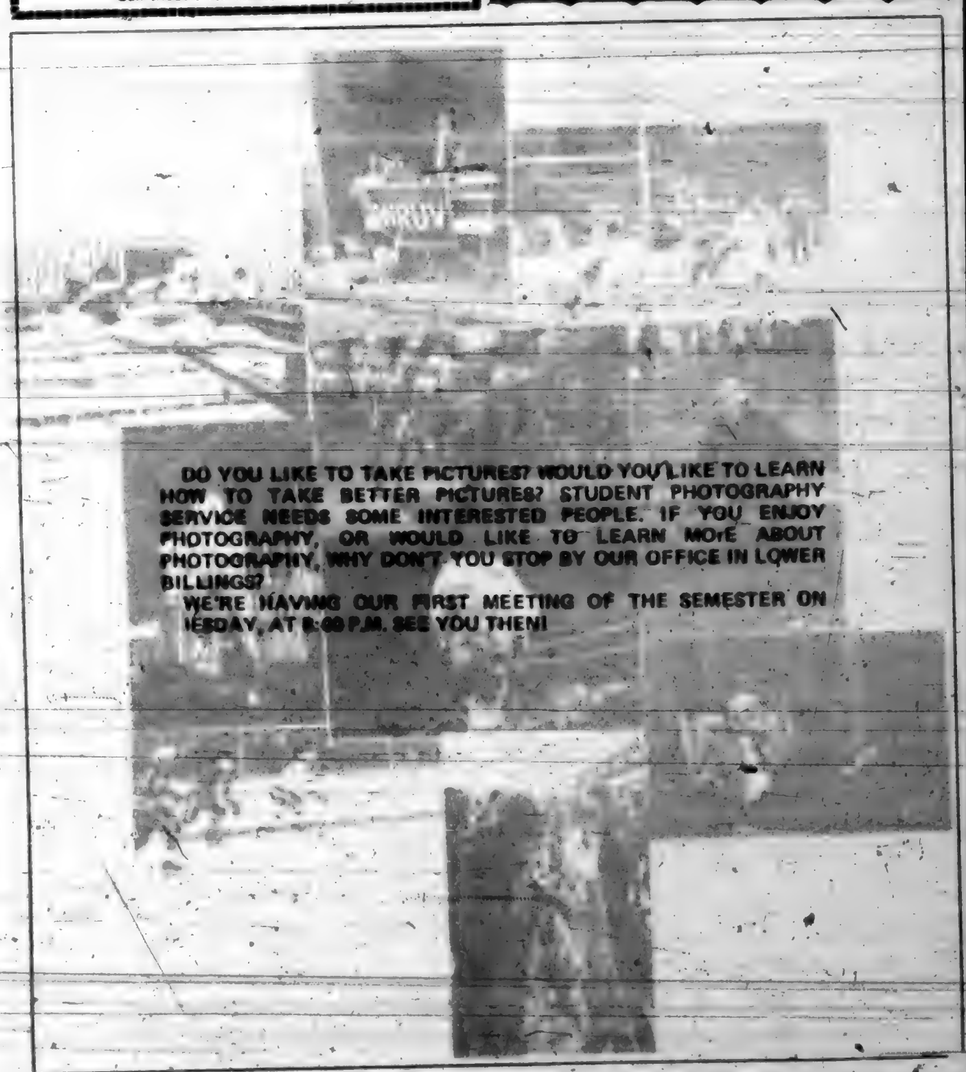
Showcase 1 & 2
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
7:10 + 9:30 PM

ROBIN HOOD
Call theatre for times
FLYNN
Fri – Sat – Sun Triple Feature in Stereo
MAD DOGS & ENGLISHMEN
WOODSTOCK
GIMME SHELTER
Call theatre for times

THE LAST CHANCE
A PLACE TO MINGLE
20¢ ALE Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM
PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE
OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK
147 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

SHOWN EVENINGS 7 & 9 pm
The Paper Chase
IMMEDIATELY TAKES RANK AS ONE OF THE BEST PICTURES OF THE AMERICAN YEAR
STATE
HELD OVER!

SAID IN WHAT BOOK?
"written by women for women, to communicate our excitement about the power of shared information, to assert that, in age of professionals, we are the best experts on ourselves and our feelings, to begin the collective struggle for adequate health care."
50% OFF THIS TITLE WITH CORRECT ANSWER, THROUGH FEBRUARY 5, 1974
The Vermont Book Shop
100 DORSET ST., S. BURLINGTON



APPEARING FOR ONE WEEK
ALBATROSS
FEB 4 - 10
MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED FEMALES FREE
WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10¢ NITE
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE
THE SILVER KEG
156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

Corgula
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt
wall hangings
mirrors wholesale
Tiffany buckles
shirts, dresses and blouses fr
Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia,
Nepal and other places near and

FOR THE WINNE
COMBINATI
A SUCCULENT FARE AND POTABLE BE CAPPED OFF BY ENTERTAINMENT
GUTTERSON FIE
WATCHING UVM
OR BASKETB
SIZZLI
STEA
1216 WILLISTON
SO. BURLINGTON, (NEXT TO SHOWCA (ACROSS FROM Mc

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Lane Series Brings Harkness Ballet

On their toes the forty members of the Harkness Ballet will dance onto the stage of Memorial Auditorium on Thursday, February 7, at 8:00 pm and perform under the auspices of UVM's Lane Series.

Tickets – many still available in the balcony – are on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, at $3.00, $5.00, and $6.00. For reservations call 656-3458.

The varied program of classical and modern works includes "Schubert Variations" with music by Franz Schubert and choreography by Vincente Nebrada, "The Brood" with music by Pierre Henry Schaeffer and choreography by Richard Kuch, "Le Corsaire" with music by Riccardo Drigo and staging by Bill Martin-Vincount, and "Ceremonials" with music by Alberto Ginastera and Norman Walker.

"Schubert Variations" is classical ballet in the grand tradition set to various piano music of Franz Schubert. "The Brood" is a powerful and touching modern work suggestive of Brecht's "Mother Courage and Her Children". "Le Corsaire" is a spectacular pas de deux in the great Russian tradition of classical bravura and "Ceremonials" is a modern work celebrating the rituals of life.

The Company is recently back from a triumphant tour of Europe. The tour included Spoleto, Italy; several towns in Yugoslavia; Villach, Austria; Athens, Greece; Paris and Nice, France; and Montreux and Geneva, Switzerland.

The Harkness Ballet's appearance at the Spoleto Festival was covered by the Christian Science Monitor, whose critic wrote, "The Harkness Ballet, a young, handsome company left spectators gasping at its power, verve and electricity." In Lausanne, Switzerland, The Tribune wrote: "With artists of such high quality, the Harkness Ballet can face a hard-to-please audience."

The current U. S. tour, with Burlington as its third stop, includes twenty-three cities and begins on February 3. Stops include Chicago, Minneapolis, Richmond (Virginia), Duluth, Columbus (Ohio), and Durham (North Carolina), before ending March 17 in Montclair, New Jersey.

Founded in 1964 by its Artistic Director, Rebekah Harkness, the Harkness Ballet is one of the nation's leading dance companies. It was founded to preserve the great tradition of classical ballet and at the same time press forward into new frontiers of dance, sponsoring a fresh approach to dance technique, choreography, musical composition and design.

After the U.S. tour the Harkness Ballet will appear April 9-21 in New York at the new Harkness Theater, Broadway between 62nd and 63rd streets, near Lincoln Center. May through August, the Company once more tours Europe and, also, the Middle East.

The current appearance of the Harkness Ballet in Burlington is the second under Lane Series auspices; the first was in 1969, when it gave two performances.

The next Lane concert will be Ambakaila, a folk dance company of 60 from the West Indies, featuring a steel band. The date is February 19.

LP Reviews: Taj Mahal, Mahavishnu Orchestra

by Michael Thurston

OoooOh So Good 'n Blues Taj Mahal/Columbia/Purity and Pointer Sisters. This new album by Taj is a great little number. This is some of the purest blues you'll find on record, with a bit of class added by the Pointer Sisters on back-up vocals. A variety of music and style, including hits from Willie Dixon, Mississippi John Hurt, and Elmore James.

It has been interesting to watch the progress of this artist, as he has gone from the complex, band blues, to the simple, gutsy, classic blues. Going from complexity to simplicity has been smooth, refreshing, and intelligent for Taj. His blues are natural, heartfelt, and sincere. A simply amazing album, in this time of electroparaphernalia. Production credits go to Taj. Cuts include Little Red Hen, Railroad Bill, and Dust My Broom.

Between Nothingness & Eternity/Mahavishnu Orchestra/Columbia/This live album, as the title implies, is total fantasy and dream. Musical excursions that scratch the skies, permit travel unparalleled by other bands boasting rock-jazz fusion. McLaughlin, the corner-stone of this remarkable group, remains low-key and camouflaged in this effort. His attempt at an underwhelming performance presents the rest of the band's greatness, in just the right proportion. At the same time, his presence is felt, and respected; in similar fashion, Billy Cobham, after his dramatic solo album-Spectrum, paces himself and does business with the boys.

Between Nothingness & Eternity is a recording of a beautiful concert in Central Park. It's as pure as an April shower, with fruits twice as rich. An excursion that remains an imagination trip. An emotional, spontaneous, nearly perfect record. Its tragic flaw lies in the length...which is much too short.

Stephen Stills and his very special guest, Maria Muldaur, will be appearing at 10 pm in UVM's Patrick Gym on Friday, February 15. Tickets ($4.50 with UVM student ID; $5.50 general admission) are on sale now at the UVM Bookstore and Bailey's Music Rooms.

The Paper Chase: Bottoms Excellent In Desperate Search For Identity

by Lissa Charles

If you are at all familiar with the pressures of law school, then go see "The Paper Chase" at the State Theatre. Even if you know nothing about the insanity of such an academic environment – go anyway, it is an educational experience (in the most ironic sense). For this film not only depicts the grossly competitive world of a law student, but discusses the real human emotions and relationships which threaten the delicate balance and organization of this academic and professional pursuit.

The plot of this film is simple, but the impact of certain scenes is truly penetrating and complex. James Hart (played by Timothy Bottoms) enrolls in Harvard Law School as a first year student, seeming to be the only person not consciously prepared for the greedy competition. The film follows Hart in chronological progression of the academic year as he joins a study group comprised of six students who collectively prepare for final exams. About the same time, Hart meets Susan (played by Lindsay Wagner) in Harvard Square. This particular scene, I might add, is a bit unrealistic or unnatural, at least. For she latches onto Hart as he is walking out of a pizzeria, in a desperate effort to escape from the "stranger" who is following her. (knowing all the while that Hart is as much a stranger). For quite a while this romance progresses on a superficial level until Hart discovers that Susan is the daughter of his "Contracts" professor, Dr. Kingsfield.

The remainder of the plot is fairly predictable, and duly secondary to the underlying message of the film. What really matters is the psychological development and stability of Hart's mind, which the film so accurately expresses. For we view this character in constant battle with himself, Susan and Kingsfield, trying to understand, master and conquer all.

Timothy Bottoms does an excellent job in portraying the desperate search for identity, the struggle between the rational and irrational, and the painful sacrifices in a love relationship. His fine artistry produces a convincing role of the student who progresses from the destructive obsession with "grades" and the "upper echelon of students", to the penetrating point of self-realization.

Lindsay Wagner, however, only seems to compliment Timothy Bottoms' outstanding performance. She handles her part competently, but does not develop Susan's character to the fullest extent. Compensating for this dramatic weakness is the commendable performance of John Houseman, who plays Dr. Kingsfield. Houseman proficiently handles the role of a staunch, aristocratic, bastardly professor who intimidates, badgers, yet builds the psyche of each student.

The film as a whole seems a bit slow, but the pace is insignificant in light of this penetrating theme. James Bridges, the director, should indeed be commended for his artistry, for the film is a healthy melange of drama and comic relief. The supporting roles in addition to the skillful combination of cinematography and classical music, certainly add the finishing touches to this thought-provoking film.

"The Paper Chase", however, is not for everyone. If you are suffering from the repercussions of a nervous breakdown, or are simply disgusted with the angry world of competition, then go see Robin Hood instead – the impact will not be as bewildering.

Campus Temperatures...

(continued from page one)

degrees.

One solution to combat winds that regularly storm Old Mill is to affix storm windows to the structure. Windows are expected to arrive in February. The possibility of putting storm windows on other buildings has not been considered.

Newton summed up the problem: "A heating system is designed to maintain 72 degrees throughout the building when the outside temperature falls to -20 degrees. We are asking some systems to maintain a 62-65 degree temperature under the same circumstances." According to Newton this creates something less than the maximum efficiency in a heating system.

Phys. Ed.

(continued from page one)

review and approval of new programs and courses.

The opening remarks of Andrews and Patterson both concerned the energy crisis. Andrews spoke of the four day week and the mixed reaction he has received. He also urged the senate to discuss the four day week in an effort to decide on whether or not retain the schedule for upcoming semesters. Patterson stated that he was sufficiently satisfied with the fuel situation for this year but was significantly worried about 1975 and 1976. He mentioned that one problem was that companies can sell fuel to homeowners cheaper than to the university and this could possibly result in a reduction of fuel allocation in the future.

The Faculty Senate will meet next on Wednesday, February 6, at 4:30.

MOVIE GUIDE
Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE
THE PAPER CHASE
7 + 9 PM

CINEMA 1 & 2
The Tall Blond Man with One Black Shoe
7 + 9 PM
Chariots of the Gods
7 + 9 PM

Showcase 1 & 2
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
7:10 + 9:30 PM

ROBIN HOOD
Call theatre for times

FLYNN
Fri – Sat – Sun Triple Feature in Stereo
MAD DOGS & ENGLISHMEN
WOODSTOCK
GIMME SHELTER
Call theatre for times

THE LAST CHANCE
A PLACE TO MINGLE
20¢ ALE Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM.
PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE
OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK
147 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

SHOWN EVENINGS 7 & 9 pm
The Paper Chase
"IMMEDIATELY TAKES RANK AS ONE OF THE BEST PICTURES OF THE AMERICAN YEAR" PG
STATE
HELD OVER!

SAID IN WHAT BOOK?
"written by women for women, to communicate our excitement about the power of shared information, to assert that, in age of professionals, we are the best experts on ourselves and our feelings, to begin the collective struggle for adequate health care."
50% OFF THIS TITLE WITH CORRECT ANSWER, THROUGH FEBRUARY 5, 1974
The Vermont Book Shop
100 DORSET ST., S. BURLINGTON

DO YOU LIKE TO TAKE PICTURES? WOULD YOU LIKE TO LEARN HOW TO TAKE BETTER PICTURES? STUDENT PHOTOGRAPHY SERVICE NEEDS SOME INTERESTED PEOPLE. IF YOU ENJOY PHOTOGRAPHY, OR WOULD LIKE TO LEARN MORE ABOUT PHOTOGRAPHY, WHY DON'T YOU STOP BY OUR OFFICE IN LOWER BILLINGS?
WE'RE HAVING OUR FIRST MEETING OF THE SEMESTER ON TUESDAY, AT 8:00 P.M. SEE YOU THEN!

APPEARING FOR ONE WEEK
ALBATROSS
FEB 4 - 10
MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED FEMALES FREE
WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10¢ NITE
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE
THE SILVER KEG
156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

Affiliate

(continued from page one)

untenured faculty have brought pressure to unionize.

The present swelling of the faculty union has occurred largely as a result of the infamous Philosophy Four case. However, now the union is seriously contemplating more drastic action. Many of its members are anxious to join a national union. The threat of a loss of autonomy is decisively outweighed by the support power a national union would provide. The active union members on campus are younger, widely involved faculty who must publish to establish a reputation. Thus, they are already overworked and must struggle to find time to implement a long range, sustained organization thrust. Furthermore, the local union is not officially recognized by the University, and as such, does not have access to funds or facilities. A national union would automatically provide funds for recruitment and even more importantly for legal representation in the event that a faculty member feels he or she has been unfairly judged.

Two made Firstly question national chosen. prominc the Associa Federat latter militant more the NE its im docility unioniz prelimi motion active begin extend Arts an

Rec humbl traditio distaste upper to laborer their This Many as ind scholar a dan must aware

CORGUZA
1301 Shelburne Rd. So. Burlington, Vt
wall hangings
mirrors wholesale
Tiffany buckles
boutique
bedspr tapest boxes, wine turquo jewelr incens books, plante shirts, dresses and blouses fr Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Nepal and other places near and

FOR THE WINNI COMBINATI
A SUCCULENT FARE AND POTABLE BE CAPPED OFF BY S ENTERTAINMENT A GUTTERSON FIE WATCHING UVM OR BASKETB
SIZZLI STEA
1216 WILLISTON SO. BURLINGTON, (NEXT TO SHOWCA (ACROSS FROM McDO

...phen Stills and his very special guest, Marin Mulder, ...be appearing at 10 pm in UVM's Patrick Gym on ..., February 15. Tickets ($4.50 with UVM student ID, ... general admission) are on sale now at the UVM ...tore and Bailey's Music Rooms.

...ate Search For Identity

... Hart meets Susan ... by Lindsay Wagner) ...rvard Square. This ...lar scene, I might add, ...bit unrealistic or ...ral, at least for she ... onto Hart as he is ... out of a pizzeria in a ...te effort to escape ...he "stranger" who is ...ng her (knowing all ...le that Hart is as much ...er). For quite a while ...nance progresses on a ...ual level until Hart ...rs that Susan is the ...t of his "contracts" ...e, Dr. Kingsfield ... remainder of the plot ... predictable, and duly ...ry to the underlying ... of the film. What ... matters is the ...ical development ...sibility of Hart's mind; ... the film so accurately ...es. For we view this ...er in constant battle ...himself. Susan and ...rfield trying to ...tand, master and ... all ...thy Bottoms does an ...t job in portraying ...desperate search for ...y the struggle between ...tional and irrational ...e painful sacrifices in a ...relationship. His fine ... produces a convincing ...of the student who ...eases from the ...ctive, obsession with ...s" and the "upper ...n of students" to the ... penetrating point of self-realization.

Lindsay Wagner, however, only seems to compliment Timothy Bottoms' outstanding performance. She handles her part competently, but does not develop Susan's character to the fullest extent. Compensating for this dramatic weakness is the commendable performance of John Houseman, who plays Dr. Kingsfield. Houseman proficiently handles the role of a staunch, aristocratic, bastardly professor who intimidates, badgers, yet builds the psyche of each student.

The film as a whole seems a bit flow, but the pace is insignificant in light of this penetrating theme. James Bridges the director, should indeed be commended for his artistry; for the film is a healthy melange of drama and comic relief. The supporting roles in addition to the skillful combination of cinematography and classical music, certainly add the finishing touches to this thought-provoking film.

The Paper Chase" however, is not for everyone. If you are suffering from the repercussions of a nervous breakdown, or are simply disgusted with the angry world of competition, then go see Robin Hood instead the impact will not be as bewildering.

...ampus Temperatures...

...nued from page one)

... Newton summed up the ... pollution to combat ... problem. "A heating system ... that regularly storm ... is designed to maintain 72 ... Mill is to affix storm ... degrees throughout the ...ws to the structure ... building when the outside ...ws are expected to ... temperature falls to -20 ... in February. The ... degrees. We are asking some ...ility of putting storm ... systems to maintain a 62-65 ...ws on other buildings ... degree temperature under the ... been considered. ... same circumstances." ... According to Newton this ... creates something less than ... the maximum efficiency in a ... heating system.

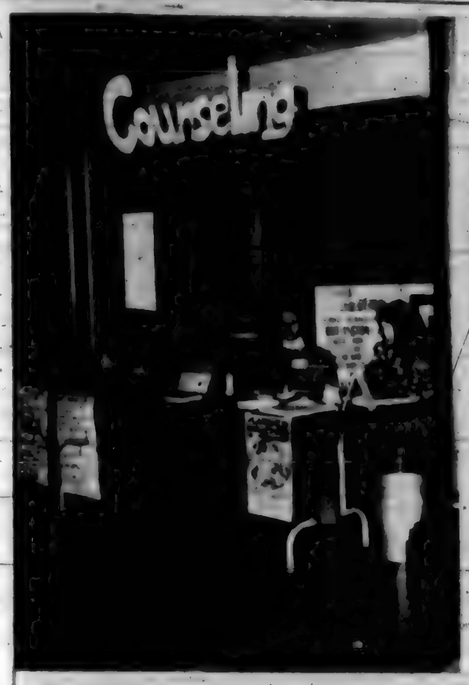
Phys. Ed.

(continued from page one)

review and approval of new programs and courses.

The opening remarks of Andrews and Patterson both concerned the energy crisis. Andrews spoke of the four day week and the mixed reaction he has received. He also urged the senate to discuss the four day week in an effort to decide on whether or not retain the schedule for upcoming semesters. Patterson stated that he was sufficiently satisfied with the fuel situation for this year but was significantly worried about 1975 and 1976. He mentioned that one problem was that companies can sell fuel to homeowners cheaper than to the university and this could possibly result in a reduction of fuel allocation in the future.

The Faculty Senate will meet next on Wednesday, February 6, at 4:30.



SP's Photo: Wynn Gold

OVP Commences Semester With Opportunities Booklet

The OVP/UVA office staff put the Christmas vacation time to good use by writing and putting together a Volunteer Opportunity Booklet. Sharon Williams, Pat Torpie, Dawn Andrews and Becky Burt burnt some midnight oil first developing the concept of having all volunteer opportunities listed in one place, and then writing individual descriptions for each project and agency served by OVP/UVA volunteers.

The result is a compact, newsprint booklet which will be readily available for new volunteers when they come in to be interviewed and placed this semester. Previously all volunteer opportunities were listed individually in one large book which made it impossible for more than one person to read about them at one time. Now, with many copies available, a large number of students can be involved in the interview process at the same time because they can become familiar with the opportunities available to them in their field of interest by checking one of the many copies of the booklet which will be available at the office.

Copies of the booklet will also be distributed to classes where specific recruitment efforts are taking place.

The format of the booklet includes paragraph descriptions of agencies and projects as well as the specific kinds of tools their volunteers will need. Also given a priority space is the time commitment necessary for effective work on each project. In this way, students are immediately aware of how much time they will be required to spend with any given project.

If you happened to be traveling around Billings Center this past Tuesday and Wednesday, you may have seen the OVP Fair. If you attended the Fair you had a chance to speak with community agency personnel who staffed individual volunteer booths. Project Coordinators of UVM student programs were also at the Fair.

Lining the walls were brightly decorated booths designed to attract and inform students about specific volunteer opportunities available to them.

The big question is: Did you look at any of the booths or talk to any of the people? With the new four-day week there is an extra day available to explore such projects as The Urban Youth Center, 4-H Garden Center, Big Brother/Sister, Consumer Fraud, Probation and Parole, King Street Area Youth Project, the Free Breakfast Program, Rock Point School, VPIRG, the YMCA, Planned Parenthood, the Dental Health Program, Interfaith Senior Citizens Center, the Place, Weeks School and dozens of others.

If you missed the gathering at Billings, you may well have missed a gala affair. However, the volunteer opportunities and needs continue to exist. Information and advice on particular volunteer placement is available in the Office of Volunteer Programs on the first floor of Mansfield House.

Drug Survey Volunteers

In March of 1973 and again in July, researchers for VPIRG discovered many stores which, refused to comply with the price posting law. Repeated attempts by VPIRG to compel the authorities to correct this problem have not met with success. Recent spot checks have again turned up a large number of violations. Although there are strict penalties for violations, the Board of Pharmacy and the Consumer Fraud Bureau have taken little action. VPIRG has concluded that ill definition of authority have caused obvious enforcement problems.

On the brighter side, VPIRG has found a general lowering of pharmaceutical prices. This may well be due to VPIRG's state-wide survey and increased public attention stimulated by the survey.

Volunteers are needed to (1) conduct a state-wide survey; (2) find out if doctors who sell medicine to their patients are over-charging; (3) conduct a survey of doctors asking them to estimate the cost of prescriptions they commonly write; (4) investigate the discrepancy between the 90 percent success rate claimed by optometrists and the 50 percent success rate quoted by other sources.

Mike Labella, University Year For Action volunteer at VPIRG is in charge of the drug survey. Volunteers should either contact him directly at VPIRG (863-3438) or come to the OVP office. In any case, volunteers are asked to notify Sharon Williams at OVP if they are working at VPIRG.

Four Day Work Week Affects OVP

The Office of Volunteer Programs must comply with UVM's energy conserving policy of closing offices as well as discontinuing classes on Mondays. Therefore, the office staff will not be at Mansfield House on Mondays. In emergencies all staff members are willing to take calls at home.

Tuesday through Friday, the office will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. If you have questions or problems with the fact that the office staff will not be readily available on Mondays, please come and see us about it. We are trying to compensate, as are other university offices, by the prolonged hours Tuesday through Friday.

Soapbox Derby

A group of enthusiastic and very brave UVM students participated in a soapbox derby late last semester. The derby was the brainchild of St. Anselm's Chapel's new and dedicated Chaplain Odie. His idea was carried out by members of St. Anselms and UVM students. The proceeds from the derby have been contributed to the Office of Volunteer Programs Project Coordinator's Council for distribution, at their discretion, to new and ongoing OVP Projects.

The OVP/UVA people are grateful both to Odie and to the many students who participated in the derby to make this contribution to OVP possible.

Interested in writing style? Stop in at the Cynic Copy Department — we'd like to get to know you.

Affiliate With AFT...

(continued from page one)

untenured faculty have brought pressure to unionize.

The present swelling of the faculty union has occurred largely as a result of the infamous Philosophy Four case. However, now the union is seriously contemplating more drastic action. Many of its members are anxious to join a national union. The threat of a loss of autonomy is decisively outweighed by the supportive power a national union would provide. The active union members on campus are younger, widely involved faculty who must publish to establish a reputation. Thus, they are already overworked and must struggle to find time to implement a long range, sustained organization thrust. Furthermore, the local union is not officially recognized by the University, and as such, does not have access to funds or facilities. A national union would automatically provide funds for recruitment and even more importantly for legal representation in the event that a faculty member feels he or she has been unfairly judged.

Two decisions must be made by union members. Firstly, there is the vital question of whether to join a national union. Secondly, the national union must be chosen. Two of the prominent possibilities are the National Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers. The latter has traditionally been militant, outspoken, and more successful. However, the NEA is trying to change its image of passivity and docility. The verdict to unionize nationally is only a preliminary step. Once the motion has been passed an active recruiting process must begin. This process must extend beyond the College of Arts and Sciences.

Recruitment may prove a stumbling block. Unions have traditionally been viewed distastefully by society's upper strata as organizations to protect workingmen, laborers or those who use their hands to earn a living. This is a misconception. Many faculty view themselves as independent gentlemanly scholars. This false concept is a dangerous one. Faculty must become increasingly aware of the fact that they are employed by an institution and will remain hired or fired according to the whims of that institution. The union will be concerned with the very issue of the policies of firing and hiring. The present rules for reappointment are too bendable and too subjective. The present concept for meritorious performance is a vague one, subject to the individual whims of the department chairman. A more equitable objective standard should be adopted, one which clearly defines competent performance as a criteria for reappointment or tenure. This criteria could be upgraded year by year with the stipulation that the changes be specified.

Presently the younger and untenured faculty are in an unsecure position. This constant worry about job security ultimately causes student suffering by creating a restrictive academic atmosphere. Faculty must organize themselves in order to pursue issues of academic freedom. They must change their position of relative powerlessness in the decision-making process.

Your Dorm, More Than A Place To Sleep

by Bill Campbell

What is needed to transform these sterile, sometimes lonely, brick residence halls from merely barren structures into a living area complete with a sense that they are home? Some might want a full keg in every lounge four times a week; others might feel that co-ed floors would do the trick. Well, a more realistic alternative is already here.

Paul Stonely, the area coordinator of the M.A.T. complex had the idea a while ago of an Alternative Center for education in the hall. He feels this will promote a feeling of unity within the residence halls. If the students have a chance to participate in seminars that they are interested in, they will have a greater chance to come into contact with unfamiliar ideas and meet more people. He enlisted the aid of Kate Daily and John Cooper to act as the coordinators of the project. These two, along with the assistance of Carol Luthman (in charge of publicity) and a group of twenty-five students, have been contacting people who have something interesting or unusual which they would like to share with others.

The concept behind the program is simple. Designed so that anyone may have a certain place (MAT lounge) at a certain time (7:30 p.m.) on any night (Sunday through Thursday) to congregate, the program offers a number of diversions both entertaining and informative. A.C.E. is an outgrowth of the principle behind the Living-Learning Complex, attempting to make the resident halls more than just a place to sleep.

The evening of Sunday, February 3 will bring a John Bruder, a practising hermit, to the MAT lounge to speak on his philosophy. The future should include President Andrews speaking of his experiences with trans-Atlantic sailing, the movie Straw Dogs, and a seminar on the art of bartending. The subjects of the presentations should be as varied as the lectures. However, it is hoped that there will be a few weekly themes. Suggestions have included a ski week and Womens' Liberation.

The schedule for A.C.E. is being placed on numerous calendars around Burlington and on the campus. Students, faculty and staff are urged to get involved if they know of someone interested in giving a presentation. This would give persons a chance to demonstrate their arts or talent. Contact Kate Daily at ext. 2955 or the MAT main desk (ext. 2901).

Possibilities for the program are numerous. Joint efforts with "The Next Thing" and "Project Crash" are open for the future. So maybe the idea will grow and each complex will open up different avenues for interpersonal communication. We hope to see you on February 3.

The A.E.C. schedule for the first week in February:

February 3, John Bruda, hermit priest;

February 4, Philosophy Four;

February 5, Liz Yeats, "The Posture War;"

February 6, Dale Hyerstay, "The Art of Bartending".

VALUABLE COUPON
SAVE SAVE
SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS
10% DISCOUNT
ON YOUR PURCHASES AT
CAMPUS PHARMACY
ACROSS FROM The Medical Center
SAVE SAVE

CORDUROY
1301 Shelburne Rd. So. Burlington, Vt.
bedspreads, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues
wall hangings
mirrors wholesale retail Tiffany buckles bells
beads antler pipes
hookahs
boutique
862-8628-3712
shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

WE DISCOUNT THE DISCOUNTERS
tape city, u.s.a.
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK • 10 AM to 10 PM • 879-0448
SWAP-A-TAPE
PAY $1.00 and turn in a tape of yours that you are tired of listening to and you'll be able to select a tape of your choice from our Swap-A-Rack! Thousands of the greatest hits to choose from!
$1.00 each
RT. 7 AND BLAKELY ROAD, COLCHESTER, VT.

GIGANTIC SKI SALE

ENTIRE STOCK ON SALE
SKIS
BOOTS
POLES MITTENS
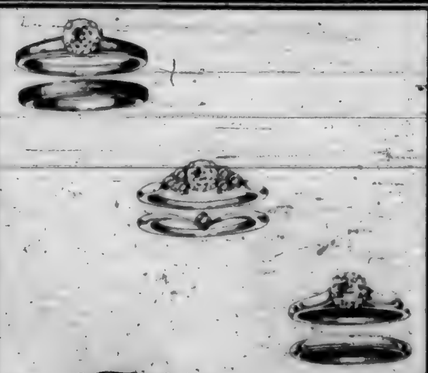
GLOVES
UNDERWEAR
WARM-UP PANTS
20% to 50% OFF
SOCKS
PARKAS
SWEATERS
SKI PANTS
CAR RACKS
TURTLENECKS
AFTER-SKI BOOTS
ALPINE SHOP
1184 Williston Road - S. Burlington - Open Daily 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.

FOR THE WINNING COMBINATION:
A SUCCULENT FARE OF STEAKS AND POTABLE BEVERAGES, CAPPED OFF BY SPORTS ENTERTAINMENT AT NEARBY GUTTERSON FIELDHOUSE WATCHING UVM HOCKEY OR BASKETBALL
SIZZLING STEAK
1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(NEXT TO SHOWCASE I & II)
(ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)



A gift of diamonds is a beautiful tribute to the woman you love.
Prices start at under $100
You are invited to open a Charge Account at Preston's.
F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

T

...phen Stills and his very special guest, Maria Muldaur, ...be appearing at 10 pm in UVM's Patrick Gym on ...y, February 13. Tickets ($4.50 with UVM student ID, ... general admission) are on sale now at the UVM ...store and Bailey's Music Rooms.

...ate Search For Identity

... Hart meets Susan ... by Lindsay Wagner) ...arvard Square. This ...lar scene, I might add, ... but unrealistic or ...ral, at least. For she ... onto Hart as he is ... out of a pizzeria, in a ...te effort to escape ...the "stranger" who is ...ng her (knowing all ...le that Hart is as much ...ses). For quite a while ...nance progresses on a ...ial level until Hart, ...rns that Susan is the ...t of his "contracts" ...e, Dr. Kingsfield ... remainder of the plot ... predictable and duly ...ry to the underlying ... of the film. What ... matters – in the ...logical development ...ability of Hart's mind, ...the film so accurately ...s. For we view this ...ter in constant battle ... himself, Susan and ...field trying to ...ngfield master and ...e all.

...othy Bottoms does an ...ent job in portraying ...desperate search for ...y, the struggle between ...tional and irrational ...e painful sacrifices in a ...relationship. His fine ... produces a convincing ...of the student who ...ases from the ...time obsession with ...s" and the "upper ...n of students" to the ...bewildering.

...The Paper Chase", however, is not for everyone. If you are suffering from the repercussions of a nervous breakdown, or are simply disgusted with the angry world of competition, then go see Robin Hood instead – the impact will not be as bewildering.

...ampus Temperatures...

...nued from page one

... solution to combat ... that regularly storm ...Hill, is to affix storm ...ows to the structure. ...ows are expected to ... in February. The ...ility of putting storm ...ows on other buildings ...e been considered.

Newton summed up the problem: "A heating system is designed to maintain 72 degrees throughout the building, when the outside temperature falls to -20 degrees. We are asking some systems to maintain a 62-65 degree temperature under the same circumstances." According to Newton this creates something less than the maximum efficiency in a heating system.

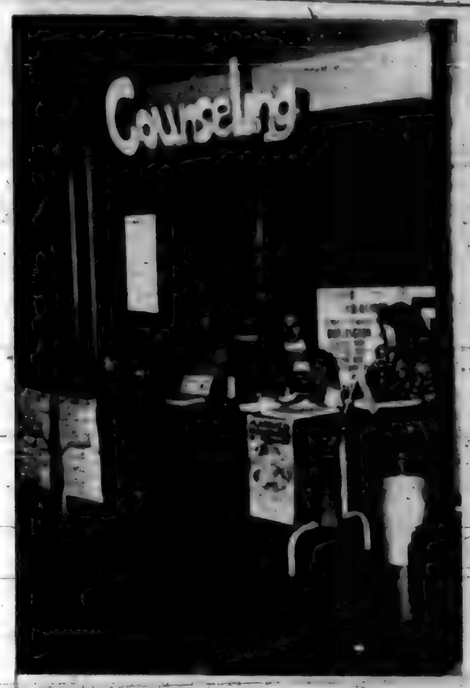
Phys. Ed.

(continued from page one)

review and approval of new programs and courses.

The opening remarks of Andrews and Patterson both concerned the energy crisis. Andrews spoke of the four day week and the mixed reaction he has received. He also urged the senate to discuss the four day week in an effort to decide on whether or not retain the schedule for upcoming semesters. Patterson stated that he was sufficiently satisfied with the fuel situation for this year but was significantly worried about 1975 and 1976. He mentioned that one problem was that companies can sell fuel to homeowners cheaper than to the university and this could possibly result in a reduction of fuel allocation in the future.

The Faculty Senate will meet next on Wednesday, February 6, at 4:30.



Cynic Photo: Wynn Gold

OVP Commences Semester With Opportunities Booklet

The OVP/UVA office staff put the Christmas vacation time to good use by writing and putting together a Volunteer Opportunity Booklet. Sharon Williams, Pat Torpie, Dawn Andrews and Becky Burr burnt some midnight oil first developing the concept of having all volunteer opportunities listed in one place, and then writing individual descriptions for each project and agency served by OVP/UVA volunteers.

The result is a compact, newsprint booklet which will be readily available for new volunteers when they come in to be interviewed and placed this semester. Previously all volunteer opportunities were listed individually in one large book which made it impossible for more than one person to read about them at one time. Now, with many copies available, a large number of students can be involved in the interview process at the same time because they can become familiar with the opportunities available to them in their field of interest by checking one of the many copies of the booklet which will be available at the office.

Copies of the booklet will also be distributed to classes where specific recruitment efforts are taking place.

The format of the booklet includes paragraph descriptions of agencies and projects as well as the specific kinds of tools their volunteers will need. Also given a priority space is the time commitment necessary for effective work on each project. In this way, students are immediately aware of how much time they will be required to spend with any given project.

If you happened to be traveling around Billings Center this past Tuesday and Wednesday, you may have seen the OVP Fair. If you attended the Fair you had a chance to speak with community agency personnel who staffed individual volunteer booths. Project Coordinators of UVM student programs were also at the Fair.

Lining the walls were brightly decorated booths designed to attract and inform students about specific volunteer opportunities available to them.

The big question is: Did you look at any of the booths or talk to any of the people? With the new four-day week there is an extra day available to explore such projects as The Urban Youth Center, 4-H Garden Center, Big Brother/Sister, Consumer Fraud, Probation and Parole, King Street Area Youth Project, the Free Breakfast Program, Rock Point School, VPIRG, the YMCA, Planned Parenthood, the Dental Health Program, Interfaith, Senior Citizens Center, the Place, Weeks School and dozens of others.

If you missed the gathering at Billings, you may well have missed a gala affair. However, the volunteer opportunities and needs continue to exist. Information and advice on particular volunteer placement is available in the Office of Volunteer Programs on the first floor of Mansfield House.

Drug Survey Volunteers

In March of 1973 and again in July, researchers for VPIRG discovered many stores which refused to comply with the price posting law. Repeated attempts by VPIRG to compel the authorities to correct this problem have not met with success. Recent spot checks have again turned up a large number of violations. Although there are strict penalties for violations, the Board of Pharmacy and the Consumer Fraud Bureau have taken little action. VPIRG has concluded that ill definition of authority have caused obvious enforcement problems.

On the brighter side, VPIRG has found a general lowering of pharmaceutical prices. This may well be due to VPIRG's state-wide survey and increased public attention stimulated by the survey.

Volunteers are needed to (1) conduct a state-wide survey; (2) find out if doctors who sell medicine to their patients are over-charging; (3) conduct a survey of doctors asking them to estimate the cost of prescriptions they commonly write; (4) investigate the discrepancy between the 90 percent success rate claimed by optometrists and the 50 percent success rate quoted by other sources.

Mike Labella, University Year For Action volunteer at VPIRG is in charge of the drug survey. Volunteers should either contact him directly at VPIRG (863-3435) or come to the OVP office. In any case, volunteers are asked to notify Sharon Williams at OVP if they are working at VPIRG.

Four Day Work Week Affects OVP

The Office of Volunteer Programs must comply with UVM's energy conserving policy of closing offices as well as discontinuing classes on Mondays. Therefore, the office staff will not be at Mansfield House on Mondays. In emergencies all staff members are willing to take calls at home.

Tuesday through Friday, the office will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. If you have questions or problems with the fact that the office staff will not be readily available on Mondays, please come and see us about it. We are trying to compensate, as are other university offices, by the prolonged hours Tuesday through Friday.

Soapbox Derby

A group of enthusiastic and very brave UVM students participated in a soapbox derby late last semester. The derby was the brainchild of St. Anselm's Chapel's new and dedicated Chaplain Odie. His idea was carried out by members of St. Anselms and UVM students. The proceeds from the derby have been contributed to the Office of Volunteer Programs Project Coordinator's Council for distribution, at their discretion, to new and ongoing OVP Projects.

The OVP/UVA people are grateful both to Odie and to the many students who participated in the derby to make this contribution to OVP possible.

Interested in writing style? Stop in at the Cynic Copy Department – we'd like to get to know you.

Affiliate With AFT...

(continued from page one)

untenured faculty have brought pressure to unionize.

The present swelling of the faculty union has occurred largely as a result of the infamous Philosophy Four case. However, now the union is seriously contemplating more drastic action. Many of its members are anxious to join a national union. The threat of a loss of autonomy is decisively outweighed by the supportive power a national union would provide. The active union members on campus are younger, widely involved faculty who must publish to establish a reputation. Thus, they are already overworked and must struggle to find time to implement a long range, sustained organization thrust. Furthermore, the local union is not officially recognized by the University, and as such, does not have access to funds or facilities. A national union would automatically provide funds for recruitment and even more importantly for legal representation in the event that a faculty member feels he or she has been unfairly judged.

Two decisions must be made by union members. Firstly, there is the vital question of whether to join a national union. Secondly, the national union must be chosen. Two of the prominent possibilities are the National Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers. The latter has traditionally been militant, outspoken, and more successful. However, the NEA is trying to change its image of passivity and docility. The verdict to unionize nationally is only a preliminary step. Once the motion has been passed an active recruiting process must begin. This process must extend beyond the College of Arts and Sciences.

Recruitment may prove a stumbling block. Unions have traditionally been viewed distastefully by society's upper strata as organizations to protect workingmen, laborers or those who use their hands to earn a living. This is a misconception. Many faculty view themselves as independent gentlemanly scholars. This false concept is a dangerous one. Faculty must become increasingly aware of the fact that they are employed by an institution and will remain hired or fired according to the whims of that institution. The union will be concerned with the very issue of the policies of firing and hiring. The present rules for reappointment are too bendable and too subjective. The present concept for meritorious performance is a vague one, subject to the individual whims of the department chairman. A more equitable objective standard should be adopted, one which clearly defines competent performance as a criteria for reappointment or tenure. This criteria could be upgraded year by year with the stipulation that the changes be specified. Presently the younger and untenured faculty are in an unsecure position. This constant worry about job security ultimately causes student suffering by creating a restrictive academic atmosphere. Faculty must organize themselves in order to pursue issues of academic freedom. They must change their position of relative powerlessness in the decision-making process.

Your Dorm, More Than A Place To Sleep

by Bill Campbell

What is needed to transform these sterile, sometimes lonely brick residence halls from merely barren structures into a living area complete with a sense that they are home? Some might want a full keg in every lounge four times a week; others might feel that co-ed floors would do the trick. Well, a more realistic alternative is already here.

Paul Stonely, the area coordinator of the M.A.T. complex had the idea a while ago of an Alternative Center for education in the hall. He feels this will promote a feeling of unity within the residence halls. If the students have a chance to participate in seminars that they are interested in, they will have a greater chance to come into contact with unfamiliar ideas and meet more people. He enlisted the aid of Kate Daily and John Cooper to act as the coordinators of the project. These two, along with the assistance of Carol Luthman (in charge of publicity) and a group of twenty-five students, have been contacting people who have something interesting or unusual which they would like to share with others.

The concept behind the program is simple. Designed so that anyone may have a certain place (MAT lounge) at a certain time (7:30 p.m.) on any night (Sunday through Thursday) to congregate, the program offers a number of diversions both entertaining and informative. A.C.E. is an outgrowth of the principle behind the Living-Learning Complex, attempting to make the resident halls more than just a place to sleep.

The evening of Sunday, February 3 will bring a John Bruder, a practising hermit, to the MAT lounge to speak on his philosophy. The future should include President Andrews speaking of his experiences with trans-Atlantic sailing, the movie Straw Dogs, and a seminar on the art of bartending. The subjects of the presentations should be as varied as the lectures. However, it is hoped that there will be a few weekly themes. Suggestions have included a ski week and Womens' Liberation.

The schedule for A.C.E. is being placed on numerous calendars around Burlington and on the campus. Students, faculty and staff are urged to get involved if they know of someone interested in giving a presentation. This would give persons a chance to demonstrate their arts or talent. Contact Kate Daily at ext. 2955 or the MAT main desk (ext. 2901).

Possibilities for the program are numerous. Joint efforts with "The Next Thing" and "Project Crash" are open for the future. So maybe the idea will grow and, each complex will open up different avenues for interpersonal communication. We hope to see you on February 3.

The A.E.C. schedule for the first week in February:

February 3, John Bruda, hermit-priest;

February 4, Philosophy Four;

February 5, Liz Yeats, "The Posture War;"

February 6, Dale Hyerkay, "The Art of Bartending."

VALUABLE COUPON

SAVE SAVE

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM The Medical Center

SAVE SAVE

CORIGUZZI

1301 Shelburne Rd. So. Burlington, Vt.

bedspreads, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues

wall hangings

bells

mirrors

imports curio wholesale retail boutique

beads

Tiffany buckles

802-863-3712

antler pipes

hookahs

shirts, dresses and blouses from India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

WE DISCOUNT THE DISCOUNTERS

tape city, u.s.a.

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK • 10 AM to 10 PM • 879-0448

SWAP-A-TAPE

PAY $1.00 and turn in a tape of yours that you are tired of listening to and you'll be able to select a tape of your choice from our Swap-A-Rack! Thousands of the greatest hits to choose from!

$1.00 each

RT. 7 AND BLAKELY ROAD, COLCHESTER, VT.

GIGANTIC SKI SALE

ENTIRE STOCK ON SALE

SKIS, BOOTS, POLES, MITTENS, GLOVES, UNDERWEAR, WARM-UP PANTS

20% to 50% OFF

SOCKS, PARKAS, SWEATERS, SKI PANTS, CAR RACKS, TURTLENECKS, AFTER-SKI BOOTS

ALPINE SHOP

1184 Williston Road - S. Burlington - Open Daily 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.

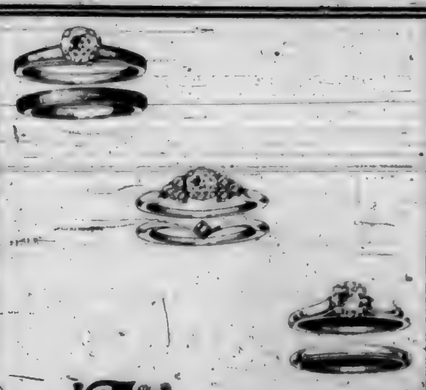
FOR THE WINNING COMBINATION:

A SUCCULENT FARE OF STEAKS AND POTABLE BEVERAGES, CAPPED OFF BY SPORTS ENTERTAINMENT AT NEARBY GUTTERSON FIELDHOUSE WATCHING UVM HOCKEY OR BASKETBALL

SIZZLING STEAK

1216 WILLISTON ROAD SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT

(NEXT TO SHOWCASE I & II) (ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)



A gift of diamonds is a beautiful tribute to the woman you love.

Prices start at under $100

You are invited to open a Charge Account at Preston's.

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

Students In VPIRG Fight For Public

(continued from page one)

drug survey. It was a survey of the prices of the 100 most used prescription drugs at all of the druggists in the state of Vermont. Disparities of 400 per cent were often found in neighboring communities.

BOTTLE BILL — Vermont's first law banning non-returnable bottles was put into action as a result of VPIRG's work.

HEALTH PLANS- VPIRG's research revealed that there were conflicts of interest among the directors on the Board of Blue Cross Blue Shield and showed that this related to the problem of controlling medical costs.

LAND USE PLANS VPIRG has supported a strong land capability and development plan, a capital gains tax on land sales (now law), and legislation to ban strip mining of copper.

SMALL CLAIMS COURT — a recent VPIRG report showed that this court is used almost exclusively as a bill collection agency to the detriment of the average Vermonters. (resultant legislation is being written now)

LIFE INSURANCE VPIRG's Guide to Life Insurance revealed that costs may vary over 150 per cent and showed consumers how to shop for insurance by using actual cost figures rather than premiums.

ENERGY CONSERVATION — at many of the member VPIRG campuses projects were initiated by VPIRG students and carried out all members of the University Community. (the original energy conservation committee was comprised entirely of VPIRG students. It was they who gave guidance to the President's office for the UVM energy conservation plans.)

LABOR VPIRG through one of its attorneys aided in fact-finding and acted as an intermediary between contractors and laborers to promote serious negotiations for the improvement of employment in the construction industry.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE COMPANY VPIRG has actively and successfully fought rate increases sought by New England Telephone Company. The company has just applied for another increase. The first increase last year would have meant an increase in the cost of service to the Burlington area of about 45 per cent.

Many of the projects of The Vermont Public Interest Research Group not only have applications to Vermont but also on a national level. The VPIRG nuclear power bill if passed this semester by the Vt. State legislature will have strong national impact. Students work on VPIRG projects in many ways. Some volunteer from 3 to 10 hours a week. Others write papers for existing courses in coordination with VPIRG projects. Credit is also available in each department under the titles of reading and research or other similar titles. Students who work with VPIRG do research, surveys, aid in litigation, serve as trustees on the VPIRG board and in many other capabilities.

The following projects are beginning now for the second semester. If you are interested in helping in any way call either the VPIRG office, 863-3435, or the project coordinator for the individual project.

DENTAL OUTREACH PROGRAM—coordinator: Cecelia Elwert. Last year's VPIRG's report "Nothing to Smile About" led to the passage of the Vt. Comprehensive Dental Care Plan. Its implementation began January 1st. A part of the problem with the plan is that many of the people that need the program don't know that it exists or need help figuring it out. Hundreds of students across the State of Vermont will be going door to door, sending letters, speaking with individuals and groups, and performing other tasks to help implement the plan.

HIGHWAYS TRANSPORTATION — coordinator: Leo Bisson. VPIRG has just hired a highway specialist to investigate highways in Vermont from a variety of aspects. One aspect will be the proposed seven year budget that has been proposed. How has the need for highways changed in the light of the energy situation? How many highways does Vermont need? Why does it cost $8,000 per mile for upkeep on the interstate? With decreasing highway revenues who will pay for the bonded roads that depend on increasing revenues? In addition VPIRG will be working in cooperation with Ben Hoffman to examine the question of transportation.

LAND USE — coordinator: Leo Bisson. VPIRG will be working on the question of land use both in the light of legislation and on alternative concepts.

BOTTLE BAN — coordinator: Steve Dunham. Debate is continuing on this issue. There will be at least one new effort to kill the present law. Surveys and lobbying is to be done.

ENERGY PROJECTS — coordinator: Gene Beaudoin. VPIRG presently has two bills in the Legislature which are among the most progressive bills with regard to energy in the country. The first of these is the Lifeline Service proposal which would require companies to sell the first 300 kwh for 3 cents per kilowat and freeze that price indefinitely. Above the 300 kilowat level the prices would remain the same. It has very important low-income and environmental ramifications. A second of the bills is a proposal to shift the authority of who determines where a nuclear power plant will be sited or located from the Public Service Board to the Legislature. It also has been called a moratorium on nuclear power. The energy conservation project which led the way on many college campuses last semester will continue this semester.

RIGHTS OF COMMITTED CHILDREN (and other groups) — coordinator: Patti O'Brien. Children in state institutions are unrepresented. VPIRG is collecting data on schools, hospitals, day care centers, to see if children's needs are being met. Other projects include research on conditions at Windsor State Prison and also at nursing homes.

PRESCRIPTION DRUGS — coordinator: Mike La Bella. Projects include 1) a second statewide survey of prescription drug prices, 2) a campaign to educate Vermonters about generic drugs, 3) a study of doctor's knowledge about the prices of prescription drugs, 4) investigate the number of unsuccessful fittings by optometrists.

CONSUMER ACTION — coordinator: Sharon Frink. VPIRG is investigating the market place on many fronts: food prices, advertising substantiation, product safety, open dating on foods, and others. Volunteers are welcome in any capacity for any amount of time. Projects vary in intensity and as with most VPIRG projects qualify for credit.

WOMEN'S PROJECTS -Two projects will be carried out this semester. The first will be a study of how well women obtain credit as opposed to men. The other will deal with women's employment.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO WORK ON ANY PROJECT WITH VPIRG OR ONE OF YOUR OWN CONTACT THE COORDINATOR OF THE SPECIFIC PROJECT AT 49 NORTH PROSPECT (863-3435). If you would like to start a project of your own and need help or simply want information or a speaker for classes, call Gene Beaudoin at the VPIRG office.

Kathie Casavant Takes Challenge As Girl Referee

by Randy Jansen

Wrestling has appealed to men ever since the time of the Greeks. This ancient sport, however, has also captured the interest of a young Vermont girl, Kathie Casavant.

Miss Casavant, five feet six inches tall, with hazel eyes and brown hair is a Vermont Wrestling Official. She has been refereeing for over a year.

Miss Casavant's career began at Vergennes Union High School where she was a wrestling cheerleader. One day Chip Wolcott, the wrestling coach said, "Wouldn't it be funny if there was a girl ref." Kathy couldn't see why there shouldn't be one, and, goaded on by the coach, she took the challenge. She read the rule book and withinga week she was refereeing.

Kathy experiences many problems that are uncommon to her male counterparts. "I find it very hard not having a place to change." It is difficult for her to gain respect from the wrestlers and sometimes from the coaches.

The spectators are the ones who give Kathy her biggest headache. The comments and criticisms are frequent and sometimes colorful. She has been called "bra burning female" and of course "She's a women's libber." A frequent joke is her problem in getting flat on the mat.

Kathy is currently only a JV referee, but that is common for first year refs. If she proves herself this year she has as much chance to ref varsity as the male JV refs.

There are no other female refs in Vermont, and as far as Kathy knows, she is the only one in the nation. There is, however, one female high school wrestler in California. Kathy also expresses an interest in learning how to wrestle.

When asked the inevitable question of what she thinks of Women's Liberation, she replied, "I'm not doing this for equal rights, but just because I enjoy it."

The Insider

(continued from page eleven)

Just two days out of 37 stitches, Trapani shot four for four in the first half and was tough under the boards in making his first appearance since his injury sustained several weeks ago.

Cat hoop fans can be optimistic about the play of corner man Joe Greco. Greco scored fourteen against UConn, high for Vermont, and threw in several long outside jumpers, reminiscent of the play that made him a 19 point per game scorer last season.

Ron Gottschalk perhaps the most improved man on the team, has really come into his own. Five for five against UMass, Ron has become a fine shooter in the fifteen foot range, a tenacious defender, and a consistent rebounder.

by Eli Tubbs

THE INSIDER

To try to summarize the goings-on of the last month would be too voluminous a task. However, many interesting things took place. Much to Coach Cross' dismay, Kohoutek did not appear in the western sky. No team member's anxiety about the flight to St. Louis could have matched that of Q-tone Colby who was making his maiden voyage on the big silver bird. The Gateway Arch in St. Louis will never be the same after the imprint of the UVM Cats was embedded in its sight lines. We learned from the N.Y. Times that in order to be a successful hockey coach one must vote for McGovern. One of Chris Miller's friends will never come back to the Copley Square Hotel, and Willie MacKinnon will remember to lock his hotel room door next time.

Besides all the dirt, we did participate in several hockey games— some good and some not so good. Perhaps, one would say, we played better against better teams. It's difficult to say and even more futile to analyze performances. The loss of John Glynne will hurt, but the mark of a good club is one that bounces back from injuries. This week will be the toughest we will have all season. It will indeed be a true test of that mark of a good team.

Interested in writing style? Stop in at the Cynic Copy Department — we'd like to get to know you.

thedoctor's bag
Arnold Werner-M.D.

Box 974, East Lansing, Mi. 48823

QUESTION: My boyfriend won't believe anything I tell him. Recently I had a urinary infection and vaginitis. He insists that I got these infections from another man. I have not had any relations with anyone other than my boyfriend. Please help me convince him that it is possible for a woman to have infections without having intercourse with other men.

ANSWER: Urinary tract infections and vaginitis (inflammation of the vagina) are found in women of all ages whether they are engaged in sexual activities or not. In fact, such conditions are found in infants and little girls as well. Of course there are vaginal infections that do come about because of sexual intercourse. And some women with a predisposition toward urinary tract infections have more of them when they are engaged in intercourse.

I am doubtful if the simple facts in this matter will reassure your boyfriend. There are men who are very suspicious of the activities of any woman they are involved with, even though there may be no basis for mistrust. Such suspiciousness often stems from major uncertainties they have about themselves which, unfortunately, may not respond to reassurance.

QUESTION: When I stopped breast feeding my baby, my breasts became smaller than they were before I became pregnant. Is this usually more common among women who breast feed, or is it just a natural occurrence for anyone who has a baby? Once the breasts become smaller, is there any way to regain the original size? I wouldn't be so concerned but now that my husband knows what he is missing, he feels a little gypped.

ANSWER: Breasts do change with pregnancy. Early in the pregnancy, breasts become larger and firmer. This effect is due to hormones which are preparing the breast to produce milk following delivery of the baby. Following childbirth, if the woman breast feeds the infant, the breasts remain enlarged and firm. If the woman does not breast feed, or when the breast feeding stops, firmness and size decrease. The breasts do not become smaller than they were before the pregnancy but there may be a loss of firmness. Thus, they may droop or lie flatter against the chest wall than they did previously and give the appearance of reduced size. There may be a somewhat greater loss of tone in women who breast feed, but this is highly variable. During pregnancy and the breast feeding period it is important that the woman wear a brassiere that gives adequate support to prevent undue stretching and sagging of the breasts.

Breast changes following pregnancy tend to be fairly permanent but, in many ways they only represent the occurrence of the inevitable since most women's breasts tend to droop and sag as they age. While no solution, temporary respite from the condition will more than likely occur with the next pregnancy.

I am unsure what it is that your husband feels he is missing, unless he has been breastfeeding too. This type of competitiveness between fathers and infants usually resolves itself.

QUESTION: A recipe on the back of a box of rye crisp recommended eating an open faced sandwich composed of raw hamburger and raw egg yolk. I want to try it but I have uneasy thoughts about eating the raw hamburger. How safe is it? What is the chance of getting a tape worm or whatever else lurks in uncooked meat?

ANSWER: You have touched on a weakness of mine. Well prepared steak tartare is quite delicious, but some people have a natural abhorence to eating uncooked meat or eggs. Fear not, I have not cast aside my usual cautions about high cholesterol intake; but I also believe there is no better reward for abstinence than indulgence.

If you prefer your meat on the raw side, it is certainly not being cooked to a high enough temperature to get rid of tape worms if they are present. Nor does freezing meat kill worms. If eating it raw is the way you like it, you really are placing your confidence in the fact that you are purchasing inspected meat and that tape worms are rare in this country. In the matter of pork products, it remains essential that these be well cooked since trichinosis is a more common occurrence than tape worms and potentially a very dangerous disease.

Good steak tartare requires more than just a raw egg and run of the mill hamburger. One third to one half pound of top quality ground beef, fillet, round steak or sirloin should be used for each serving. The meat should be lean and well trimmed. The rest of my favorite recipe for this delicacy follows, the measurements are for two servings.

Using the back of a spoon, smash four anchovie fillets. Into this mash two to four teaspoons of capers. Add two teaspoons of ground parsley. Stir all this into the meat. Add four tablespoons of finely chopped onions and finish up by seasoning to taste with salt, black pepper, lemon juice, dried mustard (a little) Worchestershire sauce (small amount) and some cognac or port (not essential). Mix well.

Compress the meat into patties and place one egg yolk in an indentation formed in the center of each patty. Serve with a slice of toast. Before eating, blend the egg yolk into the meat. If you have second thoughts after you taste it, pop the patty into a pan and cook it. The recipe makes incredibly good, though expensive, hamburger.

'THE REDWOOD'
60 NORTH ST.
JUST A FRIENDLY NEIGHBORHOOD BAR WITH LOW EVERYDAY PRICES
We are now open on SUNDAYS from 12:00 noon to 2:00am
Happy Hour
Sunday Afternoon 3:00 - 4:00pm
Sunday Evening 7:00 - 8:00pm
SPECIAL SOUR HOUR FOR UVM STUDENTS EVERY FRIDAY AFTERNOON
4:00 - 6:00pm
FREE SNACKS
DON'T FORGET OUR TUESDAY & THURSDAY NIGHT HAPPY HOUR 9:00 - 11:00 pm
FREE SHUFFLEBOARD
POOL TABLE
FREE SNACKS
COLOR TV

GLENDALE COLLEGE OF LAW
• A Degree Program Qualifying Graduates For Calif. Bar Exam
• 5 Min. From Downtown Los Angeles In A Suburban Community
• Enrollment Now Being Accepted For March Term
• Inquiries Are Invited By The Dean Of Admissions
GLENDALE COLLEGE OF LAW
220 NO. GLENDALE AVE
GLENDALE, CA. 91206
(213) 247-0770

It's a Howdy Doody Time
at Magram's Way-In
for
Gauze Shirts

Plaids, Solids, and Prints. from $12 to $15
Size 5 to 13 also S.M.L.

DISCOUNT THE DISCOUNTERS
tape city, u.s.a.
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK • 10 AM to 10 PM • 879-0448
SWAP-A-TAPE
PAY $1.00 and turn in a tape of yours that you are tired of listening to and you'll be able to select a tape of your choice from our Swap-A-Rack!! Thousands of the greatest hits to choose from!
$1.00 each
RT. 7 AND BLAKELY ROAD, COLCHESTER, VT.

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER
Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

Cynic C

(continued from page one)

...per's Exxon, 471 Riverside ... long time ... 4. No limit at this writing ... and other ... 6 Cheapest high test gas, ... readily ... 9, at Downtown Getty. 93 ... to point ... Winooski Ave., and ... raise the ... mbert's North Avenue ... did, and ... tty, 1555 North Ave. ... them on ... owntown Getty has a 33. ... 8 Many ... nit, Lambert's has no limit. ... problems ... 7 Price ranges ranged from ... Arco and ... ree cents to ten cents. ... problems ... ny stations claimed that ... other ... y didn't know what the ... difficulties ... ions were in September. ... Follow-... me said "it would take a ... data.

Verne's American on 321 Shelburne Road
1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm on Mondays th... am through 12 noon on Saturdays; ... as: yes; 3. Purchase limit: $5.00 limit w... What gas grades sold: regular, low-lead ... high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade ... Low-lead regular - 57 cents, and High ... Number of pumps: six, two of each. 7. S... estimated price increase, estimate pric... about 6 or 7 cents.

Arco Gasoline on 996 North Avenue
1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm on Monday th... Problems getting gas: not yet. 3 Purcha... What gas grades sold: regular and prem... gallon per grade: regular - 51.7 cents ar... cents; 6. Number of pumps: four. ... September prices or estimated price inc... times in last two months, September r... regular - 45 cents a gallon and premium ...

Queen City Arco on 56 North Winooski A...
1. Hours: 8:30 am to 6 pm on ... Saturday; 2. Problems getting gas: not ... limit: no; 4. What gas grades sold: regula... Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 51 ce... 53 cents; 6. Number of pumps: three, tw... premium; 7. September prices or estimat... know.

Bill Hood's Citgo on 145 North Avenue
8:30 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Pr... no; 3. Purchase limit: no limit; 4. What ... regular and premium; 5. Cost per gallon p... 51.7 cents and premium - 55.9 cents; 6. N... three, two regular and one premium; 7. Se... estimated increases: regular - 4.1 cents and ... cents.

Bob's Citgo on 291 St. Paul Street
1. Hours: 8 am to 5 pm Monday thro... Problem getting gas: not yet; 3. Purchase ... limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and ... per gallon per grade: Regular - 51.7 cen... 56.7 cents; 6. Number of pumps: two. ... September prices or estimated increase: ... cents and premium was 51.7.

Kaigel's Citgo on 510 Shelburne Road
1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday thr... Problem getting gas: no; 3. Purchase limi... varies; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and ... per gallon per grade: regular - 52.7 cent... 57.7 cents; 6. Number of pumps: ten, fo... six of regular; 7. September prices o... increases: Don't know, but have the Stabl...

Elmer's Exxon on 471 Riverside Avenue
1. Hours: 7:30 am to 5:30 pm Monda... and 7:30 am to 1 pm on Saturday. 2. Pr... some; 3. Purchase limit: not yet; 4. Wha... regular and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon p... 46.6 and high-test - 50.6. 6. Number of ... 7. September prices or estimated increase...

Tony's Exxon on 50 Park Street
1. Hours: 8 am to 6 pm Monday thr... Problem getting gas: yes; 3. Purchase li... What gas grades sold: regular and low-lea... Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 47.6

A CIVILIAN PILOT'S LI...
FOR A FEW GOO...
WE PAY.
Learn to fly while you're still in college. ... lessons for qualified members of the Platoon ... commission through PLC summer training at ... one of the few good men who go on to Marin... Marine officer who visits your campus.
DATE: February 5 & 6, 1974
TIME: 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM
LOCATION: Billings Center & Lobby

The Good Courts!
Student rates from $1.50 each ... Doubles - Good Lessons - Gro... rooms - Shop at our TV available ... - Attended nursery - Cha... Pro Shop - 24-Hour ... Expert Advice - Open ... - 8 AM 11 PM. Satu... - Reserved Time and ...

doctor's bag
Arnold Werner M.D.

Box 474, East Lansing, Mi. 48823

ON: My boyfriend won't believe anything I tell ecently I had a urinary infection and vaginitis. He at I got these infections from another man. I have d any relations with anyone other than my d. Please help me convince him that it is possible oman to have infections without having intercourse er men.

R: Urinary tract infections and vaginitis nation of the vagina) are found in women of all ages they are engaged in sexual activities or not. In fact, dditions are found in infants and little girls as well. e there are vaginal infections that do come about of sexual intercourse. And some women with a ation toward urinary tract infections have more of en they are engaged in intercourse.

Another of the simple facts in this matter will your boyfriend. There are men who are very n of the activities of any woman they are involved n though there may be no basis for mistrust. Such eness often stems from major uncertainties they rgot themselves which, unfortunately, may not o reassurance.

ON: When I stopped breast feeding my baby, my ecame smaller than they were before I became Is this usually more common among women who d, or is it just a natural occurrence for anyone baby? Once the breasts become smaller, is there to regain the original size? I wouldn't be so but now that my husband knows what he is e feels a little gypped.

: Breasts do change with pregnancy. Early in the breasts become larger and firmer. This effect is rmones which are preparing the breast to produce wing delivery of the baby. Following childbirth, if n breast feeds the infant, the breasts remain and firm. If the woman does not breast feed, or breast feeding stops, firmness and size decrease sts do not become smaller than they were before ancy but there may be a loss of firmness. Thus, droop or lie flatter against the chest wall than previously and give the appearance of reduced size. y be a somewhat greater loss of tone in women east feed, but this is highly variable. During and the breast feeding period it is important that an wear a brassiere that gives adequate support to ndue stretching and sagging of the breasts.

changes following pregnancy tend to be fairly nt but, in many ways they only represent the ce of the inevitable once most women's breasts droop and sag as they age. While no solution, y respite from the condition will more than likely h the next pregnancy.

unsure what it is that your husband feels he is unless he has been breastfeeding too. This type of tiveness between fathers and infants usually tself.

ON: A recipe on the back of a box of rye crisp ealed eating an open faced sandwich composed of hamburger and raw egg yolk. I want to try it but I have thoughts about eating the raw hamburger. How safe hat is the chance of getting a tape worm or whatever a in uncooked meat?

R: You have touched on a weakness of mine. Well d steak tartare is quite delicious, but some people natural abhorrence to eating uncooked meat or eggs. I have not cast aside my initial cautions about high rol intake, but I also believe there is no better for abstinence than indulgence.

u prefer your meat on the raw side it is certainly g cooked to a high enough temperature to get rid worms if they are present. Nor does freezing meat ms. If eating it raw is the way you like it, you really ing your confidence in the fact that you are ng inspected meat and that tape worms are rare in untry. In the matter of pork products, it remains that these be well cooked since trichinosis is a mmon occurrence than tape worms and potentially angerous disease.

steak tartare requires more than just a raw egg and the mill hamburger. One third to one half pound of lity ground beef fillet, round steak or sirloin should for each serving. The meat should be lean and well The rest of my favorite recipe for this delicacy the measurements are for two servings.

the back of a spoon, smash four anchovie fillets mash two to four teaspoons of capers. Add two s of ground parsley. Stir all this into the meat. Add lespoons of finely chopped onions and finish up by g to taste with salt, black pepper, lemon juice, mustard (a little) Worchestershire sauce (small) and some cognac or port (not essential). Mix well. rvest the meat into patties and place one egg yolk in ntation formed in the center of each patty. Serve lice of toast. Before eating, blend the egg yolk into t. If you have second thoughts after you taste it, patty into a pan and cook it. The recipe makes ly good, though expensive, hamburger.

ALL DISCOUNT TAPE DISCOUNTERS ape city, u.s.a.
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK • 10 AM to 10 PM • 879-0448
SWAP-A-TAPE
BUY $1.00 and turn in a tape you own that you are tired of listening to and you'll be able to select a tape of your choice from our Swap-A-Rack! Thousands of the greatest hits to choose from!
$1.00 each
7 AND BLAKELY ROAD, COLCHESTER, VT.

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER®
Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

Cynic Conducts Survey To Compare Burlington Gas Stations

(continued from page one)

Elmer's Exxon, 471 Riverside Ave. No limit at the writing.

6 Cheapest high test gas, 49.9, at Downtown Getty, 93 So. Winooski Ave., and Lambert's North Avenue Getty, 1555 North Ave. Downtown Getty has a $3 limit, Lambert's has no limit.

7 Price raises ranged from three cents to ten cents. Many stations claimed that they didn't know what the raises were in September; some said "it would take a long time" to look them up, and others supplied them readily. They were all eager to point out that they didn't raise the prices, the suppliers did, and they had to pass them on to their customers.

8 Many stations reported problems getting gas supplies; Arco and Citgo reported no problems as yet, and a few other stations reported difficulties.

Following is the survey data:

Verne's American on 521 Shelburne Road

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm on Mondays through Fridays and 7 am through 12 noon on Saturdays; 2. Problems getting gas: yes; 3. Purchase limit: $5.00 limit when we have gas; 4. What gas grades sold: regular, low-lead regular, lead-free high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: Regular - 51 cents, Low lead regular - 43 cents, and High test - 58 cents; 6. Number of pumps: six, two of each; 7. September prices or estimated price increase: estimate prices have gone up about 6 or 7 cents.

Arco Gasoline on 996 North Avenue

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm on Monday through Saturday; 2. Problems getting gas: not yet; 3. Purchase limit: not yet; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and premium; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 51.7 cents and premium - 55.7 cents; 6. Number of pumps: four, two of each; 7. September prices or estimated price increase: raised three times in last two months, September estimated cost was regular - 45 cents a gallon and premium - 48 cents a gallon.

Queen City Arco on 56 North Winooski Avenue

1. Hours: 8:30 am to 6 pm on Monday through Saturday; 2. Problems getting gas: not yet; 3. Purchase limit: no; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 51 cents and premium - 55 cents; 6. Number of pumps: three, two regular and one premium; 7. September prices or estimated increase: don't know.

Bill Hood's Citgo on 145 North Avenue 1. Hours: 7 am to 8:30 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: no; 3. Purchase limit: no limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and premium; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 51.7 cents and premium - 55.9 cents; 6. Number of pumps: three, two regular and one premium; 7. September prices or estimated increases: regular - 43 cents and premium was 48 cents.

Bob's Citgo on 291 St. Paul Street

1. Hours: 8 am to 5 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: not yet; 3. Purchase limit: ten gallon limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and premium; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: Regular - 51.7 cents and premium - 56.7 cents; 6. Number of pumps: two, one of each; 7. September prices or estimated increase: regular was 48.7 cents and premium was 51.7.

Kaigel's Citgo on 510 Shelburne Road

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: no; 3. Purchase limit: $3 to $4 limit, varies; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 52.7 cents and high-test - 57.7 cents; 6. Number of pumps: ten, four of high-test and six of regular; 7. September prices or estimated price increases: Don't know, but have the Stabilization Board's ok.

Elmer's Exxon on 471 Riverside Avenue

1. Hours: 7:30 am to 5:30 pm Monday thorugh Friday and 7:30 am to 1 pm on Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: some; 3. Purchase limit: not yet; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 46.6 and high-test - 50.6; 6. Number of pumps: didn't say; 7. September prices or estimated increases: didn't say.

Tony's Exxon on 50 Park Street

1. Hours: 8 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: yes; 3. Purchase limit: $3 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and low-lead and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 47.6 cents, low-lead - 50.6 cents, and high-test - 51.6 cents; 6. Number of pumps: five, one double pump for regular, on double pump for high-test, and one single pump for low-lead; 7. September prices or estimated price increase: regular - 41.9, low-lead - 44.9, and high-test - 45.9.

Downtown Getty on 93 South Winooski Avenue

1. Hours: 8 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: little problem; 3. Purchase limit: $3 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: high test only; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: 49.4 cents; 6. Number of pumps: four; 7. September prices or estimated price increases: don't know.

Lambert's North Avenue Getty at 155 North Avenue

1. Hours: 7 am to 5 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: little problem; 3. Purchase limit: no, we pump until we are out; 4. What gas grades sold: high test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: 49.4 cents for high-test; 6. Number of pumps: three (one is empty); 7. September prices or estimated increases: estimate it was 44.9 cents in September.

Bordeau Forman Gulf on 219 Main Street

1. Hours: 7 am to 9 pm Monday through Friday (sometimes closed by 6 pm) and 7 am to 12 noon on Saturdays; 2. Problem getting gas: yes; 3. Purchase limit: $2 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 47.7 and high-test - 51.7; 6. Number of pumps: four, two of each; 7. September prices or estimated price increases: didn't want to say.

Chicoine's Gulf on 328 North Avenue could not be reached

Mike Corey's Gulf on 72 St. Paul Street - refused to answer any questions

Ed's Gulf Station and Auto Repair on 1 North Winooski Avenue

1. Hours: 7 am to 5 pm (pumps) Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: no; 3. Purchase limit: for out of state $2 limit but none for Vermont drivers; 4. Grades of gas sold: regular and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 47.7 cents and high-test - 51.9 cents; 6. Number of pumps: three, two regular and one high-test; 7. September prices or estimated increases: regular was 43.9 cents and high-test was 45.9 cents.

Doug Cook's Mobil on 1316 North Avenue

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problems getting gas: not too bad until now; 3. Purchase limit: $3 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 46.3 and high-test - 53 cents; 6. Number of pumps: four pumps and five hoses; 7. September prices or estimated increases: regular was 46.9 and high-test - 50.9 cents.

Jackson's Mobil on 213 Pearl Street

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday to Friday and 7 am to 2 pm Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: trouble with delivery; 3. Purchase limit: $3 limit (depends); 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 47.7 cents and high-test 51.7 cents; 6. Number of pumps: three, two regular and one high-test; 7. September prices or estimated increases: no information on original prices, do know there were several raises.

Lepage's Phillips 66 Service Station on 210 Shelburne Road

1. Hours: 7 am to 9 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problems getting gas: some problems; 3. Purchase limit: no limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 48.4 and high-test - 51.9 cents; 6. Number of pumps: two pumps, four hoses (one of each); 7. September prices or estimated increases: guessed that there had been about a 5 cent price increase.

Don's Shell on 84 North Avenue - no answers given

Interested in writing style? Stop in at the Cynic Copy Department — we'd like to get to know you.

Leonard's Shell on 106 South Winooski Avenue

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Friday and 7 am to 1 pm, Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: has been at times; 3. Purchase limit: $5 limit on regular; 4. What gas grades sold: regular, super-regular, and super-shell; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 48.9, super-regular - 50.9, and super-shell 52.9, cents; 6. Number of pumps: eight, three regular and two super-regular and three super-shell; 7. September prices or estimated price increases: six cent raise since September.

Whitmore Shell on 616 South Willard Street

1. Hours: 7:30 am to 5 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: not so far; 3. Purchase limit: not so far; 4. What gas grades sold: regular, low-lead, and high-test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 50 cents, high-test - 54, and low-lead - 52 cents; 6. Number of pumps: three, one of each; 7. September prices or estimated price increases: no information.

Battillo's Sunoco on 794 Shelburne Road

1. Hours: 7 am to 7 pm Monday through Friday; 2. Problem getting gas: some difficulty; 3. Purchase limit: $3 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: five, below regular, regular, super-regular, premium, above premium; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 46.9, below regular - 48.9, super-regular - 50.9, premium - 52.9, and above premium - 54.9; 6. Number of pumps - two, we have blends in each pump; 7. September prices or estimated increases: estimate that prices rose about 5 cents.

Rich's Sunoco on 103 Shelburne Rd

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: one truck late; 3. Purchase limit: No limit; 4. What gas grades sold; five: below regular, regular, super regular, premium, super premium; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: below regular - 47.9, regular - 48.9, super regular - 50.9, premium - 52.9, above premium - 54.9; 6. Number of pumps - two; 7. September prices or estimated increases: no indication.

Ron's Sunoco at 6 North Avenue - couldn't be reached.

Art's Texaco at 361 Shelburne Road

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: gas runs out before end of the month; 3. Purchase limit: $2 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: premium, out of regular but usually have it; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 49.4, premium - 52.4; 6. Number of pumps - seven, two double, two single, one double premium, one single premium now; 7. September prices or estimated increases: in September prices were 2 cents less.

Bill William's Texaco at 1097 North Ave.

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: yes, can't say what cutback was; 3. Purchase limit: $3 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular, high test, low-lead; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 49.9, high test - 52.9, low lead - 51.9; 6. Number of pumps: three, one premium, two regular; 7. September prices or estimated increases: regular - 46, high test - 50, low lead - 48.

Handy's Texaco at 75 South Winooski Ave.

1. Hours: 8 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: yes; 3. Purchase limit: It varies with how much we have; 4. What gas grades sold: regular; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 48.9; 6. Number of pumps: two pumps, one hose; 7. September prices or estimated increases: have gone up 3 cents.

Crosby's Service Station at 82 Shelburne Rd.

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: yes; 3. Purchase limit: it varies; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular 47.7, high test - 51.7; 6. Number of pumps: six, two of each (one product discontinued); 7. September prices or estimated increases: estimate increase of 3 cents.

Dave's U-Save at 505 Riverside Ave.

1. Hours: 7:30 am to 9 pm Monday, Wednesday, Friday, 7:30 am to 5 pm Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: not to far; 3. Purchase limit: no limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and premium; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 48.2, premium - 52.2; 6. Number of pumps: three, two regular and one premium; 7. September prices or estimated increases: went up about 10 cents since September (3 raises), may be able to lower them.

Dorey's Service Station at 500 Riverside Ave.

1. Hours: 7 am to 11 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: no, have federal allocation; 3. Purchase limit: towards end of the month it's from $5 to $3 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular, premium, and low lead; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 47.8, premium - 52.8, low lead - 50; 6. Number of pumps - seven, three regular, three premium, one low lead; 7. September prices or estimated increases: no indication.

George's Service Station at 144 College Street

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: we're nearly out; 3. Purchase limit: $2 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and high test; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 50.3, high test - 54.3; 6. Number of pumps - six, four regular, two high test; 7. September prices or estimated increases: no indication.

Sam's Service Station at 25 Battery Street

1. Hours: 7 am to 6 pm Monday through Saturday; 2. Problem getting gas: sure have! 3. Purchase limit: $2 limit; 4. What gas grades sold: regular and premium; 5. Cost per gallon per grade: regular - 49.5, premium - 53.5; 6. Number of pumps - three, two regular, one premium; 7. September prices or estimated increases: about 5 cent increase.

Consumer Fraud Division Files Energy Crisis Suits

Attorney General Kim Cheney announced that his Consumer Fraud Division has filed two "Energy Crisis" related suits with the Rutland County Courts. Both involve businesses which have allegedly attempted to take advantage of the gasoline shortage by indicating to some customers that they could not buy gas unless they also purchased other goods or services. In "legal talk", this is known as a "tie-in sale" and Cheney's complaint alleges that such tie-in sales are illegal in the context of the current energy crisis.

In one case, Martin Brown, owner of Habro Mobil Gas Station and the Broken Ski Restaurant and bar, located near the Killington Ski area, is alleged to have required gasoline patrons to spend two hours in his bar before they could get a full tank of gas. In the second case, Hutchins Fuels of Hydeville, Vermont is alleged to have attempted to force patrons to purchase all their oil products from Hutchins by indicating that only those who purchased "other" oil products would be furnished with gasoline.

As well as seeking to stop these practices, the Attorney General is also asking for substantial monetary penalties.

Because of the seriousness of these matters, I am also instructing my Consumer Fraud Division to seek an immediate court hearing to have these practices stopped."

A CIVILIAN PILOT'S LICENSE
FOR A FEW GOOD COLLEGE MEN.
WE PAY.

Learn to fly while you're still in college. The Marines will pay the bill—about $900 worth of lessons—for qualified members of the Platoon Leaders Class. You'll also be earning a Marine officer's commission through PLC summer training at Quantico, Virginia. And after graduation, you may be one of the few good men who go on to Marine pilot or flight officer training. Get the details from the Marine officer who visits your campus.

PLC
THE MARINES ARE LOOKING FOR A FEW GOOD MEN.

DATE: February 5 & 6, 1974
TIME: 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM
LOCATION: Billings Center & Lobby of the Waterman Building

The Good Courts!
Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons — Group or private courts • Action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den — Pro Shop — 24-Hour Stringing Service — Expert Advice • Open 8 AM-12 PM Weekdays, 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates
TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. Rt. 2
Tel. 862-2459

A Viable Alternate to the acoustic suspension system in an enclosure of real bookshelf size.
32 Hertz. Really.
System Response Down 3dB at 32 Hz.
Uniform Total Acoustic Power Output
The product of flat axial response and uniform dispersion
2 to 3dB greater efficiency
Compared to the finest acoustic suspension systems, 3dB is equivalent to twice the amplifier power in watts.
ElectroVoice
Interface: A HEAR IT NOW AT
tech hifi
Quality Components at the Right Price
Burlington 150 Church St 862-2638

Gymnasts Excel

UVM's Gary Reid on the parallel bars SPS Photo: Don Green

The biggest gymnastic crowd ever turned out at Patrick Gym last Saturday to see Dartmouth's men put on a dazzling demonstration for a 130 to 102 win over UVM as the Catamount girls downed their Dartmouth counterparts 68 to 50.

All-American Mike Pancoe of Dartmouth put on the greatest individual spectacular as he demonstrated his New England and USA Championship form with a score of 9.55 on the rings. This individual event overshadowed the outstanding all-around abilities of Fred Lee, UVM's Co-Captain and first place all-around scorer of the meet. Dartmouth's Bill Hoffman was second while UVM's freshman John Prushko and Co-Captain Gary Reid paced a close third.

UVM coach Tom Dunkley was exceptionally pleased as the Cats scored their highest team score ever and will apparently qualify for the New England Championships to be held at Boston College in March. Without administrative support, it is questionable if the Cats can make the trip again this season, but the team is hoping for a means of raising the funds in time to beat the entry deadline.

Besides Lee, who scored second on the parallel bars and third on floor exercise, UVM's surprise standout was new-comer Gary Warren who placed third on both horizontal bar and vaulting events. Doug Mackey also placed second on side horse for the Cats.

The girls were paced by the performance of Sue Supovitz in their victorious effort. The girls next meet is in Ithaca New York against Albany State and Ithaca College, on Saturday. The next home meet is another triangular encounter against Keene State and Northeastern on February 9. The men compete at home against the University of New Hampshire, Division II New England Champs, at Patrick Gym at the same time. The action starts at 1:00 p.m. and the public is invited free of charge.

RESULTS OF THE WOMEN'S COMPETITION

Floor Exercise– 1–Sue Supovitz, UVM–7.75; 2–Debbie Light, UVM–7.65; 3–L. Young, Dart.–7.10.

Vaulting– 1–Sue Supovitz, UVM–7.30; 2–L. Young, Dart.–7.10; 3–Kenney, Dart.–6.60.

Balance Beam– 1–Sue Supovitz, UVM–6.90; 2–Kenney, Dart.–5.05; 3–L. Young, Dart.–5.00.

Uneven Parallel Bars– 1–Barbra Abrams, UVM–7.60; 2–Candy Goerler, UVM–5.10; 3–Sue Supovitz, UVM–4.00.

SCHWARTZ ONSPORTS

by Mike Schwartz

There is nothing like a winner. Witness the results of UVM hockey, the UVM soccer team in recent years, and the long swim streak that ended last December. But for UVM basketball winning has been hard. Over recent years the basketball team has reached the bottom of the barrel in the Yankee Conference. Taking a look at UVM basketball shows the difference between a winner and a loser.

In this day of recruiting competition that has led to many violations, building a winner takes considerable time. Coach Pete Salzberg has done his first year of recruiting but the accomplishments have not been seen. It may take many more years to get the right combination. Indeed the effort is there when one notices the many flags designating potential players (both over 6'5" and below 6'5") throughout the East that stand out in the coach's office. But what can be said about the program right now, in the preliminary rebuilding stages?

Essentially, the team has eight men. They are the five juniors and three freshmen recruited by Coach Salzberg. The offense revolves around a point man and a few basic plays. There is not enough experience to free lance, to run fast breaks, and to take some risks that the better teams can. In a game like the UConn contest, the difference between the experienced Huskies laying off passes within five feet of the basket, running fast breaks, and attempting steals with a back court press, is contrasted by the perimeter play of Vermont hoping one man can break through for a possible layup. They only press when in desperation they must close a wide lead.

The two main ingredients needed for a winner are not there. Gottschalk and Tripani have the potential to be fine players but they are not tall, dominant, big men. Likewise, Mario Macias and Barry Cohen are not the skilled playmakers necessary to make the crisp passes and shoot from the outside. Perhaps Warren Prehmus, in time, can do the job but for now this essential ingredient is missing.

So it may be a while before a winner is seen. Recruiting is a difficult task. For now a deliberate style will have to be used and the new philosophy under Coach Salzberg will have to be developed. He has made the effort, as exemplified by his scheduling of games against national competition in an effort to attract players and give the team needed experience.

As for now, the fans have to show their determination. Too many times people find excuses to forget about their ticket books. Hockey games are the "in place" to be. A full house at a basketball game instead of sub-2000 crowds can inspire a team such as Vermont to play hard and make up lack of experience with desire. At the present time this could be enough to help the team become a winner. When Vermont closed the 15 point gap to a 33-33 tie against UConn the crowd was on its feet yelling and screaming. But when they fell behind, but not out of it, there was no support. It was like the fans gave up hope.

Perhaps there is nothing like a winner. But a winner has to grow from a foundation. Peter Salzberg is building that foundation and it will take time. For now campus support and continued efforts like that against UConn could make this building season a better success than it has been to this point.

Women's Swim Stays Undefeated

The UVM women's swim team defeated Maine 63-59 at Forbush Pool this past Saturday. The women are now 5-0 in dual meets and 11-0 overall. Jackie Force and Andrea Kalisch turned in double wins for Vermont, Laura Schriesheim and Cindy Prehmus picked up individual firsts. Vermont won the 200 yard medley relay and Maine took the 200 freestyle relay. Two pool records were set by Maine swimmers. Reeves turned in a time of 28 seconds to win the 50 yard freestyle and Kenney set a mark of 34.8 seconds in the 50 yard butterfly.

Force won the 50 and 100 yard backstrokes. She also placed second in the 50 yard freestyle. Kalisch won the 50 and 100 butterfly events. Prehmus was victorious in the one meter diving competition and Schriesheim won the 200 individual medley. The girls have their next meet this Saturday afternoon against Dartmouth at Forbush pool. The competition starts at 1:00.

UConn-UVM...

(continued from page eleven)

the game close and they battled off the boards very well. In the end it was the experience and more definite offensive style of UConn that turned possible victory into a UVM defeat.

High scorer for UVM was Greco with 14 points, all in the second half. Green added 10 as he continued to play the most consistent basketball on the team. Trapani did not perform well in the second half and finished with nine, all in the first twenty minutes of action. For Connecticut, Gary Custick, their senior forward, shot 10 for 13 and had 20 points. Weston added 13 and Foster had 12. Their ball-handling abilities were another factor in the Connecticut victory. At the end, UConn had eight more field goals than Vermont and twelve more shots. It didn't matter that UVM made nine more points at the foul line. Once again, the Cats did not get enough shots from the field.

This game was the first of six straight at home. After Monday's game against Dartmouth, the Cats play St. Mike's, Northeastern, Norwich, and Siena. If they start playing as they did against UConn it won't be long before they put it all together and start winning again. With a few breaks and a little better offense, victory for Vermont should occur very soon.

Cats Win ...

(continued from page eleven)

Vermont often held the ball too long or failed to hit the open man. Then when a man was open he wouldn't shoot. On the other hand, the victory might provide the impetus the Cats need. Dartmouth, although only 1-11 has played some fine teams and the Cat victory should not be played down.

Tonight at Patrick Gym the perennial rivalry of Burlington continues as St. Michaels invades. As in the past the records of the teams don't count and an exciting game is expected. St. Mike's is led by Fran Laffin, their fine forward. Another Purple Knight who draws lots of attention is Ken Johnson, the 280 pound center. The game promises to be very exciting. The week wraps up with two hockey games. UVM plays highly rated Boston University Friday night and entertains Division II contender Boston State on Saturday night.

Swimmers Win Two Duals

Kevin Delaney after racing against Keene St.

by Joseph Olshan

SPS Photo: Barb Miller

The University of Vermont swimmers posted two stunning victories against Keene State and U. Mass respectively. The cats scored firsts in all individual events in both meets save the 200 yard breast-stroke.

On Tuesday, January 22, Vermont hosted Keene State. Mike Kurt was high scorer taking firsts in the 1000 and 500 yard freestyle. He set a new varsity record in the 1000 with a time of 11:01.9 seconds. Doug Piche set a new pool record in the three meter diving with 258.15 points. Mike Delaney broke his own freshmen record in the 200 yard freestyle with a time of 1:53.08 seconds. A member of Keene State, Domers, set a new pool record in the 200 yard breast-stroke with a time of 2:22.0 seconds. The final score of the meet was Vermont 74, Keene State 35.

On Saturday, Vermont met U.Mass. and triumphed by an even larger margin. The highest individual scorer of this meet was Doug Piche, a diver, who captured firsts in both the one and the three meter diving. Two varsity records were broken during the meet. Mike Gosselr set a new varsity record in the 200 yard butterfly in a time of 2:07.3 seconds. Mike Jacobs set a new record in the 50 yard freestyle, in a time of 22.5 seconds. The final score was Vermont 84 and U.Mass. 29.

After these victories the Cats are three and one and hope to remain on top for the rest of the season. They face their toughest competition next Saturday when they meet the University of Connecticut at Storrs, Connecticut. UConn has always been a strong team in the past.

UVM Ski Carnival Cancelled This Weekend

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

Last December the University of Maine swim team snapped one of the longest winning streaks in the history of UVM athletics. "Monday morning quarterbacking" is at best a bad habit for any coach or athlete to get into. Nobody involved with our team was about to make excuses for the loss. We swam well but on that particular afternoon they were the better team.

After that initial loss we quickly got back on the winning trail with three consecutive wins over Plattsburg, Keene State, and UMass. Co-captains Cliff Johnson and Dave Phelan have been consistent winners while showing a lot of versatility. Distance ace Mike Kurt broke his own record in the thousand yard freestyle, as did Mike Gosseler in the 200 yard butterfly.

The team record is now 3–1 in the Yankee Conference. This week we travel to Storrs, Connecticut for another Yankee Conference meet. Last week Connecticut defeated Maine in a very close meet. UConn is the only undefeated team in the conference. Saturday afternoon we hope to change that and get a part of the conference championships for ourselves. If we beat UConn then there will be a three way tie for first place. If UConn wins they will probably go on to be conference champs.

It's a long ride back from the country foothills of Connecticut to the Green Mountains of Vermont. When you are on the winning side of a score the trip is made easier. Saturday night I think we are all going to enjoy the trip back.

Vermont Routs Hamilton

The UVM Hockey team upped their record to 14-2 and 7-1 in Division II with a 6-1 triumph over the Hamilton College Continentals last Saturday in Clinton, New York. The Cats broke out for four goals in the last period to gain its seventh straight victory. Five of the six goals were on power plays.

The play of Ted Curtis replacing injured John Glynne was particularly outstanding. Curtis came up with two assists. Ted Castle scored his fifteenth goal of the season and now has 61 in his career. This ties him with Patty Wright as the second top goal scorer in UVM hockey history, just two behind Fred Hunt.

First Period

UVM – O'Connell (Koch and Yeates) 1:21

Penalties – Hamilton: Hutchinson 0:40; UVM: Child 6:05; Hamilton: Malcolm 7:33; UVM: Colby (five minutes) 11:17; and UVM: Spence 13:15.

Second Period

UVM – Miller (Yeats, LeBeau) 15:42

Penalties – UVM: Yeates 4:47; UVM – Castle 7:33; Hamilton – Malcolm 7:33; UVM – O'Connell 8:44; Hamilton – O'Brien 12:04.

Third Period

UVM – Castle (Yeates, MacKinnon) 4:22

UVM – O'Connell (Curtis) 5:42

UVM – LeBeau (Miller, Murphy) 10:17

UVM – MacKinnon (Murphy, Curtis) 12:21

Hamilton – Colby (Malcolm) 16:42

Penalties – Hamilton: Hestrom 4:13; Hamilton: Aubrey 9:51; Hamilton: Malcolm 13:34; UVM: Spence 11:51; Hamilton: Rossi 11:51.

Saves – Kiely, UVM 11-6-22; Reynolds, UVM 1; Rossi, Hamilton 7-6-9-22; George, Hamilton 5.

ANNUAL SKI SALE

Many new and some used SKIIS 20 to 50% off

Many new and some used SKI BOOTS 20 to 50% off

All SKI POLES 20% off

SKI RACKS 20% off

SKI WEAR ON SALE

Men's PARKAS $15 & up

Women's PARKAS $20 & up

Special group of SKI SWEATERS 20 to 50% off

Special group of GLOVES & MITTENS 20% off

Swiss Chalet

40 Pearl St., Essex Jct.

878-8901

FOR THE MAXIMUM IN VALUE

FOREST HILLS OUTLET

WINOOSKI VT.

WEST CANAL ST.

ACCOMPANIED BY THIS COUPON

$1.00 OFF ANY 8-TRACK OR CASSETTE TAPE

Offer good until Feb. 16, 1973

Complete line of darkroom accessories

NOW! 40% DISCOUNT ON ALL PHOTOFINISHING (EXCEPT EK)

OPPORTUNITIES FOR GRADUATE MECHANICAL OR INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS

If you are about to graduate in Mechanical or Industrial Engineering or are already a graduate in one of these areas, we invite you to consider our new M.S. program in Manufacturing Engineering.

Manufacturing engineers are those concerned with the planning and selection of methods of manufacture, the design of equipment for manufacture, the improvement of established manufacturing techniques and the development of new ones.

As a result of the rapid expansion of the manufacturing research program at the University of Massachusetts, several excellent research assistantships are now available. These assistantships have stipends ranging from $4,000 to $8,000 per year plus waiver of tuition.

Those who are interested should complete the form below and send it to:

Dr. C. Poli
Mechanical Engineering Department
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Mass. 01002

Please send me additional information concerning research assistantships in manufacturing engineering.

Name _____

Telephone _____

Address _____

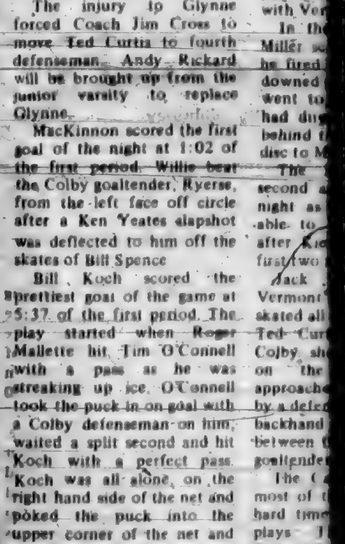
B.S. in _____

From _____ Year _____

Grade Point Avg. _____

UVM

Ice Cats



by Neil Gruber

Last Thursday night the University of Vermont hockey team beat the Colby Mules by a score of 6-2 at Gutterson Field house. The Catamounts did not look especially sharp offensively. Colby seemed to be content to dump the puck into their end and get back quickly on defense to prevent Vermont from scoring.

Freshman defenseman John Glynne, who has played excellent hockey all season, fractured his ankle during warmups. He and Willie MacKinnon locked skates and they both went sliding into the net. The injury to Glynne occurred when his ankle banged into the post.

The injury to Glynne forced Coach Jim Cross to move Ted Curtis to fourth defenseman. Andy Rickard will be brought up from the junior varsity to replace Glynne.

MacKinnon scored the first goal of the night at 1:02 of the first period. Willie beat the Colby goaltender, Ryerse, from the left face off circle after a Ken Yeates slapshot was deflected to him off the skates of Bill Spence.

Bill Koch scored the prettiest goal of the game at 15:37 of the first period. The play started when Roger Mallette hit Tim O'Connell with a pass as he was streaking up ice. O'Connell took the puck in on goal with a Colby defenseman on him, waited a split second and hit Koch with a perfect pass. Koch was all alone, on the right hand side of the net and poked the puck into the upper corner of the net and Vermont led 2-0.

At this time it seemed like a rout would take place. But the Mules seemed to settle down defensively and UVM scored without Ted Curtis 3-0 lead. rebound. The puck the lead rebounded causing whether score. Ga the puck allowed At the period Lemoyne that John handle play goal with Ver In the Miller scored he fired downed went to had dug behind disc to M The second a night as able to after Ke first two Jack Vermont skated all Ted Curt Colby sh on the approache by a defen backhand between goaltender The C most of t hard time plays I Colby 49 not espec victory. T the mark a

WE DISCOUNT THE DISCOUNTE

tape city, u

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK • 10 AM to 10 PM

SWAP-A-TA

PAY $1.00 and turn in a tape of yours that you are tired of listening to and you'll be able to select a tape of your choice from our Swap-A-Rack! Thousands of the greatest hits to choose from!

$

RT. 7 AND BLAKELY ROAD, COLCH

CLINIQU is at the mayfai

...immers Win Two Duals

...n Delaney after racing against Keene St.

by Joseph Olshan

...e University of Vermont ...meets posted two ...ing victories against ... State and U Mass ...tively. The cats scored ... in all individual events ...th meets save the 200 ... breast-stroke.

Tuesday, January 22, ...ont hosted Keene State ... Kurt was high scorer ... firsts in the 1000 and ...ard freestyle. He set a ...varsity record in the ...with a time of 11:01:9 ...ls. Doug Piche set a ...ool record in the three ... diving with 258.15 ... Mike Delaney broke ...e freshmen record in ...0 yard freestyle with a ...of 1:53.08 seconds. A ...t of Keene State, ...s, set a new pool ... in the 200 yard ...stroke with a time of ... seconds. The final ... of the meet was ...nt 74, Keene State 35.

SPS Photo Barb Miller

On Saturday, Vermont met U Mass and triumphed by an even larger margin. The highest individual scorer of this meet was Doug Piche, a diver, who captured firsts in both the one and the three meter diving. Two varsity records were broken during the meet. Mike Gossler set a new varsity record in the 200 yard butterfly in a time of 2.07.3 seconds. Mike Jacobs set a new record in the 50 yard freestyle in a time of 22.5 seconds. The final score was Vermont 84 and U Mass 29.

After these victories the Cats are three and one and hope to remain on top for the rest of the season. They face their toughest competition next Saturday when they meet the University of Connecticut at Storrs, Connecticut. U.Conn. has always been a strong team in the past.

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

...st December the University of Maine swim team ...ed one of the longest winning streaks in the history of ... athletics. "Monday morning quarterbacking" is at ... bad habit for any coach or athlete to get into. ...dy involved with our team was about to make excuses ...e loss. We swam well but on that particular afternoon ...were the better team.

...ter that initial loss we quickly got back on the winning ... with three consecutive wins over Plattsburg, Keene ... and UMass. Co-captains Cliff Johnson and Dave ... have been consistent winners while showing a lot of ...dity. Distance ace Mike Kurt broke his own record in ...usand yard freestyle, as did Mike Gosseler in the 200 ...butterfly.

...e team record is now 3-1 in the Yankee Conference. ...week we travel to Storrs, Connecticut for another ...e Conference meet. Last week Connecticut defeated ... in a very close meet. UConn is the only undefeated ... in the conference. Saturday afternoon we hope to ...e that and get a part of the conference championships ...rselves. If we beat UConn then there will be a three ...e for first place. If UConn wins they will probably go ...be conference champs.

...a long ride back from the country foothills of ...ecticut to the Green Mountains of Vermont. When ...re on the winning side of a score the trip is made ... Saturday night I think we are all going to enjoy the ...ck.

...PORTUNITIES FOR GRADUATE ...ECHANICAL OR INDUSTRIAL ...GINEERS

...you are about to graduate in Mechanical or ...ustrial Engineering or are already a graduate in one of ... areas, we invite you to consider our new M.S. ...gram in Manufacturing Engineering.

...anufacturing engineers are those concerned with the ...ning and selection of methods of manufacture, the ...n of equipment for manufacture, the improvement ... established manufacturing techniques and the ...lopment of new ones.

...s a result of the rapid expansion of the ...ufacturing research program at the University of ...achusetts, several excellent research assistantships ... now available. These assistantships have stipends ...ng from $4,000 to $6,000 per year plus waiver of ...on.

...hose who are interested should complete the form ...w and send it to:

...C. Poli ...hanical Engineering Department ...versity of Massachusetts ...herst, Mass. 01002

...ase send me additional information concerning ...ng assistantships in manufacturing engineering."

...me _____
...ephone _____
...dress _____
... _____
... _____ Year _____
...ulative Point Avg. _____

U.V.M. SPORTS

Ice Cats Defeat Colby 5-2

Jack Clifford scores against Colby.

SPS Photo: Barb Miller

by Neil Gruber

Last Thursday night the University of Vermont hockey team beat the Colby Mules by a score of 5-2 at Gutterson Field house. The Catamounts did not look especially sharp offensively. Colby seemed to be content to dump the puck into their end and get back quickly on defense to prevent Vermont from scoring.

Freshman defenseman John Glynne, who has played excellent hockey all season, fractured his ankle during warmups. He and Willie MacKinnon locked skates and they both went sliding into the net. The injury to Glynne occurred when his ankle banged into the post.

The injury to Glynne forced Coach Jim Cross to move Ted Curtis to fourth defenseman. Andy Rickard will be brought up from the junior varsity to replace Glynne.

MacKinnon scored the first goal of the night at 1:02 of the first period. Willie beat the Colby goaltender, Ryerse, from the left face off circle after a Ken Yeates slapshot was deflected to him off the skates of Bill Spence.

Bill Koch scored the prettiest goal of the game at 5:37 of the first period. The play started when Roger Mallette hit Tim O'Connell with a pass as he was streaking up ice. O'Connell took the puck in on goal with a Colby defenseman on him, waited a split second and hit Koch with a perfect pass. Koch was all alone, on the right hand side of the net and poked the puck into the upper corner of the net and Vermont led 2-0.

At this time it seemed like a rout would take place. But the Mules seemed to settle down and play a more defensive-minded game after UVM scored its second goal. The first period ended without any further scoring.

Ted Castle gave Vermont a 3-0 lead as he tipped a rebound off a shot by Yeates. The puck went in between the legs of Ryerse and rebounded out quickly causing some confusion as to whether there was actually a score. One of the officials saw the puck enter the net and allowed the goal.

At 10:56 of the second period Colby's Michael Lemoyne tipped in a rebound that John Kiely was unable to handle. The goal was a power play goal. The period ended with Vermont leading 3-1.

In the third period Chris Miller scored for the Cats as he fired a wristshot past the downed goaltender. The assist went to Michel LeBeau who had dug the puck out from behind the net and passed the disc to Miller.

The Mules scored their second and final goal of the night as Charlie Harper was able to convert a rebound after Kiely had stopped the first two shots.

Jack Clifford scored Vermont's final goal as he skated all the way up ice after Ted Curtis had blocked a Colby shot. Clifford turned on the speed as he approached the net and went by a defender. He then took a backhand shot which went between the legs of the Colby goaltender.

The Cats dominated play most of the game but had a hard time finishing off their plays. The Cats outshot Colby 49-18. The Cats were not especially sharp in the victory. Their passing was off the mark at times.

Ryerse, the Colby goaltender played a good game in the net as he made 44 saves. John Kiely had 15 saves in the game before leaving a little more than half way through the third period. Ted Curtis, filling in for the injured Glynne, played a strong defensive game for the Cats.

The Cats are now 13-2 overall and 6-1 in Division II. The Cats meet B.U. Friday and Boston State Saturday, both games being at home.

UConn Beats Stubborn UVM Team

by Mike Schwartz

Despite playing one of their better games of the season, the University of Vermont basketball team went down to defeat for the tenth straight time. They fell 67-60 to the University of Connecticut Huskies last Saturday at Patrick Gym. After falling behind by fifteen points in the first half the UVM five was able to regroup and play some of their best ball of the season.

At first it didn't look like the game would be played at all. The original referees assigned for the game never showed up and two local refs from the Burlington area had to fill in. After a 45 minute delay the game finally started as most of the 1750 fans stayed around for what proved to be a very exciting game.

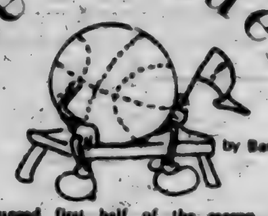
The first half proved to be a half of streaks. First UConn would pull ahead and then the Cats would make it close. UConn started with eleven straight points. Warren Prehmus' jumper with five and a half minutes gone by made the first Vermont points of the afternoon. Perhaps UConn became cocky or decided to let up, but the rest of the game was not as easy for the Huskies. UVM went into a zone and was able to build a streak of its own. Ron Gottschalk broke away for two layups and the Cats closed the gap to 15-8. It was UConn's turn again as they pulled away to the biggest lead of the day at 29-14. Then the Cats played their best ball of the season. Charlie Tripani, coming back from a hand injury, led the Cats to nine straight points. He hit five points and Terry Green added four. The UVM defense forced UConn into three-second violations and many traveling calls. They controlled the boards and tied the score at 33-33 with 22 seconds left in the half. A long jumper by Gary Custick enabled UConn to grab the halftime lead 35-33. UVM hustle, strong defense, and a patient offense helped the Cats. They played their game and stopped the usual fast break style of UConn, a team that averages almost 76 points a game.

In the first six minutes of the second half the UConn experience enabled them to regain enough of an edge to stay in the lead for the rest of the game. Al Weston, a shifty guard hit two jumpers and a running hook to help the Huskies build a 51-40 lead. Then Joe Greco finally got hot. After being held scoreless in the first half, the Vermont captain started to hit his jumpers from the baseline. The Cats closed to within six or seven but never could pull even. A turning point was an offensive foul on Ron Gottschalk when the Vermont freshman put in a layup. This would have narrowed the gap to 53-48 at the time. Instead Custick came back for UConn to make it 55-46 and keep UConn far enough in front. Towards the last two minutes Weston and Jimmy Foster, the nifty backcourt duo, controlled the dribble and the play as UConn waited for the good shots. They stayed in front and won 67-60.

From the time after the 15 point UConn lead the Cats played inspired ball. UConn had won six in a row and the Cats had dropped nine but the action on the court did not show this difference. UVM's deliberate style kept

(continued on page ten)

the insider



by Barry Cohen

After a rugged first half of the season, Vermont basketball will take a turn for the better. Despite only two victories during the first half of the season, we have played good basketball for the most part. We have played the third, fourth, and eighth ranked teams in the country as well as some of the Northeast's finest, like UConn and UMass.

Now the schedule gets easier and if Vermont plays as well as it consistently has since the first of the new year, victories will start piling up. With the possible exception of UMass, Vermont should win most of the remaining games if the team continues to play good ball. Cat hoop fans can be optimistic about a winning season in the caliber of ball displayed in a losing effort this Saturday evidenced. Vermont showed a strong defense and a patient offense in controlling the tempo of the game against a strong Connecticut team. The Cats held a run-and-gun UConn team well under their normal scoring average in a 67-60 loss. More and more the team is displaying an aggressive defense and movement on offense. We are preventing running teams like Rhode Island and UConn from getting out and fast-breaking. We are forcing these teams to play our brand of basketball.

In the game tonight against St. Michaels, forcing the Knights to set up and stopping the break will be a key. UVM must maintain defensive balance and shut off their running game. They are an explosive team and can come back at any time if you let up. But UVM has a score to settle with them from two close defeats last year. It's the game for the people of Burlington and the Purple Knights seem to be number one at present. But by 10:00 tonight I think the Cats will have proven otherwise.

CAT NIPS:

Charlie Trapani, Vermont basketball's version of Dave Debusshere gave fans their money's worth against UConn.

(continued on page nine)

Cats End Losing Streak

by Gene Goldberg

One of the biggest weeks in UVM sports history got off on the right foot Monday evening as the Catamount basketball team broke a ten game losing streak by defeating Dartmouth 70-60. It was the first UVM win since December 5.

Dartmouth's Green took the early lead in the 1400 fans sat back and prepared for another loss. The Green led 8-4 before the Cats ran off seven unanswered points. But Vermont took the lead for good as freshman Warren Prehmus' driving layup made it 9-8, in favor of UVM. Prehmus, playing one of his better games, led all scorers with 22 points.

With nine minutes left in the half and leading 19-17, the Cats went on a six minute tear outscoring Dartmouth 20-7. Balanced scoring highlighted the streak as Joe Greco, Bernie Palmer, Barry Cohen, and Terry Green contributed the hoops to break it open. Vermont, shooting a red-hot 56% from the field in the first half, took a 40-25 lead into the locker room.

Dartmouth opened the second half with a 10-2 spurt, cutting the Cats' lead to seven points. Vermont's defense stiffened and Terry Green's driving baseline layup started the Cats rolling again. During the next ten minutes, Vermont outscored Dartmouth 16-6 and squelched any dreams the Green might have had. The Cats opened up their biggest lead of the night 60-43 when Ron Gottschalk tapped in Greco's missed attempt.

Dartmouth would not play dead and made one last attempt. Adam Sutton who topped the Green with 12 second half points made two key buckets and Dartmouth was once again in range at 60-50. Time, however, ran out and Vermont prevailed for their third win in fourteen outings.

Prehmus as the game high scorer with 22 went 10 for 11 from the free throw line. Barry Cohen had 14 points, Joe Greco 13 with 13 rebounds, and Green chipped in with 10 points and 11 rebounds. The Cat shooters cooled off in the second half but wound up with a 44 percent average from the field. Adam Sutton led the Dartmouth scorers with 18 but had a poor shooting night going 7 for 21. Bill Healy had 12 points and 9 rebounds for the losers.

An encouraging note for the Cats was their 49-28 rebounding advantage. But even in victory some glaring weaknesses were evident.

(continued on page ten)

Track Results

by David J. Raneri

In the Gardner-Collins Cage last Saturday, the UVM Track Team hosted the University of Massachusetts in its first Yankee Conference meet. The Minutemen of UMass, strong in the running events beat the Catamounts 79-39. Co-Captain Mike Berry was the star of the day in the track events when he placed first and broke the UVM record in the two mile run. Berry had a time of 9:15.8 bettering the old mark held by Charles of 9:17.4. The only other runner to place for the Cats was Frank O'Brien. He finished second in the 600 yard run.

In the field events the only double winner was UVM's Mike Bilza. He tossed the 35 pound weight 51 feet 6 inches and the put shot 46 feet 4 inches. Mark Iverson once again dominated the pole vault with a vault of 13 feet 6 inches to take first place. Vermont swept the high jump with Nate Reeves jumping 6 feet 2 inches for first, Steve Lynch and Jeff Lindgren took second and third respectively.

the next home meet is this Saturday against Bates starting at 11:00 am.

CLASSIFIED

Representative Needed! Earn $200 + each semester with only a few hours work at the beginning of the semester. INTERNATIONAL MARKETING SERVICE, 519 Glenrock Avenue, Suite 203, Los Angeles, California 90024.

Man's wedding band found near Patrick Gym. Inscription inside. Contact Jill, 108 Tupper Hall, 656-3269.

For Sale: 1972 16 h.p. Olympic 300 Ski Doo in excellent condition. Call 457-2544. $560. firm.

For Sale: Sony 11 inch solid state black and white tv in Walnut cabinet. Has digital clock with wake up alarm and sleep timer. Asking $60. Call John 864-4938.

APARTMENT AVAILABLE to share with two other female students: 3 rooms, 2 bedrooms, kitchen, living room, furnished, all utilities. Walking distance to campus. Call 863-3942.

VW snow tires: Mounted on wheels, ready to go for the rest of the long Vermont winter (6.00-15) — $25.00. Call Rabs at 863-4407.

LOST: Moriarity hat —means a lot to owner. If found please call 863-5744.

STEREO SPEAKERS— New three way Ducted Port speakers with 12 inch woofer; highly efficient with attractive enclosure. Two year factory guarantee. Special shipment. Fantastic discount, while they last. DYNACO KITE, ALSO AVAILABLE. Call John, 862-3614, anytime. Or ask for Gene at 658-2648, after 6 p.m.

WE DISCOUNT THE DISCOUNTERS

tape city, u.s.a.

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK • 10 AM to 10 PM • 879-0448

SWAP-A-TAPE

PAY $1.00 and turn in a tape of yours that you are tired of listening to and you'll be able to select a tape of your choice from our Swap-A-Rack! Thousands of the greatest hits to choose from!

$1.00 each

RT. 7 AND BLAKELY ROAD, COLCHESTER, VT.

CLINIQUE is at the mayfair.

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE

Retail outlet

FANTASTIC SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES, AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS

658-2620

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

- Fine work on American cars
- Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
- Front end alignment • Spin balancing
- Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

$49.95

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Front End Alignment $12.00

THE CORNER BOOKSTORE

ATTENTION UVM ART STUDENTS

10% DISCOUNT ON ALL ART SUPPLIES

ALL ART STUDENTS NOW CAN SAVE 10% ON ALL ART SUPPLY PURCHASES AT THE CORNER BOOKSTORE. WE'RE THE SERIOUS ART SHOP WITH A COMPLETE STOCK OF ALL THE MATERIALS YOU WILL EVER NEED. WE'VE A KNOWLEDGEABLE STAFF EAGER TO ASSIST YOU OR HAPPY TO LET YOU BROWSE ON YOUR OWN. INVESTIGATE OUR LOWER LEVEL ART SHOP TODAY AND SAVE

"If you're interested in Art, we're interested in you!"

Church and College Sts. Downtown Burlington 658-4554

the corner bookstore

"one-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

DUNHAM'S campus boots MAZEL'S SHOE STORE 100 North Street

SA Films

SPRING 1974

On this page of the Cynic you will find a complete list of all SAFilms scheduled shows for this Spring. We very much hope that you like what you see and that you will find time to attend some of them. You may notice that there are no Saturday night films scheduled. this is a direct result of the energy crisis: we can not use a hall that is not heated and there are none that are heated on the Weekend. As a result we have had to cancel two film series. It is our hope to show those series next year.

But before we get to the film listings, there are several matters that we would like to tell you about so that you will better understand our methods of operation.

1. Any organization that depends upon an audience for the success of its operation requires a strong input of ideas and criticism from that audience in order to be a more effective organization. You should know that approximately 75 per cent of SAFilm's working budget comes from your SA fee. Therefore, all undergraduates on this campus are technically our audience.

We want to hear from you. We want to know what you think about our series, the titles, how we show the films, the quality of projection, publicity, and anything else you want to comment on. And even more than that, we want to know what films you would like to see. We obviously can make no guarantees that everyone will see all suggested films but we will try.

2. There are complaints about the fact that SAFilms now charges for some of its film series. This is true. Three years ago, SAFilms sponsored showings of three films a week all year long for no cost to the audience. Since that time, there has been a great demand that SAfilms show more films and newer films thereby greatly increasing our costs. (For instance, a one-time rental of BUTCH CASSIDY AND THE SUNDANCE KID can cost as much as $550.00 in Life Science Hall and EASY RIDER costs $400.00 for just one showing.) We have asked the SA for more money and they have responded as best as they can, considering the already huge demands on their limited resources, but that simply will not provide all the money needed. The simplest solution has been to ask a small fee from the audience. This method also places a fairer share of the burden upon faculty and staff who attend our films and who do not pay the SA fee.

We might note that film companies are rediscovering their own films as a large untapped source of new revenue. Three years ago, SAFilms showed THE MALTESE FALCON for $25.00 for the showing. When you see the same film next February 22 it will cost SAFilms (and you) over $125.00. We hope you begin to see why we must charge.

3. SAFilms does more than just show films. We maintain a small library of classic films (about 40 in all) which are available for student and faculty alike. We help teachers set up film showings for their classes which is an indirect benefit to the student. And we also make this offer to any qualified student or student group: if you can guaranteed the rental of any film you want to see, SAFilms will book it for you, arrange for hall, projectors, and projectionist. All for no cost to the student or students other than the rental of the film.

4. As many of you may remember, there was much confusion last semester about what was being shown and where. This was partly our fault and partly some of the companies we deal with (more of this later). This semester SAFilms is providing you with this ad, a large sheet listing all films with notes on each film, a wallet-sized reminder card, and weekly announcements in the Cynic, THIS WEEK, WRUV, and on major bulletin boards.

But if something should happen and we have to cancel or postpone a film, there is one very simple way for you to find out. Just call the Billings Center Information number at 656-2068. The good people at the desk will always know what, when, where, and any last minute changes. We hope that there will be a minimum of changes but it now seems that they are to be inevitable.

We now will explain why changes happen. It won't help you to like it when your favorite film is cancelled, but at least you will know why. The rental of 16mm film to colleges across the country is now a big business. Companies scramble to gain exclusive rights to films. It often happens that SAFilms books a film from one company only to find out a few months later that we have to renew our booking with another company that has bought out the exclusive (or monopolistic) rights to our film. For instance, we are renting 95 per cent of our Bogart series from one company, United Artists, which owns a monopoly on Warner Brothers films of the twenties, thirties, and forties. We were scheduled to show tomorrow night a double feature of BLACK LEGION and KID GALLAHAD. Unfortunately, the company mistakenly sent us an Elvis Presley remake of KID GALLAHAD. We called trying to get a print of the Bogart version but were told that there was none available despite the fact that we have had written company confirmation on the right film since last August. We have no legal recourse. We hope you understand the problem and bear with us. Film was once a buyer's market, now it is very definitely a seller's market and the sellers are making up for lost profits.

So much for talk. All that is left to say is, we are located at:

SAFilms
Box 76
Billings Center on Campus
Telephone – 656-2029

We hope that you will let us know what you think and what you want.

THE SILENT CINEMA CLASSICS

Sunday Evening
North Lounge Billings Center
One Show at 8:00 PM
Admission is Free

February 3 – THE LAST LAUGH (German) with Emil Jannings.
February 10 – KRIEMHILD'S REVENGE (German) directed by Fritz Lang.
February 17 – SIEGFRIED (German) directed by Fritz Lang, part two of KRIEMHILD'S REVENGE
February 24 – METROPOLIS (German) directed by Fritz Lang.
March 3 – SPIES (German) directed by Fritz Lang.
March 10 – TOL'ABLE DAVID (American) with Richard Barthelmess.
April 7 – WAY DOWN EAST (American) with Lillian Gish and D. W. Griffith.
April 14 – THE BATTLESHIP POTEMKIN (Russian) directed by Sergei Eisenstein.
April 21 – THE CABINET OF DR CALIGARI (German) starring Conrad Veidt.
April 28 – DER MUDE TOD (German) directed by Fritz Lang.

SWASHBUCKLERS, ARCHERS AND OTHER GOOD GUYS

Monday Evening
North Lounge Billings Center
One Show at 8:00 PM
Admission is Free

February 4 – THE SEA HAWK with Errol Flynn.
February 11 – THE MASTER OF BALLANTRAE with Errol Flynn.
February 8 – THE LIVES OF THE BENGAL LANCERS with Gary Cooper.
February 25 – THE BLACK PIRATE with Douglas Fairbanks Sr.
March 4 – THE CRUSADES directed by Cecil B. DeMille
March 11 – FRENCHMAN'S CREEK with Basil Rathbone.
March 18 – BEAU GESTE with Gary Cooper.
April 1 THE SWORD OF LANCELOT with Cornel Wilde.
April 8 – THE BLACK ROSE with Orson Welles.
April 15 – THE SANTA FE TRAIL with Errol Flynn.
April 22 – DAMN THE DEFIANT! with Sir Alec Guinness.
April 29 – THE PRISONER OF ZENDA with Ronald Colman.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK: Part II

Tuesday Evening
Cook Hall, B106
One Showing at 8:00 PM
Admission is Free

February 5 – THE MAN WHO KNEW TOO MUCH with Peter Lorre.
February 12 – SABOTEUR with Robert Cummings and Otto Kruger.
February 19 – REBECCA with Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine.
February 26 – SPELLBOUND with Ingrid Bergman and Gregory Peck.
March 5 – NOTORIOUS with Ingrid Bergman and Cary Grant.
March 12 – ROPE with James Stewart and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.
March 19 – UNDER CAPRICORN with Ingrid Bergman and Joseph Cotton.
April 2 – STRANGERS ON A TRAIN with Robert Walker and Farley Granger.
April 9 – I CONFESS with Montgomery Clift and Karl Malden.
April 16 – DIAL M FOR MURDER with Grace Kelly and Ray Milland.
April 23 – TO CATCH A THIEF with Cary Grant and Grace Kelly.
April 30 – THE TROUBLE WITH HARRY with Shirley MacLaine and Edmund Gwenn.

Friday Evening
Cook Hall, B106
Two Shows Nightly
Check Poster for Exact Times
Admission is 75 cents

March 8 – NORTH BY NORTHWEST with Gary Grant and James Mason.
March 15 – THE BIRDS with Rod Taylor and a cast of thousands (of birds).
TBA – PSYCHO with Anthony Perkins and Janet Leigh.
April 12 – MARNIE with Sean Connery and Tippie Hedren.
April 19 – TOPAZ with John Forsythe and Dany Robin.
April 26 – TORN CURTAIN with Julie Andrews and Paul Newmann.
May 3 – FRENZY with Jon Finch and Billie Whitelaw.

AN EXPERIMENTAL FILM SERIES

Wednesday Evening
North Lounge Billings Center
One Show at 8:00 PM
Admission is 75 cents

February 6 – FLICKER OR LOOP FILMS
February 13 – AN EVENING OF VERMONT FILMS
February 20 – THE FILMS OF KENNETH ANGER
February 27 – THE FILMS OF MAYA DEREN AND MARIE MENKEN
March 6 – VIDEO AND COMPUTER GRAPHIC FILMS
March 13 – ANIMATION NIGHT
March 20 – FOREIGN CINEMA NIGHT
April 3 – SAN FRANCISCO SCHOOL OF FILM
April 10 – THE BRIG, directed by Jonas Mekas.

MARLON BRANDO

Thursday Night
Cook Hall, B106
Two Shows Nightly
See Poster for Exact Times
Admission is 75 cents

January 31 – 7:30 PM – THE MEN and at 9:30 PM – THE WILD ONE with Lee Marvin.
February 7 – ON THE WATERFRONT with Lee J. Cobb and Rod Steiger.
February 14 – A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE with Karl Malden.
February 21 – VIVA ZAPATA with Anthony Quinn.
February 28 – THE FUGITIVE KIND with Anna Magnani and Joanne Woodward.
March 7 – THE YOUNG LIONS with Montgomery Clifft.
March 14 – TEA HOUSE OF THE AUGUST MOON with Glenn Ford.
April 4 – ONE-EYED JACKS with Katy Jurado and Karl Malden.
April 11 – THE UGLY AMERICAN with Pat Hingle.
April 18 – THE CHASE with Robert Redford and Jane Fonda.
April 25 – 7:30 PM – NIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING DAY with Richard Boone 9:30 PM – DESIREE with Jean Simmons.
May 2 – BURN! directed by Gillo Pontecorvo.

HUMPHREY BOGART

Friday Evening
Cook Hall, B106
Two Shows Nightly
See Poster for Exact Times
Admission is 50 cents

February 1 – THE BLACK LEGION with Ann Sheridan.
February 15 – HIGH SIERRA with Ida Lupino.
February 22 – THE MALTESE FALCON with Peter Lorre and Sidney Greenstreet.
March 1 – ALL THROUGH THE NIGHT with Peter Lorre.
March 8 – DEAD RECKONING with Morris Carnovski.
March 15 – CASABLANCA with Ingrid Bergman and Conrad Veidt.
April 5 – CONFLICT with Sidney Greenstreet.
April 12 – TO HAVE AND HAVE NOT with Lauren Bacall.
April 19 – THE BIG SLEEP with Lauren Bacall.
April 26 – THE TREASURE OF THE SIERRA MADRE with Walter Huston.
May 3 – THE CAINE MUTINY with Jose Ferrer.
May 4 – THE AFRICAN QUEEN with Katherine Hepburn.

SHAKESPEARE ON FILM

Selected Wednesday Afternoons
And Evenings
101 Votey Hall
4:30 PM and 8:00 PM
Admission is One Dollar

February 20 – HAMLET with Sir Laurence Olivier; also excerpts from a screen test by John Barrymore for his projected HAMLET.
February 27 – HAMLET with Innokenti Smoktunovski.
March 7 – KING LEAR with Paul Scofield and Irene Worth. Time and Place to be announced.
March 20 – MACBETH with Dame Judith Anderson and Maurice Evans.
April 10 – OTHELLO with Sir Laurence Olivier and Maggie Smith.

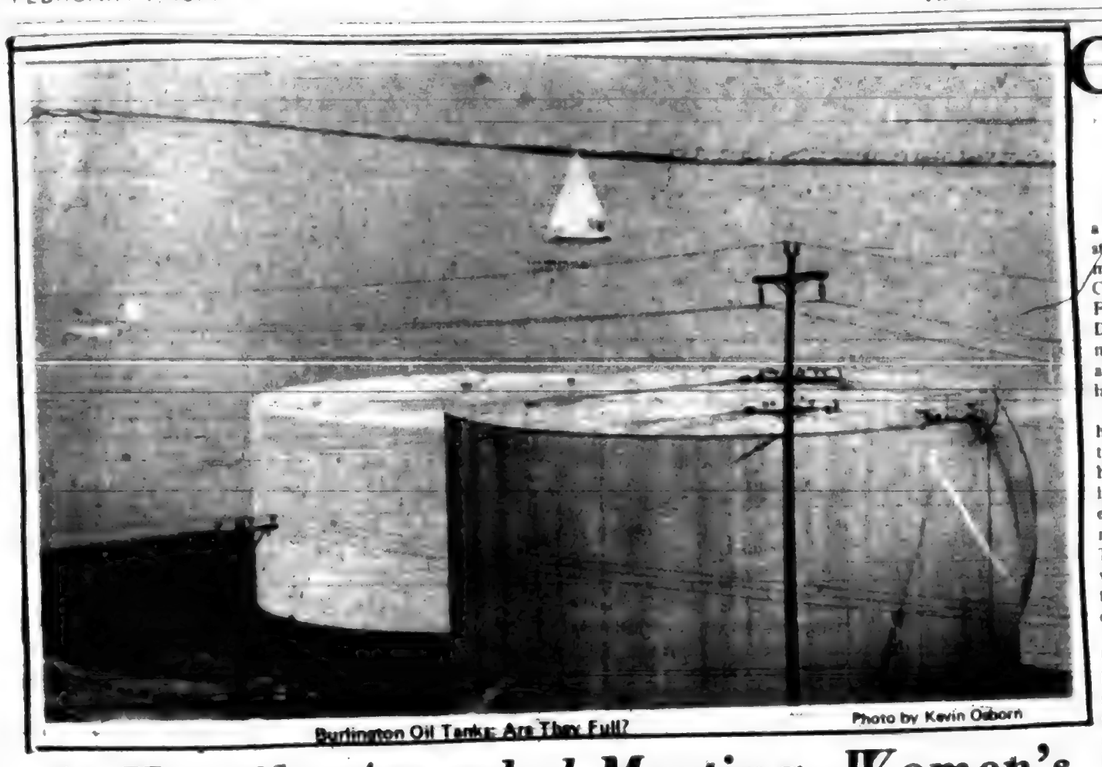
Photo: HORSEFEATHERS with the Marx Brothers and Thelma Todd.

VOLUME XCII
NUMBER 3
FEBRUARY 7, 1974

VERMONT CYNIC

'Tis A Privilege to Live In Vermont

University of Vermont
Burlington, Vermont



Burlington Oil Tanks: Are They Full?

Photo by Kevin Osborn

At Heavily Attended Meeting, Women's Caucus Desires Women's Center

by Jim Bradley

The UVM Women's Caucus enjoyed its largest attendance yet a standing room crowd of well over 100 people at its meeting for a Women's Center January 30th in Waterman's Memorial Lounge. There were short presentations by people active in the group, followed by a panel discussion.

Leaders of the growing group which was described as an umbrella organization embracing different interests, ideas and styles, "explained that one of the goals of the Caucus since its inception has been the establishment of a Women's Center on campus.

According to those who spoke at the meeting, the Center would have a variety of functions. It would be a gathering place, a counseling center providing a place where people could get non-sexist advice, a library of women's literature. It would also house the work compiled by the new Women's Research Group which is making an effort to round up papers written by students on subjects related to women which otherwise be lost or filed away to gather dust.

Matters of where the center will be located and how it will be financed have not been determined.

Friendship between the women was stressed at the meeting. Getting women together is one of the Caucus' main goals. Julie DeLanichelete, chairperson and an administrative assistant in the President's office said "One of the best things that has come out of the women's movement is that it has now become socially acceptable for women to like each other and not just be in competition for some man."

There was a great deal of diversity in the ages, styles, and interests of the women in attendance. There were secretaries, professors, students, mothers. For some the goal was generally to have a better chance to make it in the competitive world. For others the goal seemed to be the end of that competitive

(continued on page eleven)

If All's Well, Infirmary Will Move In One Year

by Scott Cahoon

If all goes as planned, the UVM health service should be ready to move into its new home on East Avenue approximately one year from-now. UVM is going to buy the Medical Center Hospital Nursing Home to house its new health facilities.

In preparation for the move, the University plans to remodel the nursing home and build an addition onto the rear of the building. According to Executive Vice-President Wayne Patterson, UVM will ask for bids on the job February 15, and construction will hopefully start July 1.

The controversial East Avenue site has been chosen by the trustees over two other possibilities: the improvement of the present facility or movement of the health service to the DeGoesbriand Unit of the Medical Center Hospital. Both Patterson and Dr. Richard Amidon, medical director, affirm that there is little chance the University will change its decision at this point.

Patterson says that the University will swing a loan through the sale of bonds in order to pay the expected $6,700,000 purchase price and construction costs. The debt will be paid off with funds from the student health fee which, according to Dr. Amidon, probably will be raised to about $60 per year.

Because of the improved quality of the new health facilities, there may be a slight drop in the student insurance premium. Why? A federal interest subsidy may take care of part of the interest on the bonds. There is also a possibility that an alumnus will donate furniture for the new waiting room and lounge area.

Many people complained that the East Avenue site is too far removed from the main campus to be convenient for most students. Dr. Amidon himself originally preferred either a new building on Redstone campus or the remodeling of the present infirmary since either choice would mean a centrally located health service. 85 per cent of 300 students polled before the trustees' decision indicated that they preferred the present location.

Many others were opposed to the remodeling of the Wasson Infirmary, however, due to its status as an historic site. Because of rapidly rising construction costs, the University did not wish to build another brand-new building on Redstone.

Now that the trustees have made their decision, Dr. Amidon hopes that renovation of the nursing home can begin as soon as the present residents can be transferred to a new extended care unit being prepared for them at DeGoesbriand. "We aren't enough now," he says, "either in staff or in building." He cited the rising cost of construction and of medical equipment. The price of X-ray machines, for example, is expected to rise 30 per cent between now and

(continued on page twelve)

Off-Campus Students Affected By "Landlord-Tenant Act"

by Barbara Frankel

During the next few weeks, a bill will come before the state Senate which affects many UVM students. Co-sponsored by Senators Fred Smith and Robert V. Daniels, the bill attempts to more fully protect the rights and obligations of both landlords and tenants.

Daniels, who is also a UVM history professor, explained that, if passed, the bill will help clarify the rights landlords and tenants should expect of each other. "So much is unknown, unwritten. There's a cloudy area in which landlords and tenants take advantage of each other," he commented.

The bill, "entitled, "The Uniform Residential Landlord and Tenant Act" specifies the landlord's services to the tenant and the tenant's responsibilities to the landlord. Some examples are the amount and return of security deposits, making it legally simple for a landlord to evict a tenant who isn't paying rent, banning retaliation by the landlord if the tenant complains to the building inspector, "to encourage landlords and tenants to maintain and improve the quality of their housing."

Although the bill is designed to protect both the landlord and the tenant, Daniels emphasized his hope that this would come to the aid of ignorant tenants, in many cases students who are unaware of their rights. One organization at UVM, The Tenants' Council, co-ordinated by Mr. Ted Stronnach, has endeavoured to inform off-campus students of their rights and to offer them alternative services such as food and laundry co-ops. Daniels hopes that if the bill is passed it will act as a catalyst to encourage tenants to educate themselves about their rights and responsibilities.

Daniels and Smith first became involved with "The Uniform Residential Landlord and Tenant Act" when the National Committee on Uniform State Law asked them to sponsor the bill in Vermont. After working through the judiciary committee, they are now making revisions in the bill and expect to bring it before the senate in the next few weeks.

"Although there has been minority opposition in committee, Daniels is optimistic for the future of the bill. "Enlightened landlords see that it helps and protects both sides," he stated. "Slumlords oppose it, saying that it doesn't do much good for the housing shortage. This is true, but the bill does protect the tenants and the landlords."

Cats Split With B.U. & B.S.

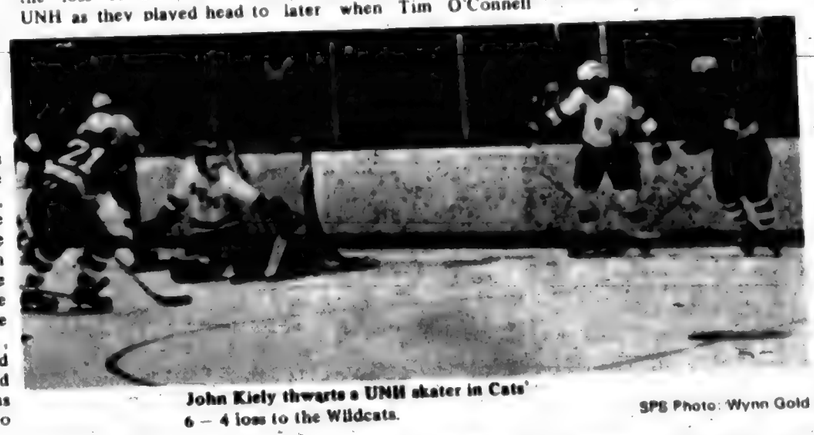
UNH Downs UVM 6-4

by Norm Robinson

Senior wing Gordie Clark led the University of New Hampshire hockey team to a 6-4 victory over UVM Wednesday in the game of the year. Clark who had had a four goal night against St. Louis recently, added three more against the Cats as well as playing a solid defensive game. The Catamounts have nothing to be ashamed of in the loss to second ranked UNH as they played head to head with the Wildcats for the majority of the contest.

UVM came out hitting in the first period and consistent forechecking kept the Wildcats in their own end of the ice. UNH got on the scoreboard first when Jamie Hislop's hard wrist shot got past Kiely with just 2:36 gone in period number one. The Catamounts came right back a little over a minute later when Tim O'Connell won a face off to UNH goalie Barney Buppert's right, passed to Roger Mallette who banged the puck into the net to Buppert's left. The goal was Mallette's fourth of the year. John Murphy scored his first goal of the season at 3:43 to put Vermont ahead 2-1. After stealing the puck at the New Hampshire blue line Mallette beat Buppert with a low backhand shot.

(continued on page thirteen)



John Kiely thwarts a UNH skater in Cats' 6 – 4 loss to the Wildcats.

SPB Photo: Wynn Gold

Huge Crowd Gathers To Hear Chomsky

by Peter Campbell

An unexpectedly large audience came to hear Noam Chomsky, the noted professor of linguistics from M.I.T., speak about the "Problems and Mysteries in the Study of Language," in Ira Allen Chapel Tuesday evening. The size of the audience forced the lecture to be moved twice: from Waterman Memorial Lounge to Votey 101, then from Votey to the Chapel, interrupting a UVM Orchestra rehearsal. But the orchestra abdicated and Dr. Chomsky began his speech, a general summary of his complex ideas about man and his thought – an outgrowth of his research in linguistics.

He first suggested that some language may be investigated, and progress may be made, yet some language may be beyond human intelligence. Dr. Chomsky posited a hypothetical situation where a martian with no pre-conceived notion about man would be able to study humans. He proposed that the first question the martian would ask is what is the nature of the human "steady state" ("let's call this a cognitive system that has been internalized") that underlies the rest of human behavior? He gave the example of the human face as an original steady state that is recognized in all humans.

Next he stated in the same manner one could investigate language. Instead of a human face, one could use the sentence, "John's friends appeared to their wives to hate one another," or "John's friends appealed to their friends to hate one another," but not the sentence, "John's friends many appeared to their wives to hate one another." The latter sentence is clearly ungrammatical. According to Chomsky this knowledge of grammar is a "steady state." He stated that the structure of language requires an abstract analysis of expression first, and that this is an innate mental process. "A computer could not program that latter sentence, though a young child – for all the grammatical errors they do make – would never make that kind of mistake."

The answer to how grammatical rules derive from the "steady state" would seem to be some sort of learning theory. But Chomsky was doubtful that such a learning theory could be found. "While it is widely assured that there is an object we are trying to discover, it is extremely unlikely that the scientist would find anything like a theory of learning." He said that the missing concept in the learning theory is often what is learned that to characterize a certain state, one could ask how one got to that state. But this is not, historically, how people have approached the theory of learning. "Most learning theories base themselves on what we should attain, rather than on what we have attained," he added.

Dr. Chomsky came down hard on the behavioral scientists. He denied emphatically that behavior could be determined by studying past and present stimuli. He used language as the best example of man's boundless creativity. "People are always saying new things." And the linguist pointed to the paradox, where steady states and the rules of grammar are less simple in inquiry than all the "physical" knowledge that has been discovered over the centuries. "Humans learn what they know," yet, "one who knows English cannot say what he knows," he stated. Chomsky also maintained that any biologist unencumbered by our intellectual tradition would realize this.

Dr. Chomsky concluded his talk by restating that there will always be mysteries as well as problems. He went on to suggest that one's mind is a complex of integrated structures which interact in certain ways. He proposed that each of the many learning theories would have to characterize an initial scheme of an organism, which itself varies widely.

In the question and answer session after the lecture, the linguist conceded that his own theories rested on many presuppositions. He admitted the martian idea could be misleading because he was asking the listener to have a blank mind when in actuality no one does. But he maintained the validity of a search for some kind of essence in all humans, even if the search led to unpleasant

(continued on page 8)

Stephen Stills will appear with his very special guest, Maria Muldaur, on Friday, February 15, at 10:00 p. m. in the Patrick Gym. Tickets are still available, but going quickly, ($4.50 with UVM student ID, $5.50 general admission) at Bailey's and the UVM Bookstore.

Featured This Week

Redstone Hall To Reopen p.8
Who Rules UVM?...p.5
Recipe Of The Week....p.10

Table Of Contents

Arts and Entertainment .....p. 6
Calendar Announcements .....p. 2
Crossword Puzzle .....p. 10
Cryptoquote .....p. 10
Doctor's Bag .....p. 9
Editorial .....p. 4
OP ED .....p. 5
Sports .....p. 14

This paper is recyclable bring this and other newspapers, magazines, and paper to Robinson Hall or Davis Hall, Monday and Thursday nights – 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

CALENDAR $ ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar's Remarks

The drop period ends tomorrow February 8 1974 All cards must be turned into the Registrar's Office Room 563 Waterman by 5 p.m.

Many thanks to all students and faculty for your assistance and understanding during the recent adjustment to your Spring schedules We apologize to those of you that have been inconvenienced as a result of this adjustment process

UVM Horse Club Clinic

The UVM Horse Club will hold a winter clinic on Saturday February 9 at 1:30 pm The aim of this clinic is to teach the average horse owner the care needed to keep a horse healthy and happy during the winter months Stress will be put on the different needs of a horse during the winter

The Clinic will cover nutrition, clipping, parasites, shoeing, brauding, and other aspects of horse care

The discussions and demonstrations will be done by the horse club members The Clinic will be held at the UVM Spear Street Barns

Faculty-Senate Seeks Student Opinion

The Faculty-Senate Student Affairs Committee is seeking student opinion on establishing a mechanism for faculty evaluation by students Student input is needed for possible recommendations on questions such as How could this contribute to better student faculty relationships? What channels of communication could be utilized? Of what form could these evaluations be? Should students take part in recommendations to this effect? How could this be done?

Comment, opinions and or positive input is needed and would be greatly appreciated by the members of the Faculty Senate Student Affairs Committee This input will be synthesized by the committee and submitted in the form of recommendations To the Faculty Senate Please offer any ideas that you might have on this subject to Jeffrey Fernandez at 862-0083 or drop me a note at the S A desk

Tri-Delta Offers Scholarship To Eligible UVM Women

The price of education just keeps going up and there's nothing you can do about it I beg your pardon!! There is something you can do about it, and Tri-Delta sorority on campus has been working since September to offer you an alternative, $450's worth.

Each year Delta Delta Delta works hard through service projects to raise funds for their scholarship program This year, 1973-74, Delta sisters have worked for Saga in the concession stands at all home football games and hockey games to earn $450 The money is now given as a scholarship, not a loan, to any UVM woman student to be used for school next semester As an added feature, all local winners will automatically be eligible for one of the $1,000.00 awards made by Delta Delta Delta national service projects fund

To be eligible for the award you must be a full-time undergraduate woman student at UVM. Applications may be picked up from the dean of women, director of financial aid, or Tri-Delta sorority, 143 So Willard Street, on campus

Deadline is February 25, 1974

For more information call Tri-Delta at 864-5051, or the service projects chairman, Shelley Bouchard at 862-5816

"You can do something about the cost of education Apply today!"

English Poet

Charles Cameron English poet and author will speak on poetry and meditation Wednesday February 13 at 7:30 p.m. in Marsh Lounge and Thursday February 14 at the same time in North Lounge of Billings Center There will also be free music

Senior Meeting

There will be a Senior class meeting Thursday, February 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Marsh Lounge of Billings Center. All seniors are urged to attend this important meeting if any year-end activities are to take place.

Engineer's Week

The Green Mountain Chapter of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers are presenting a meeting in connection with Engineers Week and the theme "Engineering our greatest energy resource". Mr Mike Kutscher, an advisory engineer in advanced manufacturing engineering with the IBM Systems Products Division Mid-Hudson valley plants will present a talk entitled "Manufacturing Engineering Systems for Manpower Energy Conservation". It will be illustrated by slides. The meeting will be held following a meal at the Lincoln Inn, Essex Junction For reservations and further details, please call Gilbert Marshall 656-3320 or Ed Walsh 769-3196. The meeting will be held Tuesday, February 19th

Craft Gallery In Living/Learning Center

"Everyone's Gallery" at the University of Vermont Living/Learning Center has space available during the spring semester to display the work of artists, craftsmen and talented hobbyists in the area

The gallery, in Building B of the Center, is operated under the art education program of the UVM art department as a display area for people who have "something interesting to exhibit ... something they believe is worthy of a gallery show

Walk For Hungry

CROP WALK FOR THE HUNGRY

Last year many students from Campus took part in a 10 mile walk sponsored by an organization called Crop Again this year a Walk is being discussed!! A meeting will be held at the First Congregational Church, at 38 S Winooski Ave., on Monday February 25, at 7:30 p.m.

Last year about 300 people walked and about $4000.00 was given to CROP for the hungry. This year it is hoped that many more individuals in Burlington, both on and off Campus would like to be involved

'New last semester, the gallery has displayed the work of various craftsmen in the Burlington area, as well as collections, photography, children's art, and a display of sketches made by passersby in City Hall Park of a selected object

The gallery this semester is being operated by art education student Corrie Graves, who is inviting contributions from people "who have put something of themselves into their work, whatever it is, and whose work shows that they care for it"

Anyone interested in exhibiting their craft, hobby, or artwork in Everyone's Gallery is invited to call 656-2014 weekdays, or 893-2392 evenings and weekends and ask for information about the gallery

Weight Reduction

If you are one of those special people who has tried unsuccesstully to lose weight we care about you! Freshmen, Sophomore, and Junior women contact the UVM Counseling and Testing Center and inquire about the free weight reduction groups now being organized Call Tel No 656-3340.

WRUV-FM's Program Guide

Radio station WRUV-FM will start publication of a detailed weekly program guide for its own broadcasts as well as those of five other FM stations which can be easily received in the Burlington area The emphasis in the programming will be on classical and jazz selections, with the titles, composers and performers spelled out in detail, as well as interviews, plays, and other culturally important broadcasts. The stations to be included in the first issue, which will cover the week of February 16 through 22, are: WRUV; WQCR, Burlington; WWPV, Winooski Park; CBM-FM, Montreal, CKVL-FM, Verdun, and WQXR, New York City (also heard on AM) When advance programming becomes available from other stations, these will be included also

The Program Guide will be available for 15 cents at the UVM Book Store and the music and hi-fi stores of the area, but will be distributed free of charge by mail for six months to anyone making a tax-deductible contribution of $3.00 or more to WRUV-FM. The Program Guide will be compiled by Jacques Gosselin, UVM '74, in charge of classical music programming at WRUV-FM, with the help of Dr. Eugene Lepeschkin, Medicine

At Fleming Museum through Feb. 12 Photographic Images, by Daniel Higgins, art department, in the lounge gallery.

Opening Feb. 13 for a month, in the main galleries, Photographs of the Slate Quarries, an aspect of changing Vermont, by Neil Rappaport, Bennington College, and in the lounge gallery, The Art and Design of Architecture, organized by Peter King with assistance of Ruth Nickerson.

The Lane Series Office still has for sale season series tickets for the Chamber Arts Series and for the Film Society Series Science Fiction Films. Visit 234 Waterman Bldg., or call 656-3418.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7

7 p.m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7 p.m., Campus Crusade for Christ presents Tim Dahlin who will speak on college life, North Lounge, Billings Center

7:30 p.m., CAPE weekly meeting, Conference Room C Billings Center.

8 p.m., Lane Series presents the Harkness Ballet, Memorial Auditorium. Tickets available from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, Ext. 3418, at $3, $5, and $6

8 p.m., Cross Cultural Communication Component of The Living/Learning Center presents Lynn Sharpe, senior editor of "Encore" magazine, who will speak on "The Black Woman in Media," Room 115, Commons Building Living/Learning Center, open to all.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 8

Last day for changes from credit to audit and for withdrawal from day courses without academic penalty (Erroneously listed under Feb. 6 in last week's Calendar)

9 a.m.-5 p.m., CAPE information table, main lobby, Billings Center.

3-5 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop "Individual Counseling Styles," with Dr. Kay Schmucker, 146 S. Williams St., phone 862-2013 for reservations and more details

7-11 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Consciousness-Raising for Men and Women," with Nancy Koch, at 73 Church St., phone 862-2013 for reservations and information

7:15 p.m., discussion group at Burgess Hall Lounge, open to any student interested in raising questions about faith, religion, church, or life as a student. Discussion led by Chaplain Odie

9:30 and 9:30 p.m. (more or less), SA Films presents "They Drive By Night," with George Raft, B106 Cook Bldg., admission 75 cents Times of showings vary due to different lengths of films ... see posters for details or call ext. 2068.

9 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement, Billings Center Featuring the Burro Brothers Blue Grass Band

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 9

9 a.m., Vermont Winter Open Chess Tournament, fifth floor, Waterman Building. A two-day event. Information from R. Keen, ext. 2922

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 10

7:30 p.m., "ACF (Alternative Center of Education) in the Hall" presents Two representatives of Planned Parenthood, lounge of March-Austin-Tupper halls

8 p.m., SA Films "silent cinema classics" presents "Kriemhild's Revenge," North Lounge, Billings Center, admission free.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 11

3:45 p.m., Zoology seminar, Dr. Martin L. Tracy, Bodega Marine Laboratory, University of California, "Genetic Variation and Divergent Evolution in Drosophila williston," Room 107, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg., coffee at 3:30

Experience

"Experience in Experience" Thursday, Feb. 7, 7:00 p.m., 120 Commons Living/Learning Center. Open readings and discussion on empathy and sympathy in oral interpretation.

NOW FORMING
WEEKLY ENCOUNTER GROUPS
(Growth Groups)
for beginners and experienced persons
10-12 weekly sessions
NO CHARGES
For information Contact
THE NEXT THING
146 South Williams Street
UVM Ext 3340 or 862-2013
a federally funded educational project

A New, Free Service
VERBAL AND NON-VERBAL COMMUNICATIONS GROUPS
for people in your dorm, fraternity, or your off-campus apartment
LEARN HOW TO LISTEN, HOW TO HELP YOUR FRIENDS, HOW TO FIGHT FAIR, HOW TO SHARE FEELINGS, TRUST OTHERS, AND ENJOY LIVING TOGETHER!
SKILLED, experienced Facilitators are available at no cost from
THE NEXT THING (ext. 3340)
146 South Williams Street
A federally-funded educational project

HUMILIATE
No one does that.
WEIGHT WATCHERS
Tuesday — St. Anselms Chapel — 12 Noon. For further information call 658-1920, 171 Church Street, Burlington

DOMINO'S PIZZA
MONDAY NIGHT SPECIAL
4:30 pm to 7:00 pm
864-7444 WILLISTON ROAD
658-3333 N. WINOOSKI AVE
FREE DELIVERY
$1.00 off a LARGE PIZZA except large plain
1 coupon per pizza
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
Good for Feb. 11, 18, 1974
MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm
50c off a SMALL PIZZA except small plain
1 coupon per pizza
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
Good for Feb. 11, 18, 1974
MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm

FOR THE MAXIMUM IN VALUE
FOREST HILLS OUTLET
WINOOSKI VT.
WEST CANAL ST.
SHOP DAILY 9 AM to 10 PM
ACCOMPANIED BY THIS COUPON
$1.00 OFF ANY ALBUM
Except albums less than $2.00
GOOD UNTIL FEB 23, 1973
Complete line of darkroom accessories
NOW! 40% DISCOUNT ON ALL PHOTOFINISHING (EXCEPT EK)

DISCIPLESHIP
BROTHERS PRIESTS
IS A TOTAL WAY OF LIFE
EDMUNDITE
TO BE THE PRESENCE OF CHRIST, THROUGH THE VISIBLE WITNESS OF A SMALL COMMUNITY SERVING THE CHURCH'S MISSIONS & EDUCATION
SINGLE CATHOLIC MEN BETWEEN 17-30 SHOULD WRITE TO
DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS THE SOCIETY OF SAINT EDMUND MYSTIC, CONNECTICUT 06355

DOMINO'S PIZZA
50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA
Name
Address
Phone
864-7444 Williston Road
658-3333 No. Winooski Ave
Void if not completed
Expires Feb. 13, 1974
1 Coupon per pizza

FEBRUARY 7, 1974

4:30 p.m., College of Arts and Sciences faculty m... B106 Cook Bldg

6:30 to 10:30 p.m. The Next Thing pres... workshop "Sensory Awareness as an Interpersonal ... with John Perry, 73 Church St., phone 862-2... details, reservations.

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Mr. Proctor Jarvell, direc... administrative support services, who will talk ... "Energy Conservation at UVM and the Four Day ... lounge of March-Austin-Tupper halls

8 p.m., SA Films "swashbucklers, archers, and good guys," series presents "The Master of Ballantrae" Errol Flynn, North Lounge Billings Center admission

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Prof. Edwin Jarvell, ... administration, who will discuss "Personal Salesm... New Concepts and Directions" including short ... range outlooks for the U.S. economy ... Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for bible inqui... gospel music, March-Austin lounge of March-Austin-Tupp... further information from Sue K. at ext 2952

7:45 p.m., Women of UVM Home Arts Group ... & Chinese Auction and a craft demonstration and ... (from glass ornaments to needlepoint). Meeting held ... Waterman Building. Members please note date ch... please bring auctionable items

8 p.m., SA Films "Alfred Hitchcock series" ... "Saboteur" with Robert Cummings and Otto Kru... Cook Bldg. admission free.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 13

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus meeting, op... interested UVM women students, faculty ... wives at President's dining room, fifth floor, ... Bldg. Bring your lunch

12:15 p.m., ACE (Associates in Ministry) pre... weekly program "Voyages in the Spirit," Conferen... C, Billings Center Coffee and tea provided, b... lunch

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Jim McMartin on tra... hypnotism and other altered states of consc... lounge of March-Austin-Tupper halls

7:30 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board pre... Charles Cameron, March Lounge, Billings Center

8 p.m., SA Films "experimental films" series ... "An Evening of Vermont Films," North Lounge ... Center, admission 75 cents

8:30 p.m., SA Speakers Bureau presents ... Governor Thomas P. Salmon, at Ira Allen ... Admission free (The Governor's appearance is ... from Feb. 6.)

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, ... Lambert, electrical engineering, on measureme... impurity level by means of inverse square ... Contact electrical engineering secretary, 309 ... room number 12:15 to 1:15 p.m., Women's Caucus pres... Rudolph, communication and theatre, on "Sine... in a question and answer session aimed at help... but open to all who are interested. Place ... Lounge, Waterman Building.

Mysticism And Neuro-physi...

Dr. Milton E. Burglass, M.D., M.P.H., will talk on "Mysticism and Neuro-physiology" Friday, February 8 at 3:00 p.m. in March Lounge, Billings Center. Dr. Burglass is Director of Correctional Solutions, Inc., a group that works in local jails. His field of interest is the power of images to create the future, individually, culturally, and even in terms of the nervous system. It is in this connection that he has studied religious experience and its role in changing so called "physica... are welcome. ... sponsored by ... department. D... moderate the d...

Mortar...

Mortar Boa... Women's Hon... now accepting ... for next year's ... If you know a ... with qualities ... service, and ... please fill out a ... at the Student ... in Billings.

Cheers!

It's the rea...
Coca-Cola Bott...

4:30 p.m., College of Arts and Sciences Faculty meeting, B106 Cook Bldg.

6:30 to 10:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Sensory Awareness as an Interpersonal Event," with John Perry, 73 Church St., phone 862-2013 for details, reservations.

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Mr. Proctor Lovell, director of administrative support services, who will talk about "Energy Conservation at UVM and the Four Day Week," lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

8 p.m., SA Films "swashbucklers, archers, and other good guys," series presents "The Master of Ballantrae," with Errol Flynn, North Lounge, Billings Center, admission free.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Prof. Edwin Greif, business administration, who will discuss "Personal Salesmanship, New Concepts and Directions," including short and long range outlooks for the U.S. economy, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for bible inquiry and gospel music, library lounge of March-Austin - Tupper halls, further information from Sue K. at ext 2952.

7:45 p.m., Women of UVM Home Arts Group meets for a Chinese Auction and a craft demonstration and display (from glass ornaments to needlepoint), Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Members please note date change, and please bring auctionable items.

8 p.m., SA Films "Alfred Hitchcock series" presents "Saboteur" with Robert Cummings and Otto Kruger, B106 Cook Bldg., admission free.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 13

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus meeting, open to all interested UVM women -students, faculty, staff, wives - at President's dining room, fifth floor, Waterman Bldg. Bring your lunch.

12:15 p.m., AIM (Associates in Ministry) presents the weekly program "Voyages in the Spirit," Conference Room C, Billings Center. Coffee and tea provided, bring your lunch.

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Jim McMartin on trance states, hypnotism, and other altered states of consciousness, lounge of March-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board presents poet Charles Cameron, March Lounge, Billings Center.

8 p.m., SA Films "experimental films" series presents "An Evening of Vermont Films," North Lounge, Billings Center, admission 75 cents.

8:30 p.m., SA Speakers Bureau presents Vermont Governor Thomas P. Salmon, at Ira Allen Chapel. Admission free. (The Governor's appearance is rescheduled from Feb. 6.)

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Dr. Lloyd Lambert, electrical engineering, on measurement of deep impurity level by means of inverse square capacitance. Contact electrical engineering secretary, 309 Votey, for room number.

12:15 to 1:15 p.m., Women's Caucus presents Doloris Rudolph, communication and theatre, on "income taxes," in a question and answer session aimed at helping women but open to all who are interested. Place is Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.

Mysticism And Neuro-physiology

Dr. Milton E. Burglass, M.D., M.P.H., will talk on "Mysticism and Neuro-physiology" Friday, February 8 at 3:00 p.m. in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center. Dr. Burglass is Director of Correctional Solutions, Inc., a group that works in local jails. His field of interest is the power of images to create the future, individually, culturally, and even in terms of the nervous system. It is in this connection that he has studied religious experience and its role in changing so called "physical Reality." All are welcome. The talk is sponsored by the religion department. Dr. Guasner will moderate the discussion.

Mortar Board

Mortar Board, the Senior Women's Honor Society, is now accepting nominations for next year's new members. If you know a junior woman with qualities of leadership, service, and scholarship, please fill out a form available at the Student Activities desk in Billings.

Lost : 20 Foot Banner

MISSING from the east wall of the UVM Bookstore, one (1) red, white, and black, canvas BANNER measuring 20' long by 4' high. Unmistakable identifying feature in the message painted thereupon, which reads: "Stephen Stills and his very special guest, Maria Muldaur - Friday February 15, 1974 - 10 p.m. - UVM Patrick Gymnasium. Tickets at Bailey's and UVM Bookstore.

The S.A. Concert Bureau (Box 83, Billings Center) would appreciate any information leading to the recovery of this quite expensive piece of property. (Where could a hot twenty foot banner secretly be displayed with any sort of discretion?)

Lane Committee

The Lane Committee is currently conducting its annual recruiting campaign for new members. All students interested in working on the Lane Series are invited to hand in their names at the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and they will be invited to attend meetings. The telephone number is 656-3418.

Meetings are usually held on Thursdays in the Lane Office at 4:15 p.m. The next meeting will take place on February 14.

There are six student voting members on the Lane Committee, which also includes five faculty and staff persons. The Committee selects artists for all the Lane Series, decides on matters of policy, and helps in the presentation of concerts at Memorial Auditorium and Ira Allen Chapel.

In the presentation of the concerts, students sell tickets, supervise the ushers, take care of the artists behind the stage, and distribute publicity materials.

Fringe benefits for members include meeting the artists, going to postconcert parties, and, of course, attending the concerts in the line of duty – not to say pleasure. The five faculty – staff members are Dr. Frank W. Lidral of the Music Department; Professor Edward J. Feidner, of the Department of Communication and Theater; Mr. Lawrence E. Van Benthuysen, UVM's Director of Public Relations; Mr. Charles L. Wolf, UVM's Comptroller; and Dr. Jack Trevithick, Director of the Lane Series. Philip Grime '74 is the newly appointed Assistant to the Director.

The Lane Committee is also looking for ushers to work this season's Chamber Arts Series, where four concerts take place in Ira Allen Chapel on February 23, March 13, April 9, and April 17. Students who wish to act as ushers for the Chamber Arts Series should hand in their names at the Lane Office, 234 Waterman.

Astrology

There will be an astrological study on the understanding of root forces which constitute every facet of man's being in the Video Lounge Room, Commons Building, Living/Learning Center every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

UYA Volunteers

This month the University Year for Action volunteers and staff are saying at least official goodbyes to 15 terminating UYA's. They are Kathy Dodds, Dan Cohen, and Nancy Stevens, Vermont Legal Aid; Mark Kolter, PACT; Karen Gillam and Zylpha Trask, Mobile Medical Vans; Jim Moyer, King Street Area Youth Project; Jean Sausville, Free Breakfast Program; Joel Page and Michele Ferland, Bread and Law Task Force; Tim Marshall, Burlington Housing Authority; Kathie Feulner, Winooski Mobile Classroom; Dick Cassidy, Department of Corrections; Sam Johnson, The Place; and Cathy Wood, the Urban Youth Center. Joining the present group of UYA's are six new volunteers including George Whitehead, Department of Corrections; Margaret Tetrick and Sue Eileen, Legal Aid; Erica Hunt, Abby Hale and Allyn Berkewitz, Bread and Law Task Force.

To all those UVM students who committed a full academic year to the ACTION program and served so well, the UYA Staff and community agencies extend grateful thanks for a job extremely well done. Through positive, progressive and constructive action, some of the poverty problems which they were originally brought in to work on have been dealt with effectively and courageously.

Spiritual Corner

CUNNINGHAM NEWMAN CENTER

WEEKDAY MASS SCHEDULE

Monday – Friday at 4:15 p.m. Also Tuesday evenings at 10:00 p.m.

WEEKEND MASS SCHEDULE

Saturday, 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.; Sunday, 9:00, and 11:30 a.m. and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

THIS WEEKEND

The Students involved in the Alabama Project during Semester Break will be making presentations at the weekend Liturgies.

BIBLE STUDY

Each Monday evening at 8:00 p.m. with Fr. Dufault

BASIC CATHOLICISM

Each Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. Topic: Sacraments. Instructor: Fr. Ducault.

MORNING PRAYER

Ecumenical Morning Prayer, Monday – Friday, 8:30 a.m. Held this semester at the Newman Center.

Freshmen – creative discussions will be held on Monday afternoons from 2 – 4 p.m. Various religions will be discussed and speakers will be invited. The next discussion will be Monday, February 11, at 2:00 p.m.

ST. ANSELM'S CHAPEL ACTIVITIES

SERVICES:

Holy Communion: Sunday – 11:00 a.m., Tuesday – 10:00 p.m.;

Evening Prayer: Mon – Sat. 5:45 p.m. (Services Episcopal — All Denominations Welcome!)

Ecumenical Morning Prayer: Mon.–Fri. 8:30 at Newman Center. (Service sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant and Roman Catholic Chaplaincies.)

Tonight, Thursday, February 7, the Associates will have an open supper at their office at 338 College Street (basement of Hillel House). It will begin at 6 p.m. and everyone is invited. Musicians bring your instruments! Poets, bring your poetry! For those who need rides, there will be cars leaving from in front of Coolidge Hall (Redstone Campus) at 5:45. To give those planning the supper an idea of numbers to prepare for, please call Ted Stronach (863-6970) or Harry Brooks (862-9280) if you'd like to come and join in the celebration. If you can't reach us, come anyway.

The Associates sponsor a weekly ecumenical spiritual exchange called Voyages in the Spirit. This is a time for relaxation and sharing. Everyone is invited. The next Voyage will take place Wednesday, February 13 at 12:15 p.m. in Conference Room C, upstairs at Billings Center. The leader will be Ray Plankey, who has just returned from Chile where he spent nine years working for social reform. His subject will be "Christian Liberation: Spiritual and/or Material."

The Associates also sponsor a Sunday morning car pool for those interested in attending local church services. Cars will be available each Sunday in front of Coolidge Hall on the Redstone Campus from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

The Associates sponsor, along with St. Anselm's and the Newman Center, morning prayer, every day at 8:30 in the Newman Center lounge. This is a time for Christian prayer and sharing as the day begins. All are invited to come and join us.

GODSPELL CHOIR: Thursday 6:30 p.m.

Special choir organized solely for the purpose of singing music from the play "Godspell", which will be presented at a service on March 3. The group will be conducted by the Chaplain, and will meet for one hour. The only requirement is that you enjoy singing! Please bring a guitar if you play.

DISCUSSION GROUP I:

Friday 7:15 Burgess lounge (Cancelled this week because the Chaplain will be away. Resumes on February 15.)

DISCUSSION GROUP II:

Monday 6:30 Chapel Common Room. (New group being started which will begin meeting on February 18, every Monday night.)

Both discussion groups are opportunities for students to raise and discuss problems or questions they have concerning their faith, religion, church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join and the groups are led by Chaplain Odie.

SUMMER JOBS

Guys & Gals needed for summer employment at National Parks, Private Camps, Dude Ranches and Resorts throughout the nation. Over 60,000 students aided each year. For FREE information on student assistance program send self-addressed STAMPED envelope to Opportunity Research, Dept. BJO, 55 Flathead Drive, Kalispell, MT 59901.

....YOU MUST APPLY EARLY....

THIS STUDENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM HAS BEEN REVIEWED BY THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

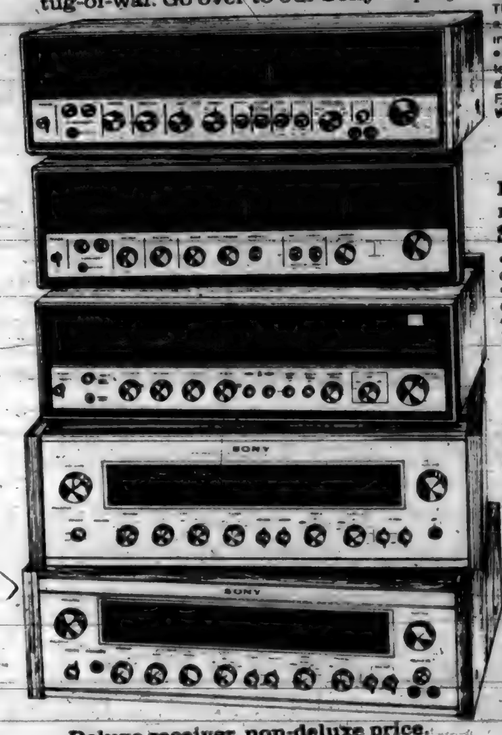
Advent BOSE Canon SONY JBL PIONEER Technics

audio-technica TEAC Interaudio PHILIPS maxell Waco dynaco AKAI SHERWOOD KLH JVC Pickering Dual

HITACHI TANDBERG MEMOREX

We're pulling for you →

You want a new receiver but your heartstrings pull one way, and your pursestrings pull another? Stop the tug-of-war. Go over to our Sony display.



New standard in its power output and price category.
SONY STR-6046A
• 20+20W RMS into 8 ohms from 20Hz to 20kHz with THD less than 0.8%.
• Brings in all stations, even the weakest ones without interference from strong signals.
• Features found in Sony's deluxe models – speaker selector switches for 2 full stereo systems, microphone input and line mixing facilities, tape monitoring, tuning meter. Function indicator lights.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Everything you'd ever want in a receiver but with modest power.
SONY STR-6036A
• 15+15W RMS into 8 ohms from 20Hz to 20kHz (can drive all but low-efficiency speakers).
• All the facilities of the STR-6046A except the mic mixing control and illuminated function indicator.
• Brings in all FM and AM stations clearly.
With walnut finish cabinet.

4-channel for just a few dollars more than stereo.
SONY SQR-6650
• Delivers superior performance from SQ, other matrix records and broadcasts, and 4-channel, tape decks.
• Extra power for outstanding stereo performance – Double Stacked Differential circuitry.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Could be today's finest receiver
SONY STR-7065
• Superb sound: (60+60W RMS into 8 ohms to 20Hz to 20kHz) Drives even the least efficient speaker.
• Station-pulling power: Sensitive, 2.0μV FET Front end with 1.0 dB capture ratio brings in even the weakest signals, without interference from stronger ones.
• Unlimited versatility: Dual tape monitors with direct dubbing (use one for a four-channel decoder), choice of 3 speaker pairs, high and low filters, stereo mic mixing.
• Convenience: indicator lights show selected functions.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Deluxe receiver, non-deluxe price.
SONY STR-7055
All the basic performance of the deluxe STR-7065, but with a bit less power (still a hefty 35+35W RMS) and without microphone mixing and function indicator lights.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Audition SONY Receivers

Visit our new store at 157 Pearl St. Essex Junction
also 370 Shelburne rd. Burlington

We reserve the right to limit quantities.

Lafayette RADIO ELECTRONICS
Listen to us, you can't go wrong.

Assoc. Store owned and operated By I. E. E.

Rectilinear. SUPERSCOPE SENNHEISER SUPEREX

SANYO TOSHIBA Garrard REVOX KENWOOD Scotch BOSS AMPEX

Cheers!

It's the real thing. Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

DISCIPLESHIP

IS A TOTAL WAY OF LIFE
EDMUNDITE

TO BE THE PRESENCE OF CHRIST, THROUGH THE VISIBLE WITNESS OF A SMALL COMMUNITY SERVING THE CHURCH'S MISSIONS & EDUCATION

SINGLE CATHOLIC MEN BETWEEN 17-30 SHOULD WRITE TO

DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS THE SOCIETY OF SAINT EDMUND MYSTIC, CONNECTICUT 06355

VERMONT CYNIC

Founded In 1883

Barbara Frankel '75, Editor-in-Chief
Rick Steinberg '75, Assistant Editor
Eileen Driscoll '75, Managing Editor
Bruce Maddock '76, News Editor
Kathy Simonsi '77, Assistant News Editor
Margo Howland '75, Feature Editor
Lissa Charles '75, Arts Editor
Peter Campbell '75, Assistant Arts Editor
Mike Schwartz '75, Sports Editor
John Van Hoesen '74, Copy Editor
Jim Bradley '74, Consultant Editor
Loren Wilson '74, Advertising Manager

Editorials- Three Bills

Decriminalize Grass

Vermont, frequently a forerunner in legal matters, has the chance to do it again.

There is a bill before the state legislature, which, if passed, will decriminalize marijuana. Possession of marijuana will no longer be penalized by a jail sentence. Instead, offenders will receive a $25 fine. The penalty for selling marijuana will remain unchanged.

This bill is definitely a step forward—a step towards legalizing marijuana. As Chittenden County state's attorney Patrick Leahy pointed out, there is one serious flaw. Under the bill, possession of marijuana is still grounds for a criminal record.

Leahy and others have suggested amending the bill to rectify this. Others have advocated that, because of its controversial nature, the bill go to a state-wide referendum.

The $25 fine is certainly better than a jail sentence. We feel, however, that the bill does not go far enough.

A liberalization of the marijuana laws is sorely needed here and throughout the country. If Vermont can lead the way, perhaps other states will also relent. The next step, which should have come a long time ago, is legislation.

B.F.

Generic Drugs

An important bill has been proposed to the Vermont Legislature which requires citizen concern and support to override the opposing wave of private business concerns. Once again the decision will affect all Vermonters in their struggle against the high cost of living.

The proposed bill, S150, deals with prescription drugs. While we do not advocate trying to cut corners on remaining healthy, this bill would make safe and effective prescription drugs available to the consumer at a reasonable price. S150 would allow pharmacists, who are trained professionals, to substitute official name, often called generic name, medicines for brand name medicines. All brand name medicines have an official name which identifies their chemical make-up rather than their manufacturer. The brand name often reflects an increase in price over the generic named drug as much as 700 to 800 per cent.

Vermont needs this bill, and citizen support is a must. Show your support; write the state house.

L.W.

Landlord And Tenant Act

Approximately 50 percent of UVM students live off-campus. Many, probably most of these students, are unaware of their rights as tenants. Ignorant and apathetic, they are too frequently the victims of unscrupulous landlords.

A bill, entitled "The Uniform Residential Landlord and Tenant Act," is slated to come before the Vermont State Senate within the next few weeks. It is designed to spell out and modernize the rights and obligations of both landlord and tenant.

This bill significantly affects UVM students. It contains regulations dealing with matters as relevant as: withholding rent; the landlord's duty to make necessary repairs; and what to do legally in cases of landlord neglect.

It is vitally important that all members of the Burlington community be informed of their legal rights as tenants and as landlords. As students, we are supposed to be awared of and concerned with our duties and privileges. Hopefully, with our support, "The Uniform Residential Landlord and Tenant Act" will, as a law, enable us to be informed, protected citizens.

B.F.

The Gray Lady With The M.S. Folder

by Jeff Ryback

Typcially they bang on your door when you're engrossed in a tantalizing movie or talking to a friend you haven't seen in five years, long distance; and if you're like most, you search the convolutions of your mind for some quick egress. "Oh yes. Multiple sclerosis? Oh, yes, well I gave at the office. I think?" And the grey-haired, middle aged woman kindly smiles making you feel like a heel, and then she says, "Thank you very much. It's good to see someone cares." The movie begins to lose its appeal, for your head is hard at work rationalizing away the strange remorse eating away at the pit of your stomach; after all "what the hell is multiple sclerosis? None of my friends have it." So you forget it. But sometimes something strange happens, sometimes that dear friend or that girl you were going to marry suddenly disappears. And no matter how hard you try to reach her your efforts become like volatile gas. Then the rumors start and the beautiful creature you used to race across the soft, floury sand with, the one with the long blonde hair that whipped about enamoringly from one shoulder to the other, the one that was safely nestled in a corner of your mind cheering you up when you were distressed, suddenly she is stricken. How does a person trapped in a country encumbered with parking tickets face it?

Amazing! It's only been a few years since I saw her last and she had been so beautiful then, so full of life. "Yes, I'm afraid it is. . .it's incurable," her mother said. "What about her husband? How's he taking it?" I asked. "Hard to say." I had never been confronted with such a mind boggling cognition. What was this multiple sclerosis? And incurable. I don't understand that. And so I set out to learn more about the crippler of young adults.

MS is a neurological disease which, along with other related nervous system afflictions, affects approximately 500,000 Americans. Knowledge of the disease dates back to 1822 when Sir Augustus d'Este, an English nobleman, noted in his diary a number of symptoms that today definitely delineate the progressively debilitating course of the disease. Through use of this diary along with autopsies of persons afflicted with the disease, it was finally identified by Doctor Jean-Martin Charcot, a French medical researcher, in 1868. And today, over a hundred years later, it still remains a medical enigma. Specifically, MS prevents the natural flow of nerve impulses from the brain or spinal column to parts of the body. Thus it can impair body functions such as: seeing, hearing, eating, walking, etc. to an extent able to totally incapacitate an individual. Blockage of nerve impulses is the result of the disintegration of a material called myelin. It is this scar tissue that sclerotizes areas in the spine and brain which causes the interference. For some strange reason the disease strikes between the ages of 20 and 40 and usually those of the higher socio-economic groups. It is also said to be more prevalent in cold climates.

I read the words remorsefully realizing that something that once was, would only be a memory. And my mind slipped back to those days we had shared together in the house on the top of the hill with our two dogs, Brandy and Pepper. I remembered the big pond in the backyard with the mama ducks and the ducklings, and those times we spent throwing rocks at the big snappers who used to snuff out the little creatures with one bite. Then there was the time in the swamplands of Florida when she volunteered to help me drag a fishnet in search of the elusive enneacanthus chaetodon; and all she could do was scream because the water in her hip boots felt like snakes. And there was love, for a long time...but then it ended. She had been an airline stewardess and a professional model in those days. But one day she decided to quit and went away to marry an oceanographer in Hawaii. And, happily, she never stopped writing.

When she was sure she had the disease, she left Hawaii to spend what she thought would be her last summer east. Her parents warned me she might be in a wheel chair even though her letters assured that she would jump off the plane, so I prepared for the worst. I did not meet her at the airport, instead I waited a few days. The moment came and I warily drove the long winding road leading to her parents house. The house was empty except for her mother who, without a word, pointed towards an abandoned highway a few hundred yards up the road. I looked down the highway hoping to see the sleek, supple figure I had once known; she was not there. Then I heard my name called from the woods to the right of the highway, and when I turned I heard the click of her Brownie camera, she looked fine. She explained that her husband had suffered and needed a rest, so he remained in Hawaii. Then she asked that I forgo any reticence I might have about talking over the disease for she had accepted it completely.

The ensuing weeks took us to all the old places and, strange as it may seem, each day had an ephemeral quality as if our lives would end any minute. And the foot prints we made in the sand we studied carefully for soon the sharp wind would blow them away forever. Then, one day it ended, and she prepared for the long flight home. We exchanged those sentimental books appropriate to the occasion and I promised I wouldn't see her off.

I received a letter a few weeks later. She could no longer lay in the sun and she was taking special shots. She mentioned that she was blind the last time she had a cold and that mornings she would wake with a numbness about her face. And the thought of such a beautiful flower shriveling overwhelmed me.

And, so the days pass and I keep waiting for that middle aged lady with gray hair to knock at my door carrying the manila folder proudly embossed with the big red letters, MS. This time I will give...

Letters To The Editor

Apology Demanded ...

To the Editor:

We would like to bring attention to a disturbing incident which took place last night (January 29, 1974). The UVM Orchestra was promptorily ousted from Ira Allen Chapel in the midst of its rehearsal by the relocation of the Chomsky lecture.

The Orchestra is a regularly scheduled class, required for many music majors, and can only meet in the Chapel because of its size. We have been rehearsing on Tuesday night for at least ten years. One can imagine our surprise when several hundred noisy people filed into the Chapel, interrupted our conductor, Dr. Read, and requested that we leave. Mendelssohn would not have tolerated the disruption to one of his greatest symphonies, and it was certainly not appreciated by the Orchestra.

Our organization is an active part of the University and we pay for this course just as students pay for any other. We also have a very limited number of rehearsals before a performance and to be told we must disband in favor of an extracurricular lecture conflicts with what we thought to be obvious priorities. Can the Orchestra be expected to leave everytime there is a "more important" use for the Chapel?

Whatever the answer, the handling of this matter showed a reprehensible lack of regard for the musicians involved, and though we can not recover the time lost to us, we feel that apologies are in order.

Beth Wheller, flute; Linda C. Welch, clarinet; Terrill E. Goss, violin; Margaret E. Geoghegan, piccalo; Lynn Grant, clarinet; Richard Goldstein, violin; Glory Langhear, clarinet; Hope Hulett, french horn; Ellen Bartlett, violin; Jean Galton, violin; Margaret Quigley, trumpet; Randolph B. Wheeler, bass trombone; Jocelyn M. Peacock, flute; Dean Williams, trumpet; Andrea Johnson, cello; P. R. Alger, bassoon; Peggy V. King, french horn; Anne Richmond Bartlett, viola; Joyce Flanagan, cello; Caroline MacDonald, violin.

UVM Sports Fans

To the Editor:

Last Thursday, January 31, was a night which I will not forget. For it was at this time that I found out just what kind of sports fan is here at UVM. There are mostly SPORT fans here, they cheer, yell, applaud, and virtually riot when there is a hockey game. But when it comes to other sports, these fans crawl into their rooms and hide from the world. This is especially true when it comes to basketball. This is not to say that rooting for the hockey team is to be condemned, but giving them your undivided attention is really autistic of you. This doesn't apply to those who attend basketball or soccer games, or track and swim meets, or any of the number of sports events which occur here. It appears that almost anyone can cheer for a winning team, but when a team isn't winning, no matter how well they perform, almost everyone forgets them.

As a case in point; myself and several friends were appalled by the attendence of the UVM student body at the St. Michael's basketball game last week. We were outnumbered by everyone; the St. Mike's students, the local fans for St. Mikes, and even the local fans for Vermont. High school teams get more student support than our team does. There were many times during that game when a substantial enthusiastic crowd could have given our team a greater incentive and possibly have helped them turn the game around. I feel that it was this large student support that gave the St. Michael's team the extra something they needed to defeat us.

Our basketball team may not be number 1 but they do their best and represent this school. But most of all they represent all of us, the students, in the best, most sportsmanlike manner they can. The least we can do in return is to give them some support in the stands.

With a little improvement, some time, and a crowd, a big crowd, to cheer them on through victory and defeat our basketball team, all of our teams, could go a long way.

Sincerely,
Ray E. Ruete

...Apology Given

To the Editor:

I wish to express my apologies to the members of the UVM Orchestra as well as to those who were attending the rehearsal on Tuesday evening. A nationally known speaker had attracted such a large audience that even after we transferred the location of his talk from the Waterman Building to the Votey Auditorium, it was impossible to seat those in attendance (even the stage was crowded and people were standing in the halls). Furthermore, there was serious danger of a fire hazard, not to mention violation of fire codes. It was, therefore, necessary to move once again and after checking with the security police, I was informed that we could have the use of the Chapel, which I then announced to the audience in Votey.

Unfortunately, we arrived at the Chapel only to discover a rehearsal in progress. In view of the enormous size of the audience for the speaker, I felt I had little choice but to ask the orchestra to interrupt its rehearsal. As a music lover myself, and particularly in view of my position, this was a most uncomfortable move for me. I, therefore, apologize to those who were in the process of performing and to those who had come there to listen to music.

Finally, I wish to thank Professor Read and the members of the orchestra for their cooperation and restraint.

Sincerely yours,
John G. Wriser
Dean
UVM College of Arts and Sciences

Support S. 150

To the Editor:

This letter is to urge everyone to support S. 150 which will allow for the substitution of less expensive drugs for the more expensive drugs by the pharmacist provided that they are chemically, biologically, and clinically equivalent. All physicians, dentists, and veterinerians will be able to specifically prohibit substitution in those cases that they feel would not benefit from substitution.

Today drugs are marketed under two names, the brand name and/or the generic name. The difference is that prescriptions can cost a lot less if the doctor uses the generic name (official name). There will be a single generic name for a drug which has many names. Brand name refers to the catchy title given to a drug by the manufacturers. The brand name is designed to stick in the physician's memory and inspire him to prescribe the drug. Brand name drugs are heavily advertised and this is reflected in the price. For example, 100 tablets of Pentids (Squibb's brand of penicillin G) costs $16.70 while it only costs $2.41 for the same amount of unbranded penicillin G.

The old and the poor are most often ill and thus their need for medicine is correspondingly greater than the average citizen. In today's inflated economy, these populations suffer more than the rest, but when it comes to drug prices, we are all suffering from the super-inflated brand name costs. S. 150 will help all of us keep the cost of health care a little lower.

Michael N. La Bella
Burlington, Vt.

Thank You

To the Editor:

To whom it may concern at V.F.H.P.

The wind blew your sign down last night and as I passed by I couldn't help but pick it up, (and pick up the pieces it was broken into!), and attempt to stick it back together. For all it's worth, I tried my hardest to make the thing as strong as it used to be, but unless you change the location of the screw eyes and get them away from the mortise joints, this sign's always going to be falling down! It's a damn shame too. It's a beautiful sign. Good luck.

Sympathetic Student

We found this letter taped to the sign that hangs in front of our office building. The sign, blown off its hinges, was sitting on the front porch ready for repair. We would like to thank the student who authored this letter for the time she or he gave to the salvage and reparation of our ill-fated sign. It is especially commendable that a person would have the spirit to assume responsibility for an object (one) has little direct bearing on his life, when charitable actions are as much reactions; to personal connections or sentimentalities, as they are caring impluses. A sign is a minor thing in man's world, yet the person who took time and effort to attend to the sign can see a correlation between man and the objects of man's making. The ability to see this distinguishes a person from the many people who sense no integration between the mass of symbols and signs around them and their own condition. A sign, after all, is a pointer for people. By signs we are directed to whatever riches or impoverishment lies at their endpoints. Thank-you for knowing these things, and for placing importance of the state of the sign that marks the Vermont Foundation.

Sincerely,
Mark Tyler Hutchins
President
Vermont Foundation for Historic Preservation
325 Main Street
Burlington

Clean The Den

To the Editor:

Den frequenters and Den janitors are lax in their responsibilities and duties to their fellow patrons. Canines are not the only creatures scampering around the Catamount Den, and if the Board of Health doesn't close the Den because of dogs, then they could do so because of other unfavorable conditions. At least one student has reported a hairy, little creature of uncertain nomenclature, scurrying from one corner to another.

Unfavorable conditions such as these stem from slopped food, dirty tables, and uncleared waste from eating areas. Inconsiderate patrons and sloppy janitors create these unfavorable conditions.

If one is able to see through the smoke he would notice that tables are seldom cleared; cups half filled with cold coffee are spilled as some unsuspecting soul drops her books; paper plates plastered with mustard, ketchup, and relish glue themselves to the tables; cigarette ashes garnish this delectable, delightful, and disgusting mess.

When that hairy little creature brushes up your leg, don't forget to throw out your coffee cup before you go screaming out the door.

Sincerely,
Disgusted Daily Denner

Hockey Tickets

To the Editor:

After having just stood in line for two hours waiting for tickets to the UNH game and having the door slammed in my face, it's an understatement to say that I'm upset. In three years at this institution I've been ripped off a lot of times, but this has to be one of the toppers.

It's my understanding that they only had a grand total of 350 student and general admission tickets for sale. I can appreciate that this was a popular game and that a lot of people wanted tickets, but why did they make only 350 out of some 2,000 plus available to University students?

Something is very wrong when people who pay the kind of tuition we pay plus $25 athletic fee to help support the hockey program and are not even given a fair chance to see important games. It seems to me that having to buy a season ticket to all athletic events simply to see an occasional game is being grossly unfair to the typical student. I believe that the student body as a whole deserves some sort of response from "the powers that be" as to why there were only 350 tickets available.

Bill Rice

The Cynic welcomes letters and columns from students, faculty, or any other readers. Materials for publication must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request.

Vermont Cynic

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Dave Compagna, Bill Campbell, Cecilia Ebeart, Andrew Mares.
FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Carol Dufault, Laurie Rapp.
ARTS: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Doug Collette, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Obshan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, Elliott Freeman, Sig Heller, Randy Jansen, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Dave Ranen, Norm Robinson, Bob Wlonsik.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormey, Debbie Valyou, Joan Westcot.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

A Bus System

by Allen King

"A BUS SYSTEM IS PART OF THE ANSW... TRAFFIC PROBLEMS". Whether real or not... crisis" has pointed out that Americans are w... wasteful of materials and resources. Oil compa... vast amounts of natural gas each year beca... wouldn't yield enough profit. MacDonald's in... away hundreds of hamburgers a year becau... been on the rack a little too long. Buses ... routes around our cities while drivers pack ... burning gasoline and wearing out their cars... been guilty of waste. I am no exception but ... be taken to counteract this. One area that ... about now is the traffic situation right here ...

Every weekday at about three o'clock ... piling up on Main Street. The area remains ... several hours as motorists fight their way ... problem has been getting worse over the year... expects it to get any better. In an effort to alle... the problems, the jughandle was constructed ... cost of several million. The city planners, kno... would only be a temporary solution, have ... revamp the rapid transit system.

The Transporation Authority buses are ... colorful, more frequent, but still run with ... and the cars flow in and out of the city. A ... Chicago in the early 1960's concluded that ... to pay commuters in order to induce just fif... them to take rapid transit. The problem ... automobiles have been just too convenient, ...

door transportation. Perhaps with gasoli... to outrageous levels and parking spaces b... fewer, the buses may make it yet.

One characteristic of car travel is the ... levies that is not borne by the car ow... automobile added to the daily traffi... increases the congestion thus slowing th... all drivers. Anyone who drives through ... you that the stoplights and hills do a nu... mileage. A driver who might get 20 mile... Interstate will be lucky to get 12 or 13 ... hour. A study of traffic in London show... travel in highly congested areas was appr... gallon (that was with gas prices equivale... gallon). If drivers were charged with the ... mass transit would suddenly appear far m...

One other aspect of this is the cost ... Last summer a student was hit by a car w... Main Street up by the Living and Lear... there is talk of a tunnel under the road... have been installed in that area. That ... pedestrian dangers in that area for years. ... has finally been hurt, we get some actio... up to is that there is too much traffi... nothing much has been proposed to do a... if Burlington is unsuccessful in imple... system, we can do our own bit on th... would, therefore, advocate our own tra... this sounds like pie-in-the-sky or some... Republic, but if you'll hear me out I ... that a bus system for UVM is not ... practical as well.

A group of UVM civil engineering ... working hard over the course of the la... up with some data and proposals t... problem on the campus. You must ad... plied up along University Place, some p... perpendicular on the grass, others in... would lead one to believe that the... problem, especially when some of the ... stickers. While the report of these en... not out yet, I would still want to ... proposal at the risk of stepping on ... further suggest that the whole ... transportation be studied by a committ... some definite policy decisions being m...

One of the first questions to ... suggesting a bus system for UVM is ... one?" Most students will say that the... to and from classes. This is good and ... but there are definitely times when ... handy, especially if it were free. Going ... the gym, from Votey to WDW, from J... would be a little easier, quicker and pe...

Who would use the system? All ... staff who have paid a transporation f... grad students and med students if they ...

What about student parking? Stud... banned in all areas except the gym p... by, the water tower. The residence ... course, be open. All commuters woul... of those two lots or off campus. T... regular runs to those lots. Parking ... entirely along University Place and ... towed away.

How many buses would we need? ... three should do it. There would be ... the third would be kept for a spare in ... down.

Who would drive them? Female st...

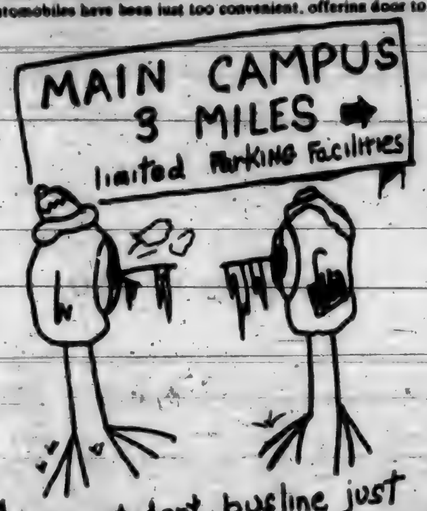
A Bus System Is Part Of The Answer

by Alan King

"A BUS SYSTEM IS PART OF THE ANSWER TO UVM TRAFFIC PROBLEMS". Whether real or not, the "energy crisis" has pointed out that Americans are extraordinarily wasteful of materials and resources. Oil companies burn off vast amounts of natural gas each year because to tap it wouldn't yield enough profit. MacDonald's in Essex throws away hundreds of hamburgers a year because they have been on the rack a little too long. Buses travel regular routes around our cities while drivers pack the highways burning gasoline and wearing out their cars. We have all been guilty of waste. I am no exception but steps will now be taken to counteract this. One area that we can think about now is the traffic situation right here in Burlington.

Every weekday at about three o'clock the cars start piling up on Main Street. The area remains congested for several hours as motorists fight their way home. The problem has been getting worse over the years, and no one expects it to get any better. In an effort to alleviate some of the problems, the Ingbandle was constructed last year at a cost of several million. The city planners, knowing that this would only be a temporary solution, have attempted to revamp the rapid transit system.

The Transporation Authority buses are now more colorful, more frequent, but still run with few passengers and the cars flow in and out of the city. A study made in Chicago in the early 1960's concluded that one would have to pay commuters in order to induce just fifty per cent of them to take rapid transit. The problem exists because automobiles have been just too convenient, offering door to door transportation. Perhaps with gasoline prices increasing to outrageous levels and parking spaces becoming fewer and fewer, the buses may make it yet.



One characteristic of car travel is the substantial cost it levies that is not borne by the car owner himself. Each automobile added to the daily traffic stream slightly increases the congestion thus slowing the average speed of all drivers. Anyone who drives through Burlington will tell you that the stoplights and hills do a number on their gas mileage. A driver who might get 20 miles per gallon on the Interstate will be lucky to get 12 or 13 driving in the rush hour. A study of traffic in London showed that the cost of travel in highly congested areas was approximately $1.00 a gallon (that was with gas prices equivalent to 38 cents per gallon). If drivers were charged with the true cost of travel, mass transit would suddenly appear far more attractive.

One other aspect of this is the cost to the pedestrian. Last summer a student was hit by a car while trying to cross Main Street up by the Living and Learning Center. Now there is talk of a tunnel under the road, and traffic lights have been installed in that area. There was talk about pedestrian dangers in that area for years. Now that someone has finally been hurt, we get some action. What it all adds up to is that there is too much traffic of all kinds and nothing much has been proposed to do about it. Now, even if Burlington is unsuccessful in implementing a transit system, we can do our own bit on the UVM campus. I would, therefore, advocate our own transit system. At first this sounds like pie-in-the-sky or something from Plato's Republic, but if you'll hear me out I think you will find that a bus system for UVM is not only possible but practical as well.

A group of UVM civil engineering students have been working hard over the course of the last semester to come up with some data and proposals to ease the parking problem on the campus. You must admit that seeing cars piled up along University Place, some parked parallel, some perpendicular on the grass, others in no-parking zones, would lead one to believe that there is some kind of problem, especially when some of the cars carry "resident" stickers. While the report of these engineering students is not out yet, I would still want to go ahead with this proposal at the risk of stepping on a few toes. I would further suggest that the whole issue of campus transportation be studied by a committee with the hopes of some definite policy decisions being made.

One of the first questions to be encountered in suggesting a bus system for UVM is "Why do we need one?" Most students will say that they are content to walk to and from classes. This is good and I would encourage it but there are definitely times when a bus would come in handy, especially if it were free. Going from John Dewey to the gym, from Votey to WDW, from Jeanne Mance to Hillis would be a little easier, quicker and perhaps safer.

Who would use the system? All students, faculty, and staff who have paid a transporation fee. This would go for grad students and med students if they so desired.

What about student parking? Student parking would be banned in all areas except the gym parking lot and the area by the water tower. The residence lots would still, of course, be open. All commuters would have to park in one of those two lots or off campus. The buses would make regular runs to those lots. Parking would be eliminated entirely along University Place and all violators would be towed away.

How many buses would we need? This is tricky, but three should do it. There would be two major routes, and the third would be kept for a spare in case the others broke down.

Who would drive them? Female students would. By being women, the insurance rates would be much lower. Hopefully, some work-study people could be used. The drivers would work when they didn't have classes and be paid by the hour. This is the same system in use at the Vail, Colorado, ski area (where, incidentally, it is very successful). The buses are automatics.

When would the buses run? This would have to be determined by study and experimentation. Ideally, they would run from about 7:15 until 6:15 on weekdays. They could also run to and from athletic events and be used by the University's ski program in the winter (thus saving the chartering of Vermont Transit buses). Special weekend groups might also be able to hire them at very reasonable prices.

How much would it cost the student? We could keep these buses in business at $2.50 per semester ($5.00 per year). The charge could be collected like the VPIRG fee, although it wouldn't be advantageous to give refunds. If you figure it out, this is less than the Transportation Authority charges per week to their regular commuters!

How would these buses be financed? The federal government's support for urban mass transportation has about tripled in the past fifteen years. The present federal program pays for two-thirds of the capital costs of urban mass transportation systems. If this project could qualify under this program, then we could easily finance such a system. The buses would cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $28,000 a piece. With federal help, we could get the three buses for that figure. It may be necessary to get a loan for the first year, but that loan could be paid back in three years or less. Add to the above figure about $22,000 for salaries and another $5,000 for a maintenance contract and fuel, and you will find that we can operate on a figure of about $55,000 for the first year and about $27,000 for each year after that. Any extra money could be placed in a sinking fund for future replacement. You may remember the Chittenden County Transportation Authority recently acquired two new buses

(continued on page eight)

Who Rules The University Of Vermont?

by John Franco

Next weekend, the UVM board of trustees will descend upon Burlington for yet another bi-monthly meeting. On the agenda for this month will be the announcement by President Andrews of the firing of Philosophy professors Gerry Anderson, Bob Rice, and Alan Paskow, as well as the announcement of the appointment of Barbara Snelling as Vice President for Development and External Affairs. High on the agenda will be the perennial problem of wresting a few million bills from the clutches of the legislature in order to finance another expansion boondoggle, possibly the underpass for Main Street.

In recent years this august body has come under increasing fire from students and faculty, especially since the firing of Michael Parenti a few years ago. One spinoff of this is the recent decision by some faculty to affiliate with the AFT. Yet somehow the trustees always seem to emerge from the storm with their positions and powers unchallenged. One basic reason for this is that they exercise virtually complete control over all aspects of University life. All the faculty committees, student advisory boards and the like are precisely that – advisory positions – whose suggestions can be written off with a single vote of the all-powerful board. The only area in which the board does not have de jure power is over the selection of academic courses, but as we saw with the Parenti affair and the philosophy purge, all they have to do is hire a hatchetman, fire the right personnel, and soon even that area is effectively controlled.

But this is all old hat. The question that hasn't been asked is the more specific question: who exactly are the members of the board? What interests do they represent? How do they attain their positions? How do their backgrounds affect the policies of the University? In short, who rules UVM?

The board consists of 21 active and two non-voting ex officio members. Nine are chosen theoretically by the alumni, but in fact are chosen by a neat little system of self-perpetuation that rivals the old House of Lords for its cronyism, and closed, undemocratic nature. When an "alumni" trustee's term is up, the other "alumni" members get together somewhere and secretly chose their successors. Nine of the other trustees are selected periodically by the Vermont Legislature, and the remaining three are chosen by the Governor. One might expect the self-perpetuating members to be a more closed composite of the population, and those chosen by the legislature to be more representative of the general public, right? Wrong. Most of the trustees represent basically four interest groups – banking and insurance, real estate and development, industrial corporations, and positions of power in the state political parties.

Nine of the trustees represent banking and insurance, eleven if President Andrews and Governor Salmon are considered. And only two of this category were chosen by the self-perpetuating process. The rest were selected by the legislature, with the exception of trustee Luther Hackett, who was chosen by former Governor Davis. They are: Howard Allen, president of Allen Agency Financial Services, director of the Chittenden Trust Co., member of the advisory board of the Utica Mutual Insurance Co., and director of Merlin, Inc. and Cynosure Inc.; Robert Boardman of Hickock and Boardman Insurance and Real Estate, and director of the Burlington Savings Bank; Harry Bolwell, director of the National City Bank of Cleveland; Thomas Candon of the Howard Bank's Rutland Advisory Board; Allen Eaton of Mam Mutual Corporate Investors and director of two Winchester, Mass Banks; Carey Howlett of the Farm Production Credit Association; Merritt Hewitt of the Catamount National Bank; Luther Hackett of Hackett, VAline, and McDonald Insurance and Investment, the Hackett and Co. Investment Brokers, and Director of the Howard Bank; Governor Salmon of the Vermont National Bank; and President Andrews, who along with trustees George Little and Howard Allen, is a director of the Chittenden Trust Company.

The fact that Dr. Andrews is a director of the Chittenden is a particular case in point of how the bankers keep their men in positions of power at the University. Doctor Andrews became a director of the Chittenden a year before he was chosen UVM President. But Andrews' case is not unique in the annals of University cronyism. His predecessor, Lyman Rowell, became president of UVM in 1966, the same year he became a director of the Howard Bank. That is of course the alma mater of trustees Candon and Hackett, and incidentally of former trustee Peter Giuliani. But even former President Rowell's climb to fame is itself not without precident. John Fey, who served as UVM President from 1958-64, was also able to use the UVM post as a springboard to the Board Rooms of High Finance. In 1966, two years after retiring as UVM head, Fey became President of the National Life Insurance Company in Montpelier. In 1970, he also became a director of the Burlington Savings Bank where – well what do you know – UVM trustee Robert Boardman was also a director, and where Fey's successor at UVM, Lyman Rowell, joined up as an incorporator in 1965. And even stranger! Aforementioned former trustee Guiliani is chief legal counsel to Fey's National Life. And – mirabile dictu – Deane Davis was on the board of directors of this same National Life, the Deane Davis who appointed Luther Hackett to the UVM Board! Nice, huh? The only person to serve as UVM President since 1958 who wasn't part of this interesting arrangement was Shannon McCune – who got canned after one year at UVM! It should also be noted in passing that trustees Little, Allen, Candon, Hackett, Boardman, and President Andrews together represent financial assets of over half a billion dollars.

The second major interest group represented on the board of trustees are those gentlemen in real estate and development, the people who Governor Salmon in his '72 campaign claimed are so nasty. They are: the honorable

(continued on page twelve)

The R.M.N. Titanic

TWIN-GUARDIAN

With a great grinding of gears, our ship, the magnificent R.M.N. Titanic, seemed to be coming to a halt. No one appeared to take much notice however, and life lazed on in the informal atmosphere of the A-Deck cocktail lounge as the band struck up a lilting version of, "Stuck On You."

"I say, waiter," I said to the waiter, "anything wrong?"

"No cause for alarm sir," he replied with an efficient smile while serving my whiskey. "We're probably just stopping for an, "instrument-standardization-check"."

"An instrument-standardization-check?"

"Yes sir." Pause.

"Oh, I see."

"I'm sure Captain Nixon will issue an explanatory bulletin soon," he explained while leaving.

"Oh waiter, excuse me, I believe I ordered this scotch on the rocks, not straight."

"I'm so sorry sir," he apologized with a smile, "we've run out of ice temporarily. But we've sent below for some more and it should be up shortly."

I leaned back and reflected: this voyage on the great Titanic, which we all wanted so much to take, was being marred by many minor irritations, but it did still seem to be worthwhile. The band was playing a tender version of, "My Heart Is Sinking" and it was with a nostalgic smile on my face that I greeted my English traveling companion, Vickers-Smythe.

"I say old boy, where's our slimey waiter? I need a drink."

"Excuse me sir," said the waiter politely, as he stepped out from behind the potted palm tree next to our table, "we're temporarily out of ice. It should be here shortly, would you like to wait?"

"No, I'll have a brandy," replied Smitty, "Double-quick now, step to it," and the waiter was off.

"Unctious bastard," replied Smitty. "What's his name?"

"Dean."

"Well, good waiters or bad, I tell you this is the strangest voyage I've ever been on."

"I was just reflecting upon that myself," I agreed.

"The Head Stewart, uh, what's his name?"

"Mitchell."

"That's it. Well Head Stewart Mitchell just informed me that we've slowed down for a 'minor radio-telephone relay due to an inaccurate navigational transcription'."

"That's odd. Dean just told me we've stopped for an 'instrument standardization check'."

"What the deuce is an 'instrument standardization check'?"

"You've got me. What's a 'minor-radio-telephone relay due to an inaccurate navigational transcription'?"

We both were stumped, and as Smitty leaned back and lit up a Players Club we listened to the strains of, 'Stranded On An Island of Love.'

"Do you know what bothers me the most?" snapped my friend, impatiently sitting back up.

"No, what?"

"Well, late the other night I was taking a perfectly gorgeous moonlight stroll 'round the promenade deck when suddenly the ship slowed down and a lot of deck hands ran to the railings with large hoses and began pumping hideous black liquid into the ocean."

"Hideous black liquid?"

"Yes, I asked one of the deckhands what it was and he said 'Theez eez wastewater, Signor.' I think he was of Spanish origin."

"Wastewater?"

"That's what he said. But I thought it was rather slimy and oily. Ghastly stuff, ruined my stroll. Very mysterious."

"What night was that?"

"I think it was Tuesday, the night before they announced that ticket prices had been raised and certain rooms would lose heat because of the high prices and unavailibility of fuel."

"Imagine raising the ticket prices in midvoyage and 'regretting that passengers will be unable to disembark until full payment has been arranged with Mr. Stans, The Bursar.' " I said disgustedly. "I payed top dollar for a first-class ticket and then I find that I'm not allowed on the top two decks because of, as Head Steward Mitchell says, "Captain's Orders, Security Measures."

"I understand that some mystery man and his entourage are setting up a mobile business operation up there," muttered Smitty.

"Well, this is all very mysterious, I reflected, "but what puzzles me the most is the compulsory glass of milk served with every meal."

"Damned insolent," agreed Smitty. "Where's my brandy?"

"Excuse me sir," said Dean, once again sidestepping politely into view from behind the plant, "I have it from a reliable source that we've run out of brandy. Would you like a glass of milk, sir?"

"Damnation, we're running out of everything on this ship!" fumed Vickers-Smyth. "What about that ice?"

"I believe it's getting closer," Dean said cryptically.

"In that case give me a double scotch on the rocks when it comes, and stay away from that bloody tree." Dean left.

"Good grief, what now?" I said as the intercom system crackled and the band stopped playing its melancholy version of "Drown My Sorrows." A hush fell over the room.

"My fellow passengers," the intercom crackled with warmth, "this is your captain, Captain Nixon, speaking. I am sure we are all aware of the fact that our great and proud ship, The R.M.N. Titanic has temporarily stopped. Let me assure you that nothing is wrong. Due to the recent ice-cube shortage on board, we have stopped," he paused briefly, "to replenish our ice supply." Scattered cheers went up from the vicinity of the bar. "This measure has been taken only with your safety and comfort in mind. You, the passenger, are what make this great ship sail, and you, the passenger, should rest assured that all is under control. Would I lie to you?" The intercom crackle ended abruptly and there was a moment fraught with introspective silence before the band struck up a rousing version of "I Wish I was In Peoria," over the reassuring

(continued on page eight)

What Your Doctor and Pharmacist Should Know About YOU.

You don't like being sick and what's more important in today's modern world you can't afford to be sick. So it only makes sense that the more you save on getting better, the better you'll feel.

Good Health Important

No one is foolish enough to try and cut corners on getting better. But that is not to say that it is impossible to save medicine money.

Next time you have to visit your doctor and he feels it necessary to write a prescription for you, ask him to write the official name (often called the generic name) of the drug. For if he doesn't you can't enjoy the savings that come along with generic name drugs. Then tell your pharmacist that you want the lower priced generic name drugs. And don't worry about cheaper quality; Government and scientific studies have shown name drugs are as safe and effective as brand name drugs.

Remember generic name drugs, but better yet, next time you get sick show this message to your doctor and pharmacist, they will know you better for it.

Prepared in cooperation with:
Public Communication, Inc.
2006 L Street N. W. Washington, DC

Vermont Communication
Burlington, Vermont 05401

For further information contact
V.P.I.R.G.
49 North Prospect
863-2435

This space made available by the Vermont Cynic

ditor

VM Sports Fans

, January 31, ch I will not ve at this time out just what fan is here at are mostly e, they cheer, and virtually in a hockey n it comes to ve fans crawl ms and hide rld. This is when it comes This is not to ng for the is to be t giving them attention is of you. This o those who all or soccer t and swim f the number which occur that almost cheer for a but when a ng, no matter ery perform, one forgets point, myself friends were attendance of at body at the asketball game We were outnumbered by everyone, the St. Mike's students, the local fans for St. Mikes, and even the local fans for Vermont. High school teams get more student support than our team does. There were many times during that game when a substantial enthusiastic crowd could have given our team a greater incentive and possibly have helped them turn the game around. I feel that it was this large student support that gave the St. Michael's team the extra something they needed to defeat us.

Our basketball team may not be number 1 but they do their best and represent this school. But most of all they represent all of us, the students, in the best, most sportsmanlike manner they can. The least we can do in return is to give them some support in the stands.

With a little improvement, some time, and a crowd, a big crowd, to cheer them on through victory and defeat our basketball team, all of our teams, could go a long way.

Sincerely,
Ray P. Ruete

upport S. 150

y is to urge upport S 150 allow for the f less expensive more expensive he pharmacist at they are ologically, and quivalent. All dentists, and will be able to ly prohibit in those cases ost would not substitution. es are marketed names, the brand e the generic difference is that can cost a lot doctor uses the (official name). a single generic drug which has Brand name atchy title given ug by the . The brand ed to stick in the physician's memory and inspire him to prescribe the drug. Brand name drugs are heavily advertised and this is reflected in the price. For example, 100 tablets of Pentids (Squibb's brand of penicillin G) costs $16.70 while it only costs $2.41 for the same amount of unbranded penicillin G.

The old and the poor are most often ill and thus their need for medicine is correspondingly greater than the average citizen. In today's inflated economy, these populations suffer more than the rest, but when it comes to drug prices, we are all suffering from the super-inflated brand name costs. S. 150 will help all of us keep the cost of health care a little lower.

Michael N. La Bella
Burlington, Vt.

Clean The Den

enters and Den ins in their s and duties to etroom. Canines only creatures around the Den, and if the ith doesn't close se of dogs, then o so because of rable conditions. e student has hairy little of uncertain , scurrying from another ble conditions se stem from d, dirty tables, ed waste from . Inconsiderate sloppy janitors create these unfavorable conditions.

If one is able to see through the smoke he would notice that tables are seldom cleared; cups half filled with cold coffee are spilled as some unsuspecting coed drops her books; paper plates plastered with mustard, ketchup, and relish glue themselves to the tables; cigarette ashes garnish this delectable, delightful, and disgusting mess.

When that hairy little creature brushes up your leg, don't forget to throw out your coffee cup before you go screaming out the door.

Sincerely,
Disgusted Daily Denner

z welcomes letters and columns from students, ay other readers. Materials for publication must out names will be withheld upon request.

ermont Cynic

y Andrews, Davi Campbell, Cecily e Morse, Sari Budd, Carol e Rapp, Budd, Jeffrey Blum, Barbara Freedman, d, Joseph Graham, Randy James, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Rybeck. SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Dave Ranoni, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilensik. ADVERTISING: Bonnie Bitty, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer. PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Linde, Kathy Tierney, Debbie Valyou, Joan Hafler, Wescott. S: Scott Cahoon, expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the ot necessarily reflect the opinions of the University en, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion ity of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

) yearly during the college year by the students of the f Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and ffices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont, 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy econd class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Arts & Entertainment

SPS Photos: Allan Soudah

Godspell Uplifts Audience

by Karen Trott

"A souped-up Sunday school," one would expect. And how can it work? How did it work, in more like it. How did a retelling of an overused source of religion and/or literature spur an audience on to an immediate ovation, followed by curtain after curtain call? Sheer impact, and believe it or not, sheer relevance.

The Bible has for years been a source of abuse. Something everyone has come into contact with yet very few have ever read. Its language, source and credibility tend to keep it at bay, especially in this era of agnostic introspection. But Godspell brought it back to life. It captured the essence and the profundity of The Word, and even went beyond, to the point of tangibility.

As the lights dim, a group of encircled "philosophers" hover on the stage, sweatshirted and labelled, from Socrates and on. Breaking from the center, they each approach a swinging light bulb, turn it on and proclaim their statement to the world. The voices mingle, blend and finally build to an overture of prophetic utterances. From the aisle, a spotlight reveals a man in a multi-colored tux (later to be identified as Judas, the betrayer.) Activity on the stage halts as he sounds a shofar, then sings "Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord." Suddenly the music bursts forth in all its amplified glory and Mr. Tuxedo jumps to the stage with pail and sponge, baptizing the cast. As they exit down the aisle, Christ, played splendidly by Roger Kozol, emerges for his own washing. As he dresses in stripes and a superman shirt, the others rejoin, now garbed in "latter-demalich kid costumes." A face painting session ensues, after which the lessons begin.

One by one the parables are re-enacted, with each narrative spilling forth despite a melange of horseplay, gimmicks, magic tricks, caricatures and take-offs. The Gospell according to Saint Matthew emerges at one time as a hand ballet, at another as a charade, and at still another as a message delivered from a fortune cookie. Never for a moment does the tempo slacken, with Christ the clown and His harlequin apostles romping through one of the most active and tightly choreographed shows ever to be seen.

The actors maintained a close contact with their audience, at times bursting into the aisles, playing both to them and off them simultaneously. (At one point the playful hooker calls over to Jesus, "You wanna see a show?", to which he quips, with a wink to the crowd, "What! And miss the hockey game?"

The liturgy transformed under the spell of the happy troupe. And under the direction of Larry Whiteley, the highly religious moralizations evolved into more human, understandable terms; terms which people, rather than Christians, can cope with. Stephen Schwartz's musical arrangements fused beautifully with this moving piece, capturing its most essential objectives and embedding them into the memories of all who witnessed the "modern mystery play".

The image Kozol projected as Jesus the Jester was as moving as it was believable. The humanness and divinity of the character were delivered with the savoir-faire of a truly gifted and natural actor, aided by John-Michael Tevelak's punch dialogue. (While Jesus preaches on the love man must have for all his brothers, one confused follower protests, "But I'm an only child!" "That's okay," Jesus assures her, "so am I."

In roughly three hours, Godspell runs the St. Matthew gamut from baptism on up to the Passion, with apostolic fillers rounding out the space in-between. Time and again the Bible has proven its dramatic potential from its beginnings in the Middle-Age Mystery plays on up to Superstar, yet never has it come across so vividly as entertainment in its truest sense. Godspell is an emotional purge...a theatrical cross between escapism and realism, juxtaposing entertainment and enlightment for the sheer joy of its narrative impact.

As the house lights flooded and the applause finally subsided, the effectiveness of Godspell manifested itself in the faces of the milling crowd. The show was over and it was time to leave, but a part of Godspell's magic left also with the audience.

Chomsky At UVM

(continued from page one)

another question, Chomsky pointed out that even Marx did not believe that man was completely malleable. Chomsky submitted the idea that man should be thought of as changeable, capable of growth, independence, and learning, rather than as an inert, dependent, and easily-manipulated being. "We should be looking at the intrinsic human being. It was this error that had led to the technological bureaucrats and eventually to fascism in this century."

Chomsky also strongly censured the famous Dr. Shockly of McGill, who has been looking for correlations between race and intelligence. "In any scientific experiment two things must be measured, and neither skin color nor intelligence can be measured," he said. "It is scientifically irresponsible for Shockly to pretend that he is just a disinterested observer, letting things go where they may, he concluded.

Dr. Chomsky was born in Philadelphia and began work in linguistics through the study of Hebrew grammer at the University of Pennsylvania. He rose to fame in academic circles in 1955 when he published Syntetic Structures. He became a full Professor of Linguistics at M.I.T. in 1961, and has been a visiting professor at various universities.

In the middle of the sixties Chomsky achieved a certain notoriety as a political activist against the Vietnam War and published various essays which culminated in his well known book, American Power and the New Mandarins, largely an indictment of politically liberal intellectuals- "the new mandarins" — who constructed an idealogical justfication for their role in the Vietnam war, and who do not outspokenly oppose what Chomsky feels to be America's imperialistic policies.

Burlington To Host Vermont Mozart Festival

by Sig Heller

The New England area has become famous for its summer music festivals; Tanglewood, Marlboro and many others have gained world recognition for their quality music. This summer, Burlington will be the home for a festival dedicated to the works of Wolfgang Mozart.

The idea was conceived by Melvin Kaplan, a well-known oboist; music teacher and concert manager, while playing at the Tourraine Festival in France. The festival, held in a big barn, left a lasting impression with Kaplan. Dr. William Metcalfe, chairman of the Music Department, has expanded the basic idea and has added the aspect of a Mozart Institute. The Institute will become part of the summer session program. The artists performing in the festival will also teach in the Institute. Other programs provided by the Institute will include lectures and chamber music workshops.

Performers will include the New York Chamber Solcists, the Fine Arts Quartet, Festival Winds, and the University Choral Union.

The Vermont Mozart Festival will run from July 21 to August 3 with a total of eight concerts. The events will take place on the UVM campus and St. Paul's Cathedral in Burlington. The opening concert needs an especially unusual setting because it involves a carnival with horses and music for eight horns playing Mozart's Divertimento in C.

Financial support will be covered partly through a grant by the Vermont Council on the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Anyone interested in finding out more about the festival should call the Lane Series Office in 234 Waterman and speak to Jack Trevithick.

Ohlsson Strikes Right Chord With Burlington Audience

by John Van Hoesen

Garrick Ohlsson, 23, bearded and statuesque, adjusted the cushioned piano bench in front of the Steinway grand and began to play. When he finally stood to take his final bow, the young musician was awarded two encores for a well-balanced and highly stylized program from a warm audience last Friday evening at Memorial Auditorium.

As the first notes of Pictures at an Exhibition reached the house floor, the audience breathed a sigh of anticipation that was satisfied by Ohlsson's explosive execution of Mussorgsky's composition. This performance made the evening a joy for both musician and layman.

The first part of the concert was exclusively nineteenth century Chopin. Choosing from over 249 pieces which Chopin composed, Ohlsson selected a well varied program of a scherzo, a nocturne, a polonaise, a waltz, two mazurkas, and a grande polonaise.

Ohlsson promptly refuted the notion that Chopin should be confined to the drawing room. The Nocturne in D flat major was pensive, dreamy, and typically Chopin, but Ohlsson moved from the romantic to the light-heartedness of the waltz and the dynamism of the processionals.

Ohlsson also played Four Preludes by A. Scriabin.

Unfortunately, the piano was not of the same high quality as Ohlsson's musicianship and several midrange notes about as sour as two kosher dills detracted from the performance and forced the pianist to hold back when he might otherwise explode.

UYA Volunteer On Cavett Show

by Becky Burr

Dick Cavett, a long-time proponent of responsible late night television programming has scored again. On a recent evening he had as his guests, Ralph Nader, the directors of Maryland, Maine, Minnesota, Connecticut and New York Public Interest Research Groups and UVM student and University Year For Action Volunteer Sharon Frink.

Ralph Nader's office called Sharon just a few days before the show was to be taped in New York to invite her to appear. Sharon, a UYA working for the Vermont Public Interest Research Group, (VPIRG) responded in her usual efficient and competent fashion and a few icy nights later she and UYA Communications Coordinator Becky Burr began a whirlwind 36 hour visit which ended in the taping of the Cavett show.

Sharon has been active in consumerism since she attended South Burlington High School. She was one of the original hard workers for VPIRG, serving on its Board of Trustees. She is, at 18, the youngest of the University Year For Action volunteers, and one of its most effective. For the last two summers she has worked for Ralph Nader in Washington.

Filming a television show always has its exciting moments. The first anxious ones for Sharon were spent caught in cross-town Manhattan traffic as the clock ticked relentlessly on toward the 5:30 taping hour and cars were backed up bumber to bumber. Arriving at West 58th Street where the Cavett show is filmed with just minutes to spare, Sharon calmly refused the assistance of the make-up department and proceeded to steal the

(continued on page eight)

VALUABLE COUPON

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

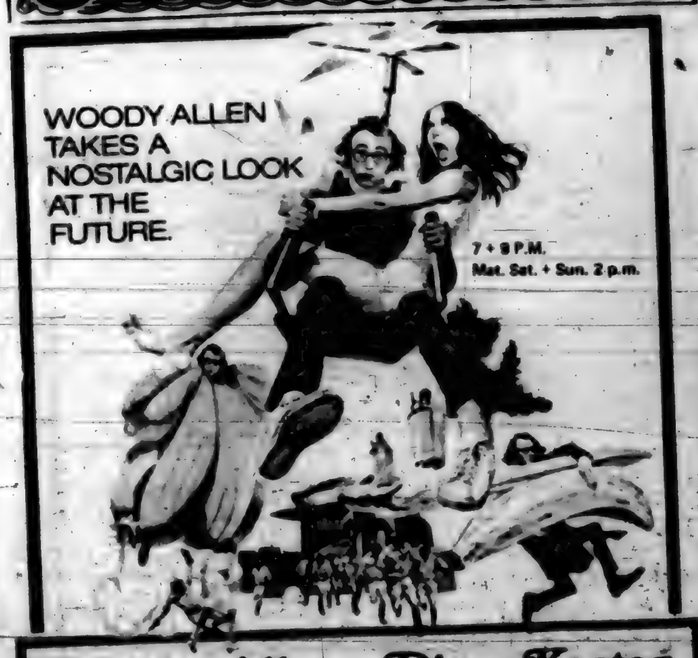
10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM The Medical Center

SAVE



Woody Allen and Diane Keaton in "Sleeper"

A JACK ROLLINS-CHARLES H. JOFFE PRODUCTION

PG

BURLINGTON PLAZA CINEMA 1 & 2

PHONE 862 8071 ANYTIME

SA FILMS (CORRECTION)

*Tonight — Brando's THE MEN (7:30) and ON THE WATERFRONT (9:30) Cook
*Friday — THEY DRIVE BY NIGHT (7:30 & 9:30 p.m.) Bogart
*Sunday — KRIEMHILD'S REVENGE in Billings 8:00 p.m.

SPECIAL SHOWING

Sleeper

at Cinema I & II at 11:00 p.m. for reduced rates $1.50. Tickets on sale in Billings every day. Check with Information Desk.

APPEARING FOR ONE WEEK

TRACKS

February 12 - 17

MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED FEMALES FREE

WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10¢ NITE

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE

THE SILVER KEG

156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE
THE PAPER CHASE
7 + 9 PM

CINEMA 1 & 2
Sleeper
7 + 9
7 + 9 PM
Chariots of the Gods
7 + 9 PM

Showcase 1 & 2
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
7:10 + 9:20 PM

ROBIN HOOD
Call theatre for times

FLYNN
Double Feature
Superstar
Elvira Madigan
Call theater for times

Trio Of Beatle

by Doug Collette

RINGO/Ringo Starr (Apple SWAS-3413)
MIND GAMES/John Lennon (Apple SW-3414)
BAND ON THE RUN/Paul McCartney (Apple SO-3415)

Funny how these three ex-Beatles all release albums at approximately the same time. I'd ponder the many coincidental implications of this simultaneity, but it'd bore me and you and anyone else if this music really inspires or stimulates many lengthly dissertations.

Ringo's made the most thoroughly enjoyable post-Beatles album. It's not so ambitious as the former recordholder, George's All Things Must Pass (which seems, in retrospect, ambitious by default, perhaps, even, Harrison's one and only burst of creativity, judging from Living in the Material Worlds snooze-inducing whimpers), so whatever satisfaction you and I get from it won't run as deep.

But that's because Ringo means his record to be nothing but entertaining and it is. It's a professional show all the way with a cast that includes all three former Beatles, members of the Band and innumerable famous sidemen, all pro... Richard Perry w... the careers of Ha... Carly Simon a... Williams.

From the wall-of-sound "Photograph" to... camp of "You're... it's good fun, as R... his friends surely... be. Of course, it... much above the... level afforded by... film or a fairly-d... series, but at leas... dour as Harrison, ... as McCartney ... monomaniacal as L...

Ah, poor John ... making record... because that's all... done, and, actually... do. But where do... the rest of ... importantly, wha... do for us?

Lennon was a ... four-part collec... whose artistic d... and sub... self-destruction. ... inevitable: too ... (or so we and th... and not enough r... develop. Saying ... realizing the truth ... doesn't make it ... tolerate or enjo... individuals, worl... split. And it ...

Views Of The

by Jim Bradley

The Limits of Intervention
By Townsend Hoopes
New York: D. McKay Co
1969

Fire in the Lake
by Frances Fitzgerald
Boston: Little Brown Co., 1972

In their discussions of the Vietnam War, both Townsend Hoopes and Frances Fitzgerald argue that U.S. involvement was a mistake; even a disaster. But in viewpoint, conception, insight, and style, the two works and their authors are very different.

During the height of the U.S. participation, Hoopes was a second level government official with input fairly near the top of the decision-making process. He covers the period from 1964-1969 in his book, the period primarily encompassing Lyndon Johnson's presidency, William Westmoreland's command, and the enormous escalation of U.S troop strength and bombing raids.

Hoopes argues that the U.S. esculation under Johnson resulted most importantly from the Cold War mentality carried by every high official in the government, with its belief that the U.S. was engaged in a moral and mortal world struggle with International Communism, and had the mission of saving peoples and countries from its clutches. If Vietnam was lost to the Communists, it would demonstrate the U.S. failure of nerve and lack of commitment to preserving freedom, whereupon other wars of national liberation would be fermented by Russia and China and nation after nation would be lost to the Communists. If we allowed South Vietnam to fall, it would only be a matter of time before Laos, Cambodia, Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Burma, India, and Australia, (and, by implication, Hawaii and San Francisco), were lost to the Communists.

This mentality... out of response ... the Maoist r... China, the Kor... spies of the Rep... the U.S. gove... held with specia... conviction ... Johnson, Dean ... Rostow, and th... of Staff, says H... these men wh... president's chi... Vietnam, and t... Hoopes, allo... questioning of ... either political

This work ... memoir, and ... tells the story ... a few ot... administration ... Clifford, by ... Johnson's ... about a ch... which led to ... Essentiall... argument w... was that it ... The bombing ... was having ... cutting down ... men or ... Westmoreland ... carrying on a ... measuring ... number of ... could not ... North Viet... "limitless" su... call on and ... "Oriental ... death" and ... willingness t... was stronger ... people in a ... U.S. could m... than a stalem... out all th... precipitate ... of Russia o... which would ...

Further, ... demanded p... military, m... battle, he a... control of ... hamlets fro... N.V.N. po... U.S. was t... regime in ... little popu... the U.S. ... people of ... turning the... bombing ...

THE LAS... CHAN...

A PLACE ...

20¢ A... Mon T...

PREM... & DR...

NO C...

OPE... 7 DA...

147 MAIN...

Trio Of Beatles Albums Are Exercises In Insipidity

by Doug Collette

RINGO/Ringo Starr (Apple SWAS-3413)
MIND GAMES/John Lennon (Apple SW-3414)
BAND ON THE RUN/Paul McCartney (Apple SO-3415)

Funny how these three ex-Beatles all release albums at approximately the same time. I'd ponder the many coincidental implications of this simultaneity, but it'd bore me and you and none of this music really inspires or stimulates any lengthy dissertations.

Ringo's made the most thoroughly enjoyable post-Beatles album. It's not so ambitious as the former recordholder, George's All Things Must Pass (which seems, in retrospect, ambitious by default, perhaps, even, Harrison's one and only burst of creativity, judging from Living in the Material World's moose-inducing whimpers), so whatever satisfaction you and I get from it won't run as deep.

But that's because Ringo means his record to be nothing but entertaining and it is. It's a professional show all the way with a cast that includes all three former Beatles, members of the Band and innumerable famous sidemen, all produced by Richard Perry who's aided the careers of Harry Nilsson, Carly Simon and Andy Williams.

From the Spectorish wall-of-sound pop of "Photograph" to the artless camp of "You're Sixteen," it's good fun, as Ringo and all his friends surely meant it to be. Of course, it's also not much above the amusement level afforded by a grade-B film or a fairly diverting TV series, but at least it's not as dour as Harrison, as cutsie-pie as McCartney or as monomaniacal as Lennon.

Ah, poor John. He'll keep making records, mostly because that's all he's ever done, and, actually, all he can do. But where does that leave the rest of us? More importantly, what does that do for us?

Lennon was a member of a four-part collective genius whose artistic disintegration and subsequent self-destruction was probably inevitable: too much talent (or so we and they thought) and not enough room to let it develop. Saying all that, and realizing the truth of it, still doesn't make it any easier to tolerate or enjoy the four individuals work since the split. And it sure as hell doesn't block the memories of what they created together or divorce my comparison-by-reflex process whenever I hear these recent recordings.

Mind Games is more like Imagine than the confessional piece or the political polemic, which means it's got a little of the neuroses of the former and some of the social naivete of the latter. Like most of Harrison and McCartney's recent material, Lennon's here just misses. It doesn't quite make it for reasons I can never seem to put my finger on. Same with the arrangements: they don't elevate the tracks much at all because they seem to have taken shape for no particular purpose.

What's missing in all this? Could it be that John is no longer straining himself to the limits of his capabilities? Or is it that those once expansive capabilities have shrunken? Either way I look at it—and there's plausible perspectives and plenty of valid reasons to go with them—it's not at all pleasant to contemplate.

These days, listening to John Lennon records is akin to reading his diary. It's interesting to see what now goes on in the mind of one of the most influential artists of the twentieth century, but maybe we'd all better realize that the man's days of fiery creativity are behind him. He shows no signs of recapturing his once awe-inspiring gift to command our attention, make us think seriously and enjoy more fully. I wish he'd prove me wrong and make me eat these words.

And that goes for Paul McCartney too, so all you who've spent so much time rationalizing his ever-increasing inadequacies as a solo artist and making excuses for him had better cash your checks.

Losing most of his Wings must've shocked the sensibilities of Lennon's former partner because the first two tracks of Band on the Run are the most listenable things I've heard from McCartney since his first solo album. The title cut goes through too many unnerving changes, a problem Paul's had since Ram; he squeezes together a number of small ideas instead of letting one or two develop naturally together. Still, it and "Jet" are fairly well-done pop, obviously manufactured though, depending more on technique than substance, almost totally undemanding of the listener and nothing I could listen to more than a half-dozen times, if I get that far, which I doubt.

Paul is the only ex-Beatle to have gathered and cultivated an audience of his own since the split, but then that's not so surprising. As the pretty one of the quartet, McCartney always strummed the strings of the collective public heart. As a Beatle, though, he was convincing. When he sang something as unabashedly romantic as "And I Love Her" or "Yesterday", I could always sense a barely discernable grin and/or wink of the eye. Paul's a real charmer I used to think. He knows more than he lets on.

Nowadays he can't be as simple-minded as he lets on, can he? He works so hard at being charming, but you cannot work at it and be convincing. Having decided to milk the image for all it's worth the image of Paul and Linda, Singing Sweethearts, I wonder how long he thinks it will last.

Probably a long while, 'cause there's always an audience for this kind of pop. McCartney's muzak (sic) is a bland, fluffy pastiche of simplistic motifs and cliched hooks cemented together with smart production tricks. The studio know-how he acquired as a Beatle is now part of a masquerade. Paul hardly ever sings with the fluent eloquence he used to, his bass playing is almost as dull as his guitar playing, Linda's singing is as flat as ever, and the arrangements are...quirky. More often than not their components grate against each other (the raucous electric guitar on "Let Me Roll It" sounds as incongruous as a Claptonesque solo I heard on a Carpenter's single I can't recall the title of) and if they're not grating, they (the synthesizer for instance) seem to be included to no specific end, which is odd, because I said the same thing about John's LP.

McCartney aims at an undiscriminating audience and his records are bound to satisfy such listeners, hypnotizing them with an attractive veneer that fools them into thinking there's something substantial underneath.

There's not. And if McCartney spent any more than the briefest time, scant effort and cursory craft into constructing these ten tracks, then the flimsy transparency called Band on the Run is even more infuriating.

Tina Santos of the Harkness Ballet

In tonight's Lane Series concert at Memorial Auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m. the internationally famous Harkness Ballet will present a program of two classical dances, Schubert Variations and Le Corsaire, and two modern dances, The Brood and Ceremonials. Tickets, $3, $5, $6, are on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman; telephone 656-3458 for reservations. Tickets will also be available at Memorial Auditorium from 7:30 p.m. to curtain time.

Views Of The War From The Top And Bottom Of The Pile

by Jim Bradley

The Limits of Intervention
By Townsend Hoopes
New York: D. McKay Co. 1969

Fire in the Lake
by Frances Fitzgerald
Boston: Little Brown Co., 1972

In their discussions of the Vietnam War, both Townsend Hoopes and Frances Fitzgerald argue that U.S. involvement was a mistake, even a disaster. But in viewpoint, conception, insight, and style, the two works and their authors are very different.

During the height of the U.S. participation, Hoopes was a second level government official with input fairly near the top of the decision-making process. He covers the period from 1964-1969 in his book, the period primarily encompassing Lyndon Johnson's presidency, William Westmoreland's command, and the enormous escalation of U.S. troop strength and bombing raids.

Hoopes argues that the U.S. escalation under Johnson resulted most importantly from the Cold War mentality carried by every high official in the government, with its belief that the U.S. was engaged in a moral and mortal world struggle with International Communism, and had the mission of saving peoples and countries from its clutches. If Vietnam was lost to the Communists it would demonstrate the U.S.' failure of nerve and lack of commitment to preserving freedom, whereupon other wars of national liberation would be fermented by Russia and China and nation after nation would be lost to the Communists. If we allowed South Vietnam to fall, it would only be a matter of time before Laos, Cambodia, Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Burma, India, and Australia, (and, by implication, Hawaii and San Francisco), were lost to the Communists.

This mentality, which grew out of response to Stalinism, the Maoist revolution in China, the Korean War, and spies or the aspect of spies in the U.S. government, was held with special strength and conviction by Lyndon Johnson, Dean Rusk, Walt Rostow, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, says Hoopes. It was these men who became the president's chief advisors on Vietnam, and they, continues Hoopes, allowed for no questioning of basic premises, either political or military.

This work is largely a memoir, and in it Hoopes tells the story of how he and a few others in the administration, notably Clark Clifford, by the end of Johnson's term brought about a change of policy which led to a bombing halt. Essentially, Hoopes' argument with U.S. policy was that it could not work. The bombing of the North was having no effect in cutting down infiltration of men or supplies. Westmoreland's policy of carrying on a war of attrition, measuring success in the number of enemy killed, could not work because North Vietnam had a "limitless" supply of men to call on and because of the "Oriental indifference to death" and hardship. Their willingness to keep fighting was stronger than that of our people. In a limited war, the U.S. could gain nothing more than a stalemate, and to pull out all the stops would precipitate the involvement of Russia or China or both, which would be disastrous.

Further, success in the war demanded political, as well as military, measures. The real battle, he argues, was to gain control of the towns and hamlets from the V.C. and N.V.N. politically. But the U.S. was backing a corrupt regime in Saigon which had little popular support, and the U.S. was alienating the people of the South and was turning them into refugees by bombing their homes and land in an effort to root out "the enemy."

In addition, the pursuit of the Vietnam War was taking too many resources and too much attention away from other parts of the world. The men and material being expanded in Vietnam were far in excess of the importance of that spot on the map in the total scheme of U.S. global interests and strategy. Further, the war was tearing the country apart at home, with the majority of the people opposing it. And U.S. prestige around the world was going down, especially with allies. For these reasons, Hoopes pushed for a bombing halt and a negotiated, phased withdrawal.

He writes like a technician. In Tom Wolfe's immortal term, he is a snoremonger. His perceptions are limited by the fact that his contact with the war was apparently entirely confined to reading news reports, official memoranda, and the like in Washington, D.C. offices. In fairness, though, a perusal of this book might have had a great deal more interest in 1969, when it came out, when things were hotter, and before the Pentagon Papers were published. But Hoopes never really answers to satisfaction the question implied in his title. What are the limits of intervention? Apparently whenever intervention is not working, whatever that means.

Fitzgerald, in contrast, writes well. Not only that, she has written an extraordinary, fascinating book. She apparently spent a lot of time in Vietnam, knows the people, and is a scholar of the country's culture and history.

She agrees with much of what Hoopes says. U.S. involvement grew out of Cold War fears, and the military tactics employed by the U.S. did not work, and the corrupt Saigon government had little popular support, and there was in time a great deal of anti-American sentiment in the country. But she goes much further than this in explaining the failure of U.S. involvement.

Basically, the U.S. failed, she says, because we never understood the Vietnamese culture or view of the world. We assumed that our own way of looking at things, our own desires and feelings, were directly translatable into Vietnamese. We assumed that all people want democracy, that all people are individualists who want an equal opportunity to compete with their peers. We assumed that all people are basically freedom-loving, and inherently antithetical to communism, unless impoverished. But in these assumptions we imposed our own view of the world and of "human nature" on the Vietnamese. Our own fear of communism and dedication to liberal-capitalist-democracy was translated into a universal.

It wasn't true of the Vietnamese. Our involvement began with aid to the French under Truman in 1950. When the French pulled out we took over, with money for Diem in 1954 under Eisenhower. When Diem called off the unification elections in 1956 and put all those suspected of being opposed to him in prison camps, we looked the other way. When the NLF regrouped and began gaining new ground we sent more money, aid, and advisors in 1961 under Kennedy. When Diem was overthrown, we supported a succession of splintered military regimes, culminating in Thieu-Ky. What happened was that each of these regimes existed only because the U.S. supported it. The U.S. created the illusion of a government, and of an army, but these never had any real existence of their own. They were utterly dependent on the U.S. for their existence, and they knew it, even if we didn't. They perceived that they existed for the U.S., were really fighting the U.S.' battle, rather than the other way around as we liked to tell ourselves.

The South Vietnamese government and army and people stood for no principle of democracy. In fact, the ideas of equality and individualism were totally alien to them. The traditional Vietnamese society was based rather on the idea of family and community (the village) in which the person is not an individual, but a role. Westerners find this conception repressive. But to the Vietnamese, democracy was not a goal to be strived for but a threat, for democracy, with its pluralistic emphasis on balancing power groups and interests, represented conflict. It signified confusion. It meant all was not right in the Universe. The Vietnamese conception did not provide for a number of ways, but for one Way. A well-functioning government would not be one in which a number of conflicting interest groups achieved proportional representation, but one in which there was unanimity.

(continued on page eight)

Library Planning Council

The Library Planning Council, which is working toward the design of additional library facilities, earnestly solicits suggestions, ideas, conceptions, etc. from members of the University community. The major role of the Planning Council is to determine what facilities must be accomodated within the library structure and thus arrive at a precise notion of how many additional square feet of space will be required. Students, faculty, administration, and staff all have a vital stake in the University's library. The Planning Council therefore urges anyone who has either general or specific recommendations, (for example, should the library provide space for seminar rooms, departmental reserve rooms, rooms for the use of audio-visual equipment, etc.

(continued on page ten)

bedspreads
belts rugs
beads
pillows
antler pipes tapestries
hookahs
chess sets
wall hangings
boxes
mirrors
leather hats
Tiffany buckles
bags
wineskins
candles silver turquoise and bone jewelry oils incense tie sets toiletries
planters occult books statues
CORGULA
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
records cynic
boutique
10% off
with this ad
802-862-3712
shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

Mon-Thurs: 11:30 AM.-10 PM
Fri-Sat: 11:30 A.M.-Midnight
Feb 4/March 2
Fresh Ground Coffee House
175 Church St.
Burlington, VT.
864-9863

Mon. (4)	Tues. (5)	Wed. (6)	Thurs. (7)	Fri. (8)	Sat. (9)
Manzelli Grande 1.65	Beef & Potatoes Americana 1.85	Enchiladas 1.70	Sweet & Sour Chicken 1.85	Lasagne 1.65	Crêpe Provençale 1.70
Olla Podrida Soup	Miso Soup	Cream of Spinach Soup	Minestrone	Chicken Gumbo Creole	Lentil Soup
February 11	February 12	February 13	February 14	February 15	February 16
Hungarian Goulash 1.65	Pastichio 1.65	Curry-chicken or vegie 1.65	Mexican Torta 1.75	Crêpe Champignon 1.70	Russian Beef Kabob 1.85
Cream of Celery Soup	Mushroom Barley Soup	Mulligatawny Soup	Navy Bean Soup	Cream of Tomato Rice	Russian Cabbage Borscht
February 18	February 19	February 20	February 21	February 22	February 23
Eggplant Collantine 1.70	Ham-Cret Mein 1.70	Swedish meat balls 1.65	Sweet & Sour Pork or Vegies 1.65	Polladas de Sole 1.95	Chicken Tahiti 2.25
Sopa Mexicana	Miso Soup	Cream of Broccoli	Chinese Vegetable Soup	Mulligatawny	Cream of Mushroom Soup
February 25	February 26	February 27	February 28	March 1	March 2
Spanish Meat loaf 1.85	Lasagne 1.65	Chinese Beef & snow peas 1.85	Enchiladas 1.70	Crêpe Fondet 1.70	Sauerbraten 2.25
Cream of Potato Soup	French Onion Soup	Lentil Soup	Mushroom Barley Soup	Russian Cabbage Borscht	Cream of Carrot Soup

Plus Everyday: Chili con Carne, Ratatouille, Salads, Hot & Cold Sandwiches, Pastries and a variety of beverages

THE LAST CHANCE
A PLACE TO MINGLE
20¢ ALE
Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM
PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE
OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK
147 MAIN ST.
RICHMOND

FEBRUARY 7, 1974
inment
Mozart Festival
Mozart's ... will be ... rough a ... Vermont ... and the ... t for the ...
Anyone interested in finding out more about the festival should call the Lane Series Office in 234 Waterman and speak to Jack Trevithick.
Right Chord Audience
... Chopin, ... ver 249 ... Chopin ... selected a ... am of a ... turns, a ... altz, two ... grande ... ly refuted ... t Chopin ... ed to the ... Nocturne ... s pensive, ... typically ... en moved from the romantic to the light-heartedness of the waltz and the dynamism of the processionals.
Ohlson also played Four Preludes by A. Scriabin.
Unfortunately, the piano was not of the same high quality as Ohlson's musicianship and several midrange notes about as sour as two kosher dills detracted from the performance and forced the pianist to hold back when he might otherwise explode.
nteer On Cavett Show
... long-time ... nuble late ... programming ... n a recent ... his guests, ... irectors of ... Minnesota, ... New York ... Research ... tudent and ... or Action ... rink. ... ffice called ... days before ... e taped in ... ite her to ... a UYA ... Vermont ... Research ... responded ... icent and ... and a few ... and UYA ... oordinator ... began a ... visit which ... ing of the ... n active in ... consumerism since she attended South Burlington High School. She was one of the original hard workers for VPIRG, serving on its Board of Trustees. She is, at 18, the youngest of the University Year For Action volunteers, and one of its most effective. For the last two summers she has worked for Ralph Nader in Washington.
Filming a television show always has its exciting moments. The first anxious ones for Sharon were spent caught in cross-town Manhattan traffic as the clock ticked relentlessly on toward the 5:30 taping hour and cars were backed up bumper to bumper. Arriving at West 58th Street where the Cavett show is filmed with just minutes to spare, Sharon calmly refused the assistance of the make-up department and proceeded to steal the
(continued on page eight)
OVIE GUIDE
honoring Cynic Discount Card
STATE
THE PAPER CHASE
7 • 9 PM
CINEMA 1 & 2
Sleeper
7 • 9
7 • 9 PM
Chariots of the Gods
7 • 9 PM
Showcase 1 & 2
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
7:10 • 9:30 PM
ROBIN HOOD
Call theatre for times
FLYNN
Double Feature
Superstar
Elvira Madigan
Call theater for times

The Bar Review:

An Introductory Statement

The column which follows is the eye-opener of a series dealing with those establishments in the area dispensing the nectar of intemperance. As long as our livers fail to trouble us, the two Anonymous writers of this column will pursue their mission through the bars and restaurants of the area to spare no word of criticism of those establishments in the faint hope that some good will come of it, aside from the effects of the research on the authors. We hope our efforts attain some permanency here, yet we do not wish this column to become an institution; look around if the meaning of institution escapes you.

It has been suggested that our institution was originally founded by two brothers enamored of alcohol. Likewise rumored is that the college further south on U.S. Route 7 was originally founded in reaction to the "sinful'ness" of the University. We can neither confirm nor deny these suggestions. However, they do point to our contention that the way we'rd pleasures may be the oldest and most durable traditions maintained at this institution.

Coupled with this scent of tradition, we now must discuss the harsh reality of the present. Let's face it – dormitory life, despite the varying degrees of sugar-coatedness, is not exactly the cat's meow. Billings, God love it, can sometimes be a drag even to the Den Rat with the most perfect attendence record. Bailey Library can present problems too. The most proficient scholar realizes the onset of diminishing returns upon the discovery that a rabid dog is dining upon our scholar's left leg; the constant ringing of bells in the library cannot fail to remind even the most detached of our numbers that it is indeed a signal for a fire drill. Cold and cultural deprivation make matters worse. The energy crisis reminds us that instead of "if you drink, don't drive" the odds for survival are enhanced by remembering "forget about driving just drink" Hockey games unfortunately do not last forever, at one point, the thoughtful individual must resolve his dilemma with the quiet affirmation, "I gotta get schnockered."

And schnockered he gets. To the bars they go, full of unfulfilled dreams and great expectations and the willingness to barter a semester's book money for a few hours of blissful intoxication. Still wet behind the ears, our novice pub-goer ventures out on uncharted seas of bar-dom, to be pushed and shoved finding himself staggering up Main Street, feeling empty pockets and incipient nausea.

It is our wish to come to the rescue. The Cynic has graciously allowed us the weekly opportunity to state our views on the bars and restaurants of this locale. We must remain anonymous like so many Clark Kents. We feel that if we were known, the subjects of our criticism might endeavor to cater to us: we cannot be bought. (One case of Johnny Walker Black? Give us a few minutes to consider!) Another reason for our anonymity is more practical: several local establishments are employing specialists in the martial arts and we do wish to preserve our looks.

Establishments will be rated on four criteria: product, price, ambience, and cleanliness. Ambience should not be sacrificed for cleanliness. However, if it is, your drinking should be confined to the Mary Fletcher lobby.

Restaurants will also be subject to our uneducated opinion of their food. We will also give credit to some unlikely places that time and the mainstream of society have forgotten.

We will try to be fair to both reader and subject. But the reader comes first. This is a consumer guide.

One thing is for certain – never has such prolonged and systematic research yielded such immediate benefits.

Plans Underway To Renovate And Reopen Redstone Hall

by Barbara Frankel

Redstone Hall, forced to close last October because of hazardous conditions, will reopen either in September or in January, Dr. Keith Miser, director of residence halls, announced last week.

The residence hall, which houses thirty-four women, will be renovated to meet all the new safety and fire regulations. The Office of Residence Halls, however, searched for an architect who could also preserve Redstone, hopefully restoring it to the way it looked in the early 1900's. They finally selected Colin Lindberg, a Burlington architect. Lindberg, an expert in restoration, recently renovated the local fire station. He intends to do research to find out exactly how Redstone appeared at its "peak beauty."

Lindberg will work with two committees: (1) a working committee, consisting of one member of the Office of Residence Halls: Laurie Evans, area coordinator of Redstone campus and one student; (2) a review committee which will be larger and will involve more students.

Although the cost of the renovation is not known yet, Miser estimated it to be approximately $200,000. Eighty per cent of the budget will deal with mechanical things such as lighting, wiring and plumbing. The remaining twenty per cent will go, towards replastering and renovating. Miser explained, "It's got to be a balance between cost and quality."

The Residence Hall Study Committee found they could shift priorities from improvements planned for other residence halls because "it would be financially feasible to continue Redstone as a residence hall." They considered various ideas for other possible uses of Redstone Hall but decided it would be most useful as a residence hall. Although they have some funds in reserve accounts, they hope to raise more, possibly through an appeal to Redstone alumni.

Miser hopes to have the building ready for residence by the fall, but anticipates construction problems. Those former residents evicted in October will have first priority. Miser concluded, "It's a unique opportunity to live there and we don't want to make it like any other residence hall."

UYA Volunteer On Dick Cavett...

(continued from page six) show.

Appearing in the second segment of the program, Sharon produced a bag full of dangerous toys (carefully transported from Burlington), the result of her work this fall to identify and seize dangerous toys from retailers' shelves. Mr. Cavett, who Sharon reports is as charming in real life as on camera, was fascinated both with the toys and Sharon's explanation of why each was dangerous. Sharon explained to Mr. Cavett and his audience of millions that the Consumer Product Safety Commission is working to seize dangerous toys, the obvious result of over 300,000 children being injured by seemingly harmless playthings. Sharon has spearheaded this activity as part of her University Year For Action for VPIRG in Vermont.

When the lights were finally lowered and the cameras ground to a stop, Sharon and Dick Cavett were found still in earnest conversation in a corner of the TV studio. The last thing she presented him with, as well as her bag of toys, was the number of the Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll-free toy and rib safety hotline: 800-638-2666.

Sharon is just one of the UVM students serving as a UYA Volunteer this year. Other UYA's are at work in other community agencies such as Vermont Legal Aid, The Bread and Law Task Force, Consumer Fraud, The King Street Area Youth Center, The Mobile Medical and Dental Vans, and the Office of Volunteer Programs.

University Year for Action at the Office of Volunteer Programs is now accepting student applications for positions working in the poverty community" for September 1974. The OVP/UYA Staffs and volunteers are presently at work reviewing project proposals for the Fall 1974 placements. Full-time UVM students are invited to either stop in at the OVP office in Mansfield House or call 656-2062 for further information.

Views Of The War...

(continued from page seven)

The Americans could never understand this, says Fitzgerald. They could not see that their bombing not only destroyed villages and people and land, but destroyed Vietnamese culture and society. For the refugees, in becoming separated from their land, became separated from their ancestors and community, which gave them their own identity. It destroyed their past, their future, and thus their immortality. And thus their selves.

The war, with its hundreds of thousands of refugees in squalid camps on the outskirts of the cities, destroyed the simple agricultural economy and created a new one entirely dependent on the U.S., with people cut off from their land and their past hustling for survival by serving the Americans' needs and desires. So people became prostitutes, pimps, black marketeers, secretaries, shoe shiners, and things of that nature.

Vietnam, no matter how humanitarian the initial motivations may have at least in part been, ultimately underlined the bankruptcy of the Cold War mentality and U.S. foreign policy, which defined human nature in terms of a peculiarly Western worldview and culture. As a result it came to define the people themselves as the enemy, at least in effect, and destroyed those it came to save.

R.M.N. Titanic...

(continued from page five)

clink of ice on glass. Our waiter, Dean, his face taut and white, stepped forward with Smitty's double on the rocks.

"At last," smiled Smitty as he took a soothing sip.

"At this point in time," Dean smiled nervously as he conspicuously rubbed his right palm, "I am prepared to answer any of your questions."

"Your tip will be considered at the end of the voyage, if that's what you're referring to," I said coldly.

"I mean to say," said Dean, taking what appeared to be a silverish insect from the bottom of a palm leaf and crushing it under his heel, "that the time frame of this voyage has been considerably and unforeseeably altered and that I am now ready ..."

"Never mind this gibberish," said Smitty, "just bring us another round."

"Yes sir," said Dean, heading for the doorway.

"Mysterious chap." I mumbled as we watched the dancers trying to hold each other up on the tilting dance floor to the lilting strains of "Women and Children."

BusSystem...

(continued from page five)

under the federal 2/3 sharing program.

What if the project were to fold? Then the University would be left with three buses, which they could use for their ski program and for transportation of athletic teams. You just can't lose. Either way you make an improvement over the present conditions for a very reasonable per capita charge.

What routes would the buses follow? This is also debatable, but I have outlined two possible major routes. They are called the "green line" and the "gold line" mostly because that would appeal to questioning alumni. The green line would make a circle from the gym, down to WDW, around the Redstone campus circle to Dewey, then up by Billings, and up Main Street. It would then go around the Jughandle to MAT, Harris-Millis, the Living and Learning Center, and back around again.

The gold line would go in a circle from the water tower parking area past the Medical Center and down to Dewey. It would then go past Waterman and down to WDW where it would turn around and go down Cliff Street to Summit Street. It would then proceed to Main Street, past Pomeroy and all the way up to the jughandle. It would pass the proposed infirmary and go back to the watertower.

The possible stops would have to be decided upon later.

It is my opinion that the administration would be making a mistake in not seriously considering this proposal, because I am not alone in thinking it has some merit. Let's see an official response anyway. There would no longer be any problem with parking on the campus, and we could do our part in cutting down the traffic and pollution problems. The benefits would far outweigh the costs, especially with the UVM campus expanding eastward in future years.

January Thaw Sale

AT THE

royal christy

"Burlington's Specialty Ski Shop"

SKIS			BINDINGS			BOOTS
REG.		NOW	REG.		NOW	REG.		NOW
$100	Fischer Covergless	$70	$70	Salomon 505	$45.50	$180	Lange Banshee	$144.00
$185	Lange G. S.	$129.50	$70	Salomon 502	$45.50	$150	Lange Phantom	$105.00
$150	Lange L.C.	$120.00	$49.95	Salomon 444	$39.00	$130	Lange Demon	$91.00
$185	Lange S. L.	$138.75	$30	Salomon 101	$24.00	$185	Nordica Olympic	$120.25
$155	Olin Mark I	$124.00	$68	Look Grand Prix	$54.40	$160	Nordica Slalom	$112.00
$189	Olin Mark II	$122.85	$48	Look Nevatic	$38.40	$145	Nordica Racer	$72.50
$175	Olin Mark III	$131.25	$40	Look G. T.	$32.00	$120	Nordica Pro	$90.00
$175	Olin Mark IV	$122.50	$40	Look Jr.	$28.00	$100	Nordica Mercury	$68.00
$80	Volki Methodic 80	$48.00				$60	Nordica Elegance	$40.00
$100	Volki Racer Jr.	$50.00				$45	Nordica Alpine	$32.00
$85	Volki Targa Jr.	$51.00
All Dynastar Skis		20% off

If new skis aren't in your budget, remember we have the finest refinishing service you can get.

ANY COMBINATION OF X-COUNTRY BOOTS SKIS POLES AND BINDINGS PURCHASED AS A PACKAGE 20% OFF | Cross Country Equipment 15% OFF

"Our quality and service have not been reduced"

Royal Christy Within the ski shop Inc. SHELBURNE RD., 862-7472

The royal christy

Royal Christy Within the ski shop Inc. SHELBURNE RD., 862-7472

«the docto

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner, Box 1074, East Lansing, Mi. 48823

QUESTION: We are a group of students aged 25 ... we are having an argument about when men ... reach their "sexual peak." What exactly does it ... have reached or passed your sexual peak? Is it ... with frequency of orgasm, intensity, or desire? Do ... something to look forward to or is it all behind us ... by two married couples and a man and ... unidentified marital status.)

ANSWER: Material dealing with sexual peak ... directed toward sexual interest and capacity ... frequency of orgasm in a given period of time. Ty... it said that a man in his late teens to early twenti... greatest capacity for repeated orgasms. He also ... more easily aroused sexually. Other evidence ... sexual peak at this age is frequency of masturb... nocturnal emissions (orgasm during sleep).

The woman is usually described as developing ... capacity for orgasm and increased sexual desire ... to late twenties and for some women this does ... until their early thirties. There are women who ... and capacity for sexual enjoyment increases ev... life than that. Signs of sexual peak include ... orgasms, orgasmic dreams, greater frequency of ... greater intensity of orgasm.

Amoung the basic differences between men a... is the greater importance of psychological f... experiences in determining initial sexual activity ... infrahuman species, parallel findings in the male ... be demonstrated further supporting the notion ... other than socialization determine how we ... sexually. At least in humans, most males are ... aroused and respond to a greater extent sex... earlier age than most females. Capable of being ... by fantasy, the young man is also less dependen... of sexual performance upon the actual relationsh... woman he is involved with; his hyperactive ... imagination takes care of most things if he ... negative early experiences. The young woman o... hand, is more dependent in terms of sexual p... upon the quality and nature of the relation... involved in. It may be true that as she matures ... interest increases, she may be less depend... relationship than she had been.

People who have ignored the interpersonal ... sexual response have suggested that older wom... better partners for younger men in terms of ... peaks. Of course, the fact that they might have ... common, not much to talk about, and no ... relate to each other tends to be ignored. Sexu... is highly dependent upon the relationship bet... people, so the fact that a man might be past h... sexual peak really has very little to do ... satisfaction. If a relationship develops well, c... late twenties often find that they are bette... each other sexually than they were in their ... and sexual enjoyment is greater. There is als... for fear of decreased sexual enjoyment as o... people who are sexually active at your age ... sexually active throughout their adult years ... who have become sexually inactive in the... and seventies are often the ones who w... sexually active when they were in their ... thirties.

Two ROT...

by Laurie Rapp

In 1972 the U.S. Army initiated the enrollment of females into the ROTC program on approximately ten college campuses throughout the country. This past September UVM joined the ranks of these other schools and now has fourteen women in its ROTC program. Two of the participants, Lucille Morrill and Kathy Mullen, have attained a second year standing and are the program's forerunners. Lucille Morrill is a sophomore from Stowe, Vermont, majoring in Business Administration. Having taken a military science course last year, she was invited to join the program receiving ROTC credit for that course. Kathy Mullen is a compression student and is taking Two M.S. courses this semester. She is from Milton, Vermont, also a sophomore, and majoring in Home Economics.

When asked the rather obvious question why would a woman want to join ROTC, both had very definite answer. The overriding factor which excited Lucille was the opportunity to travel. Kathy on the other hand joined ROTC because of the equal opportunity that it offers to women once you get out into active service. It is one of the few employers today that gives equal pay for equal work and equal benefits." Of course there were other fringe benefits which served as what the girls considered "powerful incentives." ... appealing ... month subsi... while takin... courses usu... junior and ... availability ... scholarships.

For the ... women in R... the same tra... Lectures and ... Kathy and ... the lecture ... in-depth stu... and wherefo... military ... advantage ... which Kathy ... all books ar... army.) Labs ... Wednesday ... Both girls ... marching ... speciality ... recalled as ... time of ... confessed ... occasions ... turned out ... into the gu... look rather ... guys becau... guys have ... marching ... different ... anyway– t... kick out ... Kathy.

The mak... females en... all-male f... some ten... Lucille lo... "being tha... class kind ... awhile," s... the fact th... for men t... presence ...

LITTLE FR... BOOK...

«the doctor's bag»

by Arnold Werner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner,
Box 974, East Lansing, Mi. 48823

QUESTION: We are a group of students aged 25 to 27 and we are having an argument about when men and women reach their "sexual peak." What exactly does it mean to have reached or passed your sexual peak? Is it concerned with frequency of orgasm, intensity, or desire? Do we have something to look forward to or is it all behind us? (Signed by two married couples and a man and woman of unidentified marital status.)

ANSWER: Material dealing with sexual peak tends to be directed toward sexual interest and capacity for a high frequency of orgasm in a given period of time. Typically, it is said that a man in his late teens to early twenties has his greatest capacity for repeated orgasms. He also tends to be more easily aroused sexually. Other evidence cited for sexual peak at this age is frequency of masturbation and nocturnal emissions (orgasm during sleep).

The woman is usually described as developing a greater capacity for orgasm and increased sexual desire in her mid to late twenties and for some women this does not occur until their early thirties. There are women whose interest and capacity for sexual enjoyment increases even later in life than that. Signs of sexual peak include multiple orgasms, orgasmic dreams, greater frequency of orgasm and greater intensity of orgasm.

Amoung the basic differences between men and women is the greater importance of psychological factors and experiences in determining initial sexual activity in men. In infrahuman species, parallel findings in the male can easily be demonstrated further supporting the notion that factors other than socialization determine how we function sexually. At least in humans, most males are more easily aroused and respond to a greater extent sexually at an earlier age than most females. Capable of being stimulated by fantasy, the young man is also less dependent in terms of sexual performance upon the actual relationship with the woman he is involved with, his hyperactive state and imagination takes care of most things if he has not had negative early experiences. The young woman on the other hand, is more dependent in terms of sexual performance upon the quality and nature of the relationship she is involved in. It may be true that as she matures and sexual interest increases, she may be less dependent on the relationship than she had been.

People who have ignored the interpersonal aspects of sexual response have suggested that older women would be better partners for younger men in terms of their sexual peaks. Of course, the fact that they might have little else in common, not much to talk about, and no real basis to relate to each other tends to be ignored. Sexual enjoyment is highly dependent upon the relationship between the two people, so the fact that a man might be past his theoretical sexual peak really has very little to do with sexual satisfaction. If a relationship develops well, couples in their late twenties often find that they are better matched to each other sexually than they were in their early twenties and sexual enjoyment is greater. There is also no real basis for fear of decreased sexual enjoyment as one ages. Those people who are sexually active at your age tend to remain sexually active throughout their adult years. Those people who have become sexually inactive in their fifties, sixties and seventies are often the ones who were never very sexually active when they were in their twenties and thirties.

QUESTION: My problem is that almost every night I dream that I failed in a test. The next morning I get up all worried and it is very hard for me to believe that it was only a dream. I would like to sleep without dreams.

ANSWER: In my experience, repetitive dreams have the curious quality of always being unpleasant. And, the more one thinks about the dream, the more persistent the dream becomes until it dominates one's thoughts about sleep and sometimes even interferes with daytime functioning. Good dreams just can't be willed, particularly sexual dreams, alas.

Some repetitive dreams have their origin in a particularly frightening or upsetting experience which obviously remains a source of concern to the person but which seems to be repressed during active periods of the day. With the loss of inhibition of our thoughts which is characteristic of dreams, such concerns can reappear. Sometimes the dream is a representation of the actual concern but at other times may only be symbolic. At other times the dream may not have its origin in a specific event but may be generally representative of struggles a person is dealing with. Psychologists and psychiatrists are usually fairly adept at helping to find life events and circumstances which might be contributing to disturbing dreams.

To sleep without dreams would be not to rest. Dreaming is an essential part of sleep and while we do not remember all of our dreams, we cycle in and out of dreaming sleep throughout the night. When drugs are used to suppress dreaming sleep, or a person is wakened each time they show physiological evidence of dreaming, disturbed daytime function results fairly quickly. In addition, those sedatives which tend to interfere most with dreaming sleep also tend to produce a great deal of drug dependence.

••••••••••

QUESTION: Would you please tell me what makes foam such a chancy contraceptive to use?

ANSWER: The single most important factor in the reliability of a contraceptive is the care and precision with which it is used. Many contraceptive failures occur merely because people have either forgotten to use them or have not used them as directed.

Contraceptive foam works very simply. It wages chemical warfare against sperm. The chemicals which kill the sperm are dispersed in the foam so that it occupies a large amount of space and hopefully clings to the end of the vagina where it intercepts the wee beasties before they penetrate the cervix (the entrance to the uterus). The foam is placed deep into the vagina with a plunger-like device that can be preloaded. However, to be most effective the foam must be placed just before intercourse begins.

Such contraceptive has certain inherent vulnerabilities. For instance, foams flow downhill eventually; so, if one has prolonged intercourse in positions in which the vagina is upside down (i.e. woman above) then much of the foam could run out. Prolonged intercourse in general would tend to force some of the foam out of the vagina. Using the foam a few hours before intercourse or after intercourse is worthless. An extraordinarily safe way of using foam is to have the man use a condom at the same time. The use of both these non-prescription items in combination, each of which is quite effective by itself, provides an excellent fail-safe system.

The diaphragm which is used with its own special contraceptive jelly, overcomes a major failing of the foam. The purpose of the diaphragm is to mechanically hold the contraceptive agent in contact with the cervix so that it does not leak out. An examination by a physician is necessary to obtain a proper fitting diaphragm.

Greek General Remembers '67 Coup

by Melanie Choukas

Stathi Payiatakis is the son of a general in the Greek Army. Currently a student working toward his Ph. D. in the States, Stathi plans to return to Greece after he gets his degree to work as an engineer in Athens. Over a glass of wine Stathi offered the following insight into the '67 coup.

"We were all expecting it. It is a standing joke that there is some kind of coup in Greece every twenty years. The time was ripe and we were just waiting for the army, the navy, or the air force to take over. One night in April I was sitting with friends in an outdoor cafe in Athens when the tanks rolled down the street. 'Here goes' we said, sipping our drinks and settling back to watch the show.

"The next day Martial Law was declared and everyone was bitching because there were no newspapers. I arose at my usual time. My father had two guns in his top bureau drawer. He went to the office as usual, but with an escort and one of the guns in his briefcase. I went out and everyone was wondering what was going to happen. They weren't upset. Just curious and curbing because there were no papers.

"At sunset, curfew time, I ran out of cigarettes and so did my father. Like a fool I went out to find an open kiosk with my scraggly beard, wearing blue jeans and an unbuttoned shirt. I almost got shot a couple of times but when I told the lieutenants what I wanted they gave me cigarettes, joked with me, and told me I'd better go inside before I got my head blown off. If there's one thing a Greek respects it's your need for coffee or cigarettes.

Stathi insisted that the U.S. was shocked by the coup, that he knew for a fact from his father and others, that the CIA and the U.S. State Department were taken totally by surprise. "They (the State Dept.) scolded us. They were mad they weren't told. But Greeks were sick of American control. The coup itself was an assertion of Greek independence. However, in the following months and years American investments were favored, especially the oil companies. American investments increased along with the rise in the Greek gross national product."

"After the coup," Stathi said, "life generally improved. The government started working from the roots, giving the farmers subsidies. Crops had suffered neglect from the great exodus of young people from Greece. Roads and schools were built. We have some natural resources, and refineries were built to utilize them. The government created boards of experts from the universities and businesses in agriculture economics, etc., and followed their advice. This worked very well. Also, you could get a passport in one day when it took 3 months before. I got my passport and left for the States two months after the coup.

"On the negative side, the students and intellectuals suffered. And because of the spies, people had to stop mouthing off in public. Greeks don't like to be told to keep their mouths shut. Spies were everywhere. They were volunteers out for money and power. If they didn't like you they could make something up about you and have you put away on an island with no trial. I asked my father about this and he was against it."

Stathi sees the recent coup as a real regression. "General Gizikis," (the new head of the regime) "has no power," he said. "The power lies with the military police, which is headed by a real fascist." I asked Stathi how he knew this and he said, "I read it in Time magazine." However, he added that his father had hinted that the military police was behind the recent coup during a phone call.

Stathi feels that Papadopolos was working toward democracy in Greece and that they promised elections would not have been a farce like the June "referendum." I asked Stathi why he felt Papadopolos was overthrown and he said, "He was becoming too liberal. He tried to reason with the demonstrators. He did not get the tanks out soon enough. The students were calling him a fascist. When they ousted him days later, the military announced that "Prime Minister Papadopolos" had been replaced." I found this humorous."

"Kind of like 1984?"

"Just like 1984."

Ways To Brighten Dorm Rooms

Dorm rooms are often rather bleak: bare walls, simple furnishings, limited closet and storage space. Cardboard wardrobe and utility cartons, like those available from U-Haul dealers can fulfill a dual role by providing extra storage space and serving as attractive decorator accessories.

The wardrobe cartons are about 45 inches high and two feet square. They live up to their name of "extra closet." They have a metal bar inside for hanging clothes and a fold-down flap for easy access. It is a good place to store out-of-season or special event clothes that won't fit into the packed closet, and it costs only $3 to $4.

The utility cartons are an 18 inch cube and can be used for storing extra clothes, bedding, or things you don't want the dorm mother to find. They can be used as bedside stands, or several can be arranged to make a bookcase or display shelf. They cost $1.

Although the cartons may have a snappy design printed on them, you may want to decorate them to reflect your own tastes. You can cover them with contact paper, fabric or paint. You might paste some of your favorite posters on the carton and turn them into giant picture cubes.

You can keep using the cartons even after the school year is over. Just pack the rest of your things in them and take off for home or summer job.

The wardrobe and utility cartons are available from many of the 16,000 U-Haul dealers across the nation. They also have tape for assembling the collapsible cartons, and of course, do-it-yourself moving equipment for transporting all of your paraphernalia at the end of the year.

Conserve Energy

The VPIRG Energy Conservation Project suggests the following ways to conserve electricity and heat:

instead of an electric blanket use an extra wool one instead of an electric alarm clock use a wind up one instead of using an electric light study by a window utilizing natural light (take advantage of Daylight Savings Time)

instead of an electric hairdryer use a towel instead of turning up the thermostat put on an extra sweater close curtains at night

keep the door to your room closed so that the heat will stay in your room turn down thermostats at night

if you're gone for the weekend turn down your thermostat to fifty seal drafts around doors, windows, etc. with the Free Press cut down on the use of electrical appliances, stereos, televisions, showers (take shorter ones), washers and dryers, etc. during the peak power use hours of 11 A.M.- 1 P.M. and 4-6 P.M.

Two ROTC Women Salute The Program

by Laurie Rapp

In 1972 the U.S. Army initiated the enrollment of females into the ROTC program on approximately ten college campuses throughout the country. This past September UVM joined the ranks of these other schools and now has fourteen women in its ROTC program. Two of the participants, Lucille Morrill and Kathy Mullen, have attained a second year standing and are the program's forerunners. Lucille Morrill is a sophomore from Stowe, Vermont, majoring in Business Administration. Having taken a military science course last year, she was invited to join the program receiving ROTC credit for that course. Kathy Mullen is a compression student and is taking two M.S. courses this semester. She is from Milton, Vermont, also a sophomore, and majoring in Home Economics.

When asked the rather obvious question why would a woman want to join ROTC, both had very definite answer. The overriding factor which excited Lucille was the opportunity to travel. Kathy on the other hand "joined ROTC because of the equal opportunity that it offers to women once you get out into active service. It is one of the few employers today that gives equal pay for equal work and equal benefits." Of course there were other fringe benefits which served as what the girls considered "powerful incentives." The most appealing were the $100 a month subsistence allowance while taking the advance courses usually during the junior and senior years and availability of ROTC scholarships.

For the most part the women in ROTC go through the same training as do men. Lectures and labs are all coed. Kathy and Lucille perceive the lecture topics so far as an in-depth study on the whys and wherefores of previous military activities. (One advantage of M.S. courses which Kathy noted was that all books are supplied by the army.) Labs or drills are every Wednesday night for an hour. Both girls admitted that marching is not their speciality. In fact labs are recalled as a rather amusing time of mishaps. Lucille confessed that on several occasions her right-faces turned out to be left-faces into the guy next to her. "We look rather funny next to the guys because most of the guys have had experience marching and girls walk differently that guys anyway- but I kind of get a kick out of it!" remarks Kathy.

The male attitude towards females entering a formerly allmale field can result in some tenseness. Last year, Lucille took M.S. 2 and "being the only girl in the class kind of threw me for awhile," she said. She realizes the fact that it will take time for men to get used to female presence and that she has to humor the tessers and let some remarks ride. Kathy notices the uneasiness when she informs one of the male cadets that she is in "Clothing" and a sorority besides ROTC. Yet at all times the courtesy of the male ROTC participants is stressed and "they are all trying to treat us like equals," said Lucille, "but sometimes they find it hard."

"Without trying to sound like a women's libber," answered Kathy when asked for her promotional spiel for recruiting future women in ROTC, I would probably have to say the main reason for women to join ROTC today is the fact that you will have equal opportunity to earn the same amount of money as a man does. If you know what you are doing and do your job right, you are going to get promoted the same as a man would. You have the chance to command men and women, both. It's really being much more equal than anything out in the business world. The army is working really hard to become an equal opportunity employer."

Becoming a physician is a tremendous satisfaction.
Let us give you the job satisfaction that should go with it.

Whether you're still in medical school with the rigors of three to five years of graduate medical education still to be faced, or are already a practicing physician, it's our opinion that the Air Force can offer both professional and personal satisfaction hard to duplicate in civilian life.

An overstatement? Not if you consider the specifics.

Take the problem of graduate medical education. It's a period of your life the Air Force can make considerably easier with comfortable salary and living conditions.

Creature comforts aside, the Air Force offers professional advantages. Besides receiving training in your own specialty, you'd be in contact with physicians in all of the medical specialties. You'd function in an environment which is intellectually stimulating and professionally challenging.

Not all physicians pursue post residency fellowships. But if you are interested, the Air Force conducts them both on-house and at civilian institutions.

The physician already in practice can look forward to other things. If you want training in the practice of the medicine of the future, you'll find it in the Air Force. For example, there's emphasis on group medicine and preventive medicine, and the growing specialty of "family physician." Whatever your interests, there are few specialties which are not being practiced in today's Air Force.

The physician starting his practice in civilian life has to take into account the cost of setting up an office. The physician commencing his practice in the Air Force does not. He finds his office established for him. Supplies and equipment readily available. He has many options available to him when treating patients. For example, he can consult with Air Force specialists. He also has referral to other Air Force facilities via aeromedical evacuation. Last, but not least, are the satisfactions that come with having the opportunity for regular follow-ups, and a assured appointment rate that is practically nil.

Whether you are already a physician, or soon to become one, you might find it extremely interesting to find out what the Air Force has to offer. We think it could be a real eye-opener. If you'll mail in the coupon, we'd be happy to send you detailed information.

Air Force Opportunities
P.O. Box AF
Peoria, IL 61614

Please send me information on the Air Force Physician Program. I understand there is no obligation.

Name _____ Phone No. _____
Address _____
City _____
State _____ Zip _____ Phone _____
Soc. Sec. # _____ Date of Birth _____

Health Care at its best. Air Force.

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER®

Downtown Burlington

Essex Junction

20,000 SWEATERS

Landlubber

Slacks

$4.99

no flaws

NEW SHIPMENTS OF FAMOUS MAKER MEN'S & WOMENS JEANS

all hats ½ price

CHARLESTOWN MALL STORE

65 Main St
"Across from the Armory"
Open 9-9, Mon. - Fri.
9 - 5 Saturday

SOCKS, JEANS, T-SHIRTS, SUITS, SWEATSHIRTS, LADIES' SLACKS, YARN, KNIT HATS AND SCARFS, INDIA IMPORTS, SKIRTS, ETC. AND MORE

YARN, BLOUSES, INFANTS WEAR, SHAWLS, SOCKS, JEANS, T-SHIRTS, SUITS, SWEATSHIRTS, LADIES' SLACKS, YARN KNIT HATS AND SCARFS, MEN'S POLYESTER PANTS, SHELLS, SKI SWEATERS, KNIT TIES AND SCARFS, ETC. INDIA IMPORTS, SKIRTS, BELTS, AND MORE

Shakey's Great Pizza Mysteries

SHAKEY'S Pizza a Ye Public House

Take advantage of SHAKEY'S generosity!

For the rest of the school year, 10% discount.

(College ID required)

1653 WILLISTON RD.

658-4313

(continued from page five)

M.N. Titanic...

...on glass. Our waiter, Dean, his face taut and ...ed forward with Smitty's double on the rocks. ...miled Smitty as he took a soothing sip.

...point in time," Dean smiled nervously as he ...ly rubbed his right palm, "I am prepared to ...of your questions."

...will be considered at the end of the voyage, if ...you're referring to," I said coldly.

...to say," said Dean, taking what appeared to be a ...ect from the bottom of a palm leaf and crushing ... heel, "that the time frame of this voyage has ...erably and unforeseeably altered and that I am ..."

...mind this gibberish," said Smitty, "just bring us ...nd."

... said Dean, heading for the doorway.

...ous chap," I mumbled as we watched the ...ng to hold each other up on the tilting dance ... tilting strains of "Women and Children."

BusSystem...

(continued from page five)

... federal 2/3 sharing program.

...the project were to fold?" Then the University ...left with three buses, which they could use for ...rogram and for transportation of athletic teams. ...an't lose. Either way you make an improvement ...resent conditions for a very reasonable per capita ...

...routes would the buses follow? This is also ..., but I have outlined two possible major routes. ...called the "green line" and the "gold line" mostly ...ut would appeal to questioning alumni. The green ...d make a circle from the gym, down to WDW, ...e Redstone campus circle to Dewey, then up by ...nd up Main Street. It would then go around the ... to MAT, Harris-Millis, the Living and Learning ...nd back around again.

...old line would go in a circle from the water tower ...ves past the Medical Center and down to Dewey, ... then go past Waterman and down to WDW where ... turn around and go down Cliff Street to Summit ... would then proceed to Main Street, past Pomeroy ... the way up to the Joghandle. It would pass the ... infirmary and go back to the watertower.

...ossible stops would have to be decided upon later. ...my opinion that the administration would be ...r mistake in not seriously considering this proposal. ... I am not alone in thinking it has some merit. Let's ...fficial response anyway. There would no longer be ...blem with parking on the campus, and we could do ... in cutting down the traffic and pollution problems. ...enefits would far outweigh the costs, especially with ...e campus expanding outward in future years.

...ate Redstone Hall

... Hall Study ...d they could ...ies from ...tained for ...ally because ...to Redstone ...hall." They ...e ideas for ...ers of ...t decided it ...useful as a ...though they ...e in reserve ...

accounts, they hope to raise more, possibly through an appeal to Redstone alumni.

Miner hopes to have the building ready for "residence" by the fall, but anticipates construction problems. Those of the former residents evicted in October will have first priority, Miner concluded. "It's a unique opportunity to live there and we don't want to make it like any other residence hall."

...n Dick Cavett...

...mmission is ...e dangerous ...e result of ...ildren being ...gly harmless ...aron has ... activity as ...versity Year ... VPIRG in ...

...lights were ..., and the ... to a stop, ... Cavett were ...in earnest ...e corner of ...The last thing ...him with a ... of toys, was ...the Consumer ...Commission's ...nd rib safety ...8-2080

...ed one of our ... serving as a ...er this year.

Other UVA's are at work in other community agencies, such as Vermont Legal Aid, The Bread and Law Task Force, Consumer Fraud, The King Street Area Youth Center, The Mobile Medical and Dental Vans, and the Office of Volunteer Programs.

University Year for Action, at the office of Volunteer Programs is now accepting student applications for positions working in the poverty community for September 1974. The OVP/UVA Staffs and volunteers are presently at work reviewing project proposals for the Fall 1974 placements. Full-time UVM students are invited to either stop in at the OVP office in Mansfield House or call 656-2062 for further information.

...ws Of The War...

(from page seven)

...ans could never ... this," says ...ey could not ... bombing hot ...d villages and ... land, but ...namese culture ...be the refugees ...separated from ...came separated ...ancestors and ...which gave them ...identity. It ...ept past, their ... thus their ...And thus their ...

...with six hundreds ...of refugees in ...mps on the ...t the cities, ...the simple ...economy and ...ow, one entirely ...dependent on the U.S., with people cut off from their land and their past hustling for survival by serving the Americans' needs and desires. So people became prostitutes, pimps, black marketeers, secretaries, shoe shiners, and things of that nature.

Vietnam, no matter how humanitarian the initial motivations may have at least in part been, ultimately underlined the bankruptcy of the Cold War mentality and U.S. foreign policy, which defined human nature in terms of a peculiarly Western worldview and culture. As a result it came to define the people themselves as the enemy, at least in effect, and destroyed those it came to save

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

PACT Releases Burlington Food Survey

Members of the PACT Food Coop compared prices of about twenty popular food items among thirteen area supermarkets on Friday, January 25. For the items surveyed, PACT charges the lowest overall price; the Grand Union on North Avenue charges the highest overall price.

Clearly, for the genuine savings the shopper must take into account special offers and services, convenience of location, and family food preferences.

Below, the stores are ranked as to total price charged for shopping these items. A shopper would save almost 11 percent by shopping the lowest price store instead of the highest for these items. Note how some supermarkets in the same chain or on the same areas charge different prices for the same item. Note how often supermarket prices end in the digit "9". This practice, and that of offering "2 for's" and "5 for's" are designed to psychologically induce the shopper to buy more goods. Be alert when shopping and make use of unit pricing whenever possible. Unit pricing shows the comparative price of products per pound or per quart among items. If you have any questions or if you would like to volunteer for next month's survey, contact Sharon Frink, at the Vermont Public Interest Research Group (VPIRG) 49 North Prospect Street, Burlington 863-3435.

A. PACT=$13.10
B. P&C, North Avenue=$13.48
C. P&C, Shelburne Road=13.56
D. Country Dollar, Essex=13.94
E. Country Store, Winooski=13.97
F. First National, So. Burlington=14.19
G. A&P, Pearl Street, Burlington=14.41
H. Grand Union, Essex Center=14.44
I. Grand Union, Winooski=14.45
J. Colodny's, North Avenue=14.54
K. A&P, Essex Jct.=14.55
L. Grand Union, Cherry Street, Burl=14.59
M. Grand Union, Essex Shopping Center=14.60
N. Grand Union, North Avenue, Burl.=14.69

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
A	.20	.45	.60	.99	.33	.24	1.36	.12	.79	.81	.78	1.40	.41	.90	1.07	.88	.10	.86	.99
B	.23	.47	.57	.89	.29	.23	1.35	.14	.75	.81	.58	1.25	.43	.93	1.15	.89	.11	.99	1.38
C	.23	.47	.57	.89	.31	.23	1.33	.10	.79	.81	.68	1.25	.43	.93	1.15	.89	.11	.99	1.38
D	.30	.47	.65	.93	.38*	.23	1.39	.13	.79	.83	.73	1.39	.41	.91	1.09	.89	.14	.95	1.49
E	.26	.51	.65	.91	.33	.25	1.35	.16	.85	.84	.71	1.29	.43	.93	1.18	.91	.12	.97	1.28
F	.29	.46*	.65	.87	.32	.23	1.38*	.10	.87	.88	.73	1.25	.43	.97	1.19	.89	.10	.99	1.59
G	.25	.49	.65	.89	.33	.25	1.39	.11	.87	.89	.73	1.19	.43	.99	1.19	.91	.13	.99	1.69
H	.26	.44	.65	.89	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.89	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.03	1.69
I	.26	.45	.65	.89	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.89	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.15	.99	.15	1.09	1.49
J	.31	.45	.61	.89	.35	.23	1.29	.18	.89	.99	.69	1.39	.43	.98	1.19	.91	.18	.99	1.69
K	.25	.49	.67	.89	.33	.25	1.39	.11	.89	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.15	1.69
L	.26	.45	.67	.89	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.89	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.17	1.69
M	.26	.44	.67	.89	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.89	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.13	1.69
N	.26	.45	.65	.95	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.95	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.03	1.49

*Item not available, price quoted is average for all other stores.

A. PACT, 260 North Street, Burlington
B. P&C, North Avenue, Burlington
C. P&C, Shelburne Road, South Burlington
D. Country Dollar, Essex
E. Country Store, West Canal Street, Winooski
F. First National, Route 2, South Burlington
G. A&P, Pearl Street, Burlington
H. Grand Union, Essex Center
I. Grand Union, Main Street, Winooski
J. Colodney's, North Avenue, Burlington
K. A&P, Route 15, Essex Jct.
L. Grand Union, Cherry Street, Burlington
M. Grand Union, Essex Shopping Center, Essex Jct.
N. Grand Union, North Ave., Burlington

1. Green Giant Sweet Peas, 17 oz. can
2. Hunts Tomato Sauce, 29 oz. can
3. Campbells Chunky Chicken Soup, 19 oz. can
4. Chef Boyardee Ravioli, 40 oz. can
5. Prince American Spaghetti, 26½ oz. can
6. Prince American Macaroni and Cheese, 14 3/4 oz. can
7. Dinty Moore Beef Stew, 40 oz. can
8. Iodized Salt, 26 oz. pkg., cheapest
9. Borden's Creamer, 16 oz. jar
10. Helmans Mayonaise, 32 oz. jar
11. Jiff Peanut Butter, 18 oz. jar
12. Crisco shortening, 3 pound can
13. Kellogg Corn Flakes, 18 oz. pkg.
14. Premium Saltine Crackers, 32 oz. pkg.
15. Minute Rice, 28 oz. pkg.
16. Bisquick, 40 oz. pkg.
17. Campbells Tomato Soup, 10 3/4 oz. can
18. Eggs, one dozen, large, Grade A, cheapest
19. Potatoes, 10 pound bag, U.S. no. 1, cheapest

cryptoquote

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow
twvonmttwe

In this example, t has been substituted for L, w for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

Kputrkf rh opdaged,
Kputrkf rh up rkorkrue.
Zwutpd
wkqkpik

Solution in next week's Cynic.

Solution to last week's Cryptoquote:

May the bird of paradise fly up your nose and tickle your adenoids.
— Bruce Maddern

Thoughts On 4-Day Week

by Andrew Morse

Russell Jacobs, North Champlain Street

I've got no complaints. It's not a major inconvenience, but I'm afraid it won't save substantial amounts of money or fuel. The weekends are great if you like skiing for three days in slush.

Larry Leroy, 109 Maple Street

It was a hassle running back and forth from Waterman to schedule classes and labs and there was not enough time to add and drop courses. The weekends are ideal for studying. Though I'm not overly enthused, all in all it's pretty good.

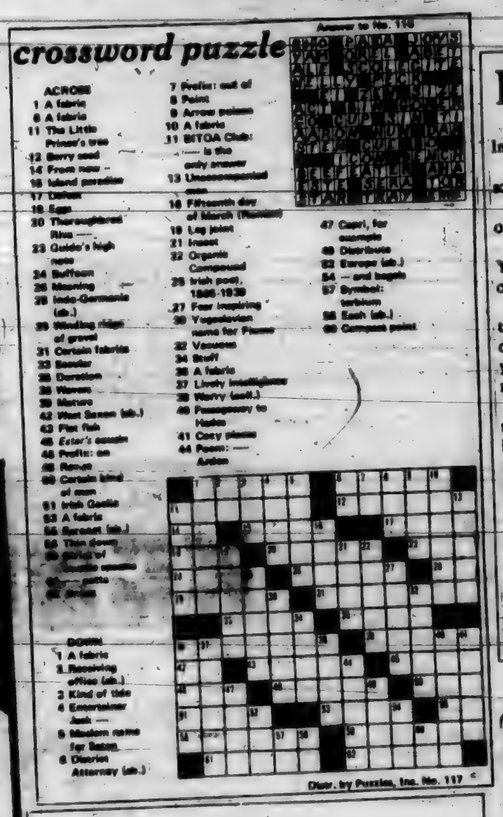
Johnathan Smith, Winooski

It's too early to tell; let it ride. The University did an adequate job of changing over. The one advantage of getting Mondays off as opposed to Fridays is that getting gas would be easier on Monday than on Sunday if the weekend was Friday through Sunday.

Michel Plovin, Winooski

A lot of my friends are disgusted with the class changes and night classes. There is no doubt UVM is saving money, just how much and where is a mystery.

crossword puzzle



Answer to No. 116
ACROSS
1 A fabric
6 A fabric
11 The Little Prince's tree
12 Berry seed
14 From now —
16 Island paradise
17 Defeat
18 Eggs
20 Thoroughfare: Rhs —
23 Guido's high note
24 Bedroom
26 Meaning —
28 Indo-Germanic (ab.)
29 Winding ridge of gravel
31 Certain fabrics
33 Slender
35 Dandelion
36 Woven
39 Mixture
42 West Saxon (ab.)
43 Flat fish
45 Editor's comment
46 Prefix: on
48 Rimsky-Korsakov
50 Certain kind of room
51 Irish Gaelic
53 A fabric
55 Baronet (ab.)
56 Thin downy
58 Article of Gaelic grammar
59 Garden
DOWN
1 A fabric
2 Receiving office (ab.)
3 Kind of tide
4 Entertainer Jack —
5 Modern name for Satan
6 Diocesan Attorney (ab.)
7 Prefix: out of
8 Point
9 Arrow poisons
10 A fabric
11 BITOA Club: — is the only answer
13 Unaccompanied
16 Fifteenth day of March (Roman)
19 Leg joint
21 Insect
22 Organic Compound
25 Irish poet, 1866-1939
27 Fear inspiring
30 Yugoslavian name for Flower
32 Vacuous
34 Bluff
36 A fabric
37 Lively intelligence
38 Worry (coll.)
40 Passageway to Hades
41 Cozy places
44 Poem: — Arden
47 Capri, for example
48 Distribute
52 Europe (ab.)
54 — and begets
57 Symbol: tantalum
58 Each (ab.)
60 Compass point

Distr. by Puzzles, Inc. No. 117

Recipe Of The Week

Yogurt

Ingredients:

1 quart of milk (Whole, skim, reconstituted dry milk solids can all be used)
2 or 3 tablespoons plain yogurt (use commercial Dannon or your own)
¼ to ½ cup sugar

You will need a candy thermometer (If you don't own one or have access to one, try the Home Ec. department)

Heat the milk in a saucepan to 180 degrees; add about ¼ to ½ cup sugar (purists could use honey), cool to 115 degrees and mix a small amount of the milk with the yogurt. Then mix this thoroughly into all the rest of the milk and put it into a quart container.

Set it in a warm area (105–110 degrees) and leave it for several hours. Hint: make the yogurt in the afternoon and leave it on a warm radiator overnight. Refrigerate before you use it. You can use a variety of goodies to flavor it; it's great mixed with drained canned fruit cocktail, fresh fruit, one or two tablespoons of Orange or Grape Tang (mix thoroughly!). Use different kinds of jam or preserves, marmalade, small amounts of canned pie filling or with applesauce (top with cinnamon), or whatever comes to mind.

Do you have a favorite recipe? Send it in, typed if possible, to the Vermont Cynic c/o Feature Department. If we like it we'll print it and use your name.

Library Planning

(continued from page seven)

etc.?) to submit them to any member of the Council: Samuel H. Bogorad, English, Mathematics; Nancy Buckeye, Bailey Library; Jay Gould, Political Science; Beal Hyde, Botany; Paul Kebabian, Bailey Library; Gene Laber, Business Administration; Helene Lang, Education; John Little, Microbiology and Chairperson; Nancy Balin, Student, Living and Learning Center; Paul Brock, Biochemistry; Alton O. Roberts, Education; Henry Steffens, History; Branimir Von Turkovich, Mechanical Engineering; H. Lawrence McCrorey, Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, ex officio.

An Above Average . . .

POWERED SYSTEM

. . . At Minimal Cost

GARRARD 42M with Shure Cartridge, Base and Dust Cover

High performance on a low budget.

PIONEER TX-6200 AM-FM Stereo Tuner

Despite its very modest price the TX-6200 employs the advanced circuitry found in much more expensive units: its front end uses a low-noise FET while a new and exclusive FM IC, ceramic filters and a 5-stage limiter are in the IF section. This combination provides superb selectivity (60dB) and excellent sensitivity (1.9uV) to pull in weak stations and eliminate congestion on the dial. There's also wide stereo separation with a sophisticated IC multiplex circuit. Capture ratio is tops at 1.0dB. Additional features include cross-pointer tuning meter, ultra wide tuning dial, FM muting, tape & variable output level controls. $139.95 including walnut cabinet.

You don't have to spend a fortune to own the world's most expensive stereo equipment. Get the new Marantz Model 1060 stereo control console amplifier conservatively rated at 60 watts continuous RMS power and packed with exclusive Marantz features. And get a pair of Marantz' new sophisticated 2-way 4Ω speaker systems.

We sound better.

List Price $580.00

AUDIO DEN PRICE $459.00

AUDIO DEN

BURLINGTON
100 Dorset St.
Phone 863-4398
Open: Mon.-Thurs. 10 am to 6 pm
Fri. 'til 9 pm & Sat. 'til 5:30 pm

MIDDLEBURY
50½ Main Street
Phone 388-6788
Open: Monday thru Saturday
10:30 am to 5:30 pm

MED SCHOOL ADMISSION PROBLEMS?

EuroMed may offer RX via overseas training

For the session starting Fall, 1974, Euromed will assist qualified American students in gaining admission to recognized overseas medical schools.

And that's just the beginning.

Since the language barrier constitutes the preponderate difficulty in succeeding at a foreign school, the Euromed program also includes an intensive 12 week medical and conversational language course, mandatory for all students. Five hours daily, 5 days per week (12-16 weeks) the course is given in the country where the student will attend medical school.

In addition, Euromed provides students with a 12 week intensive cultural orientation program, with American students now studying medicine in that particular country serving as counselors.

Senior or graduate students currently enrolled in an American university are eligible to participate in the Euromed program.

For application and further information, phone toll free (800) 645-1234

or write,

Euromed, Ltd.
170 Old Country Road
Mineola, N.Y. 11501

FOR A FORMAL RELATIONSHIP

The engagement ring marks the next stage in your love story. When you are ready to select your diamond and its mounting, please come in. Our collection of styles is large. Our prices will fit your budget.

PRICES START UNDER $100.00

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

17 UPPER CHURCH STREET · BURLINGTON

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional. $49.95

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Front End Alignment $12.00

Craft Corne

Each week the Cynic will plan to run an ... simple instructions on crafts and hobbies – ... tuning a guitar or making home brew. Any article ... hobbies, backpacking, wood lore or anything ... of interest (general or otherwise) will be welc... more the better! Articles should be signed, ... and complete; drawings are encouraged. Send to... Cynic, Feature Department. Depending on reade... the Cynic, may start a contest, with the best craf... receive a prize at the end of the semester.

Hook A Rug

Looking for something to do in your free time? Hook a rug! It's simple to do, and you will have an attractive addition to your room or a present to give away. You can start small, with a lamp mat or foot rug, or you can sew several together for a bigger rug, or start with a bigger rug all in one piece.

You will need some rough-grained cloth (burlap is excellent), rug yarn (thicker than knitting yarn), a rug hunch, a wooden frame, and thumbtacks.

To make a wooden frame, you could use a picture frame if it is large, heavy, and strong; for best results, check the art supplies section of the UVM store. They have detachable wooden frames, that with a few extra pieces can be adjusted to any size. If you are handy with a hammer and nails, make your own frame. Be sure that the corners are mitered together. A good size to start with might be 36" by 24."

Once you have your frame, buy burlap enough to cover it and overlap a little (about 1½ to 2 inches) on all four sides. This is to be tacked on evenly on all four sides. Place the burlap on a flat surface. Put the frame on top of it and position it so that there is an equal amount of burlap on all four sides. Now pull the burlap over onto the face of the frame very carefully and tack it down; do this on all four sides.

Burlap can be bought in any one of several places in Burlington: "Pegton's Yardstick," down... terminal, is one... Next, you will ne... a rug punch wit... Both are availab... Celler." The ... resembles a ... with two small h... end of a curved ... Thread the rug ... the holes from ... Leave three or fo... yarn hanging do... end.

Sketch a de... burlap (tacks u... leave it free form... being sure to dr... around the ed... won't hit the f... the blade of th... through the bu... quick motion, th... You will leave ... underside. Keep ... loops as close ... possible. It is ea... change the yarn ... when you want ... color. Dependi... much of one c... you may want ... than one skein ... When every ... burlap inside ... covered, turn t... and depending ... you want, you ... snip the loops ... That is your ru... helps to check ... periodically; if ... change someth... out. Turn und... burlap and s... back with ... stitches. Be c... loops do not p... thread. You ... a stiffer back ... stuff that lo...

Women's Ca...

(continued from page ONE)

world altogether.

But one of the most striking aspects of the meeting was the evident tolerance of diversity. The half dozen men in the crowd were welcomed with sincerity, and Gerry Deluch, an undergraduate student who is trying to gain more support for the caucus from other students, even said that men are not to be excluded from membership.

During the panel discussion, a number of different points were made. Mary Wilson, a professor in Communications and Theatre, drew an enthusiastic response when she demanded a Day Care Center here, NOW and a woman in the triumvirate in the President's office. She wants a piece of the athletic pie to be used for Day Care and Counseling. She reported that the money collected in the vending machines around campus, ... about $63... currently ... scholarships ... that this co... Day Care.

Karen Pre... Medical S... women abou... jumping on ... bandwagon ... something. ... finally come... individual," ... "You have ... who you ar... need. Change... informed, b... take that st... alone."

John Pe... student and ... the panel, ... issue when ... can't reme... ever stood b... been more ... also pointe... are few la... rights which ... men, too.

Career Placeme...

The On-Campus Career Interview Prog... the following employers in the Placem... February 5-15. All interested seniors and ... may sign up for job interviews. More ... available in the Office, Mansfield House, th...

February 5: Burroughs Corp.-Seeks: B... Mutual of New York-Seeks: Lib. arts for ... Placements U.S. Marines - Information ... Billings Center.

February 8: Firestone Tire & Rubb... Adm., Mktg., Lib. Arts.; Hartford Insur... areas and Lib. arts.

February 12: Hannaford ... Supermarkets)-Seeks Bus. areas; Lib. A... Merchants National Bank - Seeks: Bus. ... State Mutual of America - Seeks: Bus. Ar...

February 13: International Paper Co. ... ME, CE.; Sears, Roebuck & Co. - See... training programs; Regional Adm., Natio... Bus. Areas.

February 14: New England Deaconess ... Nurs., Med. Tech.

February 15: Aetna Life & Casualty - ... for positions in Life and Casualty oper... Seeks: EE, Phys., Chem. and Accts. Fin.

On-Campus Employment Interviews ... February 19 – 22 (Recruiting Period ... Anderson and Co. positions in publi... Peapod Co., seeks buyers, accountan... trainees; Monsanto Co., engineering ... (3.0 average); Coopers and Lybrand, ... with one or more accounting courses w...

Signing up for these interviews will ... Office, Mansfield House, Tuesday ... Thursday on February 12, 13, and 14.

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

cryptoquote

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow
twvonmttwe

In this example, t has been substituted for L, w for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

Kputrkf rh opdegad.
Kputrkf ifh up rkorkrue.
Zwutpd
wkqkpik

Solution in next week's Cynic.

Solution to last week's Cryptoquote:

May the bird of paradise fly up your nose and tickle your adenoids.
Bruce Maddern

PACT Releases Burlington Food Survey

Members of the PACT Food Coop compared prices of about twenty popular food items among thirteen area supermarkets on Friday, January 25. For the items surveyed, PACT charges the lowest overall price; the Grand Union on North Avenue charges the highest overall price.

Clearly, for the genuine savings the shopper must take into account special offers and services, convenience of location, and family food preferences.

Below, the stores are ranked as to total price charged for shopping these items. A shopper would save almost 11 percent by shopping the lowest price store instead of the highest for these items. Note how some supermarkets in the same chain or on the same areas charge different prices for the same item. Note how often supermarket prices end in the digit "9". This practice, and that of offering "2 for's" and "5 for's" are designed to psychologically induce the shopper to buy more goods. Be alert when shopping and make use of unit pricing whenever possible. Unit pricing shows the comparative price of products per pound or per quart among items. If you have any questions or if you would like to volunteer for next month's survey, contact Sharon Frink, at the Vermont Public Interest Research Group (VPIRG) 49 North Prospect Street, Burlington: 863-3435.

A. PACT=$13.10
B. P & C, North Avenue=$13.48
C. P&C, Shelburne Road=13.56
D. Country Dollar, Essex=13.94
E. Country Store, Winooski=13.97
F. First National, So. Burlington=14.19
G. A&P, Pearl Street, Burlington=14.41
H. Grand Union, Essex Center=14.44
I. Grand Union, Winooski=14.45
J. Colodny's, North Avenue=14.54
K. A&P, Essex Jct.=14.55
L. Grand Union, Cherry Street, Burl=14.59
M. Grand Union, Essex Shopping Center=14.60
N. Grand Union, North Avenue, Burl=14.69

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
A	.20	.45	.60	.90	.33	.24	1.36	.12	.79	.81	.78	1.40	.41	.90	1.07	.88	.10	.86	.90
B	.23	.47	.57	.89	.29	.23	1.35	.14	.79	.81	.88	1.25	.43	.93	1.15	.89	.11	.99	1.38
C	.23	.47	.57	.89	.31	.23	1.35	.10	.79	.81	.88	1.25	.43	.93	1.15	.89	.11	.99	1.38
D	.30	.47	.65	.93	.32	.23	1.39	.13	.79	.83	.73	1.29	.41	.91	1.09	.89	.14	.95	1.49
E	.26	.51	.65	.93	.33	.25	1.35	.16	.85	.84	.71	1.29	.43	.93	1.18	.91	.12	.97	1.28
F	.29	.46*	.65	.87	.32	.23	1.39*	.10	.87	.88	.73	1.35	.43	.97	1.19	.89	.10	.99	1.59
G	.25	.49	.65	.89	.33	.25	1.39	.11	.87	.89	.75	1.19	.43	.99	1.19	.91	.15	.99	1.69
H	.26	.44	.65	.89	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.89	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.03	1.69
I	.26	.45	.65	.89	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.89	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.03	1.69
J	.31	.45	.61	.89	.35	.23	1.29	.18	.89	.99	.69	1.39	.43	.99	1.19	.91	.15	.99	1.69
K	.25	.49	.67	.89	.33	.25	1.39	.13	.87	.89	.75	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.15	1.69
L	.26	.45	.67	.89	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.89	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.17	1.69
M	.26	.49*	.67	.89	.33	.23	1.39	.11	.95	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.18	1.69
N	.26	.45	.65	.93	.33	.25	1.39	.11	.95	.85	.73	1.29	.43	.98	1.19	.93	.13	1.18	1.69

*Item not available, price quoted is average for all other stores.

A. PACT, 260 North Street, Burlington
B. P&C, North Avenue, Burlington
C. P&C, Shelburne Road, South Burlington
D. Country Dollar, Essex
E. Country Store, West Canal Street, Winooski
F. First National, Route 2, South Burlington
G. A&P, Pearl Street, Burlington
H. Grand Union, Essex Center
I. Grand Union, Main Street, Winooski
J. Colodney's, North Avenue, Burlington
K. A&P, Route 15, Essex Jct.
L. Grand Union, Cherry Street, Burlington
M. Grand Union, Essex Shopping Center, Essex Jct.
N. Grand Union, North Ave., Burlington

1. Green Giant Sweet Peas, 17 oz. can
2. Hunts Tomato Sauce, 29 oz. can
3. Campbells Chunky Chicken Soup, 19 oz. can.
4. Chef Boyardee Ravioli, 40 oz. can
5. Franco American Spaghetti, 24½ oz. can
6. Franco American Macaroni and Cheese, 14 3/4 oz. can
7. Dinty Moore Beef Stew, 40 oz. can
8. Iodized Salt, 26 oz. pkg., cheapest
9. Borden's Creamers, 16 oz. jar
10. Holmans Mayonaise, 32 oz. jar
11. Jiff Peanut Butter, 18 oz. jar
12. Crisco shortening, 3 pound can
13. Kellogg Corn Flakes, 18 oz. pkg.
14. Premium Saltine Crackers, 32 oz. pkg.
15. Minute Rice, 28 oz. pkg.
16. Bisquick, 40 oz. pkg.
17. Campbells Tomato Soup, 10 3/4 oz. can
18. Eggs, one dozen, large, Grade A, cheapest
19. Potatoes, 10 pound bag, U.S. no. 1, cheapest

Thoughts On 4-Day Week

by Andrew Morse

Russell Jacobs, North Champlain Street

I've got no complaints. It's not a major inconvenience, but I'm afraid it won't save substantial amounts of money or fuel. The weekends are great if you like skiing for three days in slush.

Larry Leroy, 109 Maple Street

It was a hassle running back and forth from Waterman to schedule classes and labs and there was not enough time to add and drop courses. The weekends are ideal for studying. Though I'm not overly enthused, all in, all it's pretty good.

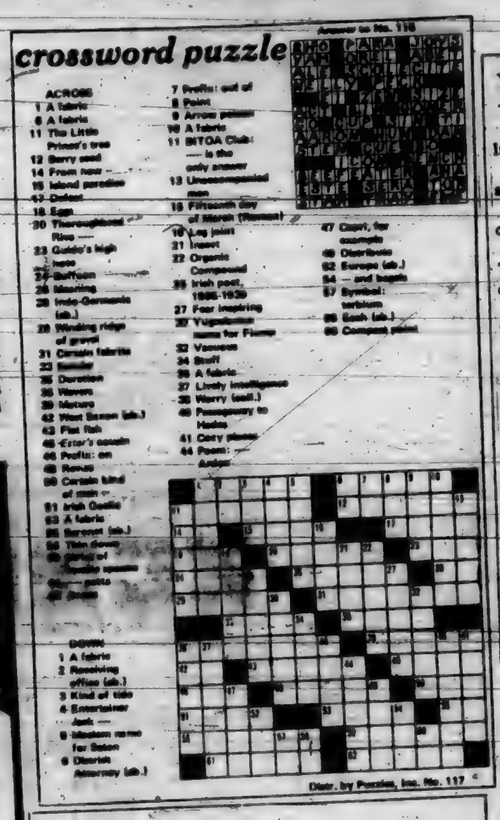
Johnathan Smith, Winooski

It's too early to tell, let it ride. The University did an adequate job of changing over. The one advantage of getting Mondays off as opposed to Fridays is that getting gas would be easier on Monday than on Sunday if the weekend was Friday through Sunday.

Michel Plovin, Winooski

A lot of my friends are disgusted with the class changes and night classes. There is no doubt UVM is saving money, just how much and where is a mystery.

crossword puzzle



Answer to No. 116

ACROSS
1 A fabric
6 A fabric
11 The Little Prince's tree
12 Berry used
14 From now —
15 Island paradise
17 Detest
18 Egg
20 Thoroughfares
Rios —
23 Guido's high note
24 Saffron
26 Meeting
28 Indo-Germanic (ab.)
29 Winding ridge of gravel
31 Canvas fabrics
33 Retreat
35 Duration
36 Woven
39 Mixture
42 Wee Scream (ab.)
43 Flat fish
46 Critic's cousin
48 Profits: on 49 Reveal
50 Canada land of lakes —
51 Irish Castle
53 A fabric
55 Reverent (ab.)
56 Tree (Genus)
58 Jewels of royalty
Shoe-polish of Dublin

DOWN
1 A fabric
2 Receiving office (ab.)
3 Kind of tide
4 Entertainer Jack —
5 Nineteen across for Satan
6 District Attorney (ab.)
7 Profits: out of
8 Point
9 Arrow poisons
10 A fabric
11 BITOA Club: — is the only answer
13 Unaccompanied man
15 Fifteenth day of March (Roman)
16 Leg joint
21 Insect
22 Organic Compound
25 Irish poet, 1865-1939
27 Fear inspiring
30 Yugoslavian name for Flume
32 Vacuous
34 Snuff
38 A fabric
37 Lively intelligence
38 Worry (coll.)
40 Passageway to Hades
41 Carry plows
44 Poem: — Arden
47 Court, for example
49 Distribute
52 Europe (ab.)
54 — and boards
57 Symbol: tantalum
58 Cash (ab.)
60 Compass point

Distr. by Puzzles, Inc. No. 117

Recipe Of The Week

Yogurt

Ingredients:

1 quart of milk (Whole, skim, reconstituted dry milk solids can all be used)

2 or 3 tablespoons plain yogurt (use commercial Dannon or your own)

¼ to ½ cup sugar

You will need a candy thermometer (if you don't own one or have access to one, try the Home Ec. department)

Heat the milk in a saucepan to 180 degrees; add about ¼ to ½ cup sugar (purists could use honey), cool to 115 degrees and mix a small amount of the milk with the yogurt. Then mix this thoroughly into all the rest of the milk and put it into a quart container.

Set it in a warm area (105–110 degrees) and leave it for several hours. Hint: make the yogurt in the afternoon and leave it on a warm radiator overnight. Refrigerate before you use it. You can use a variety of goodies to flavor it; it's great mixed with drained canned fruit cocktail, fresh fruit, one or two tablespoons of Orange or Grape Tang (mix thoroughly!). Use different kinds of jam or preserves, marmalade, small amounts of canned pie filling or with applesauce (top with cinnamon), or whatever comes to mind.

Do you have a favorite recipe? Send it in, typed if possible, to the Vermont Cynic c/o Feature Department. If we like it we'll print it and use your name.

Library Planning

(continued from page seven)

etc.!) to submit them to any member of the Council: Samuel N. Bogorad, English, Mathematics; Nancy Buckeye, Bailey Library; Jay Gould, Political Science; Beal Hyde, Botany; Paul Kebabian, Bailey Library; Gene Laber, Business Administration; Helene Lang, Education; John Little, Microbiology and Biochemistry; Alton O. Roberts, Education; Henry Steffens, History; Branimir Von Turkovich, Mechanical Engineering; H. Lawrance McCrorey, Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, ex officio.

Chairperson; Nancy Balin, Student, Living and Learning Center; Paul Brock,

An Above Average . . .

POWERED SYSTEM

. . . At Minimal Cost

BARRARD 42M with Shure Cartridge, Base and Dust Cover.

High performance on a low budget.

PIONEER TX-6200 AM-FM Stereo Tuner

Despite its very modest price the TX-6200 employs the advanced circuitry found in much more expensive units. Its front end uses a low-noise FET while a new and exclusive FM IC ceramic filters and a 5-stage limiter are in the IF section. This combination provides superb selectivity (60dB), and excellent sensitivity (1.9uV) to pull in weak stations and eliminate congestion on the dial. There's also wide stereo separation with a sophisticated IC multiplex circuit. Capture ratio is tops at 1.5dB. Additional features include digital tuning meter, ultra wide tuning dial, FM muting, fixed & variable output level controls. $139.95 including walnut cabinet.

You don't have to spend a fortune to own the world's most expensive stereo equipment. Get the new Marantz Model 1060 stereo control console amplifier conservatively rated at 60 watts continuous RMS power and packed with exclusive Marantz features. And get a pair of Marantz' new sophisticated 2-way 4Ω speaker systems.

marantz
We sound better.

List Price $580.00 AUDIO DEN PRICE $459.00

AUDIO DEN

BURLINGTON
100 Dorset St.
Phone 863-4398
Open Mon.-Thurs. 10 am to 6 pm
Fri. 'til 9 pm & Sat. 'till 5:30 pm

MIDDLEBURY
50½ Main Street
Phone 388-6788
Open Monday thru Saturday
10:30 am to 5:30 pm

MED SCHOOL ADMISSION PROBLEMS?

EuroMed may offer RX via overseas training

For the session starting Fall, 1974, Euromed will assist qualified American students in gaining admission to recognized overseas medical schools.

And that's just the beginning.

Since the language barrier constitutes the preponderate difficulty in succeeding at a foreign school, the Euromed program also includes an intensive 12 week medical and conversational language course, mandatory for all students. Five hours daily, 5 days per week (12-16 weeks) the course is given in the country where the student will attend medical school.

In addition, Euromed provides students with a 12 week intensive cultural orientation program, with American students now studying medicine in that particular country serving as counselors.

Senior or graduate students currently enrolled in an American university are eligible to participate in the Euromed program.

For application and further information, phone toll free.
(800) 645-1234

or write,
Euromed, Ltd.
170 Old Country Road
Mineola, N.Y. 11501

FOR A FORMAL RELATIONSHIP –
The engagement ring marks
the next stage in your love story.
When you are ready to select your diamond and its mounting,
please come in.
Our collection of styles is large.
Our prices will fit your budget.

PRICES START UNDER $100.00

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE
INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

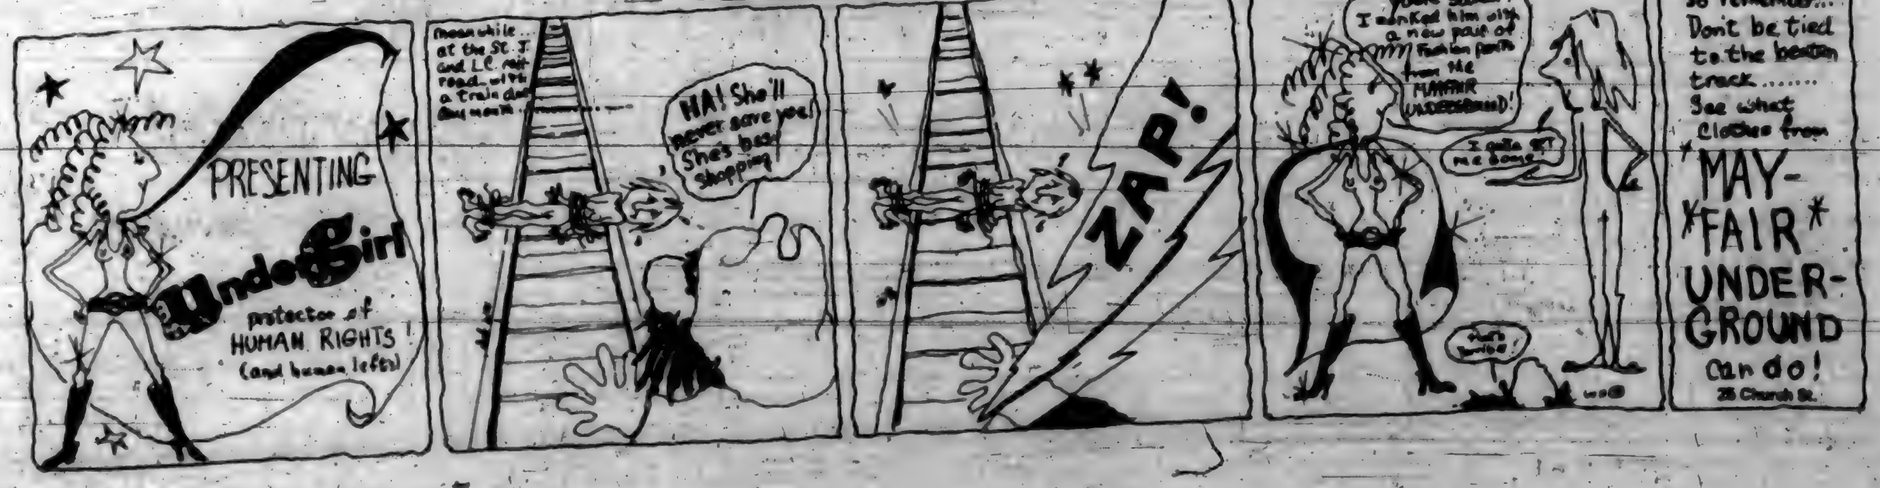
FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

- We work on American cars
- Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
- Front end alignment • Spin balancing
- Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional. $49.95

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Front End Alignment $12.00



Craft Corne

Each week the Cynic will plan to run an a... simple instructions on crafts and hobbies – w... tuning a guitar or making home brew. Any articles... hobbies, backpacking, wood lore or anything th... of interest (general or otherwise) will be welco... more the better! Articles should be signed; wo... and complete; drawings are encouraged. Send to: ... Cynic, Feature Department. Depending on reader... the Cynic, may start a contest, with the best craft... receive a prize at the end of the semester.

-Hook A Rug

Looking for something to do in your free time? Hook a rug! It's simple to do, and you will have an attractive addition to your room or a present to give away. You can start small, with a lamp mat or foot rug, or you can sew several together for a bigger rug, or start with a bigger rug all in one piece.

You will need some rough-grained cloth (burlap is excellent), rug yarn (thicker than knitting yarn), a rug punch, a wooden frame, and thumbtacks.

To make a wooden frame, you could use a picture frame if it is large, heavy, and strong; for best results, check the art supplies section of the UVM store. They have attachable wooden frames, that with a few extra pieces can be adjusted to any size. If you are handy with a hammer and nails, make your own frame. Be sure that the corners are mitered together. A good size to start with might be 36" by 24."

Once you have your frame, buy burlap enough to cover it and overlap a little (about 1½ to 2 inches) on all four sides. This is to be tacked on evenly on all four sides. Place the burlap on a flat surface. Put the frame on top of it and position it so that there is an equal amount of burlap on all four sides. Now pull the burlap over onto the face of the frame very carefully and tack it down; do this on all four sides.

Burlap can be bought in any one of several places in Burlington: "Pegton's Yardstick," down... terminal, is one... Next, you will ne... a rug punch wit... Both are available... Cellar." The ... resembles a sa... with two small h... end of a curved ... Thread the rug y... the holes from ... Leave three or fo... yarn hanging dow... end.

Sketch a des... burlap (tacks mi... leave it free-form... being sure to dr... around the ed... won't hit. the ... the blade of the... through the bu... quick motion, th... You will leave a ... underside. Keep ... loops as close ... possible. It is eas... change the yarn ... when you want ... color. Dependin... much of one co... you may want ... than one skein o... When every ... burlap inside t... covered, turn th... and depending o... you want, you ... snip the loops ... That is your ris... helps to check ... periodically; if ... change somethi... out. Turn unde... burlap and se... back with ... stitches. He ca... loops do not g... thread. You'll ... a stiffer backi... stuff that loo...

Women's Ca...

(continued from page one)

world altogether.

But one of the most striking aspects of the meeting was the evident tolerance of diversity. The half dozen men in the crowd were welcomed with sincerity, and Gerry Beluch, an undergraduate student who it trying to gain more support for the caucus from other students, even said that men are not to be excluded from membership.

During the panel discussion, a number of different points were made. Mary Wilson, a professor in Communications and Theatre, drew an enthusiastic response when she demanded a Day Care Center here, NOW. And a woman in the triumvirate in the President's office. She wants a piece of the athletic pie to be used for Day Care and Counseling. She reported that the money collected in the vending machines around campus, about $... currently de... scholarships ... that this co... Day Care.

Karen Pra... Medical Sc... women about ... jumping on ... bandwagon ju... something. ... finally come ... individual," ... "You have ... who you are ... need. Change ... informed, be... take that ste... alone."

John Per... student and ... the panel, ... laughs when ... can't remem... ever stood be... been more ... also pointed ... are few law ... rights which ... men, too.

Career Placemen...

The On-Campus Career Interview Progra... the following employers in the Placeme... February 5-15. All interested seniors and ... may sign up for job interviews. More ... available in the Office, Mansfield House, th...

February 5: Burroughs Corp. Seeks: Ec... Mutual of New York -Seeks: Lib. arts for ... Placements U.S. Marines - Information ... Billings Center.

February 8: Firestone Tire & Rubb... Adm., Mktg., Lib. Arts.; Hartford Insur... areas and Lib. arts.

February 12: Hannaford ... Supermarkets)-Seeks Bus. areas, Lib. A... Merchants National Bank - Seeks: Bus. ... State Mutual of America - Seeks: Bus. Ar...

February 13: International Paper Co. - ... ME, CE., Sears, Roebuck & Co. - Seek... training programs; Regional Adm. Natio... Bus. Areas.

February 14: New England Deacone... Nurs., Med. Tech.

February 15: Aetna Life & Casulty - ... for positions in Life and Casulty opera... Seeks: EE, Phys., Chem. and Acctg. Fin. ...

On-Campus Employment Interviews ... February 19 – 22 (Recruiting Period ... Anderson and Co, positions in public ... Penney Co., seeks buyers, accountant... trainees; Monsanto Co., engineering p... (3.0 average); Coopers and Lybrand, ... with one or more accounting courses wi...

Signing up for these interviews will ... Office, Mansfield House, Tuesday, ... Thursday on February 12, 13, and 14.

d Survey

13	14	15	16	17	18	19
41	90	1.07	88	10	86	.90
43	93	1.13	89	11	99	1.38
43	93	1.13	89	11	99	1.38
41	91	1.09	89	14	95	1.49
43	93	1.18	91	12	97	1.28
43	97	1.19	89	10	99	1.59
43	99	1.19	91	13	99	1.69
43	99	1.19	93	13	1.03	1.69
43	99	1.19	93	13	1.03	1.69
43	99	1.15	99	15	1.09	1.49
43	99	1.19	91	13	99	1.69
43	99	1.19	93	13	1.15	1.69
43	99	1.19	93	13	1.17	1.69
43	99	1.19	93	13	1.15	1.69

...t Sweet Peas, 17 oz. can
...to Sauce, 28-oz. can
...Chunky Chicken Soup, 19 oz. can
...dee Ravioli, 40 oz. can
...erican Spaghetti, 26½ oz. can
...erican Macaroni and Cheese, 14 3/4 oz. can
...on Beef Stew, 40 oz. can
...t, 26 oz. pkg., cheapest
...Cheeses, 16 oz. jar
...Mayonaise, 32 oz. jar
...t Butter, 18 oz. jar
...rtening, 3 pound can
...Corn Flakes, 18 oz. pkg.
...Saltine Crackers, 32 oz. pkg.
..., 36 oz. pkg.
..., 40 oz. pkg.
...a Tomato Soup, 10 3/4 oz. can
...dozen, large, Grade A, cheapest
..., 10 pound bag, U.S. no. 1, cheapest

...e Of The Week

Yogurt

... milk (Whole, skim, reconstituted dry milk ... used)
...spoons plain yogurt (use commercial Dannon)
... sugar
... a candy thermometer (if you don't own one ... to one, try the Home Ec. department)
...lk in a saucepan to 180 degrees, add about ¼ ...gar (purists could use honey), cool to 113 ... mix a small amount of the milk with the ... mix this thoroughly into all the rest of the ... it into a quart container.
... warm area (105–110 degrees) and leave it for ... Hint: make the yogurt in the afternoon and ... warm radiator overnight. Refrigerate before ...You can use a variety of goodies to flavor it; it's ... with drained canned fruit cocktail, fresh fruit, ... tablespoons of Orange or Grape Tang (mix ... Use different kinds of jam or preserves, ... small amounts of canned pie filling or with ...(top with cinnamon), or whatever comes to ...

...ve a favorite recipe? Send it in, typed if possible, ...ont Cynic c/o Feature Department. If we like it ... and use your name.

Library Planning

...ued from page seven)

...mit them to any ... the Council ...Bogorad, English, ...tice; Nancy ...ley Library; Jay ...ical Science; Beal ...otany; Paul ... Bailey Library; ...aber, Business ...son, Helene Lang, ... John Little, ...ology and ... Chairperson; Nancy Balin, Student, Living and Learning Center; Paul Brock, Biochemistry; Alton O. Roberts, Education; Henry Steffens, History; Branimir Von Turkovich, Mechanical Engineering; H. Lawrence McCrorey, Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, ex officio.

...AVES AUTOMOTIVE
INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 863-7686
FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS
• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JOB
...udes: 8 new ... Linings, 4 turn ..., rebuilt 4 wheel ...ylinders. Discs $10 additional $49.95
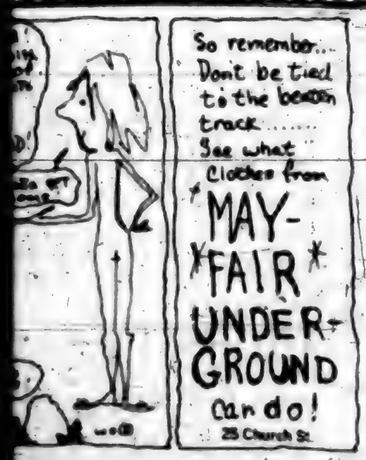
...R EVERY DAY SPECIAL ... Bug Exhaust $29.95 ... Front End Alignment $12.00



Craft Corner : Instructions On How To Hook A Rug

Each week the Cynic will plan to run an article with simple instructions on crafts and hobbies – whether it's tuning a guitar or making home brew. Any article on crafts, hobbies, backpacking, wood lore or anything that may be of interest (general or otherwise) will be welcomed– the more the better! Articles should be signed, well-written, and complete; drawings are encouraged. Send to: Vermont Cynic, Feature Department. Depending on reader response the Cynic may start a contest, with the best craft article to receive a prize at the end of the semester.

Hook A Rug

Looking for something to do in your free time? Hook a rug! It's simple to do, and you will have an attractive addition to your room or a present to give away. You can start small, with a lamp mat or foot rug, or you can sew several together for a bigger rug, or start with a bigger rug all in one piece.

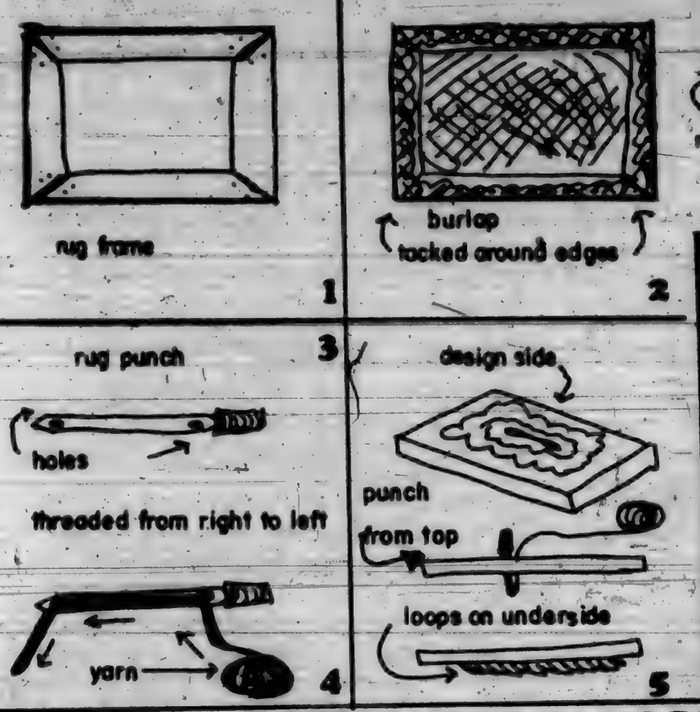
You will need some rough-grained cloth (burlap is excellent), rug yarn (thicker than knitting yarn), a rug punch, a wooden frame, and thumbtacks.

To make a wooden frame, you could use a picture frame if it is large, heavy, and strong, for best results, check the art supplies section of the UVM store. They have detachable wooden frames, that with a few extra pieces can be adjusted to any size. If you are handy with a hammer and nails, make your own frame. Be sure that the corners are mitered together. A good size to start with might be 36" by 24."

Once you have your frame, buy burlap enough to cover it and overlap a little (about 1½ to 2 inches) on all four sides. This is to be tacked on evenly on all four sides. Place the burlap on a flat surface. Put the frame on top of it and position it so that there is an equal amount of burlap on all four sides. Now pull the burlap over onto the face of the frame very carefully and tack it down; do this on all four sides.

Burlap can be bought in any one of several places in Burlington: "Pegton's Yardstick," down by the bus terminal, is one of them. Next, you will need to thread a rug punch with rug yarn. Both are available in "Yarn Cellar." The rug punch resembles a carrot scraper with two small holes at each end of a curved metal blade. Thread the rug yarn through the holes from right to left. Leave three or four inches of yarn hanging down from the end.

Sketch a design on the burlap (tacks side down) or leave it free-form, as you like, being sure to draw a border around the edges so you won't hit the frame. Punch the blade of the rug punch through the burlap with a quick motion, then pull it up. You will leave a loop on the underside. Keep these rows of loops as close together as possible. It is easy enough to change the yarn in the punch when you want a different color. Depending on how much of one color you use you may want to get more than one skein of each color. When every inch of the burlap inside the border is covered, turn the frame over and depending on the texture you want, you can decide to snip the loops in half or not. That is your rug! Of course, it helps to check out the loops periodically; if you want to change something, just pull it out. Turn under the edges of burlap and sew them to the back with close, small stitches. Be careful that the loops do not get caught in the thread. You may want to get a stiffer backing, such as the stuff that looks like plastic screening or mosquito netting (do not use tulle). It is available in most yarn supply places, and is used as a backing for needlepoint. If you use it, cut it to fit the exact area of the rug. Put it against the wrong side of the rug, and when you turn under the burlap edges, sew through two thicknesses and through the holes in the screening.



NIXON IS MY SHEPHERD I SHALL NOT WANT

He leadeth me beside the still factories
He restoreth my doubt in the Republican Party
He guideth me to the path of unemployment for the party's sake
I do fear evil for thou are against me.
Thou annointest my wages with freezes so that my expenses runneth over my income
Surely poverty and hard living shall follow the Republican Party and I shall live in a rented house for ever.

5,000 years ago Moses said "Park your camel, pick up your shovel, mount your ass, and I shall lead you to the Promised Land."

5,000 years later, F. D. Roosevelt said, "Lay down your shovel, sit on your ass, light up your Camel, this is the Promised Land."

Today Nixon will tax your shovel, sell your camel, kick your ass, and tell you there is no Promised land.

P.S. I am glad that I am an American, I am glad that I am free. But I wish I were a doggy and Nixon were a tree.

Women's Caucus...

(continued from page one)

world altogether.

But one of the most striking aspects of the meeting was the evident tolerance of diversity. The half dozen men in the crowd were welcomed with sincerity, and Gerry Beluch, an undergraduate student who is trying to gain more support for the caucus from other students, even said that men are not to be excluded from membership.

During the panel discussion, a number of different points were made. Mary Wilson, a professor in Communications and Theatre, drew an enthusiastic response when she demanded a Day Care Center here, NOW and a woman in the triumvirate in the President's office. She wants a piece of the athletic pie to be used for Day Care and Counseling. She reported that the money collected in the vending machines around campus, about $35,000 a year, currently goes to athletic scholarships for males, and that this could be used for Day Care.

Karen Preis, an M. D. in the Medical School, warned women about the dangers of jumping on the movement bandwagon just to hang on to something. "The movement finally comes down to each individual," she pointed out. "You have to think about who you are and what you need. Change is scary. Be well informed, because when you take that step, you take it alone."

John Perry, a graduate student and the only man on the panel, got sympathetic laughs when he admitted, "I can't remember when I've ever stood before a group and been more frightened." He also pointed out that there are few issues in women's rights which aren't issues for men, too.

Career Placement

The On-Campus Career-Interview Program will be hosting the following employers in the Placement Office from February 5-15. All interested seniors and graduate students may sign up for job interviews. More information is available in the Office, Mansfield House, third floor.

February 5: Burroughs Corp.-Seeks: Econ., Bus., Acctg. Mutual of New York -Seeks: Lib. arts for Trainee & Direct Placements-U.S. Marines - Information Team will be in Billings Center.

February 8: Firestone Tire & Rubber – Seeks: Bus. Adm., Mktg., Lib. Arts.; Hartford Insurance - Seeks: Bus. areas and Lib. arts.

February 12: Hannaford Bros.- (Martin's Supermarkets)-Seeks Bus. areas, Lib. Arts; New England Merchants National Bank - Seeks: Bus. Areas & Lib. Arts; State Mutual of America - Seeks: Bus. Areas & Lib. Arts

February 13: International Paper Co. - Seeks: Chem, EE, ME, CE.; Sears, Roebuck & Co. - Seeks: All majors for training programs; Regional Adm. National Banks - Seeks: Bus. Areas.

February 14: New England Deaconess Hosp. - Seeks: Nurs., Med. Tech.

February 15: Aetna Life & Casualty - Seeks: Open major for positions in Life and Casualty operations; IBM Corp. - Seeks: EE, Phys., Chem. and Acctg. Fin., Mktg.

On-Campus Employment Interviews for the Week of February 19 – 23 (Recruiting Period Number 5): Arthur Anderson and Co, positions in public accounting; J. C. Penney Co., seeks buyers, accountants, and distribution trainees; Monsanto Co., engineering positions, Chemistry (3.0 average); Coopers and Lybrand, accountants, MBA with emp or more accounting courses will be considered.

Signing up for these interviews will be in the Placement Office, Mansfield House, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday on February 12, 13, and 14.

GET READY GO

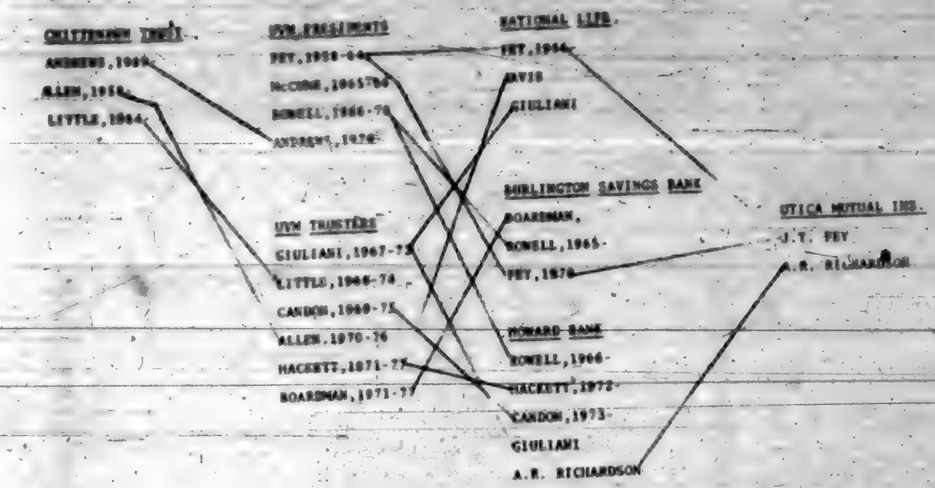
UNIVERSITY STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

Sale starts FEB 12

Records at Big Discounts!
Save up to $3.00!
Major label LP's! Top artists!
Many, many selections in this special purchase. Classics included!
Hundreds of records! Come early for best selection!

Who Rules The UniversityOf Vermont?...

THE PRESIDENTS, THE UNIVERSITY AND THE BANKERS



(continued from page five)

Howard Allen (again), President of Allen Agency Real Estate; familiar Robert Boardman of Hickock and Boardman Real Estate; Thomas Candon, who lists his major occupation as real estate broker and appraiser; Merritt Hewitt of Double TT Realty in Bennington; and Leonard Wilson, Director and Planner of Burley Associates from the Mad River Valley area of Waitsfield. These are among the folks who bring you such planning achievements as strip development, the Spear Street jughandle, ski area sprawl, exorbitant land prices and accompanying property taxes, and bankrupt farmers who can afford neither.

Our third group is the directors of manufacturing and distributing corporations. It includes: Harry Bolwell, director of the Midland Ross Corp., director of Cleveland Electric Illium, and director of Alliance Electric; Daniel Burke, director of Capital Cities Broadcasting, a media conglomerate in New York; Douglas Cairns, president of the Champlain Oil Co., vice president of the Vermont Petroleum Assn. (among the folks who brought us the four day week), and past president of the Greater Burlington Industrial Corporation; Howard Allen, who is also past president and currently a director of the same Greater Burlington Industrial Corporation; Paul Low, manager of the Essex Junction division of IBM; Bingham Humphrey of the Milfoam Corp., and last but not least Allen Eaton, who must, by even the most conservative of estimates, be considered the biggest fat cat on the board.

Trustee Eaton is director of the Quincy Market Cold Storage and Warehouse Co., which is a subsidiary of Beatrice Foods, an agribusiness outfit in Chicago which produces, aside from food shortages and 20 percent inflation for food, yogurt and Hart Skis. It must also be noted that Stowe skiing ace Billy Kidd is, in a manner of speaking, owned by the same Hart Skis. Among Eaton's other operations is the Central Vermont Public Service Corp., the great electric utility which announced in January that because its Vermont Yankee operation is such a bomb it'll have to raise electric rates again or fold. If they succeed with the rate hike, power rates will have increased over 30 percent in Vermont in the past three years. But there is more. Trustee Eaton is also director of Vermont Yankee, and who had the misfortune of having those radical environmentalists, the Atomic Energy Commision, lay a fine on the foundering Vermont Yankee during that same month for a nuclear "mistake", only the second such fine levied by the AEC against an atomic plant in its notorious history.

But there is even more. Trustee Eaton is a director of the Flintkote Company, a building materials manufacturer. Decembes-January must have been a really bummer month for him. On December 27, a Washington grand jury indicted six gypsum manufacturers for monopoly price fixing. They were U.S. Gypsum, National Gypsum, Georgia Pacific, Kaiser Gypsum, Celotex Co., and -- you guessed it -- the Flintkote Co. These six firms supply 90 per cent of the gypsum market, and were charged with conspiring for 13 years to fix prices over phones, mails, and at the conventions of the Gypsum Association. The exact Justice Department charge read "predatory practices designed to eliminate or otherwise contain competition." Naughty, naughty. Not only was the Flintkote Company indicted, but also three of trustee Eaton's fellows on the board of directors of Flintkote were personally indicted in the case: William Hunt, the former president, George Pecaro, the board chairman, and James Moran, the current president.

To add the final touches to trustee Eaton's woes, he also has the distinction of being a director of the Vermont Electric Power Company (VELCO) which has been under the gun of the Hoff Electric Power Commission, and whose "nationalization" has been suggested by South Burlington representative Brian Burns because it too is so notorious a ripoff.

Our last group of vested interests are the state "politicals", those who hold high positions in the state political machinery. The ten trustees who have at one time or another served in the legislature are generally members of the other aforementioned interest groups. They include Robert Boardman, Thomas Candon, Luther Hackett, Madeline Harwood, Merritt Hewitt, Carey Howlett, Arthur Jones, Timothy O'Connor, Francis Pelosh, and Louise Swainbank. Nearly half of this noble congregation are heavy politicians in their own right. Luther Hackett was House Majority Leader from 1966 until his gubernatorial candidacy, and who is incidentally joined on the UVM board by Tom Salmon, an ex officio member. Both, as mentioned, were bankers. On the opposite side of the party aisle is Thomas Candon who has served as House Minority leader from 1971 to the present, and who is, with Hackett, from the same Howard Bank! Trustee Douglas Cairns, former mayor of Burlington, is with the Republican State Committee and has served on that committee with trustee Madeline Harwood, who was also a member of the Republican National Platform Committee in 1964, 68, and 72. She was also vice chairman of the Republican State Committee from 1967-71.

The Democrats were not to be outdone in this porkbarrel scramble, however. Trustee Leonard Wilson, who was appointed by Governor Salmon, moved from the U.S. State Department in 1961-65 to the Executive office of the President under Lyndon Johnson from 1965-67, later to become chairman of the Vermont Democratic Party until 1973. He made it to the UVM board that same year, 1973. The bigwigs of both parties were finally assured a more or less equal division of the spoils.

This brings us to one of our last interest groups represented on the board: teachers. Louise Swainbank is the only teacher on the board, and she had to serve four years as a House Republican to get there. One measley educator on the governing board of an institution of higher education! Lest I be accused of overlooking another group, Charles Schechtman, an opthamologist, is a trustee, along with Casja Schumacher, a med student. And so the picture is complete. The AMA and tokenism are equally represented.

No students, faculty, staff, poor farmers, construction workers, working mothers, or average tax payers run this university. Instead it is run by bankers, insurance men, financiers, realtors, industrial monopolists and politicians. Needless to say, most of the trustees, with a few possible exceptions, come from the top five per cent income bracket, which means they take in over $17,000 a year, and possibly even from the top one percent bracket, those who get over $33,000 a year. This is especially remarkable in a state one-third of whose population is officially listed as poor, and for a university whose most distinguished alumnus, John Dewey, was a pioneer of the concepts of pluralism.

Do these trustees qualify because they pay the most in state taxes which are used to fund this place? No, many of them don't even live in Vermont, and the trustees who do live here come from the income bracket which pays only six percent of its income for state and local taxes, whereas those listed as poor pay ten per cent of their income for such taxes. Do they qualify because they are financiers providing indespensible services to Vermont? According to economist Lee Webb, Vermont banks send more capital out of the state than they bring in, thus impoverishing Vermonters for the sake of New York money markets. Or do they qualify because they provide the best goods and services? Vermont Yankee and VELCO can hardly serve the example. Is it because they run the University so well? Just look at the skyrocketing tuition, overcrowded dorms and classrooms, the low pay levels of faculty and staff, and the persistent threat of debt for the answer to that question. Perhaps the board of trustees is a supreme, secretive, and unaccountable body because it is composed of the rich and powerful in Vermont, those with the necessary resources and connections to buy up the University just as though it were a trinket on the marketplace which is offered to the highest bidder.

Infirmary Move...

(continued from page one)

August 1.

The new facility will be a great improvement over the present one, says Dr. Amidon. There will be an adequate waiting area and improved examination rooms, new X-ray facilities, and a full-time laboratory. The infirmary will be expanded to 18 in-patient beds, with two isolated beds for patients with contagious diseases. The new site will also provide better facilities for the Rescue squad, and for gynecology, orthopedic and physical therapy clinics.

The expanded site will also mean more office space for the staff, and a smoother flow for the 160-200 outpatients each day, enabling the staff to work more efficiently than at present.

Dr. Amidon also hopes to be able to hire a part-time doctor to supplement the three full-time doctors (including himself) who now make up the staff. He speaks optimistically of increasing the quality and quantity of the medical care, within and without the walls of the health service, and eventually serving the entire university community.

Women Sports Schedule

SKI TEAM- DIVISION I, W. E. I. S. A.
February 9 - 10, Dartmouth Winter Carnival, Hanover
February 15 - 16, U. N. H., Gunstock
February 22 - 23, Middlebury Winter Carnival, Snow Bowl
March 1 - 2, St. Lawrence Winter Carnival, Canton
March 7 - 8, W. E. I. S. A. Championships, Snow Bowl

SWIM TEAM
February 9, UMass, Away
February 16, New Englands, Orono, Maine
February 20, St. Lawrence, Home
March 1 - 2, Easterns, Springfield, Mass.

GYMNASTICS
February 9, Keene, Northeastern, Home - 1:00 p. m.
February 16, Nassau Community College, Home - 6:00 p. m.
February 22, at UConn, UVM, Salem State, Away - 7:00 p. m.
February 23, Plymouth, Castleton, Green Mountain, Home - 7:00 p. m.
February 26, Vermont State Meet, Green Mountain, Away - 3:00 p. m.
March 2, Tri State Meet, Home - 1:00 p. m.
March 14 - 16, Regional EAIAW Gymnastics Championships, Away

BASKETBALL
February 11, Vermont College, Home - 6:15 p. m.
February 13, St. Michael's, Away - 4:00 p. m.
February 15, UNH, Home - 2:00 p. m.
February 17, UMass, Home - 11:00 p. m.
February 20, St. Lawrence, Home - 6:30 p. m.
February 23, URI, Away - 11:00 a. m.
February 28, UConn, Away - 7:30 p. m.
March 5, Plymouth, Home - 5:30 p. m.

JV BASKETBALL
February 19, St. Michaels, Home - 4:30 p. m.
February 25, St. Lawrence, Away - 6:30 p. m.
February 27, Adirondack C. C., Away - 6:00 p. m.
March 2, Plattsburgh State, Away - 1:00 p. m.
March 5, Plymouth, Home - 3:30 p. m.

VPIRG Guide To Small Claims Court

The Vermont Public Interest Research Group, Inc. (VPIRG) today announced the publication of the VPIRG Guide to Small Claims Court, a ten-page booklet designed to help Vermont consumers utilize small claims courts. The booklet is written in simple uncomplicated language and contains a step-by-step guide to suing in small claims court without a lawyer. A VPIRG report released last year had found that small claims court in Vermont is used primarily as a bill collecting agency by businesses and that many consumers were even unaware that the court existed.

"Small claims court is the place for the consumer to go when he has a dispute of $250.00 or less with a business or repairman," said Barry Steinhardt, the VPIRG researcher who compiled the booklet. "You can bring most suits for under $3.00 and best of all, you don't need a lawyer."

Steinhardt added that small claims court rules are really quite simple and that the guide sets those rules out in an easily understandable fashion. The guide, he said, is part of a continuing effort by VPIRG to alert Vermonters to the existence and procedures of small claims court.

Copies of the guide (which have received the approval of Court Administrator Larry Turgeon) are being distributed throughout the state to small claims courts, legal aid offices, the consumer fraud division in Burlington, and to state's attorneys offices. Copies are also available from VPIRG, 26 State Street, Montpelier, Vermont.

Steinhardt concluded by reminding consumers that they can bring a small claims suit in the District Court in their county. The VPIRG Guide contains a list of all the Vermont District Courts, but addresses can also be found in the phone book under State of Vermont District Court.

Craig Erickson throwing the 35 lb. weight in meet a Track Result

by David J. Raner

Last Saturday, the UVM track team beat Bates College 67 51. The highlight of the meet was when co-captain Mike Berry captured the mile in 4 20.6 to set a new meet record and returned to win the 1000 yard run in 2.16.8 to tie a UVM record. The other UVM double winner was Bill Looker taking the long jump with a leap of 20'10 3/4" and the triple jump with a leap of 42'5¼". Two other meet records were accounted for in the UVM victory. In the two mile event a record was bro
Milligan with a of 9:26.0 and t
relay squad bett mark by three s

Other first Vermont were vault with M vaulting 13'0",
taking the 50
5.65 seconds an winning the hi
6.3 seconds.
competition for be on Februa
Vermont trav
Plattsburgh Inv

UNH Wins C Game

(continued from page one)

The first five minutes had seen three goals but the remainder of the period turned into a close checking, hard hitting contest with the play continually in the New Hampshire end. The UNH defense blocked a number of potentially dangerous shots while Buppert played exceptionally well in goal, robbing UVM time after time.

Clark got his first goal of the night at 3:53 from Hislop and Cliff Cox. UVM goalie John Kiley had made the stop on a two-on-one break but failed to cover the rebound. Kiley was taken out of the play by fallen skaters and Clark flicked the puck into the unguarded net.

Bill Spence received a two minute penalty for holding at the 5:03 mark and the potent UNH power play went into effect. Although play was continually in the Vermont end, Kiley made a number of fantastic saves and UVM killed the penalty.

The Catamounts came alive after Kiley's heroics and with the score tied at two apiece Willie MacKinnon scored his fourteenth goal of the season. The Cats had a two-on-one break and MacKinnon fed Bill Spence as a decoy and fired a screaming slap shot from fifteen feet to beat Buppert.

Five minutes later UVM pulled ahead 4-2 as Michel Lebeau and Chris Miller combined to beat Buppert. Lebeau carried the puck into the New Hampshire zone and an instant before he was leveled by the Wildcat defenseman he passed off to Miller all alone in front, who beat the UNH goalie to his left, waist high.

UVM seemingly eased up after Miller's go Anzalone ca right side of zone unguard Kiley on the make the Vermont. Tho
1:31 left in th and could turning point

UNH came the final turned from of the first t more open fa
of hockey.
went to the tripping at seconds, later deflected a Tim Burke
the score at well condit took control
score as they Cats for the contest.

The Cats opportunity defenseman.
out for tipp
Clark stole Vermont b around Te flipped a wr side of shorthanded steam out o and the definitely Hampshire.

Clark got 10:42 when one man d and Hunter highsticking scored whe
Cox came i
Cox passed to a hard w feet out to goal was the game to m failed to Kiley out

At Poorly Attended Meeting S.A. Recognizes Club

by Randy Jansen

The S. A. at its regular Tuesday night meeting, recognized the emergence of a new club, the UVM Wrestling Club. This and other matters were discussed and voted on at a poorly attended S.A. meeting.

Committee Reports

The Coordinating Committee report was presented by Sig Heller. The S.A. was told that the administration is considering three proposals for the 1974 fall academic calendar: 1. Go back to the five day week, 2. Maintain the four day week, 3. Maintain the four day week with Wednesday as the day off. The third provision was made in order for students and faculty to better utilize their time. The administration is awaiting student and faculty comments before making a decision. A decision will be made before the end of the month.

S.A. once again hopes to bring out "Albatross" with some good modifications. Not only will facts be presented, but more expressive students viewpoints too. Also, faculty and departmental surveys will be included. Fifty copies will be made and distributed around the campus for students' use.

Also Sig Heller related that the project to solicite art work for the university has produced some results! A $1500 painting has been donated to UVM by an alumni member.

The Elections Committee reported that Building E in Living/Learning has Bob Croteau as their representative while Patteson is now represented by Melissa Morgan. No candidate could be found, however, for Building D in Living/Learning which is now without a representative.

A recommendation by the Finance Committee that the S.A. allocate $200 to the Model UN Club was tabled. It was felt that more information on some details was needed. Student Photo Service received $360 for equipment.

Public Relations is currently involved with Winter Week. An information booth will be in Billings sometime this week concerning Winter Week.

In further action The UVM Wrestling Club was recognized by a unanimous vote. The purpose of the club is "to promote and participate in the sport of wrestling. The Wrestling Club also wishes to participate in informal intra-scholastic matches." No money was requested by the club.

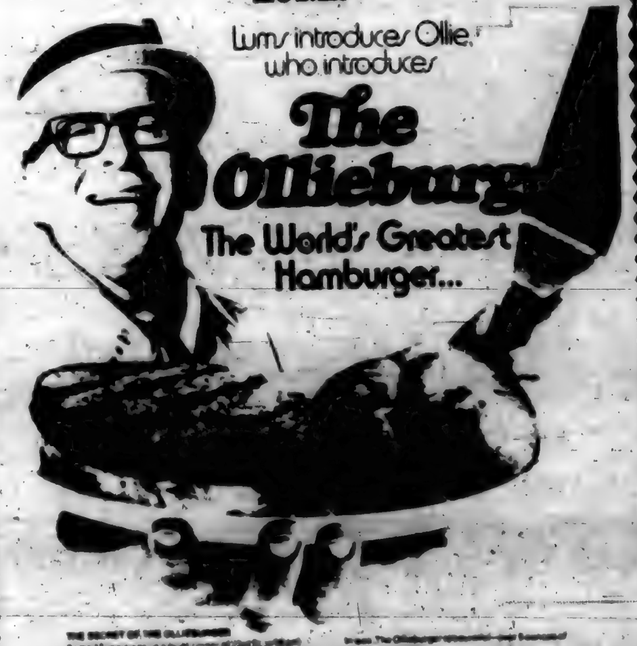
The S.A. has several important projects in the making. One involves the inclusion of + and - grade marks in the grade average. This will be recommended to the Faculty Grading Committee and/or the administration.

Currently the S.A. is pressing for student involvement in faculty tenure. The S.A. feels that students should be consulted in this matter.

Announcements made by Representatives

Student Activities is presenting a proposal to form a Tenants Council. This would deal with off-campus students and their problems. Petitions for S.A. President are now available in the S.A. office. The 1974 Year Book is expected to require $1000 for publication. Lastly, Redstone Campus is featuring Chess, Ping Pong and Pool competition until February 16. A Klondike race will be featured on Feb. 16. The meeting was adjourned at 8:30 by Stephen Rollins, S.A. chairman.

NOW APPEARING AT LUMS



Lums introduces Ollie, who introduces The Ollieburger The World's Greatest Hamburger...

THE SECRET OF THE OLLIEBURGER
Some 37 years ago in a quiet corner of [illegible] Ollie opened his own restaurant. Today he's known as "The Ollieburger Man" to his many friends. The Ollieburger has come a long way in Ollie's own kitchen to Ollie's own restaurant to Ollie's own hamburger. The World's Greatest Hamburger.
There's no secret to The Ollieburger. It's a big juicy hamburger with the works. For Ollie, a hamburger just will not do. Every Ollieburger is being prepared with the utmost care and concern that Ollie has developed in the thousands of Ollieburgers he's served in his restaurant.
Try The Ollieburger. You'll soon agree The Ollieburger is The World's Greatest Hamburger.

now at LUMS

This Coupon Worth 25¢ Toward the Purchase of an Ollieburger Today Thru Feb. 17, 1974

Williston Road -- Across from Airport Drive, Next to Robert Hall

The Good Courts!
Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons — Group or private • Step Action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den — Pro Shop — 24-Hour Stringing Service — Expert Advice • Open 8 AM-12 M Weekdays, 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS TENNIS CENTER
Assembly Drive, Dept. Rd.
Tel. 863-3400

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE
FANTASTIC SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS

SAID IN WHAT BO
50% OFF THIS TITLE WITH CORRECT
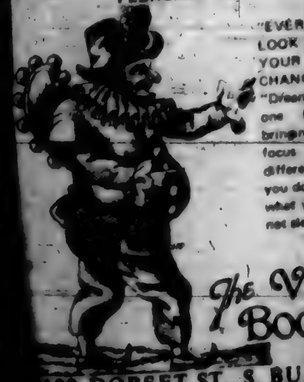
ANSWER. THROUGH
FEBRUARY 12, 1974.



"EVERY
LOOK A YOUR CHANG "Dream
one brings focus differen
you do what y not do

The W Boo

100 DORSET ST., S. BU

omen Sports Schedule

SION I W E I S A
Dartmouth Winter Carnival, Hanover
U N H Gunnick
Middlebury Winter Carnival, Snow Bowl
Lawrence Winter Carnival, Canton
I. S. A. Championships, Snow Bowl

, Away
England, Orono, Maine
Lawrence, Home
erns, Springfield, Mass.

, Northeastern, Home – 1:00 p. m. an Community College, Home – 6:00 p.

UConn, UVM, Salem State, Away – 7:00

outh, Castleton, Green Mountain, Home

mont State Meet, Green Mountain, Away

Away, Home – 1:00 p.m.
16, Regional EAIAW Gymnastics way

mont College, Home – 6:15 p. m.
Michael's, Away – 4:00 p.m. t, Home – 2:00 p.m.
, Home – 11:00 p.m.
Lawrence, Home – 6:30 p.m.
, Away – 11:00 a.m.
, Away – 7:30 p.m.
h, Home – 5:30 p.m.

Michaels, Home – 4:30 p.m.
Lawrence, Away – 6:30 p.m.
rondack C. C., Away – 6:00 p.m. gh State, Away – 1:00 p.m.
th, Home – 3:30 p.m.

G Guide To ll Claims Court

ost Public Interest Group, Inc. announced of the VPIRG Claims Court, klet designed nt consumers claims courts. is written in complicated contains, a ide to suing in urt without a VPIRG report ear had found ed primarily as ing agency by d that many e even unaware existed.

ne court is the consumer to go a dispute of lem with a sperman," said rdt, the VPIRG o complied the can bring most $3,00 and best don't need a added that cognizes Club

Relations is involved with All information be in Billings this week nter Week ction The UVM Club was y a unanimous ross of the club and participate of wrestling. The b also wishes to an informal ic matches." No requested by the has several projects in the involves the and grade e grade average recommended to olity. Grading and/or the

the S.A. in for student small claims court rules are really quite simple and that the guide sets those rules out in an easily understandable fashion. The guide, he said, is part of a continuing effort by VPIRG to alert Vermonters to the existence and procedures of small claims court.

Copies of the guide (which have received the approval of Court Administrator Larry Turgeon) are being distributed throughout the state to small claims courts, legal aid offices, the consumer fraud division in Burlington and to state's attorneys offices. Copies are also available from VPIRG, 26 State Street, Montpelier, Vermont.

Steinhardt concluded by reminding consumers that they can bring a small claims suit in the District Court in their county. The VPIRG Guide contains a list of all the Vermont District Courts, but addresses can also be found in the phone book under State of Vermont District Court.

Announcements made by Representatives

Student Activities is presenting a proposal to form a Tenants Council. This would deal with off-campus students and their problems. Petitions for S.A. President are now available in the S.A. office. The 1974 Year Book is expected to require $1000 for publication. Lastly, Redstone Campus is featuring Chess, Ping Pong and Pool competition until February 16. A Klondike race will be featured on Feb. 16. The meeting was adjourned at 8:30 by Stephen Rollins, S.A. chairman.

ERAGE AREHOUSE

Retail Outlet

STATE SELECTION BEERS, ALES AND ICES & IMPORTED WINES GREAT SAVINGS

Craig Erickson throwing the 35 lb. weight in meet against Bates.

Track Results

by David J. Raneri

Last Saturday, the UVM track team beat Bates College 67-51. The highlight of the meet was when co-captain Mike Berry captured the mile in 4:20.6 to set a new meet record and returned to win the 1000 yard run in 2:16.8 to tie a UVM record. The other UVM double winner was Bill Looker taking the long jump with a leap of 20'10 3/4" and the triple jump with a leap of 42'5¾". Two other meet records were accounted for in the UVM victory. In the two mile event a record was broken by Dave Milligan with a personal best of 9:26.0 and the two mile relay squad bettered the old mark by three seconds.

Other first places for Vermont were in the pole vault with Mark Iverson vaulting 13'0", Hank Meyer taking the 50 yard dash in 5.65 seconds and Tom Bird winning the high hurdles in 6.1 seconds. The next competition for the team will be on February 9 when Vermont travels to the Plattsburgh Invitational.

Women Cagers Win Opener 45-23

The women's basketball team got off to a flying start beating Vermont College 45-23. This was the first game of the season and looks like a fine season coming up. The second game will be played against Vermont College early this week. The high scorers of the V.C. game were Chris Morgan and Arlene Averill with 11 points each. The defense looked good with a lot of interceptions off double teaming.

Women's Basketball Schedule

Schedule
Feb. 11 – Vermont College	home – 6:15
Feb. 13 – St. Michael's	away – 4:00
Feb. 15 – UNH	home – 2:00
Feb. 17 – UMass	home – 11:00
Feb. 20 – St. Lawrence	home – 6:30
Feb. 23 – URI	away – 11:00
March 5 – Plymouth State	home – 5:00

Sports Briefs

● Trygve Rosleth, leaped 166 feet to win the jumpoff competition last Sunday in the Metropolitan New York ski jumping tournament at Bear Mountain. Rosleth is another Norwegian jumper on the UVM ski team.

● The University of Vermont women's basketball team won its season opener by defeating Vermont College 45-23 last Thursday. Arlene Averill and Chris Morgan each scored 11 points for Vermont.

● There were records galore for swim and track. Mike Berry set a meet record in the mile of 4:20.6 and tied the University Record in the 1000 yard run with a 2:16.8 clocking. Dave Milligan set a meet record of 9:26 in the two mile run in the meet against Bates in which Vermont won 67-51. Mike Kurt set three UVM records in a meet against UConn. In the 1000 freestyle he placed second in 10:53.9 and in the 500 freestyle he placed third in 5:13.5. He then joined teammates Mike Delaney, Mike Jacobs, and Dave Phelan to win the 400 freestyle relay in 3:22.1, another school record. UConn won the meet 59-54.

UNH Wins College Game Of The Year

(continued from page one)

The first five minutes had seen three goals but the remainder of the period turned into a close checking, hard hitting contest with the play continually in the New Hampshire end. The UNH defense blocked a number of potentially dangerous shots while Buppert played exceptionally well in goal, robbing UVM time after time.

Clark got his first goal of the night at 3:53 from Hislop and Cliff Cox. UVM goalie John Kiley had made the stop on a two-on-one break but failed to cover the rebound. Kiley was taken out of the play by fallen skaters and Clark flicked the puck into the unguarded net.

Bill Spence received a two minute penalty for holding at the 5:03 mark and the potent UNH power play went into effect. Although play was continually in the Vermont end, Kiley made a number of fantastic saves and UVM killed the penalty.

The Catamounts came alive after Kiley's heroics and with the score tied at two apiece Willie MacKinnon scored his fourteenth goal of the season. The Cats had a two-on-one break and MacKinnon used Bill Spence as a decoy and fired a screaming slap shot from fifteen feet to beat Buppert.

Five minutes later UVM pulled ahead 4–2 as Michel Lebeau and Chris Miller combined to beat Buppert. Lebeau carried the puck into the New Hampshire zone and an instant before he was leveled by the Wildcat defenseman he passed off to Miller all alone in front, who beat the UNH goalie to his left, waist high.

UVM seemingly eased up after Miller's goal when Frank Anzalone came down the right side of the Vermont zone unguarded and beat Kiley on the short side to make the score 4–3, Vermont. The goal came with 1:31 left in the second period and could have been the turning point in the game.

UNH came out strong in the final period and the game turned from the hard hitting of the first two periods to a more open faster skating style of hockey. Chris Miller was sent to the penalty box for tripping at 5:44 and six seconds later Dave Lumley deflected a slap shot from Tim Burke past Kiley to tie the score at four apiece. The well conditioned Wildcats took control after Lumley's score as they outskated the Cats for the remainder of the contest.

The Cats had a good opportunity when UNH defenseman, Joe Rando, went out for tripping at 6:53 but Clark stole the puck at the Vermont blue line, went around Ted Curtis and flipped a wrist shot to the far side of Kiley. The shorthanded goal took the steam out of the Catamounts and the momentum had definitely switched to New Hampshire.

Clark got his third goal at 10:42 when both squads were one man down after Koch and Hunter went out for highsticking. The goal was scored when Clark and Cliff Cox came in two-on-one and Cox passed to Clark who let go a hard wrist shot from ten feet out to beat Kiley. Clark's goal was the final goal of the game to make it 6–4. UVM failed to give up and took Kiley out for a sixth skater with 1:07 left but the Cat's could not make a good bid on Buppert.

Willie MacKinnon showed why he is a potential All-American with his tremendous stick-handling and smooth skating and freshman Michel Lebeau may make a few hockey fans forget Fred Hunt in the future.

Kiley had a total of 23 saves, while Buppert had 26, as both goalies played exceptionally well under fire. UVM is now 14–3–0 and 7–1 in Division II while UNH is 15–5 and 9–2 in Division I.

Kongsli Ties For First

Petter Kongsli, the Norwegian jumping ace for the University of Vermont skiing team tied for first place in the Ski Flying Classic in Iron Mountain, Michigan this past weekend. Kongsli tied a member of the U.S. Ski team, Jerry Martin, for first with a lead of 463 feet. On his second jump Kongsli was headed for the critical point of the landing which caused him to fall. However, the best jump of the two is counted and he was able to tie for first. This distance compares to one and one-half football fields. The time in the air is five seconds.

The competition in Michigan consisted of 48 of the best jumpers in the world representing eight countries. The crowd watching the event was estimated at 20,000. The next competition for Kongsli will be at the Dartmouth Carnival where the hill only measures 40 meters. Hopefully, the change in hill size from the 155 meters in Michigan will not effect the performance of UVM's star jumper.

UVM-BS...

(continued from page fourteen)

easy mark at 17:39. Murphy took a shot on the power play that bounced off Spence's skate and trickled across the goal line to end the scoring. It was a satisfying night for the Catamounts after their two close losses to UNH and B.U.

Coach Cross lifted Kiley in the third period and gave Tom MacNamara some needed time in the net. Michel LeBeau spent the last part of the game at the dentists after finding his tooth in the faceoff circle. Despite the injuries the Cats looked good with more good things to come. Three stars of the game: Mallette, Spence and Murphy.

BU Downs UVM...

(continued from page fourteen)

extremely fast and excellent passers. At this point, they appear to be the team to beat in Division I.

The defeat was the Cat's second loss in a row to a nationally ranked team. UVM is now 5-3 in Division I.

This contest and the one two days earlier versus UNH proved that UVM can skate with any team in the nation. They only lost by scores of 4-2 and 2-0 to two teams that have excellent shots at the national championship. On both games the Cats played aggressively and were in the games until the final buzzer.

SPEAKING OF HOCKEY

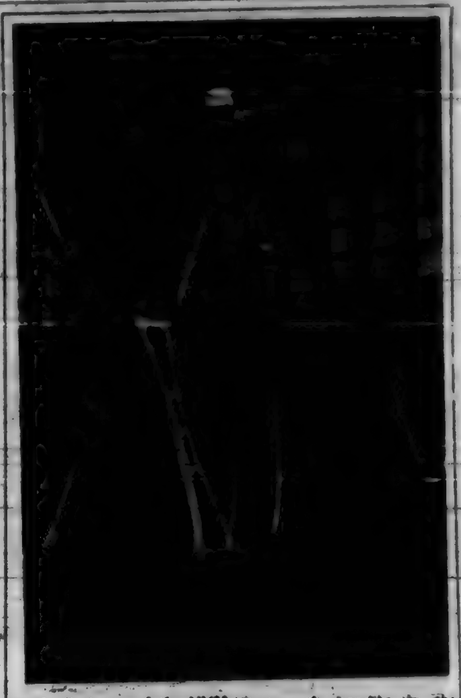
by Bob Wilenski

Last week the Ice Cats lost two very grueling contests to Number Two ranked New Hampshire and Number Three ranked Boston University. Both games were lost by only two goals: 6-4 and 2-0 respectively. Anyone who was able to obtain tickets to these games should agree that our hockey team can skate with any club in the country. Against New Hampshire the Cats forechecked the Wildcats to death in the first two periods to hold a 4-3 lead going into the final stanza. In the third period the Cats seemed to run out of some steam and just didn't get the bounce of the puck to go their way. UVM had about three shots go off the post and the UNH goaltender turned away many breakaways.

Against B.U. netminder John Kiely had a superb evening in the nets turning away 39 shots but UVM was unable to put the puck between the posts. The Terriers played an excellent defensive game only allowing the Cats 19 shots on goal, while captain Ed Walsh came up with some enormous saves to frustrate Vermont. The Cats were not ashamed of their performances and they have every right not to be. But the two games were definitely very frustrating for the team. They played excellent hockey, but couldn't get any breaks to go their way.

The B.U. game was costly in a different sense. Senior center Willie MacKinnon suffered a separated shoulder in the second period of that contest. At first it was speculated that MacKinnon would be lost to the team for the season. But after Xrays were taken there was some encouraging news. MacKinnon should be back in about two weeks which means that he will probably see his first action against Pennsylvania on February 18 if all goes well. Captain Ted Castle also injured his shoulder but should be back in action against Massachusetts.

The hockey season is now entering the home stretch with just nine games remaining on the schedule (excluding playoffs). Five of these contests are at home with the last game of the season (Norwich) at Gutterson Field House. So get out and watch the team while you still can.



Cindy Prehmus of the UVM Women's Swim Team shows good form off the diving board. The women beat Dartmouth handily in the dual meet last Saturday at the Forbush Natatorium.

Weiler Named Football Captain

Center Bob Weiler of Burlington, Vermont has been elected captain of the 1974 University of Vermont football team, it was announced January 17 at the annual team dinner held on campus.

Weiler, a 1971 graduate of Burlington High School, moved over from guard to center last fall and started every game. The senior science major succeeds offensive guard/tackle Peter Trono, also of Burlington, and defensive tackle John Hemphill of North Quincy, Massachusetts.

Weiler, 6'0", 218, is also a member of the Vermont swim team.

Other awards presented at the dinner included the top offensive back award to senior fullback Steve Coon of St. Albans; the top offensive lineman award to end Tony Jones of Baltimore, Maryland; the top defensive back citation, a deadlock between seniors Johnny Thompson of North Augusta, South Carolina, and Glenn Martel of Orwell; the defensive lineman to outgoing co-captain John Hemphill, and the sportsmanship/spiritual award to senior defensive back Frank Luisi of Bethpage, New York.

The Catamounts open a first-ever ten game schedule September 14 with Norwich, the first time the Cadets have been on the schedule since 1966. The remainder of the schedule follows: September 21-at Connecticut; 28-BOSTON UNIVERSITY; October 5-at Massachusetts; 12-at Rhode Island; 19-NEW HAMPSHIRE; 26-ROCHESTER; November 2 – at Maine, 9-NORTHEASTERN and 16-at American International. The University of Rochester is also a new opponent on this fall's schedule.

Women Gymnasts Place Second

The University of Vermont Women's Gymnastics team traveled to Albany New York on Friday to compete with Albany State and Ithica College. The UVM squad scored 54 points to place second. Ithica scored 66 points to win and Albany was third with 39 points.

Debbie Light placed first on the floor exercise with a 6.93. Sue Supovitz placed second on floor with 6.63, second on the balance beam with 6.47, third in vaulting with 4.85, and fourth on the uneven parallel bars with 4.57. Sue continues to perform impressively against all competition. Bobby Abrams scored a 5.0 to place third on the uneven bars.

The gymnasts travel to Keene State College in New Hampshire on Wednesday to compete against Keene and the University of Massachusetts "B" Team. U.Mass was number one in the Intercollegiate Women's Gymnastics in the United States last year. This Saturday, February 9, at 1:00 the girls will be performing at Patrick Gym against Keene State and Northeastern. It's free and an impressive size crowd will give the team plenty of support.

Send the FTD LoveBundle and the Extra Touch of Joie de Fleur perfume.

When she's there and you're here and it's Valentine's Day, send her the FTD LoveBundle Bouquet –tender blossoms and a satin heart sachet with a capsule of FTD's exclusive new perfume, Joie de Fleur. Call or visit your FTD Florist today. He can send your flowers across the street or across the country.

$12.50*

*Usually available for less than

As an independent businessman, each FTD Member Florist sets his own prices. 1974 Florists' Transworld Delivery Association.

"Your Extra Touch Florist"

Boothman's Flowers
28 Church St.
864-4509

Chappell's Florist
1437 Williston Rd.
658-4733

SAID IN WHAT BOOK?

50% OFF THIS TITLE WITH CORRECT ANSWER. THROUGH FEBRUARY 12, 1974.

"EVERY TIME YOU LOOK AT ANYTHING IN YOUR DREAMS IT CHANGES SHAPE". "Dreamlife is real when one has succeeded in bringing everything into focus. Then there is no difference between what you do when you sleep and what you do when you are not sleeping."

The Vermont Book Shop

100 DORSET ST., S. BURLINGTON

TORTILLA FLAT 317 Riverside Avenue

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

*Tostada Plate With Rice	$1.95
*Combination Plate Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans	$2.35
*Special Combination Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada Guacomole Salad, Rice & Beans	$3.45
*Tamale Plate Chili, Rice and Beans	$1.95
*Taco Plate (3) Beef and Chicken	$1.95
*Enchilada Plate (3) Plain Cheese, Beef and Chicken	$2.00
*Two franks and chili	$1.95
*Chicken and rice	$1.95

We Have Take Out Service

Telephone 863-9230

TORTILLA FLAT 317 Riverside Avenue

Where to find EXCELLENT VW SERVICE

McNASH Motors

AUTHORIZED DEALER

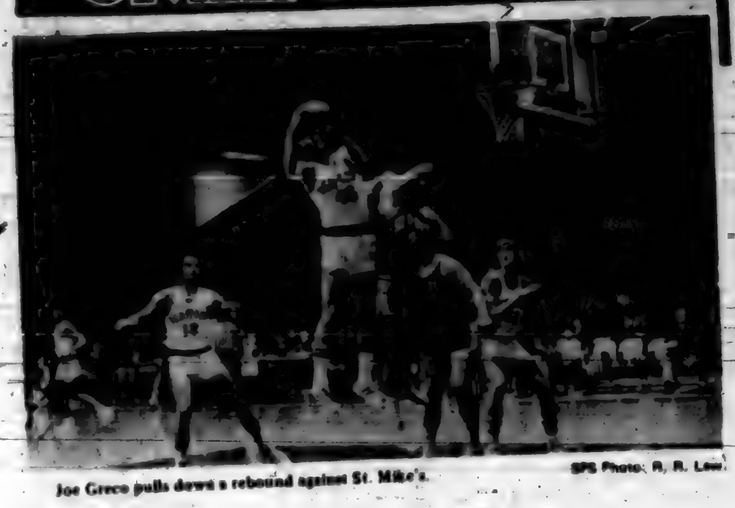
1325 Shelburne Rd.
658-1135

BODY SHOP

OPEN
MONDAY thru FRIDAY 8am to 5pm
SATURDAY 8am to 2pm

Courtesy Bus to UVM Campus daily at 8:30am

U.V.M. SPORTS



Joe Greco pulls down a rebound against St. Mike's. SPS Photo: R. R. Law

St. Mike's Wins In Renewal Of Rivalry

by Neal Gruber

Last Thursday night the Knights of St. Michaels College defeated the Vermont Basketball Cats by a score of 83-76. In the game, Fran Laffin, despite sitting on the bench for over seventeen minutes because of foul trouble scored 22 points, and tied the St. Michael's all-time scoring record.

The Knights defensed the Cats with a 3-2 zone which seemed to be effective, especially in the first half. The Cats had a difficult time working the ball into the middle and were forced to shoot from the outside. In the first half Vermont shot only 30 per cent from the field to 47 per cent for St. Mikes.

The Knights held leads of seven points several times through out the first half. Vermont closed to within one with 1:40 left in the first half when Terry Green hit a jumper from the baseline. Bob Hall of St. Mikes scored with 23 seconds left to give them a 34-31 first half lead.

As the second half started both teams traded buckets, then the Knights followed with five straight points and took a ten point lead. Greco got a hot hand and brought Vermont to within five points. It seemed as though the Cats were building momentum but they never were able to get the lead. This was the way most of the second half went. St. Mikes would get a large lead only to have Vermont cut it to four or six points, but they were never able to take control of the game and gain the lead. Just when it seemed that the Cats were gaining momentum, St. Mikes would score a couple of key hoops or the Cats would lose the ball on turnovers.

The Catamounts hit on 32 of 69 shots for a 46 per cent shooting percentage, and were 12 for 15 from the line. St. Michaels made 33 of 61 shots for 54 per cent and were 17 of 28 from the charity stripe. Vermont had a 40-33 edge in rebounds with Greco grabbing 18, Laffin was high for the Knights with 8 rebounds. Joe Greco had a strong game for the Cats as he had 27 points, 17 in the second half. Warren Prehmus added 20 for the Cats. Laffin was high scorer for the Knights with 22, followed by Hall with 18 points.

UVM Hoopsters Lose To Huskies

by Norm Robinson

The University of Vermont basketball team suffered its thirteenth loss of the season Saturday to Northeastern by a score of 66-60. It was a physical and sloppily played ball game as evidence by a total of 53 fouls and four players fouling out.

UVM exchanged baskets with the Huskies for the first six minutes but the cold shooting that has plagued the Cats throughout the season hit again and for nearly seven minutes the Cats failed to score. Northeastern pulled in front by 15 points. The clubs exchanged baskets throughout the remainder of the half and with the buzzer, the score was 36-24 in favor of Northeastern.

Joe Greco had a good first half with eight points but as a whole the Vermont quintet could shoot a meager 30 per cent while the Huskies shot 45.5. Jim Conners and Pat Ryan shared Huskie first half scoring honors with nine and John Barrows had six.

The second half settled down to a dull slow moving ball game from the start with the two clubs exchanging baskets as well as fouls and turnovers. UVM managed to throw the ball away ten times in the second half and Northeastern had 18 mistakes. The shooting improved very little in the second half and it appeared that the Huskies could keep the lead at ten or more for the rest of the game.

UVM moved into a full-court press with approximately six minutes left and suddenly the Vermont shooting touch came back. Keith Motley of the Huskies fouled out and Terry Green took control. Green hit a jumper from the corner followed by two foul shots and another basket. A minute later Green hit two straight jump shots and the lead was cut to nine.

Jim Conners had fouled out and his absence hurt Northeastern badly. Joe Greco hit two free throws and Warren Prehmus put in a jump shot to cut the lead to six but John Clark iced the game with two from the charity stripe.

Greco had high scoring honors for the Cats with 16 and Terry Green had 15. Ryan had 16 for Northeastern while Conners, Barrows, and Clark had 15, 12, and 13 points respectively. The home schedule continues tonight against Siena College at 8:00 P.M. After a couple of away games the home season will present future contests with Bates on February 16, Boston U on the 23rd, and the finale on February 27 against Middlebury.

Cats Claw Cadets 94-45

by Charles Grace

The Catamount basketball squad won their fourth game of the long season Monday night at the Roy L. Patrick Gym as they danced a military waltz around the Norwich University Cadets and toasted themselves with a convincing 94-45 victory.

The rout, coming two days after a disheartening loss to a Northeastern quintet in which the Cats played some of their sloppiest ball of the New Year, should be a very tasty treat for Vermont. They have managed a complete turnabout in the style and attitude that, marked last Saturday's match which drew forboding comments from mentor Salzberg, to a game of potent passing, pressing, and shooting.

For most, this game was a real laugher, and rightfully so for Vermont outclassed the "whoooshing" Cadets from the opening tip-off. With 15:26 showing on the clock in the first half, front court ace Joe Greco and Barry Cohen exploded with jump shots and layups for nine points giving UVM the lead for good, 13-6.

Around the ten minute mark, the Cat gunners set the nights again and erupted for 14 unanswered points with reserve Brian Donahue hitting two shots from downtown.

A handful of the crowd of about 600 left with Vermont holding a commanding 28-9 lead. Vermont's lead obviously kept growing, even with a quintet of reserves playing for Vermont. They were up 48-24 at the half and stretched it to 62-28, 80-35, 94-41, and the final score of 94-45.

Throughout the contest the UVM hoopsters were pressing effectively man-to-man, controlling both boards, and hitting a good percentage of shots. The Cats forced Norwich into 34 turnovers, they pulled down 38 rebounds, and they hit a deadly 58.1 percent from the field on 70 attempts (41). In their 14 losses and three other wins they did not put together this fine combination.

For the Vermont starters, Joe Greco had 11 points, Warren Prehmus, 8; Terry Green, 9; and Trapani, 10 points and 8 rebounds.

But contrary to the subtle, desk-chair opinions of some local sports personalities, the Catamount basketballers do have depth and good talent on their bench. Though one does not expect Gottschalk, Macias, Hargrave, Donahue, and Niles to wear holes through their game sneakers as reserves, they just might after their superb performance Tuesday night.

Sophomore reserve, Brian Donahue, a veteran of only five games this season, played a tremendous half-a-game and his 20-foot jumpers and driving bank shots gave him the high scoring honors for the Cats with 15 points. Ron Gottschalk also came off the bench and hauled in 7 rebounds and scored 13 points.

Bernie Palmer, the New York City junior, sat out the game in street clothes, resting his "playground knees" in preparation for tonight's big clash with Siena College. Siena sports another fine season and some equally good ballplayers; but another good all-around performance by Vermont could find them celebrating their biggest win of the season up and down Church Street. Don't miss it.

SCHWARTZ ON SPORTS

by Mike Schwartz

The modern world of sport has seen a tremendous growth in commercialization. The fan is really a fanatic or if he is called a spectator he is watching a spectacle. This past week the University of Vermont was part of the modern sports world. Burlington was home for CBS Eye on Sports, The New York Times, the Boston Globe, and Sports Illustrated. For a week, Burlington was a spot on the enlarging sports map. But no matter how derogatory the image of sports has become with its spectalization and commercialization, this spotlight on a small college team was worth the attention of the national sporting press. For as a headline in the Boston Globe said - "Vermont Only Sure Thing in College Hockey."

The buildup actually began last year with Willie MacKinnon's picture on the cover of the NCAA College Hockey Guide. It grew in January when the hockey team split a pair of games in spectular style in St. Louis. They found themselves the sixth ranked team in the nation and on the sports pages of the Sunday New York Times. In less than a month the next game of the year was being built up. The University of New Hampshire was number one in the East and second in the nation. As UNH kept on winning the Catamounts won seven in a row, although dropping to number nine. People were taking notice of the Division II team that won in a big way.

Indeed, the hockey team is unique in many ways. There is minimal scholarship help, something unusual in this era where winners do all in their power to recruit. But the winning tradition and the reputation of Coach Jim Cross attracts players to Vermont. They may not get the financial help but they do get a fair chance to play, to win, and to be a part of Mr. Cross. It is an unusual winning spirit to see in this day and age.

Now the work of the team was on the line against UNH. The fans lined up in the morning darkness to buy the few remaining tickets and by 4:00 p.m. they were on line again to enter Gutterson. The weather was unusually warm but hockey was the only thing on their minds. The gates opened and by 6:45, more than an hour before game time, the seats were packed. The chants of "Go Cats Go" and "V*E*R*M*O*N*T" began early. People noticed the TV cameras, the new press areas, and the many important people who gobbled up tickets for the game of the year. Even the fan who doesn't know what icing or the blue line is, became part of the spectacle.

The game began and the Cats performed well. They gained a 4-2 lead and upset possibilities were high. MacKinnon was showing why he might be the best center in the East. But then a goalie from Virginia named Buppert and a wing from Canada named Clark took control. Buppert shut the Cats out the rest of the way and UNH scored four in a row. Gordie Clark, the UNH Captain, scored a hat trick, showing his many talented skills. The UNH defense kept the lead with poised play. Vermont lost 6-4 but the college game of the year earned its title. As the game ended and the teams shook hands, the fans as human beings cheered just as loud as during the game, in appreciation of the fine play. Vermont had played well and was not embarrassed.

And two nights later when Boston University invaded Burlington, the same thing occurred. Without TV but still with tremendous press coverage a goalie named Walsh backed up by a tremendous defense and balanced forward lines shutout UVM 2-0. MacKinnon was injured. Willie may have played his last game as a Vermont hockey player but he has made his name known as a star. Again the Cats held their own against a team that had won its four previous games by 42-6. But the week of hockey in Burlington ended on a winning note as the Cats bounced back to beat Boston State, 8-2.

The Cats may or may not play in the Division I playoffs, but it doesn't really matter. They can hold their own against the best in the East. They have made Burlington a place on the sports map. And they made this past week a week to remember.

Ken Yeates is stopped by B.U. goalie, Ed Walsh. SPS Photo: J. R. Parker

BU Shuts Out Icecats

by Rick Steinberg

Playing controlled and near-flawless hockey, the Boston University Terriers turned back a determined University of Vermont squad 2-0 this past Friday at Gutterson Field house. The Terriers, who are presently the hottest team in the east, and possibly the nation, scored goals in each of the first two periods and then held the Cats off in the final stanza to preserve the victory.

The game was a costly one for the Cats as they lost the services of first line center Willie MacKinnon. MacKinnon, who sat out of three games earlier this season with a shoulder injury, reinjured it early in the second period.

MacKinnon was having an outstanding season. The Cat's leading scorer was averaging a goal and over two points a game.

The injury forced UVM coach Jim Cross to do some reshuffling. He moved Jack Clifford up to wing the first line, replacing MacKinnon at center with Bill Spence.

The two teams met earlier this season in Boston where the Cats upset the Terriers 7-6. B.U. avenged this early defeat by dominating the game despite a strong showing by the Cats.

Forechecking and backchecking extremely well, the Terriers were able to shut off the UVM offense while peppering UVM goalie John Kiely with 41 shots on goal. Kiely played a superb game while making numerous spectacular saves.

In the first period he kept the Cats in the game almost single-handedly. He turned back 19 Terrier shots while the Cats could manage 5 on B.U. goalie Ed Walsh, who also played an excellent game.

The first B.U. goal came at 12:49 of the first period. Defensemen Vic Stanfield started a break in the B.U. defensive zone and fed Bill Burlington at center ice. Burlington skated in on Kiely's right, and after moving behind the UVM net, took a backhand shot which deflected off a UVM player into the net. This was the lone goal of the opening period.

At 8:01 of the second period the Terriers increased their lead to 2-0 on a goal by Buddy Powers. Powers took a pass from Peter Marzo and scored with a hard wrist shot from ten feet out. The goal was set up by the aggressive forechecking of the Terriers.

Although they were shutout, UVM played an excellent game. But they came up against a team which played almost perfect hockey. The Terriers were particularly strong on defense and were able to totally stifle the UVM attack.

The Cats also had to face one of the best goalies in Division I, Ed Walsh. Although Walsh only had to make 15 saves, many of them in the final period were outstanding.

The Terriers have very few weaknesses and played controlled hockey. They are

(continued on page thirteen)

Cats Comeback Against B.S. 8-2

by Fred Coombs

B.S. was being thrown around Gutterson Field House Saturday night, as the Cats blasted the Warriors of Boston State, 8-2.

Playing without Willie MacKinnon and Ted Castle, the Cats got off to a slow start while Coach Cross juggled two lines: some new combinations were Clifford, Spence and Todd Brown, Clifford, Spence and Miller, and LeBeau, Colby and Brady.

With Boston State continually dumping the puck, it took UVM until 13:18 of the first period to score. On the powerplay, Mallette dropped a pass in front of Warrior goalie Doug Brooks, where Koch lifted it in from the middle of a crowd. Boston State got on the scoreboard when UVM couldn't clear the puck and John Caccamo fired a 15 footer, beating Kiely to his right side, at 14:25.

Again it was B.S., this time on a powerplay with UVM two men down. Caccamo scored on a rebound at 17:43, with Murphy and Rickard both off for tripping. It was not exactly fast hockey, as both teams had played numerous games in the past few days and were obviously tired. The second period was slow until 19:29 when O'Connell and Mallette set the stage for the third stanza. With UVM on the powerplay, O'Connell swept in front of the goal from the left side, passed back to Mallette who hung a helluva shot in the hemp from fifteen feet out. This tied the score up at 2-2 at the end of the second period.

While the first two periods were frigid, the third was positively orgasmic. The team hit the red light district with repeated scores. The Cats, making up for past frustrations, made a night of it on six big scores. It was sally-open-the-door on passes by Mallette to Koch to O'Connell, who guided it home at :43. A couple of good passes will turn the trick anytime. Five minutes later, Spence, behind the net, took the puck from Yeates and passed in front to Miller who whistled it in the web, at 6:46. Mallette, on a two on one break, lit the lamp with a 20 foot slap shot, at 8:54. Jack Clifford and Peter Brady scored at 10:15 and 10:51 respectively, to continue the raping, burning, and pillaging. Murphy set Spence up for an

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

The U.C.L.A. basketball team went undefeated for 88 consecutive games before they lost a few weeks ago. In the years to come I'm sure that that one loss will stand out in the players' minds more than any of the numerous victories that preceded it. We beat the University of Connecticut swim team a year ago. Last Saturday it was obvious that they remembered the loss and were determind not to have it happen again. When the final score was tallied, Connecticut was on the winning side of the score. Even though we lost the meet I don't think we could be described as losers. Several swimmers swam their best times of the year. Mike Kurt set individual varsity records and was part of a relay that set a third. Swimmers, coaches and spectators were treated to some of the finest diving competition in New England. And last, but certainly not least, the show of sportmanship by both teams, in and out of the pool, was most commendable. It almost made one forget about being a winner or loser.

This Saturday the team will continue a month of weekend roadtrips and will be traveling to St. Lawrence. On the following Tuesday, February 13, the swim team will have their last home meet of the year against Colby College.

PLANTASIA
10:30—5:30 107 St. Paul St
WE'RE RESTOCKED AGAIN!
Terrarium Plants & Containers
Decorative and Clay Pottery
Herb Seeds
ALL KINDS OF PLANTS
large & small flowering & foliage

DUNHAM'S
campus boots
MAZEL'S SHOE STORE
106 South Street

BOOK SALE!..
AT EVERYDAY.
HUNDREDS OF TITLES
Architecture, Locomotives, Poems, Literature, Animals, How-to Books, Design, Art, Cookbooks, Furniture, Antiques, Scupture, Flowers & Gardens, History, Comedy, Knitting and much, much, more!
BEAUTIFUL HARD-COVER BOOKS FROM $1 UP
EVERYDAY BOOK SHOP
106 Church St.—862-9191—Open Thurs. and Fri. Eve

CLASSIFIED

For Sale: 1973 — Datsun 2402, excellent condition 11,000 miles, loaded with extras. Contact Pam Leseard, 656-3201.

Ride needed to Manhattan, N. Y. C. on February 14 or 15 will share expenses and driving. Call Dael at 2196, Room 424.

Lost, gold wire rims, black athletic strap. If found call Pat at 656-4241.

Ride Needed, to and from University of Connecticut, Storrs leave anytime after 12:30 Friday, February 8 and return sometime Sunday or Monday. Will help with gas. Call Bill at 862-6832.

Chittenden County Denture Project congratulates UVM Student Bob Totten for winning color TV raffle Drawing.

Sugarbush Ski Weeks for Sale: 5 days of Lift Tickets plus one two-hour lesson each day. $45.00. $36.00 until February 15. Call Don at 656-2196.

1974 Cross Country Skis for Sale: never used, never mounted, original price $35.00 Now $25.00. Made in Finland — $18U. Call Don at 656-2196.

Lost, a golden retriever with no collar. Call Jessie at 656-3094

STEREO SPEAKERS— New three way Dusted Port speakers with 12 inch woofer; highly efficient with attractive enclosure. Two year factory guarantee. Special shipment. Fantastic discount, while they last. DYNACO KITE, ALSO AVAILABLE. Call John, 862-3814, anytime. Or ask for Gene at 656-3640, after 6 p.m.

VOLUME XCII
NUMBER 4
FEBRUARY 14, 1974

VE

Snelling Se

by Bruce Maddern

Cynic: Among your long list of credentials was the board of directors position for Chittenden Trust and board of trustees position for Champlain College. Do you see a conflict of interest especially in the fact that you were working for a different college a working fo Snelling board of d quite differ employee of resign positions. final decis

Commentary:

Watergate In

by John Franco

This weekend, the board of trustees w the nod of approval to President Andrew Mrs. Barbara Snelling as Vice President and External Affairs. In fact Mrs. Snel assumed the duties of that position, and has already been conceded by the Univers exercise.

The University's Public Relations depart churned out considerable ink in hail selection. President Andrews, in his f conference with Mrs. Snelling stated th delighted" with her appointment. He ou appointment was another case of how cronies of Vermont's ruling elite wind up posts at UVM.

President Andrews and the trustees are network of interlocking business director patronage that it boggles the mind! Presid the trustees do not simply represent p groups in the state, as demonstrated in this article, but are actually business and po whose interlocking web of power, privile almost defies comprehension. And Mrs integral part of this web. It's hard to know

Mrs. Snelling was chosen by President three finalists. The two others were Jackso McGregor. Hall and McGregor both h academic credentials. Hall received h Education from Cornell; McGregor h American Political Institutions from Colu currently an executive assistant to the Pre and has had some experience in university external affairs, serving on the Cornell Fund Drive, and working with Corn relations department. Mr. McGregor experience, [illegible] Development for the City of New York for the Community College of New York Fordham.

Mrs. Snelling, too, has had expe education, serving as a member of the board of trustees, as a trustee of Champla Burlington, and presently as vice chairma Education Board. In fact her position Board was questioned by some as possib conflict of interest. But State Educa Chairman Stephen Brandwein assured the was "no conflict." But Mrs. Snelling li qualification that neither Hall nor McGre sits on the board of directors of the Company with President Andrews and Little and Howard Allen. Not that Presid she were strangers, you understand. An Vice President Al Rollins and she all toge of governors of the Vermont Medical Chittenden is the important connection. Andrews who made the final selection, an the ones who will give it the final stamp o

Former S.A Large Profi

by Bruce Maddern

Following the rather uneventful meeting proper, Bill Root, Director of Student Activities, and Steve Decaesznak, S. A. Treasurer, told of Bill Sisco's profit making in the production of this year's advertisements for the Freshman Register.

Sisco, former S. A. President, took over production of the register, when Sig Heller declined. Sisco then sold contracts for advertisements for the upcoming Register. Sisco failed to collect all the G downtown 50 per cent estimated $1500 on venture. He apparently advertisements for the Register.

FEBRUARY 7, 1974

SPS Photo: J. R. Parker

Out Icecats

...me met earlier ... Boston where ...d the Terriers ...ged this early ...ominating the ...e a strong ...e Cats. ...ting and ...extremely well. ...ere able to shut ... offense while ...VM goalie John ... shots on goal. ... a superb game ...ng numerous ...ves. ... period he kept ...he game almost ...y. He turned ...ost shots while ...d manage 5 on ...rd Walsh, who ... an excellent ...

...U. goal came at ...e first period. ... Vic Stanfield ...ak in the B.U. ...e and fed Bill ...at center ice, ...skated in on ...t, and after ...d the UVM net, ...hand shot which ... deflected off a UVM player into the net. This was the lone goal of the opening period.

At 8:01 of the second period the Terriers increased their lead to 2-0 on a goal by Buddy Powers. Powers took a pass from Peter Marco and scored with a hard wrist shot from ten feet out. The goal was set up by the aggressive forechecking of the Terriers.

Although they were shutout, UVM played an excellent game. But they came up against a team which played almost perfect hockey. The Terriers were particularly strong on defense and were able to totally stifle the UVM attack.

The Cats also had to face one of the best goalies in Division 1, Ed Walsh. Although Walsh only had to make 15 saves, many of them in the final period were outstanding.

The Terriers have very few weaknesses and played controlled hockey. They are

(continued on page thirteen)

ack ...ainst B.S. 8-2

...O'Connell swept ... the goal from the ...passed back to ...o hung a helluva ...omp from fifteen ...his tied the score ...at the end of the ...d.

... first two periods ... the third was ...rgasmic. The team ...light district with ...scores. The Cats, ...up for past ... made a night of ...ng scores. It was ...he-dour on passes ...m to Koch to ... who guided it ...43. A couple of ... will turn the trick ...ive minutes later, ...hand the net, took ... from Yeates and ...oost to Miller who ... in the web, at ...otte, on a two on ...it the lamp with a ...lap shot, at 8:54.

Jack Clifford and Peter Brady scored at 10:15 and 10:51 respectively, to continue the raping, burning, and pillaging. Murphy set Spence up for an

CLASSIFIED

For Sale: 1973 – Datsun 2402, excellent condition. 11,000 miles, loaded with extras. Contact Pam Lessard, 656-3201.

Ride needed to Manhatten, N. Y. C. on February 14 or 15 will share expenses and driving. Call Dan at 2198, Room 424.

Lost, gold wire rims, black athletic strap. If found call Pat at 656-4241.

Ride Needed, to and from University of Connecticut, Storrs leave anytime after 12:30 Friday, February 8 and return sometime Sunday or Monday. Will help with gas. Call Bill at 862-6832.

Chittenden County Denture Project congratulates UVM Student Bob Totten for winning color TV raffle Drawing.

Sugarbush Ski Weeks for Sale: 5 days of Lift Tickets plus one two-hour lesson each day. $45.00. $36.00 until February 15. Call Don at 656-2198.

1974 Cross Country Skis for Sale: never used, never mounted, original price $35.00 Now $25.00. Made in Finland – SISU. Call Don at 656-2198.

Lost, a golden retriever with no collar. Call Jessie at 656-3094.

STEREO SPEAKERS– New three way Ducted Port speakers with 12 inch woofer, highly efficient with attractive enclosure. Two year factory guarantee. Special shipment. Fantastic discount, while they last. DYNACO KITS, ALSO AVAILABLE. Call John, 862-3814, anytime. Or ask for Gene at 656-3545, after 6 p.m.

...NHAM'S ... ...mpus ...oots ...EL'S SHOE STORE ... Church Street

...E!... ...YDAY. ...EDS ...LES ...ves, Poems, ...-to Books, ... Furniture, ... Flowers & ... Comedy, ...k, more! ... $1 UP ... and Fri. Eve.

VOLUME XCII
NUMBER 4
FEBRUARY 14, 1974

VERMONT CYNIC

'Tis A Privilege to Live In Vermont

University of Vermont
Burlington, Vermont

Snelling Sees No Problem With Interest Conflicts

by Bruce Maddern

Cynic: Among your long list of credentials was the board of directors position for Chittenden Trust and board of trustees position for Champlain College. Do you see a conflict of interest especially in the fact that you were working for a different college and now you're working for this University?

Snelling: First of all, the board of directors position is quite different from being an employee. I am in the process of resigning from several positions. I haven't made final decisions on all the positions yet, but I will have to get some breathing room. The long and impressive list of credentials was over a long period of time.

Cynic: What do you intend to do for now?

Snelling: I am going to stay on the Vermont Board of Education. I can see some position advantage in having close connection between Vermont elementary system and the university. I cannot see any conflicts in staying on with the state board of education because it's not a paid position; it only meets one or twice a month for a day. The Vermont state board of education is not responsible for any decisions about the university except approving applications for teacher education programs. If there was any conflict of interest, I would simply not vote as is the case with some members of the state board that are members of local boards. For instance, I was on a local school board when I started on with the state board. On the other hand if it appears to be a problem or any difficulties should arise, I will simply resign from the State Board of Education because I don't want there to be any conflicts or any appearances of conflict.

Cynic: What about your relation with Champlain College?

Snelling: I haven't yet made my decision about Champlain College. And since Dr. Broilette is away I think it would be a little unfair to them if I made a decision without talking to him. It's not in the interest of best relations to talk about it when he's not here.

Cynic: What about your

(continued on page eleven)

Barbara Snelling SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Commentary:

Watergate In Waterman? The Snelling Appointment...

by John Franco

This weekend, the board of trustees will assuredly give the nod of approval to President Andrews' appointment of Mrs. Barbara Snelling as Vice President for Development and External Affairs. In fact Mrs. Snelling has already assumed the duties of that position, and the trustees' vote has already been conceded by the University as a proforma exercise.

The University's Public Relations department has already churned out considerable ink in hailing the Snelling selection. President Andrews, in his January 18 press conference with Mrs. Snelling stated that he was "just delighted" with her appointment. He ought to be. For her appointment was another case of how his friends and cronies in Vermont's ruling elite wind up getting important posts at UVM.

President Andrews and the trustees are so immersed in a network of interlocking business directorates and political patronage that it boggles the mind. President Andrews and the trustees do not simply represent powerful interest groups in the state, as demonstrated in this writer's previous article, but are actually business and political associates whose interlocking web of power, privilege, and patronage almost defies comprehension. And Mrs. Snelling is an integral part of this web. It's hard to know where to begin.

Mrs. Snelling was chosen by President Andrews from three finalists. The two others were Jackson Hall and David McGregor. Hall and McGregor both have considerable academic credentials. Hall received his doctorate in Education from Cornell; McGregor his doctorate in American Political Institutions from Columbia. Mr. Hall is currently an executive assistant to the President of Cornell, and has had some experience in university development and external affairs, serving on the Cornell Centenial Capital Fund Drive, and working with Cornell's community relations department. Mr. McGregor also had similar experience, serving on the Commissioner of Housing Development for the City of New York, and as a planner for the Community College of New York. He also taught at Fordham.

Mrs. Snelling, too, has had experience in higher education, serving as a member of the Radcliff alumni board of trustees, as a trustee of Champlain College here in Burlington, and presently as vice chairman of the Vermont Education Board. In fact her position on the Education Board was questioned by some as possibly constituting a conflict of interest. But State Education Department Chairman Stephen Brandwene assured the public that there was "no conflict." But Mrs. Snelling had one important qualification that neither Hall nor McGregor possessed. She sits on the board of directors of the Chittenden Trust Company with President Andrews and trustees George Little and Howard Allen. Not that President Andrews and she were strangers, you understand. Andrews, Academic Vice President Al Rollins and she sit together on the board of governors of the Vermont Medical Center. But the Chittenden is the important connection. After all, it was Andrews who made the final selection, and the trustees are the ones who will give it the final stamp of approval.

The Chittenden Trust – "More Than Just a Bank." SPS Photo: Allan Sondak

Thus begins the complex tale of cronyism which pervades between the University and the Vermont power elite. The Chittenden, to a considerable extent serves as the focal point of this interesting network; a network which engulfs the Howard Bank, The Burlington Savings Bank, Vermont Federal Savings and Loan, National Life, Hickock and Boardman, IBM, the Union Mutual Insurance Co., the Central Vermont Public Service Corporation, Green Mountain Power, the S.T. Griswold Co., Pizzagalli Construction, the Snellings' own Shelburne Industries, and highest circles of the Vermont Republican Party.

Mr. Hilton Wick is the President of the "friendly bank" the Chittenden. He is also secretary of Shelburne Industries, where Barbara Snelling's husband is President and Chairman of the Board. So the Snellings and the Chittenden have a nice little symbiotic relationship going. You sit on my board of directors and I'll sit on yours. This same Mr. Wick is President of Vermont Bankers Association, and also sits on the boards of Merlin, Inc. and Wizard, Inc. with trustee Howard Allen.

One must keep in mind that the Chittenden is not just a Burlington bank, that it has 20 branch offices thoughout the state, which makes it easy to extend the empire along with the spoils. For instance, Mr. Thomas Soules is on the Chittenden's Essex Division Executive Board, and he is a top executive of the IBM division in Essex Junction. UVM trustee Paul Low is the top dog at Essex IBM. James Ritchie, the Operations Support Manager of Essex Junction IBM, is a director of the Howard Bank. The Howard Bank, you remember is the home of UVM trustees Hackett, Candon, former President Rowell, and former trustee Peter Giuliani. But we are, for now, straying too fr

(continued on page nine)

Former S.A. President Made Large Profit On Freshman Register

by Bruce Maddern

Following the rather uneventful meeting proper, Bill Root, Director of Student Activities, and Steve Decieznak, S. A. Treasurer, told of Bill Sisco's profit making in the production of this year's advertisements for the Freshman Register.

Sisco, former S. A. President, took over production of the register when Sig Heller declined. Sisco then sold contracts for advertisements to supposedly all the Greek Houses and downtown merchants for a 50 per cent commission. It is estimated that he made $1500 on the advertising venture. However, not to end the episode, it seems that Sisco failed to get written contracts for the advertisements and also failed to ask some of the sororities if they wanted to have an advertisement. Now the houses are being billed $75 when they don't have a contract. Fourteen of the sixteen fraternities did want the ads, but are now delaying payments because they don't have contracts, according to Root. A collection company has been secured by the publisher to foreclose on the bills. Sisco, in a discussion with Root, said that the publisher should talk to him instead of dealing with the houses.

Committee Reports

Steve Rollins, S. A. Chairperson, commented on attendence at the meeting. He claimed the average has been around 60 per cent. The Concert Bureau said there were about 400 tickets left for the Stephen Stills show on Friday. Ed Pasqualin then commented on Heller's decision to let the three new nominees for the Bureau vote before the Senate had a chance to approve their names.

President's Report

Heller once again brought up the discussion about a TV for Billings. He claimed that since last year's Senate voted on the TV it was not valid, since there is a new Senate. The Senate discussed the purchase and what happened last year and last semester.

Old Business

S. 46, which was the proposed allocation of $200 for the Model UN Club was tabled again. Last week it was tabled because investigations about possible speakers for the club had not been completed. The same thing happened since the last meeting, so, hopefully, by next week the investigations

(continued on page eleven)

Photo by William Curtis

Stills Show

Doors for the Stephen Stills – Maria Muldaur concert will open at 9:30 p.m.

Analysis:

Equal Rights Amendment Needs Five More States

by Barbara Frankel

The Equal Rights Amendment, has been, to this date, ratified by thirty-three states. In order to become a constitutional amendment, thirty-eight states must ratify it. Vermont, last winter, became the 33 state to approve the Equal Rights Amendment.

A memorandum prepared by the Citizens' Advisory Council on the Status of Women (March 1970) stated: "At the present time, the extent to which women may invoke the protection of the Constitution against laws which discriminate on the basis of sex is unclear. The Equal Rights Amendment would insure equal rights under the law for men and women and would secure the right of all persons to equal treatment under the laws and official practices without differentiation based on sex."

The proposed amendment deals with a variety of circumstances, which, under the present law, are discriminatory. Both men and women are more fully protected by this amendment. For example, according to the amendment, both sexes can be victims of rape, heterosexual and homosexual. Sharon Frink, of Vermont Public Interest Research Group, wrote in December 1972, "A statutory definition of rape will also be necessary since the common law definition does not include homosexual rape or rape of a man by a woman."

The amendment is also concerned extensively with abortion, equalization of job opportunities, allowing women to retain their maiden names, changing names which discriminate, such as "dependent or economically liable spouse" instead of "wife" in real estate transactions; equalization of social security benefits; allowing men and women the same opportunities to be drafted and to serve on juries, etc.

Another field which the amendment deals with is education, especially higher education. Nowhere does the Constitution guarantee a woman's right to education, as it does for men. Many schools require females to comply with much stricter admission standards than men. Federal scholarships also discriminate against women. Vocational schools also limit and/or restrict women from certain courses.

In 1870, one third of college faculty were women. Today, less than one/quarter are women. At the nation's ten largest universities, less than 10 per cent of the faculty is female. Many colleges claim there just "aren't enough qualified women around to hire." A higher percentage of women with doctorates apply for college teaching positions than men. Additionally, women earn substantially less and wait longer for promotion.

(continued on page twelve)

Mallary

Congressman Richard Mallary has accepted the UVM Student Association's Speakers Bureau invitation to address their Public Affairs Forum. Speaker Bureau Chairman Richard Cassidy announced today that Mallary will speak Monday, February 18 at 8 p.m. in Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Science Building.

According to his office, Congressman Mallary's topic will be Current Events in Washington.

Congressman Mallary, Vermont's only member of the U.S. House of Representatives, serves on both the Government Operations and Post Office and Civil Service Committees.

The Representative is in his first full term of office after having served out the remainder of former Congressman Stafford's term.

All Forums are free and open to the public.

Winter Weekend Schedule

Friday, Feb. 15 STEPHEN STILLS & MARIA MULDAUR, 10 p.m., Patrick Gym

Saturday, Feb. 16 SKIT NIGHT ON ICE – Judging of all student skits 6:30 - 8:30 p.m., Gutterson, FREE

Saturday, Feb. 16 X–COUNTRY TOUR, 9 p.m., Meet in front of Gutterson

Sunday, Feb. 17 ALL CAMPUS DANCE – MAT Cafeteria, admission $.50, featuring Axis.

Monday, Feb. 18 ICE CREAM MAKING CONTEST – 2 p.m. at Living/Learning Center – I.R. A.

Monday Feb. 18 BIG BROTHER/LITTLE BROTHER & BIG SISTER/LITTLE SISTER Sledding at Country Club – Afternoon

Monday, Feb. 18 SPECIAL MOVIE/MONDAY MATINEE – B.C.G.B., North Lounge – Billings Center

BUSES TO SKI AREAS – CALL 2068 FOR INFORMATION.

Tuesday, Feb. 19 KLONDIKE RACE – See Matt Jones, Hamilton Hall, ext. 2612.

Tuesday, Feb. 19. VARIETY SHOW – North Lounge, Billings, 8:30 p.m. B.C.G.B.

Thursday, Feb. 21 SKI MOVIES – SPECIAL DEMONSTRATION FILMS and shorts – Kate Eisenberg – ext. 3896

Friday, Feb. 22 ICE SHOW 7:30 - 9 p.m., Gutterson, Special show, skits, figure skating, etc. Kathie Ryan, Kappa Alpha Theta

Friday, Feb. 22 ROUND HOUSE–BILLINGS CENTER – 9-12 p.m.

Saturday, Feb. 23 SNOW SCULPTURE JUDGING (Theme "Winter Traditions") For all Res. Halls, Fraternities and Sororities. 12 noon – Trophies awarded at ICE SHOW.

Saturday, Feb. 23 ICE SHOW 7:30 – 9 p.m., Gutterson – 2nd big night.

Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 23 and 24 at Living/Learning Center IRA WINTER CITY EXHIBITS, OLD TIME PICTURES OF UVM, PHOTO CONTEST "WINTER TRADITIONS" AND ART EXHIBITS

Reverend's Word Comes Here A New Religious Revival?

by Kathy Strasni

Reverend Sun Myung Moon has "a message which has caught the imagination of young Christians in over 40 nations..." During the past week the UVM campus and the streets of Burlington have been peopled with many of the 70 young international members of an International One World Crusade Team. This team is one of seven mobile units travelling nationwide to represent the Unification Church. Their purpose is to arouse interest in America in the beliefs of the Church's founder, Korean minister and teacher, Reverend Sun Myung Moon.

"Christianity in Crisis" is the theme of Rev. Moon's talks around the nation during his 1974 Day of Hope tour to more than 32 cities from February 16 to April 20. He has already brought his message to 21 cities in 18 states during the 1973 Day of Hope talks and will now speak in each of the remaining 38 states. He sees new hope and tells why in his three topics, "God's Hope for Man," "God's Hope for America," and "The Future of Christianity." Reverend Moon will be speaking in Burlington on February 18 at the Ramada Inn.

Though this will be Reverend Moon's first visit to Burlington, the Unitarian Church has been active here for over a year. The members have a center on George Street and an organization on campus called C.A.P.E., the Collegiate Association for Principled Education. C.A.P.E. has lectures regularly on Tuesday and Thursday nights in Billings and workshops for those anxious to expand their understanding of alternative methods of believing and living. In anticipation of Reverend Moon's visit, members from the George Street center are working with the mobile team to publicize the Unification Church's activities. They have talked to many professors and have set up a display table in Billings.

The movement has been described by the Washington Star News as "the fastest-growing religion in the world." The Unification Church claims 2 million members world-wide with 10,000 supporters in the United States. Reverend Moon has been in the spotlight of the American news media as a result of his controversial "Watergate Declaration." Following are some of the thoughts Reverend Moon emphasized during his Watergate Statement, which was

(continued on page eight)

Featured This Week

Bar Review-The Last Chance...p.10

Encore Editor Conducts Workshop...p.7

Table Of Contents

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT.....P. 6
CALENDAR ANNOUNCEMENTS.....P. 2
CROSSWORD PUZZLE.....P. 13
DOCTOR'S BAG.....P. 10
EDITORIAL.....P. 4
OP. ED.....P. 5
SPORTS.....P. 16

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar's Remarks

We are now four weeks into the new semester of classes Tuesday thru Friday and we would like you, the student, to tell us how you feel about the revised class meeting week. On a sheet of paper express your feelings and drop it off at the Registrar's Office, in a drop box, at your convenience. No signatures are required, just how do you like class schedules? A little of your time will be greatly appreciated by those of us in the Registrar's Office who work with your schedules.

"L- 'Histoire du Soldat"

At the invitation of the University of Vermont Music Department, a group of Middlebury College dancers and musicians, directed by George Todd, chairman of the Music Department at Middlebury, will present a fully-staged performance of Igor Stravinsky's "L'Histoire du Soldat." The performance will be at 8 p.m. February 21 in the Ira Allen Chapel and is free to the public.

This represents an unusual opportunity to see in its original form a famous 20th Century music and dance masterpiece.

NOW FORMING
WEEKLY ENCOUNTER GROUPS
(Growth Groups)
for beginners and experienced persons
10–12 weekly sessions
NO CHARGES
For information Contact
THE NEXT THING
148 South Williams Street
UVM Ext. 3340 or 862-2013
a federally-funded educational project

Billings Variety Show

Tuesday, February 19, the Billings Center Governing Board presents "Billings Variety Show" in the North Lounge of Billings Center at 9 p.m. Entertainment includes comedy, music, Tip Toey, and the Sin City Ramblers. Admission is free.

Ariel

Thursday, February 28 is the last day yearbooks can be picked up at the Ariel Office which is located on the bottom floor of Billings Center. The Ariel is free to seniors and juniors and is available to freshmen and sophomores at the price of $1.00. The Ariel is desperately in search of all students interested in writing articles concerning the University of Vermont Events, college life, or contemporary issues. Interested students should call 2056 or come to the Ariel Office any afternoon.

Wrestling Club

The Wrestling Club meets on Saturday and Monday at noon, Tuesday at 7 p.m., and Thursday at 5 p.m. All wrestlers and people who are interested in wrestling are welcome. For further information call Randy Jansen at 656-2913.

Mid-Winter Costume Ball

Tired of being your same old self? Be somebody else at the gala MID WINTER COSTUME BALL, to be held in the new Royall Tyler theater on Saturday, February 23, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dance by candlelight to the music of the Dave Moore Four Ensemble, or mingle incognito to the strains of the University String Ensemble. Refreshments will be provided, along with a number of entertaining "floor shows." Admission is free and all are invited, but reservations are required. These can be made after February 19 at the theater (old ROTC building), or at Billings. For further details, call extension 2094, but in the meantime, start rummaging to get decked out for the biggest bash of the year!

Nuclear Power

On Thursday, February 14, the Vermont Public Interest Research Group will sponsor an evening discussion of nuclear power. Gene Beaudoin, coordinator of research for VPIRG will discuss the report on nuclear power done by UVM students in coordination with the VPIRG staff. A film will also be shown entitled How Safe Are America's Nuclear Reactors. The various aspects of nuclear power will be discussed after the film including: nuclear insurance, the emergency core cooling system, thermal pollution, accidents, sabotage, alternatives, the liquid metal fast breeder reactor, waste disposal, and others. Another part of the discussion will involve the bill H441 which deals with the siting of additional nuclear power plants for Vermont.

Tenants' Forum

The UVM Tenant's Council is attempting to establish a weekly tenants' forum in the Cynic. They are seeking student input in the form of questions in any area of tenants' concern. Representative questions will be answered in this column, but all questions will receive answers to the best of their ability. They have also acquired the services of a local attorney, who has promised to advise when legal problems are involved.

Experience

Experience an Experience will discuss Oral Interpretation and Movement Monday, February 18 at 7 p.m. in room 201 Pomeroy. Open readings and discussion will be welcomed. For further information call 864-5043.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14

7 p.m., Chess Club meeting, fifth floor, Waterman Bldg.

7 p.m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship meets, Bldg. A, Rm. 131, Living/Learning Center.

7 to 10 p.m., The Next Thing offers a workshop on "Women's Survival Training for Separation and Divorce," with Sandy Baird, Joan Rising, and Martha Whitehorn, at 73 Church St. Phone 862-2013 for more details and reservations.

7:30 p.m., CAPE weekly meeting, conference room C, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board presents poet Charles Cameron, North Lounge, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Ray Plankey, who will talk about his experiences in Chile, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 to 9:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop in "Communications Training," with Mike School, Room 102, Bldg. E, Living/Learning Center. Phone 862-2013 for reservations, details.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., more or less, SAFilms presents a Marlon Brando series — "A Streetcar Named Desire," with Karl Malden, B106 Cook Bldg. admission 75 cents. Starting times vary with the length of the film. See posters for details or phone ext. 2068.

8 p.m., L'Amicale Francaise presents "Les Main Sales" with English subtitles, Johnson Auditorium (Room 101), Votey Building. Admission $1 with UVM I.D., $1.25 general.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 15

8:30 a.m. — 3:30 p.m., committee meetings of Board of Trustees, Memorial Lounge.

3-5 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Individual Counseling Styles," with Dr. Kay Schmucker, 146 S. Williams St., phone 862-2013 for reservations and more details.

7:15 p.m. discussion group at Burgess Hall lounge, open to any student interested in raising questions about faith, religion, church or life as a student. Discussion led by Chaplain Odie.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., (more or less), SAFilms presents Humphrey Bogart series, "High Sierra" with Ida Lupino. B106 Cook Hall. Admission 75 cents. Times of showings vary due to different lengths of films. See posters for details or call ext. 2068.

8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick. Everyone welcome.

10 p.m., Stephen Stills and Maria Muldaur, Patrick Gymnasium. Tickets at the University Store and Bailey's Music Rooms, Church Street.

Last day for changes from credit to audit, and for withdrawal from Evening Division courses without academic penalty.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 16

8:30 a.m., Board of Trustees meets in Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. ETV begins weekend broadcasting.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 17

8:30 a.m., SAFilms, "silent cinema classics" presents "Siegfried" (German) North Lounge, Billings Center; admission free.

8 p.m., James Chapman will give inaugural recital on new organ at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, Burlington.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 18

Opening in Everyone's Gallery, Building B, Living/Learning Center, "A Soft Show." Free admission, refreshments. Works in touchable, bendable, meltable materials, by Burlington friends and neighbors.

3:45 p.m., Richard Rosen will address zoology seminar, Room 105, Life Science Building.

8 p.m., SAFilms, "Swashbucklers, Archers, and Other Good Guys" series presents "The Lives of the Bengal Lancers" with Gary Cooper, North Lounge, Billings Center, admission free.

2 and 4 p.m., first in a series of Monday matinees, Billings Center Governing Board presents, "A Boy Named Charlie Brown" in the North Lounge of Billings Center. Admission is 25 cents.

8 p.m., Rep. Richard Mallary will address Public Affairs forum, Benedict Auditorium, Life Sciences Building.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19

4:10 p.m., College of Agriculture faculty meeting, B112 Cook.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for Bible inquiry and gospel music, library lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls. For further information call Sue K. at ext. 2952.

7:30 p.m., German film, "Der Schimmelreiter," sponsored by the German Club, 101 Votey, Johnson Auditorium. Admission is free.

8 p.m., SAFilms "Alfred Hitchcock series" presents "Rebecca" with Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine B106 Cook Building, admission free.

8 p.m., Ambalalla, folk dance. Lane Series presentation, Memorial Auditorium.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20

8 p.m., SAFilms, "Shakespeare on Film," offers "Hamlet" with Sir Laurence Olivier, also excerpts from a screen test by John Barrymore for his projected "Hamlet." 101 Votey. Admission $1.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21

12:15 to 1:15 p.m., Women's Caucus presents Dolores Rudolph, communication and theatre, on "Income Taxes," in a question and answer session aimed at helping women but open to all who are interested.

Annual Skit Night

On February 16 in the Gutterson Field House, the first Annual Skit Night will be held. Skit night will include any University student or faculty member who wishes to enter the competition and present a skit on ice with a time limit of five minutes. Three trophies will be awarded to the best men's, women's and mixed performances. The three best overall skits will appear in the University of Vermont's first Annual Ice Show which will be held on Friday and Saturday, February 22 and 23 from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Skits may be practiced any time during student skating at Gutterson or on the basketball court behind the W.D.W. Rehearsal will be held Friday, February 15, at Gutterson from 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. for entered skits only.

Skit night will be held in Gutterson Field House from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome!

VALUABLE COUPON
SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS
10% DISCOUNT
ON YOUR PURCHASES AT
CAMPUS PHARMACY
ACROSS FROM
The Medical Center

A New, Free Service
VERBAL AND NON-VERBAL COMMUNICATIONS GROUPS
for people in your dorm, fraternity, or your off-campus apartment
LEARN HOW TO LISTEN, HOW TO HELP YOUR FRIENDS, HOW TO FIGHT FAIR, HOW TO SHARE FEELINGS, TRUST OTHERS, AND ENJOY LIVING TOGETHER!
SKILLED, experienced Facilitators are available, at no cost, from:
THE NEXT THING (ext. 3340)
148 South Williams Street
A federally-funded educational project.

HUMILIATE
No one does that.
WEIGHT WATCHERS
Tuesday — St. Anselms Chapel — 12 Noon. For further information call 658-1920, 171 Church Street, Burlington

C.A.P.E.

Collegiate Association For Principled Education (C.A.P.E.) is sponsoring the Reverend Sun Myung Moon who will be speaking on "The New Future of Christianity" at the Ramada Inn on Monday, February 18 at 8 p.m. For complimentary tickets call 863-1210.

DOMINO'S PIZZA
MONDAY NIGHT SPECIAL
4:30 pm to 7:00 pm
864-7444 WILLISTON ROAD
658-3333 N. WINOOSKI AVE
FREE DELIVERY
$1.00 off a LARGE PIZZA except large plain
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
1 coupon per pizza
Good for Feb. 11, 18, 1974
MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm
50c off a SMALL PIZZA except small plain
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
1 coupon per pizza
Good for Feb. 18, 25, 1974
MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm

FOREST HILLS OUTLET
WINOOSKI VT.
WEST CANAL ST.
SHOP DAILY 9 AM to 10 PM
ACCOMPANIED BY THIS COUPON
50% off
on photo finishing
GOOD UNTIL MARCH 5
Complete line of darkroom accessories

DISCIPLESHIP
IS A TOTAL WAY OF LIFE
EDMUNDITE
TO BE THE PRESENCE OF CHRIST, THROUGH THE VISIBLE WITNESS OF A SMALL COMMUNITY SERVING THE CHURCH'S MISSIONS & EDUCATION
SINGLE CATHOLIC MEN BETWEEN 17-30 SHOULD WRITE TO
DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS THE SOCIETY OF SAINT EDMUND MYSTIC, CONNECTICUT 06355

DOMINO'S PIZZA
50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA
Name
Address
Phone
864-7444 Williston Road
658-3333 No. Winooski Ave
Void if not completed
Expires Feb. 20, 1974
1 Coupon per pizza

Student Advi... Committee

The Student Advisory Committee of the College of Arts & Sciences functions as the mechanism for realistic communication among students, faculty and administrators.

I. The Committee provides an open channel for direct student input into the administrative system of the College.

II. The Committee serves as a vehicle for the collection and dissemination of information vital to student concerns.

Without active participation, few student ends can be effected.

Students of the College of Arts & Sciences are encouraged to make their feelings known to the representatives of their respective departments, as well as attend the open meetings.

If you h... concerning ... representati... related affa... Bill Wachte... the Stu... Committee ... Arts and... 862-0340. ... list of all ... department ... will be publ...

Boyco...

Vermont... the United... strike will ... Lewis Jun... Saturday m... 10 a.m. Th... picket in to... for a ... non-union ... sells three ... lettuce wh...

Art Departm...

The University of Vermont's Art department is sponsoring an art program for children of the Burlington community this spring semester. The classes are designed and taught by art education students involved in a curriculum and practice course.

Some of the classes are:

MUSEUM EXPLORATION. Every other Sunday, 1 to 4 pm. This course offers an opportunity to explore the Fleming Museum in a non-traditional way. Museum collections used as starting point for creative projects. Ages 9 through 12 years.

MULTI-MEDIA. Monday, 7 to 8:30 pm. Encourages creative expression and visual awareness through a variety of media. A... MULTI ME... 4 through ... above. +No... 8 years.

POTTERY. ... Tuesday, 4 ... An introd... through an ... formation, ... properties ... on hand-bu... slab and co... through 17 ... 2D DESIG... through 9 p... design thro... printing ... linoleum ... silkscreen ... be included ... 17 years. ... SILKSCR...

Library Plan...

The Library Planning Council, which is working toward the design of additional library facilities, currently solicits suggestions, ideas, conceptions, etc., from members of the University community. The major role of the Plan... continuing ... most ... within the ... and thus ... notion ... additional ... space ... Studen... administrat... have a vi... University's ... Planning ... urges anyo... general, ... recomme... example: ... provide sp... rooms, dep... rooms, roo... audiovisual ... etc.?) to su... member of ...

Civil Engineers

The American Society of Civil Engineers will meet Thursday February 14 at 7 p.m. in room A101 Living/Learning Center. The Speaker Wayne Woodward from Milton will talk on sanitary land fill.

Aid to e...

It's the rea...
Coca-Cola Bottl...

S

...Esther Chadwick will give inaugural recital on new ...the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, Burlington
MONDAY FEBRUARY 18 -
...g to Everyone's Gallery Building B, ...rning Center. "A Stiff Shake" Free admission, ...ast. Works in touchable, bendable, meltable ...by Burlington friends and neighbors
...m., Richard Rosen will address zoology seminar, ...S Life Science Building
...$4.5 film, "Bachelorettes, Artifacts, and Other ...s" series presents "The Lives of the Bengal ...with Gary Cooper, North Lounge Billings Center, ...free
...4 p.m. first in a series of Monday matinees, ...enter Governing Board presents, "A Boy Named ...," in the North Lounge of Billings Center. ...is 75 cents
...Rep. Richard Mallary will address Public Affairs ...mediate Auditorium, Life Sciences Building.
- TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19
...m., College of Agriculture faculty meeting, B112 ...
...m., Lamplighters meet for Bible inquiry and ...tic liturgy. Marsh Austin Tupper halls ...r information call Sue K. at ext. 2952.
...p.m., German film, "Der Schummelreiter," ...by the German Club, 101 Votey, Johnson ...Admission is free.
...SA film, "Alfred Hitchcock series" presents ...with Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine, B106, ...ing admission free.
...Ambalala, folk dance Lane Series presentation, ...auditorium
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20
...5:45 films, "Shakespeare on Film," offers ...with Sir Laurence Olivier, also excerpts from a ...by John Barrymore for his projected "Hamlet." ...Admission $1
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21
...1:15 p.m., Women's Caucus presents Dolaris ...communication and theatre on "Income Taxes," ...ing and answer session aimed at helping women ...all who are interested.

...nnual Skit Night

...uary" 16 in the ...ield House, the ...Skit Night will ...Skit night will ...by University ...faculty member ...to enter the ...and present a ...with a time limit ...minutes. Three ...be awarded to ...'s, Women's and ...ormances. The ...vening skits will ...the University of ...ual Annual Ice ...Show which will be held on Friday and Saturday, February 22 and 23 from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Skits may be practiced any time during student skating at Gutterson or on the basketball court behind the W.D.W. Rehearsal will be held Friday, February 15, at Gutterson from 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. for entered skits only.

Skit nights will be held at Gutterson Field House from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome!

...LIATE
...one
...s that...
...ATCHERS
St. Anselms
12 Noon. For
...ormation call
171 Church
Burlington

C.A.P.E.

Collegiate Association For Principled Education (C.A.P.E.) is sponsoring the Reverend Sun Myung Moon who will be speaking on "The New Future of Christianity" at the Ramada Inn on Monday, February 18 at 8 p.m. For complimentary tickets call 863-1210.

...OSKI
...L ST.,
...MY
...0 PM

DISCIPLESHIP

IS A TOTAL WAY OF LIFE
EDMUNDITE

TO BE THE PRESENCE OF CHRIST
THROUGH THE VISIBLE
WITNESS
OF A SMALL COMMUNITY
SERVING THE CHURCH'S MISSIONS &
EDUCATION
SINGLE CATHOLIC MEN
BETWEEN 17-30
SHOULD WRITE TO
DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS
THE SOCIETY OF SAINT EDMUND
...ERIC, CONNECTICUT 06355

...PIZZA
...E PIZZA
658-3333
No. Winooski Ave
...ted

Student Advisory Committee

The Student Advisory Committee of the College of Arts & Sciences functions as the mechanism for realistic communication among students, faculty and administrators.

I. The Committee provides an open channel for direct student input into the administrative system of the College.

II. The Committee serves as a vehicle for the collection and dissemination of information vital to student concerns.

Without active participation, few student ends can be effected.

Students of the College of Arts & Sciences are encouraged to make their feelings known to the representatives of their respective departments, as well as attend the open meetings.

If you have any questions concerning your department's representative, or any other related affairs, please contact Bill Wachtel, Chairperson of the Student Advisory Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences at 862-0310. Within a week, a list of all Arts & Sciences department representatives will be publicized.

Recycle

RECYCLING...

Monday and Thursday (Dewey and Robinson Hall), 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. and Saturday (Robinson Hall) 10:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

Copier

The new copier at Billings has arrived. Try it soon for only 5 cents a copy.

Boycott Non-Union Produce

Vermonters in support of the United Farm Workers strike will be picketing the Essex Junction A&P store Saturday morning, the 16, at 10 a.m. The purpose of the picket is to build momentum for a boycott on all non-union produce. A & P sells three million heads of lettuce which is non-union per week. This lettuce was harvested by scab labor forced to live in sub-human conditions. By purchasing non-union products, people are supporting "a system that refuses to give its workers fair wages and safe working conditions," according to strike leaders.

P&SS Lecture

The UVM Plant and Soil Science Society will have the first of three lectures on February 20, 1974, at Carpenter Auditorium in the Gowen Building at 7:30 p.m. The topic of the first lecture will be house plants, with the speakers talking on the types, their care, and handling methods. Speakers will be John Cahill, owner of Plantasia, a house plant shop in Burlington, and Klaus Weber, owner of Randolph Floral in Randolph, Vermont. No admission - public welcome.

Budget Requests Available Now

Annual budget requests are now available at the Student Association Office, upper right balcony, Billings Center.

Art Department Sponsors Program

The University of Vermont's Art department is sponsoring an art program for children of the Burlington community this spring semester. The classes are designed and taught by art education students involved in a curriculum and practice course.

Some of the classes are:

MUSEUM EXPLORATION - Every other Sunday, 1 to 4 pm. This course offers an opportunity to explore the Fleming Museum in a non-traditional way. Museum collections used as starting point for creative projects. Ages 9 through 12 years.

MULTI-MEDIA - Monday, 7 to 8:30 pm. Encourages creative expression and visual awareness through a variety of media. Ages 9 through 12 years.

MULTI-MEDIA - Tuesday, 4 through 5 pm. Same as above. †Note ages: 6 through 8 years.

POTTERY WORKSHOP - Tuesday, 4:30 to 6:30 pm. An introduction to pottery through an exploration of the formation, composition and properties of clay. Emphasis on hand-building, pinch pots, slab and coil work. Ages 14 through 17 years.

2D DESIGN - Tuesday, 7 through 9 pm. Exploration of design through drawing and printing. The processes of linoleum block printing, silkscreen and batik will also be included. Ages 14 through 17 years.

SILKSCREEN FABRIC PRINTING - Tuesday, 7 through 9 pm. Basic silkscreen techniques will be covered with a concentration on color and design. The last few sessions will include making wall hangings, batik and printing with found materials. Ages 12 through 15 years.

WOODCUT GRAPHICS - Wednesday, 4 to 5:30 pm. Discovering design through woodcut printing emphasis on actual quality and potential of wood itself.

UNDERSTANDING COLOR - Saturday, 10 through 12 am. The purpose of this course is to explore color in the environment, (through the study of nature and man-made objects) with paint. Ages 10 through 14.

Classes are held in Wilhams Science Hall, second floor on UVM campus beginning the week of February 18 and continuing through to May 5.

A tuition of $10 is payable at registration this Friday, Saturday, and Sunday (February 15, 16, and 17) from 12-4 p.m. in Williams Science, second floor.

For further information, please call 656-2014.

Library Planning Council

The Library Planning Council which is working toward the design of additional library facilities, earnestly solicits suggestions, ideas, conceptions, etc., from members of the University community. The major role of the Planning Council is to determine what facilities must be accommodated within the library structure and thus arrive at a precise notion of how many additional square feet of space will be required. Students, faculty, administration, and staff all have a vital stake in the University's library. The Planning Council therefore urges anyone who has either general or specific recommendations (for example: should the library provide space for seminar rooms, departmental reserve rooms, rooms for the use of audiovisual equipment, etc., etc.?) to submit them to any member of the Council.

Samuel N. Bogorad, English, Chairperson
Nancy Belle, Student, Living and Learning Center
Paul Brock, Mathematics
Nancy Buckeye, Bailey Library
Jay Gould, Political Science
Beal Hyde, Botany
Paul Kebabian, Bailey Library
Gene Taber, Business Administration
Helene Lang, Education
John Little, Microbiology and Biochemistry
Alton O. Roberts, Education
Henry Steffens, History
Branimir VonTurkovich, Mechanical Engineering
H. Lawrence McCrorey, Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, ex officio.

Civil Engineers

The American Society of Civil Engineers will meet Thursday February 14 at 7 p.m. in room A101 Living/Learning Center. The Speaker Wayne Woodward from Milton will talk on sanitary land fill.

Spiritual Corner

Meditation

William Brunell, Vermont Chairman of the International Meditation Society (IMS) and the Students International Meditation Society (SIMS), will give an introductory talk on Transcendental Meditation (TM) and the Science of Creative Intelligence (SCI) on Tuesday, February 19, at 8 p.m. in Marsh Lounge, Billings. This talk is part of the follow-up of Governor Salmon's endorsement of the programs of TM.

Extensive scientific research at Stanford Research Institute, Harvard Medical School, The Institute of Living in Hartford, Connecticut, and at many other institutions, has verified that TM is a unique, easily learned, mental technique which allows the body to gain a state of rest deeper than sleep, thereby eliminating accumulated stress and fatigue. This results in allowing one to be more efficient and effective and to live a more fulfilling and productive life.

TM is widely practiced, twice daily, for 20 minutes, by individuals of varied backgrounds and professions throughout the state. There are about 250 students at UVM who practice TM and are members of SIMS.

Interest in TM and SCI, the theoretical aspect of TM, is constantly growing in Vermont and the entire country. Approximately 15,000 individuals begin the practice every month. Courses in TM are offered every week in Burlington, at the IMS Center, 308 Main Street, beginning with a free introductory lecture on Wednesday evenings at 8:00 p.m. An SCI teacher training course is offered each semester.

Voyages

VOYAGES IN THE SPIRIT - a weekly ecumenical exchange to which all are invited. The next Voyage will be Wednesday, February 20 at 12:15 p.m. in Conference Room C, upstairs at Billings Center. The leader will be John Nutting, songwriter-minister. His subject is "From the Mid-West to the End of the World."

BIBLE STUDY: a time to explore Scripture in a spirit of openness and mutual respect. The Bible Study takes place each Thursday evening from 9 to 10:30 p.m. in the TV lounge of Patterson Hall. Tonight (February 14) the subject is the Exodus Story (Exodus 1-18). Next Thursday evening we will be discussing the period of the Judges and the Early Kingdom of Israel (I Samuel 1-15).

OPEN SUPPER at the AIM Center, 389 College St., every other Thursday evening at 6 p.m. Musicians, bring your instruments! Next supper, Thursday, February 21.

CAR POOL: every Sunday morning for those people wanting a ride to the Church of their choice. Cars are available in front of Coolidge Hall from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

ECUMENICAL MORNING PRAYER co-sponsored with the Newman Center and St Aquelin's every morning, Monday through Friday at 8:30 a.m. at the Newman Center.

COUNSELING: If you'd like someone to talk with about things that are causing you pain, call Ted Stronach (campus minister) at 863-6970 or 656-3863.

Liturgy

Weekend Liturgy: Saturday 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.; Sunday 9:00 and 11:30 a.m., 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

Weekday Liturgy: Monday Friday 4:15 p.m.

Bible Study: Each Monday at 8 p.m. All are welcome.

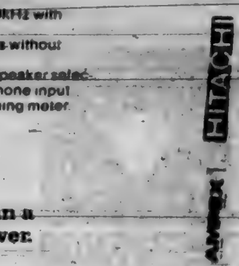
Basic Catholicism: Each Tuesday 7:30 p.m. Topic: The Sacraments, Instructor: Fr. Dufault.

Freshman Creative Discussion: Next one, Monday, February 11 at 2 p.m. Speaker: Ann Margolies.

Morning Prayer: Sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant and Catholic Campus Ministries. Each morning Monday - Friday at 8:30 a.m. at the Cunningham Newman Center.

Crop Walk: An organizational meeting for a walk for the Hungry will take place on Monday, February 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church on South Winooski Avenue.

CAMPUS CARE FOR ELMS



Help support our Dutch Elm Disease program for the Elms on the UVM green. Above buttons are being sold now in order to raise funds for spring sanitation and experimental treatments. For more information contact:

Susan Kessler - Project Elm
c/o English Dept. 316 Old Mill
phone no. 3066

Aid to education

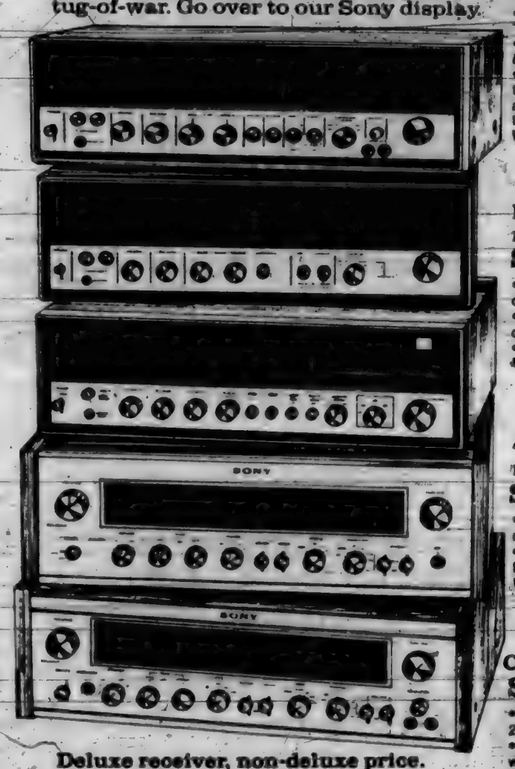
It's the real thing. Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

Advent BOSE Carver SONY Fisher PIONEER Technics dbx

We're pulling for you

audio-technica TEAC Interaudio maxell PHILIPS dynaco AKAI SHERWOOD K.L.H. JVC Pioneer Dual REMOTEC TANDBERG HITACHI AMPEX AIKOSS Scotch KENWOOD REVOX TEAC SANYO

You want a new receiver but your heartstrings pull one way, and your pursestrings pull another? Stop the tug-of-war. Go over to our Sony display.



New standard in its power output and price category.
SONY STR-6046A
• 20+20W RMS into 8 ohms from 20Hz to 20kHz with THD less than 0.8%.
• Brings in all stations, even the weakest ones without interference from strong signals.
• Features found in Sony's deluxe models – speaker selector switches for 2 full stereo systems, microphone input and line mixing facilities, tape monitoring, tuning meter. Function indicator lights.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Everything you'd ever want in a receiver but with modest power.
SONY STR-6036A
• 15+15W RMS into 8 ohms from 20Hz to 20kHz (can drive all but low-efficiency speakers).
• All the facilities of the STR-6046A except the mic-mixing control and illuminated function indicator.
• Brings in all FM and AM stations clearly.
With walnut finish cabinet.

4-channel for just a few dollars more than stereo.
SONY SQR-6650
• Delivers superior performance from SQ, other matrix records and broadcasts, and 4-channel, tape decks.
• Extra power for outstanding stereo performance. Double Stacked Differential circuitry.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Could be today's finest receiver
SONY STR-7065
• Superb sound: (60+60W RMS into 8 ohms, 10 to 20kHz). Drives even the least efficient speaker.
• Station-pulling power: Sensitive, 2.0μV FET Front end with 1.0 dB capture ratio brings in even the weakest signals, without interference from stronger ones.
• Unlimited versatility: Dual tape monitors with direct dubbing (use one for a four-channel decoder), choice of 3 speaker pairs, high and low filters, stereo mic mixing.
• Convenience: indicator lights show selected function.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Deluxe receiver, non-deluxe price.
SONY STR-7055
All the basic performance of the deluxe STR-7065, but with a bit less power (still a hefty 35+35W RMS) and without microphone mixing and function indicator lights.
With walnut finish cabinet.

Audition SONY Receivers

Visit our new store at 157 Pearl St. Essex Junction
also
370 Shelburne rd. Burlington

We answer the light in both questions
STEREO CASSETTE DECK

Lafayette RADIO ELECTRONICS
Listen to us, you can't go wrong.

Assoc. Store owned and operated By I. E. S.

Rectilinear SUPERSCOPE Bose SENNHEISER SUPEREX dbx

VERMONT CYNIC

Founded In 1883

Barbara Frankel '75, Editor-in-Chief
Rick Steinberg '75, Assistant Editor
Eileen Driscoll '75, Managing Editor
Brian Maddern '76, News Editor
Kathy Stanton '77, Assistant News Editor
Margo Howland '75, Feature Editor
Lana Charles '75, Arts Editor
Peter Campbell '75, Assistant Arts Editor
Mike Schwartz '75, Sports Editor
John Van Hoesen '74, Copy Editor
Jim Bradley '74, Compliant Editor
Loren Wilson '74, Advertising Manager

Editorial

Rationing And Reform

Local scrambling at service stations and panic purchases of gasoline must stop; rationing should take immediate effect and efforts should be turned toward the creation and support of an efficient mass transit system.

Animalistic lines that stretch onto highways are dangerous, and motorists competing for pole positions in front of Burlington gas pumps provoke unprecedented greed in area residents. Self interest and hoarding are the fool's answers to closed pumps.

Early next week a joint committee of the Vermont House and Senate will confer on an energy powers act that would give the governor the power to institute mandatory gas rationing. Without this bill, gas rationing would be voluntary. And compared with last February, Vermont is nearing a 30 per cent gasoline shortage, real or contrived, for this month. Alternate day rationing would reduce the confusion at the pumps by 50 per cent. We agree with the recommendations of Forest Orr and the AAA to clear a path for immediate rationing. But, rationing is only a temporary solution; it will relieve the confusion, but it will not solve the present supply problem. The odd-even plan will not bring more gasoline to Burlington.

When money is more plentiful than gasoline, one answer is to funnel that money into mass transit systems. Students and Burlington residents should take advantage of the 35 cent bus fare, the convenience of rail travel and their own two feet. Moreover, support should be withdrawn from Detroit and directed toward an efficient rail and bus system. Such a system would move people less expensively and more efficiently than the private automobile does.

Without these reforms of the public transit system, and without immediate rationing, the ludicrous conditions at the gas pumps will remain. Only if the development of mass transit occurs leaps at a time will the problems of gas shortages begin to subside.

J.V.H.

Check Your Gauge

Business was abruptly and tragically interrupted last week at Vito's Shell Service in Bayonne, N.J. At 2:46 p.m. on Tuesday 8, a large, black limosine pulled up to the High Test pump. Its driver, wearing a ski mask, pulled a gun and forced owner Vito Devitis into the car, which promptly sped away, without filling up.

"Naturally we had to shut down the pumps," said attendant Stan Kloeppner. "Vito had the appointment book with him. I told him we should have got a secretary."

Fifty-six cars, some waiting in line for up to an hour, were turned away, with some irate drivers honking their horns loudly while others, apparently in protest, pushed their vehicles away.

"I knew some nut was gonna do something like this," continued Kloeppner. "I suspected this guy as soon as I saw him in line. I mean how many people wear ski masks in Bayonne?"

Police, baffled by the incident, spread a futile dragnet over the area. "So far, we haven't caught anything but two kids with a siphon hose," admitted a patrolman who wished to remain unidentified, "for my own good."

The next night however, Vito's distraught wife, Mary, was contacted by the criminals. "I couldn't believe it," she said in a later interview. "They wanted to ransom Vito for fifty gallons of gas! They kidnapped him!"

Naturally Mrs. DeVitis wished to cooperate fully, and told the criminal so when he called the next evening. "Listen carefully," said a muffled voice, "leave da gas in a plain, brown oildrum outside da station at 11:00 o'clock tomorrow night. And remember, no police—no trouble, heh?"

"But how do I know Vito's O.K.?" inquired the frantic lady.

"I'm alright honey, just do what he says and get me out of this hell," said the hollow shell of her husband's once resonant voice. The connection was ominously terminated.

Acting quickly, the alert housewife immediately called attendant Kloeppner and relayed the instructions to him. "Sorry, Mary," said Stan, "we can't do it. We overshot our allocation this month and we're down to twelve gallons. We'll just have to wait. I told him we should have had a three dollar limit."

At this writing, the tragically senseless case of Vito DeVitis is still unsolved, and it is presumed that he remains in the hands of his kidnappers. "I guess we'll just have to wait and see how the trucker's strike works out," said an unidentified police source.

Twin Guardian

Letters To The Editor

Students Aid Breakfast Program

To the editor:

The Winooski Mobile Classroom has benefitted immensely from the Free Breakfast Program, and the staff and students would like to thank all of those who have donated SAGA meals to the program. Since September, we have been getting good basic things like eggs, milk, bread, juices and other breakfast supplies. Having these things available has made a great difference in the diets of the two dozen young people we serve. As is well demonstrated in the studies of underprivileged youth, eating habits are very poor: a lot of soft drinks, twinkies, potato chips, and other processed junk.

The Free Breakfast Program has made it possible to have milk rather than a soda, an egg dish or cheese sandwich instead of something less nutritional. At first there was a cry for sweets, but gradually we noticed that appetites were building. These youngsters use a tremendous amount of energy; rather than burn themselves out with sugarish, proteinless eating habits, they are able to build strong bodies in eight ways.

After five months, the change is quite noticeable; while growth is to be expected generally we can see less lean, wan looks, more healthy skin, better posture, added body weight, greater strength. While we attribute much of it to our superb teaching and insightful counseling, there does seem to be an obvious physical basis for these improvements.

For the part you have played, thank you very much. Often in giving, one is unable to get much idea of how much good has been done by the gift. We would suggest to the people involved in the Program that they make up some simple charts for growth, health, etc. for the use of the groups who are eligible for aid. It would be little problem to get weight, height and general health in a monthly (say) progression.

The University community has a great impact on the area, representing great hopes in a concentration of human and material resources. I do not mean to think of UVM as some mother of the disspirited and dispossessed, a cow for whose udders the "hungry" should aim. Rather, there is a common laboratory in which to test the value of "higher education," the uses of intelligence.

Winooski has offered University people a field experience in the social and educative sciences; in many ways the challenges of dealing with youth problems in a city gutted by Urban Removal, razed by fire, traumatized by industrial disruption, blighted by poverty, struggling to realize its true role in things, its potential place in the Chittenden sun— in many ways the challenges far transcend textbook schemata and traditional handling. Indeed, the complexities, the evolutions, the kalaidioscopic transmutations that epitomize a community such as Winooski are the pages of tomorrow's texts!

What started out as a simple thank you note has turned into an attempt to express far more, too much, but it's all there, and the Office of Volunteer Programs can provide such a wealth of information and opportunities for involvement! Don't neglect looking into ways of deepening your education.

Again, Thanks,
Mike Knapp

To Custodians

To the editor:

It has been pointed out the Billings Custodians are not responsible for Den conditions. Last week's letter did not intentionally implicate building custodians, but Den custodians only. My apologies to the building custodians.

Daily Deaner

The Legislative Week

To the editor:

In recent months there has been controversy throughout Vermont over the length of the legislative week.

Much of the misunderstanding grows out of the difference between a full-time and a part-time legislature. The larger states such as New York and California have full-time, professional legislatures with compensation well over $20,000 per year. The legislators are provided with offices and staff. The smaller states generally have part-time, citizen legislatures with sessions lasting from sixty to one hundred days. The compensation for the part-time legislator is understandably less. (Approximately $2,100 per year in Vermont.) The citizen legislator must allocate some of his time for occupational responsibilities. In addition, part of the job of the legislator is to be available to his constituents on weekends.

We live in a time when public confidence in the governmental process is low. Our institutions should constantly be re-examined for possible improvement.

The part-time Vermont Legislature has had a good track record in many areas of governmental endeavor. There are many suggestions for reform. For instance, the Vermont Legislature could benefit from additional staffing to do the necessary research to prepare legislation. Additional staffing could also help insure that the executive branch expends appropriated funds consistent with legislative intent.

Moving in the direction of a full-time, professional legislature would be a step backwards. A full-time professional legislature is not in keeping with our condition or circumstances in Vermont.

Signed:
Philip H. Hoff
Member of General Assembly, 1960 to 1962.
Governor of Vermont, 1962 to 1968.
Deane C. Davis
Governor of Vermont, 1968 to 1972.

Pleasure Skating

To the editor:

Being a school with a vast and well-developed hockey program, both intramurals and intrascholastic, I feel it is necessary to speak up for the pleasure skater. ID skating as I interpret it to be is a period of time set aside for the members of the student body to skate leisurely; I must be attending the University of Brutality and Abrasiveness. The only ID needed to skate at this time if a zero scoring on the aptitude tests for maleness, compassion, considerateness, and sexuality. It also involves a one hundred percent on the idiot tests for Showboatmanship, Insecurity, and Underdevelopment During Puberty.

Well! Hello, Mr. Pith Ass. you have been accepted at the University and due to your physique, beakish nose, and blonde hair, your performance on the ice this Saturday night, and your perfect score on the entrance exams you have been selected as the representative scapegoat for the graduating class of 1932. Also, because you wear Lange skates and are erratic on the ice we must inform you that an additional charge of $5000 will be attached to your bill to ensure adequate insurance for the other 6000 - 7000 members of the University.

We the members of the university community shall actively participate in the development and care of our fellow faculty, students and staff. We shall also undertake the necessary steps to notify and make the rest of the university community aware of any violator and their cohorts.

Mac's Saloon
Attention!

To all customers:
Mr. Pith Ass has approached me with an itinerate plan to rigorously drink any fellow member of the university under the table. In reward of the accompaniment of my daughter, the fair young lady wearing a yellow sweater and yellow skates.

All participants in the duel must be male and enrolled in the sexism appeal program. You must also have skated on Friday and Saturday nights, January 25 and 26.

Please sign your name, bladder capacity, and penis size below:

ZPQ News interrupts its regularly scheduled programs to bring you this bulletin!

A medical report has just been received from the BOO-HOO Community Hospital: Miss Sex Appeal from Robinson Hall at the University of Brutality and Abrasiveness has received compound bruises to her knees sustained at the University's Gutterson Field House Hockey Rink.

The FBI has been enlisted to seek and apprehend the male assailant.

The President of the United States has just called an emergency meeting of the Security Council to organize and command a special division of the Green Beret in order to bolster the forces of the FBI.

We now resume our regularly scheduled programs.

The University of Vermont seeks to allow leeway for the development of its members. I feel this application of that freedom will show that there are many elements to this development and individualized reaction.

Bottoms Down!

Sincerely,
ms (Mark Siegars)

S.A. Candidacy Announced

To the editor:

With this letter I am officially announcing my candidacy for the President of the Student Association.

The President's job is very demanding. There are no short cuts to effectiveness. Time is one of many basic elements needed. I will have this time. I had planned, and earned the credits, to graduate in three and a half years. When I decided to run for President I also decided I would stay for the full four years, next year being my senior one. This means I will be spreading one semester's work over two semesters. For the first time in years a president will not only have the desire but the time to do a good job.

The S.A. has seen some sad times this year and is now, quietly but effectively pulling itself together. I feel the S.A., as an organization, will be much better next year because of the building process we're going through now.

This will be a very lively campaign. I hope you will find it interesting, if not fun. As for myself, and the people working with me, we plan to create a little interest, work hard, and enjoy ourselves doing it.

Stephen S. Rollins
Chairperson Student Association

Vermont Yankee Costs

To the editor:

I would appreciate your printing the following letter in the Cynic.

Mr. James Griffin
President
Vermont Yankee
77 Grove Street
Rutland, Vt.

Dear Mr. Griffin:

In recent testimony before the House Commerce Committee (Thursday, Jan. 24, 1974), you argued that the enormous increase in the cost of Vermont Yankee over initial projections is attributable in large part to environmental delays and requirements. Specifically, you said, "Speaking of Vermont Yankee—preliminary analysis points out that 60 per cent of the increase in cost of Vermont Yankee is attributable to environmental and delay related matters."

After you had testified, I told the committee that I frankly didn't think that you could begin to prove this charge, and I challenged you to come up with proof of your statement.

Since that time I have not heard further from you on this matter. Therefore I am writing to ask once more that you provide to the Commerce Committee or to the public the proof behind your "preliminary analysis" that gives you license to make your charges. Surely, you should be able to back up any statement made before a legislative committee.

If you do not provide any information to back up your charge, I think that the Commerce Committee and the people of Vermont will have every reason to consider your statement deceptive and irresponsible.

As you know, it has become fashionable to shuffle blame for economic problems onto environmentalists whenever possible. I personally am sorry to see you take this low route.

Sincerely,
Scott Skinner
Director (VPIRG)

On The "Dirty Den"

To the editor:

I wish to address myself to the student who complained about the condition of the Den, placing part of the blame on the "sloppy janitors." It would upset me very much to see busy, efficient janitors cheerfully shovelling up the piles of filth left unconsciously by grunting, priviledged students. Any person subjected to such conditions should reserve his/her right to be "sloppy."

Kathy Dodds

VERMONT CYNIC

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Dave Compagna, Bill Campbell, Cecilia Elwert, Andrew Morse.
FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Carol Dufault, Laurie Race.
ARTS: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Doug Collette, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Oldan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, Elliott Freeman, Sig Heller, Randy Isham, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Rybeck.
SPORTS: Charlie Brace, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahue, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Dave Raner, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilensik.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lando, Kathy Tormey, Debbie Valyou, Joan Westcot.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 656-4911. Deadline for reviews is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

On Custodians

To the editor:

I would like to thank the custodians for their hard work. Without them, the University would be a mess. Thanks.

Jeff Rybeck

Den Custodians

To the editor:

I would like to thank the Den custodians for their hard work. Without them, the Den would be a mess. Thanks.

Jeff Rybeck

Thanks

To the editor:

Thanks to the Den custodians for their hard work. Without them, the Den would be a mess.

Jeff Rybeck

Thanks

To the editor:

Thanks to the Den custodians for their hard work. Without them, the Den would be a mess.

Jeff Rybeck

Thanks

To the editor:

Thanks to the Den custodians for their hard work. Without them, the Den would be a mess.

Jeff Rybeck

The Cynic welcomes letters and columns from students, faculty, or any other readers. Materials for publication must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request.

It's That C

by Scott Cahoon

The four-day week at Groovey Yuvey extra time that they never had before students are just sitting around getting Peter, Joe, Freddy, and Rich, four apartment in beautiful uptown Burlington get to them.

BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH!

What in the name of Christ...?

BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH!

Christ, must be a giant mouse in the at cat, anyway. Every feline should be earn

BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH!

God, what a racket. Drowns out my ste so bad if it kept time to the music.

BUH! BUH! BUH!

Suppose I'd better see what it is. Wo nothing to fall in. Might crush all the beer have a chance to take 'em back.

BUH! BUH! BUH!

Man, these stairs are steep...Steps narro it omigodaaargh BUHD'

-Hey, Rich, izzat you?

No answer.

-Rich! You all right?

-Yeah.

-What happened?

-Stepped on a goddam marble

-Oh. You all right?

Gathering himself together, Rich climb the stairs into the attic and walked over t standing.

What's happening, man? said Joe

-Not much. Heard a knocking on he came up to see who was trying to get in. Wh

-It's a piece of marble

-Really.

-Yeah. I'm carving a sculpture for my ar

-What're ya gonna make?

-A cigarette

-A cigarette?

-Yeah.

-Oh...Filtered or straight?

-Filtered. With an ash on the end and s from the tip.

-Far out...Is that my cassette recorder?

-Yeah, I borrowed it so's I could have listen to while I carve. Is that okay?

-Sure. But what's it doing there?

That's so my stone doesn't roll off the t

-Oh. How much do you think that h

The Acorn

by query wabbit

long ago in the past
an oak tree gave birth to a seed
his stretch of limbs was so vast that our little acorn could not be f

there he lay for many a year
yet he outgrew his greatest fear;
[illegible]
his only excuse was because

one early spring his daddy died.
he did not even say goodbye.
heartbroken, our acorn just cried
his tears ran down his sterile side.

the acorn felt the dampened groun
so a root he grew, a root so sound.
he sensed new life for he was free.
he grew to become the mightiest o

South Her

by Elliot Freeman

The judge explained that the best thing to do was to go down to Tennessee and they dragged me down to Memphis like a then locked me in a shoebox surrounde really felt like singin' a worried, wo newfangled idea come bouncing along. I to and said, "Here we go Kid" then like a b blowed off the lid! I tapped my toe an le and with one mighty leap I reached the st parking meter right outta the ground bastard around an around, it hummed sound! A man with a gun said, "Stop or I scrambled my eggs and started to scoot. Cadillac four-door sedan, driving that crazy-man. Pumped on the pedals, played as if I had not seen a machine for a Squeeling all the tires, pulling all the plug toll booth and gave the man a slug. He rec the shots of my mug and started to screa nightmare that was bad and green. I saw so I split that scene. I made it to the heading towards a plane when a thousand my name saying that I had broken the rul sing out with words as clear as snow trying to be a South Hero! And that was stopped. In came the judge carrying a mo make it as an undercover cop. I told him,

One Under

by Kieras Bell

I was hurting, that's for certain feeling sorry and by myself
alone, without a lover
and feeling bad about myself.
to keep from crying, I started to find someone who I could this lonesome learning, it ke

at my brain and at my heart
alone, without a lover
and feeling bad about my se tho a lonsly lesson, I've stop
'bout who to love until lov

Editor

To Custodians

...been pointed out the ...intodians are not ...ble for Don ...Last week's letter ...intentionally implicate building custodians, but Don custodians only. My apologies to the building custodians.

Daily Dennet

...e Legislative Week

...ast months there has ...rowsky throughout ...ment. The length of ...ative week ... of the misunder- ...grows out of the ... between a ...and a part-time ... The larger states ... New York and ... have full-time ...l legislatures with ...gon well over ... per year. The ...are provided with ... staff. The smaller ... generally have ...sitzgen legislatures ...ons lasting from ...ne hundred days ...ensation for the ... legislator is ...ndably less ...ately $2,100 per ...ment.) The citizen ...ust allocate some ... for occupational ...ses. In addition, ...he job of the ... to be available to ...nts on weekends ...in a time when ...tudence in the ...l process is low ...tutions should constantly be re-examined for possible improvement.

The part-time Vermont Legislature has had a good track record in many areas of governmental endeavor. There are many suggestions for reform. For instance, the Vermont Legislature could benefit from additional staffing to do the necessary research to prepare legislation. Additional staffing could also help insure that the executive branch expends appropriated funds consistent with legislative intent.

Moving in the direction of a full-time professional legislature would be a step backwards. A full-time professional legislature is not in keeping with our condition or circumstances in Vermont.

Signed
Philip H. Hoff
Member of General Assembly, 1960 to 1962; Governor of Vermont, 1962 to 1968
Deane C. Davis
Governor of Vermont, 1968 to 1972

Pleasure Skating

...chool with a vast ...veloped hockey ...both intramurals ...plastic, I feel it is ... speak up for the ...ter. ID skating as ... to be is a period ... aside for the ...the student body ...urely. I must be ...e University of ...d. Abrasiveness ... needed to skate ... as a zero scoring ...titude' tests for ... compassion, ...keness, and ... also involves a ... percent on the ... for Showboat- ...norcunity, and ...pment. During

...o, Mr Pith Ass... ...en accepted at the ...nd due to your ...akish nose, and ... hair, your ...on the ice this ...ght, and your ... on the entrance ...ave been selected ... representative ...t the graduating ...l. Also, because ...ange skates and ...n the ice we must ...that an additional ...$5000 will be ... your bill to ...ate insurance for ... 6000 - 7000 ...the University. ...members of the ...ommunity shall ...ticipate in the ... and care of our ...ty, students, and ...ll also undertake ... steps to notify ...the rest of the ...ommunity aware ...tator and their

...r Saloon ...ention!

...ers. ...th Asu has

Sincerely,
jas (Mark Siegars)

...r welcomes letters and columns from students, ...any other readers. Materials for publication must ...ot names will be withheld upon request.

...RMONT CYNIC

...y Andrews, Dave ...d Campbell, Cecile ...w Morse ... Tad Book, Carol ...r Rose ... Buell, Jeffrey Blum, ... Barbara Freedman, ...f, Joseph Gleber, ... Scott Cohoon, ...man, Sig Mellon, ... Alan King, Evelyn

...expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the ...not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University ..., faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions ... the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion ...y of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

...ssued daily during the college year by the students of the ... Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and ...ess in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. ...50-0911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date ...

...n 1983. Subscription rate $5.00 per year, single copy ...cond class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

LIberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.

SPORTS: Charlie Brace, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahue, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Hasselbeck, Dave Raser, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilensik.

ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaffer.

PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lando, Kathy Tormey, Debbie Vatyos, Joan Wetzel.

It's That Good Ole Cabin Fever Time Of Year Once Again

by Scott Cahoon

The four-day week at Groovey Yuvey has given students extra time that they never had before. A lot of 4orm students are just sitting around getting cabin fever, but Peter, Joe, Freddy, and Rich, four guys sharing an apartment in beautiful uptown Burlington, aren't letting it get to them.

BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH!

What in the name of Christ...?

BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH!

Christ, must be a giant mouse in the attic... Where's that cat, anyway... Crazy feline should be earning her keep.

BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH! BUH!

God, what a racket. Drowns out my stereo. Wouldn't be so bad if it kept time to the music.

BUH! BUH! BUH!

Suppose I'd better see what it is. Wouldn't do for the ceiling to fall in. Might crush all the beer bottles before we have a chance to take 'em back.

BUH! BUH! BUH!

Man, these stairs are steep. Steps narrow. Oops! Watch it omigodaaargh...BUHD!

–Hey, Rich. Izzat you?

No answer.

–Rich! You all right?

–Yeah.

–What happened?

–Stepped on a goddam marble.

–Oh. You all right?

Gathering himself together, Rich climbed carefully up the stairs into the attic and walked over to where Joe was standing.

–What's happening, man? said Joe.

–Not much. Heard a knocking on heaven's door and came up to see who was trying to get in. What's this?

–It's a piece of marble.

–Really.

–Yeah. I'm carving a sculpture for my art class.

–What're ya gonna make?

–A cigarette.

–A cigarette?

–Yeah.

–Oh...Filtered or straight?

–Filtered. With an ash on the end and smoke curling up from the tip.

–Far out...Is that my cassette recorder?

–Yeah, I borrowed it so's I could have some music to listen to while I carve. Is that okay?

–Sure. But what's it doing there?

–That's so my stone doesn't roll off the table.

–Oh...How much do you think that hunk of marble weighs?

–Maybe 150,-175 pounds.

–Uh, huh...Well, guess I'll go downstairs and put my headphones on.

–Okay. See ya.

BUH! BUH! BUH!

Man, look at those chips fly...Good thing I ripped off those tools from the art department...This would've taken forever with a hammer and screwdriver...Hmmm. The music stopped...Guess I'll have to turn it over...Come on out of there...Rock seems to have jammed the lid...let's see now...

CRRRUNCH. GRRRRIND.

Damn, there goes the rock... Come back here, you...oh–oh.

CRASHCRACKSMASH!

Jesus, it went right through the floor into Rich's room...Looks like it hit his headphones, too.

–Wow, what happened?

–Hi, Peter. Just thought I'd improve the ventilation in this place.

–Good idea. Makes another way to get downstairs, too.

–We could even put in a fireman's pole.

–Right. Have you seen Rich?

–He was here a second ago, but I don't know where he disappeared to.

–No matter. You feel like going down to the Chicken Coop for a few beers?

–Not right now. Maybe later.

–Okay. See ya.

Peter walked out the front door and onto the street...Wow, it's getting colder out...oops, look out... Damn dogs. Shouldn't be allowed on the sidewalks. Should civilize them. Make them shit in a toilet.

R R R R R R R R O O O O O O O O O R R R R R R R (EEIEEIEEIEE) RRRRROOOOORRRRR!

What the...?

R R R R R R R O O O O O O O O R R R R R R-RRRRRMMMMMMRRRRRRMMMMM RRRMMMMMM

Some damn car daddy... There he is. Blue Charger. Must be Larry.

–He-hey, Chief! What's up?

–Not much. Goin' down to the Chicken Coop and suck up a few.

–That's where I'm goin. Hop in. I'll give you a ride.

–Let's go.

Meanwhile, down at the Chicken Coop, Freddy was in deep conversation with the imbiber on the bar stool next to him who had just returned from her fourth trip to the ladies' rest room.

Here, you want another beer?

–Sure. I love goin to the bathroom.

–Did you hear what Batman said to Robin?

–Huh?

–I have to go to the Bat Room. Hahahaha. Bat Room. Get it?

–I heard it already

–Oh...It's pretty cold out.

–Is it?

–Yeah.

–Jesus, what's wrong with this chick...I've been buying her beers all night, and she just sits there like an English major in a physics lab... She wouldn't know a romantic stud if he walked up and bit her on the ass.

–Last call!

–Wait a minute, Butch. You can't close yet.

This last shout came from Rich at the door. He was followed closely by Peter and Joe supporting a somewhat wobbly Larry.

–We got a patient here in need of some emergency medication. Dr. Peter and Dr. Joe, set him down right here, I'll go requisition the special serum. Hey, Butch. Four beers here.

–Make that three, said Joe. I'll have a tequila sunrise.

–Make that four beers and a sunrise, said Freddy, moving towards his roommates' table. How ya doin', Rich?

–Not bad. Had a slight headache before, but I gave it the proper treatment and it's all gone now.

–Wahr the hell, said Peter. Five tequila sunrises, Butch.

–Wait a second, said Rich. Who's paying for these?

–Take it out of what I owe you for rent, Joe said.

–Fine, said Rich, pulling out his wallet. Five tequila sunrises, Butch.

–Gimmie a beer, slurred Larry, who up to this point had been staring at his navel.

–Take it easy, Larry, Peter said. The medicine's on its way.

–Yowza! said Rich. What a night.

–C'mon, honey. Let's go nookey-slurp.

–What was that, Larry? Joe laughed.

–We gotta wait for the electrician.

–Larry's off in a different world, said Rich.

Butch the bartender came up with a loaded tray.

–Okay. I've got nine drafts and twelve tequila sunrises here.

–Jesus, did we order those?

I guess we did.

What're we gonna do?

–We'll drink 'em, what else? Everybody pool your money. All for one and one for all.

–Wait a minute, said Peter, there's no need for that. We're all in this together. Larry, give me your wallet.

A Stream of Consciousness

by Steven C. Rice

Nearly four years ago, I came to the University of Vermont with some dreams. At that time, our nation was involved in a war, and I dreamed of peace. At that time, people were starving across this land of opportunity, and I dreamed of a new era when this would not be. At that time, the elderly were being ignored and left alone to die, and I dreamed of a New Respect for these citizens. And I really believed that members of my generation, with the kind of concern reflected during the 1960's and the New Frontier, were dedicated to these pursuits of happiness.

I'm not sure anymore. The times haven't changed for the people who cry for help and human dignity. They, however, have changed for members of my generation, and the atmosphere of the University reflects it in a most dramatic way. A social consciousness has been replaced with a consciousness of self. In other words, it seems at times we don't give a damn anymore for anyone but ourselves.

We have come to the University of Vermont to become educated. How we use our education is a question not often asked. I was shocked when a friend of mine remarked recently that the sole purpose of her existence here was to get a $50,000 job. No doubt, there are others who share this feeling. It's sad, for it reminds me of the book Babbitt.

We have become preoccupied with the material necessities of life: a stereo in every student's room, and the bigger the speakers, the better, for it's the quality that counts. And no doubt, we couldn't get by one week without having a keg party. Ironically, it keeps the quality of our life going. But, where are we heading?

We are heading, it seems, into the wonderful world of middleclass America. We no longer, however, may have two cars in our garage, because our nation is running out of gas. We no longer may have a summer home in Vermont, because this state has finally realized that there's something precious about open land. And we may no longer be able to breathe, because we are relaxing some of the environmental standards to keep people working in plants that pollute our air and our water. But, who gives a damn about the pollution issue, anymore? We need gas for our cars, and not a helluva lot of people are going to worry about anything else, but that.

Our greatest concerns, as students, are for good grades, good jobs, and as we pursue these goals of happiness, we may even desire a good drunk. And if we get frustrated, we may even smash dormitory windows, toss garbage on the floor, lock other students in their rooms, or better yet treat the women who work as maids in the residence halls like shit because we won't clean up the messes we create.

Meahwhile, I have an education professor who does his damnest to convince me that we are a basically good people, and that we truly have something to offer. I really like to believe this optimistic note.

Yes, we are a good people, but lately we have been acting like pigs. We certainly don't practice what we preach. Oh, by the way, has anyone around here heard the word love lately?

During the sixties, we were a generation of love, because we were concerned about the plight of others. We even went to the streets to demonstrate. We have now become the generation of crap, staying in our rooms, thinking of how it was, and not giving a damn about how it can become once again.

It certainly is a sad commentary about education of a university in a free society. So sad. We have lost our ability to cry. How do we start anew when there are no tears to be wiped away?

The Acorn

by query wabbit

long ago in the past
an oak tree gave birth to a seed
his stretch of limbs was so vast that our little acorn could not be freed.

there he lay for many a year
yet he outgrew his greatest fear;
his only excuse was because.

one early spring his daddy died.
he did not even say goodbye.
heartbroken, our acorn just cried.
his tears ran down his sterile side.

the acorn felt the dampened ground.
so a root he grew, a root so sound.
he sensed new life for he was free.
he grew to become the mightiest oak tree.

South Hero

by Elliot Freeman

The judge explained that the best thing possible for me to do was to go down to Tennessee and go to school. So they dragged me down to Memphis like a dog upon a leash then locked me in a shoebox surrounded with police. I really felt like singin' a worried, worried song til a newfangled idea come bouncing along. I took a deep breath and said, "Here we go Kid" then like a hurricane storm I blowed off the lid! I tapped my toe an knocked my feet and with one mighty leap I reached the street. I grabbed a parking meter right outta the ground and swung that bastard around an around, it hummed a mean torpedo sound! A man with a gun said, "Stop or I will shoot", so I scrambled my eggs and started to scoot. I jumped in a Cadillac four-door sedan, driving that mother like a crazy man. Pumped on the pedals, played with all the gears as if I had not seen a machine for a thousand years. Squealing all the tires, pulling all the plugs, I stopped at a toll booth and gave the man a slug. He recognized me from the shots of my mug and started to scream, looking like a nightmare that was bad and green. I saw red lights flashin' so I split that scene. I made it to the airport and was heading towards a plane when a thousand voices called out my name saying that I had broken the rules of the game. I sung out with words as clear as snow that I was just trying to be a South Hero! And that was when everything stopped. In came the judge carrying a mop, saying I could make it as an undercover cop. I told him, "No thanks."

One Under

by Kieras Bell

I was hurting, that's for certain feeling sorry and by myself.
alone, without a lover
and feeling bad about myself.
to keep from crying, I started trying to find someone who I could love.

this lonesome learning, it kept burning
at my brain and at my heart.
alone, without a lover
and feeling bad about my self.
tho a lonely lesson, I've stopped guessing
'bout who to love until love starts.

From The S.A. : Winter Week

by E. A. Liberty and Mark Siegars

Fresh music? Nah.
Fresh faces!? Close.
Homemade James! Closer.
SNOW!, , .Get this rotten apple out the bunch.
ICE! OOOOOOOOOOOOOOH!

A new approach to Winter Week is going to be undertaken this year; the festivities are moving to Burlington Shore Zone. To offset the monsoon climate, warm sunny days and plentiful rains, the impetus of Winter Week, an Ice Show, is being manufactured by the Zamboni. With Kathi Ryan at the controls and a host of beautiful bodies from the rest of the University keeping her bustling, the Ice Show should be sensuous, voluptuous, and most importantly, spectacular.

Starting off the week is a concert with Stephen Sills and Maria Muldaur, February 15. The following night, February 16 is the weeny roast. Apply for a spot through Billings Center and you shall not miss the fall of the brothers and rise of the sisters. Free to all: girdles for the hilarious and vomit bags for the sickening. You could be in the Big Show. Skit night should be fun. Following at 9:00 p. m. in Gutterson, the Bay Area Bombers of Tri Delta will pit their delights against the Belles of the Frost from Pi Beta Phi. It should prove to be a typical space war with both teams filling the void with precise and meticulous pucking. And, of course, not to be forgotten is a Broom Ball Tourney February 17 at Phi Gamma Delta. Dancing will be at MAT.

On February 18 is an Ice-Cream Making Contest at Living and Learning, Big Brother and Sister Sledding at the Country Club, and a special movie matinee at Billings. Tuesday will be a day for the burlies to participate in a Klondike Race being set up by Matt Jones, Ext 2612. At 8:30 p. m. there will be a Variety Show. Peter MacAusland is the man to reach if you wish to participate. He can be reached through the Student Activities Information Desk. The Variety Show will be composed of students doing skits and playing musical instruments. Wednesday has nothing scheduled but if you have something to contribute get in touch with Bill Root at Billings. Thursday brings a nostalgic look at what Vermont Winters are all about. Ski movies with real snow will highlight the festivities. It's Friday. Kathy and the crew have been working hard getting the show ready.

The ICE SHOW emerges. Starting with "UP, UP, and AWAY" at 7:30 p. m., the Ice Show will show you their solution to the Energy Crisis. Following will be a female bird, I hear the male of the species is more beautiful, doing a solo to a tune from Johnathan Livingston Seagull. Then an act with six boys and girls doing a barroom number. The studs and the sows meet on the ice. You thought that was sleazy. Bobby Levitt and Kathy Ryan are going to put Miss Platinum of White Owls out of business with their striptease. The environmentalists shall not be denied, an Outdoors Scene follows which could mean toasted marshmallows and cold feet. A family type act follows featuring members of the university family, to the tune of "Houle Bye" from Oliver. Burlington area skaters also participate. Intermission.

Twelve o'clock, one o'clock rock round the clock, the ICE Show doesn't want to neglect our childhood. A fifties number restarts the show. Bobby Levitt follows with a sixties number. Next, Aquarius. Cute is the only way to describe the two little girls doing the next act. Who let the witch doctor in? No, UVM Rescue still sits in her stall. Don't rain on my parade follows American Grafitti, which is thus followed by skaters in uniform. Hey man, what are the words, the music sounds familiar. Grand finale. Applause.

Entangled in this extravaganza are imported National Champions, Maihland Bradley of Phillips Exeter Academy, while the others remain nameless, they all possess Degrees of National Achievement and one possible beckons from the land of our Northern Brothers; not all play hockey; ask Janet.

Saturday brings another big night for the Ice Show. Egads. Somebody shredded the Ski Movies. Rex Reed and an entourage of knowledgeable, whoops, will be judging snow sculptures. Golden handcuffs will be awarded to the culprits at the Ice Show. There will also be exhibits of Old Winter Pictures of UVM, 68?, Winter Cities and a Photo Contest all at the Living and Learning Center. And to further your merriment there will be an all campus dance on Sunday night.

Write your Congressman and Senators, the grass is GREEN!

SEE THE U.S.A. IN YOUR CHEVROLET...

BUT BE CAREFUL ON THE TURNS

If you drive a 1965 to 69 full-size Chevrolet or Nova V-8, or a 67 to 69 Camaro V-8, you're in serious danger.

Those cars were built with faulty engine mounts.

If one breaks and the engine shifts, it can jam your accelerator wide open and knock out your power brakes at the same time.

The greatest dangers are fast starts and turns.

Several thousand accidents and injuries have been reported, and some deaths have been alleged.

General Motors has announced they won't give you new engine mounts. But they have agreed to install a free safety cable that'll hold the engine in place.

This way if a mount goes, you won't.

If you're driving one of these cars, get it to a Chevrolet service department...slowly.

Prepared by The Steve Corsson | This space made available by the Vermont Cynic | Center for Auto Safety, Washington, D.C. 20044

Arts & Entertainment

By A Woman Writt

Glimpse Into Lost Half Of History

by Melanie Chookas

By A Woman Writt is a life-giving tragedy. It is a tragedy that opens secret doors of six centuries on women who arose well and suffered guilt and alienation for being creatively assertive. It is an anthology of the world of twenty women writers from the 14th Century to the present, some known, many uncovered in rare books collections by the editor. By A Woman Writt is a quick glimpse into the lost half of history. Reading this book is like realizing what Gertrude Stein meant when she said "a rose is a rose is a rose."

The anthology is a collage of diary entries, letters, poetry, short stories, fragments of novels, and feminist protests selected by a sensitive and perceptive editor, Joan Goulianos, who dug many of these writings up from oblivion. She chose passages where women wrote about women — women as lovers, wives, mothers, slaves, writers, or women as women as women, though less free as women than the rest.

They right about childbirth and con-current illness childbirth and joy, stillbirth, the frustrations of marriage, and their ways of coping with a male dominated society. Primarily they write about themselves, an indulgence incompatible with obedience and altruism. Margery Kempe in the 14th Century describes her hallucinatory struggle with God and the Devil, her imprisonment as "heretic," and her visions of Christ. Alice Thornton, from the 17th Century, writes about the birth of nine children, the death of six of them, and long bed-ridden years of intense suffering relieved only by the psychologically salutary effects of bloodletting.

Margaret Cavendish, duchess and scholar of the 17th Century, argues persuasively that women are physically and mentally inferior to men. (Ms Goulianos wisely chose to include Margaret Cavendish's work since it reveals how firmly even an exceptionally intelligent woman could believe in the innate superiority of men.) Mary Manley describes a mythological lesbian cult. Jane Anger's and Mary Wollstonecraft's feminist protests are lucid, witty, probing, and as relevant as contemporary feminist writings.

Cataloging the content of these works barely touches on the power of By A Woman Writt. One delves into the secret lives of women through the centuries, glimpsing frustration, rebellion, humor, and suffering, and emerges with a profound feeling of what it has meant to be a woman, and what it could mean to society if women expressed more freely what they felt within themselves.

Virginia Woolf and Anais Nin express the thought that women may not be as adapted to writing plays and novels as men are. Many women are so close to the immediacy of experience that they find the writing of fiction contrived and artificial. Nin and Woolf experimented with literature and discovered modes of expression much truer to their own voices than traditional fictional forms. Portions of Anais Nin's work appear in By A Woman Writt, and Virginia Woolf is quoted in several places.

Every woman who reads this book will find a taste of her heritage as woman and artist that she has been denied through the discrimination of scholars, publishers, and men in general. Men will find the work enlightening if they approach it with new eyes.

Diversified Ambalaika Ballet To Dance Next Week

A large company of 60 dancers and musicians from the West Indies will perform on the Lyric Series on Tuesday, February 19 at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

Called Ambalaika, or the Trinidad Carnival Ballet and Steel Band, this authentic folk dance company will feature a steel band, calypso singers, native dancers, drummers, and a folk choir.

Tickets, $8, $5, and $6 are now on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418. Good seats in all price ranges are available.

Ambalaika has carried the rich and diversified performing heritage of Trinidad to all parts of the world. On its tours of England, Africa, South and Central America, the company has performed for Queen Elizabeth II, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, Prime Minister Indira Ghandi of India and many other heads of state.

Under the artistic direction of Aubrey Adams, Ambalaika includes Trinidad's leading steelband, the B. W. I. A. Sunset Steel Band. This band, which won acclaim at Trinidad's 1973 Champion Steel Band, has travelled throughout the world and has appeared at New York's Radio City Music Hall and Lincoln Center.

In addition Ambalaika features the Calypso King of Trinidad and Tobago, "The Mighty Duke" (Kelvin Pope), who each year since 1968 has successfully defended his title before 12,000 spectators in a government-sponsored competition.

If this weren't enough, there are also included a Folk Drumming Section, which joined Ambalaika in 1970 and represented Trinidad at Expo '67 in Montreal, and a folk choir of native singers.

The company is without peer in presenting not only the familiar dances usually associated with the Caribbean but also the dances influenced by the French, the Indians, and the Africans who made Trinidad their home for the past three centuries.

The first half of the program features the entire company in a musical presentation entitled "The Village" (Grande Riviere), consisting of dances, songs, and instrumental music centered around a triangle love affair.

After intermission, the program offers separate presentations of the Trinidad All-Stars Steelband, the Folk Choir and Folk Musicians, a Can Can Creole Dance, Kelvin Pope - the "Mighty Duke" of Calypso, the King Sailor Dance, Drummology (with vocalists), and — as a finale — Dance Ambalaika, a carnival dance showing the joy and abandonment associated with the carnival season. This last number stars the entire company and the steelband.

Harkness Ballet Is Exhilarating Spirit

by Lissa Charles

"Its youth, freshness and spirit are the qualities which give so much life and dynamism to the Harkness Ballet"... Franz Walter of the Journal de Geneve, Switzerland, could not have written a more appropriate phrase in his attempt to describe the overall presence of this gifted dance company.

It was indeed a pleasure to experience this exhilarating spirit last Thursday evening, when the Harkness Ballet performed at Memorial Auditorium. It was a cold, snowy night, but our hearts were warmed by the grace and charm of this vibrant company.

A front row seat is not always the most desirable position when viewing a ballet performance. For the close proximity may often detract from the entire visual effect, and expose the viewer to disillusioning body strain and unnecessary noise (such as the sound of twenty pair of toe shoes tapping the stage at the same time). For this reason I was slightly apprehensive about holding a front row ticket. But when the curtain went up, and twenty dancers filled the stage with a rapid allegro movement, all doubt was immediately erased from my mind. Each dancer possessed such grace, control, and complete composure, that the close proximity simply enhanced my appreciation of their talent.

The Harkness Ballet performed four very different, but equally beautiful movements which successfully illustrated the company's exceptional command of both classical and modern ballet. The first movement, entitled "Schubert Variations," consisted of classical, but far from stale, choreography which was executed with exact precision. Each variation and mood was accentuated by the company's overwhelming stage presence, kinetic motion and emotion.

The second, and perhaps the most penetrating movement, was performed by only four dancers. "The Brook," choreographed by Richard Kuch, was adapted from Bertolt Brecht's drama, "Mother Courage and Her Children." Kuch chose a point of view some fifteen years after the conclusion of this play, at which time the mother, childless and desperate, still pulls her wagon in search of war. Her mind is clouded by visions of the past, which present the conflict of absolute finality of death.

No finer combination of choreography, music, sound effects and costumes could have expressed the gnawing pain and agony that these pathetic characters endured. The audience was captivated by bizarre, sensual body contractions and contortions, paradoxical dissonance and harmony between the dancers, and the convincing theatrical facial expressions of dread and horror at life's affirmation. Perhaps the uncanny silence which pervaded throughout the audience after the finale of the modern ballet, was an indication of its penetrating effect. If is difficult, and perhaps unwarranted to continue eulogizing this particular composition, for the dynamic impact of "The Brood" can never be expressed through words alone. It is a visual experience which surpasses the realm of language, and must be witnessed with the eye in order to pay it any justice. Special recognition, however, is due to the four dancers who individually and collectively expressed both Brecht's and Kuch's conception of eternal agony: Helen Heineman (the mother), Mindy Gass (the daughter), Darrell Barnett (the younger son), and Zane Wilson (the eldest son).

Following this modern ballet, the company made a sharp transition into a conventional pas de deux entitled "Le Corsaire," Tanju Tuzer, from Turkey, and Manola Asensio, a Swiss dancer, delivered an expertise of romantic choreography. This was a necessary, light and vivacious performance which alleviated the solemn mood set by "The Brood." The choreography was full of surprisingly new and original movements. After a brief pause, the entire company appeared on stage, dressed in simple brown and red leotards, which exposed the grace and contour of their agile bodies. "Ceremonials" was the final performance, a beautiful melange of classical and modern ballet. Once again, the Corps de Ballet expressed their art harmoniously.

Every ballet was performed without a back-drop which simply emphasized the visual quality of the choreography. What did affect the authenticity of the performance was the absence of live orchestral music. Mechanical deficiencies in the taped sound-tracks detracted from the movements rendering a "rehearsal" atmosphere. This criticism is not enough to color the overall quality of this first class performance.

The Harkness Ballet has scheduled a United States tour of more than twenty cities for February and March of this year. Keep this in mine of you would like to see a truly gifted group of dancers. The company's talent includes every facet of the performing arts.

Vermont Chamber Arts To Begin Fourteenth Annual Concert Series

Concerts by three small ensembles and by a duo will be offered by the University of Vermont Lane Chamber Arts Series starting February 23 in the fourteenth annual season of the Series designed to bring to Burlington artists with highly specific appeal.

The series will open February 23 with the prestigious Eastman Brass Quintet, a five member ensemble associated with the Eastman School in Rochester, N.Y. Their instruments include trombone, French horn, tuba and two trumpets.

The following concert on March 13 will feature two artists of international reputation, soprano Camilla Williams and clarinetist David Glazer, who join in presenting the special chamber music for soprano and clarinet. Miss Williams made her debut with the New York City Opera in the title tole of "Madam Butterfly," while Glazer is a virtuoso member of the famed New York Woodwind Quintet.

The Early Music Consort of London, directed by David Munrow, will present a concert of pre-classical music April 9. Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque music will be performed on archaic instruments such as the aitole, recorder, dulcian, gershorn, kortholt, and shawm, as well as the more conventional bagpipes, harpsichord, lute and tambourine.

The concluding concert April 17 will be offered by the Cleveland Quartet, which in the two years since its debut at the Marlboro, Vt. Festival has stepped into the front rank of chamber music ensembles. The Quartet has succeeded the Budapest Quartet as Artists-in-Residence at the University of New York at Buffalo.

All four concerts will be held in Ira Allen Chapel at 8 p.m. Reservations for the season, and for general seating at individual concerts, are available now in the Lane Office, Waterman Building at the University, telephone 656-3418, and at Baileys Music Rooms, Church Street, Burlington.

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE
Double Feature
SUPERDAD
SON OF FLUBBER
Call theater for times

CINEMA 1 & 2
MARK OF THE DEVIL II
7 + 9
SLEEPER
7 + 9

Showcase 1 & 2
THE STING
Call theater for times
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
Call theater for times

FLYNN
SERPICO
Call theater for times

Essex Twin Cinema
PAPER MOON
Call theater for times
MASH
7:00 + 9:00

music th

by Michael Thurston

WANTED DEAD OR ALIVE
David Bromberg
Columbia, List Price $3.98

David Bromberg is the Al Capone of pop music. Wanted Dead or Alive is his best, and most outrageous album. Cover design alone, is worth the purchase price, with Bromberg playing the infamous role of King Kong. He's a weird dude, and has dedicated his latest to Mom and Pop.

Side one of the album has been in the can for some time. All of it was recorded at Wally Heider's in San Francisco, with The Grateful Dead sitting in. The date of these recordings is August 17, 1972. Side one is the strongest collection, with Bromberg's acoustic guitar at an all-time high on Someone Else's Blues. Other selections from 'A' side include The Holdup, written by Bromberg in conjunction with George Harrison, Danger Man, "an up-beat vaudevillian number with The Sweet Inspirations comprising a tasty chorus line, [illegible] Mode, room-t blues. Side New Studio 1973, Send Chair, City b audien w a c marke Leiber has produc written ago. D Bromb Tracy backgr Payne sax, T and S Includ are de of Mc and L Bell B solid efforts excelle make y

UVM Conc

by Peter Campbell

In an interview with the Cynic, Doug Beardsley, head of the Concert Bureau, discussed concert promotion. "The ultimate success of a concert depends on a lot of ifs," he stated. "First, we look at the dates favorable to us. Then, with the help of an agent in Boston, we look at available dates given by the performers. So we choose a performer and put in a bid for a certain date, which the performer may, or may not, accept. They usually put it off till the last moment, while we have to sit on our thumbs. But if they do accept, it's a shaky thing. They may decide not to show, as what happened with Van Morrison in September — they may plead illness, as Roberta Flack did in October, or they may drop us if they are given a larger bid say, in Madison Square Garden. I mean, who wants to come out to the sticks when they can swing in the Big Appie?"

WOODY ALLEN TAKES A NOSTALGIC LOOK AT THE FUTURE

Woody Allen and Diane Keaton in "Sleeper"

"WOODY ALLEN REMAINS THE FUNNIEST MAN IN MOVIES". New York News

Evenings at 7 + 9
Mat. Sat. + Sun. 2 PM
PG

BURLINGTON PLAZA CINEMA 1 & 2
PHONE 862-5070 ANYTIME!

FOR THE PERFECT NITE OUT, IT'S THE SIZZLING STEAK FOLLOWED BY A Stephen Stills-Manassas Muldaur CONCERT.

MENU

12 OUNCE BONE IN SIRLOIN STEAK DINNER $3.99
The House Specialty

8 OUNCE BONELESS SIRLOIN STEAK DINNER $3.59

½ LB. CHOPPED SIRLOIN DINNER $2.59

10 OUNCE TOP SIRLOIN STEAK DINNER USDA CHOICE OUR FINEST ITEM $5.89

ALL DINNERS INCLUDE
• Buttered Baked Potatoe • Hot Buttered Rolls
• Crisp Chef's Salad With Our Homemade Dressings
SELECT FROM A VARIETY OF DESSERTS at small extra charge

SIZZLING STEAK
1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(NEXT TO SHOWCASE I & II)
(ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
HOURS
DINING ROOM: 4 P.M. TO 11 P.M. MON.-FRI. NOON TO 11 P.M. SAT.-SUN.
LOUNGE: 4 P.M. TO 1 A.M. MON.-FRI. NOON TO 1 A.M. SAT.-SUN.
SERVING ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

$1.00 SPECIAL $1.00
DOLLAR SHOWINGS
THX 11:38
4:00 PM AND 9:00 PM
THURSDAY (2/14)
SHOWCASE I & II
WILLISTON ROAD
TONIGHT $1.00

New Member honoring Cynic Theater Discount Card
Essex Twin Cinema
Pearl St. Essex Jct. Next to A&P

APPEARING FOR ONE WEEK
CASTLE
Feb 18-23
MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED FEMALES FREE
WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10¢ NITE
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE
THE SILVER KEG
156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

bedspreads
batiks rugs
beads
pillows antique pipes tapestries
hookahs
chess sets
wall hangings
boxes
mirrors
leather hats
Tiffany buckles
bags
10% off shirts, dresses and blouses from Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Nepal and other places near and up to 50%

See Them
dj's PL
1085 Shelburne Rd., S. Bu

Dance Next Week

offers separate ions of the Trinidad Steelband, the Folk
d Folk Musicians, a Creole Dance, Kelvin
e "Mighty Duke" of the King Sailor Dance, Drummology (with vocalists), and – as a finale –
Dance Ambalaika, a carnival dance showing the joy and abandonment associated with the carnival season. This last number stars the entire company and the steelband.

rating Spirit

facial expressions and horror at life's
n. Perhaps the silence which throughout the
after the finale of rn ballet, was in
of its penetrating is difficult, and unwarranted to eulogizing this composition, for ic impact of "The can never be through words
a visual experience asses the realm of and must be with the eye in
ay it any justice.
cognition, however,
the four dancers and Kuch's
of eternal agony:
Heineman (the Mindy Gars (the Darrell Barnett
er son), and Zane eldest son).
this modern company made a nsition into a el pas de deux
e Corsaive." Tanju
m Turkey, and ensio, a Swiss livered an expertise
tic choreography.
a necessary, light
ious performance viated the solemn mood set by "The Brood."
The choreography was full of surprisingly new and original movements. After a brief pause, the entire company appeared on stage, dressed in simple brown and red leotards, which exposed the grace and contour of their agile bodies. "Ceremonials" was the final performance, a beautiful melange of classical and modern ballet. Once again, the Corps de Ballet expressed their art harmoniously.

Every ballet was performed without a back-drop which simply emphasized the visual quality of the choreography.
What did affect the authenticity of the performances was the absence of live orchestral music.
Mechanical deficiencies in the taped sound tracks detracted from the movements
rendering a "rehearsal" atmosphere. This criticism is not enough to color the overall quality of this first class performance.

The Harkness Ballet has scheduled a United States tour of more than twenty cities for February and March of this year. Keep this in mine of you would like to see a truly gifted group of dancers. The company's talent includes every facet of the performing arts.

ber Arts To Begin
nual Concert Series

23 with the Eastman Brass
a five member associated with the School in Rochester.
Their instruments
trombone, French and two trumpets llowing concert on will feature two artists of international reputation, soprano Camilla
Williams and clarinetist David Glazer, who join in presenting the special chamber music for soprano and clarinet. Miss Williams made her debut with the New York City Opera in the title role of "Madam Butterfly," while Glazer is a virtuoso member of the famed New York Woodwind Quintet.

The Early Music Consort of London, directed by David Munrow, will present a concert of pre-classical music
April 9. Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque music will be performed on archaic instruments such as the citole, recorder, dulcian, serpent, kortholt, and shawm,
as well as the more conventional bagpipes, harpsichord, lute and tambourine.

The concluding concert
April 17 will be offered by the Cleveland Quartet, which in the two years since its debut at the Marlboro, Vt.
Festival has stepped into the front rank of chamber music ensembles. The Quartet has succeeded the Budapest Quartet as Artists-in-Residence at the University of New York at Buffalo.

All four concerts will be held in Ira Allen Chapel at 8 p.m. Reservations for the season, and for general seating at individual concerts, are available now in the Lane Office, Waterman Building at the University, telephone
656-3418, and at Balleys
Music Rooms, Church Street,
Burlington.

DE Discount Card

music thing

by Michael Thorsen

WANTED DEAD OR ALIVE
Dgrid Bromberg
Columbia, List Price, $5.98

David Bromberg is the Al Capone of pop music. Wanted Dead or Alive is his best, and most outrageous album. Cover design alone, is worth the purchase price, with Bromberg playing the infamous role of King Kong. He's a weird dude, and has dedicated his latest to Mom and Pop.

Side one of the album has been in the can for some time. All of it was recorded at Wally Heider's in San Francisco, with The Grateful Dead sitting in. The date of these recordings is August 17, 1972. Side one is the strongest collection, with Bromberg's acoustic guitar at an all-time high on Someone Else's Blues. Other selections from side "A" side include The Holdup, written by Bromberg in conjunction with George Harrison, Danger Man, an up-beat vaudevillian number with The Sweet Inspirations comprising a tasty chorus line, and The Main Street Moan, which is a room-temperature, delicate blues.

Side two was recorded in New York at Columbia Studios, September 11-13, 1973, with some of it, such as Bend Me, Shape Me To the Electric Chair, Wallflower, and Kansas City being done before a live audience. Dylan's Wallflower is a comic caricature of the masked-man himself, while Leiber & Stoller's Kansas City has never been such production since it was written over twenty years ago. Demonic! In addition to Bromberg and The Dead, Tracy Nelson joins rank as a background vocalist, John Payne performs on soprano sax, Tony Markellis on bass, and Steve Mosley on drums. Included within the album are delicious interpretations of McTell's Statesboro Blues and Luke Jordan's Church Bell Blues, adding yet more solid and commendable efforts. This is an album of excellence, so sinister it'll make ya snicker!

Sharpe Explores Aspects Of Journalism

by Sig Heller

Lynne Sharpe, the young, vivacious senior editor of Encore magazine, gave an exciting journalism workshop to a small but motivated audience at Commons Building 0 of the Living/Learning Center. Sponsored by the Cross Cultural Communications Component, the workshop explored the complex aspects of a monthly news magazine.

Encore is based in New York City and is a relative newcomer to the newsstand. The magazine is three years old and growing rapidly. Circulation is presently 150,000. Ms. Sharpe described the magazine's appeal as wide-ranging with readers from age 18 to 40 and incomes of $15,000 to $35,000. Encore was started by Ida Lewis, a former free lancer for Life magazine and a former editor of Essence. Ms. Lewis is presently editor and publisher.

Encore as Ms. Sharpe stated, is unique in the way it conveys the news to the community. It presents news to blacks and whites. "Encore is a news monthly with a black perspective."

Ms. Sharpe described the function of a senior [illegible] and pointed out the tensions and frustrations that are part of putting together a 40 to 50 page monthly magazine. Lynn Sharpe's jobs include editing copy, writing features, and a regular column called "Lady Encore." Her responsabilities also include "having to do everybody else's job and then some." She also explained that there is a lot more to a magazine than good writing. The cover is especially important. It is what makes or breaks a magazine on the newstand. There is also the aspects of business, to put out a magazine one has to have advertising and this is especially hard because black publications compete for a very small percentage of advertising money allocated by agencies.

Encore is, as Ms. Sharpe explained, honest and open. "We explore issues others won't touch." For this type of reporting many blacks have spurned the magazine. To illustrate its tough reporting, Ms. Sharpe gave an account of the review done on Wilt Chamberlain's controversial book. She criticized his preferences for white women and pro-Nixon stands.

Ms. Sharpe was a journalism major at NYU and went on to graduate work at Columbia University in journalism. She got her start in magazine journalism by free lancing and recommends this activity for others interested in journalism as a career.

SPS Photo: Sig Wsolmerski

The Bar Review:

Chance Mating, Pub Alive

The Last Chance

The Dating Game! Remember – that old daytime television show ABC sandwiched in between two soap operas with a burned out quiz game emcee whose smile was so wide he could swallow a banana sideways and simultaneously intone "Heeerre they are" as a curtain opened, exposing three well-tanned bachelors, spitting out lines from a Beach Blanket Bingo movie, in furious pursuit of a hidden bachelorette... well, sure enough, Burlington's Last Chance Bar features the Phoenix of The Dating Game, only this time the scenario is slightly altered. It's called The Mating Game, and the bachelorettes are composed primarily of Trinity College's famous frigid five-hundred.

Located on Main Street, in what is veritably a converted basement, The Last Chance's decor fits our Hollywood-plastic motif perfectly. Even the red carpet conveys the insipid, pseudo-regal aura of a Howard Johnson's turnpike restaurant. The fables are haphazardly arranged around a large bar that is really a conduit for pumping alcohol to table seated patrons. The Last Chance's bar is hardly designed for grabbing a stool and conducting a friendly chat with your barkeep. Though the Chance is generally well-kept, this reviewer warns against utilizing the bathroom facilities for anything more than ridding oneself of his last beer, as the men's room usually resembles a fraternity washroom on a Sunday morning after a Saturday night keg blast.

We have no real quarrel with the beverages offered at the Chance, or with their going prices. Along with the cheapest mixed-drink prices in the Church Street – Main Street area, the Last Chance also serves Schlitz on tap and throws in a week-night bonus of Genesee Cream Ale for only 20 cents per draft. However, the menu is sparse, and the over-priced hamburgers rival those at Al's French Fry for the dubious honor of Burlington's worst. I believe the steer was still breathing when the bartender served this writer his first and last two Chance hamburgers.

UVM Concerts Depend On Many Ifs

by Peter Campbell

In an interview with the Cynic, Doug Beardsley, head of the Concert Bureau, discussed concert promotion: "The ultimate success of a concert depends on a lot of ifs," he stated. "First, we look at the dates favorable to us. Then, with the help of an agent in Boston, we look at available dates given by the performers. So we choose a performer and put in a bid for a certain date, which the performer may, or may not, accept. They usually put it off till the last moment, while we have to sit on our thumbs. If they do accept, it's all a shaky thing. They may decide not to come. This happened with Van Morrison in September, they may plead illness, as Roberta Flack did in October, or they may drop us if they are given a larger bid – say, in Madison Square Garden. I mean, who wants to come out to the sticks when they can swing in the Big Apple?"

According to Beardsley, the next step is fulfilling UVM's part of the contract. Usually attached to the main contract is the "rider," a list detailing stage and power requirements, accident clauses, etc. But it often includes details to meet the whims of the performer. Doug cited the Stephen Stills contract, which stipulates there will be "two cases of cold, canned Coca Cola, two cases of cold Budweiser, and a carton of crush-proof Marlboro cigarettes backstage."

"We don't mind kissing [illegible] unfamiliar town and cannot expect to know where the package stores are, Doug mused. "But why must we pay for Still's cigarettes when we are paying him twelve and a half thousand dollars?"

He was confident, though, that the concert would be a success. "We have sold almost half the tickets two weeks in advance, which is much better than usual." He went on to explain that the relatively late starting time of ten o'clock was due to a basketball practice being held in the Gym that afternoon.

"We are obligated by contract to give the Stills people six hours to set up, but we're only going to give them four and a half hours, because the basketball team won't finish until five thirty."

"But we have no deadline for leaving the Gym," he added.

As for future concerts, Doug was hopeful about a major rock concert for [illegible] but refused to divulge the name, "because of the vicious rumor syndrome, where people's expectations are falsely raised."

The Bureau, which had a $10,000 cushion from the SA at the beginning of the year, is now down to $5,000. "We dropped $4,000 on the Freddy King concert," Doug explained. "It was unfortunate; we chose a bad time. The Lane Series had Doc Watson and Community Media had concerts within days of that one." Doug said the Bureau would be more careful, and are now closely working with Community Media, who will be having two shows of their own this spring, besides the annual blues show in April, which they will do together.

Also in the plans, are a series of concerts to be held Sunday nights in the Ira Allen Chapel. Hopefully, one or more of these will be jazz shows, planned with the help of Ed Bemis, who teaches the University jazz courses.

Texas Tornado

Sir Douglas Recapitulates Previous Work

by Doug Collette

TEXAS TORNADO
The Sir Douglas Band
(Atlantic)

Remember The Sir Douglas Quintet? "She's About A Mover"? "Mendocino"? Whether you do or not, I'm writing this to tell you that Sir Doug Sahm is still around, doing what he does as only he can do it and better than ever, too.

Texas Tornado is for Doug what The Joker is to Steve Miller: a recapitulation of all the musician has ever done plus the polish and naturalness gained only from doing it so long. The Joker was a commercial blockbuster for the Space Cowboy and I only hope this album can bring his fellow Texan a sizable audience. He deserves it as much, if not more, than Miller.

I'm usually leery of stylists who switch from genre to genre, but with Doug Sahm, it's okay, because he manages to convince me that he understands his music. There are plenty of musicians who know the form, but they shortchange the feeling and whether it's country ("I'll Be There"), blues ("San Francisco FM Blues"), jazz ("Someday") or rock and roll ("Texas Tornado"), I know that Doug knows exactly what he's doing. There's a sureness in this man's music that's unmistakable.

The core of the musicians on Texas Tornado are permanent members of the Sahm Band but there is some outside assistance from Dr. John, David Bromberg and David "Fathead" Newman among others. Whatever the personnel combination, the players know what the song needs and how to provide it with their instruments. Talent and efficiency aplenty and I've got a strong feeling Sahm is responsible for much of that too; after all his years of gigging and recording, he must have a keen sense for drawing the best from his accompanists. In fact, the lot of them sound like they've been playing as a unit for some time.

The extra-professional production is what sets this album apart from, say, Honky Blues. The music is just as honest though, which keeps it from getting slick. But then Doug Sahm wouldn't know how to get really slick.

After all, Doug sings like he just barely swallowed the last swig of Lone Star and sometimes he sounds like he hasn't swallowed all of it. His lead guitar is tantalizing, and he wrote eight of the eleven tracks which, in addition to the tunes I mentioned before, include a Chicano number called – you guessed it – "Chicano." There's even the Quintet's patented Tex-Mex mixture on "Nitty Gritty". Everything would sound best in a bar but the album will sound good wherever you hear it. You'll feel comfortable with it and that's something very special.

bedspreads
bells
rugs
beads
pillows
antler pipes tapestries
hookahs
chess sets
wall hangings
boxes
mirrors
leather hats
Tiffany buckles
bags
wineskins
candles
silver turquoise and bone jewelry oils
mugs incense
tea sets
toiletries
planters occult books
statues
CORGULA
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
Imports Exotic
boutique
10% off with this ad
802-862-3718
shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

SALE
PANT SUITS
LONG DRESSES for your SORORITY PARTIES & DANCES up to 50% OFF
See Them At dj's PLUM
HIS & HER FASHION BOUTIQUE
1085 Shelburne Rd., S. Burlington, Vt.

Budweiser
PRESENTS
TONIGHT, EVERY NIGHT ON RADIO
THE CBS RADIO MYSTERY THEATER
Brand-new radio drama just like it used to be: great! A different show every night. Produced by Hi Brown who did "Inner Sanctum," "Thin Man" and many others. E. G. Marshall is the host. Check local radio listings for time and station in your area.

AUDIO DEN
100 DORSET STREET PLAZA
RED TAG SALE

USED

	PRICE
Dynaco Stereo 80	80.00
Electro-Voice FM Tuner	69.00
Criterion 50-A Speakers	40.00/pr.
Creative Speakers (model 22)	35.00/pr.
Utah Speakers (model HSI-C)	125.00/pr.
KLH 38 Speakers	80.00/pr.
AR Turntable	70.00 complete
Fisher 60 Receiver	125.00
VM Turntable	24.95
Scott Speakers (M-14)	39.95/pr.
EMI Speakers (M55)	35.00/pr.
Panasonic FM-AM Stereo Cassette	35.00

NEW & DEMOS

	LIST	SALE
Garrard 40-B Turntables	81.50 each	44.95 each
Sony TC-122	115.95 each	85.00 each
AR-2ax Speakers	149.00 each	89.00 each
AR-5 Speakers	200.00 each	269.00/pr.
KLH-31 Speakers	89.95/pr.	69.95/pr.
KLH-32 Speakers	110.00/pr.	79.95/pr.
Ultralinear Speakers		49.95/pr.
AR-8 Speakers	120.00 each	89.95/pr.
Superscope Speakers	59.95/pr.	49.95/pr.
Infinity POSI Speakers	190.00/pr.	139.00/pr.
Metrotec 4-Channel Decoder	150.00	49.95
Superscope S-212 Speakers	139.99/pr.	100.00/pr.
Harmon-Kardon-20 Speakers	70.00/pr.	49.95/pr.
Superscope S-16 Speakers	49.95/pr.	39.95/pr.
Sansui 4-Channel Receiver Or-500	249.95	189.00
Superscope 4-Channel OA-420 Receiver	199.95	149.95
Superscope S-310 Speakers	139.95 each	89.95 each
Infinity 1001 Speakers	145.00 each	119.95 each

Seventeen Seniors Hold Class Meeting

by Laurie Rapp

Last Thursday evening, Senior Gary Shaw called a meeting of the Senior Class. Whatever the prevalent excuse, lack of publicity or mere apathy, only seventeen seniors arrived at Billings for the gathering. This was not surprising however.

Those seniors, Mitchell Cooperman, Carole Lederberg, and Susan Wolgel, have comprised up until now, what has been the uncontested "Senior Class Council". Since September this trio has tried to organize seniors unaided by S.A. and fellow seniors. Without the financial aide of S. A., activities will be and have been extremely limited. Newsletters sent out appealing to the seniors for help and ideas have received little or no response. Part of the problem lies in the fact that most of the off-campus seniors addresses are unavailable, leaving half the senior class unnotified.

Homecoming Weekend the senior class sponsored a mum sale and made $162 which presently constitutes the entire treasury. In order to obtain more money which would be necessary to finance any activity desired by the class, a constitution must first be submitted to the S.A. to be recognized and then a petition to acquire funds S.A. has not to this time acknowledged the class' attempts to this end.

On Saturday, March 9, the Senior Class in conjunction with the placement and alumni offices will be sponsoring a "Career Day," aimed primarily at aiding the undecided senior in choosing career possibilities. The Burlington and UVM communities are also quite welcome. The atmosphere is to be informal with discussions beginning at 10 a. m. and after lunch, provided by SAGA, there will be several speakers lasting until about 4 p. m. The activities will take place in the fireplace lounge in the Living and Learning Center. Speakers will not be company representatives but UVM alumni from a broad array of fields who are concerned about UVM students. This will be the first major senior class activity.

In order to facilitate further activities and a more organized and unified class, there will be a meeting of the entire class on Thursday, February 14 in the Living and Learning Center at 7:30 p. m. Mitchell Cooperman will lead the meeting. Gary Shaw will be presenting the senior class constitution in hopes of it being ratified by S. A. next week. Topics for discussion will be an upcoming Senior Beer and Pizza Party, Career Day, Senior Week, and Commencement. Also some other possibilities for senior activities will be discussed such as dances, bands, party cruises on lake Champlain, beach party, and senior hikes. Attendance at this meeting is critical to the eventuality of the class's activities.

Reverend Sun Myung Moon...

(continued from page one)

published in The New York Times on November 30, 1973.

"Today we hear so much about America's troubles what is wrong and who is to blame, what should be done, and what cannot be done. Vicious accusation is becoming a daily staple in the American diet. Hatred and bitterness are killing the human soul. Some people cry out "Impeach the President." Opinion is divided, and the people talk on. Should the President remain in office? Should the President resign or be tried?

"We were all eye-witnesses to America's assassination of her President, John F. Kennedy, in 1963. But today, without many realizing it, America is in the process of slowly killing her President once again.

"A bullet killed Kennedy, yet the nation united in a common feeling of sorrow and repentance.

"This time the 'bullet' of hatred and accusation is capable of destroying not only the President, but the nation with him. In a war of hatred, no one is the winner.

"America must forgive. Whatever wrongs have been done, whatever mistakes are being made, America has a noble creed to perform. America must forgive. The Watergate affair is an error, not only the error of a few men, but the error of humanity, the error of the American people. The Lord's Prayer says, "Forgive us our debts as we also have forgiven our debtors." If we want God to forgive us, we have to forgive each other first.

"The Watergate is not merely a test of the President. The Watergate is a test of America's faith. How will this nation stand before God in the midst of moral crisis? Can this nation, which was founded 200 years ago based on the Christian tradition, uphold that same tradition today? Can this nation prove its generosity and mutual forgiveness? Can it love? This is the test for the American people. Long ago the American settlers on the New England shores made many grave mistakes. But with their trust in God they came through many crises. They could then lead America to prosperity."

In the light of a strong current of anti-Nixon sentiment and persistent criticism and resentment of the President, Reverend Moon has taken a courageous stand—in defense of Mr. Nixon.

Having Unification Church members from other countries here in Burlington for this effort indicates that the United States plays a most important role in "the Providence of Heavenly Restoration." This element of internationalism has set the movement apart from countless others. Members of the Unification are deeply involved with each other as spiritually inspired individuals, anxious to transcend the barriers of culture, and committed to establishing a harmonious, working relationship as one family of Christians. The language differences are not a preventative communication obstacle since members relate to each other on the common basis of a deeply felt belief in the necessity of fulfilling God's will.

The Unification Church is formed around the Divine Principle, a set of ideas offering a very logical interpretation of the Bible. The interpretation deals with questions of God's presence in our lives, his reasons and [illegible] creating man and the universe, his intervention in human history, and Jesus and his mission. The Divine Principle also concerns itself with man's spiritual progress, the attainment of salvation, and the role of a new messiah. This basic understanding of scriptural works leads the movement to formulate goals which seek to deal with the crises of the 20th Century. Reverend Moon is establishing what he believes to be the vital link between his New Christianity and the resolution of present day conflicts such as the contradiction between religion and science or spirituality and technology, and the clash between Capitalism and Communism. Cooperation among cultures and the effective establishment of one world family will enhance the hope for the future.

If I Was A Mormon, Then I Wouldn't Have To Drink!

by Elliot Freeman

The last time I was in Salt Lake City was in late November of 1973, on the way to California... San Francisco bound. I had been driving since Grand Junction, Colorado. My companion (good friend), thrill seeker and part-time guru, Peter Bach, was in the passenger seat, fast asleep, head leaned against the side window. It was closing in on four hours that I had been behind the wheel (strangled within its hold) slicing through cold empty flat windy nighttime void, the Utah desert. Was there a spaceship in the inky distance ready to swallow me up? No one would ever know what happened (slip into a soft spot in the desert's wing and never be seen again). Paranoid, highway driving visions weighing extremely heavy on my eyelids. (white line, wind howl, watch out! dip in the road) Rabbit running through the spotlight of my hi-beams, monster tanker truck sneaks up the pitchblack alley of the sideview mirror, makes me jump then he passes (laughing) down the highway, onward: Bach speaks and spooks me.

"Hey! Did you see that sign?"

"Whew! I thought you were still sleeping!"

"Did you see that sign, that billboard?"

"No, I missedit."

"The sign said, Welcome to the Home of the LSD Church, I swear it said LSD Church, we'll have to stop. Where are we anyway?"

"We are approaching Salt Lake City, approximate time of arrival is in one half of an hour. We are cruising at a speed of sixty-five miles per hour. If you glance forward and off to your right you will see the lights of the Great Salt City, reknowned for its taffy and home of the one and only LSD Church, more commonly referred to as the Church of Latter Day Saints, often spoken of as The Mormon Church..."

"Listen Commander, say no more about Mormons, I have known quite a few and the only good Mormon is a drunk Mormon!"

"Hey! That comment is in very poor taste, no sense in getting these folks riled."

At five in the morning, we swept into downtown Salt Lake. The streets shining straight and clean and blank; the church towers reaching for the distant stars and golden angles danced naked above the silent wind-blown sleeping paradise. We pulled into a parking space and stumbled into a sparkling diamond of an all-nigh cafeteria. Giddy from the mues of highway I saw white [illegible] on the door of the cafe and on the few faces that lingered in the stillness. Once inside, we squiggled into an open booth. It was during the downing of some coffee that Bach launched into his lecture concerning Mormons, this fulfilling his role as part-time guru. The meat of that discourse will be recounted in full, if my memory serves me well.

"You have never known me to be outwardly religious, I stand before a person upon this spaceship earth, inwardly spiritual. That acknowledged, I will now inform you to the best of my ability on the subject of church and god and man. The Mormon Church has the right as anyone on this planet to walk down any path it so desires and if so inclined advertise the finding of this path and try with all of its resources and energy to communicate to others what they hold to be the Gospel, the Truth, the Way. But you must realize that there are millions of people in this universe, a million Gospels, a million Truths and a million Ways. As an individual you have the right and duty to listen, to see, to ramble and gamble, to have the courage and fortunate luck to find your own. Remember, the dagger of religion cuts deep into many men's hearts but the silver cloud of spirit floats above all man's souls."

"Matthew Warner and Dee Atkin are on a two year mission, representing the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, the Mormon Church. They are clean thinking, clean living, friendly people faithfully dedicated to their beliefs. They are anxious and willing to talk to anyone concerning the church the teachings of the Book of Mormon or life in general. Both are young men in their early twenties who left their jobs, their homes and families with the conviction that they have something to share which is good conscience, they cannot selfishly keep. They reside at 10[illegible] North, Winooski [illegible] minds and doors are always open.

Orchid Film Society Offers Film Series

The Orchid Film Society, organized by Doreen Kraft and Robin Lloyd, is again offering a series of experimental films, to run through April 11 this spring. The films planned for this coming Wednesday and Thursday, February 13 and 14, should be especially interesting to Burlington residents: they are all made by Vermont filmmakers, many of whom have obtained grants from the Vermont Council on the Arts to complete their projects. The filmmakers are: Ralph Steiner, Thetford Hills; Paul Gray, Bennington; Robin Lloyd, Chelsea; Walter Ungerer, Plainfield; and Alan Dater, Marlboro. Some of them will be present for talk and questions. The films range from Paul Gray's Aphasia, a 30 minute film that dramatizes conflicts between psychotherapists and patients in a sanatorium, to Alan Dater's Vermont Sculpture Symposium, a documentaty on the creation and installation of the large sculptures that dot the rest areas on Rte. 89.

The following week will feature the films of Kenneth A[illegible] Rising, a mythical portrait of the [illegible]

****

Happy Valentine's Day

****

The New Future of Christianity

Reverend Sun Myung Moon

His challenging message of unification comes at a time when it is sorely needed. Thousands who have heard him speak have felt new inspiration from his common-sense approach to scripture and his deep insight into prophecy.

"Never in my life have I been so convinced that a man is the epitome of what I think Christ would be, should he actualty be here in the flesh. I have seen no other man today going on a more direct route to kingdom building, family building, than Rev. Moon." Pastor William H. Luke, Los Angeles, California

Typical comments by persons hearing Rev. Moon for the first time:

"I felt that he was speaking directly to me during the whole evening." Felice Jarmel, Director of Nursing, New York City hospital.

"I learned more about Christianity in a few minutes than I learned in a whole year of Bible college." Michael Herbst, Philadelphia.

The warm response Reverend Moon found on his recent tour inspired him to immediately launch his 1974 Day of Hope tour to 32 new cities from February 18 to April 29, thereby fulfilling God's command to carry this crusade to all 50 states. We invite you to hear Reverend Moon speak with prophetic insight on "The New Future of Christianity." It will be an evening you won't soon forget.

Feb. 18

Champlain Room 8PM Ramada Inn

1117 Williston Road, South Burlington For Free Tickets Call- 863-1210

Waterg

Search Committee
Exec. VP Patterson
Moore, Office of Acad
Muller, Assist. Dean, A
Doolin, Acting Develop
Severence
Balch
Flynn
Stanfield
Kirkner

Green Mountain Power
McKibben
Stursenberger

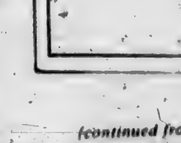
(continued from page

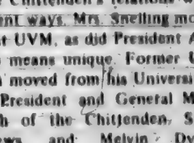
The Chittenden's relations with U different ways. Mrs. Snelling moved f post at UVM, as did President Andre by no means unique. Former UVM Dyson moved from his University po Vice President and General Manag Branch of the Chittenden. So the Andrews and Melvin Dyson, interconnections among the Chittend trustees, supply us with ample prec appointment: As the advertisements is really more than just a bank!

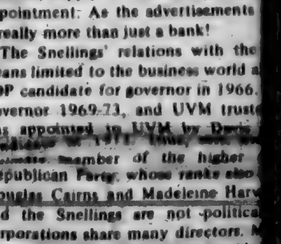
The Snellings' relations with the means limited to the business world GOP candidate for governor in 1966. Governor 1969-73, and UVM trust was appointed to UVM by Davis member of the higher Republican Party, whose ranks also Douglas Cairns and Madeleine Harv and the Snellings are not politica corporations share many directors. National Life executive vice presid member of the Chittenden's Monty Deane Davis and former UVM Presid members of National Life, as is afore Director L. Douglas Meredith, who i with UVM trustee Eaton. Burli president and Republican Senator Board of National Life, and Fey and Boardman are directors of Smith's B Governor John Burgess, the running candidate and trustee Hackett, is Advisory Board of the same Burlingto

These connections among the Life, and Burlington Savings also link Howard Bank and, therefore, UVM Director and Trustee Robert Board Hickock and Boardman Insurance a Munn-Boardman, President of Hicko director of the Howard. Mr. Robert

For Your Prop
May We Pro







PRICES START UNDE
YOU ARE INVITED T
PRESTON'S CHARGE
Prices start from u
F.J. PRESTON &

Seventeen Seniors Hold Class Meeting

by Leslie Rapp

Last Thursday evening Senior Gary Shaw called a meeting of the Senior Class. Whatever the prevalent excuse, lack of publicity or mere apathy, only seventeen seniors attended at Billings for the gathering. This was not surprising however.

Three seniors, Mitchell Cooperman, Carole Lederberg, and Susan Wolpert, have comprised up until now what has been the uncontested "Senior Class Council". Since September this trio has tried to organize seniors unaided by S.A. and fellow seniors. Without the financial aide of S.A. activities will be and have been extremely limited. Newsletters sent out appealing to the seniors for help and ideas have received little or no response. Part of the problem lies in the fact that most of the off-campus seniors addresses are unavailable, leaving half the senior class unnotified.

Homecoming Weekend the senior class sponsored a mum sale and made $162 which presently constitutes the entire treasury. In order to obtain more money which would be necessary to finance any activity desired by the class, a constitution must first be submitted to the S.A. to be recognized and then a petition to acquire funds S.A. has not to this time acknowledged the class' attempts to this end.

On Saturday, March 9, the Senior Class in conjunction with the placement and alumni offices will be sponsoring a "Career Day," aimed primarily at aiding the undecided senior in choosing career possibilities. The Burlington and UVM communities are also quite welcome. The atmosphere is to be informal with discussions beginning at 10 a.m. and after lunch, provided by SAGA, there will be several speakers lasting until about 4 p.m. The activities will take place in the fireplace lounge in the Living and Learning Center. Speakers will not be company representatives but UVM alumni from a broad array of fields who are concerned about UVM students. This will be the first major senior class activity.

In order to facilitate further activities and a more organized and unified class, there will be a meeting of the entire class on Thursday, February 14 in the Living and Learning Center at 7:30 p.m. Mitchell Cooperman will lead the meeting. Gary Shaw will be presenting the senior class constitution in hopes of it being ratified by S.A. next week. Topics for discussion will be an upcoming Senior Beer and Pizza Party, Career Day, Senior Week, and Commencement. Also some other possibilities for senior activities will be discussed such as dances, bands, party cruises on lake Champlain, beach party, and senior hikes. Attendance at this meeting is critical to the eventuality of the class's activities.

Reverend Sun Myung Moon...

(continued from page one)

published in The New York Times on November 30, 1973.

"Today we hear so much about America's troubles what is wrong and who is to blame, what should be done, and what cannot be done. Vicious accusation is becoming a daily staple in the American diet. Hatred and bitterness are killing the human soul. Some people cry out "Impeach the President." Opinion is divided, and the people talk on. Should the President remain in office? Should the President resign or be tried?

"We were all eye-witnesses to America's assassination of her President, John F. Kennedy, in 1963. But today, without many realizing it, America is in the process of slowly killing her President once again.

"A bullet killed Kennedy, yet the nation united in a common feeling of sorrow and repentance.

"This time the 'bullet' of hatred and accusation is capable of destroying not only the President, but the nation with him. In a war of hatred, no one is the winner.

"America must forgive. Whatever wrongs have been done, whatever mistakes are being made, America has a noble deed to perform. America must forgive. The Watergate affair is an error not only the error of a few men, but the error of humanity, the error of the American people. The Lord's Prayer says, "Forgive us our debts as we also have forgiven our debtors." If we want God to forgive us, we have to forgive each other first.

"The Watergate is not merely a test of the President. The Watergate is a test of America's faith. How will this nation stand before God in the midst of moral crisis? Can this nation, which was founded 200 years ago based on the Christian tradition, uphold that same tradition today? Can this nation prove its generosity and mutual forgiveness? Can it love? This is the test for the American people. Long ago the American settlers on the New England shores made many grave mistakes. But with their trust in God they came through many crises. They could then lead America to prosperity."

In the light of a strong current of anti-Nixon sentiment and persistent criticism and resentment of the President, Reverend Moon has taken a courageous stand in defense of Mr. Nixon.

Having Unification Church members from other countries here in Burlington for this effort indicates that the United States plays a most important role in "the Providence of Heavenly Restoration." This element of internationalism has set the movement apart from countless others. Members of the Unification are deeply involved with each other as spiritually inspired individuals, anxious to transcend the barriers of culture, and committed to establishing a harmonious, working relationship as one family of Christians. The language differences are not a preventative communication obstacle since members relate to each other on the common basis of a deeply felt belief in the necessity of fulfilling God's will.

The Unification Church is formed around the Divine Principle, a set of ideas offering a very logical interpretation of the Bible. The interpretation deals with questions of God's presence in our lives, his reasons and ... universe, his intervention in human history, and Jesus and his mission. The Divine Principle also concerns itself with man's spiritual progress, the attainment of salvation, and the role of a new messiah. This basic understanding of scriptural works leads the movement to formulate goals which seek to deal with the crises of the 20th Century. Reverend Moon is establishing what he believes to be the vital link between his New Christianity and the resolution of present day conflicts such as the contradiction between religion and science or spirituality and technology, and the clash between Capitalism and Communism. Cooperation among cultures and the effective establishment of one world family will enhance the hope for the future.

His challenging message of unification comes at a time when it is sorely needed. Thousands who have heard him speak have felt new inspiration from his common-sense approach to scripture and his deep insight into prophecy.

"Never in my life have I been so convinced that a man is the epitome of what I think Christ would be, should he actually be here in the flesh. I have seen no other man today going on a more direct route to kingdom building, family building, than Rev. Moon." Pastor William H. Luke, Los Angeles, California

Typical comments by persons hearing Rev. Moon for the first time:

"I felt that he was speaking directly to me during the whole evening." Felice Jarmel, Director of Nursing, New York City hospital.

"I learned more about Christianity in a few minutes than I learned in a whole year of Bible college." Michael Herbst, Philadelphia.

The warm response Reverend Moon found on his recent tour inspired him to immediately launch his 1974 Day of Hope tour to 32 new cities from February 16 to April 20, thereby fulfilling God's command to carry this crusade to all 50 states. We invite you to hear Reverend Moon speak with prophetic insight on "The New Future of Christianity." It will be an evening you won't soon forget.

The New Future of Christianity

Reverend Sun Myung Moon

Feb. 18

Champlain Room 8PM Ramada Inn

1117 Williston Road, South Burlington For Free Tickets Call- 863-1210

If I Was A Mormon, Then I Wouldn't Have To Drink!

by Elliot Freeman

The last time I was in Salt Lake City was in late November of 1973, on the way to California... San Francisco bound. I had been driving since Grand Junction, Colorado. My companion (good friend), thrill seeker and part-time guru, Peter Bach, was in the passenger seat, fast asleep, head leaned against the side window. It was closing in on four hours that I had been behind the wheel (strangled within its hold) slicing through cold flimpy flat windy nighttime void, the Utah desert. Was there a spaceship in the inky distance ready to swallow me up? No one would ever know what happened (dip into a soft spot in the desert's wing and never be seen again). Paranoid, highway driving visions weighing extremely heavy on my eyelids. (white line, wind howl, watch out! dig in the road) Rabbit running through the spotlight of my hi-beams, monster tanker truck sneaks up the pitchblack alley of the sideview mirror, makes me jump then he passes (laughing) down the highway, onward. Bach speaks and spooks me.

"Hey! Did you see that sign?"

"Whew! I thought you were still sleeping!"

"Did you see that sign, that billboard?"

"No, I missedit."

"The sign said, Welcome to the Home of the LSD Church, I swear it said LSD Church, we'll have to stop. Where are we anyway?"

"We are approaching Salt Lake City, approximate time of arrival is in one half of an hour. We are cruising at a speed of sixty-five miles per hour. If you glance forward and off to your right you will see the lights of the Great Salt City, reknowned for its taffy and home of the one and only LSD Church, more commonly referred to as the Church of Latter Day Saints, often spoken of as, The Mormon Church..."

"Listen Commander, say no more about Mormons, I have known quite a few and the only good Mormon is a drunk Mormon!"

"Hey! That comment is in very poor taste, no sense in getting these folks riled."

At five in the morning, we swept into downtown Salt Lake. The streets shining straight and clean and blank; the church towers reaching for the distant stars and golden angles danced naked above the silent wind-blown sleeping paradise. We pulled into a parking space and stumbled into a sparkling diamond of an all-nigh cafeteria. Giddy from the miles of highway, I saw white buildings, on the floor of the cafe and on the few faces that lingered in the stillness. Once inside, we squirmed into an open booth. It was during the downing of some coffee that Bach launched into his lecture concerning Mormons, thus fulfilling his role as part-time guru. The meat of that discourse will be recounted in full, if my memory serves me well.

"You have never known me to be outwardly religious. I stand naked as a person upon this spaceship earth, inwardly spiritual. That acknowledged, I will now inform you to the best of my ability on the subject of church and god and man. The Mormon Church has the right as anyone on this planet to walk down any path it so desires and if so inclined advertise the finding of this path and try with all of its resources and energy to communicate to others what they hold to be the Gospel, the Truth, the Way. But you must realize that there are millions of people in this universe, a million Gospels, a million Truths and a million Ways. As an individual you have the right and duty to listen, to see, to ramble and gamble, to have the courage and fortunate luck to find your own. Remember; the dagger of religion cuts deep into many men's hearts but the silver cloud of spirit floats above all man's souls."

Matthew Warner and Dee Atkin are on a two year mission, representing the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, the Mormon Church. They are clean thinking, clean living, friendly people faithfully dedicated to their beliefs. They are anxious and willing to talk to anyone concerning the church the teachings of the Book of Mormon or life in general. Both are young men in their early twenties who left their jobs, their homes and families with the conviction that they have something to share which if good conscience, they cannot selfishly keep. They reside at 104 North Winooski Ave. ... and ... are always open.

Orchid Film Society Offers Film Series

The Orchid Film Society, organized by Doreen Kraft and Robin Lloyd, is again offering a series of experimental films, to run through April 11 this spring. The films planned for this coming Wednesday and Thursday, February 13 and 14, should be especially interesting to Burlington residents: they are all made by Vermont filmmakers, many of whom have obtained grants from the Vermont Council on the Arts to complete their projects. The filmmakers are: Ralph Steiner, Thetford Hills; Paul Gray, Bennington; Robin Lloyd, Chelsea; Walter Ungerer, Plainfield; and Alan Dater, Marlboro. Some of them will be present for talk and questions. The films range from Paul Gray's Aphasia, a 30 minute film that dramatizes conflicts between psychotherapists and patients in a sanatorium, to Alan Dater's Vermont Sculpture Symposium, a documentary on the creation and installation of the large sculptures that dot the rest areas on Rte. 89.

The following week will feature the films of Kenneth Anger, ... Fireworks, a ... of the ... Angeles ...

****

Happy Valentine's Day

****

Waterg

Search Committee
Exec. VP Patterson
Moore, Office of Acad
Muller, Assist. Dean,
Doolin, Acting Develo
Severance
Balch
Flynn
Mansfield
Kirkner

Green Mountain Power
McKibben
Sturseneberger

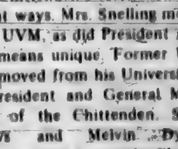
(continued from pa

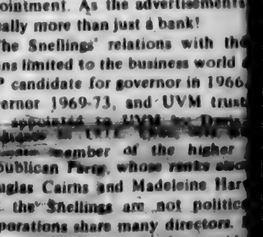
The Chittenden's relations with t... different ways. Mrs. Snelling moved t... post at UVM, as did President Andre... by no means unique. Former UVM ... Dyson moved from his University po... Vice President and General Manag... Branch of the Chittenden. So th... Andrews and Melvin Dyson, ... interconnections among the Chittend... trustees, supply us with ample pre... appointment. As the advertisements ... is really more than just a bank!

The Snellings' relations with the ... means limited to the business world ... GOP candidate for governor in 1966, ... Governor 1969-73, and UVM trust... was appointed to UVM by Demo... campaign [illegible] member of the higher ... Republican Party, whose ranks also ... Douglas Cairns and Madeleine Har... and the Snellings are not politic... corporations share many directors. ... National Life executive vice presid... member of the Chittenden's Moostp... Deane Davis and former UVM Presid... members of National Life, as is afore... Director L. Douglas Meredith, who ... with UVM trustee Eaton. Burl... president and Republican Senator ... Board of National Life, and Foy an... Boardman are directors of Smith's ... Governor John Burgess, the running ... candidate and trustee Hackett, is ... Advisory Board of the same Burlingto...

These connections among the ... Life, and Burlington Savings also lin... Howard Bank and, therefore, UV... Director and Trustee Robert Boar... Hickock and Boardman Insurance a... Munn Boardman, President of Hicko... director of the Howard. Mr. Robert ...

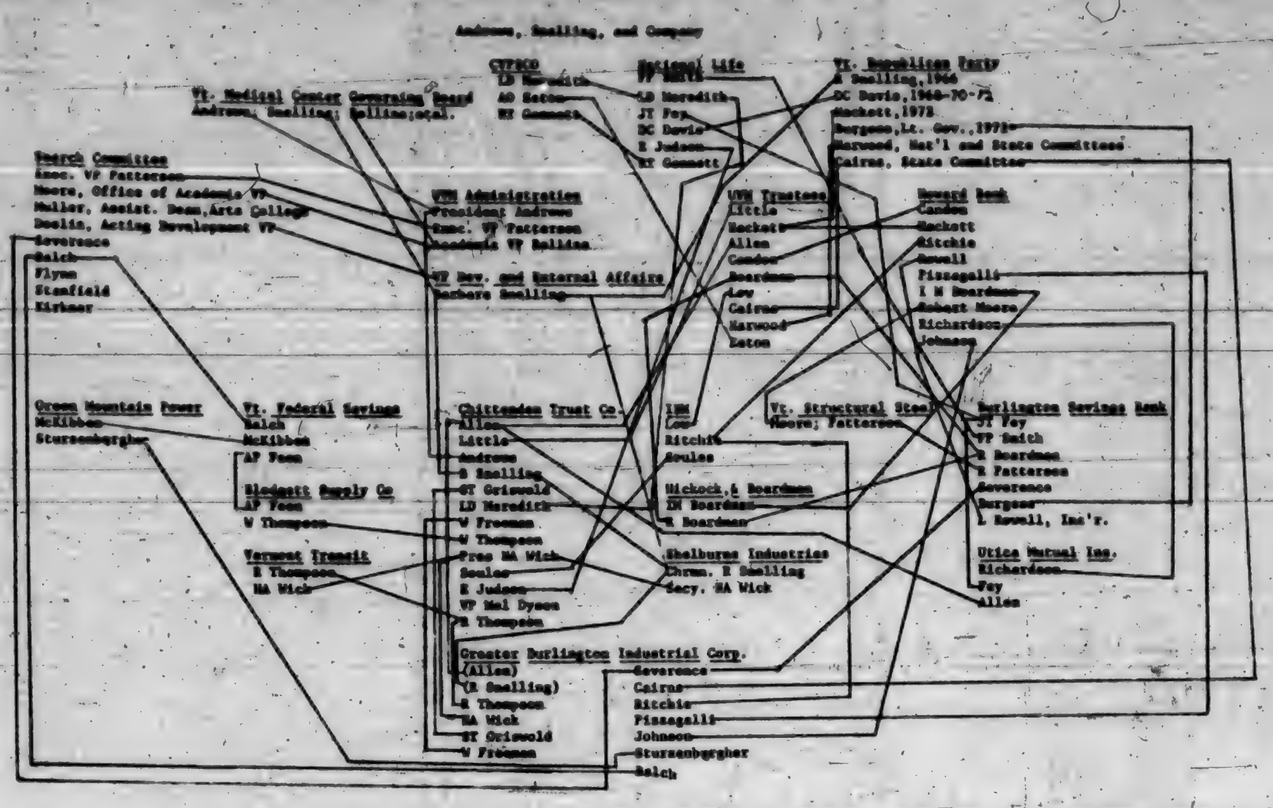
For Your Pro...
May We Pro...





PRICES START UNDE...
YOU ARE INVITED T...
PRESTON'S CHARGE ...
Prices start from u...
E.J. PRESTON &...

Watergate In Waterman? The Snelling Appointment...



(continued from page one)

The Chittenden's relations with the University work in different ways. Mrs. Snelling moved from there to get a top post at UVM, as did President Andrews. But their cases are by no means unique. Former UVM financial chief Melvin Dyson moved from his University post to this year become Vice President and General Manager of the Bennington Branch of the Chittenden. So the cases of President Andrews and Melvin Dyson, along with the interconnections among the Chittenden Directors and UVM trustees, supply us with ample precedent for the Snelling appointment. As the advertisements claim, the Chittenden is really more than just a bank!

The Snellings' relations with the University are by no means limited to the business world alone. Her husband was GOP candidate for governor in 1966. Deane Davis was GOP Governor 1969-73, and UVM trustee Fred Hackett, who was appointed to UVM by Davis in '71, was the GOP candidate in 1972. This, [illegible] member of the higher echelons of the state Republican Party, whose ranks also include UVM Trustees Douglas Cairns and Madeleine Harwood. Of course Davis and the Snellings are not political cronies alone. Their corporations share many directors. Mr. Everett Judson, the National Life executive vice president for investment is a member of the Chittenden's Montpelier executive board. Deane Davis and former UVM President John Fey are board members of National Life, as is aforementioned Chittenden Director L. Douglas Meredith, who is also on the CVPSCO with UVM trustee Eaton. Burlington Savings Bank president and Republican Senator Fred Smith is on the Board of National Life, and Fey and UVM trustee Robert Boardman are directors of Smith's Burlington Savings, Lt. Governor John Burgess, the running mate of gubernatorial candidate and trustee Hackett, is on the Brattleboro Advisory Board of the same Burlington Savings.

These connections among the Republicans, National Life, and Burlington Savings also link back through to the Howard Bank and, therefore, UVM. Burlington Savings Director and Trustee Robert Boardman is treasurer of Hickock and Boardman Insurance and Real Estate. Mr. I. Munn Boardman, President of Hickock and Boardman, is a director of the Howard. Mr. Robert Patterson, a Burlington Savings director, is on the board of Vermont Structural Steel with Mr. Robert Moore, a director of the Howard. And finally, Burlington Savings director Fey, Chittenden director Allen and Howard director A.R. Richardson are together all with the Utica Mutual Insurance Co. Phew!

This modest tally of directors is by no means complete, hardly exhausting the number of interconnections among these people. In fact it only scratches the surface. (Consult the accompanying chart for a more complete picture and trace out more connections for yourself.) Needless to say, the interrelationships are not only very extensive, but also extremely intensive. A very few people are connected in business and at the University in very many combinations.

Perhaps President Andrews and the trustees will argue that this little chart is all happenstance. There was a search committee was there not? If was they who boiled down the applicants to the finalists, was it not? Indeed, there was a search committee. This brings us to phase II of our little [illegible] as though the dice were loaded in Mrs. Snelling's favor to begin with. The committee was chaired by Mr. Wayne Patterson, Andrew's executive vice president and right hand man. The other committee members were Mr. John Moore from the office of the academic vice president, a lieutenant of Al Rollins, who is Andrew's other right hand man; Mr. Larry Doolin former UVM trustee who served until Snelling's appointment as acting VP for Development, who also served on the search committee that selected Dr. Andrews as President in 1970; Nick Miller, assistant dean of the Arts college; Dr. John Maeck of the College of Medicine,; Malcolm Severance of the Economics Department; Frank Balch of WJOY radio representing the "community"; Holden Flynn of the non-academic employees council; and Robert Stanfield of Sociology. The "student" representative was Phil Kirkner, who though technically is classified a student, is actually an administration intern.

But even the search committee had a few of its fingers in the big business pie. Mr. Severance is a director of the Burlington Savings Bank, and thus a member of that part of the network. And Frank Balch is on the board of the Greater Burlington Industrial Corporation, along with Mr. Severance, trustee Cairns, Chittenden directors Freeman, Griswold, W. Thompson, President Wick, and Treasurer Montgomery, and Howard Directors Ritchie, Pizzagalli, and Howard President Leighton Johnson. Remember the GBIC and all its connections? Balch is also director of Vermont Federal Savings, sitting with A. Pearley Foss who is a director of the Blodgett Supply Company with -yup- Chittenden director Webster Thompson.

Thus we find that out neat little search committee was stacked with President Andrews' colonels and lieutenants, members of his not so little business circle, and administrative apparatchik-in-training posing as a student, plus a doctor, a staff member, and a professor thrown in for good cosmetic measure. This, of course, doesn't prove that Snelling had the inside track all along, but it does seem a bit strange that her name just "happened" to be forwarded along as a finalist.

So Barbara Snelling will be confirmed by the trustees this Saturday as the new Vice President for Development and External Affairs, and there is nothing that the University – that is the vast majority of those who work or study here – can do about it. It's hard to fight City Hall with Boss Tweed as the Mayor and Tammany Hall packing the city council. It is unlikely that the trustees who aren't directly members of this little clique will buck the power of the rest, for that power is very well organized. And besides, they all come from the same interest-groups – Bankers, insurance, real estate, politicians – and are hardly disposed to challenge that type of intimacy. "And so what," some may argue, using Nixonian watergate logic, "this goes on in universities everywhere, right?" Corruption pervasive is corruption justified, correct?

No doubt President Andrews will try to brush all this aside as the wild plot theory of a raving reporter hungry for a story. He will probably argue that Barbara Snelling was indeed the best qualified, and the rest merely coincidence. So the question boils down to this. We either have a massive amount of nepotism, patronage, and just plain wheeling and dealing in the University, or we have in Vermont the most uniquely closed and intensely tight-knit meritocracy going. And it is this proposition which puts the question of the integrity of the President, the board, and indeed of the entire University, right on the front burner, from the Chittenden.

Mr. L. Douglas Meredith, a Chittenden director, is a director of the Central Vermont Public Service Corporation, along with Trustee Alan Eaton. Trustee and Chittenden Director Allen has served as both president and director of the Greater Burlington Industrial Corporation, as presently does another Chittenden Director William Freeman. Aforementioned Chittenden Director Hilton Wick is a director of Vermont Transit with Chittenden Treasurer Robert Thompson, and they both serve on the Board of the GBIC along with another Chittneden Director S.T. Griswold. Aforementioned Howard Director and IBM Manager Ritchie sits in the GBIC board with Howard Director Angelo Pizzagalli. And Trustee Douglas Cairns is also presently a director of the same GBIC, the corporation which Richard Snelling helped found and which he later chaired! More on the GBIC later.

ATTENTION
SENIORS

AS SOON AS WE HAVE DEFINATE

INFORMATION ON

COMMENCEMENT CEREMONIES

WE WILL PUBLISH
CAP & GOWN AND GRADUATION

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTICULARS

Watch for our Cynic ad

UNIVERSITY STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

Future
tianity
Myung Moon
la Inn
11- 863-1210

«the doctor's bag»

by Arnold Werner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner,
Box 974, East Lansing, Mi. 48824

QUESTION: I always had a very satisfactory sexual relationship with my former girlfriend. But, I cannot warm up to my present girl although I like her very much.

What are the reasons? Is there a difference in the chemistry of our bodies that prevents me from getting sexually aroused by her?

ANSWER: Our relationships with all people are multifaceted. The type of friendship or closeness we have with a particular person is obviously determined by personality factors, but may also be affected by such things as common interests, physical or sexual appeal, necessity, need and convenience. Like you, I too am puzzled why some relationships just don't seem to go even though all the apparent elements of success are present. Equally as confusing, but more fun to contemplate and be involved in, are the relationships that seem to start with an instantaneous closeness and understanding, almost as if there is some sort of chemical or physical reaction between the people involved. If there is any chemistry in all of this, it is hormonal, not under voluntary control and not related to chemical differences between you and your friend.

Warmth, closeness and a satisfactory sexual relationship usually takes some time to develop but, at times it never develops; this leads to a tricky situation. I have become convinced that a lot of unmarried people hang in with relationships which have serious defects along one dimension or another. Rather than accept the fact that a relationship with a particular person might have a serious defect in one area even though worthwhile in other areas, people hold together in the hope or belief that eventually the relationship will become more complete. When the missing factor is something as basic as sexual feelings or involves personality styles, a couple might be better off either terminating the relationship or maintaining it as one that will not lead to any permanent arrangement.

Many people I have spoken to who have become divorced cite serious and obvious defects in the relationship that existed before marriage and which both parties hoped would disappear. It is my own opinion that people who take advantage of the time they are single to become involved in multiple relationships and feel free to find out who they are and what they need, have a much more likely chance of eventually marrying someone compatible with them. To remain involved in a serious relationship in which one cannot feel sexually close to one's partner is destined for trouble.

••••••••••

QUESTION: I am a male grad student with a fetish for having my feet fondled, cuddled, sucked etc. To me, this is the ultimate in sexual experience. This, however, is not my problem. The problem is that after years of satisfaction my feet are slowly losing their sensitiveness and hence I am proportionately losing pleasurable experiences. Is there anything I can do to restore my feet?

ANSWER: Fetishes by and large are fairly harmless sexual rituals (almost solely engaged in by men) that have a knack for being rather limited in terms of function. For instance, some men are so bound up with their fetishes that they are unable to engage in more run-of-the-mill type of sexual activities. With such exciting feet, what do you do with your penis? Also, you haven't specified whether you masturbate your own toes or someone does it for you.

If the rest of your sexual functioning is adequate, you might just have to accept your limitations as part of normal aging. If however, other forms of sexual expression are thwarted, I would say you were in need of some professional help -and not from a podiatrist.

••••••••••

QUESTION: What causes sleepiness besides simple physical exhaustion? I often become sleepy in class, while reading, even while participating in sex. It doesn't seem to be related to the amount of sleep I had the night before. Sometimes I feel good all day after four hours of sleep, while other times I'm sleepy after eight hours.

ANSWER: Individual sleep requirements are a mysterious matter. About 90% of people, usually need between 6 and 9 hours sleep to function well. There are a few people who function well on a continual basis with less than six hours sleep and there are some unusual people who require more than nine hours sleep a night. Often people who require a great deal of sleep are in good physical health but have emotional difficulties making it hard for them to face each day.

Sleepiness during the day is often a matter of how involved a person is with what they are doing and boring activities tend to increase drowsiness. It is not uncommon for people to feel very sleepy after eating as well. You are however, the only person I have heard of who complains of falling asleep during sex. Usually people feel sleepy or contented or relaxed after intercourse but are too involved to fall asleep during intercourse. There is a condition known as narcolepsy in which a person has episodic uncontrollable sleepiness which can occur anytime including during intercourse. Such a condition should be investigated by a physician experienced in dealing with these things; this is usually a neurologist.

little blue spiral notebook
by quary wabbit

little blue spiral notebook
I can't find you
yet I shall look.

I'll seek far
I'll seek near
I will find you.
please don't fear.

it is raining.
it is storming
you must be cold
for you, I'm mourning.

I will not tire
I will not cease
I will find you
to keep my peace

the day is long.
my hands are cold
the sky is dark
the search is old.

I've gone so far
I've tried in vain
I can't find you.
I feel great pain.

you can not leave
me standing here.
you've been with me
for many a year.

my mind to think of how I dread that dismal thought that you are dead.

little blue spiral notebook
I can't find you
where do I look?

Lovell Speaks To Energy Savings, Problems

by Kathy Stiasny

We're saving, we'd saving according to one of UVM's foremost energy experts, Proctor Lovell. In a 1972-1973, 1973-1974 comparison of electrical energy consumption in residence halls, exclusive of Living/Learning, it was found that the percentages of kilowatt hours saved were impressively high, 21.8 percent in November, 18.8 percent in December, and 32.8 percent in January. The dollar figures are difficult to estimate since prices have risen so rapidly. Transactions with the electrical company were affected by a 1.3 percent raise. Furthermore, companies have established a "purchase clause" which states that prices are changeable (raisable) according to how much of an energy source they are able to buy and supply.

In its fuel consumption UVM is $25,000 over its projected budget. However, it is interesting to compare this deficit to Dartmouth's, where the figure surpasses the original projection by more than a million dollars. The budget estimate oil here was calculated at a cost of 14.9 cents a gallon while the university is currently paying 26 and 27 cents. Yet Mr. Lovell reminded his listeners that "the decrease in consumption is offsetting the increase in price."

The most conservation of energy has occurred with the administrative and academic buildings where the recent figure is a 42 percent saving over last years. The four day week has had a substantial effect on this decrease in consumption.

Evening classes this semester meet in no more than three buildings on a given night. Savings have also occurred as a result of changes in heating processes. The long January thaw was welcomed by conservationists! At the present time there is no real danger of having to close down unexpectedly. The University's weekly fuel allotment is approximately 18 thousand gallons. Last week we used 24 thousand. The extra six thousand was absorbed by the 150-160 gallon inventory.

"It's amazing how everybody's cooperating" commented Mr. Lovell. Professors and students have gratifyingly responsive, calling frequently to alert the administration of overheated offices, classrooms, and dormitory rooms. The problem of revamping the heating systems is a challenging one. In many buildings the systems are designed to heat to temperatures in the 70 degree range. Thus, difficulties ensue as temperature levels are lowered. However, new measures are constantly being employed to facilitate conservation. Furnaces are cleaned more frequently to insure maximum efficiency. Protective film around windows are being used to prevent cold air from seeping through windows.

Mr. Lovell discussed the four day week which is felt to be more popular with students than with faculty and administrators. He raised the question of alternatives and concluded by saying that only drastic measures such as shutting down buildings would provide options.

Last Chance And The Pub

As for service – well, you wouldn't hire the Last Chance's overworked (and probably undertipped) waitresses to drive ambulances or fire trucks. In contrast to the faceless, yet efficient, beer pumpers who work the bar, the waitresses at the Last Chance are so adept at keeping drinks out of one's hands their salaries must be subsized by the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Luckily, the bouncers do commendable jobs of limiting the weekend crowd, so at least a patron can breathe on a Friday or Saturday night. Not all of Burlington's night spot proprietors can make that claim with a straight face.

A casual observer of the weekend lines outside the door of The Last Chance could rationally conclude that the beer was being served free. The place is always mobbed by 10 p.m. on any given Friday or Saturday night, and a half an hour wait in line is not uncommon. [illegible] completely a night time bar – they don't open up until 6 p.m., and there is no pool table, shuffleboard or hockey game on T.V. But, then again, one doesn't truck down to The Last Chance to play pool, watch hockey games, or socialize quietly with a few friends. The Chance makes no qualms about the fact that it offers only two types of entertainment: 1) booze; 2) a plentiful reservoir of unhinged members of the opposite sex.

And the weekend reservoir is rarely dry. Besides the bee-bopping Trinity lovelies and their horny cohorts from the jockdom of St. Mikes, one will probably run across the UVM freshmen and Burlington High School Seniors. Also it's usually pretty easy to distinguish the Trinities from the rest of civilization, as there must be a rule prohibiting Trinity girls from travelling downtown in packs of less than five on Saturday nights. Again, check for the tables with the most giggly chicks after three beers or two vodka collins – this is another proven method of locating the highest proportion of Trinity girls.

One last kernel of inebriated advice about this Trinity–St. Michael's annex. If it's midnight and you've spent your Friday meandering around Burlington in futile search, The Last Chance might represent your last chance. Try it – but this reviewer won't guarantee you'll like it.

The Pub

We like The Pub.

We like the presumptuous newcomer to the list of local bars.

We like it despite the fact that architecturally it resembles the offspring of a marriage between a HO-Guage Latham, N.Y. Holiday Inn and an upward mobile Indian [illegible] were hovering on the positive side of a rotating power blackout. Musically, it lacks. The background is usually variations on a theme by Peter Tchaikovsky–Bob Dylan–Johann Sebastian Bach–Elton John! A nice variety if done well. Somehow the place would do well by playing Tom Rush's "Circle Game" over–and–over. It would make sense.

Nevertheless, we really do like the Pub. Drinks are good and priced well for a Quiet Bar. Beer is a little expensive at 60 cents a draft for Tuborg, easily forgiven when consumed with a Pub sandwich. Pub sandwiches are contenders for the best in town. One informant, perhaps an expert in the field, claims that the Pub serves the best Kosher half-sour pickles (Clauson's from Chicago) that can be found in the Greater Burlington Area.

Despite its physical near-sterility, The Pub is at once quiet and animated. The place is alive, despite the hushed conversations.

We rate highly the service there. It is efficient and usually unobtrusive. No long waits for drinks here, and we hope it remains that way. A customer singing the entire Hallelujah chorus while awaiting service is often a mark of a bar's success. We hope this type of success eludes the Pub.

Finally we feel the best indicator of a bar's quality is the literacy of the writings on the men's room wall. When it first opened, The Pub, according to our informer, had a long bold statement written over that appliance curious to men's rooms. That statement was written in Gaelic. We couldn't understand its meaning if we saw it, but it does speak well for the place.

CLASSIFIED

Wanted: Couch, wanted to reupholster – prefer Lawson style (small, rounded, arm popular in 40's) solid-built for family use. Phone 878-5035 or 656-2810. Bottie.

Ski boots – men. 5½ – Koslack – like new. Call Steve 656-4251.

Pair of large walnut end tables with storage compartment, 1 recliner, 1 lounge chair, 864-7786.

Looking for female grad student to share small house – 3 miles from UVM – must like dogs. Linda, 862-8513.

Weight-watcher and feminist, wants woman to share apt. and weight-watchers cooking. Call 862-3351, 862-8513. Prefer grad. student.

Ride wanted out to western ski area during spring vacation – Colorado or Utah. Share expenses and driving (and a little cash on the side). Paul Abess, 3002.

For sale: Antique Hay-cutter, looks like a table, has been refinished. Conversation piece! Also, large blanket trunk, both over 100 years old. If interested, call 656-3482.

Westinghouse Mini Combo TV, AM-FM, Phonograph. All in one $65 (+ or –). Call Tom 862-1968.

$75 – 10-Speed Bike. Special Student Discount Sale ends Feb. 22. Shimano Gears, 26" and 27", male and female, racer or tourist styles. Meets BMA/6 specifications. Call Joe Barber for more details at 658-2260. 3 and 5 speeds also available.

LOST: one amethyst (purple) ring in silver setting. $5.00 reward – absolutely no questions asked. Call Becky, 658-4261.

STEREO SPEAKERS – New three way Ducted Port speakers with 12 inch woofer; highly efficient with attractive enclosure. Two year factory guarantee. Special shipment. Fantastic discount, while they last. DYNACO KITS, ALSO AVAILABLE. Call John, 862-3814, anytime. Or ask for Gene at 658-3548, after 6 p.m.

MACRAMS It's an Experience

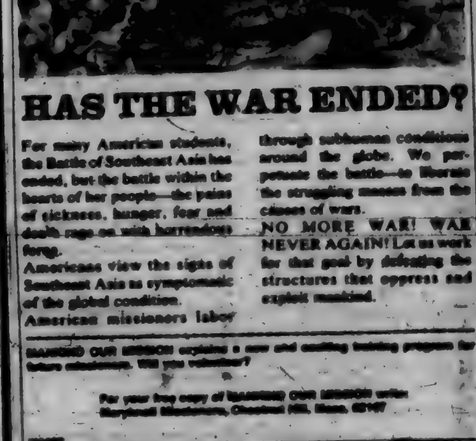
FIRST WITH Levi's
FIRST WITH
FIRST WITH

STRAIGHT LEGS $9
CUFFS $12
JACKET $12

WAY IN SHOP

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER®

Downtown Burlington
+
Essex Junction



HAS THE WAR ENDED?

For many American students, the Battle of Southeast Asia has ended, but the battle within the hearts of her people—the pains of sickness, hunger, fear and death rage on with horrendous force.

Americans view the signs of Southeast Asia as symptomatic of the global condition. American missionaries labor through subhuman conditions around the globe. We perpetuate the battle—to liberate the struggling masses from the causes of wars.

NO MORE WAR! WAR NEVER AGAIN! Let us work for that goal by defeating the structures that oppress and exploit mankind.

HARVARD OUR MISSION explains a new and exciting training program for future missionaries. Will you volunteer?

For your free copy of HARVARD OUR MISSION write: Maryknoll Missioners, Chestnut Hill, Mass. 02167

NAME _____
STREET _____
CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

PLANTASIA

10:30—5:30 107 St. Paul St

WE'RE RESTOCKED AGAIN!
Terrarium Plants & Containers
Decorative and Clay Pottery
Herb Seeds
ALL KINDS OF PLANTS
large & small · flowering & foliage

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE

FANTASTIC SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS

Snelling Sees

(continued from page one)

Snelling: I'm on the New England Regional Teachers Education Program. I'm also on the board of directors for Chittenden Trust and I see no conflicts there. Ed Andrews is also on the board of directors. The only conflict would be if there are too many University of Vermont people on the board from their point of view.

Cynic: As far as your position goes, you are now Vice President for Development and External Affairs. The former position was just Vice President for Development. What do you see the difference as?

Snelling: I [illegible] going to [illegible] responsibility [illegible] the Vermont [illegible] think the emph[illegible] was only [illegible] but now I [illegible] responsible fo[illegible] President A[illegible] Vermont, try[illegible] part of my [illegible] UVM and [illegible] community [illegible] explaining th[illegible] UVM and the [illegible] is to the [illegible] bringing [illegible] recommendat[illegible] of the Vermo[illegible]

Freshman Register P[illegible]

(continued from page one)

eur oe complete.

S. 49, Alan King's motion for a change in the grading system, which called for a division of the four point system to cover the pluses and minuses was also tabled. He suggested 2.75 for B-, 3.0 for B, and 3.25 for B+, etc. In addition this measure would be retroactive for students new to the University. Discussion varied on several topics. First, whether or not a change is needed. Second, since the university allows teachers to enter + or - but it doesn't affect the G.P.A., why not say that teachers can't enter + or – Third, whether or not the .25 addition for a + or the .25 subtraction for a – was fair. Alternate systems were discussed such as pass-fail or having a .33 addition instead of the .25. The motion was tabled pending further investigation. In any case the confirmed proposal would have to go to a faculty committee for approval. Keller added that if it passed, will it mean anything?

S. 50, a motion to ask for student input into appointments for tenure was unanimously passed. Dick Haidy explained that the Board of Tr[illegible] have specific [illegible] the problem, [illegible] and that th[illegible] entering a pr[illegible] Board meetin[illegible]

S. 51, reco[illegible] UVM Tenants' [illegible] following som[illegible] to their purp[illegible] stated that [illegible] provide for [illegible] legal need of [illegible] off-campus." [illegible] other senato[illegible] that they can't [illegible] the proposal.

An item no[illegible] was passed. I[illegible] of another [illegible] production o[illegible] of $22,000 [illegible] allocated for [illegible] the editors [illegible] year a greate[illegible] put into ad[illegible] drop the co[illegible] the book w[illegible] larger with [illegible] Last year's A[illegible] $24,000 and [illegible] be in the [illegible] passed, follow[illegible] by Gary She[illegible] that "what [illegible] your $21.50 [illegible] yearbook any[illegible]

STUDY IR[illegible]
JARA, M[illegible]
Fully accredi[illegible]
Arizona. C[illegible]
SUMMER [illegible]
July 1 – A[illegible] courses in [illegible]
educatio[illegible]
anthropology[illegible]
and folk m[illegible]
government[illegible]
Tuition $17[illegible]
In Women[illegible]
treasure wo[illegible]
Programs,[illegible]
Psychology,[illegible]
Arizona, T[illegible]
85721.

DUNHAM'S
campus
boots
MAZEL'S SHOE STORE
104 North Street

"I love you for what you are, but I love you yet more for what you are going to be..."
– Carl Sandburg

Chosen but once and cherished forever, your engagement and wedding rings will reflect in their brilliance and beauty. Happily yours. Keepsake with complete confidence because the guarantee assures perfect cut, precise cut and fine, white color. There is no finer diamond ring.

Keep[illegible]

HOW TO PLAN YOUR ENGAGEMENT A[illegible]
Send now 50 pg. booklet, "Planning Your Engagement" full color folder and 44 pg. Bride's Book gift offer all f[illegible]

Name _____ (Please Print)
Address _____
City _____
State _____

KEEPSAKE DIAMOND RINGS, BOX 90, SYRA[illegible]

Speaks To
vings, Problems

...mate all here was ... at a cost of $1.9 ... gallon while the ... is currently paying ... 27 cents. Yet Mr. ... remarked his interest ... the decrease in ... is offsetting the ... price."

...ual conservation of ... occurred with the ...tive and academic ... where the recent ... a 42 percent saving ... years. The four day ... had a substantial ... this decrease in ...tion.

...s classes this ...ment in no more ... buildings on a ... Savings have also ... as a result of ... heating processes. ... January thaw was ... by conservation- ... present time there ... danger of having to ...wn unexpectedly ...trsity's weekly fuel ... is approximately ...ghty gallons. Last ...ured 24 thousand. ... six thousand was ... by the 150-160 ...ntory.

"It's amazing how everybody's cooperating" commented Mr. Lovell. Professors and students have gratifyingly responsive, calling frequently to alert the administration of overheated offices, classrooms, and dormitory rooms. The problem of revamping the heating systems is a challenging one. In many buildings the systems are designed to heat to temperatures in the 70 degree range. Thus, difficulties ensue as temperature levels are lowered. However, new measures are constantly being employed to facilitate conservation. Furnaces are cleaned more frequently to insure maximum efficiency. Protective film around windows are being used to prevent cold air from seeping through windows.

Mr. Lovell discussed the four day week which is felt to be more popular with students than with faculty and administrators. He raised the question of alternatives and concluded by saying that only drastic measures such as shutting down buildings would provide options.

The Pub

...is is another proven method of locating the ...portion of Trinity girls. ...nt kernel of inebriated advice about this ...t. Michael's annex. If it's midnight and you've ...r Friday meandering around Burlington in futile ...e Last Chance might represent your last chance. ...t this reviewer won't guarantee you'll like it.

...r The Pub. ...e the presumptuous newcomer to the list of local ...ke it despite the fact that architecturally it ... the offspring of a marriage between a HO-Guage ...N.Y. Holiday Inn and an upward mobile Indiana ... working on the positive side of a rotating pow... ...Musically, it ticks. The background is usually ...n a theme by Peter Tchaikovsky, Bob ...ohann Sebastian Bach, Elton John! A nice variety ...well. Somehow the place would do well by playing ...ah's "Circle Game" over and over. It would make ...rtheless, we really do like the Pub. Drinks are good ...ed well for a Quiet Bar. Beer is a little expensive at ... a draft for Tuborg, easily forgiven when consumed ...Pub sandwich. Pub sandwiches are contenders for ... in town. One informant, perhaps an expert in the ...aims that the Pub serves the best Kosher half-sour ...(Clauson's from Chicago) that can be found in the ...Burlington Area.

...te its physical near-sterility, The Pub is at once ...d animated. The place is alive, despite the hushed ...tions.

...te highly the service there. It is efficient and usually ...tive. No long waits for drinks here, and we hope it ... that way. A customer singing the entire Hallelujah ...while awaiting service is often a mark of a bar's ... We hope this type of success eludes the Pub.

...ly we feel the best indicator of a bar's quality is the ... of the writings on the men's room wall. When it ...rned, The Pub, according to our informer, had a ...d statement written over that appliance curious to ...ooms. That statement was written in Gaelic. We ...t understand its meaning if we saw it, but it does ...ell for the place.

LANTASIA
10:30—5:30 107 St. Paul St
WE'RE RESTOCKED AGAIN!
Terrarium Plants & Containers
Decorative and Clay Pottery
Herb Seeds
ALL KINDS OF PLANTS
large & small flowering & foliage

EVERAGE WAREHOUSE
...EXTENSIVE SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES, AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS

Snelling Sees No Problem With Interest Conflicts

(continued from page one)

Snelling: I'm on the New England Regional Teachers Education Program. I'm also on the board of directors for Chittenden Trust and I see no conflicts there. Ed Andrews is also on the board of directors. The only conflict would be if there are too many University of Vermont people on the board from their point of view.

Cynic: As far as your position goes, you are now Vice President for Development and External Affairs. The former position was just Vice President for Development. What do you see the difference as?

Snelling: I think there is going to be a greater responsibility for talking to the Vermont community. I think the emphasis in the past was only on development, but now I will also be responsible for filling in for President Andrews around Vermont, trying as a major part of my interests to bring UVM and the Vermont community together, both explaining the position of UVM and the resource that it is to the state. Also in bringing back the recommendations and desires of the Vermont people.

Cynic: What do you see as your relation to the Vermont state legislature, especially in enlarging the state appropriation or procuring other state funds for the university?

Snelling: That isn't necessarily my job. There are other people in the University whose job it is to build a budget and work on the appropriation. Certainly those people who are in charge of the budget and appropriations are best suited for talking to the legislature. Vice President Patterson and President Andrews would be the chief people involved there. I will do everything I can to help them. But I would think in every case in talking for the University that the person most familiar with the area should be the person to speak. It would be my job to be as familiar with everything that would be of interest to the general public and to do my best to talk about it in every field and certainly I do know many members of the legislature, (Mr. Snelling is a member of the Vermont State Legislature) and I will continue to talk to them and certainly will be most interested in listening to their advice.

Cynic: Do you see your role with UVM as relating more to the Vermont community or Montpelier?

Snelling: Yes, definitely. I see it as relating more to the Vermont community.

Cynic: What do you see as your relation with external affairs as far as out of state; especially since a large portion of the students here are from out of state.

Snelling: My responsibility certainly includes the entire alumni association and staying in touch with the alumni wherever they are and bringing information to them about their university.

Although external affairs is the title a little internal affairs goes along with the job. I think talking to students and finding out their opinions and views is just as important as talking with the alumni.

Cynic: Since you've been here for a whole week already, do you see any changes that should be made or that you'd like to make?

Snelling: I think it would be inappropriate at this moment for me to make any changes. After all, I've only been here for a week. It would be a little presumptious. I have to learn more before I make any changes. I spent the greater part of the week in becoming familiar, i.e. the office. I plan to meet with each person in this office during the week to get acquainted with the position.

Cynic: How do you see yourself as relating to three different offices — the alumni office, the public relations office, and annexes and development offices?

Snelling: Those three offices do all report to me. And I see that just by the very nature of their workings that they are very interwoven and the closer I am able to bring them together the better job they will do. The alumni office and the development office are very tied together in the annual giving program, and of course the public relations office serves as a communication center for within the university and without. No one of those could work separately and it's very important for them to work together. I wish they were more together physically instead of upstairs and across the street.

Cynic: In talking with Mr. Cooms of the development office, his success in his office is in seeing the people. He said that he tries to be in the office 50 per cent of the time and in the field 50 per cent of the time. Do you see your role as a traveling one also?

Snelling: First off, I think Mr. Cooms tries to be out of the office 50 per cent of the time. And yes I see a portion of my job in getting out to see alumni and other perspective donors. We do have a team of three other people who will also be out in the field so to speak.

Freshman Register Profit...

(continued from page one)

...to complete.

S. 49, Alan King's motion for a change in the grading system, which called for a division of the four point system to cover the pluses and minuses was also tabled. He suggested 2.75 for B-, 3.0 for B, and 3.25 for B+, etc. In addition this measure would be retroactive for students new to the University. Discussion varied on several topics. First, whether or not a change is needed. Second, since the university allows teachers to enter + or - but it doesn't affect the G.P.A., why not say that teachers can't enter + or -. Third, whether or not the .25 addition for a + or the .25 subtraction for a - was fair. Alternate systems were discussed such as pass-fail or having a .33 addition instead of the .25. The motion was tabled pending further investigation. In any case the confirmed proposal would have to go to a faculty committee for approval. Heller added that if it passed, will it mean anything?

S. 50, a motion to ask for student input into appointments for tenure was unanimously passed. Dick Landy explained that the Board of Trustees doesn't have specific proposals for the problem, only guidelines and that the faculty are entering a proposal for the Board meeting this weekend.

S. 51, recognition of the UVM Tenants' Council passed following some discussion as to their purpose. They have stated that they "shall provide for the social and legal need of UVM students off-campus." Cassidy and other senators commented that they can't possibly fulfill the proposal.

An item not on the agenda was passed. It was allocation of another $11,000 for production of Ariel. A total of $22,000 will have been allocated for the year. One of the editors stated that this year a greater effort will be put into advertisements to drop the cost and also that the book will be 50 pages larger with 32 color plates. Last year's Ariel cost about $24,000 and this year's will be in the same range. It passed, following a comment by Gary Shaw to the effect that "what do you get for your $21.50 a year? I want a yearbook anyway."

DUNHAM'S
campus boots
MAZEL'S SHOE STORE
106 North Street

STUDY IN GUADELAJARA, MEXICO
Fully accredited University of Arizona "GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL offers July 1 — August 10, 1974 courses in ESL, bilingual education, Spanish, anthropology, art, folk dance and folk music, geography, government and history. Tuition $170; room and board in Mexican home $270. For brochure write: International Programs, 413 New Psychology, University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona 85721.

Chosen but once and cherished forever, your engagement and wedding ring will reflect your love in their brilliance and beauty. Happily you can choose Keepsake with complete confidence because the guarantee assures perfect clarity, precise cut and fine, white color. There is no finer diamond ring.
Keepsake
HOW TO PLAN YOUR ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING
Name
Address
City
State Zip
KEEPSAKE DIAMOND RINGS, BOX 90, SYRACUSE, N.Y. 13201

CLIP THIS MENU
Prices are subject to change without notice due to rampant meat & gasoline price changes. This menu replaces all previous menus — Effective 2/7/74

HOME, OFFICE, CAMPUS, HOSPITAL DELIVERIES FROM 10:00 AM UNTIL 2:00 AM

1. Ham on Rye .99
2. Ham on Rye with Swiss Cheese 1.09
3. Ham Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll .99
4. Ham Slices on a Sesame Seeded Roll .99
5. Roast Prime Sirloin on Pumpernickel 1.29
6. Roast Prime Sirloin on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.39
7. Maine Roast Chicken on Rye .99
8. Tender Tidbits of Chicken Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll .99
9. Tuna Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.09
10. Tuna Salad on Rye 1.09
11. Corned Beef on Rye 1.19
12. Corned Beef on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.29
13. Egg Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll .99
14. Egg Salad on White .89
15. Bacon, Lettuce, and Tomato on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.09
16. Vermont Roast Pork on Rye 1.19

SUBS

17. Ham, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss and American Cheese 1.39
18. Roast Prime Sirloin, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions 1.49
19. Tender Slices of Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions 1.39
20. Sea Fresh Tuna Fish, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, American Cheese 1.49
21. Corn Beef, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Pickles 1.39
22. Bacon, Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss Cheese 1.49
23. Vermont Roast Pork, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss Cheese 1.39
29. Salami 1.39
30. Turkey 1.39
31. Meatball 1.59
32. Bacon, Turkey 1.49
33. Sausage 1.69
34. Beef Bregiola 1.49
35. Pepper Steak 1.59
36. Capicola 1.49
37.
38.

CHINESE & THAILAND DISHES

39. Fried Rice, pork 1.69
40. Fried Rice, chicken 1.59
41. Fried Rice, shrimp 1.79
42. Fried Rice, beef 1.69
43. Paloa 1.79
44. Sweet & sour, pork 1.69
45. Sweet & sour, chicken 1.59
46. Sweet & sour, shrimp 1.79
47. Sweet & sour, beef 1.69
48. Sen me raudne, beef 1.69
49. (2) egg rolls $.75
50. wan ton soup $.95
51. Ginger chicken 1.69
52. BBQ Spareribs 1.79

ITALIAN DISHES

53. Spaghetti & Meatballs 1.49
54. Lasagna 1.69
55. Antipesto Salad 1.69
56. Chef's Salad 1.79

MEXICAN

57. Tacos $.95

YANKEE DOODLE CATERING
864-5718
CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED
House Accounts Arranged For Business Groups
We Cater Parties and Groups at Discount Rates-Also ask about our Party Platters

HOMEMADE DESERT AND PASTRIES

24. Andre's Brownies $.25
25. Polka Dot Cookies .25
26. Spice Cake .25
27. Butter Pecan Cake .25
28. Devil's Food Cake .25

We accept
or personal check
When ordering please notify us if you wish to use Master Charge or check

Home Deliveries Any Time
Prices include Vermont Meals Tax and FREE DELIVERY!
Any Sandwich or Hot Dish not listed on menu, available on 24 hr. notice.
Please allow time for preparation and delivery
All meals are prepared to order!

FREE COUPON FREE
This coupon good for one free soda, or a piece of cake, or cookies with each individual order. Please present to deliverer for redemption.

CareerPlacement

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT ANNOUNCEMENTS

On-campus Employment interviews for the week of February 26 (through March 1 (Recruiting period number 6)

Bell System – positions in Supervision, selling, engineering, customer liason. Upper half students preferred. All degrees both men and women. Citizenship preferred.

Continental Insurance Company – general insurance areas. All degrees welcome

General Electric Company – positions in accounting and business systems. Business, Econ., Math, Acctg., Lib. Arts.

Grand Union Company – Mgmt Trainee positions. Open major.

S. S. Kresge Co – mgmt trainee positions. Relocation a must. – Open major.

Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. – All areas of insurance business. Business areas and liberal arts.

Touche, Ross and Company – positions in audit, tax, staff assistants, and integrated services. Accounting with above average grades and leadership qualities.

Sign-up for these interviews in the placement office, Mansfield House February 19, 20, and 21.

Student Lobby Conference To Hear McGovern

U.S. Senator George McGovern accepted an invitation this week to participate in the Third Annual National Student Lobby Conference; part of an ongoing lobbying effort which, he said, "will be crucial to the future of higher education." The Senator will keynote at the final session before students return to organize their individual campuses.

Willis Edwards, Chairman of the Board of NSL, announced that the conference, to be held February 23 in Washington, D.C., "will be focusing on the student money crunch, in addition to the scheduled gathering of nearly 800 student leaders from over 40 states."

Students will not only have the unprecedented opportunity to obtain new resources and experience through participation with these people, but will have a chance to offer their talents, as well.

As part of the schedule, Congressman James O'Hara, Chairman of the House Subcommittee on Higher Education, has called for testimony from persons attending the Conference.

Through workshops and panel discussions, students will be examining the issues confronting the student community today, such as the effects of the energy crisis. "Students will be losing their mobility, jobs, and in many cases their education," stated Arthur Rodbell, Executive Director of NSL, "if present trends continue. Now is the time that the consumers of education assert their opinion on these bread and butter issues, and it is the National Student Lobby Conference which will serve as a forum for this purpose."

Three days of workshops, panel discussions and roleplaying (with members of Congress playing their own roles, then switching with the student) will prepare conference participants for two days of lobbying on Capitol Hill.

SUMMER JOBS

Guys & Gals needed for summer employment at National Parks, Private Camps, Dude Ranches and Resorts throughout the nation. Over 50,000 students sided each year. For FREE information on student assistance program send self-addressed STAMPED envelope to Opportunity Research, Dept. SJO, 55 Flathead Drive, Kalispell, MT 59901.

...YOU MUST APPLY EARLY...

Father Holland Works With Catholic Social Services

Father Frank Holland, director of the Cunningham–Newman Center of the University of Vermont has made a New Year's resolution which he intends to keep. His resolution is to make an annual trip to Mobile to participate in the work of Catholic Social Services as he and eleven other people associated with the campus ministry of the University of Vermont have done during the past two weeks.

Being acquainted with Father Morin, S.S.E., Edmundite Southern Mission Director, and Brother Michael Jacques, S.S.E., Director of the Service Center of Catholic Social Services, and the work they are doing, Father Holland and his fellow workers felt that two weeks of their Christmas recess could become an invaluable learning experience and an opportunity to contribute their time and energies to Catholic Social Service projects in the deep South.

The Administration and Staff of Mobile's Catholic Social Services undertook the project of locating housing for the group from Vermont and arranging their participation in varied programs sponsored by the agency.

Father Holland and Mary Jane Nattress worked with Sister Frances Ann in the Service Center of Catholic Social Services clothes room. They helped gather clothes and food which are distributed to people needing this assistance. Their aid was appreciated by the Service Center staff which needs volunteers. Sister Lindora Cabral, R.S.M., and Ann Frances Margolis worked with Sister Eileen in the Baldwin County area where Catholic Social Services is very active.

Catholic Social Services' staff member Diane Hampton utilized the services of Mark Heath and John la Barge at the Dumas-Wesley Community Center in Crichton where they conducted a survey to determine particular community needs of that area. Brother Frank Haggerty, S.S.E., and Paul de la Briere worked with Sister Katheryn Nueslein at Prince of Peace Parish, becoming involved in the Senior Activities for Independent Living program which provides meals, activities, and medical information for the aged.

Pure Heart of Mary Parish co-ordinator, Sister Kathleen Jackson, has had the services of Chris Tormey in mapping her parish area, indexing cards on the people she serves and even traveling to Pascagoula, Mississippi, to help find jobs for people of the area.

Sister Patricia and the LINK Society which serves as a liason between prisoners, ex-prisoners and their families and is involved in studying prison problems were joined by Joseph Fuguere and Denise la Rue. John Brennan worked in an alcoholic rehabilitation program, MACAC Care Center, which is currently offering its programs services at the Service Center.

In evaluating their experience, Father Holland said that he was overwhelmed with the welcome the group received from the Edmundites, the Catholic Social Services' staff and the people with whom they came in contact. Father Holland has returned to Vermont "filled with enthusiasm." Both the Catholic Social Services staff and the group from the Cunningham–Newman Center agree that the past two weeks have been an invaluable learning and sharing experience that should become an annual occurrence.

Dahlin Calls For National Prayer

by Andrew Morse

During his lecture entitled "Watergate, What Can We Learn in a Learned Country," Timothy Dahlin called for a "National Day of Humiliation, Fasting, and Prayer" saying we must ask God into our souls and be reborn.

At the February 7 meeting, sponsored by the Campus Crusade for Christ, Mr. Dahlin explained to the group of ninety at the Living/Learning fireplace lounge, that Watergate is just a symptom of self-centeredness and isolation from Christ our Lord. He further explained that Nixon's sin exemplifies a sin that will damn us all. However, he is not the only guilty one. He said that everyone has a Watergate in their closet.

Mr. Dahlin started his Watergate sermon with a review of the circumstances leading to the break-in. He explained that Nixon was so involved with his plan for world peace that he lost touch with his overambitious aides. Mr. Dahlin also mentioned Billy Graham's explanation for Watergate, "Every president needs someone who will call him by his first name, this was Nixon's mistake."

Mr. Dahlin warned against the damning sin of isolation and said life will return to normality when we "open the door to the Lord and beg God for forgiveness." He was not, however, very specific as to what he considered a normal life to be.

Dahlin's preaching was followed by a series of students reciting how they had been saved by Christ. The first, with head bowed, said his life had "improved considerably with the love of Jesus Christ." Another student also considering herself saved, expressed that she had "joy in her heart" and continued enthusiastically, "Christ lives in me."

After the meeting ended, prayer members of the Campus Crusade for Christ fanned out, leaving Watergate behind and tried to convince others to accept the Lord into their hearts and be forgiven and cleansed. Solicitors were available with supplies of Bibles.

Unique Winter Adventure With Outward Bound

DENVER, COLO.–Colorado Outward Bound School has announced its winter schedule of ski mountaineering and Nordic ski courses in the San Juans of southwestern Colorado.

According to Outward Bound School Director Gary Templin, four 21-day coeducational courses, designed for both novice and experienced skiers, will be conducted between early January and late April.

Courses kick off with several days of outdoor skills and fitness training at the school's winter base camp at Red Cloud Ranch near Lake City, Colorado.

Skills include important mountaineering techniques such as map reading, compass navigation, first aid, mountain rescue, winter camping, basic rock climbing, and avalanche theory and precautions.

After skills training, patrols of nine students, each accompanied by an instructor, undertake several expeditions, which give the students an opportunity to put their newly learned skills to the test. On expedition, students also learn avalanche search and rescue, snow caving and ice climbing.

Expeditions vary with skiing abilities. Experienced skiers (who must be capable of performing a good stem turn) take part in ski mountaineering, and travel through rugged alpine terrain. The ski mountaineering phase, which includes downhill skiing and high alpine touring, is highlighted by the ascent of a 14,000 foot peak.

Novice skiers take part in the Nordic ski program, and tour on cross-country skis through mountain country suitable to lighter Nordic gear. A broad range of winter campcraft experiences are available in the Nordic phase and include environmental awareness and snow studies.

Climaxing both phases of the course is the "solo" – a two or three day period of contemplation and introspection where participants are left alone in the wilderness with a minimum of supplies and supervision.

Throughout the entire winter adventure, participants are confronted with surroundings that challenge their abilities to quickly adapt to new and changing situations. Personal growth in dealing with the environment and teamwork are stressed throughout the program.

Colorado Outward Bound ski mountaineering and Nordic ski program courses are open to anyone over the age of 18. A $450 tuition fee for the 21-day course includes all food and professional alpine equipment. Students are expected to supply their own personal clothing, hiking boots and transportation to and from Red Cloud Ranch.

Colorado Outward Bound, a non-profit organization, P.O. Box 7247, Park Hill Station, Denver, Colo. 80207, founded in 1962, is one of 32 Outward Bound schools in the world and the largest of five in the United States. All Outward Bound programs are designed to be educational experiences of self-discovery which use the challenges found in natural settings as their teaching medium. For further information contact Nancy Goss at 656–2694.

Equal Rights...

(continued from page one)

The Equal Rights Amendment, if ratified, will make all state-supported institutions eliminate laws or regulations which exclude women. The amendment, unfortunately, would not affect private institutions.

The first resolution concerning equal rights for women appeared in 1923 when both the House and Senate Judiciary Committees held hearings on the subject. In 1948 and 1956, favorable reports were issued by the Senate Judiciary Committee. The legislation also passed in the Senate twice, in 1950 and in 1953. The only problem, however, was that it retained the so-called "Hayden rider" which stated that the amendment, "...shall not be constituted to impair any rights, benefits or exemptions now or hereafter conferred by law upon persons of the female sex." In other words, it pretty much negated all effects of the equal rights legislation. The present amendment does not retain this statement.

The problem remains, and will remain until this amendment becomes part of the Constitution, that women are unfairly discriminated against. The Constitution has always been vague on this issue. Sharon Frink commented, "Women's rights are not guaranteed under the fifth or the fourteenth amendments, although the rights of males of every race, religion, or national origin are." 'Protective' laws which oppress rather than safeguard are only applied to women. Civil rights and responsibilities commonplace to men are often withheld from or denied to women. Moreover, an amendment securing equal rights would benefit everyone, male and female."

TRADE ONE TOUGH SUMMER FOR TWO GREAT YEARS

ENROLL IN THE ARMY ROTC TWO YEAR PROGRAM

Jack Schmidt did, and now he's receiving valuable training in leadership and management to prepare him for the responsibilities of a commissioned officer. He also receives an allowance of $100 each month of the school year until graduation.

So did Steve Emerson. Steve won a Two Year ROTC Scholarship which is paying for full tuition, books, and related educational expenses plus his $100 each month during the school year until graduation.

Pre-Med Psychology Major. Founder and first Director of Operations for UVM Rescue. Graduated Outstanding Cadet of his unit at ROTC Basic Camp. "I joined the ROTC Two Year Program because ROTC is providing me with the experience of dealing with people in stress situations that will enhance my future career."

Engineering Major. Two Year ROTC Scholarship winner. Ranked high in his graduating class at ROTC Basic Camp. "With my engineering education and the challenge and training that ROTC presents, I feel that I am preparing myself for a very rewarding career."

FOR MORE INFORMATION:
Attend our briefing on this program at the Department of Military Studies, 3rd floor, Williams Hall, Wed., Feb. 20 at 4 pm.
or call 656–2966 / 2967

The BIG BURGER Restaurant
1200 Williston Road, S. Burlington

needs some good people to work in various positions. Flexible hours and pleasant working conditions.
Interviews: Thurs. and Fri. (Feb. 14-15, 9:30-12, 1-4:30) at Vermont Employment Security, 59-63 Pearl Street, Burlington.

The Good Courts!
Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons – Group or private – Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Pro Shop – 24-Hour Stringing Service – Expert Advice • Open 8 AM-12 PM Weekdays, 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Open Mid. Feb. 862-2459

...ter Adventure ...ward Bound

...vary with ... Experienced ...ust be capable ... a good stem ... part in ski ...s and travel ...d alpine terrain. ...mountaineering ...ich includes ...ng and high ... is highlighted ... of a $4,000

...s take part in ... program, and ...e-country skis ...ntain country ...lighter Nordic ... range of winter ...periences are ...e Nordic phase ... environmental ... snow studies, ...with phases of ... the "solo" ... day period of ...tion and ...ion where ...e left alone in ...es with a ... supplies and

... the entire ...re, participants ...onted with ... that challenge ... to quickly ... and changing ... situations. Personal growth in dealing with the environment and teamwork are stressed throughout the program.

Colorado Outward Bound ski - mountaineering and Nordic ski program courses are open to anyone over the age of 18. A $450 tuition fee for the 21-day course includes all food and professional alpine equipment. Students are expected to supply their own personal clothing, hiking boots and transportation to and from Red Cloud Ranch.

Colorado Outward Bound, a non-profit organization, P.O. Box 7247, Park Hill Station, Denver, Colo. 80207, founded in 1962, is one of 32 Outward Bound schools in the world and the largest of five in the United States. All Outward Bound programs are designed to be educational experiences of self- discovery which use the challenges found in natural settings as their teaching medium. For further information contact Nancy Goss at 656-2694.

Equal Rights...

(continued from page one)

The Equal Rights Amendment, if ratified, will make all state-supported institutions eliminate laws or regulations which exclude women. The amendment, unfortunately, would not affect private institutions.

The first resolution concerning equal rights for women appeared in 1923 when both the House and Senate Judiciary Committees held hearings on the subject. In 1948 and 1956, favorable reports were issued by the Senate Judiciary Committee. The legislation also passed in the Senate twice, in 1950 and in 1953. The only problem, however, was that it retained the so-called "Hayden rider" which stated that the amendment, "...shall not be constituted to impair any rights, benefits or exemptions now or hereafter conferred by law upon persons of the female sex." In other words, it pretty much negated all effects of the equal rights legislation. The present amendment does not retain this statement.

The problem remains, and will remain until this amendment becomes part of the Constitution, that women are unfairly discriminated against. The Constitution has always been vague on this issue. Sharon Frink commented, "Women's rights are not guaranteed under the fifth or the fourteenth amendments, although the rights of males of every race, religion, or national origin are." 'Protective' laws which oppress rather than safeguard are only applied to women. Civil rights and responsibilities commonplace to men are often withheld from or denied to women. Moreover, an amendment securing equal rights would benefit everyone, male and female."

Skiers Without Snow

(continued from page sixteen)

...d in the 15 km race. Early ... month he also won a race ...he White Mountain School ... New Hampshire. Morten ...ured has consistently been ...e to Dunklee, most ...ently placing second in the ...ne Mountain race. Trygve ...oseth, who was among the ...st in the East last year, has ...en suffering from mono, ...d has been unable to race ... three weeks after a ...mber of good results early ... the year.

The alpine racers under the ...tutelage of Neil "Winky" ...Mackay have had intermittent ...uccesses. Chris Brown and ...ill Rathbone were picked to ...epresent the East in the ...Canadian-American series in ...the West as a result of their ...performances last year and ...the qualifying races this ...December. Rathbone was ...third in one of the two ...Can-Am qualifying slaloms, ...a very impressive result. Kirk ...Dice, mistakenly reported to ...be a cross-country runner in ...the Cynic has switched to alpine and won two major races this year, the Corcoran Cup and the Middlebury Giant—Slalom. At the Corcoran Cup he started in the 72nd position and won the race which was a considerable feat. Both Brian Suslin and Dick Erdman have been skiing well and have had excellent results. Erdman finished well at a pre-Can-Am race at Stowe in addition to numerous high finishes in Collegiate Conference races. Suslin also has been impressive with his best result coming at the Dartmouth Cup Slalom where he was second.

These results are attributable to hard work and good coaching. Head Coach Chip LaCasse, Special Jumping Coach Martin Grimes, and Alpine Coach Neil Mackay have done a commendable job in preparing the team. Only time will tell whether or not successful four event team efforts will be realized out of the successes earned by individuals.

Steinbacher Speaks On Grade School, Sex, Humanism

by Kathy Stiaani

"Socko, Buffo, Smashero" was the headline for an article in The National Educator which reported on the recent activities of the National Justice Foundation. The NJF's illustrious president, John Steinbacher recently spoke to a Burlington audience about some of the ...ities of elementary school ...ex education and secular humanism which his organization is opposing.

Mr. Steinbacher's lecture entitled "Public Education and Ideological Dilemma," given Tuesday, February 5 at the Ramada Inn, was sponsored by the Citizens for Quality Textbooks. He spoke initially about the philosophical directions of the public school system. He cited his disapproval of the concept of Dewyism or secular humanism as he calls it. Mr. Steinbacher feels that in the past years the tax supported school system has made young people disciples of this idea of secular humanism.

Mr. Steinbacher was particularly critical of the new "Man, A Course of Study" program which is being taught in schools in this area. He described it as being animalistic. It seems that presently this program is a controversial one in the local school system. It is necessary to first identify the MACOS program. It is described by Jerome Bruner who is responsible for initiating the program's theory of instruction.

"The content of the course is man: his nature as a species, the forces that shaped and continue to shape his humanity. Three questions recur throughout:

What is human about human beings?

How did they get that way?

How can they be made more so?

We seek exercises and materials through which our pupils can learn wherein man is distinctive in his adaptation to the world, and wherein there is a discernable continuity between him and his forebears....

In pursuit of our questions we proceed to explore five subjects, each closely associated with the evolution of man as a species, each defining at once the distinctiveness of man and his potential for further evolution. The five great humanizing forces are tool making, language, social organization, the management of man's prolonged childhood, and man's urge to explain his world."

There have been some major objections to the material presented in the fifth unit on the Netsilik Eskimo. It is thought that the study of customs such as wife swapping, and abandonment of grandparents is damaging and unnecessary for 10 and 11 year olds, or the fifth grade level at which the MACOS program is directed.

However, the controversy centers more directly around the question of whether it is appropriate to misproject a life philosophy into a social studies program. Furthermore, there is an ideological clash between the world views of secular humanism and fundamental Christian principle. Proponents of the MACOS program are in favor of a course of studies which encourages learning for survival, self-improvement, and adaptation to life in a technological society. The question as to whether a fifth grade child is too young to be confronted with questions about his identity and the identities of other species, was answered by a fifth grade teacher in the MACOS program at the Williston School. She notices that 10 and 11 year old children begin asking questions about their environment. Their social world extends beyond home and school as they begin to absorb more significant events from the media. Richard M. Jones, author of Fantasy and Feeling in Education, a commentary on the MACOS program, reinforces the need to encourage children's exploratory tendencies. "Relevance, then, is the key to availing the instructional process of emotional and imaginal influences."

However, the Citizens for Quality Textbooks feel that such a sensitive and controversial subject should not be part of a mandatory public elementary school curriculum, especially at the fifth grade level.

Steinbacher who is supporting the Citizens for Quality Textbooks stand against MACOS believes that today in schools there is too much emphasis on psychoanalysis. Teachers have become therapists, students, patients, and the schools, mental institutions. Education today, according to Mr. Steinbacher is becoming increasingly mechanistic and inhuman as the emphasis is on behavioral engineering and modification rather than academic achievement. "The young people in this country don't need a school system to reshape their values and to serve as a psychiatric institution." He cited a course in "Family Life and Sex Education" as a prime example of the overemphasis on behavioral techniques. He objected to the idea of a child choosing his own values as a result of courses such as sex education by contending that "nobody chooses their own values" because "your values are a hodgepodge of other's values."

Mr. Steinbacher feels that teaching is one of the most important professions because educators are "watchmen on the walls" in any civilization and as such the influence on future course of events. However, he also maintained that "the only natural teacher on earth is the parent" and that children are only on loan to the school system. He warned parents that today schools are trying to usurp that natural right by scientifically programming students' thinking processes. He looked back with great admiration on America's early public church schools saying that "they played an incredible role from about 1840 to 1920." The system there was one where students attained a status of functional literacy as a result of sound instruction in subjects such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and history which are the basis of a good education. He contrasted these courses with present day programs of study which he claims to be not only less effective but damaging to America's younger generation. Mr. Steinbacher's viewpoints are substantiated in his two books, The Child Seducers and The Conspirators, Man, Against God.

Recipe of the Week

What's designed to go with a glass of milk? Molasses cookies!

Molasses Cookies

Ingredients:

- 3/4 cup shortening
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons ginger
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream shortening. Add sugar and other ingredients. Chill dough; roll into walnut-sized balls. Roll in sugar. Place two inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

Do you have a favorite recipe? Send it in (typed if possible) to the Vermont Cynic, c/o Feature Department, in lower Billings Center. If we print it, we'll use your name unless you indicate otherwise. Deadlines are Monday noon preceeding each Thursday's issue.

Nixon's Scandal-A-Day Administration

"This Administration has proved that it is utterly incapable of cleaning out the corruption which has completely eroded it and re-establishing the confidence and faith of the people in the morality and honesty of their government employees. The investigations which have been conducted to date... have only scratched the surface. For every case which is exposed, there are ten which are successfully covered up and even then this Administration will go down in history as the 'scandal-a-day' Administration.'

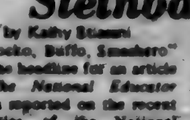
"It is typical of the moral standards of the Administration that when they are caught red-handed with pay-off money in their bank accounts the best defense they can give is that they won the money in a poker game, a crap game, or by hitting the daily double.

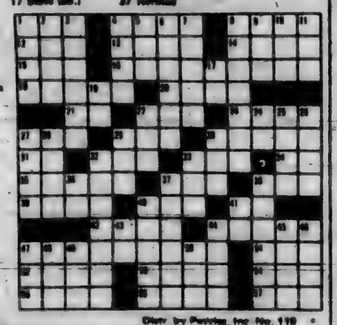
"A new class of royalty has been created in the United States and its princes of privileges and pay-offs include the racketeers who get concessions on their income tax cases, the insiders who get favorite treatment on government contracts, the influence peddlers with keys to the White House, the government employee who uses his position to feather his nest. The great tragedy, however, is not that corruption exists but that it is defended and condoned by the President and other high Administration officials. We have had corruption defended by those in high places. If they won't recognize or admit that corruption exists, how can we expect them to clean it up?"

Nov. 13, 1951 — Sen. Richard Nixon in his denunciation of the Truman Administration at the Hotel Statler, Boston.

crossword puzzle

Answer to No. 117





Distr. by Pantex, Inc. No. 118

Don't miss our

HOLIDAY SALE

FRI., SAT., & MON., ONLY

Feb. 15 thru 18

DRASTICALLY REDUCED RAF JACKETS

NOW $65

up to 50% off

Sheepskin Coats
Leather Jackets
Handbags

and much much more

SUNDANCE

...NOOSKI AVE. AT PEARL ST. DOWNTOWN BURLINGTON

Valentine's Day Sale

The Adventures of Captain Discount

STORE WIDE SALE

ONE DAY ONLY!

THURSDAY FEBRUARY 14TH 10 a.m—9pm

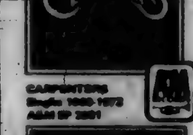
$3.69 5.98 LIST $4.29 6.98 LIST $4.69 6.98 STEREO TAPES

A&M

BURT BACHARACH Living Together A&M SP 3527

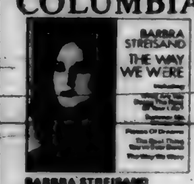
HENRY GROSS Henry Gross A&M 4418

CARPENTERS Singles 1969-1973 A&M SP 3501



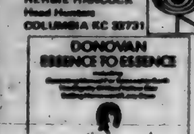
SHAWN PHILLIPS Bright White A&M SP 4402

COLUMBIA



BARBRA STREISAND The Way We Were COLUMBIA PC 32901

HERBIE HANCOCK Head Hunters COLUMBIA KC 32731

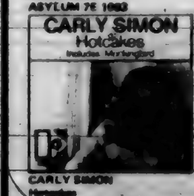


DONOVAN Essence to Essence EPIC KE 32090

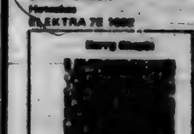
DAVID CROSBY If I Could Only Remember My Name COLUMBIA KC 32717

ELEKTRA

BOB DYLAN & THE BAND Planet Waves ASYLUM 7E 1053



CARLY SIMON Hotcakes ELEKTRA 7E 1082



HARRY CHAPIN Short Stories ELEKTRA EKS 75085

JONI MITCHELL Court & Spark ASYLUM 7E 1062

* Except Budgets And English Imports

discount records

93 CHURCH ST - Next to Magrams - Burlington 863-4587

Store Hours Monday thru Friday 10:00 a.m. - 9p.m. Saturday 10a.m. - 6p.m.

UVM Overcomes UMass In Hockey

by Neil Gruber

Last Wednesday night the Cats defeated the tough Minutemen from U. Mass., by a score of 4-2. Attendance for the game was small, perhaps many stayed at home figuring the game would be a rout.

The game turned out to be a very good game to watch from a spectator's point of view, especially the last period. The invaders were making a strong bid for an upset until Bill Koch iced the victory with less than 4 minutes to go in the game, with his second goal of the night.

The Minutemen seemed content to sit back and play defense and try to wait for a break. This tactic seemed to disrupt the Cats as they were not finishing off their plays.

The Cats scored the first goal at 9:03 of the first period. John Murphy cleared the puck out of the Vermont zone to Tom Colby who was skating up the right side. Colby and Michel Lebeau went in on a two on one break. Colby skated in on the goaltender taking the defensemen with him, he faked the slapshot and hit the streaking Lebeau with a perfect pass. Lebeau fired the puck past Charles Rheault to the far side.

Less than three minutes later Bill Koch gave Vermont a 2-0 lead. Roger Mallette and Murphy dug the puck out from the boards and centered the puck to Koch who was stationed ten feet out in front of the net. He fired a wrist shot into the net as Rheault was caught out of position.

The Minutemen got on the scoreboard with less than one minute to go in the first period. John Kiely and Jim Lyons of the Minutemen faced for the puck that got by the Vermont defense. Lyons beat Kiely to the puck and Kevin Conners hit home the pass from Tim Howes, into the empty net.

Chris Miller scored a power play goal at 1:17 of period two to give the Cats a 3-1 lead. Miller took a pass from Jack Clifford at the left face-off circle and fired the puck high into the center of the net.

Mike Merchant helped the Minutemen get back into the game as he caught the Cats standing around on defense. Merchant took a pass from Carl Burns from behind the net and he quickly fired it past Kiely, who did not have a chance to make the save.

The third period had good end to end action with the Minutemen threatening to tie the score. Koch's goal at 16:23 sealed the victory. The play started as Mallette skated up ice, but he was upended by a hipcheck at mid-ice. Tim O'Connell picked up the puck and hit and Koch skated in with a two on one break. O'Connell skated by the defender and passed the puck to Koch, who fired a wrist shot past Rheault.

John Kiely had only 22 saves but half of them were in the third period. Rheault made 46 saves in net for the Minutemen.

The Insider

(continued from page sixteen)

been as good a season as had been expected. The ability to win has been an elusive thing, and the lack of this ability has hit the Vermont Basketball team at crucial times, for unknown reasons. There are no choke artists on our team who yield to pressure or get "cold feet". But not knowing the feeling of winning nor knowing how to win can be like a spreading disease.

There are still eight games left and the team has two major goals. The first is to win all of our remaining games; and we have played well enough at times this season to defeat any of our upcoming opponents; and the second and most immediately attainable goal, is to beat St. Michaels and prove ourselves to be what our team knows we are, the best in Vermont!

Speaking Of Hockey

(continued from page fifteen)

and played well in front of Kiely preventing many shots from reaching the crease.

John Kiely provided the thrills for the crowd. He denied Clarkson for 58 minutes and 42 seconds before succumbing to a hard wrist shot at the end of the game. No one really felt that Kiely would have this great a year, except John himself. After playing in the shadows of Steve Eckerson the last two seasons, Kiely is now building his own legend.

As this story goes to press, the AIC game will have been played, leaving only one home game remaining against Norwich. Willie MacKinnon is making excellent progress and should play against Pennsylvania on February 18.

SCHWARTZ ON SPORTS

by Mike Schwartz

Minor sports on campus sometimes are lost in the deluge of interest in hockey, basketball, and skiing. But this past week I was able to learn about the intricacies of back walkovers, hand springs, and the back semi-tuck position. Gymnastics might be the second most popular sport in the world but at UVM it is just developing.

This past weekend the women's gymnastics team finished second in a triangular meet at Patrick Gymnasium. More than the results, the gymnastics meet showed athletics at its very best. The women perform four events that stress discipline, strength, grace, and the competitive spirit of women's sports. The uneven parallel bars seemed to be the most difficult event. A girl must show consistency and be able to perform exercises continuously. The balance beam necessitates the poise to do leaps and moves on a bar that measures four inches in width. There is a need for poise if one happens to fall off the bar. Vaulting necessitates the ability to perfect a basic exercise that takes perhaps one or two seconds to complete. Finally, the floor exercise combines the grace of ballet movement with leaps, tumbling, and flips. It was an impressive night to see a girl like Sue Supovitz perform excellently on all four events. Her grace in leaping off the four inch beam, of doing a back walkover on the beam, and literally flossting in air while doing a hand spring on the vaulting horse, made this layman in gymnastics appreciate a sport he had never seen performed live.

But there is more to gymnastics at UVM than attending meets. For the men's gymnastics team in particular, the struggle for acceptability and recognition still continues without a definite stand by the administration. A talk with men's gymnastics coach, Thomas Dunkley, stressed the frustration from continuous efforts to have gymnastics recognized on campus. Essentially, the women's team is a recognized varsity sport incorporated in the women's sports budget. But the men's team is a club and is not part of the varsity athletic budget. When Coach Dunkley came to UVM there had been no gymnastics in Vermont. In his second year here, in 1967, he held the first High School Invitational meet. High school programs were developed to act as a feeder for the University program. To gain recognition the men under Mr. Dunkley's direction would perform exhibitions, contact high schools, and do anything in their power to develop interest. They were able to get some surplus ski team funds, and for a while S.A. funds. But even today much money to go on trips comes from the pockets of the team members. The team has lost many top performers to other schools because UVM did not have a recognized gymnastics team. Two such performers, one of which is the star competitor, now attend the University of New Hampshire.

As of now the team is 80-90 per cent from Vermont. Many competitors never competed in high school and were recruited out of UVM gymnastics classes such as Gary Reed. But gymnastics is a very important sport. Coach Dunkley pointed out the "carryover values" to other sports. Mr. Dunkley assisted the national ski team in using gymnastics in their training program. The UVM football team has also found out about the flexibility in gymnastics exercises that make it a good off-season sport. The floor exercise is good for skiers as it stresses the use of leg muscles. Despite the interest and the value of gymnastics there is an "inferiority complex" to gymnastics on campus. While other sports get more money the men gymnastics team does not. Though the team will probably go to the New England Championships this year in Boston, they might have to dig into their pockets to go.

In 1969 the Athletic Council unanimously recommended gymnastics as part of the athletic teams beginning in 1970-71. A blue ribbon committee of the Trustees likewise approved inclusion of the team. Despite this supposed recognition by the administration, they have not given funds to the team and have not taken a stand. Mr. Dunkley's most recent attempt in January has not had a response from the office of President Edward Andrews. Nevertheless, the team exists on a club level with close to 20 members. Two weeks ago, the meet against Dartmouth attracted more spectators than a basketball game that afternoon. This interest, and the efforts of Mr. Dunkley deserve more than the previous negative responses by the administration. Indeed, a definite statement by the administration will let the team and the student body know if the men's gymnastics team has been competing for a futile effort in the past seven years or if it will receive the recognition it deserves.

The team can compete on a comparatively small budget. It is a sport on the rise at UVM. It certainly deserves more consideration than it has received in the past. In attending my first meet this past week I saw why this sport that combines sportsmanship with grace, skill, strength, and competition, can be part of the entire exciting scene of the variety of sport on campus.

Women's Swim Still Undefeated

The UVM Women's Swim team continued undefeated last Saturday as they edged the University of Massachusetts 62-60 in a dual meet at Amherst, Mass. A first and second finish by Laura Schriescheim and Anne Bathrenburg in the 100 yard breaststroke enabled the swimmers to win the meet.

The only double winner for the Cats was Jackie Force with victories in the 50 and 100 yard backstrokes. Cindy Prehmus was the winner in the one meter diving event. Melon Dash of UMass proved a capable performer as she won three events including the 50 and 100 yard butterfly.

The next competition for the girls is this Saturday. They will travel to the University of Maine for the New England Championships.

UVM Beats UConn

(continued from page fifteen)

seconds later, O'Connell scored his second goal of the night on a slap shot from the top of the right face off circle.

The Cats seem to just play well enough to win but winning is what counts, right? It would be nice to see a good crowd at all the games. Maybe that would pull the Cats outta their slump against Division II competition.

The final home game of the season is almost here. That will be the state rivalry against Norwich. The Cadets feature the spectacular goal tending abilities of Bill Cantwell. After the upcoming four away games, Norwich invades Gutterson on February 26.

Track Team Wins Meet

by Bob Stoehr

February 8, the UVM Track team travelled to Plattsburg, New York, and soundly beat Plattsburgh State University 97-8-43 at a tri-meet there.

Bill Looker was a triple winner for Vermont on the new tartan surface, taking the 50 yard dash in 5.6, the long jump with 21' 3 3/4", and the triple jump with a 43' 11 3/4 " effort. Mark Iverson led a sweep of the pole vault by UVM jumping 13' 6". Lindgren topped 6" 2" to take first in the high jump. The 300 and 600 yard runs were also dominated by the Cats, Tom Harrington winning the 300 in 34.4 and Dave Platka breaking the tape in the 600 with 1:19.1 second clocking. Pete Wieth and Rich Clark placed first and third respectively in the 1000 yard run. Dave Bird placed second in the high hurdles in 6.8 and Mike Bilza put the shot 46' 11½" to gain another first. Albany State was strong in the distance events as Vermont's Lynn Capen and Bern Putnam were able to take second and third while in the grueling two-mile run. Mike Berry hung on to finish third. Both the mile and two-mile relay were won going away by the Catamounts.

Coming off this meet strong UVM will host the Yankee Conference Championships Saturday, February 16 at 10:00 in Gutterson Field House.

UVM-Siena...

(continued from page sixteen)

The Cats were 10 of 14 from the charity stripe, with Gottschalk 8-11 while Siena was 11-20. Brooks hitting on 8 of 10. Vermont out-rebounded the Indians 49 to 43 and had fewer turnovers, but Siena had a better shooting night and that made the difference.

The next home game for the Cats is this Saturday when they face Bates College. Game time is 1:00 p.m.

Women Gymnasts Place Second--Twice

by Linda Rough

On Wednesday, February 6, the UVM women gymnasts traveled to Keene State College in New Hampshire for a triangular meet against Keene and the University of Massachusetts. This was an exceptionally challenging and exciting meet for the gymnasts because UMass was the number one team last year in the U.S. Women's Intercollegiate Gymnastics competition. They competed with such top gymnasts as Ann Vexler and Linda Nelligan. UVM place second to UMass' winning score of 80.5 with a score of 57.85. Keene was third with 53.25.

Sue Supovitz led the Catamounts with a third place in vaulting (7.0), a third on balance beam (6.65), and a second on floor exercise (6.7). Barbara Abrams placed third on the uneven parallel bars and Candy Goerler place fourth.

To add to the week, on Saturday afternoon, the girls had another triangular meet here at UVM. They placed second in a close meet against Keene and Northeastern. After the first two events (balance beam and uneven bars) the total team scores were Keene 31.25, Northeastern 31.25, and UVM 31.70. Unfortunately, Northeastern squeezed in front to win the meet with a score of 67.20. UVM was only three points behind with 64.15 and Keene had 59.80.

Again Sue Supovitz, a triple winner, had outstanding first place performances on vaulting, balance beam, and bars. She scored 6.5, 7.0, and 6.55 respectively. Debbie Light received a first place for her floor exercise routine with 7.2. Barbara Abrams again did well on the uneven bars placing second with a 6.35.

The next meet for the girls is at home on Saturday at 6:00 p.m., against Nassau Community College and Boston State. The team is coached by Holly Szabo and its members are Barbara Abrams, Pam Burns, Nancy Cicino, Cathy Conley, Candy Goerler, Joanna Houbolt, Kathy Kalinoski, Debbie Light, Mary McAdam, Carole Shiber, Linda Rough and Sue Supovitz.

A woman gymnast performs in the floor exercise.

SPS Photo: Allen Soodak

THE DELIGHTED EYE GALLERY
presents
Six Photographers
Feb. 15-Mar. 1
Marion Ettlinger
Jonathan Terry
Anita Terry
Carolyn Bates
Sanders Milens
Douglas Crawford
10:00 AM – 2:30 PM Monday – Friday
7:00 – 9:00 PM – Friday
12:00 PM – 5:00 PM – Saturday
94 CHURCH ST.

The Austrian alternative
Apply now to experience one of the most exciting "year abroad" programs available, centrally located in Bregenz, Austria, near Europe's finest winter sports areas.
Live with an Austrian family • No language requirement for admission • Learn German by using it • Independent travel and organized excursions throughout Europe • Skiing and ski instruction • Fully accredited • Transferrable credits.
Curriculum includes Humanities, Social Sciences and Physical Education.
Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors from all accredited colleges. For details write:
WAGNER COLLEGE STUDY PROGRAM
WAGNER COLLEGE
Staten Island, New York 10301
(212) 390-3107
BREGENZ 13th YEAR

Roge

Icecats Impre

by Al Patashnick

The University of Vermont hockey team played their most solid game in more than a week as they defeated Division I Clarkson, 5-1, at Gutterson Fieldhouse on Monday night. The Cats checked the daylights out of the visitors from Potsdam, New York, succeeding in stopping Clarkson from completing plays. The win for Vermont upped their record to 18-4 and 6-2 against Division I opponents. The Cats are the only Division II team to have beaten Clarkson.

The game began as a lesson on how to give the puck away, in your own end. Three times in the first ten minutes the Golden Knights had opportunities from close range but were unable to put the puck in as John Kiely made fine moves in the goal. Kiely played one of his best games of the season as he kept the team even until 16:39 when Bill Koch scored his 17th goal of the season, with assists to Mallette and O'Connell. Mallette made one of his patented rushes into the Clarkson end, with a defender close on his heels. He held on to the puck, moved around in back of the Clarkson goal and centered the puck to O'Connell at the goal mouth. O'Connell fired and the shot rebounded out in front to Koch who banged it in. At 18:20, Captain Ted Castle scored his seventeenth goal of the season and sixty-third of his career to make the score 2-0. This goal equalled Fred Hunt's career goal record. Castle took John Murphy's long pass of the boards at the Clarkson blue line, fought his way to the net and slipped a backhand shot to the short side. He had beautifully faked out defenseman Bob Clarke, leaving the Clarkson player on his knees and getting a clear shot on goalie Gailbraith. In the first period, Kiely had ten [illegible] for Gailbraith.

The second [illegible] again all Verm[illegible] continued to [illegible] throughout the [illegible] two and a half [illegible] the period, Ke[illegible] from Ted Cu[illegible] behind the Cla[illegible] centered the [illegible] O'Connell. O'C[illegible] quick wrist sh[illegible] Gailbraith hug[illegible] side. Vermont [illegible] to 4-0 on a po[illegible] by Tom Colby [illegible] Lee Palmer of [illegible] John Murphy t[illegible] that rebounde[illegible] side where M[illegible] took a swipe a[illegible] Colby lifted [illegible] Gailbraith. It [illegible] first varsity [illegible] nine saves to [illegible] Clarkson netm[illegible] a bit tougher [illegible] were called as [illegible] the first perio[illegible]

—Defenseman [illegible] scored his fi[illegible] season at 5:4[illegible] period as M[illegible] Clarkson def[illegible] decked reserv[illegible] Shields to his [illegible] the puck und[illegible] pads. Assists w[illegible] and O'Conne[illegible] received a trea[illegible] as both t[illegible] aggressively. [illegible] went off for [illegible] Shields. This [illegible] in angering Cl[illegible] they got for [illegible] was a minor a[illegible] misconduct o[illegible] Just a minute [illegible] O'Connell went [illegible] minute highsti[illegible] Clarkson had [illegible] but could not [illegible] getting a slash[illegible] short time la[illegible] played shortha[illegible] a while as ea[illegible] turns getting [illegible] Clarkson had [illegible] penalties for [illegible] the Cats eleven[illegible]

PART TIME EMPLOYMENT ON THE UVM CAMPUS
Earn money and travel benefits selling Bermuda, and Acapulco spring vacation trav[illegible] campus for New England's largest travel agen[illegible]
Set your own hours.
No specific requirements necessa[illegible]
For more information call colle[illegible]
Peter A. Johnson
College Program Director
GARBER TRAVEL SERVICE
1406 Beacon Street
Brookline, MA 02146
(617) 734-2100

DAVES AUTOMOT[illegible]
INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686
FOREIGN CAR REPA[illegible]
SPECIALISTS
• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balanc[illegible]
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JO[illegible]
Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional. $4[illegible]
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL Spin B[illegible]
VW Reg Exhaust $29.95 $3.50 p[illegible]
Front End Alignment $12.00

SPORTS

the team members. The team has lost many top to other schools because UVM did not have a gymnastics team. Two such performers, one of star competitor, now attend the University of ine.

w the team is 50-50 per cent from Vermont. petitors never competed in high school and were ut of UVM gymnastics classes such as Gary gymnastics is a very important sport. Coach nted out the "carryover value" to other sports. y assisted the national ski team in using in their training program. The UVM football o found out about the flexibility in gymnastics et make it a good off-season sport. The floor good for skiers as it strengthe the use of leg ports the interest and the value of gymnastics "inferiority complex" to gymnastics on campus. sports get more money the men gymnastics not. Though the team will probably go to the nd Championships this year in Boston, they to dig into their pockets to go.

he Athletic Council unanimously recommended as part of the athletic teams beginning in blue ribbon committee of the Trustees likewise clusion of the team. Despite this supposed by the administration, they have not given the team and have not taken a stand. Mr. most recent attempt in January has not had a om the office of President Edward Andrews. the team exists on a club level with close to Two weeks ago, the meet against Dartmouth ore spectators than a basketball game that This interest, and the efforts of Mr. Dunkley than the previous negative responses by the n. Indeed, a definite statement by the e will let the team and the student body know gymnastics team has been competing for a in the past seven years or if it will receive the t deserves.

can compete on a comparatively small budget. on the rise at UVM. It certainly deserves more than it has received in the past. In attending et this past week I saw why this sport that portsmanship with grace, skill, strength, and can be part of the entire exciting scene of the ort on campus.

Place Second--Twice

31.25, and Unfortunately, squeezed in the meet with a 20. UVM was nts behind with ene had 59.80; Supovitz, a Finnet, had first place on vaulting, , and bars. She 7.0, and 6.55 Debbie Light st place for her e routine with 7.2. Barbara Abrams again did well on the uneven bars placing second with a 6.35.

The next meet for the girls is at home on Saturday at 6:00 p.m., against Nassau Community College and Boston State. The team is coached by Holly Szabo and its members are Barbara Abrams, Pam Burns, Nancy Cicino, Cathy Conley, Candy Goernet, Joanna Houbolt, Kathy Katinoski, Debbie Light, Mary McAdam, Carole Shiber, Linda Rough and Sue Supovitz.

mnast performs in the floor exercise.

SPS Photo: Alton Sadak

e Austrian ternative

experience one of the most exciting year abroad! ...ollege, centrally located in Bregenz, Austria, near ...est winter sports areas.

...Austrian family • No language requirement for ... Learn German by using it • Independent travel ...ed excursions throughout Europe • Skiing and ski ... Fully accredited • Transferrable credits.

...includes Humanities, Social Sciences and Physi...

...freshmen, juniors and seniors ...ccredited colleges. For details write:

...COLLEGE ...rk, New York 10801 ...107

BREGENZ 13th YEAR

Roger Mallette attempts to score against Clarkson. SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Icecats Impressive In 5-1 Win Over Clarkson

by Al Fatschinski

The University of Vermont hockey team played their most solid game in more than a week as they defeated Division I Clarkson, 5-1, at Gutterson Fieldhouse on Monday night. The Cats checked the daylights out of the visitors from Potsdam, New York, succeeding in stopping Clarkson from completing plays. The win for Vermont upped their record to 18-4 and 6-2 against Division I opponents. The Cats are the only Division II team to have beaten Clarkson.

The game began as a lesson on how to give the puck away, in your own end. Three times in the first ten minutes the Golden Knights had opportunities from close range but were unable to put the puck in as John Kiely made fine moves in the goal. Kiely played one of his best games of the season as he kept the score even until 16:39 when Bill Koch scored his 17th goal of the season, with assists to Mallette and O'Connell. Mallette made one of his patented rushes into the Clarkson end, with a defender close on his heels. He held on to the puck, moved around in back of the Clarkson goal and centered the puck to O'Connell at the goal mouth. O'Connell fired and the shot rebounded out in front to Koch who banged it in. At 18:20, Captain Ted Castle scored his seventeenth goal of the season and sixty-third of his career to make the score 2-0. This goal equalled Fred Hunt's career goal record. Castle took John Murphy's long pass of the boards at the Clarkson blue line, fought his way to the net and slipped a backhand shot to the short side. He had beautifully faked out defenseman Bob Clarke, leaving the Clarkson player on his knees and getting a clear shot on goalie Gailbraith. In the first period, Kiely had ten saves to twelve for Gailbraith.

The second period was again all Vermont as they continued to apply pressure throughout the period. Just two and a half minutes into the period, Koch took a pass from Ted Curtis who was behind the Clarkson net, and centered the puck to O'Connell. O'Connell let go a quick wrist shot that beat Gailbraith high on the left side. Vermont hiked its lead to 4-0 on a power play goal by Tom Colby at 13:48. With Lee Palmer off for tripping, John Murphy took a slap shot that rebounded to the left side where Michel Lebeau took a swipe at it before Tom Colby lifted the puck over Gailbraith. It was Colby's first varsity goal. Kiely had nine saves to fourteen for the Clarkson netminder. Play got a bit rougher as five penalties were called as to only one in the first period.

Defenseman Ken Yeates scored his fifth goal of the season at 5:48 of the third period as he got by a Clarkson defender. Yeates decked reserve goalie Brian Shields to his knees and shot the puck under the goalie's pads. Assists went to Mallette and O'Connell. The fans received a treat in this period as both teams played aggressively. Michel Lebeau went off for charging into Shields. This action resulted in angering Clarkson but all they got for their troubles was a minor and a ten minute misconduct on Bob Clarke. Just a minute and a half later, O'Connell went off for a five minute highsticking major. Clarkson had the advantage but could not refrain from getting a slashing penalty a short time later. The clubs played shorthanded for quite a while as each team took turns getting penalized. Clarkson had 24 minutes in penalties for the game and the Cats eleven.

John Kiely's shutout was spoiled at 18:52 when Gary Imeson beat Kiely to the short side with assists from Gray and Spadoni. Kiely finished the game with 27 saves while the combined efforts of Gailbraith and Shields stopped 33 Catamount shots. The O'Connell line again played well as it scored two goals and seven points overall. John Murphy had two assists. The Cats' last regularly scheduled home game of the season is against Norwich on February 26. They now hit the road for games against Pennsylvania, Middlebury, Colby, and Bowdoin.

SPEAKING OF HOCKEY

by Bob Wilensik

The University of Vermont hockey team continues to thwart Division I clubs as they trounced Clarkson College last Monday 5-1. The Cats dominated the contest throughout allowing the Golden Knights their lone goal with only 1:18 left in the third period.

It was a big win for the Cats in many aspects. Vermont had definitely not played its best hockey in the previous contests, but against Clarkson they simply put it all together. They forechecked, backchecked, and headmanned the puck beautifully. Vermont's teamwork contrasted with Clarkson's individualistic style. The Cats were consistently hitting the open man while the Golden Knights seemed to be trying to beef up their individual scoring statistics. That style of play cannot beat a high caliber team such as Vermont.

It was a game that saw captain Ted Castle score his sixty-third goal of his tremendous career to tie Fred Hunt for the record at Vermont. It couldn't have come at a better time. The goal was Castle's seventeenth of the season tying him for the club lead with right winger Billy Koch. Koch has scored five goals in his last three games (including Clarkson) and has turned into a very prolific scorer. The line of O'Connell, Mallette, and Koch is playing their best hockey of the season now and has come up with many big goals in their role as the first line since the injury to MacKinnon.

It was a game that saw freshman center Tom Colby score his first goal of the season. Tom might be small in size (5-8, 148 pounds) but he throws his weight around like a big defenseman and hustles 100 per cent of the time. The line of Colby, Miller, and Lebeau is extremely underrated especially player Chris Miller. Miller is a steady, up-and-down skater who forechecks and backchecks extremely well. He has also come up with some important goals this season although he is often overlooked. He's not what you would call a "flashy" skater, but he always does his job and does it well.

The defense also turned in a good performance with sophomore Ken Yeates scoring a goal for the big fire. They broke up many plays before they had a chance to develop

(continued on page fourteen)

Sports Briefs

● This past Sunday at Salisbury, Connecticut, Petter Kongli chalked up another ski jumping title. Kongli jumped 200 feet to win the Eastern Championships. Trygve Roiseth leaped 187 feet to finish second. He is also a Norwegian jumper attending UVM. The day before Kongli and Roiseth had finished one-two respectively in the Dartmouth Carnival.

● With the Yankee Conference Track Championships this Saturday, the UVM tracksters warmed up with a convincing win in a triangular meet at Plattsburgh. The Cats had 97 points, Albany State 43, and Plattsburgh 6. Billy Looker turned in three victories in the 50 yard dash, long jump and triple jump. Mike Bilsta and Mark Iverson continued to win in field event competition. The Yankee Conference meet begins with trials at 10:00 am and the finals start at 1:00 pm this Saturday.

● The Swim Team continues to perform well with a 72—41 victory over St. Lawrence last Saturday. Bod Nold won the three meter dive and Doug Piche the one meter diving event. The Cat dual meet record now stands at 5 — 2.

Intramural News

Entries open on February 18 and close on February 25 for the following Intramural Activities. Entry blanks may be picked up in the Intramural Office — Room 213 — Patrick Gym:

Badminton (doubles) men
Badminton (doubles) women
Badminton (singles) men
Badminton (singles) women
Co-ed Badminton (doubles)
Volleyball men
Volleyball women
Faculty tennis (doubles)

The Handball and Squash courts will be available for use every Monday morning from 9 a.m. to 12 noon for those people competing in Intramural Tournaments. Call the Equipment Room, ext. 3069, Saturday or Sunday from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. to make reservations.

REMEMBER: the courts are available for Intramural Match play only.

Dartmouth

(continued from page sixteen)

the jump effort was not enough to catch Dartmouth or Middlebury and the final totals were Dartmouth 146, Middlebury 124, and UVM 115. The same teams will be competing again next weekend at the Williams' Carnival prior to the Eastern Championships at Middlebury on February 22 and 23.

Vermont Sextet Defeats UConn

by Fred Coombs

The Cats almost got caught napping Saturday night in their 6-2 victory over the Huskies of the University of Connecticut. It was by far the most frustrating and lackluster contest of the season. The Cats left a lot of unfinished plays and loose ends lying aroung as they outshot the Huskies 56-30 but only managed six scores. The O'Connell line was in on five of the six scores as the UVM attack was anything but balanced.

Tim O'Connell, with two goals and two assists, took the team scoring lead with 33 points. Bill Koch put in two goals and an assist while Roger Mallette added three assists.

O'Connell got the Cats started in the first period when he scored on the powerplay taking a pass from Mallette, at 1:38. The rest of the first period was full of dull hockey action.

The Cats lit the lamp twice in the second on a pair of goals by Bill Koch. At 5:40, Koch took a pass from O'Connell and blasted a slapshot by UConn goalie, Lou Parker for a powerplay goal. Koch banged in a rebound off a John Murphy slap shot at 10:08, five seconds after a UConn penalty expired. The second period was also rotten, even though the Cats outshot'em 23-7.

The third period was worse than rotten, in fact it was quite pungent as the Huskies came up with two quick goals on sloppy plays by the Cats. UConn scored on the powerplay when Bob Breig, standing unhassled in front of the net, banged it in at 2:21. Steve Balaban beat Kiely to the short side, at 3:59 with the defense napping.

UVM cleared the air, somewhat, towards the end of play with three quick goals. At 16:33 Ted Castle nonchalantly walked up to the net and got his sixteenth goal of the season tying Koch for the team lead. Ted Child boomed a slap shot past Parker at 18:13. Seven

(continued on page fourteen)

KALSØ earth shoe®
139 BANK STREET BURLINGTON

If you don't win this Saab, you can win one of 341 other prizes.

GRAND PRIZE
SAAB 99 LE.
The pride of Swedish engineering.
Overhead cam engine, rack and pinion steering, front wheel drive, fold-down rear seats.

Dannon Yogurt Winter Carnival Sweepstakes

FIRST PRIZE
Expense-paid week for two in Austria via Icelandic Airlines. Enjoy the fabulous resort of Kitzbuhel.

20 PAIRS HART SKIS
Competition USA model. Hart fiberglass, foamed wood core

20 YASHICA CAMERAS
Atoron Electro model. Automatic ultra-miniature camera

50 SAMSONITE SUIT-PAKS
Carries two men's suits, shirts, shoes, etc.

250 WHOLE EARTH CATALOGS

OFFICIAL RULES
1. On entry blank at right or piece of 3 x 5 paper print your name, address and zip. Mail to Dannon Yogurt Sweepstakes P.O. Box 651, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11202
2. Each entry must be accompanied by two disks from containers of Dannon Yogurt or the words Dannon Yogurt printed in plain block letters on a 3" x 5" piece.
3. Winners will be selected in random drawings conducted by Marden-Kane, Inc., an independent judging organization whose decisions are final. Limit one prize to a family. Taxes on any prizes are the sole responsibility of the winner. No substitutions will be made for any prize offered.
4. Enter as often as you wish; each entry must be mailed separately. Entries must be postmarked by April 20, 1974, and received by April 30, 1974.
5. Sweepstakes open to residents of States east of the Mississippi River, except employees and their families of Dannon Yogurt and its affiliates, its advertising agencies and Marden-Kane, Inc. Offer void where prohibited or restricted by law. All federal, state and local laws apply.
6. NO PURCHASE REQUIRED.

Dannon Yogurt Winter Carnival Sweepstakes
P.O. Box 651, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11202
Please enter me in your sweepstakes. Enclosed are two disks from Dannon containers or the words "Dannon Yogurt" printed in block letters on a 3" x 5" piece of paper.
NAME _____ (Please print plainly)
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____
Dannon Yogurt—The Natural After-Ski Lift
No Artificial Anything
DY-6

CLINIQUE
is at the mayfair

PART TIME EMPLOYMENT
ON THE UVM CAMPUS
Earn money and travel benefits skiing Puerto Rico, Bermuda, and Acapulco spring vacation travel programs on campus for New England's largest travel agency.
Set your own hours.
No specific requirements necessary.
For more information call collect:
Peter A. Johnson
College Program Director
GARBER TRAVEL SERVICE
1406 Beacon Street
Brookline, MA 02146
(617) 734-2100

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE
INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 863-7686
FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS
• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JOB
Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.
$49.95
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Big Exhaust $29.95
Spin Balancing $5.50 per Wheel
Front End Alignment $12.00

SALE SALE
10-SPEED BIKES
SPECIAL STUDENT DISCOUNT
Throughout the U.S. World International Trading Company is taking orders for college campus for special delivery of top quality 10-speed bikes
Reg. Price $100—$125
PRE-SEASON SALE
SHIMANO GEARS * 26" & 27"
MALE & FEMALE STYLES * RACER OR TOURIST * MEETS BMA/6 SPECIFICATIONS
$75
Order now for Spring Delivery
SALE ENDS FEB. 22
Your World International Representative
JOE BARBER
658-2260
Also Available at Fantastic Discounts 3 & 5 Speed Bicycles
SALE SALE

U.V.M. SPORTS

Warren Prehmus shoots over a Siena defender. SPS Photo: R. R. Lew

Siena Scoring Streak Upends Catamount Five

by Al Patashnick

A 17 point chain by Siena College late in the second half broke open a close game and gave the New Yorkers a 77-64 victory over UVM. With a little under eight minutes to play and Siena on top 57-56, the visiting Indians took out their tomahawks and went on the warpath for the next five minutes, holding the Cats scoreless and building their lead to 74-56. The Cats had played fine ball up until that point. Despite a poor shooting performance, the home forces were able to stay in the game by being aggressive off the boards.

The two rivals exchanged hoops for the first eight minutes until a six point streak gave Siena a 20-12 lead. Displaying a run and gun style, the Indians ran the lead to 30-19 with only 6.5 minutes left in the first half. At this point the Cats regrouped and outscored their foe 15-6 to cut the deficit to 36-34 at halftime. Ron Gottschalk and Terry Green led the comeback, scoring seven and four points respectively. Green made a spectacular play when he drove through and around three Siena defenders for a full-court layup. Gottschalk and Warren Prehmus, who scored six of the Cats' first eight points, led the home club with eight points apiece. Senior guard Rod Brooks of Siena threw in 13 to lead all scores.

The second half was close all the way until the previously mentioned surge of 17 consecutive points by Siena stifled the Cats' hopes of winning their fifth game of the year. Vermont's record drops to 4-14 while Siena is 11-5 without the loss of four victories due to an ineligible player. Warren Prehmus and Terry Green shared scoring honors with 18 apiece, with Green also grabbing 13 rebounds. The junior forward had 12 points and 8 rebounds in the second half. Ron Gottschalk scored 14 points in addition to latching onto 10 rebounds. Although not scoring, Capt. Joe Greco hauled down 10 missed shots and it was his absence from the game after fouling out, that began the Cats' collapse. Greco's departure was aided by some questionable calls of the two officials.

For Siena, Capt. Rod Brooks, playing a fine all-around game, paced the Indians with 26 points. Guard Tim Welchons scored 15 points, 13 in the second half, and found time to grab 12 rebounds.

Both teams took 73 shots but Siena hit on 33 for 45 per cent while Vermont clicked on only 27 for 37 per cent.

(continued on page fourteen)

the insider

What can you say about a 4—14 record? That is what our record is at this time. Just four wins with but eight games remaining, mathematically that makes it impossible for Vermont to have a winning record this season. At the beginning I thought that there was no way we couldn't be at least .500, but the events of the season have proven that my earlier prediction was wrong. There has been no breakdown on the part of the team. If I didn't know our record I would feel like there was a good team wearing Vermont across their chests, with a winning record. We have played real good ball for long periods of time, but we are missing something. What we are missing is not the players as much as it is the experience and taste of winning. Take New Hampshire for example; here is a team we beat at home by ten points in an early season victory. We then lost or rather gave away the game the next time we played them. We are clearly a better team, yet we have our record and are 2-7 in the Yankee Conference. What is the difference? Well, of course, we have played a more difficult schedule outside of the conference, but it all comes down to knowing how to win. Evidently New Hampshire has an edge on Vermont in this category.

It seems like we could have and should have and would have won so many games this season. There was the second Maine game, the second New Hampshire game, both Rhode Island games, the Siena game, Northeastern, St. Michaels, and even the Connecticut game at home; we had a good chance to win all of these games, but somehow managed to collapse at the wrong times in either blowing a lead, or not widening the lead we had at a crucial and oppurtune point in the game. A game that sticks out in my mind is the second New Hampshire game. Three minutes remained and we had battled back from a ten point deficit to take a three point lead. Just one score and we would have had enough of a lead to go into a spread-out, four corners offense. With New Hampshire over the foul limit, and their need to foul us, all we would have to do would be to convert from what is accurately termed the Charity Stripe. But the Vermont coach would never hold up four fingers and the Cats would not up their lead at the key times down the stretch. New Hampshire would win.

Games like New Hampshire have marked what has not

(continued on page fourteen)

Skiers Doing Well Even Without Snow

by Dave Donahue

In spite of poor snow conditions and sporadic training UVM skiers have consistently achieved outstanding individual results in both Nordic and Alpine disciplines. Some of these results were continuations of last year's successes and others marked potentials just realized.

Petter Kongsli has continued his domination of the Eastern jumping circuit as he posted victories at the Norwich, Middlebury, and Gunstock special jumps. Most recently he tied for first place in his first ski flying competition at Copper Peak, Michigan, the site of one of the largest ski flying hills in the world. The 150 meter jump juts 275 feet above the top of Copper Peak, making it the highest point in the state of Michigan. Kongsli tied with Larry Martin of the U.S. Ski Team with a leap of 469 feet, besting jumpers from eight countries.

Trygve Rolseth, a freshman from Norway, has consistently beaten all the eastern jumpers with the exception of Kongsli. He placed second at Norwich, Middlebury and Gunstock special jumps in addition to winning the New Jersey State Championship at Bear Mt., New York. Supporting Kongsli and Rolseth has been Tom Lantz, Mac Cleod Oddy, and Joey Lamb. Lamb won the New York State Championships in early January and since that time has consistently turned in good results. Tom Lantz, who is termed the most improved jumper by Coach LaCasse, was third at Middlebury and Norwich and fourth at Gunstock as exhibition of his consistency. Mac Cleod Oddy was impressive at both Norwich and Middlebury, finishing fourth on both occasions. An example of the jumping strength of the University of Vermont was seen at the ESA special jump at Middlebury when the team took first, second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh places.

Although the jumping squad has been the strongest part of the ski team, success has also been enjoyed in cross country. Stan Dunklee, a member of the U.S. Ski Team, won the ESA 30 km Championships, and placed

(continued on page thirteen)

UVM Beats Norwich Again

The University of Vermont basketball team showed their domination of an inferior opponent Monday night when they again defeated the Norwich Cadets. The score in the game at Northfield, Vt., was 71-44. Charlie Tripani came in with his best performance of the season by scoring 22 points and hauling in 12 rebounds. Warren Prehmus added 15 points.

The Cats broke open a close game in the first half without many regular starting players. Joe Greco did not play much as he rested a knee injury. Barry Cohen and Bernie Palmer also did not see action. Brian Donahue filled in capably in the backcourt and scored eight points. For Norwich, the high scorer was Doug Huntley who hit for 24 points.

As the Cynic went to press hopes for the in-state championship between the results of the second St. Michael's contest were unavailable. A win in that game would keep the Cats' Norwich, and St. Mike's alive. Vermont, Middlebury,

Skiers Place Third At Dartmouth

by Dave Donahue

All that can be expected in sports seems to be the emergence of the unexpected. The favorite, should such a distinction exist, particularly in a highly competitive sport such as skiing, is usually a short-lived distinction. The UVM Ski Team, defending Dartmouth Carnival Champions, approached the Dartmouth Carnival last weekend as the favorites, but inconsistent performances, and a new scoring system prevented their repeating as the victors.

In the past the scoring system was based upon differentials; meaning if a team did exceptionally well in a given event they could obtain a big advantage. This year under the new system points are awarded to teams and individuals according to places, not differentials. The first third of the field receives points with number one receiving 16 points and number two receiving 15 points and so on with finisher number sixteen receiving one point. To win under this system consistency in each event is needed as outstanding performances in one or two events is not enough to insure victory.

The event by event results were as follows. UVM earned 29 points in Cross Country as Morten Gaarud finished fourth, Stan Dunklee sixth, and Joey Lamb twelfth. Dartmouth won the cross-country with second, third, and fifth places good for 41 points. The individual winner was Brant McDougall of the Canadian National Team and Middlebury College.

In the slalom, which was won by Dick Erdman of UVM, the team earned 31 points as Bill Rathbone finished seventh and Chris Brown tenth. Dartmouth won the event with 39 points by merit of their second, fourth, and sixth places. Erdman's performance was truly outstanding and by far his best of the year.

The Giant Slalom was crucial for UVM because further losses to Dartmouth would put the meet out of reach. Unfortunately the Giant Slalom turned out to be the worst event of the weekend for UVM. Falls, and lost skis, eliminated the chance for victory as UVM had to settle for twelfth and thirteenth places earned by Dick Erdman and Chris Brown. These places were good for fifth in the event and only 11 points. The Giant Slalom was won by Dartmouth with 39 points with John Macomber of the same school the individual winner.

Vermont won the final event, the jumping by placing first, second, and sixth. Petter Kongsli won the jump, Trygve Rolseth was second, and Joey Lamb sixth. These three places netted 42 total points, 15 points better than Dartmouth's jump total of 27 points which was good for third behind UVM and Middlebury. Unfortunately

(continued on page fifteen)

Cut the cost of your next ski weekend!

Save $11 to $13 on Four Lift Tickets at

• Sugarloaf, Maine • Glen Ellen, Vermont
• Saddleback, Maine • Ascutney, Vermont

Here's a swell chance to save money on some great skiing! No gimmicks, nothing to join, no obligation except to pay the bargain price for your tickets. And they're good anytime — mid-week, week-ends, holidays. What are you waiting for?

REGULAR PRICE		SPECIAL PRICE	EXP. DATE
Sugarloaf—$9.	4 Tickets, $36.	$5.75—4 Tickets, $23.	June '77
Saddleback—$8.	4 Tickets, $32.	$5.25—4 Tickets, $21.	June '76
Glen Ellen—$10.	4 Tickets, $40.	$9.00—4 Tickets, $36.	June '76
Ascutney—$8.	4 Tickets, $32.	$8.25—4 Tickets, $21.	June '77

TO GET YOUR BARGAIN TICKETS, SEND THIS COUPON TODAY!

Membership Privilege Program,
277 Hathaway Street,
Wallington, N.J. 07055

Name
Address
City
Zip
Date
Allow one to two weeks for delivery, please. Acceptable products to Membership Privilege Program.

THE LAST CHANCE

A PLACE TO MINGLE

20¢ ALE Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM.
PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE
OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST.

GIGANTIC SKI SALE

Entire Stock On Sale!!

SKIS, BOOTS, POLES, MITTENS, GLOVES, SNOWSHOES, TURTLENECKS, AFTER-SKI BOOTS

20% to 50% OFF

SOCKS, SKI PANTS, PARKAS, SWEATERS, WARM-UP PANTS, CAR RACKS, ICE SKATES, UNDERWEAR

ALPINE SHOP

WILLISTON ROAD, SO. BURLINGTON
OPEN DAILY 9 A.M. TO 9 P.M.

VOLUME XCII
NUMBER 6
FEBRUARY 21, 1974

VE

Reverend Sun Myung Moon and associ

Sun Myung Hope For C

by Kathy Stiassni

The Champlain Room of the Ramada Inn was the scene of engaging religious activity as Reverend Sun Myung Moon revealed his "New Hope for Christianity." Prospective converts and interested listeners were ushered in by decoratively bannered individuals, obviously members of Reverend Moon's movement, the Unification Church. The scene was an impressive one, with a flag at either side of the stage, one an American flag and the other the symbol of the Unification Church. The periphery of the room was dotted with several policemen hired by the Unification Church. They were soon to realize that they would not be afforded the opportunity to do so at their posts.

The evening's program commenced with a performance by the New Hope Singers. These bright starry-eyed representatives of the Unification Church sang several songs expressing sentiments of joy at meeting the new Messiah and communicating with God.

During members received statement
Moon's identifying prophet.
distribute
Day Dr
Church.
these no members stood up voice the to disdai predicted [illegible] makers'
and ushe
final pr
Moon's
compli from dis and pol read. As President
laughed.
Revere

Watergate In Water Letter Ind

by John Franco

Recommendations for an individual's tenure should include evidence drawn from the judgment of students and colleagues who have visited his classes or who have been closely associated with his teaching

Board of Trustees February 16, 1974

New evidence received by Philosophy professor Alan Paskow strongly indicates that the firing of Philosophy professors Rice, Anderson, and Paskow last semester was indeed part of a preconceived purge by the administration. According to a letter received by Paskow from Berel Lang, who was among the three finalists for the Philosophy chair, one of the principle jobs of the new chairman was to "clean house." Lang's letter, says Paskow, states that he was given the distinct impression in interviews with Al Rollins and with the chairmen of the history, political science, and anthropology departments that certain individuals were to be singled out in the Philosophy department to get the axe. The letter contends that at least one name, Bob Rice, was mentioned in the talks with these department heads as having to go.

Lang went on to state in the letter, Paskow contends, that if the job had been offered to him, he would not have taken it. Lang saw that there were indeed problems in the department, but felt that the pressures coming from the administration stacked the cards so much he would not be able to act objectively. "Lang felt that if he did not recommend the firing of certain people in the Philosophy department he would be in a real snake pit with the administration," Paskow said. Thus he resolved not to take the job, if offered circumst says Pa

Vice Pr specific pressure
This
importa
Rollins' rehire which Presiden
Lang's
indic admini commit judge,
in the neutral Stephe hired work.
reporte that P late a positio rejecte scholar
This seem that I here t
the P and t his cr either profes
as Phi Un text availa be s consi possi
again
The
was Lang
distu was com und acad prof of some exer part part
the

FEBRUARY 14, 1974

...s Doing Well ... Even Without Snow

...Donahue ... ...ed ... ...and sporadic ...M skiers have ...ly achieved ...ndividual results ...rdic and Alpine ... Some of these ...continuations of ... successes and ...ed potentials just ...

...Kongoli has ...is domination of ...jumping circuit as ...victories at the ...Middlebury, and ...special jumps Most ...tend for first place ...first ski flying ...n at Copper Peak; ...the site of one of ...ski flying hills in ... The 150 meter ...275 feet above the ...per Peak, making ...best point in the ...Michigan Kongoli ...erry Martin of the ...eam with a leap of ... beating jumpers ...countries ...Roiseth, a freshman ...Norway, had ...y beaten all the ...mpers with the ...of Kongoli. He ...ond at Norwich, ... and Gunstock (continued on page thirteen) special jumps in addition to winning the New Jersey State Championship at Bear Mt. New York. Supporting Kongoli and Roiseth has been Tom Lantz, Mac Cleod Oddy, and Joey Lamb. Lamb won the New York State Championships in early January and since that time has consistently turned in good results. Tom Lantz, who is termed the most improved jumper, by Coach LaCasse, was third at Middlebury and Norwich and fourth at Gunstock as exhibition of his consistency. Mac Cleod Oddy was impressive at both Norwich and Middlebury, finishing fourth on both occasions. An example of the jumping strength of the University of Vermont was seen at the ESA special jump at Middlebury when the team took first, second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh places.

Although the jumping squad has been the strongest part of the ski team, success has also been enjoyed in cross country. Stan Dunklee, a member of the U.S. Ski Team; won the ESA 30-km Championships, and placed

THE LAST CHANCE
A PLACE TO MINGLE
20¢ ALE
Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM.
PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE
OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK
47 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

...n Sale!!
SOCKS
...% SKI PANTS
PARKAS
SWEATERS
...% WARM-UP PANTS
CAR RACKS
ICE SKATES
UNDERWEAR
...E SHOP
...CO. BURLINGTON
...A.M. TO 9 P.M.

VOLUME XCII
NUMBER 5
FEBRUARY 21, 1974

VERMONT CYNIC

'Tis A Privilege to Live In Vermont

University of Vermont
Burlington, Vermont

Reverend Sun Myung Moon and associates. SPS Photo: Allan Sindell

Sun Myung Moon Reveals Hope For Christianity"

by Kathy Stiasni

The Champlain Room of the Ramada Inn was the scene of engaging religious activity as Reverend Sun Myung Moon revealed his "New Hope for Christianity." Prospective converts and interested listeners were ushered in by decoratively bannered individuals, obviously members of Reverend Moon's movement, the Unification Church. The scene was an impressive one, with a flag at either side of the stage, one an American flag and the other the symbol of the Unification Church. The periphery of the room was dotted with several policemen hired by the Unification Church. They were soon to realize that they would not be afforded the opportunity to doze at their posts.

The evening's program commenced with a performance by the New Hope Singers. These bright starry-eyed representatives of the Unification Church sang several songs expressing sentiments of joy at meeting the new messiah and communicating with God, one of these entitled "Sooner we'll be done with the troubles of the world." Following the musical introduction was a brief tale highlighting Reverend Moon's history and an explanation of his spiritual revelations. During these remarks members of the audience received a propaganda statement denying Reverend Moon's effectiveness, and identifying him as a false prophet. These leaflets were distributed by Jesus' Modern Day Disciples from "HIS Church. The stir caused by these notices climaxed as members of the audience stood up unexpectedly to voice their faith in Jesus and to disdain Reverend Moon's predicted coming of a new messiah. These "trouble makers" were hastily silenced and ushered to the door. The final prelude to Reverend Moon's lecture occurred as complimentary greetings from dignitaries in religious and political circles were read. As the audience heard President Nixon's letter they laughed.

Reverend Moon was accompanied by an interpreter as he delivered his message in Korean. He gave a special welcome to the young people who he praised as a symbol of hope, enthusiasm, and vitality. He also initially asked his audience to listen with a sense of humblemindedness in order that they may begin to receive God's spiritual message. As Reverend Moon elaborated upon his and God's message, his tone became more emotional and his gestures more pronounced. He consistently presented his ideas with a dramatic and charismatic appeal.

Reverend Moon emphasized that the Christian faith was a tool of God and as such a vehicle for the truth. "We must know truth for in ignorance there is no protection." The ultimate future of Christianity will culminate in the coming of a New Messiah. These statements caused interruptions from the followers of Jesus from His Church, one of whom

(continued on page eight)

Trustees Unanimously Approve Snelling

by Bruce Maddern

Last weekend's Board of Trustees meeting saw the official appointment of Barbara Snelling as vice-president for development, the unanimous approval of the new criteria for tenure which "shall include students," the retirement of board Chairperson Humphreys and the instatement of three new board members for the next meeting. They are: Joseph Corbett, Vermont; Richard Kinsler, Massachusetts; Frank Otto, New Jersey.

Following the standing committee meetings of Friday, the full board met on Saturday morning to conclude the board's business for another two months. The board first heard reports from all the committee meetings.

The Executive Committee reviewed the by-law changes that would be presented formally after the committee reports. The changes were for the posting of trustee meeting notices, and to provide for membership on the Executive Committee by the vice-chairperson of the board.

The Development Committee reported earnings of $425,000 so far this year. The annual giving was up this year over last year, and also that medical donors were up 75 per cent and dollars up 38 per cent. Dan Haslam student representative on the committee, offered motions for a student liason in the development area as well as other student input. The full report and committee actions were approved by the board.

The Student Activites Committee reported that they could see "the light at the end of the tunnel" as far as residency decisions by the board were concerned. Three students were denied residency. A new process for appeal was set up under the committee to help the committee have time for other business. Previously, much of the meeting was taken up with residency appeals.

Dale Hyerstay, UVM's financial aid director, gave a financial aid presentation at the committee meeting. He explained much of how the office operates and why. The trustees voted to have the presentation shown to the whole board at the next meeting.

The Educational Policy Committee unanimously approved the appointment of Barbara Snelling as vice president for development and external affairs. The approval of mid-year degrees for students was also voted on. The board also approved the constitution and by-laws

(continued on page nine)

UVM Asks State For $1 Million Increase; Possible Tuition Boost For Out-Of-Staters

by John Van Hoesen

UVM is anticipating an increase in resources of about $1 million from the legislature, and $332,000 in an out-of-state tuition increase of $100, Vice President Wayne Patterson explained to the Finance and Budget Committee last Friday. The largest increase in general University expenditures is in personnel, Patterson said.

Governor Salmon has recommended that the University receive approximately $11.5 million for fiscal 1975. The state appropriation for 1974 was $10.6 million.

The hike in out-of-state tuition will raise non-resident tuition to $2650, the highest out-of-state tuition in the country in a state supported school. Because of an increase in the number of in-state students, the University expects an added $290,000 in 1975. No increase in resident tuition is expected.

Committee member Luther Hackett capsuled the committee's attitude on tuition costs and enrollment: "We really don't have any choice but to tip toe to the brink... We can't underprice what we're offering." Other committee members noted that a large number of applications would come from the northern New Jersey area. UVM continues to receive an increasing number of applications from out-of-staters.

Increased expenditures for personnel services account for approximately 12 new positions. The $530,000 increase in personnel services includes wage increases, increases because of new positions, and increases as a result of changes in faculty and staff status.

Andrews did not say which areas of the University would be hiring new employees.

Andrews cited the faculty-student ratio of 12.4 to 1 as serious. He described the ratio as "one of the highest in the country." The president feels that UVM is desperately in need of revenues for personnel: "By eliminating an in-state tuition increase we are cutting into the quality of education."

Committee member Paul Low questioned the accuracy of the faculty- student ratio as a determinant of educational quality. He called the "whining" over this issue by administrative officials "crap." Chairperson of the Faculty Senate Wilfred Roth pointed out that there are lectures with 400 students, but there are also classes with 15 students.

Students are not the only ones suffering from the high ratio though. The faculty are being served a "grave injustice." Andrews reported. UVM has one of the lowest faculty salary averages in New England.

Andrews indicated that the administration was pleased with the temporary investment income which totals approximately $200,000. He did not elaborate on the nature of the investment.

According to Emory Hebard, chairperson of the House Appropriations Committee, the budget request will be on the House floor by February 26.

The legislature will also act on UVM's capital construction request in the near future.

Freshmen Applications Up 13.3%

by Andrew Morse

Applications for next year's freshman class were up by 13.3 per cent over last year with out of state applications up by 17.3 per [illegible] Steele, Director of Admissions.

Steele, calling the "extremely good news", pointed out that Vermont's percentage jump in applications was unique and that other Yankee Conference schools had little or no increase in applications.

Steele said that there is no one specific reason for the recent jump of applications but rather a combination of factors in [illegible] responses to questions on the applications and a survey conducted on this year's Freshman class concerning reasons why they chose UVM, Steele said that UVM's academic quality, its geographical location, and academic excellence in specific fields (pre-med, political science, nursing, etc. ...) were the primary reasons. Referring to the survey of the class of '77, Steele pointed out that 74 per cent of those surveyed said the academic quality and location of UVM were major factors in their choice. Sixty-six per cent placed major emphasis on the excellence of specific fields while choosing Vermont.

When asked what provoked their interest in UVM, candidates cited talks with UVM students past and present as very influential. Steele also [illegible] experience at UVM. He also pointed out that students talking favorably about UVM to perspective applicants is the most effective recruiting possible. For peers, unlike admission officers, are not paid to say good things about UVM. Thus they are believed and taken more seriously than an admission officer.

Commenting on the caliber of applicants, Steele said that the candidates for admissions last January were the most capable group he has seen for a long time. He further commented that candidates seem more serious about researching and asking tough questions at prospective schools about programs, faculty etc. Unlike the past where schools picked and chose students from the fields of applications, the demand for students is higher. Consequently, candidates [illegible] pick the school that would best fit their needs and talents.

Steele explained that there is an incredible number of applicants to the Pre-Med and Pre-Law fields and prospective engineering and business applicants are on the increase over the past few years.

When asked if UVM will continue to increase in size, Steele pointed out that the question of expansion was up to the Executive and the Board of Trustees. But he felt that all signs such as the Carnegie Report on Population, and the overall higher education scene indicated that in five or six years UVM would level off

(continued on page nine)

5-Day Week!

On February 14 the Council of Academic Deans voted to return to a regular five-day academic week in the fall. This decision will be voted on by the Faculty [illegible] play, in which case it will go into effect in September.

In conjunction with this, the Academic Council also plans to simultaneously begin weekend "cool-downs" on Fridays. If further savings seem necessary, classes will be suspended for the last days of the winter months. The council feels, "This is in consonance with the majority views of all concerned who have offered advice on the subject, including faculty, students, and staff."

The administration will probably go on a five-day week this April, as soon as fuel reserves are sufficient to carry the University through any temporary emergencies which may occur.

Watergate In Waterman?

Letter Indicates Philosophy Purge

by John Franco

Recommendations for an individual's tenure should include evidence drawn from the judgment of students and colleagues who have visited his classes or who have been closely associated with his teaching.

Board of Trustees February 16, 1974.

New evidence received by Philosophy professor Alan Paskow strongly indicates that the firing of Philosophy professors Rice, Anderson, and Paskow last semester was indeed part of a preconceived purge by the administration. According to a letter received by Paskow from Berel Lang, who was among the three finalists for the Philosophy chair, one of the principle jobs of the new chairman was to "clean house." Lang's letter, says Paskow, states that he was given the distinct impression in interviews with Al Rollins and with the chairmen of the history, political science, and anthropology departments that certain individuals were to be singled out in the Philosophy department to get the axe. The letter contends that at least one name, Bob Rice, was mentioned in the talks with these department heads as having to go.

Lang went on to state in the letter, Paskow contends, that if the job had been offered to him, he would not have taken it. Lang saw that there were indeed problems in the department, but felt that the pressures coming from the administration stacked the cards so much he would not be able to act objectively. "Lang felt that if he did not recommend the firing of certain people in the Philosophy department, he would be in a real snake pit with the administration," Paskow said. Thus he resolved not to take the job, if offered, under those circumstances. The letter, says Paskow, cites Academic Vice President Al Rollins as a specific source of this pressure to "housecleam."

This is particularly important, since it was Rollins' recommendation to rehire only Jim Corcoran, which was okayed by President Andrews. Thus, Lang's statement would indicate that the administration and the review committees were in fact judge, jury, and executioner in the matter, rather than neutral arbiters, and that Stephen Cahn was in fact hired to do the initial dirty work. It has also been reported from other sources that Professor Cahn has of late applied for a teaching position in Miami, but was rejected because his written scholarship was "too thin." This piece of news would seem to substantiate charges that 1) Cahn was brought up here to make quick work of the Philosophy Department and then leave, and 2) that his credentials do not warrant either his quick rise to full professorship nor to his post as Philosophy chief.

Unfortunately the actual text of the letter is not available for public disclosure because of legal considerations involving a possible suit by Paskow against the administration. The existence of the letter was confirmed by Professor Lang on the phone. In a long distance conversation, Lang was reticent, but did comment, "There were undoubtedly serious academic and professional problems in the Department of Philosophy. But at least some of the pressure being exerted to solve them was in part not academic, and in part not professional." None the less, this serves as further evidence that there is considerable duplicity in the University's hiring and firing procedures. In both cases of the Philosophy firings and the appointment of Barbara Snelling, the University's ruling clique sat as both plaintiff and jury, hiring fellow brokers of influence and firing those who may bring that influence into question.

S.A. Speakers Presents Mallary And Salmon:

Mallary Sees Disheartened Public

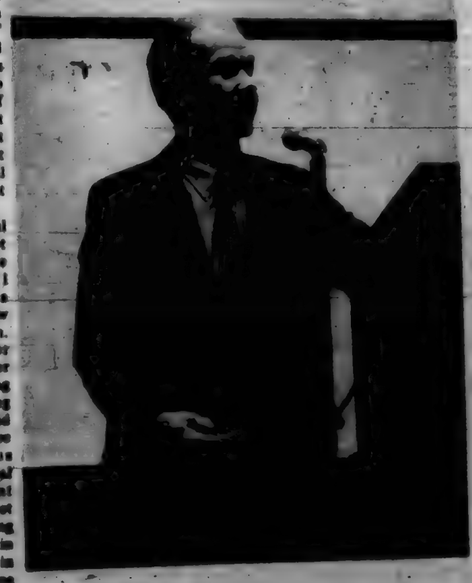
by Eileen Driscoll and John Van Hoesen

Rep. Richard Mallary R-Vt. found public regard for the political process at a low level he called "disconcerting," last Monday night. He addressed the issues of impeachment, the energy crisis, and marijuana in a lengthy question-answer period. Mallary formally announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate prior to the address in UVM's Life Sciences Building.

The representative attributed the low esteem to three interest conflicts: (1) direct personal interest conflicts; (2) indirect financial interest conflicts; (3) political and public interest conflicts.

Mallary said that personal conflicts sacrifice public responsibilities for personal gratification. Some politicians are brought to court for what the representative labelled as "pay offs."

(continued on page eleven)



Representative Mallary Photo by George Whitehead

Governor Salmon SPS Photo: Wynn Cook

Salmon Fights Energy Shortage

by Barbara Frankel

"Vermont wants its share of the action. Unless we fight like banshees, there isn't anyone who's going to care," commented Governor Tom Salmon. Salmon, addressing a crowd made up predominantly of students, spoke at Ira Allen Chapel on February 13, at 8 p.m.

Salmon's talk focused on the energy crisis and what Vermont is doing to combat it. Commenting that the supply of gas is the state's number one problem, Salmon explained the new rationing system, which was scheduled to take effect yesterday. The system, he stated, will try to solve the problem of long lines and panic-buying but will not raise the amount of gas being sold or solve the major problem of getting gas into the state. The plan is based on the one used by Governor Tom McCall in Oregon in which odd-even license plates receive gas on alternating days. Vermont plates ending in odd numbers will receive gas on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, while those Vermont plates ending in even numbers will be able to purchase gas on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. Sunday will be a "free-for-all" day, if the station desired to remain open. Salmon received an enthusiastic response from the crowd when he added that out-of-state students will abide by the same rules as resident Vermonters for this situation. Other out-of-staters will only be able to obtain gas if their states reciprocate with Vermont. "We're not discriminating overtly against out-of-staters, so long as other states don't discriminate against us," stated Salmon.

(continued on page eleven)

Featured This Week

Sisco Tells His Side Of The Story – p. 10
Franco On "The New Trustees" – p.3
SA Approves Grading System Revisions – p.8

Table Of Contents

Arts and Entertainment ..... p. 8
Calendar/Announcements ..... p. 2
Editorials ..... p. 4
Op. Ed. ..... p. 5
Sports ..... p. 14

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar's Remarks

Tuesday, March 5 is Town Meeting Day Holiday – there will be no classes that day.

Spring Recess is scheduled for March 25-29. No classes that week – they resume as usual the following week.

Advance enrollment will be held April 23-26 with request card turn-in at Billings Center in Marsh Lounge. Advance enrollment information will be mailed to your local address. Please insure we have it correct so you receive this important information on Friday, April 5. Just stop by at your convenience and it will be checked for you.

Comments on the adjusted teaching week may be dropped off at the registrar's office.

Tenant's Council

Anyone interested in joining the Tenants' Council or in joining a food co-op group call 862-4779.

Sailing Club Slide Show

UVM Sailing Club will present a slide show and talk about the Sailing Education Association (SEA), an oceanographic program for students aboard a 100-foot schooner, Thursday, February 28, 7:30 p.m. in Billings' North Lounge. Admission is free.

Intercollegiate Symposium To Be Held April 27

Eleven students and sixteen faculty members from colleges throughout the state met on Sunday, February 10, at the Brandon Inn, Brandon, to plan the ninth annual Intercollegiate Symposium, sponsored each Spring by the Vermont Academy of Arts and Sciences.

To be held on April 27 at the College of St. Joseph the Provider, in Rutland, the symposium is a morning-afternoon-evening event at which Vermont undergraduates present to the general public, their best works in the fields of visual art, science, social science, humanities, and the performing arts. Research papers, poems and short stories are read; plays, dances and musical compositions performed; slide shows and films shown; artwork exhibited.

In the past eight years, some 350 such presentations and performances have been given, and 300 works of art and architectural design exhibited by students representing 16 different colleges and universities throughout the state. Host colleges from 1966-1973 were: Castleton State College, Norwich University; Green Mountain College, Bennington College, University of Vermont, Middlebury College; St. Michael's College and Windham College.

For further information call Mrs. Thelma Corey at 223-4334, or George Clay at 362-1656.

Meeting For Student Teaching

There will be an important meeting for all students who intend to student teach Fall semester 1974 or Spring 1975, Thursday, March 7 at 7 p.m. in 101 Votey Hall.

Table Tennis Anyone?

UVM Table Tennis Club is in the process of being formed. Anyone interested please contact Kevin Meconi at 656-4257.

VPIRG Elections

Elections for the six representatives to the VPIRG Board of Trustees will be held during dinner at UVM dining halls on February 27 and in Billings, during the day, on February 26 and 27. Persons interested in running for Trustees should sign up at the student activities desk in Billings or at the VPIRG office by Friday, February 22.

The Unitarian Church has not been active in the Unification Church movement over the last year as announced in last week's Cynic.

Meeting Of Pre-law Students

There will be a meeting of all interested pre-law students on Monday, February 25, in the Marsh Lounge, Billings Center, at 2 p.m. Those students unable to attend but still interested are asked to notify Jeffrey Fernandez, at Box 73, Student Activities Desk, Billings.

The UVM Pre-Law Committee is being re-activated after a few years of relative dormancy. With the tremendous increase in interest in a legal career by UVM undergraduates, the need for this committee is readily seen. The purpose of this committee is to facilitate both interest in and admissions to law school. Information concerning law as a profession will be solicited; this will include seminars and talks with law students.

There are many other potential possibilities. The committee members plan to communicate with various law schools concerning information about the status of UVM students, past enrollment numbers and other data. It is crucial that all pre-law students lend their assistance and support by their attendance at the meeting next Monday.

Weight Problems?

If you are one of those special people who has tried unsuccessfully to lose weight – we care about you! Freshmen, Sophompre, and Junior women – contact the U.V.M. Counseling and Testing Center and inquire about the free weight reduction groups now being organized. Call Tel. No. 656-3340.

Tenant-Landlord Rights Panel Discussion

Tenant-landlord rights and the State Senate "Uniform Residential Landlord and Tenant Act" bill will be the topic of a panel discussion Monday, February 25, at 3 p.m. in North Lounge of Billings Center. Senator Robert V. Daniels, co-sponsor of the bill and a UVM history professor, Morris Clark of Vermont Legal Aid, and Barry Bloom, a Burlington landlord, will be among the panel members.

Daniels' bill, which deals specifically with security deposits, eviction, and minimum housing standards is currently undergoing final revision before Senate discussion. The bill would directly effect the large mass of UVM students living off-campus by clarifying what Daniels calls "a cloudy area in which landlords and tenants take advantage of one another." Observers of the current rental situation are also hopeful that self-education of both sides will follow the bill's passage.

The panel discussion, sponsored by the newly S.A. recognized UVM Tenants' Council, is hoped to draw together students, faculty, politicians, and landlords for a meaningful look at rental problems and the current legislative proposals.

VPIRG Discussion

VPIRG is sponsoring a discussion to help inform the UVM community about bills before the Vermont Legislature. VPIRG staff have examined many of this year's legislative proposals and have prepared information on some of the most important bills. On Thursday, February 21, at 7 p.m., VPIRG representatives will be in Billings, Marsh Lounge, to explain and answer questions about proposed legislation. They will also suggest ways in which students can influence the State Legislature. There are important bills in the following areas:

1. Lifeline Electrical Service
2. Nuclear Power
3. Highways and Land Use
4. Labor
5. Prescription Drugs
6. Health Insurance Regulation
7. Energy Planning
8. Reusable Containers
9. School Hot Lunches

Ariel Needs Staff

The Ariel Staff is searching for excellent and creative photographers for the 1974 yearbook. Photos may be exhibited at the Ariel office in Lower Billings any afternoon. Help is also wanted in creative writing, layout, sports, UVM events, and general management. Please come to the office or call 656-2056.

Study Groups

Having trouble with study habits? Come do something about them! Study groups are being formed through the Counseling and Testing Center. For more information, call 656-3340.

Opposition To Reverend Moon

The Lamplighters will give their opposing views on Rev. Sun Myung Moon's address of February 18 on Tuesday, February 26. Discussion will be held in MAT Lounge and followed by refreshments.

Poli Sci Meeting

A meeting for Political Science majors will be held at 4 p.m. in John Dewey Lounge, second floor of the Old Mill, February 21.

Figi Holds Casino Party

Phi Gamma Delta will hold their semesterly Casino Party on Saturday, February 23 at 7:30-11:30 p.m. The party will be co-hosted by Alpha Chi Omega Sorority and will be held at Phi Gamma Delta, which is located at the corner of Main and South Willard. An entrance fee of 50 cents per person or 75 cents per couple will buy money to gamble with and a chance at the door prize. An auction will be held at the end of the night (11:45) where winnings may be used to buy some exciting items.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21

7 p.m. Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship meets: Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7 p.m., VPIRG discussion of bills before Vermont legislature, Billings Marsh Lounge.

7:30 p.m. CAPE weekly meeting, conference room C, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., "Inside Football," UVM assistant football coach, Lynn Livelsberger, presents a coach's analysis of football strategy, using films from NFL, UVM games etc., in 110 of the Living/Learning Center. This is the first in a two part series, with concentration on defense this week and offense next Thursday.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m. (more or less) SA Films presents Marlon Brando series, "Viva Zapata," with Anthony Quinn. B106 Cook Bldg., admission 75 cents. Starting times vary with the length of the film. See posters for details or phone Ext 2068.

8 p.m. Beaumont Lecture in Rowell Auditorium, Rowe Building. Dr. Charles E. Rosenberg, University of Pennsylvania. Topic: "The Hospital Patient in the 19th Century."

8 p.m., Middlebury College dancers and musicians will present Stravinsky's "L'Histoire du Soldat," Ira Allen Chapel. Free and public.

Current shows at Fleming Museum will be on view through March 13. They are, in the Main Gallery, "Photographs of the Slate Quarries: an aspect of changing Vermont," by Neil Rappaport; and in the Lounge Gallery, "The Art and Design of Architecture," organized by NEH fellow Peter King with assistance of undergraduate Ruth Nickerson.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22

11 a.m., Mechanical Engineering seminar, Dr. John J Jonas, Metallurgy, McGill University, "Theory of Thermal Activations," Room 233 Votey.

12 noon-1:30 p.m., Environmental Forum "brown bag lunch" at Buttersweet, to hear Prof. Fred Sargent, resource economist, on "Concept of a Town Plan to Keep Land Open and in Agriculture and Still be Acceptable to Land Owners and Taxpayers." Open to all interested.

1:30-3:30 p.m., Symposium on the Protection of Human Subjects, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Bldg. Introduction by Carolyn Hamilton, Office of Academic Program Support, Background in Problems of Human Experimentation, by Dr. Donald Robinson, and UVM Policies and Procedures, by Dr. Stephen Goldstein. Questions and answers will follow. Come early seating limited to 100.

3 p.m., Mechanical Engineering seminar, Dr. John J Jonas, "Recovery and Recrystallization Under Hot Working Conditions – A Practical Discussion," Room 233 Votey Bldg.

6 p.m., The Next Thing presents a two-day workshop, "Creative Risk Taking," at the Center for Human Potential in East Monkton, Vt. Tel. 862-2013 for further information and to make reservations.

7:15 p.m., discussion group at Burgess Hall-lounge, open to all students interested in raising questions of faith, religion, church or life as a student. Led by Chaplain Odie.

7:30 and 10 p.m. (note later starting hour for second show), Lane Film Society Series presents the first in its series of Science Fiction Films, "The Andromeda Strain." Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg. Tickets $1 at the door or from the Lane Office, 656-3418, 234

(continued on page three)

AFROTC For Women

Attention UVM Women– Since the Air Force ROTC program at St. Michael's College is available to UVM and Trinity women, the department of Aerospace Studies at St. Michael's College is sponsoring an Air Force ROTC night at the Trinity College South Lounge in Mercy Hall at 7:30 p.m. on February 27. Donna Kuha, an Air Force Captain, will be present to speak with those interested in AFROTC regarding what it is like to be a woman officer in the United States Air Force. UVM women are invited to attend.

VALUABLE COUPON

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM The Medical Center

SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE

DOMINO'S PIZZA

MONDAY NIGHT SPECIAL

4:30 pm to 7:00 pm

864-7444 WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333 N. WINOOSKI AVE

FREE DELIVERY

$1.00 off a LARGE PIZZA except large plain

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

PHONE _____

Good for Feb. 25, March 4, 1974

MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm

1 coupon per pizza

50c off a SMALL PIZZA except small plain

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

PHONE _____

Good for Feb. 25, March 4, 1974

MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm

1 coupon per pizza

FOR THE BARGAIN IN YOU!

FOREST HILLS OUTLET

WINOOSKI VT.

WEST CANAL ST.

SHOP DAILY 9 AM to 10 PM

ACCOMPANIED BY THIS COUPON

$1.00 OFF ANY RECORDED CASSETTE OR 8-TRACK

(With the exception of those less than $2.00)

Good until March 2, 1974

Complete line of darkroom accessories

NOW! 40% DISCOUNT ON ALL PHOTOFINISHING (EXCEPT 8K)

DISCIPLESHIP

IS A TOTAL WAY of LIFE

EDMUNDITE

TO BE THE PRESENCE OF CHRIST THROUGH THE VISIBLE WITNESS OF A SMALL COMMUNITY SERVING THE CHURCH'S MISSIONS & EDUCATION

SINGLE CATHOLIC MEN BETWEEN 17-30 SHOULD WRITE TO

DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS THE SOCIETY OF SAINT EDMUND MYSTIC, CONNECTICUT 06355

DOMINO'S PIZZA

50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Name _____

Address _____

Phone _____

864-7444 Williston Road

658-3333 No. Winooski Ave

Void if not completed

Expires Feb. 27, 1974

1 Coupon per pizza

(continued from page two)

Waterman Bldg.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SA Films Humphrey presents "The Maltese Falcon" with Peter L Gideonstreet, B106 Cook Bldg., admission 50

9 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal coffee house atmosphere, basement, Billings

7:30 and 9 p.m., Winter Week Ice Show Field House, sponsored by S.A.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23

Endocrine Conference.

Winter Week events include Klondike Ra Matt Jones, Hamilton Hall, Ext. 2612.

judging with awards to be made at the Ice opening of a two-day art exhibit – "Winter Living/Learning Center, Ice Show" is again at Guilferson.

1-4 p.m., The Next Thing presents

"Altering Your State of Consciousness in with Dan Meyer. Place: 73 Church St. Phon details and registration.

2 p.m., Fleming Museum lecture, Neil state quarry workers, in conjunction with th show now at the Museum.

8 p.m., Lane Chamber Arts Series open season with the Eastman Brass Quintet, at Tickets $3 from the Lane Office, 234 Water 3418.

9 p.m. – 1 a.m., University Players ha costume ball at the new Royall Tyler Thea available at the Theatre or at Billings Cente 656-2094.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 24

Winter Week art exhibit at Living/Learnin

2:30 p.m., ACE (Alternative Center of E hall presents movies, in the lounge of Mora halls.

8 p.m., SA Films "silent cinema cl "Metropolis," (German) directed by Fri Lounge, Billings Center. Admission free.

8:30 p.m., Winter Week all campus danc

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25

3 p.m., Tenants' Council hosts Sen. Ro also a UVM history professor, who will regarding uniform residential landlord a North Lounge, Billings Center.

3:45 p.m., Zoology seminar, Dr. Linda Calif. at Berkeley, "A molecular Approach Biology," Room 105, Marsh Life Sciences at 3:30 p.m.

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Alan Pa "philosophy four," lounge of Marsh-Austin

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presen "Education as Concept," with Steve Gol Phone 862-2013 for information, registrat

8 p.m., SA Films "swashbucklers, archet guys" series presents "The Black Pirate Fairbanks, Sr., North Lounge, Billings Cen

8 p.m., a meeting for those interested Spanish floor at the Living/Learning C Building D, Room 340. If you're interest the meeting, phone Martha Evans at 656-

8 p.m., Women of UVM Antiques Gro of Mrs. Clerkin to hear Warren H. Smith Old Jewelry." Phone Mrs. Mosier, 8 Hedenburg, 658-0839 if you aren't a w attend.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Father Pentecostal Movement," lounge of M halls.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet at t Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls, to present t on Rev. Sun Myung Moon's address opinions. Refreshments served. More inf K. at Ext. 2952.

7:30 p.m., Sailing Club presents an Education Association slide show, Nort Center.

7:30 p.m., Christian Science College at 389 College St. (Hillel House); all are

8 p.m., SA Films presents on Alfre "Spellbound," with Ingrid Bergman B106 Cook Bldg.; admission free.

8 p.m., Lane Series concert, the Philharmonic Orchestra, Memorial Audi $3, $5, and $6 from the Lane Office, Phone 656-3418 for reservations.

DAVES AUTOMO INC.

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-

FOREIGN CAR RE SPECIALISTS

• Fine work on American cars • Firestone tires • Exide Batter • Front end alignment • Spin b • Undercoating • Engine rebu

VW BRAKE

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additio

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL VW Bug Exhaust $29.95

Front End Alignment $

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21

m. Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship meets. Building om 131, Living/Learning Center.

p.m.; VPIRG discussion of bills before Vermont tature, Billings Marsh Lounge.

0 p.m. CAPE weekly meeting, conference room C, t Center.

0 p.m., "Inside Football," UVM assistant football Lyon Lieblberger, presents a coach's analysis for ll strategy, using films from NFL, UVM games etc., 19 of the Living/Learning Center. This is the first in a rt series, with concentration on defense this week Offense next Thursday.

30 and 9 30 p.m. (more or less) SAFilms presents n Brando series, "Viva Zapata," with Anthony Quinn. Cook Bldg., admission 75 cents. Starting times vary the length of the film. See posters for details or phone 68.

p. Freemont Lecture in Rowell Auditorium, Rowe ng. Dr. Charles E. Rosenberg, University of lvania. Topic: "The Hospital Patient in the 19th

m., Middlebury College dancers and musicians will t Stravinsky's "L'Histoire du Soldat," Ira Allen l. Free and public.

rent shows at Fleming Museum will be on view h March 13. They are, in the Main Gallery, tographs of the State Quarries an aspect of changing ent;" by Neal Rappaport, and in the Lounge Gallery, Art and Design of Architecture," organized by NEH Peter King with assistance of undergraduate Ruth a.m., Mechanical Engineering seminar, Dr. John J. Metallurgy, McGill University). "Theory of Thermal ations," Room 233 Votey.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22

noon-1:30 p.m., Environmental Forum "brown bag at Bittersweet, to hear Prof. Fred Sargent, resource mist, on "Concept of a Town Plan to Keep Land and in Agriculture and Still be Acceptable to Land and Taxpayers." Open to all interested.

30-3:30 p.m., Symposium on the Protection of Human ts, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Bldg. Introduction Carolyn Hamilton; Office of Academic Program rt, Background, in "Problems of Human mentation, by Dr. Donald Robinson, and UVM s and Procedures, by Dr. Stephen Goldstein. ions and answers will follow. Come early - seating d to 100.

m., Mechanical Engineering seminar, Dr. John J. "Recovery and Recrystallization Under Hot Working tions - A Practical Discussion," Room 233 Votey.

m., The Next Thing presents a two-day workshop, tive Risk Taking," at the Center for Human Potential Monkton, Vt. Tel. 862-2013 for further information make reservations.

5 p.m., discussion group at Burgess Hall lounge, open students interested in raising questions of faith, church or life as a student. Led by Chaplain Odie.

) and 10 p.m. (note later starting hour for second Lane Film Society Series presents the first in its of Science Fiction Films, "The Andromeda Strain." ler Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg. Tickets $1 door or from the Lane Office, 656-3418, 234

(continued on page three)

AFROTC For Women

on UVM Women the Air Force ROTC n at St. Michael's is available to UVM rinity women, the department of Aerospace Studies at St. Michael's College is sponsoring an Air Force ROTC night at the Trinity College South Lounge in Mercy Hall at 7:30 p.m. on February 27. Donna Kuha, an Air Force Captain, will be present to speak with those interested in AFROTC regarding what it is like to be a woman officer in the United States Air Force. UVM women are invited to attend.

OOSKI
T.
ANAL ST.
P DAILY to 10 PM
TTE loss rch 2, 1974
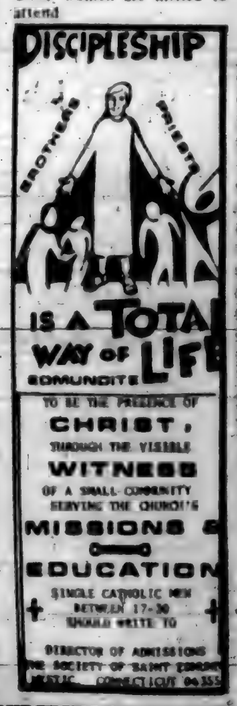
rics
COUNT
CEPT BK)



PIZZA
RGE PIZZA
658-3333
No. Winooski Ave
mpleted

(continued from page two)

Waterman Bldg.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SA Films Humphrey Bogart series presents "The Maltese Falcon" with Peter Lorre and Sidney Greenstreet, B106 Cook Bldg., admission 50 cents.

9 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement, Billings Center.

7:30 and 9 p.m., Winter Week Ice Show at Gutterson Field House, sponsored by S.A.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23

Endocrine Conference.

Winter Week events include Klondike Race, details from Matt Jones, Hamilton Hall, Ext. 2612; snow sculpture judging with awards to be made at the Ice Show, and the opening of a two-day art exhibit - "Winter City" - at the Living/Learning Center. Ice Show is again 7:30 and 9 p.m. at Gutterson.

1-4 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop - "Altering Your State of Consciousness in Everyday Life," with Dan Mayer. Place: 73 Church St. Phone 862-2013 for details and registration.

2 p.m., Fleming Museum lecture, Neil Rappaport and slate quarry workers, in conjunction with the photographic show now at the Museum.

8 p.m., Lane Chamber Arts Series opens its 4-concert season with the Eastman Brass Quintet, at Ira Allen Chapel. Tickets $3 from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman Bldg., Ext. 3418.

9 p.m. - 1 a.m., University Players host a midwinter costume ball at the new Royall Tyler Theatre. Free tickets available at the Theatre or at Billings Center. More details, 656-2094.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 24

Winter Week art exhibit at Living/Learning Center.

7:30 p.m., ACE (Alternative Center of Education) in the hall presents movies, in the lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

8 p.m., SA Films "silent cinema classics" presents "Metropolis," (German) directed by Fritz Lang, North Lounge, Billings Center. Admission free.

8:30 p.m., Winter Week all campus dance, Simpson Hall.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25

3 p.m., Tenants' Council hosts Sen. Robert V. Daniels, also a UVM history professor, who will discuss his bill regarding uniform residential landlord and tenants act, North Lounge, Billings Center.

3:45 p.m., Zoology seminar, Dr. Linda Maxson, U. of Calif. at Berkeley, "A molecular Approach to Evolutionary Biology," Room 105, Marsh Life Sciences Building; coffee at 3:30 p.m.

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Alan Paskow, one of the "philosophy four," lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Education as Concept," with Steve Gold, 73 Church St. Phone 862-2013 for information, registration.

8 p.m., SA Films "swashbucklers, archers and other good guys" series presents "The Black Pirate" with Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., North Lounge, Billings Center.

8 p.m., a meeting for those interested in living on the Spanish floor at the Living/Learning Center in 1974-75, Building D, Room 340. If you're interested but can't make the meeting, phone Martha Ewans at 656-4263.

8 p.m., Women of UVM Antiques Group meets at home of Mrs. Clerkin to hear Warren H. Smith on "The Charm of Old Jewelry." Phone Mrs. Moser, 862-2015 or Mrs. Hedenburg, 658-0839 if you aren't a member but wish to attend.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Father Regis on "The Pentecostal Movement," lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet at the library lounge, Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls, to present their opposing view on Rev. Sun Myung Moon's address. Bring your own opinions. Refreshments served. More information from Sue K. at Ext. 2952.

7:30 p.m., Sailing Club presents an American Sailing Education Association slide show, North Lounge, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., Christian Science College Organization meets at 389 College St. (Hillel House); all are welcome.

8 p.m., SA Films presents an Alfred Hitchcock film, "Spellbound," with Ingrid Bergman and Gregory Peck, B106 Cook Bldg.; admission free.

8 p.m., Lane Series concert, the Warsaw National Philharmonic Orchestra, Memorial Auditorium. Tickets are $3, $5, and $6 from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman Bldg. Phone 656-3418 for reservations.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27

9 a.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class for women, Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

11:30 and 12:30, Billings Center Governing Board presents a film, North Lounge, Billings Center.

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus meets, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Open to all interested women - students, staff, faculty, wives.

12 noon, AIM hosts its weekly program, "Voyages in the Spirit," Conference Room C, Billings Center. Bring your lunch - tea and coffee served.

4 p.m., Radiology Conference, Dr. Naylor, "Interesting Cases from White River," Room G-300 DeGoesbriand Unit, Medical Center Hospital.

4:30 p.m., SA Films Shakespeare series presents "Hamlet," with Innokenti Smoktunovski, Johnson Auditorium, (room 101) Votey Building.

6:30 p.m., meeting of Student Advisory Committee of College of Arts and Sciences, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Dr. Donald Balch, professor of animal sciences and director of the UVM Morgan Horse Farm, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30-10:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Relaxation and Mind Trips," information and reservations 862-2013.

7:30 p.m., Outing Club meeting, 196 South Prospect St. (behind Admissions Office).

8 p.m., SA Films experimental film series presents "The Films of Maya Deren and Marie Menken," North Lounge, Billings Center; admission 75 cents.

8 p.m., Writers' Workshop hosts George Garrett, poet, author, novelist, who will give a public reading, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Bldg. His latest book, "The Magic Striptease," is published by Doubleday.

8 p.m., Living/Learning Center hosts the Con Brio Chamber Ensemble, Room 115, Commons Bldg. Tickets at the door. Further information from 862-3650 or 656-4200.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets in Southwick Ballroom. International dances of all levels taught. Everyone welcome to attend.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Dr. David Lai, "Photically Stimulated EEG Signals," Room 305 B, Votey Bldg.

12 noon, Non Academic Employees Council meets to hear Executive Vice President Wayne C. Patterson, President's Dining Room, fifth floor, Waterman Bldg. Open to all interested employees.

12 noon Writers' Workshop presents an open class with George Garrett, Room 204 Lafayette Hall.

12:15 - 1:15 p.m., UVM Women's Caucus presents Doloris Rudolph, communication and theatre, on "Income Taxes," a question and answer session aimed at helping women but open to anyone interested.

2 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class, Room 131, Bldg. A, Living/Learning Center.

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class at Unitarian Church, followed by group meditation at 8 p.m.

Spiritual Corner

Cunningham Newman Center

Mass Schedule:

Weekdays: Monday through Friday at 4:15 p.m. Also Thursday at 10 p.m.

Weekends: Saturday at 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. Sunday at 9 and 11:30 a.m., and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

Consolata Fathers: From February 23 - 26, Father Thomas Pincelli and other Consolata Fathers will be here at the Center. Their experiences, especially as Missionary Priests, should be of great interest to all of us. They will be responsible for the weekend Mass Celebrations and will be around the Center during the day for anyone who might wish to talk to them.

Liturgy Committee Meeting: Each Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. Come with your suggestions.

Bible Study: Each Monday at 8 p.m. Bible scholar Father McKenzie on tape with explanations. All are welcome.

Basic Catholicism: Each Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. Background material on the Sacraments is the topic. Instructor: Fr. Dufault.

Morning Prayer: This semester the morning Prayer, sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant and Catholic Campus Ministries, is meeting at the Cunningham Newman Center at 8:30 a.m. We invite you to come and join us in prayer.

Twilight Retreat for College Students: On Ash Wednesday, February 27, at the Newman Center. Includes: supper, speakers, discussion, movies, and Mass. This will begin at 5:30 p.m. and end around 9 p.m. Please sign up at the Center with Fr. Holland, if you plan to attend.

Crop Walk for the Hungry Informational and Organizational Meeting: At the first Congregational Church, Monday, February 25, at 7:30 p.m. Last year the many College Students who walked, were able to turn in about $4,000.00.

Hillel House

Every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at Hillel House, 389 College St., the Christian Scientists at the University of Vermont meet for readings from the Bible and the Christian Science text book, Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy. These readings are prepared by a different member of the organization each week and are of a topic chosen by that member. Some subjects have been steadfastness, faith, understanding, overcoming pressure, happiness, and others. Hymns are sung and a very important part of the meeting is the time when testimonies or comments about Christian Science healing are given by those who share them with the others. Anyone interested in the religion is welcome to come to the meetings. There is always an opportunity for questions after the meeting.

St. Anselm's

SERVICES:

Holy Communion: Sundays at 11 p.m.; Tuesdays at 10 p.m.

Evening Prayer: Monday through Saturday at 5:45 p.m. (All services Episcopal. All denominations are welcome.)

Ecumenical Morning Prayer: Monday through Friday at 8:30 in the Newman Center.

SEMINAR: Is Jesus Christ the Only Way? Begins Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in Common Room, Part I.

GODSPELL CHOIR: Rehearses on Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Chapel.

DISCUSSION GROUP I: Friday at 7:15 p.m. in Burgess Lounge.

DISCUSSION GROUP II: Monday at 6:30 p.m. in Chapel Common Room.

Both discussion groups are opportunities for students to raise and discuss problems, doubts, or questions they have concerning their faith, religion, church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join. The groups are led by Chaplain Odie.

Voyages In Spirit

The Associates in Ministry (Protestant Campus Ministry) VOYAGES IN THE SPIRIT: a weekly series of spiritual and spirited exchange. All are invited. The next guest will be David Helm, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Burlington. His subject will be "The Values and Dangers of Lent". Wednesday, February 27, 12:15 p.m. in Conference Room C upstairs in Billings Center.

OPEN SUPPER: a time to share a meal and discussion with new people. Tonight Thursday, February 21, 6 p.m. at the AIM Center on 389 College Street. If you would like a ride, call Ted Stronach at 863-6970.

SUNDAY MORNING CAR POOL: for those who would like a ride to the church of their choice. Call Harry Brooks Saturday or Sunday morning before 9 a.m. at 862-9280.

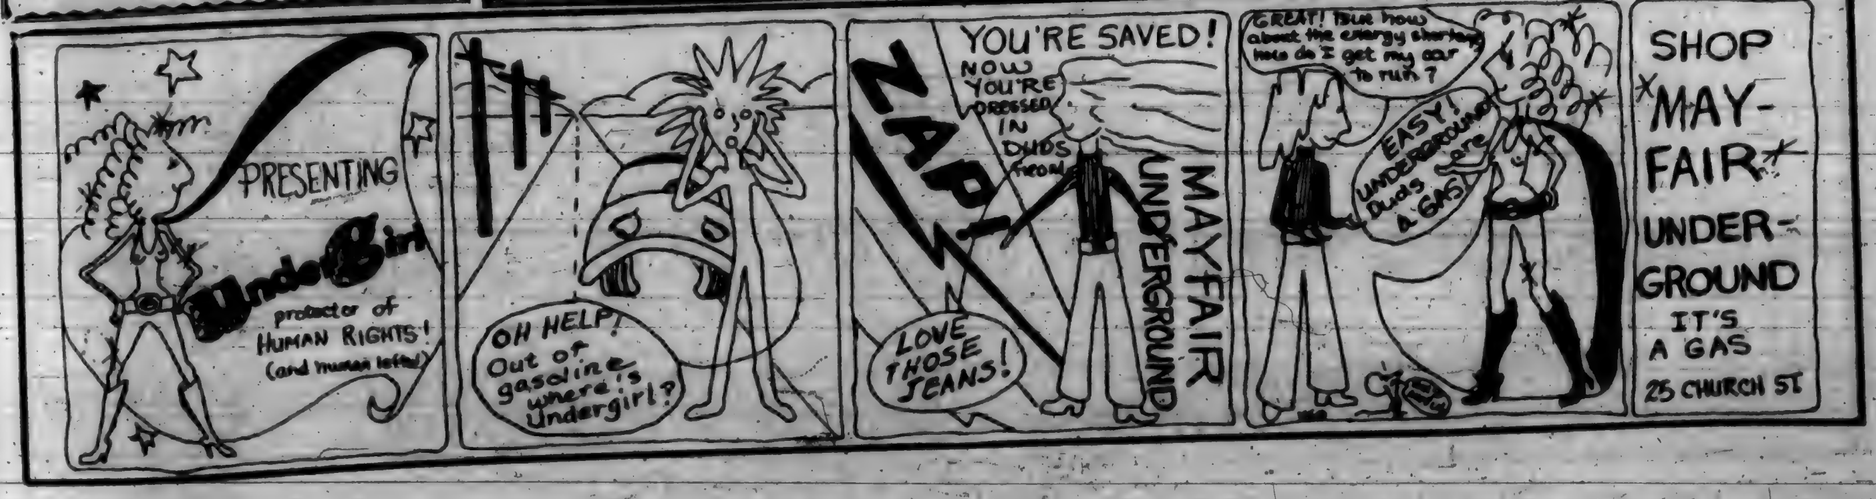
BIBLE STUDY: an informal study of selected passages from the Scripture. Every Thursday evening at 9 p.m. in the T. V. Lounge of Patterson Hall (Redstone Campus). Tonight (February 21) the subject will be the Exodus story (Exodus 1 - 18) Next Thursday evening the topic will be David's kingdom (II Samuel).

ECUMENICAL MORNING PRAYER: co-sponsored with the Episcopalian and Roman Catholic campus ministries.

Every morning, Monday thorugh Friday, at 8:30 a.m. at the Newman Center on the Redstone Campus.

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE
INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686
FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS
• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JOB
Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.
$49.95
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Front End Alignment $12.00

SKI SALE
ALL SKI WEAR REDUCED
MEN'S PARKAS $15 & UP
WOMEN'S PARKAS $20 & UP
WARMUPS AND SWEATERS
REDUCED FOR SAVINGS
Hanson, Tecnica, Nordica, Humanic, K-2, SKI BOOTS
REDUCED up to 60%
ALL SKIIS REDUCED
up to 50%
HEAD AIR BOOTS
50% OFF
SKI RACKS 25% OFF
OPEN DAILY 9 AM-9 PM - Saturday 'til 6 PM
Swiss Chalet
49 Pearl St., Essex Jct. 878-8981



VERMONT CYNIC

Founded In 1883

Barbara Frankel '75, Editor-in-Chief
Rick Steinberg '75, Assistant Editor
Eileen Driscoll '75, Managing Editor
Bruce Maddock '76, News Editor
Kathy Stiassni '77, Assistant News Editor
Margo Howland '75, Feature Editor
Lissa Charlow '75, Arts Editor
Peter Campbell '75, Assistant Arts Editor
Mike Schwartz '75, Sports Editor
John Van Hoesen '74, Copy Editor
Jim Bradley '74, Consultant Editor
Loren Wilson '74, Advertising Manager

Editorial

No Conflicts Of Interest?

On Saturday, the Board of Trustees unanimously approved of Barbara Snelling as Vice-President for Development and External Affairs. Because of the numerous questions about Mrs. Snelling which have recently come to light, we cannot agree with this choice.

Mrs. Snelling is well-qualified. There were, however, as President Andrews stated, about four hundred applicants. Some of these must have also have been well qualified.

Why then did she seem to be the administration's "obvious, unanimous choice"? One student, John Franco, after doing extensive research, cited the many intertwining connections between Mrs. Snelling, the University and other concerns. Several people have suggested that Mrs. Snelling's connections will be extremely helpful to her new position. Indeed, they contend, this is one of the main benefits of her selection.

We cannot agree with them. We also cannot agree with Mrs. Snelling, who stated in a recent Cynic interview, "I don't want there to be any conflicts or any appearances of conflict." No matter what she says, her previous positions and influential connections will have to affect her judgement on policy decisions.

Only time will tell if Mrs. Snelling's first committment is to the University or to her "other interests". In view of these "other interests," however, Mrs. Snelling was not the obvious choice.

Her unanimous approval was a show of support for her from the administration and from the Board of Trustees. We can only wonder about their blatant rubber-stamped approval of someone about whom so many obvious questions can be raised.

B.F.

...So they're NOT perfect measurements... Don't you even want to see what I can do with them.....?

A Victim Of Joseph Retaliates

by Wynn Gold

Scene 1: Williams Hall, Wednesday at 9:25 a. m..

The Players: Various students, and Joseph, the follower of Reverend Won Hung Lo.

A student is about to enter Williams when he is stopped by:

"Hello, my name is Joseph, and I was wondering if I could speak to you for a moment."

Student: Sorry, I'm late for class. . .

Joseph: As you know, the Reverend Won Hung Lo is going to be here. . .

Student: I wish I could stop and talk, but I've really got to go to class.

Joseph: . . .Soon. . .

Student walks away and Joseph approaches another victim.

Scene 2: Wills Hall, Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

The Players: The same student, and Joseph.

The student is sound asleep, busy recovering from a rough night, when he hears a knock on his door. He answers the door only to find:

Joseph: Hello, my name is Joseph, and I was wondering. . .

Student: Go away!

Joseph: . . .if I could talk to you. . .

Student: Get lost!

Joseph: . . .for a few. . .

Student slams door in Joseph's face, and goes back to sleep.

Scene 3: Bailey Library, Monday night at 6:14 p. m.

The Players: Numerous students, and two followers of the Reverend Won Hung Lo. The same student is diligently studying Florey's General and Comparative Animal Psychology for Zoo 104. He is just beginning to understand the feeding mechanisms of Ostrea when he hears a voice:

Joseph: Hello, my name is Joseph, and I was wondering if I could talk to you for a few minutes."

Student (without looking up): Yes, what do you want?

Joseph: As you know, the Reverend Won Hung Lo is going to be here soon, and I was wondering. . .

Student (still not bothering to look up): Not interested.

Joseph: . . .if you would. . .

Student (looks Joseph straight in the eye): Get lost!

Joseph: . . .like a ticket. . .

Student (stands up and glares at Joseph): Listen, this is the third time I've told one of you quacks to stop bothering me. Now get out of my life!

Joseph: All right, peace be with you.

Student (under his breath): Fucking fanatics.

Scene 4: Billings Center, Wednesday at Noon.

The Players: Students and the followers of Dr. Won Hung Lo.

The same student is about to exit Billings when his path is blocked and a young man says to him:

"Hello, my name is. . .

Student: Listen Joseph, don't you have anything better to do than bother poor unsuspecting people with your Reverend Won Hung Lo bullshit?

Joseph: There is no better work than that of the lord.

Student: I'm sick and tired of you morons bothering me. (Tries to get past, but is still blocked by Joseph)

(continued on page eight)

Letters To The Editor

From The Chittenden

To the Editor,

I am flattered by the attention you gave to the Chittenden Trust Company in the February fourteenth issue of the Vermont Cynic.

While your factual search was reasonably thorough, there are a number of obvious omissions. You fail to point out that the undersigned was a teacher at the University of Vermont for sixteen years on a part time basis from February, 1949, to June, 1964. I taught courses in business law on a part time basis and progressed from the title of Lecturer to Assistant Professor. A number of the persons named in your articles were students of mine at the University of Vermont as are a number of lawyers, accountants, and other businessmen who live and conduct their business affairs in the Greater Burlington area and elsewhere in Vermont. In fact, a number of the persons who are employed by the Chittenden Trust Company were former students of mine at the University of Vermont.

I am also a Director of Vermont Student Assistance Corporation, which guarantees many of the loans made to students who attend colleges in Vermont and Vermont students who attend colleges outside of the state of Vermont.

Further, some of our Directors have Trusteeships or other connections with Middlebury College, St. Michael's College, Champlain College, and other educational institutions in Vermont.

Some of our employees and Directors of the Chittenden Trust Company serve on the boards of charitable or educational corporations in the state of Vermont and perhaps on other business-type corporations. Some of our employees act as selectmen, firemen, or deputy sheriffs on a part time basis, and are active in their churches, and on school boards and generally render various services, ordinarily free of charge to their communities and to the citizens of the state of Vermont generally.

True, we are more than just a bank.

You should also know that the Chittenden Trust Company lends money to some of the faculty and administration employed by the University of Vermont, and we lend money to many students who go to the University of Vermont. We also provide checking accounts, savings accounts, and other services to University students, faculty, and administration as well as to persons generally in Vermont where we do have offices.

I would be pleased to sit down at any time at your convenience to discuss further the many constructive influences the Chittenden Trust Company exercises throughout the state of Vermont.

Incidentally, I would suggest that Barbara Snelling is a person of exceptional ability and will be an outstanding asset to the University of Vermont, its administration, faculty, and students.

Cordially,
Hilton A. Wick
President
Chittenden Trust Company

A Cynical View

To the Editor:

At a time when the spirit of "self-criticism" is particularly rampant in this great country of ours, I am glad to see that the "cynics" at UVM are expanding their awareness to get in on that time honored prerogative. But as we near the date of our country's bicentennial, we ought to keep in mind just what has happened to this vast land of ours since the arrival of our freedom-seeking forefathers. (Would that they were here now to see to what full-blown fruition their immost dreams have come!) Although it is sometimes tempting for sophomoric minds to draw half-baked analogies between, say, Louis Quatorze Versailles Apparatus and the current Organs of our Federal Body, no such temptation ought possibly suggest itself when we consider the relations between our Trustees and the student body. Banish the thought! Rather let us remember, or learn for the first time, that in America you'll never find a donkey but that he has a carrot dangling away in front of him! It does without saying that those who are handiest at dangling ride atop that beast of burden. That's one of the oldest and most esteemed principles of our system. In fact, it's the greatest thing since hotdogs! It seems only fitting and proper that the youthful "cynics" of today make certain that their own progeny have the same opportunity to get up there and ride! After all, hotdogs are mighty tasty once you get the hang of them!

David Ditmars
UVM '74

The Two Year Term

To the Editor:

On the March 5 Town Meeting Ballot there will be five amendments to the Vermont Constitution. Proposal One will seek to change the terms of office for the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State, Treasurer, and Auditor from the present two-year term to a four-year term. This proposal would further remove the politicians from the people who they are supposed to represent. If Watergate and the Vietnam War have taught us anything, it is that our elected officials are too far removed from the people, and that big business and corporate industry dominate the political process.

The special interests are not only limited to influencing national politics. Here in Vermont, the politicians are unduly influenced by the real estate and development industry, the banking, investment and insurance interests, the telephone and utility lobbyists. A four year term can only serve to further insulate the Governor from the electorate. We need more job security for working people, not for politicians.

Some of the proponents of the four-year term put forth the argument that it would save money and that political campaigns are too long and detract from the business of government. The answer to the problem of overly long election campaigns is not to have them every four years, but to have shorter campaigns. The argument that it would save money to have elections every four years instead of every two years is frightening. We would not consider having elections every eight or ten years to save money. The answer is to limit campaign spending, not to limit the frequency of elections.

One chance to vote every four years is not enough. We urge Vermonters to preserve the two-year term by voting NO on Proposal One on March 5 at Town Meeting.

Bernard Sanders for the Liberty Union Executive Committee

The UVM Cat

To the Editor:

We often take for granted those incidents and individuals who bring us some happiness and humor. One such example is the UVM Cat who bounced around at football games and now slides across the ice between periods at the hockey games. I would like to take a moment to express on the part of those who have laughed at the Cat's tricks, our thanks and appreciation for the efforts of our Charlie Catamount, in sneakers and on skates. We appreciate your enthusiasm and the time you have devoted to psyching us all up!

Sincerely yours,
A-Cat Fan

Reverend Moon...

To the Editor:

In the February 14 issue of the Cynic, columnist Kathy Stiassni contributed a rather lengthy article on the visitation by the Reverend Sun Myung Moon to the Burlington area. I am particularly amused by her statement "...the UVM campus and the streets of Burlington have been "peopled" (my quotes) with many of the 70 young international members of an International One World Crusade Team." I do not question Ms. Stiassi's journalistic ability, but I find the word "peopled" quite undescriptive in the case of the Reverend's entourage. If I were describing this event I would be very tempted to use "infested" in place of the more abstractly objective "peopled".

For, during the past few days Mr. Moon's followers seem to have worn out their welcome. Specifically, they were in the library, the Den, Billings, the dorms, and finally in the classrooms. I am very aware of the fact that these apparently devout people did not ask for money in any way, but simply distributed tickets for Reverend Moon's speech. Still I feel, along with many others, that this simple solicitation became annoying after being approached several times.

Of course this is not the first time that UVM and the Burlington area have been visited by this sort of group. It seems to occur at least once every month, so I would like to make it clear that I am not singling out this particular group or denomination. The general practice of campus solicitation is questionable in many minds for many reasons. My primary objection is that these people become very bothersome, persistent, and in the specific case of the Moon people, disruptive, since they infiltrated the library and the classrooms as well as the dorms and other public places.

The problem, I think, is obvious enough to most, but unfortunately the solution is not. In my opinion, solicitation of any nature should be prohibited in such places as the classroom and the library, for it is a direct and unwarranted interruption of the process that universities are built for, learning. As far as the dorms and other student gathering places are concerned, the Office of Housing and/or the S. A. should either prohibit solicitation altogether or put some enforcable regulation on it.

The University is a target high on the list of many organizations selling anything, including religion. There are more easily accessible people concentrated in our university area than in most of Vermont. And, youth is especially zeroed in on because of its much publicized desire to solve its deep and severe problems. It is unfortunate that most of the solicitors that frequent our University, unlike the Moon people, are primarily interested in our money and not our problems. I feel that the Moon experience has been a regretable one, to say the least; a similar situation would be much more lamentable if it was the case of a totally insincere group of capitalist swindlers canvassing our campus and pressuring the students into donating to a fictitious cause. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Ralph A. Barnes, Jr.

..."A Pain In The Ass"

To the Editor:

In my eyes (and undoubtedly others...), one of the most unnecessary, yet persistent pains in my ass in recent months was the descent of Rev. Sun Myung Moon's men here at UVM.

Their unmitigated effort to give out free tickets generally excited students like the bargain associated with an unused ticket to a week-old hockey game. Their presence and obnoxious behavior I feel was as necessary as a laxative in a diarrhea ward.

Besides bothering people, two cases of near-violence broke out when they insisted on staying. Perhaps the fact that many of these fanatics didn't even speak English epitomizes their alienation with UVM and the greater Burlington community. I believe most everyone had the experience of running into the lady who insisted she was going to cry if you didn't take one of her tickets. Others insisted on walking into people's rooms without even knocking.

I strongly advocate a stringent solicitation policy to protect student rights. With the present situation, who would stop Timothy Leary from canvassing UVM, complete with his LSD? Things must be kept in perspective and religion is by no means an exception. If the hockey and ski teams can't go from room to room, why should an outside group (China is about a far outside as you can get) be allowed this privilege?

These groups should be allowed a desk in Billings and be told of the consequences if they insist on doing what Myung Moon's Men did. Finally, University administrators should be in touch with the organizers of the particular groups to insure quick proper effective action against those individuals who violate school policy.

Ken Bartlett
Class '77

Stills-Muldaur Concert

To the Editor:

I would like to thank everyone involved for the Maria Muldaur/Stephen Stills concert. It was one of the finest shows I've ever seen the University put on. It started right on time and the lighting and sound systems were great. Technically it was a fine show.

The only thing that overshadowed the concert bureau's performance was Maria's and Steve's performance. She got the place rocking and put a lot of energy in the building. Then Stills sort of mellowed things out and played for a long time. I was really disappointed that they didn't do some tunes together. I hope to see some more concerts of this quality from the University.

Scott Bauer

VERMONT CYNIC

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Dave Compagna, Bill Campbell, Cecilia Elwert, Andrew Morse.
FEATURE: Susi Bodi, Carol Default, Laurie Rawe.
ARTS: Susi Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Doug Collette, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Calnon, Elliott Freeman, Sig Holter, Randy Inman, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Charlie Bruce, Fred Coombe, Dave Donahue, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Dave Raner, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilonsik.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Bob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Toomey, Debbie Valyou, JoAnn Westcot.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 656-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

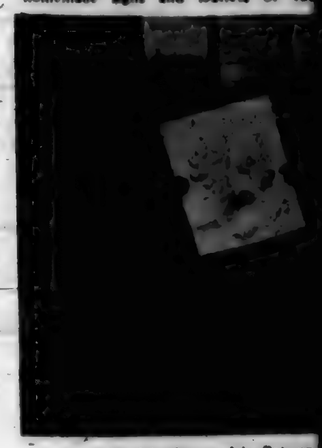
Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Boycott A&

by Roby Colodny

The first of a continual Saturday pick... in Essex Junction is now ancient history... involved, (of whom the author is one)... educating consumers requires sacrifice... well worth the efforts.

The first shift of seven pickets arrived... 10:00 a.m. on a biting cold Saturday mo... homemade signs and leaflets of va...



...educational and background leaflet; an... we boycott A&P; and a wine list of... products. Our purpose was to reach... shoppers by individually talking to the... to give them our information and mak... Don't Shop At A&P, and don't buy no...

In our display of signs, circular p... entrance, and contact with consumers,... arrest. Being a shopping center, the p... carried out our picket is public proper... adjacent to the conflux of stores is... matter; the State and Federal Courts... time anti-Farm Worker (viz. the Nix... Supreme Court), it is not our... constitutional privileges. Only where t... directly confronted, will we non-v... penalty for our defiance.

Why boycott A&P? Because it is t...

The Ru...

by Jeff Ryback

The publication of One Day I... Denisovich in the Russian periodical... by In the First Circle were the incen... Alexander Solzhenitsyn a "marked... published world-wide, presented the h... Siberian prison camp. The latter, e... Union, is a more definitive statem... political injustices perpetuated by th... as well as a further delineation of pe... of these books and the political attitu... author it seemed a matter of time bef... would disappear from the literary s... opinion is held responsible for som... invocation of article 58-10 which co... resulted in Solzhenitsyn's incarcerati... 1973 Solzhenitsyn's The Gulag Arc... was published in Paris (still in the R... Copyright laws requiring all publ... approved before allowed outside the... to widen the hiatus between Solz... officials and, on February 13, result... day later his deportation to the West...

The February 13, 1974 edition of... gave an account of the arrest: at 5 p... two dressed in militia uniform and... broke into the apartment of Solzheni... after breaking the lock they rou... Solzhenitsyn aside and presented the... the author, though refusing to be... peacefully; two policemen remained... after the arrest to prevent Nata... mother-in-law from phoning the pres... left the apartment, the telepho... Solzhenitsyn's mother-in-law reache... phone at 6 p.m. -- the conversatio... described the arrest; later newsmen... supporters visited the apartment.

While such arrests are seemingly... Russia, it must be realized that di... Solzhenitsyn's fame would har... accusations Gulag reportedly p... immediately being arrested and shu... tundra of a Siberian prison camp. ... question of whether the Russian... chiseled the chains of tyranny preva... Revolution of 1917 or not becomes... the ideals of communism remain... such ideals be reconciled with supp... history of Soviet literature. Mr... Soviet Literature) writes about... literature after World War II: "... ... the only middleman between the... made clear its intentions not only t... ideas but also to impose on him... which they ought to be expressed." ... prevailed to present day except for... Solzhenitsyn's One Day in the L... appear in NOVY MIR. Of course, ... Tvardovsky, the editor of NOVY... dropped from candidacy to the C... Communist Party.

Still, it is unfair to decry outri... officials, for the history of the Rus... paranoia which to some mind... Pre-revolutionary Russia was an... The peasants were starving, locke... who themselves were controlled... revolts sustained crushing defeats... shackles of oppression. With the... Socialist Party" in 1898 came renew... peasants and factories to the work... strikes of 1905 which Lenin decla... "great revolution." And although... was not enjoyed in the nineteen... agreed that much of the publishe... L. Tolstoy, Dostoevski, or Che...

...ensor boards of twentieth... censorship was the result of p... supposedly aimed at enhan...

Editor

Reverend Moon...

...itor,
...February 14 issue of
..., columnist Kathy
...contributed a rather
...article on the
...by the Reverend
...ng Moon to the
... area. I am
...ly amused by her
... the UVM
...and the streets of
...on have been
..." (my quotes) with
...d the 70 young
...nal members of an
...nal One World
...Team." I do not
...Ms. Stuen's
...ic ability, but I find
...d "peopled" quite
...tive in the case of ...rend's entourage. If I
...scribing this event I
...very tempted to use
..." in place of the
...ntractly objective

...uring the past few
... Moon's followers
...have worn out their
... Specifically, they
...the library, the Den,
... the dorms, and
...the classrooms. I am
...re of the fact that
...apparently devout
...d not ask for money
... way, but simply
...ed tickets for
... Moon's speech. Still
...along with many
...that this simple
...on became annoying
...being approached
...mes.
...urse this is not the
... that UVM and the ...n area have been
...y this sort of group
... to occur at least
...ry month, so I would
...ake it clear that I am
...nging out this
...ar group of
...tion. The general
...e of campus
...n is questionable in
...minds for many.
My primary
...is that these people become very bothersome, persistent, and in the specific case of the Moon people, disruptive, since they infiltrated the library and the classrooms as well as the dorms and other public places.

The problem, I think, is obvious enough to most, but unfortunately the solution is not. In my opinion, solicitation of any nature should be prohibited in such places as the classroom and the library, for it is a direct and unwarranted interruption of the process that universities are built for, learning. As far as the dorms and other student gathering places are concerned, the Office of Housing and/or the S. A. should either prohibit solicitation altogether or put some enforcable regulation on it.

The University is a target high on the list of many organizations selling anything, including religion. There are more easily accessible people concentrated in our university area than in most of Vermont. And, youth is especially zeroed in on because of its much publicized desire to solve its deep and severe problems. It is unfortunate that most of the solicitors that frequent our University, unlike the Moon people, are primarily interested in our money and not our problems. I feel that the Moon experience has been a regretable one, to say the least; a similar situation would be much more lamentable if it was the case of a totally insincere group of capitalist swindlers canvassing our campus and pressuring the students into donating to a fictitious cause. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Ralph A. Barnes, Jr.

"A Pain In The Ass"

...ditor,
...my eyes (and
...edly others...), one
...most unnecessary, yet
...I pains in my ass in
... months was the
...of Rev. Sun Myung
...men here at UVM.
...unmitigated effort to
...free tickets generally
... students like the
... associated with an
...ticket to a week-old
...game. Their presence
...oxious behavior I feel
...ecessary as a laxative
...ike a ward.
...s bothering people,
...mes of near-violence
...ut when they insisted
...ing. Perhaps the fact
...any of these fanatics
... even speak English
...ires their alienation
...VM and the greater
...on community. I
... most everyone had
...perience of running
... lady who insisted she
...g to cry if you didn't
...ne of her tickets
... insisted on walking
...ople's rooms without
... even knocking.

I strongly advocate a stringent solicitation policy to protect student rights. With the present situation, who would stop Timothy Leary from canvassing UVM, complete with his LSD? Things must be kept in perspective and religion is by no means an exception. If the hockey and ski teams can't go from room to room, why should an outside group (China is about a far outside as you can get) be allowed this privilege?

These groups should be allowed a desk in Billings and be told of the consequences if they insist on doing what Myung Moon's Men did. Finally, University administrators should be in touch with the organizers of the particular groups to insure quick proper effective action against those individuals who violate school policy.

Ken Bartlett
Class '77

Stills-Muldaur Concert

...Editor
...ould like to thank
...e involved for the
...Muldaur/Stephen Stills
... It was one of the
...hows I've ever seen the
...ity put on. It started
... time and the lighting
...ound systems were
...Technically it was a
...ow.
...only thing that
...dowed the concert
...'s performance was Maria's and Steve's performance. She got the place rocking and put a lot of energy in the building. Then Stills sort of mellowed things out and played for a long time. I was really disappointed that they didn't do some tunes together. I hope to see some more concerts of this quality from the University.

Scott Bauer

VERMONT CYNIC

...Betsy Andrews, Dave ...; Bill Campbell, Cecilia ... Andrew Morse.
...RE: Sari Bodi, Carol ... Laurie Rano.
...Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, ...ditor; Barbara Freedman, ... Lief, Joseph Oldan, ...rost.
...DSTIE: Scott Cohoon, ... Freeman, Big Heller, ...Jensen, Alan King, Evelyn ...
SPORTS: Charlie Bruce, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahue, Glenn Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Dave Rauer, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilcusk.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Berry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lando, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Joan Weinert.
Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.

...ions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in this ... do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University ...ministration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions ...ed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion ...majority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.
...shed yearly during the college year by the students of the ...ity of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and ...ss offices in the Billings Chaos, Burlington, Vermont. ...ne 658-4911. Deadline for address is one week prior to date ...cation.
...shed in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ...ts. Second class postage paid in Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Boycott A&P And Non-UFW Products

by Ricky Colombo

The first of a continual Saturday picket outside the A&P in Essex Junction is now ancient history. It has shown those involved, (of whom the author is one), that the road to educating consumers requires sacrifice and patience, but is well worth the efforts.

The first shift of seven pickets arrived between 9:30 and 10:00 a.m. on a biting cold Saturday morning, replete with homemade signs and leaflets of varying content; an educational and background leaflet; an explanation of why we boycott A&P; and a wine list of UFW and non-UFW products. Our purpose was to reach the entourage of shoppers by individually talking to them or, if not possible, to give them our information and make our voice heard – Don't Shop At A&P, and don't buy non-UFW products!

In our display of signs, circular marching outside the entrance, and contact with consumers, we are not courting arrest. Being a shopping center, the parking lot where we carried out our picket is public property; only the sidewalk adjacent to the conflux of stores is a questionable legal matter; the State and Federal Courts being at the present time anti-Farm Worker (viz. the Nixon "Cabinet" in the Supreme Court), it is not our intention to invoke constitutional privileges. Only where these sacred rights are directly confronted, will we non-violently accept the penalty for our defiance.

Why boycott A&P? Because it is the largest chain-store selling scab or non-United Farm Worker Lettuce in the nation. Because it has, in areas such as Vermont, consistently aided the A&P's in metropolitan areas by buying up large quantities of Teamster lettuce, and selling it at sale prices. Because it is within their power, through the contracts they have with the major lettuce and grape growers, to make these "feudal barons" recognize the UFW for what it is – a union of, for, and by the people.

And it is through the boycott and the picket that we show our solidarity, and make A&P feel the economic effects of consumer action. As I left around 1:00 p.m. we had already turned away between 25 and 30 people from shopping there. Between 12:00 and 1:00, fifteen of us, the combined morning and afternoon shifts, were able to deal with all the influx of patrons, many of whom expressed outward support, or at least admitted their ignorance of the situation, and accepted our information gratefully.

Who are we? A handful of us were actually students at UVM. Many hold jobs here in Burlington or in Montpelier. One girl has just recently arrived from Indiana; several are union workers. I, and I speak for all of us, invite any student to participate in the picket in Essex Junction. Whatever time you can spare is time we need and appreciate. Remember. Observe the nationwide boycott of A&P. Do your shopping elsewhere, and when you shop, don't buy non-UFW lettuce, grapes, and wines.

The Russian Legacy: Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn

by Jeff Ryback

The publication of One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich in the Russian periodical NOVY MIR followed by In the First Circle were the incendiary notes daubing Alexander Solzhenitsyn a "marked man." The former, published world-wide, presented the horror of daily life in a Siberian prison camp. The latter, censored in the Soviet Union, is a more definitive statement dealing with the political injustices perpetuated by the Soviet Government as well as a further delineation of prison life. On the basis of these books and the political attitudes espoused by the author it seemed a matter of time before the Nobel laureate would disappear from the literary scene. In fact, Western opinion is held responsible for somehow precluding the invocation of article 58-10 which could have conceivably resulted in Solzhenitsyn's incarceration. On December 28, 1973 Solzhenitsyn's The Gulag Archipelago, 1918-1956 was published in Paris (still in the Russian) defying Soviet Copyright laws requiring all publishable material be approved before allowed outside the country. This served to widen the hiatus between Solzhenitsyn and Soviet officials and, on February 13, resulted in his arrest and a day later his deportation to the west as a stateless person.

The February 13, 1974 edition of the New York Times gave an account of the arrest: at 5 p. m. seven policemen, two dressed in militia uniform and five plainclothesmen, broke into the apartment of Solzhenitsyn's wife in Moscow; after breaking the lock they roughly pushed Natasha Solzhenitsyn aside and presented their papers of authority; the author, though refusing to be arrested, went along peacefully; two policemen remained for twenty minutes after the arrest to prevent Natasha or Solzhenitsyn's mother-in-law from phoning the press; after the policemen left the apartment, the telephone did not work; Solzhenitsyn's mother-in-law reached the press by pay phone at 6 p.m. – the conversation was cut off as she described the arrest; later newsmen and twenty dissident supporters visited the apartment.

While such arrests are seemingly commonplace in Soviet Russia, it must be realized that dissident authors lacking Solzhenitsyn's fame would hardly dare write the accusations Gulag reportedly purports for fear of immediately being arrested and shuffled off to the ice cake tundra of a Siberian prison camp. With this in mind the question of whether the Russian people have indeed chiseled the chains of tyranny prevalent before the October Revolution of 1917 or not becomes a perplexing one. True the ideals of communism remain attractive; yet how can such ideals be reconciled with suppression prevalent in the history of Soviet literature. Mr. Marc Slonim (Russian Soviet Literature) writes about the plight of Soviet literature after World War II: "...the state claimed to be the only middleman between the writer and the reader, it made clear its intentions not only to formulate the writer's ideas but also to impose on him the artistic methods by which they ought to be expressed." Indeed this attitude has prevailed to present day except for a brief period which saw Solzhenitsyn's One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovitch appear in NOVY MIR. Of course, there were repercussions; Tvardovsky, the editor of NOVY MIR, was immediately dropped from candidacy to the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

Still, it is unfair to decry outright the actions of Soviet officials; for the history of the Russian people has created a paranoia which to some minds justifies suppression. Pre-revolutionary Russia was an era drenched in misery. The peasants were starving, locked to the land by landlords who themselves were controlled by the czars. The many revolts sustained crushing defeats and rather enhanced the shackles of oppression. With the advent of the "Russian Socialist Party" in 1898 came renewed shouts: "land to the peasants and factories to the workmen." The result was the strikes of 1905 which Lenin declared as a precursor to the "great revolution." And although total freedom of the pen was not enjoyed in the nineteenth century, it is generally agreed that much of the published material (not excluding L. Tolstoy, Dostoevski, or Chekhov) could not pass the censor boards of twentieth century Russia. This harsh censorship was the result of post-revolutionary ideas which supposedly aimed at enhancing the dreams of the communist ethic. Thus all twentieth century literature must serve the collective ideal to the point of brain washing the public into blindly accepting all the government propounded as truth. Indeed, it was under such pretexts that Stalin justified mass exterminations and exiles. In 1945, Solzhenitsyn himself was sentenced to eight years and perpetual exile for writing a letter to friend about Stalin. It was this sentence that gave him the material for One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovitch and ultimately the basis from which to write his latest condemnation of the Soviet penal system, The Gulag Archipelago, 1918–1956.

The initial result of post-revolution soviet literature was one that ostracized the thought and creativity of the intelligentsia in favor of a literature of the masses. Thus different groups formed all aiming at a style known today as "social realism." As far as the creative writers were concerned, most were grouped into a class called the "fellow travelers" and were sworn to forego their aspirations in favor of an art that advanced the communist cause. The "fellow travelers" were typically regarded as stalwarts of bourgeoise ideals and generally at odds with such untalented groups as the "porletcult" (porletarian writers whose art was a rather inane praising of industry, machines, etc.) And even though Lenin and later Trotsky sympathized with the proletarian writers, they recognized that real art lay with the pre-revolution intelligentsia (fellow travelers) and thus opposed suppression as long as they continued to advance the cause of socialism (a form of censorship). Of course a number of twentieth century Soviet writers were unable to sustain the stifling collar of political consorship and took up the pen in accord against the directives of a collective art. The result was in some cases banishment (eg. Evgeni Zamiatin whose We was instrumental in formulating Orwell's 1984 as well as Huxley's Brave New World) and in others death (eg. Isaac Babel). Attempts at joining Soviet writers into one faction, the Union of Soviet Writers, resulted in the formation of the "committee on art" whose policy declared those not writing to spread the doctrine of communism as criminals. In fact, some years after its inception Stalin directed the Union of Soviet Writers so he could supervise censorship.

This fear that literature would somehow undermine the course of Communism has remained the thorn responsible for censorship even to this day. The 60's saw arrests of many prominent writers (eg. Yosif Brodsky – poet translator, Andrei Saniavsky and Yuli Daniel writers for freedom of expression) who without the protests of courageous dissidents in the soviet union and the constant clamor from the west would still be shoveling manure in some far off prison camp. And on February 13, 1974 the tide of repression came to a head with the arrest and exile of Nobel prize winner Alexander Solzhenitsyn.

Upon publication of The Gulag Archipelago, 1918 – 1956 in Paris, the Soviet Union immediately began an acrimonious campaign to discredit both the veracity and patriotism of the dissident author. Vilification came in the form of calumny by the major newspapers and warnings by government officials to western newspapermen to expect expulsion as a consequence to the continual printing of lies. The Soviet newspapers were of particular interest as one, The Literary Gazette was claiming nothing new, the other, Pravda was busy disclaiming Solzhenitsyn's new facts with evidence that bares against reason. For example, the publication of testimony Solzhenitsyn was supposed to have given in defense of himself in 1945 refutes Nikita Kruschev claims to have destroyed all such records; the claims that Solzhenitsyn owned three cars thus aligning him with the capitalistic west was printed when indeed he owns no cars. Besides newspaper malignment, there were murder threats by phone to him and his family and letters stamped with skull and crossbones. Undaunted, Solzhenitsyn refused to appear for questioning even after two summons were issued. Upon his arrest an unpublished adjunct to the Gulag was released to The New York Times describing the lawlessness rampant in the Soviet Union today.

The text of The Gulag Archipelago, 1918 – 1956 is said to expose the Russian penal system from Lenin to the present. Roy Medvedev, the dissident Russian historian, came to the defense of The Gulag in an essay stating: "I think that few people, having read the book, would be the same as when they opened its first page. in this respect, it seems to me that nothing in Russian or World literature can compare with Solzhenitsyn's book." Further he states that some inaccuracies exist but these are "infinitesimally few for such a significant book." Medvedev's favorite chapters were The Bluecaps and Capital Punishment which dealt in psychological analysis of prison guards and victims in a manner "...more deeply than Dostoevsky."

The New York Times reports publication of The Gulag Archipelago, 1918 – 1956 in English, is due in May, Harper and Row Publishers, both in paperback ($1.95) and hardcover ($12.50). Thus far advanced orders are close to

(continued on page seven)

Watergate In Waterman?

The New Trustees...

by John France

The UVM board of trustees just keeps perpetuating its oligarchy. At the most recent meeting, they sat around cracking jokes about how cute it was that someone would even suggest that the Snelling appointment was something other than up to snuff. Trustee Bingham Humphrey, whose term ended that day, quipped that he was resigning in response to the Cynic's charges – ha ha. Along with Humphrey, the six year terms of Charles Schechtman and George Little also expired this past weekend. All three were "self-perpetuating" board members, who supposedly represent the alumni. And as usual, the other "alumni" trustees got together and cozily selected their successors who will share in the rule of UVM over the next few years. The announcement of the three new trustees gave Messrs. Schechtman, Little, and Humphrey even more corruption to be smug about.

In making their selections of new trustees, the "alumni" trustees had to be sure representatives of the powerful retained seats on the board. So the choices were made after much secretive deliberation. They came up with Joseph Corbett, Frank Otto, and Richard Kinsler.

It appears with this selection that the AMA and the chemical manufacturing industry lost out in a power struggle with the bankers, for two of the three new trustees are bankers and the third is intimately associated with one and one in particular represents the citadel of American Financial Capital. Trustee George Little fared the best. He was succeeded on the board by Joseph Corbett, who is Little's vice president and Treasurer of The George Little Press! This particular appointment will serve double duty. It not only preserves the domain of the George Little press at UVM, but also maintains that important line with the Chittenden Trust Company, for as we all know George Little, Howard Allen, Barbara Snelling, and President Andrews, et alius, are with the Chittenden.

But a new wrinkle has been added to our new ruling elite in Burlington. An alumni 'heavy', a retired Vice President from the Chase Manhattan Bank, Mr. Frank Otto, has joined up at UVM. Mr. Otto not only represents a bank which was cited in a January U.S. Senate Committee study, along with four other New York banks, as controlling most big U.S. corporations, but the Chase also represents an important link between the American corporate elite and the local yokels of the Vermont ruling clique. Tid bit number one. Otto's Chase Manhattan reportedly owns controlling stock in –yup– the Chittenden Trust Company. Tid bit number two. The Chase Manhattan is chaired by David Rockefeller, and thus the Chase is widely recognized as the cornerstone of the Rockefeller Empire. The Lazarus family is also recognized as an integral part of the Rockefeller domain. For instance, Ralph Lazarus sits on the board of the Chase Manhattan. But get this. His younger brother Maurice Lazarus sits on the board of New England Telephone along with Burlington Savings president F.P. Smith and National Life directors H.H. Davis and Robert T. Gannett. Of course also with National Life are former trustee Peter Giuliani, former Governor Davis, Burlington Savings director and former UVM president John T. Fey, and others whose connections, as previously demonstrated, link back to the University in multitudinous splendor. So it appears with the appointment of Mr. Otto to the UVM board that the Chase Manhattan is no longer satisfied with having locals like Howard Allen, Barbara Snelling, and President Andrews doing the dirty work alone. They've sent in one of their own boys to do some of the pushing.

The last and seemingly most innocuous of the new trustees is Richard Kinsler, a director of the First Bank and Trust Co. of Hampden, Massachusetts. Alongside Mr. Otto, Mr. Kinsler appears to be quite small potatoes, but he is again of the same general occupational affinity – a banker.

The appointment of George Little's Vice President and Treasurer, Mr. Corbett, ought to be particularly scandalous, but in contrast to the direct introduction of the awful preponderance of the Chase Manhattan to the UVM board, it seems but a wisp in the wind. You've got to give the board of trustees credit for the Corbett appointment though. It is right out in the open, and it brazenly demonstrates the utter and unabashed arrogance of the University's corruption.

S.A. Presidential Elections

February 11 – Presidential petitions available at S. A. Office
February 28 – Presidential petitions due at 4 p. m. in S. A. Office
February 28 – Candidates Forum in Marsh Lounge of Billings at 7:30 p. m.
March 1 – Candidates Forum in Living and Learning Center Fireplace Commons at 7:30 p. m.
March 7 – Candidates declarations published in the Cynic
March 11 – WRUV AM and FM, Candidates Forum at 7 p. m.
March 12 – Voting (as below)
March 13 – Voting (as below)
March 14 Results Published in Cynic and on WRUV
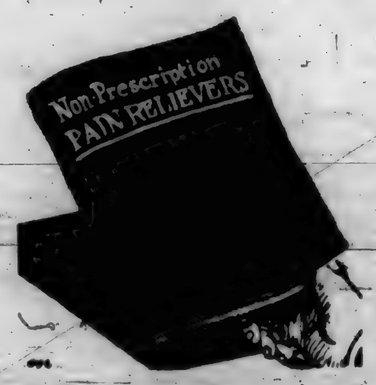
April 8 President assumes office (tentative)

VOTING:
Billings Center – 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.
Waterman – 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.
Simpson Dining Hall – 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.
Living/Learning Center – 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.
Bailey Library – 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.
Petitions due at 4 p. m. on February 28 with 400 signatures.

The Cynic welcomes letters and columns from students, faculty, or any other readers. Materials for publication must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request.

According to Bayer's little blue book, the makers of Bayer don't make any sense.



Lately, Bayer Aspirin's advertising has featured a blue book that contains some of the findings of a recent American Medical Association drug evaluation.

Bayer's blue book reports there is "no sound basis" for taking combination pain relievers or buffered preparations instead of plain aspirin.

The obvious implication here is that remedies like Cope (a combination of aspirin, caffeine, a buffer and an antihistamine) and Vanquish (a combination of pain relievers) don't make sense.

Why then, you might ask, do the makers of Bayer also make Cope and Vanquish.

If you'd like to know, write the president of Sterling Drug. You'll find his address in your medicine chest.

Medical Committee for Human Rights
710 South Marshfield
Chicago, Illinois 60612

THIS SPACE MADE AVAILABLE BY THE VERMONT CYNIC

Arts & Entertainment

Two Views:

Maria Upstages Stephen At Winter Weekend Concert

Maria Muldaur Photo by Sig Wysolmerski

Stephen Stills Photo by Tim Rivers

by Doug Collette

Any folk stylist has to have a thoroughly knowledgable grasp of the basic elements of each genre he or she works in. Without that know-how, plus a sensitivity for the nuances of each music, clashes are as inevitable as incongruities.

Fortunately, Maria Muldaur has learned her lemons well. She can move from a Billie Holliday number to a Dan Hicks tune with pure effortlessness. She's supplemented by musicians whose playing fleshes out Maria's diverse interpretations; better still, they manage to do that without ever calling attention to themselves.

One more big plus: Maria's folksy stage manner wasn't nearly as ingratiating as the other times I've heard her.

I'd been waiting for Stills with trepidation. The man's a talent, but an erratic one, almost equally likely to be a buzz or a bomb. His set at Patrick Gym fell somewhere between those two extremes and the lacklustre quality of it all still puzzles me. Stills never seemed inspired with what he was doing, which is perhaps why I had to walk away feeling nowhere near as satiated as I want to feel after a rock and roll show.

The most exciting moments came from Stills' band who played as a tougher unit than did Manassas when I heard them last summer. Though Still's monopolization of the wah-wah made me regret the device had ever been invented -- it sounded horrendous on "Special Care" he played with more economy than I'd come to expect after some of the self-indulgence he's been guilty of in the not-too-distant past. His second guitarist, an unknown Texan named Donny Dacus, was even more impressive.

What really hampered the band as they ran through material reaching way back to the Buffalo Springfield days (and including a couple of nondescript new songs) was a vocal inadequacy that, as the set progressed, went beyond the annoying to the obnoxious. "Bluebird," for instance, would have positively soared had there been suitably lithe singing to top the hardcharging musicianship.

I actually had to fight the impression that Stills wasn't even trying to sing straight on, but was only dodging around the proper notes and phrases. The only redeeming feature of his solo-acoustic set was his nimble fingerpicking of banjo and guitar. It would seem logical that, not being forced to strain a feeble voice over amplification, Stills would benefit, but his run-through of "Blackbird" was unintelligible and the rest was barely above that.

What it's down to really is that Stills can't carry the load himself. He needs to collaborate with not just highcalibre musicians like the ones he's playing with now, but also gifted composers and vocalists who can maximize his strengths and minimize his weaknesses. Until Stills resigns himself to that, he's going to be overextending himself and shortchanging his audience.

by Tim Rivers

Maria Muldaur has been described in a previous review in this paper as a "relatively new talent" singing "old blues numbers." Strange that a "relatively new talent" should have been a major member of a nationally-known band for at least six years during the mid-late 60's and a solo performer since then. Alas, the public's memory (and research) is short lived.

During the great "folk revival" of the 60's, the pre-Stones wasteland, our average Joe-college was raving about the Kingston Trio and the Limelighters. At the same time some of us pretentious, elitist high-school students were "getting-into" such musical curiosities as the New Lost City Ramblers and the Jim Kweskin Jug Band.

One refugee from this period showed up at Burlington early last semester. John Cohen of the Putnam String County Band--formerly with the Ramblers-- has sunk a long way from the position of influence he held during the folk period. Cohen was playing old time country music at that time and still is. All I can say is hands must slow down with age. Maria Muldaur, then Maria D'Amato, played fiddle and sang with one of the most unique groups of any period, Jim Kweskin and the Jug Band. By '64 or '65 Cambridge had become the base for loose musical groups playing in the clubs and universities. Kweskin recorded about '64 with Fritz Richmond, Bruno Wolf, Bob Siggins, and Geoff Muldaur. (You were wondering when we were going to get back to that weren't you?) Maria D'Amato joined this group at a later date. At this point the group featured guitar, washboard, harmonica, fiddle and such avant-garde innovations as banjo and mandolin, (even a steel guitar!). Members of the group came from jazz, blues, ragtime and "bluegrass. (No, Virginia country music wasn't invented at the Craftsbury Fiddlers' Festival.)

As you can see, at this point the music that Maria was involved with was a conglomeration of all that the folk idiom had to offer. Blues, jazz, country and '20's pop tunes all came together in the irreverent mash of Kweskin's imagination.

When the Kweskin band began to fall apart, Maria moved on to smaller and more obscure things. As Mel Lyman became a fascist and Kweskin sank into drollery, Maria put out two albums with her husband Geoff Muldaur (both albums are hard to find now.) Geoff went to play for Paul Butterfield and God knows where Maria went.

I can only remember hearing of her again just before the Sugarbush Festival this past summer. I saw her at the concert with Jesse Colin Young in the fall having listened to her new album. The album came as a shock. It seemed, though a competent job, to be a blatant attempt to break into pop music. The coy but funky voice of the Jug Band days seemed to be much more restrained and self-conscious. Side men only for their names' sake and faddish arrangements seemed to characterize the album. (Listen to Dan Hicks and then try the Pointer Sisters, Bette Midler, or this album.)

On stage the story was different. From "Chauffeur Blues" (which ain't about stick shifts) to "Richland Woman Blues," to "I'm a Woman," her theme song, the old Maria was still there. The old numbers are still the same, the world's first electric jug band. There seems to be two sides to her stage presence: one, an electric Kweskin-era blues and ragtime, and the other, doing the album cuts with a bit less pretension. Her voice in concert is generally looser and more up front than on the album.

Then there was a difference between both stage performances. At Memorial Auditorium, her act had a milder, more "acoustic" sound, with quieter vocals, and at times it came close to the old sound in vocal style, if not in back up. At Patrick, the overall sound was more raw and electric and somehow less intimate. Maria's vocals rose in volume and roughness, but did not really lose control. David Nichtern's guitar was more effective, but the act needs someone to really step on the blues riffs. A little call and response with the voice would have been very effective. The piano player was good and deserves a lot of credit and an apology from S.A. Concert Bureau, or whatever the jive. Musicians have a hard enough time keeping rapport with the audience without having to put up with unplayable instruments.

In a way the audience got a chance to see an interesting juxtaposition at this concert. One performer had it made, the other has been trying for ten years. Some people have expressed dissatisfaction with Steven Stills' attitude more than his performance. I can only say that a 28 year-old millionaire cult-idol has to be put in some context. The collection of every teenager's dream guitars and his inability to use them say a lot about Steven Stills. He has nothing to prove. He's made his million long ago and busting his ass for an audience is more or less irrelevant. He knows he will get an hysterical reception anywhere he plays. A bad concert, a bad crowd, a bad review mean little or nothing to him. People with much less talent than Stills have treated audiences better than he did Friday.

In contrast, Maria Muldaur has been getting in the big money only recently. She has to work to earn a buck. Many in an audience expect the performer to live his act, to be an incarnation of their own hopes and aspirations. But a performer is paid to entertain, to put on an act. Any connection between his stage presence and the audience's reaction is purely a function of how much he needs their support either musically or financially. That act is his living not his life.

What we saw Friday was one performer who was in a position where he did not have to care about his audience's reactions, and one to whom it was vital. Steven Stills has nothing to prove; Maria Muldaur still does perhaps. That is why her performance was more convincing.

Witold Rowicki, Chief Conductor of the Warsaw Philharmonic Orchestra

Polish Orchestra To Perform In Burlington

The Warsaw National Philharmonic, one of Europe's major orchestras, will perform in the Lane Series on Tuesday, February 26, at 8 p.m., in Memorial Auditorium. This performance is the leading classical concert on the current Lane season.

Poland's primary music institution, the Warsaw will be conducted in Burlington by its artistic director and leading conductor, Witold Rowicki. Guest soloist is soprano Stefania Woytowicz.

The program includes Benjamin Britten's "Les Illuminations," with the soprano part sung by Miss Woytowicz; "Suite from the Ballet Petrouchka;" and two works by Polish composers -- "Concert Overture by Karol Szymanowski and "Capriccioso Notturno" by Edward Bogulowski.

Founded in 1901, the Warsaw Philharmonic has been host to nearly all the greatest conductors and soloists from all over the world. But the outbreak of World War II broke off its activities, and the Philharmonic Hall, home of the Orchestra, underwent complete construction. In 1950 the parts of artistic director and lead conductor were filled by Witold Rowicki, who created virtually a new orchestra; and at whose lead he has remained until the present.

Rowicki, who was born in 1914, studied violin and music theory in Cracow, and upon receiving his diploma, became violin professor at the Cracow Conservatory. His conducting debut took place in 1933. Then, in 1945, he was chosen as music director for Katowice Radio, where he set up an orchestra which soon became the leading radio symphony in Poland.

Rowicki has been guest conductor with nearly all the great orchestras of the world, in Europe, North and South America, Africa, Asia and Australia. He has recorded for Phillips, E.M.I., and D.G.G.

Stefania Woytowicz, a leading Polish singer, has appeared at Milan's La Scala and at the festivals of music in Edinburgh, Athens, Salzburg, Montreux and Munich. In addition, she has given solo recitals throughout Europe, U.S.A., and the Soviet Union. During a six-month tour of Australia, she sang in 47 concerts with the BBC Symphony Orchestra.

The London Times critic wrote that the Warsaw is in "the front rank of excellence," and the New York Post said that "hearing this orchestra is an exhilarating experience ... it is rare to find an ensemble with such intellectual and emotional vitality."

A limited number of tickets, $3, $5, and $6, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, tel. 656-3418.

The next major Lane concert is the Netherlands Wind Ensemble, March 8.

Photo Exhibit Displays Slate Quarry Art

A photographic exhibition portraying the art of slate quarrying opened February 14 at the Robert Hull Fleming Museum. With the aid of grants from the Vermont Council on the Arts, Inc., Neil Rappaport, of Pawlet, photographed quarrying operations in the Pawlet, Vermont/Granville, New York area in two series.

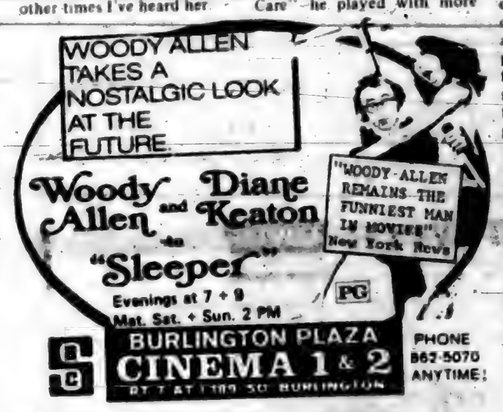
The first series, displayed in the Museum's front gallery, was photographed in 1970 – 1972. The photos are quarryscapes of the old Evans Brothers Roofing Slate Quarry in Pawlet. The Evans Quarry was one of the last operations that used traditional quarrying methods, rather than the modern back-hoes, etc.

The second series, 1973 – present, is in the main gallery, and presents a continuing study of the men working in the slate industry, with details of the quarries.

Neil Rappaport, a graduate of Williams College, presently teaches photography at Bennington College, as well as at the Great Meadow Correctional Facility in Comstock, New York. Rappaport is particularly interested in old Vermont industries still untouched by modern techniques.

In conjunction with this show, on Saturday, February 23 at 2:00 p.m. Rappaport and quarry workers will be at the Museum for an informal discussion about the Vermont quarries.

"Photographs of the Slate Quarries -- An Aspect of Changing Vermont" will remain on view through March 13. Museum hours are Tuesdays, 9:00 – 9:00 p.m.; Wednesdays through Fridays, 9:00 – 5:00 p.m.; Saturdays, 1:00 – 5:00 p.m.; closed Sundays and Mondays.



Woody Allen and Diane Keaton in "Sleeper"
Evenings at 7 + 9
Mat. Sat. + Sun. 2 PM
PG
BURLINGTON PLAZA CINEMA 1 & 2
AT 7 AT 189 SO. BURLINGTON
PHONE 862-5070 ANYTIME!

bedspreads, bells, rugs, beads, pillows, antler pipes, tapestries, hookahs, chess sets, wall hangings, boxes, mirrors, leather hats, Tiffany buckles, bags, wineskins, candles, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, oils, mugs, incense, tee sets, toiletries, planters, occult books, statues

CORGULA
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.

Inserts curio boutique

10% off with this ad

862-9863-3712

shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

$1.00 SPECIAL $1.00
DOLLAR SHOWING

THE STING
Today (2/21) 4:00 P.M.
Merrill's Showcase 1 & 2
Williston Road
TICKETS ONLY AVAILABLE AT BILLINGS CENTER

TODAY $1.00

MOVIE GUIDE
Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE
Double Feature
SUPERDAD
SON OF FLUBBER
Call theater for times

CINEMA 1 & 2
Cry of the Wild
7 + 9
SLEEPER
7 + 9

Showcase 1 & 2
THE STING
Call theater for times
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
Call theater for times

FLYNN
SERPICO
Call theater for times

Essex Twin Cinema
Cry of the Wild
Live and Let Die
Call theater for times

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE PRESENTS
IN CONCERT
THE JOHN CASSELS BAND
opening to
B.B. KING
Following the concert there will be a dance featuring
JOHN CASSELS BAND & WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
8:00 PM Friday Feb. 22
Memorial Field House
Middlebury College Middlebury, Vt.
LOCAL TICKETS will be sold at Bailey's Music Room for $5.00.
Admission 5.00 Adv. 5.50 At The Door
For Information Call 388-2663

FOR THE WINNING COMBINATION:
A SUCCULENT FARE OF STEAKS AND POTABLE BEVERAGES, CAPPED OFF BY SPORTS ENTERTAINMENT AT NEARBY GUTTERSON FIELDHOUSE WATCHING UVM HOCKEY OR BASKETBALL
SIZZLING STEAK
1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(NEXT TO SHOWCASE 1 & 2)
(ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)

Prestigiou

American brass sound in all its glory will flood Ira Allen Chapel on Saturday, February 23, when the prestigious Eastman Brass Quintet performs the first concert on the fourteenth annual Lane Chamber Arts Series. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Founded in 1961 at the Eastman School of Music, the Brass Quintet has become one of the giants in the chamber music field. Also, it is one of the most-travelled ensembles in brass.

The five members of the group include Donald Knaub, trombone; Verne Reynolds, french horn; Allen Vizzutti, second trumpet; Cherry Beauregard, tuba; and Daniel Patrylak, first trumpet.

All five players are or have been connected with the University of Rochester's Eastman School of Music

Patrylak, assistant School summer second member Ensemble groups french h trombon the outh b o o s Beauregard of Philharm assistant Eastman

It ra with knowle Eastman possess discard past re remarks performa instrume

Poet Cameron Sp

by J. Olshan

Last Wednesday evening, an Oxford graduate spoke to UVM students about his experience with the Guru Maharaj Ji. His name is Charles Cameron, and he claims that he received entrance into a world of eternal optimism and inner peace. He has been travelling around the United States spreading his experiences with the Guru, leading Sat songs, and sharing his poetry which lyrically expresses the new world which he says he has found.

Charles Cameron is an author who has published numerous science fiction stories, who has had poems exhibited in the Institute of Contemporary Arts in London, and who has published in the Penguin anthology Albion from Ox search Heaven Tibetan various "mahatm Maharaj showed own head Charles India to four sess during all hi dissolved knowledg in 1969 the ten the Gu has ste thousand with h religion,

Con Brio Ensem

On Wednesday evening at 8:00 p.m., the Con Brio Chamber Ensemble will perform in the Experimental Room of Living/Learning Center. Hosted by the Center, this concert is one of a series intended to provide high quality chamber performances for the Burlington and campus community.

The first two concerts, held October 10 and November 7, were enormously successful. The directors of the Center are constantly working to increase the chamber presence by adjusting room accoustics and seating arrangements.

The Con Brio players are all Vermont musicians and members of university and college faculties. Feature soloists will include Philip Rhinelander, a classical guitarist who studied at the Royal Academy of Music in London, and Shari Fleming, a professional soprano who graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music. Both artists are presently instructing at UVM. The entire ensemble will perform programs of traditional and contemporary chamber music.

Aria de Melan My L

Tick may be at the

Ka

Sh THR Pro Sch Qu Sh QUIN Al A M Al Th C

QUI A S V F R SON A A L

APPEARIN
HAW
FEB
MONDAY N
FE
WEDNES
LIVE ENT
S
THE SILV
156 ST. PA

Rowicki, Chief Conductor of the Warsaw Philharmonic Orchestra

lish Orchestra To orm In Burlington

saw National ic, one of ion orchestras. in the Lane rsday, February n, in Memorial um. This ll the leading ert on the season primary music he Warsaw will in Burlington ic director and ductor, Witold est soloist is nia Woytowicz ram includes ritten's "Les with the sung by Miss Suite from the chka;" and two th composers erture by Karol wski and Notturno" by lowski. in 1901, the armonic has nearly all the onductors and m all over the the outbreak of ll broke off its and the Hall, home of tra, underwent construction. In parts of artistic lead conductor d by Witold who created ew orchestra, and lead he has nd the present who was born in died violin and y in Cracow, and upon receiving his diploma, became violin professor at the Cracow Conservatory. His conducting debut took place in 1933. Then, in 1945, he was chosen as music director for Katowice Radio, where he set up an orchestra which soon became the leading radio symphony in Poland.

Rowicki has been guest conductor with nearly all the great orchestras of the world, in Europe, North and South America, Africa, Asia and Australia. He has recorded for Philips, EMI, and D.G.G.

Stefania Woytowicz, a leading Polish singer, has appeared at Milan's La Scala and at the festivals of music in Edinburgh, Athens, Salzburg, Montreux and Munich. In addition, she has given solo recitals throughout Europe, U.S.A., and the Soviet Union. During a six-month tour of Australia, she sang in 47 concerts with the BBC Symphony Orchestra.

The London Times critic wrote that the Warsaw is in "the front rank of excellence," and the New York Post said that "hearing this orchestra is an exhilarating experience ... it is rare to find an ensemble with such intellectual and emotional vitality."

A limited number of tickets, $3, $5, and $6, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, tel. 656-3418.

The next major Lane concert is the Netherlands Wind Ensemble, March 8.

Slate Quarry Art

r men working in industry, with e qualities.

paport, a graduate College, presently photography at College, as well as Great Meadow al Facility in New York is particularly in old Vermont still untouched by chniques.

nction with this show, on Saturday, February 23 at 2:00 p.m. Rappaport and quarry workers will be at the Museum for an informal discussion about the Vermont quarries.

"Photographs of the Slate Quarries: An Aspect of Changing Vermont" will remain on view through March 13. Museum hours are Tuesdays, 9:00 - 9:00 p.m.; Wednesdays through Fridays, 9:00 - 5:00 p.m.; Saturdays, 1:00 - 5:00 p.m.; closed Sundays and Mondays.

R THE WINNING COMBINATION:
SUCCULENT FARE OF STEAKS AND POTABLE BEVERAGES, CAPPED OFF BY SPORTS NTERTAINMENT AT NEARBY GUTTERSON FIELDHOUSE WATCHING UVM HOCKEY OR BASKETBALL
SIZZLING STEAK
1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(NEXT TO SHOWCASE I & II)
(ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)

Prestigious Eastman Brass Quintet Opens Lane Chamber Arts

American brass sound in all its glory will flood Ira Allen Chapel on Saturday, February 23, when the prestigious Eastman Brass Quintet performs the first concert on the fourteenth annual Lane Chamber Arts Series Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Founded in 1961 at the Eastman School of Music, the Brass Quintet has become one of the giants in the chamber music field. Also it is one of the most-travelled ensembles in brass.

The five members of the group include Donald Knaub, trombone; Verne Reynolds, french horn; Allen Vizzutti, second trumpet; Cherry Beauregard, tuba; and Daniel Patrylak, first trumpet.

All five players are -or have been- connected with the University of Rochester's Eastman School of Music. Patrylak, first trumpet, is assistant director of the School and director of its summer session. Vizzutti, second trumpet, was a member of the Wind Ensemble and other musical groups at Eastman Reynolds, french horn, is professor of trombone at Eastman, and the author of two books on brass instruments. Beauregard, a former member of the Rochester Philharmonic, is currently assistant professor of tuba at Eastman.

It remained for a group with the vision and knowledge which the Eastman Brass Quintet possessed to enable it to discard the traditions of the past and to create a renaissance for brass performance based on the instrumentation of the conventional brass quintet--2 trumpets, horn, trombone, and tuba. This combination of instruments covered the complete spectrum of sounds capable of production by artists of the caliber of the Eastman Brass and it was merely a question of time before composers, aware of the tremendous potential for sound from this instrumentation, began writing for it. Gunther Schuller, Eugene Bozza, Malcolm Arnold, Alvin Etler and the Eastman Brass Quintet's Verne Reynolds, have written major works exploiting the virtuosity and artistry of the EBQ.

Saturday night's program for the Eastman Brass will be Canzone No.4, by William Simmes, Alfonso Ferrabosco II, Anthony Holborne, John Okeover and Orlando Gibbons -- transcribed by the Quintet's horn player, Verne Reynolds. Brass Quintet by Thomas Fredrichsen; and Quintet No. 2 for Brass Instruments by Thom Ritter George.

After the intermission the Quintet will play Quintet in four movements, for Brass Instruments by Alvin Etler, and Canzone No. 5 by Samual Scheidt, transcribed by Verne Reynolds.

Annual tours have taken the EBQ from North America, playing frequent return engagements -- proof that "brass chamber music in the hands of the Eastman players is a continuing musical experience worthy of many hearings which do not palp with repetition."

Selected in 1967 by the U.S. State Department to tour 13 Latin American countries in 9 weeks, the Eastman Brass proved its excellence not only as a musical organization but also as a diplomatic representative.

Upon completion of the State Department tour, the Quintet recorded an album of German and English Renaissance Brass Music which was called "the finest of its kind" by High Fidelity. The album is on the Vox-Candide label.

Brass chamber music was non-existent prior to the late 19th century. Early attempts to form combinations of brasses took place around 1600. At that time, Johann Pezel wrote for combinations of instrumentalists who performed from cathedral towers. These Pezel works, entitled "Tower Music," still exist and comprise repertoire for the modern brass quintet in their transcribed form. Gabrieli's antiphonal scoring typified the use of brasses in church music.

During the 17th, 18th and early 19th centuries, the horn and trumpet continued to supply the brass quality to orchestral instrumentation, while the trombone saw limited usage. For example, only the 5th, 6th and 9th symphonies of Beethovan were scored for trombones. The modern tuba was developed in 1835 and Berlioz and Wagner introduced it in their larger works. Multiple brasses organized as sextets during the late 19th century to perform works of which Oskar Bohme's Sextet is a good example. Instrumentation for this work consists of 3 trumpets, French horn, trombone and tuba.

Tickets for the Eastman Brass Quintet concert, $3, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, Tel. 656-3418. Also available are season tickets, $10 each, for all four concerts on the Lane Chamber Arts Series. The other three concerts include soprano Camilla Williams and clarinetist David Glazer, March 13; the Early Music Consort of London, April 9; and the Cleveland Quartet, April 17.

Poet Cameron Speaks On Enlightenment

by J. Olshan

Last Wednesday evening, an Oxford graduate spoke to UVM students about his experience with the Guru Maharaj Ji. His name is Charles Cameron, and he claims that he received entrance into a world of eternal optimism and inner peace. He has been travelling around the United States spreading his experiences with the Guru, leading Sat songs, and sharing his poetry which lyrically expresses the new world which he says he has found.

Charles Cameron is an author who has published numerous science fiction stories, who has had poems exhibited in the Institute of Contemporary Arts in London, and who has published in the Penguin anthology, Children of Albion. After he graduated from Oxford, he set out in search of the Kingdom of Heaven. After experiencing Tibetan monks, Hindus, and various gurus, he met a "mahatma" of the Guru Maharaj Ji. This mahatma showed him the way to his own heart.

Charles then travelled to India to undergo a series of four sessions with the Guru during which he claims that all his defenses were dissolved. When he received knowledge of his inner being in 1969, he became one of the ten western disciples of the Guru, a number which has steadily grown to fifty thousand. This experience with his avid interest in religion, prompted him to edit a book entitled Who Is The Guru Maharaj Ji. This book is an account of the growing interest in the fifteen year old Guru. Along with the book, Charles has covered earthquakes in Central America, prostitution in Saigon, and the Hi Watari Fire Walking Festival in Japan.

The book about the guru deals with questions and answers involving the fifteen year old prophet, his mission and his methods of the attainment of inner peace. There are four techniques outlined as modes of meditation upon the soul. The book gives accounts of disenchantment which slowly grew into devotion solely from knowledge received from the Guru.

Andromeda Strain

The color film The Andromeda Strain will open the Lane Film Society Series of Science Fiction Movies on Friday, February 22, in Marsh Life Science Building Auditorium. There will be two showings, at 7:30, p.m. and 10 p.m.

The Andromeda Strain, a record of the earth's first biological crisis, has been called the most painstakingly authentic science-fiction thriller ever to be made. Directed by Robert Wise, the film stars Arthur Hill, David Wayne; James Olson, and Kate Reid.

The opening scene of The Andromeda Strain shows a satellite falling to earth near a remote village in New Mexico and the recovery team finding everyone in the area dead except an infant and an old derelict. The survivors are brought to a five-story underground laboratory -- one of the most elaborate and intricate sets ever assembled in Hollywood -- where scientists attempt to determine the nature of a deadly microbe before it starts a world-wide epidemic.

A trailblazer on the realm of science-fact, The Andromeda Strain is based on Michael Crichton's best-selling novel that created national paranoia for its topical relevance to the first moon landing.

Tickets for the movie, $1 each, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at the door. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Season tickets for the series of six films -- all scheduled for Friday evenings in Marsh Life Science Building Auditorium -- are $5. The remaining films include The War of the Worlds, March 1; The Time Machine, March 15; The Invisible Man, April 5; Flash Gordon: Spaceship to the Unknown, April 12; and The Fly, April 19.

Con Brio Ensemble Plays Wednesday

On Wednesday evening at 8:00 p.m., the Con Brio Chamber Ensemble will perform in the Experimental Room of Living/Learning Center. Hosted by the Center, this concert is one of a series intended to provide high quality chamber performances for the Burlington and campus community.

The first two concerts, held October 10 and November 7, were enormously successful. The directors of the Center are constantly working to increase the chamber presence by adjusting room acoustics and seating arrangements.

The Con Brio players are all Vermont musicians and members of university and college faculties. Feature soloists will include Philip Rhinelander, a classical guitarist who studied at the Royal Academy of Music in London, and Shari Fleming, a professional soprano who graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music. Both artists are presently instructing at UVM. The entire ensemble will perform programs of traditional and contemporary chamber music.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased in advance at the Music Department, or else at the door. The program scheduled for Wednesday evening will be:

CON BRIO Chamber Ensemble Concert
February 27, 1974

Aria con Variazioni — G. Frescobaldi
della "La Frescobalda"
Melancholy galliard — J. Dowland
My Lady Hunsden's Puffe — J. Dowland
Philip Rhinelander, guitar

TWO SONGS SET TO RILKE POEMS — Shari Fleming
Kannst du die alten lieder moch spielen?
Ich liebe vergessene Flurmadonnen
Shari Fleming, soprano — Elizabeth Metcalfe, piano

THREE VOCALISES — Ralph Vaughan Williams
Prelude
Scherzo
Quasi menuetto
Shari Fleming, soprano — Layton Davis, clarinet

QUINTET NO. 3 IN E MINOR — Boccherini
Allegro moderato
Adagio
Menuetto
Allegretto
Thomas Read, violin — Philip Rhinelander, guitar
Caroline MacDonald, violin — Evelyn Read, viola
Flora Kinsey, cello

INTERMISSION

QUINTETTO CONCERTANTE — Vaclav Nelhybel
Allegro murcato
Slow
Vivo
Priscilla Douglas, trumpet — Thomas Read, violin
Robert Wigness, trombone — William Storandt, xylophone
Marie Vogelmann, piano

SONATA IN E FLAT MAJOR, op. 120 No. 2 — Brahms
Allegro amabile
Allegro appassionato
Andante con moto
Layton Davis, clarinet — Elizabeth Metcalfe, piano

Solzhenitsyn...

(continued from page five)

one million.

While much more could be stated in defense of the Russian dissident, let it suffice to call him a genuine hero and end with an excerpt from the seventh section of the Gulag (N.Y. Times Feb. 13,1974): "Oh, freedomloving 'leftist' thinkers of the West! Oh, leftist labórites! Oh, progressive American, German and French students! For you, all this counts for little. For you, my entire book amounts to nothing. You will only understand it all when they bellow at you 'hand behind your back' -- as you yourselves trudge off to our archipelago."

Note: One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich film version will be presented in a cinema class on campus -- check Cynic for information.

Cynic Photography Contest

The Cynic announces the "Fourth Annual Cynic Photography Contest." The rules are as follows:

1. The contest is open to all students of the University of Vermont who are amateurs. (Amateurs will be considered those people who do not support themselves by taking pictures.)
2. The pictures will be divided into the three following categories: faces, landscaping, and other subjects. The category of other subjects will include any picture not included in the categories of faces and landscapes.
3. All photographs will be black and white and will be approximately 8 by 10 inches. There is no limit to the number of photographs that each photographer may submit.
4. The pictures submitted will be the property of the Vermont Cynic which will have the consent of the photographer to publish them in the newspaper.
5. The Vermont Cynic has the right to request the photographer to submit a subject release form signed by those people who may appear in the photograph.
6. The pictures may have been taken at any time, past or present.
7. Pictures entered in the Fourth Annual Cynic Photography Contest could not have been entered in any other photography contest sponsored by the Cynic.
8. Photographs will be judged on print quality and composition by a board of judges.
9. The board of judges will consist of Wynn Gold of the Student Photography Service, Mike Hill of the University Photo Service, and Gene Peroni of the Living and Learning Center. The judges will be ineligible to enter the contest.
10. All photographs should be placed in the Cynic office or the SA desk.
11. The photographer's name, address, and telephone number should be lightly printed in pencil on the back of each photograph submitted, along with a title, if any.
12. Deadline for entries will be March 18, 1974.
13. One winner will be chosen from each category and the winners will be announced in the April 11 issue of the Cynic.
14. The winner in each category will receive $25.00.
15. All questions should be referred directly to the Cynic office in Billings, 658-4911.

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE
Retail outlet
FANTASTIC SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS

APPEARING FOR ONE WEEK
HAWKINS ROAD
FEB. 25 - MAR. 2
MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED FEMALES FREE
WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10¢ NITE
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE
THE SILVER KEG
156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

the BIG SALE
item no.23: ELAC 660H automatic turntable list 180. $125.
item no.21: SANSUI 6 receiver list 400. $319
tech hifi

MAGRAMS It's an Experience
FIRST WITH Levi's
FIRST WITH Levi's
FIRST WITH Levi's

STRAIGHT LEGS $9
CUFFS $12
JACKET $12
WAY IN SHOP

S. A. Senate Revises Grading System

By Bruce Maddrey

The Senate this week passed a motion to revise the grading system to allow for numerical allowances for pluses and minuses. Among the other items of business were allocation of $525 for a T. V. for --Billings, the reappointment of Band funds for a spring tour in Vermont and the passage of a "No Smoking" regulation for classrooms.

Sig Heller, S. A. President, announced that Vice-President Patterson will be at next week's meeting to discuss UVM's budget for the next year. Under Peter MacAusland's report for the Cultural Committee, he said that the committee was beginning to move and people were beginning to get involved. Presidential elections were announced for March 12 and 13.

Old Business

Sig Heller, representing the Model U. N. Club, asked for a friendly amendment changing the suggested allocation from $200 to $386 for that club. The allocation is for a three day trip to Boston in the spring where seven students from UVM will represent Canada in the Model U. N. The money is for seven students for transportation, meals, hotel, and registration. Heller, commenting on the problems that have arisen, said that it would "look bad" if UVM didn't go and that they didn't consider how greatly involved the program is with the Area Studies Department and the Canadian government. The motion was passed.

Alan King's motion for the addition of numerical equivalency of .25 for pluses and minuses passed by 19--7--6. Discussion centered on whether we need any change and also in Ed Pasqualin's comments about "condoning the system" instead of changing it for the students. The proposal now goes to the Academic Affairs Committee and then to the Faculty Senate for approval.

The reappointment of UVM Band funds to allow the Band to go on its spring tour was approved. Last year's Senate voted to have the Band stay on campus and offer more shows here. This year's Senate reversed this. In discussion of financial policy and the Senate structure, Dick Cassidy, town senator and candidate for president, commented that it "only shows the lack of policy (concerning transportation of S. A. allocations) and incompetence" on the part of the Senate. Gary Shaw, Acacia, said it only shows "we have no power except our pocketbook and even that isn't much" and that "we are a mere token of the administration." The band is using money from its accounts to bring a soloist on campus and publicity to make the tour.

Gary Shaw's motion for a No Smoking regulation was passed overwhelmingly. Another of his motions was considered for a look at an alternative approach for a new student register in light of the expense of the book and the profits by both the publisher and a production person from the University.

The final two motions were tabled. Recognition of the UVM Chapter of Wildlife was tabled because no representative was present. The Financial Committee Policy Statement was tabled because, as Matt Jones said of some other members of the committee, "they didn't have the courtesy to show up."

New Business

Proposed and Passed in the same evening were proposals for recognition of the Student Advisory Committee for Arts and Sciences, and Election Rules and Procedures for the presidential election.

The concluding item of business was a proposal by Matt Jones that $312 be allocated to send him to Washington as the UVM representative to the National Student Lobby. Dick Cassidy termed it "the absolutely most absurd motion I've ever heard" and discussion was openly critical. The motion and the meeting ended when a quorum was called.

Victim Of Joseph. . .

(continued from page four)

Joseph: As you know. . .

Student: Get Fucked! (He pushes Joseph out of the way, and leaves muttering)

These have not been unfamiliar scenes around here, especially during the last two weeks. My question is: should this be allowed to continue? Should these people be allowed to bother others with their ranting and raving? I personally think that no one has the right to try to force his religious beliefs on anyone else. People of this sort should be banned from campus, or at least regulated in such a way as to keep them from bothering unsuspecting people. There really is no need for the religious solicitation that has been going on around here recently, and I think that it ought to be stopped. I personally am sick and tired of people trying to convert me.

The 'Bone Is Honest; Beer And Loathing At The Red Dog

The 'Bone

The sign in the window says "43 King" now, but the place will always by The Bone: The Chickenbone Cafe.

If you accept two premises, first, that life imitates art, and, second, that an R. Crumb comic book is art; then The Bone is an R. Crumb comic in true life, Mr. Natural with Flakey Goont in tandem is expected momentarily; if the two actually walked in, someone would suggest to the old gentleman what he should do with himself. Evne Clark Kent would not be out of place here.

Physically, the place is a melange of various styles. Basically, it combines the acquired sleaziness of a Midwestern industrial town gimmill with the carnival atmosphere of Holyoke's Mountain Park. Avoid the pinball machine; it doth rip thou off. It is the most easily tiltable pinball machine since the infamous Bally "Mardi Gras" was last abused at Chuck and Pam's Horseshoe Tap, 410 Martin St., Waukesha, Wisconsin.

Drinks and beer are priced to suit every budget; in other words, The Bone facilitates drunkeness without indebtedness. The Bone is C-H-E-E-P. However, the prospective costumer is warned that the place does lack polish; don't expect the bar filled with debutantes.

The menu is diverse and exotic (one of the most diverse and exotic in the environs) if all you want is a hot dog with accompanying variations.

In summary, The Bone is an honest bar. Prominently written over that appliance peculiar to men's lavatories is the statement that if the reader is ignorant of the meaning of "boogie," it is imperatively suggested what to do with himself.

The Red Dog

Where is Hunter S. Thompson when you really need him? Ole Hunter S. Thompson could just cruise up to the Red Dog, drop a few speedies, snort up some good coke and after a couple shots of tequilla with chuckers in the 'Dog, he'd have the place completely scoped out. Then, give Hunter a Sony Tape Recorder and let him pour it on with Beer and Loathing in Burlington.

And the Red Dog certainly lends itself to loathing. Called the 'Dog by its admirers and, more accurately, the Red Hog by its numerous detractors, the Red Dog is nonetheless one of Burlington's most popular watering holes (and I mean hole). It's the type of establishment every high school junior flocks to the minute those side-burns are finally long enough to merit a fake I.D. Providing, naturally, that the old man has finally decided that it's time for junior to learn the ropes in the back seat on a weather-beaten dirt road off Spear Street somewhere, and consents to junior's use of the family car for the evening. But before junior can snuggle his honey into that cold, vinyl-upholstered back seat, he'll have to take her up to the 'Dog for some drinkin' and dancin'.

For the Red Dog is the seventies' version of American Graffiti. Where do you think the denizens of those jacked-up, glass-packed, four-speed '67 GTO's (Gee Toe or Goat is the correct pronunciation once inside the 'Dog) that are parked all over lower Church St. on a Friday nite hang out? And if you don't have a Gee Toe, a 442, Roadrunner or a '62 Galaxie Convertible without a muffler, you should be able to hitch a ride to the 'Dog in a pick-up truck with CLEM'S TEXACO scrawled in huge letters on the side.

Once inside, prepare yourself for a Grease Show rivaling a graft between the Catamount Stadium pit crowd, an old Brylcreem commercial, and your average Roller Derby-Big Time wrestling fan. Beaver Dragon is definitely the patron-saint sports hero of the Red Dog. And speaking of Beavers, the Red Hog has copious quantities of these too; the Red Dog is as much a Champlain Colleger-Beaver High annex as the Last Chance is a side-car for the Trinity--St. Mike's crew.

From the piano-sized electric amplifiers to the drunken brawls, the whole high school dance floor chucker wonderland dominates the Red Dog. The 'Dog even features the Merry Meat Parade at the door -- you know, where the guys stand armed with Budweisers in groups of twelve and proceed to assay the physical virtues, locker-room style, of every girl who enters the place.

Seriously though, the sleazin is pretty decent at the Red Dog, and if your taste runs the gamut from squirrels and sheep up through hairdressers, truck-stop waitresses and secretaries, you'll make out just fine. You may even find an occasional UVM jockette who escaped the sorority house for the evening -- but even she willingly admits, "I really can't stand this place, I just came here to dance." These Groovy U. jockettes can be distinguished from the rest of the chicks in the 'Dog, as instead of oohhing and aahing admiringly when the inevitable fight breaks out, they tend to terminate their thumper games prematurely and bolt quickly for safer territory at Hannibal's.

Even the drinks are highway robbery at The Red Dog, except for the Sunday night 25 cent special, attempting to get a buzz on at the 'Dog will wreak severe damage upon one's pocketbook. Furthermore, this reviewer isn't even convinced that Sunday night is such a great deal either, unless you are slugging it down free at a frat party. Genesee on tap is never a bargain.

So, for a great show -- the Red Dog. For the ladies, we can offer you a guy who is not only an easily manipulated pick-up, but who can also adjust the bands on your slipping automatic transmission the next morning. And for the gentlemen, we have not only Champlain College's Beaver patrol, but also a few beer-bellied, Green Bay Packer reject linebackers to scuffle with. You can certainly try the Red Hog -- but this week we can guarantee you won't like it.

Commentary -- Bar War I

Well, folks, the secret is out. At least, it is partially out. Our cover is blown. The beans are spilled. Somebody sang.

We knew it would be tough to maintain anonymity with a public operation like ours. We tried. But, like our President, we have learned that friendship is not security. We have more John Deans than he. The old local adage remains true: "If you fart in front of Billings, they'll congratulate you at Gutterson fifteen minutes later."

The situation reached a critical point this past weekend. Your Favorite Critics entered one local bar and were greeted with "Whadyagonnasayaboutus?" Later and elsewhere, someone suggested, "Hope you crucify the ------?" In case you're wondering, there is no bar called the ------. We don't wish to serve as a vehicle for transmitting one bar's opinion of another. Perfectly clear, n'est-ce pas?

Lovely, isn't it? We go out to get drunk and we find ourselves confronted with a problem in journalistic ethics. Next thing you know, the columnists will be getting anonymous late-night phone calls hinting at the behavior of certain owners and bartenders. Next, civilains (people who don't work in bars) will be hired to place electronic eavesdropping equipment in the drainboards and lavatories of rival bars. Any spy caught would be forced to drink five bottles of Ten High bourbon chased by ten cases of ten-year old Narragansett in one sitting. Sabotage is next. several bars would find their plumbing destroyed by suicide squads flushing cherry bombs down toilets in the true highschool tradition. (If a bar needs anything beside a beer tap, it's a toilet.) Soon, the inevitable escalation of hostilities; one bar is raided during a relaxed period, Happy Hour. Juke boxes and pinball machines are blown up. Church St. is all shell holes. Chivas Regal molotovs are popular; scotch is cheaper than Super Shell. The smaller bars form an alliance and search for a latter-day Scipio Africanus.

Then one day, some smart-ass opens up a malt shop so wholesome that it makes "American Graffiti" look like "The Exorcist." All the load-ups start flocking to it; the bars are abandoned. The Bar War has ended with wholesomeness triumphant by default.

The moral of this fable is that anyone having an idea of our identities should forget they know us, lest their future be one of, seeing whatever apocalyptic visions can be conjured up under the influence of three chocolate egg cremes.

Coming Attractions:

For all you fans of classics, The Bar Review will negotiate Scylla and Cahrybdis next week.

CLIP THIS MENU

Prices are subject to change without notice due to rampant meat & gasoline price changes. This menu replaces all previous menus -- Effective 2/7/74

HOME, OFFICE, CAMPUS, HOSPITAL DELIVERIES FROM 10:00 AM UNTIL 2:00 AM

1. Ham on Rye ..... .99
2. Ham on Rye with Swiss Cheese 1.09
3. Ham Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
4. Ham Slices on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
5. Roast Prime Sirloin on Pumpernickel 1.29
6. Roast Prime Sirloin on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.39
7. Maine Roast Chicken on Rye ..... .99
8. Tender Tidbits of Chicken Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
9. Tuna Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.09
10. Tuna Salad on Rye 1.09
11. Corned Beef on Rye 1.19
12. Corned Beef on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.29
13. Egg Salad on a Sesame Seeded Roll ..... .99
14. Egg Salad on White ..... .89
15. Bacon, Lettuce, and Tomato on a Sesame Seeded Roll 1.09
16. Vermont Roast Pork on Rye 1.19

SUBS

17. Ham, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss and American Cheese 1.39
18. Roast Prime Sirloin, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions 1.49
19. Tender Slices of Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions 1.39
20. Sea Fresh Tuna Fish, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, American Cheese 1.49
21. Corn Beef, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Pickles 1.39
22. Bacon, Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss Cheese 1.49
23. Vermont Roast Pork, Lettuce, Tomato, Peppers, Onions, Swiss Cheese 1.39

29. Salami 1.39
30. Turkey 1.39
31. Meatball 1.59
32. Bacon, Turkey 1.49
33. Sausage 1.69
34. Beef Bragiola 1.49
35. Pepper Steak 1.59
36. Capicola 1.49
37.
38.

CHINESE & THAILAND DISHES

39. Fried Rice, pork 1.69
40. Fried Rice, chicken 1.59
41. Fried Rice, shrimp 1.79
42. Fried Rice, beef 1.69
43. Palos 1.79
44. Sweet & sour, pork 1.69
45. Sweet & sour, chicken 1.59
46. Sweet & sour, shrimp 1.79
47. Sweet & sour, beef 1.69
48. Sen me raudna, beef 1.69
49. (2) egg rolls ..... $.75
50. wan ton soup ..... $.95
51. Ginger chicken 1.69
52. BBQ Spareribs 1.79

ITALIAN DISHES

53. Spaghetti & Meatballs 1.49
54. Lasagna 1.69
55. Antipasto Salad 1.69
56. Chef's Salad 1.79

MEXICAN

57. Tacos ..... $.95

Home Deliveries Any Time
Prices include Vermont Meals Tax and FREE DELIVERY!
Any Sandwich or Hot Dish not listed on menu, available on 24 hr. notice.
Please allow time for preparation and delivery.
All meals are prepared to order!

YANKEE DOODLE CATERING 864-5718

CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED

House Accounts Arranged for Business Groups
We Cater Parties and Groups at Discount Rates-Also ask about our Party Platters

HOMEMADE DESERT AND PASTRIES

24.	Andre's Brownies	$.25
25.	Polka Dot Cookies	.25
26.	Spice Cake	.25
27.	Butter Pecan Cake	.25
28.	Devil's Food Cake	.25

We accept

or personal check

When ordering please notify us if you wish to use Master Charge or check

FREE COUPON FREE

This coupon good for one free soda, or a piece of cake, or cookies with each individual order. Please present to deliverer for redemption.

Hope For Christianity . . .

(continued from page one)

claimed "if any man come unto you speaking another gospel let him be accursed." The Reverend commented that his Burlington experience was the most exciting of his Day of Hope tour.

The future according to Rev. Moon depends on man and his ability to accept or reject the New Messiah. The New Messiah will be most effective if the Christian world unites with the free world to accept the will of God. "The time of the coming of the lord is near. We cannot afford to make another mistake. God sent me to America to speak up." The audience was left to entertain the provocative question as to whether Reverend Moon himself is the New Messiah.

St. Anslem's Sponsors S

Jesus Is Lord

"Jesus is Lord" would perhaps be one of the simplest ways to sum up the essence of the Christian faith. So profoundly simple, yet just as complex. While there is much to this thing we call Christianity, one of the major focuses of the religion is that of salvation -- the atonement. For Christians, this means that it is through Jesus Christ that men are saved from their sins.

Beginning this Sunday, February 24th at 7:30 p. m., in the Common Room, St. Anselms Chapel will sponsor a five part seminar series entitled "Is Jesus Christ the Only Way?". The purpose of the seminar will be to try to shed some light on some of the question concerning especially as person of Jes of the series be an introduc by Chaplain followed the with a pres fundamenta view, fo presentation view, then the ideas fo Eastern, universalist

There will b for each of Jesus Christ Turn to St. for some th discussion on

Freshmen Applicatio

(continued from page one)

and hold its student size. He explained that next year's freshman class will not be larger than this year's.

Steele said that he does not like the proposed one hundred dollar increase which would push the out-of-state tuition up to $2,600, but if it is necessary to keep up the present quality of faculty, he would condone it. He added that applications and thus ability of incoming students would remain high only if UVM sustained its present faculty and subsequent academic quality. When a school's academic excellence and reputation slacks off, Steele stated, so do applications. Thus the school lowers its standards and becomes resulting, unhealthy a Discussing drop out ra this year, that in a dep hard times th students to knowing tha be necess increasingly market.

Speculati drawing mo candidates schools in Steele felt experience as it used t unique size more attract the prospect for the College of Engineering Mathematics and Business Administration. The board also unanimously approved the new criteria for tenure.

Trustees Approve Sne

(continued from page one)

Under the Finance and Budget report, the trustees heard recent proposals for the upcoming budget. The budget will be based on 7,400 students and a $100 increase in out-of-state tuition. There will also be an eight per cent faculty and staff pay increase. President Andrews also commented that the attrition rate for students was down from twelve per cent to eight per cent.

The board also voted on an increase of $15,000 for the organ for the music center. The grand total for the organ is now $105,000. They also voted to accept $1,560,000 in grants gifts. An i fund key f In Financial that feder aid, and should be part of financing of the un however, this will income increased they don because o

Three including Bingham board of appreciat years o rendered UVM.

APEX Appra

(continued from page ten)

considers it "a good experience and different from a 'normal' classroom."

"It's tough to keep one's own ideas and still work with the existing elementary ideas. It is important to get new ideas in and yet not come across as a radical or something," Hank admitted.

Another Apex student, Eileen Jones, commented, "The kids are taking the initiative -- if they want to learn about an area and it's not being taught, it is up to them to do something about it.

"Part of last semester involved field experiences; another part... was the setting up of family groups. Students got together in teams of five or six, headed by a faculty member. Two family groups went into the schools on a rotating basis."

This semester, the concept is changing. The family groups are being set up by students. They discuss problems in schools, areas of interest, and so forth. The faculty participate as members but not as leaders.

Apex is set up encompassing a block of time from 1 to 4 p.m. three days a week in a workshop situation (plus one full day per week in an elementary school). Apex students are now involved in Thayer, Shelburne, Chamberlain, and Poker Hill (Underhill) Schools, and the Children's School near Cliffside. Hank Schneider described a typical day at Thayer School, and the setup there:

"It's a lot of observing. One full day is spent in the classroom. Three or four hours are spent helping the teacher as an aide; I would go down to the teachers' room, talk with them about the school, the kids, the programs. I'd get a feeling of what the teachers are like."

"I spent one day working with the kids' programs. Kids teach t take pa learning them ho out of y "The classroo grades, example 6-7-8. T for ma which i areas."

Apex expand particip will be altogeth will be There facilitie student were a "It wo get idea "In a Apex said:

"It that's going at a taking Most requir you s own over shock really do.

"A betw conce teach walkz you sudde 30-40 separ disj inte the stud coun just A Exp prim days

Beer And The Red Dog

The Red Dog certainly lends itself to loathing. Called ...g by its admirers and, more accurately, the Red Hog ...merous detractors, the Red Dog is nonetheless one ...ington's most popular watering holes (and I mean ...'s the type of establishment every high school ...kies to the minute those side-burns are finally long ... to merit a fake I.D. Providing, naturally, that the ... has finally decided that-it's time for junior to learn ...e in the back seat on a weather-beaten dirt road off ...reet somewhere and consents to junior's use of the ...car for the evening. But before junior can snuggle his ...nto that cold, vinyl-upholstered back seat, he'll have ...her up to the 'Dog for some drinkin' and dancin'.

...he Red Dog is the seventies' version of American ... Where do you think the denizens of those ...op, glass-packed, four-speed '67 GTO's (Gee Too or ... the correct pronunciation once inside the Dog) that ...ked all over lower Church St. on a Friday nite hang ...t if you don't have a Gee Too, a 442, Roadrunner ... Galaxie Convertible without a muffler, you should ... to hitch a ride to the 'Dog in a pick-up truck with ...S TEXACO scrawled in huge letters on the side.

... inside, prepare yourself for a Grease Show rivaling ... between the Catamount Stadium pit crowd, an old ...em commercial, above-par average Roller Derby-Big ...wrestling fan. Beaver-Dragon is definitely the ...saint sports hero of the Red Dog. And speaking of ..., the Red Hog has copious quantities of these too; ... Dog is as much a Champlain College-Beaver High ... the Last Chance is a side-car for the Trinity-St. ... crew.

... the piano-sized electric amplifiers to the drunken ... the whole high school dance floor chucker ...rland dominates the Red Dog. The 'Dog even ...s the Merry Meat Parade at the door — you know, ... the guys stand armed with Budweisers in groups of ... and proceed to assay the physical virtues, ...-room style, of every girl who enters the place.

...ously though, the clientele is pretty decent at the Red ...nd if your taste runs the gamut from squirrels and ... up through bandleaders, truck-stop waitresses and ...ries, you'll make out just fine. You may even find an ...mal UVM jockette who escaped the sorority house ... evening — but even she willingly admits, "I really ...stand this place, I just came here to dance." These ...y U. jockettes can be distinguished from the rest of ...icks in the 'Dog, as instead of oohhing and aahing ...ingly when the inevitable fight breaks out, they tend ...minate their thumper games prematurely and bolt ...y for safer territory at Hannibal's.

...n the drinks are highway robbery at The Red Dog ... for the Sunday night 25 cent special, attempting to ...buzz on at the 'Dog will wreak severe damage upon ... pocketbook. Furthermore, this reviewer isn't even ...ced that Sunday night is such a great deal either, ... you are slugging it down free at a frat party, ...ee on tap is never a bargain.

... for a great show — the Red Dog. For the ladies, we ...fer you a guy who is not only an easily manipulated ..., but who can also adjust the bands on your slipping ...atic transmission the next morning. And for the ...men, we have not only Champlain College's Beaver ..., but also a few beer-bellied, Green Bay Packer reject ...ckers to scuffle with. You can certainly try the Red ... but this week we can guarantee you won't like it.

...entary — Bar War I

...ll, folks, the secret is out. At least, it is partially out. ...over is blown. The beans are spilled. Somebody sang. ... knew it would be tough to maintain anonymity with ...this operation like ours. We tried. But, like our ...dent, we have learned that friendship is not security. ...ave more John Deans than he. The old local adage ...ns true: "If you fart in front of Billings, they'll ...atulate you at Gutterson fifteen minutes later."

...e situation reached a critical point this past weekend. ... Favorite Critics entered one local bar and were ...ed with "Whadyagonnasayaboutus?" Later and ...here, someone suggested, "Hope you crucify the ...?" In case you're wondering, there is no bar called ... We don't wish to serve as a vehicle for ...mitting one bar's opinion of another. Perfectly clear, ...er pax?

...owly, isn't it? We go out to get drunk and we find ...elves confronted with a problem in journalistic ethics. ... thing you know, the columnists will be getting ...ymous late-night phone calls hinting at the behavior of ...ain waiters and bartenders. Next, civilains (people who ...'t work in bars) will be hired to place electronic ...dropping equipment in the drainboards and lavatories ...eral bars. Any spy caught would be forced to drink five ...les of Ten-High bourbon chased by ten cases of ...year old Narragansett in one sitting. Sabotage is next — ...eral bars would find their plumbing destroyed by suicide ...bs flushing cherry bombs down toilets in the true ...chool tradition. (If a bar needs anything beside a beer ... it's a toilet.) Soon, the inevitable escalation of ...ilities, one bar is raided during a relaxed period. Happy ...r. Juke boxes and pinball machines are blown up. ...rch St. is all shell holes. Chivas Regal molotovs are ...ular, scotch is cheaper than Super Shell. The smaller ... form an alliance and search for a latter-day Scipio ...anus.

...hen one day, some smart-ass opens up a malt shop so ...lesome that it makes "American Graffiti" look like ...e Exorcist." All the load-ups start flocking to it; the ... are abandoned. The Bar War has ended with ...lesomeness triumphant by default.

...he moral of this fable is that anyone having an idea of ... identities should forget they know us, lest their future ... one of seeing whatever apocalyptic visions can be ...ured up under the influence of three chocolate egg ...nes.

...ming Attractions:

...or all you fans of classics. The Bar Review will ...otate Scylla and Cahrybdis next week.

...ope For Christianity . . .

...ntinued from page one)

...umed "if any man come ...to you speaking another ...spel let him be accursed." ...e Reverend commented ...at his Burlington ...peronism was the most ...xciting of his Day of Hope ...ur.

"The future according to ...ev Moon depends on man ...d his ability to accept or ...ject the New Messiah. The New Messiah will be most effective if the Christian world unites with the free world to accept the will of God. "The time of the coming of the lord is near. We cannot afford to make another mistake. God sent me to America to speak up." The audience was left to entertain the provocative question as to whether Reverend Moon himself is the New Messiah.

St. Anslem's Sponsors Seminar

'Jesus Is Lord'

"Jesus is Lord" would perhaps be one of the simplest ways to sum up the essence of the Christian faith. So profoundly simple, yet just as complex. While there is much to this thing we call Christianity, one of the major foci of the religion is that of salvation -- the atonement. For Christians, this means that it is through Jesus Christ that men are saved from their sins.

Beginning this Sunday, February 24th at 7:30 p. m., in the Common Room, St. Anselms Chapel will sponsor a five part seminar series entitled "Is Jesus Christ the Only Way?". The purpose of the seminar will be to try to shed some light on some of the questions just raised concerning salvation, especially as related to the person of Jesus Christ. Part I of the series this Sunday will be an introductory session led by Chaplain Odie. It will be followed the following weeks with a presentation of the fundamentalist Christian view, followed by presentation of the Judaic view, then a presentation of the ideas found in the Far Eastern religions, and universalist Christian view.

There will be guest speakers for each of the seminars. Is Jesus Christ the only way? Turn to St. Anselm's Sunday for some thought provoking discussion on the matter.

Freshmen Applications...

(continued from page one)

and hold its student size. He explained that next year's freshman class will not be larger than this year's.

Steele said that he does not like the proposed one hundred dollar increase which would push the out-of-state tuition up to $2,600, but if it is necessary to keep up the present quality of faculty, he would condone it. He added that applications and thus ability of incoming students would remain high only if UVM sustained its present faculty and subsequent academic quality. When a school's academic excellence and reputation slacks off, Steele stated, so do applications. Thus the school lowers its standards and becomes less selective resulting in an overall unhealthy academic picture.

Discussing signs that the drop out rate may be down this year, Steele explained that in a depression and other hard times the tendency is for students to stay in school, knowing that a degree would be necessary in the increasingly competitive job market.

Speculating why UVM is drawing more of its share of candidates than comparable schools in the Boston area, Steele felt that the big city experience is not as appealing as it used to be. Burlington's unique size and location is more attractive than ever to the prospective student.

Trustees Approve Snelling--

(continued from page one)

fos the College of Engineering Mathematics and Business Administration. The board also unanimously approved the new criteria for tenure.

Under the Finance and Budget report, the trustees heard recent proposals for the upcoming budget. The budget will be based on 7,400 students and a $100 increase in out-of-state tuition. There will also be an eight per cent faculty and staff pay increase. President Andrews also commented that the attrition rate for students was down from twelve per cent to eight per cent.

The board also voted on an increase of $15,000 for the organ for the music center. The grand total for the organ is now $105,000. They also voted to accept $1,160,000 in grants and $200,000 in gifts. An increase in the dorm fund key from $1 to $5.

In a deacussion on Financial aid it was stated that federal and state grant aid and work study monies should be up significantly as part of the trend toward financing the student instead of the institution. Andrews, however, commented that this will hurt the middle income because of the increased costs and the fact they don't receive much aid because of their status.

Three trustees retired including board chairperson Bingham Humphreys. The board offered a statement of appreciation for the many years of service he has rendered to the board and UVM.

APEX Approach...

(continued from page ten)

considers it "a good experience and different from a 'normal' classroom."

"It's tough to keep one's own ideas and still work with the existing elementary ideas. It is important to get new ideas in and yet not come across as a radical or something," Hank admitted.

Another Apex student, Eileen Jones, commented, "The kids are taking the initiative -- if they want to learn about an area and it's not being taught, it is up to them to do something about it.

"Part of last semester involved field experiences; another part... was the setting up of family groups. Students got together in teams of five or six, headed by a faculty member. Two family groups went into the schools on a rotating basis."

"This semester, the concept is changing. The family groups are being set up by students. They discuss problems in schools, areas of interest, and so forth. The faculty participate as members but not as leaders.

Apex is set up encompassing a block of time from 1 to 4 p.m. three days a week in a workshop situation (plus one full day per week in an elementary school). Apex students are now involved in Thayer, Shelburne, Chamberlain, and Poker Hill (Underhill) Schools, and the Children's School near Cliffside. Hank Schneider described a typical day at Thayer School, and the setup there.

"It's a lot of observing. One full day is spent in the classroom. Three or four hours are spent helping the teacher as an aide; I would go down to the teachers' room, talk with them about the school, the kids, the programs. I'd get a feeling of what the teaching are like."

"I spent one day working with the kids' programs. Kids teach teachers, also. They take people down to the learning center and show them how to make these belts out of yarn.

"They have open classrooms. They don't have grades, but rather levels; for example, an age level of 6-7-8. There are level sheets for math and language arts which indicate ability in these areas."

Apex is not planning to expand the number of participants next fall; there will be, however, 60 students altogether, even though they will be two different classes. There are not enough facilities for expansion; students also felt that if there were as many as 100 people "it would be much harder to get ideas across."

In a final accolade to the Apex program, Eileen Jones said:

"It might attract someone that's just sick and tired of going into a classroom, sitting at a desk for 50 minutes, taking notes and going home. Most education courses require participation. But, you go to the schools on your own and you don't talk it over with anyone. It's a real shocker to go in and not really have an idea of what to do.

"Apex lessens the shock between the learning concepts and the actual teaching. I don't think you realize what happens until you get there. You are suddenly a co-ordinator of 30-40 kids. When you take a separate classes they are all disjointed and never integrated. Apex strives for the goal of presenting to the student the idea that all these courses are related; they all just fit in."

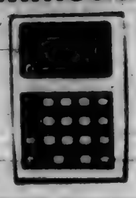
Apex -- American Primary Experimental Program. It presents a new approach to primary school teaching. It says in effect, "Don't tell me, show me."

Pioneer SONY Teac Sherwood

1/2 PRICE SALE

Sale Ends Mon., Feb. 25

Commodore



Minuteman 3

CALCULATOR

$39.95

Portable with Constant.
— Features —
- Full Eight Digit Capacity
- Four Function Addition, Subtraction, Multiplication and Division
- Floating Decimal
- Automatic Clear Entry (erasing) Key
- Constant Application
- Automatic Credit Balance
- Chain and Mixed Calculations

Commodore

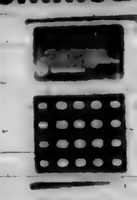
Minuteman 3M Rechargeable

CALCULATOR

$69.95

AC/DC Portable with Adapter
— Features —
- True Memory eight digit capacity (99999999.)
- Percent Key, addition, subtraction, multiplication and division
- Automatic clear entry (erasing) key
- Constant application with memory
- Automatic credit balance
- Chain and mixed calculations
- Floating decimal

Commodore



Minuteman 3 SR Rechargeable
Square Root

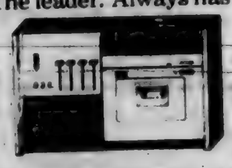
CALCULATOR

$59.95

AC/DC With Adapter
— Features —
- Square Root
- Eight digit capacity (99999999.)
- Addition, subtraction, multiplication and division
- Instant square root, Automatic clear entry (erasing) key
- Automatic credit balance, Raise figure to power
- Chain and mixed calculations
- Automatic floating decimal

TEAC.

The leader. Always has been.



Save $115

1/2 Price

1/2 PRICE on Complete Teac 220 Cassette Deck

Regular Fair Traded Price $229.50
Limited Quantities

$115.00

— Features —
- Finger Tip Operation
- Headphone & Microphone
- All silicon transistorized phone jacks
- Solid State Preamps
- Precision Drive Mechanism

BE SURE TO VISIT OUR NEW FOUR CHANNEL ROOM IN THE ESSEX JUNCTION STORE

1/2 Price PIONEER SALE

PIONEER SX-828
AM-FM Stereo Receiver
★ 60-60 RMS Power Per Ch.

PIONEER SX-727
AM-FM Stereo Receiver
★ 40-40 Watt RMS● Per Ch.

Was $499.95

$250

YOU PAY HALF PRICE ON EITHER GREAT RECEIVER WHEN PURCHASED WITH ANY OF THE FOLLOWING TURNTABLES AND SPEAKERS SYSTEMS.

Was $399.95

$200

J.B.L., ADVENT, LAFAYETTE, BOSE, ESS, BSR, DUAL-MIRICORD, GARRARD

Scotch C-60 1/2 Price

Low Noise Reg. $2.99

$1.50 ea.

Limit 10 per customer. Coupon

SUPEREX HEADPHONES

1/2 Price

$29.95

Pro B-V

Reg. 59.95

SONY TC-824CS

Quadradial/Stereo 8-Track Cartridge Playback System

1/2 Price $150 Reg. $300.00

Features: Speaker balance controls • Master volume control • Tone control • Automatic or manual program selection • Program indicator lamps • Bass boost button • Function selection • Phono and auxiliary inputs • Rosewood cabinets.

Superscope A-225 Solid-State Stereo Integrated Amplifier

NEW VALUE-PACKED LEADER FROM SUPERSCOPE

1/2 Price $39.95 Limited Reg. $79.95

FEATURES:
- Magnetic Phono Inputs
- Separate Bass and Treble Controls
- Speed Source Selector for TUNER, PHONO, TAPE & AUX
- Stereo Headphone Jack
- Sophisticated Overcurrent Protector for Output Transistors and Associated Circuits
- Rich Walnut-Grained Cabinet

5-yr. warranty
2 Sherwood Woodstock Air Suspension SPEAKERS
$120

½ Price

$60.00 pair

Limited Quantities

IF ANY ABOVE SALE ITEMS WERE PURCHASED WITHIN LAST 90 DAYS BRING IN SALES SLIP WE WILL REFUND DIFFERENCE

Lafayette RADIO ELECTRONICS

Listen to us, you can't go wrong.

• 157 Pearl St., Essex Jct.
• 370 Shelburne Rd. • Barre-Montpelier Road

Apex Presents New Approach To Teaching

by Margo Howland

In the fall of 1973 the American Primary Experimental Program (Apex) of the Teaching Learning Specialties Area in the College of Education and Social Services began its first active semester at the University of Vermont.

"Apex is a two-year program, basically geared towards juniors in the College of Education who are very much interested in primary school teaching," said Professor Charlie Rathbone. Professor Rathbone and Professor Frank Watson are the coordinators of the program.

Apex is different from other primary (kindergarten through grade four) educational programs in that students not only learn the basic skills of teaching but also understand the operation of a school system, how best to utilize the efficiency of a school, and how to help children learn in the most natural way, by integrating the similarity of the subject matter.

"It is very important for students to have a variety of experiences in various elementary schools," Professor Rathbone continued. "Apex asks the question, how are elementary schools similar and how are they different? What are the sources of power in the school? What about the effectiveness of the teacher in dealing with the school system?"

The first semester consists of spending four weeks in each of three elementary schools with an appropriate period of time to further understand this experience. Usually a student at this stage would spend time working with the primary school children and talking with the school secretary, the principal and other individuals. The student becomes accustomed to knowing what to look for in a school and, Professor Rathbone emphasized, how to get things done.

During this in-depth study of the operation of a school system, the student formulates a concept of what the system is, what goals to strive for, and whether to remain in the Apex program.

The second semester is described as "an intensive study of curriculum from an integrated frame of reference." Students take at least twelve hours of method courses. "Here we approach the curriculum in one block," Professor Rathbone explained. "What Apex is trying to do is to look at subject areas like math, reading, language arts and see what the similarities are. The process is to approach these as things to be integrated. what we know about classification has influence in how a child learns to read, count; how a child looks at the world.

"Also, students spend at least one full day with them in each school – bringing what they have learned in their classes into actual practice with children. We are trying to deal with at least four different methods courses in one semester. Here we work with the schools and apply these methods into the curriculum and see what can be done with it."

The third semester is a 16 week student teaching experience. Hopefully this will be done with a school that students have already worked with.

The final semester is a three-hour seminar course in trying to put together this experience, consolidating strengths, remedying weaknesses, and making improvements.

"Along with the student teaching," Professor Rathbone continued, "there could be a weekly meeting with the regular teachers and the Apex student, dealing with problems, sharing ideas, and organizing curricula for the following year of Apex.

Apex is looking for interested students to participate in this learning and teaching experience. There are now 30 students, all with varied interests, enrolled in the program and about 15 applicants for next fall. Professor Rathbone indicated a "tremendous need for male teachers." A freshman or sophomore who hadn't made a commitment to a major could apply. Students can join the program up to their junior year.

Students seem to be very pleased with the progress of the Apex program and have indicated that constructive changes and improvements have taken place.

Hank Schneiderm an Apex student, was attracted by the freedom of the program. He

(continued on page nine)

Going To Shelburne ? Try Riding The Bus

By Carol Dufault

The Champlain Valley Transportation Company, Inc., housed in office space at 191 North Street, has provided transportation to rural areas of Vermont since 1969. Fixed route busing was abandoned by the company in 1972 because very few people took advantage of the service. It was replaced by operation on the basis of contracts and charters, and at present, The Headstart Program is the major contractor who utilizes the bus service regularly.

Realizing the cost of operating a private automobile is rising daily, Chris Keelty, Project Director of C.V.T.C. said, "We are now in the process of expanding our services in an attempt to offer people living in the rural areas an alternative means of transportation."

In December, four thousand questionnaires were mailed to residents of Huntington, Richmond, Shelburne, and Williston to determine how many people would utilize a bus service if a fixed route was initiated in each town. Much to the amazement of the transportation company, over one thousand persons responded by returning questionnaires, and an equal number expressed their views through telephone calls.

With enthusiasm and determination, officials chose Shelburne as a target area and designed a fixed route including sixteen designated bus stops. A one month trial period began during the second week of January. Despite the fact that over 200 residents of Shelburne responded positively to the concept of a fixed bus route, the first two weeks of operation yielded only ten passengers daily. As a direct result, Champlain Valley Transportation Company lost an estimated $500 for each week of operation.

According to Keelty, "The original trial period was too short, and it was extended to February 28." Because the company has no money for an advertising budget, it relys entirely on free publicity. The Burlington Free Press, WCAX-TV, and WJOY carried feature stories on the implementation of the Shelburne-Burlington route, and as a result, passenger fare increased to 20-25 persons daily. Schedule alterations resulted in more runs from Shelburne to Burlington during the morning hours, and more Burlington-Shelburne runs later in the day. The co-operativeness of the company even included delivering passengers to their exact destination, provided it was not "too far out of the way."

However the company is still disappointed with the small number of fares and would gladly welcome an additional 1,000 persons weekly. Plans are underway to conduct a forum with the people of Shelburne to explain to them that "If they don't use the buses, the fixed route concept won't work." If no improvement in passenger fare is noticable by February 28, the Shelburne bus run will be cancelled. Concrete assurance in the form of passengers is needed, and Chris added, "Now or never!"

In view of the present "gasoline shortage," Chris explains that it is nearly impossible to run busses on weekends. Although mass transportation is supposed to be given some priority in the allocation of gas, Champlain Valley Transportation Company is too small to own its own pumps, and must rely on fuel available at local gas stations. A special provision may be enforced to allow that gas station which the company deals with to receive special allocations for mass transit use; however at present, no special provision exists.

Chris praised the efforts of the State Department and Forrest Orr's Department for their efforts to maintain adequate gas supplies in Vermont, but he added that the concept of allocating fuel is new for the government. The government is feeling its way through the "crisis" the same as the consumer, in effect, "The government doesn't know what it is doing, but the oil companies do!"

While the government is working on ways to allocate gasoline, Champlain Valley Transportation Company is working on ways to provide bus service to dedicated customers. Buses used by the company are new Dodge vans designed to carry fourteen passengers, and they are easily recognizable by hand painted signs in the rear windows. If the people of Shelburne are sincere about their desire to have accessible bus transportation, it is imperative that fares increase substantially within the next two weeks. Cost of riding the bus varies according to zones: 1. South to the La Platte River—$.70, 2. From the La Platte River to Harbor Hide-Away —$.60, 3. From the Harbor Hide-Away to Shelburne town line is $.50.

Sisco's Side Of The Story

by Bruce Maddern

In the unfolding story about last year's freshman register Bill Sisco discussed the facts surrounding his involvement with the publication of the book last summer. Due to the Senate's and Heller's lack of interest Sisco felt he should have done it just to have a book. Sisco also claimed that although he didn't have written confirmation, he did have verbal confirmation from the frats concerning the ads. He also stated that S. A. and the Greek Houses are not liable, at least technically.

Starting from the very beginning, Sisco said that he really didn't want to do the register again. He had done it the year before and consequently asked the Senate and Sig Heller if they would take over command but, according to Sisco, no one responded. Using the rationale that having a register is better than no register, Sisco undertook the venture once again – this time, however, for profit. He felt he wasn't about to spend all that time for nothing as he had the year before.

Since it had been considered one of the best, if not the best, freshman register in the country, Sisco tried once again, to make it even better. However, summer rolled around and the Greek fraternities were all but empty. Sisco said he had to chase them from Europe to Alaska to get confirmation of the ads. He claims he received verbal confirmations at least for the vast majority of the houses. Actual legal confirmation in the form of written contracts could not be obtained.

The various alumni and faculty advisors refused to sign for the contracts on the grounds that they were not authorized to do so. The year before they did sign but only decided by special vote and permission of the fraternities. The confirmation couldn't be obtained. Sisco then sent in the layout for the register without the ads from the fraternities. He stated that if the Greeks didn't care, he "wasn't gonna care." However, the publisher asked that they be sent anyway and "if they don't pay, it won't be a real loss" as the book doesn't need the advertising at UVM.

The book was then published with the ads in question. Bills were sent to the fraternities and sororities. There is some question as to Sisco's contact with any of the sororities about the ads. Because they were not legally bound, all but two have refused to pay.

Sisco said that neither S. A. nor the Greeks are going to have to pay for it if they don't want to. Sisco, however, is looking for records of his telephone call with each of the fraternities. Sisco claimed he only wanted to fulfill the committments he thought he made to the Greeks and also, hopefully, to better the failing Greek situation on campus.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY SALE AT THE royal christy SALE

"Burlington's Specialty Ski Shop"

SKIS

REG.		NOW
$100	Fischer Coverglass	$70
$185	Lange G. S.	$129.50
$150	Lange L.C.	$120.00
$185	Lange S. L.	$138.75
$155	Olin Mark I	$124.00
$189	Olin Mark II	$122.85
$175	Olin Mark III	$131.25
$175	Olin Mark IV	$122.50
$80	Volkl Methodic 80	$48.00
$100	Volkl Racer Jr.	$50.00
$85	Volkl Targa Jr.	$51.00
All Dynastar Skis		20% off

BINDINGS

REG.		NOW
$70	Salomon 505	$45.50
$70	Salomon 502	$45.50
$49.95	Salomon 444	$39.00
$30	Salomon 101	$24.00
$68	Look Grand Prix	$54.40
$48	Look Nevatic	$38.40
$40	Look G. T.	$32.00
$40	Look Jr.	$28.00

If new skis aren't in your budget, remember we have the finest refinishing service you can get.

BOOTS

REG.		NOW
$180	Lange Banshee	$144.00
$150	Lange Phantom	$105.00
$130	Lange Demon	$91.00
$185	Nordica Olympic	$120.25
$160	Nordica Slalom	$112.00
$145	Nordica Racer	$72.50
$120	Nordica Pro	$90.00
$100	Nordica Mercury	$68.00
$60	Nordica Elegance	$40.00
$45	Nordica Alpine	$32.00

ANY COMBINATION OF X-COUNTRY BOOTS, SKIS, POLES AND BINDINGS PURCHASED AS A PACKAGE 20% OFF | Cross Country Equipment 15% OFF

"Our quality and service have not been reduced"

Royal Christy Within the SKI shop Inc. SHELBURNE RD. 862-7472

The royal christy 388 Shelburne Rd

Royal Christy Within the SKI shop Inc. SHELBURNE RD. 862-7472

the BIG SALE

item no. 18: a truly high power system

FOR THOSE WHO THOUGHT THEY COULDN'T AFFORD ONE. THE STUDIOCRAFT 440, WITH WIDE-DISPERSION TWEETER ARRAY, HANDLES WITHOUT STRAIN THE 100 HONEST WATTS PER CHANNEL OF THE INTEGRAL SYSTEMS MODEL 200 POWER AMPLIFIER. THE PRE-AMP IS THE ULTRA QUIET, ULTRA CLEAN INTEGRAL MODEL 10, AND AN ELAC/MIRACORD 750 II AUTOMATIC TURNTABLE WITH DYNAMICALLY BALANCED PLATTER WEIGHING OVER SEVEN POUNDS, AND AN ARM THAT CAN TRACK AT ½ GRAM, COMPLETES THE SYSTEM (BASE, COVER, EMPIRE 999PE/X INCLUDED). THE LIST PRICE ON THIS MAGNIFICENT COMBINATION IS $1245. THIS WEEK ONLY:

$900.

tech hifi

FEBRUARY 21, 1974

Gene Nelson, Perry B

Three UVM Student... Funds For Spec...

by Rick Steinberg

To most people walking one block in the rain is an excessive burden. But to three UVM students, running 42.16 miles in a downpour was a gratifying experience.

This past December Perry Bove, Mike Brace, and Gene Nelson ran from Middlebury to Burlington in an effort to raise funds for the Vermont Special Olympics. Following their 8 hour 42 minute run the three UVM students went to local merchants in an attempt to collect donations. Thus far they have received several hundred dollars with money still coming in.

The Vermont Special Olympics were established through the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation several years ago. Since then its growth has been tremendous. It has branched out to every state in the nation.

The Special Olympics were brought to Vermont in 1968 by the Vermont Jaycees. Each year the organization sponsors state-wide games to give mentally retarded individuals a chance to compete and develop themselves physically.

The organization has also developed county-wide clinics and established teams throughout the state. With greater involvement, the program can be involve a great individuals. "We get people in the to coach teams clinics," said Driscoll, who is of the program.

Brace, Bove came up with the on impulse. It time and the contribute worthwhile ca originally plann Rutland, but Bove had att the distance a bit too tiring. UVM physic majors decided Middlebury.

Without plans, and de for a three they headed n the morning in the pourin precipitation until the Burlington.

The run radio and p were given c Along the w and Nelson by numerous

Despite the course and Women's ... For Sp...

by Melanie Choukas

The UVM's Women's Caucus is making tentative plans for a Women's Week in the spring. Gerry Bellush, head of the caucus' student affairs committee, led a discussion to air ideas for the week, at the noon-time February 13 meeting.

Bringing a woman speaker of national prominence to the UVM campus was suggested to highlight the week. Also discussed were possible themes for the week. Two dramatic proposals made were a study of the way academic departments deal with the discrimination against women within their ranks, and the consciousness of female students.

The creation of a week-long vi... center was would serve ... of freeing co... to attend functions, demonstrati... permanent ... the UVM ca...

Julie ... president ... Caucus, re... outside inte... group. She...

SUMMER JOBS

...ys & Gals needed for summer ...ployment at National Parks, ...vate Camps, Dude Ranches and ...orts throughout the nation. ...er 80,000 students aided each ...ar. For FREE information on ...dent assistance program send ...f-addressed STAMPED enve... to Opportunity Research, ...pt. SJO, 55 Flathead Drive, ...lispell, MT 59901. YOU MUST APPLY EARLY.

DUNHAM'S campus boots MAZEL'S SHOE STORE 100 North Street

STUDY IN GUADELAJARA, MEXICO

Fully accredited University of Arizona GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL offers July 1 – August 10, 1974 courses in ESL, bilingual education, Spanish, anthropology, art, folk dance and folk music, geography, government and history. Tuition $170; room and board in Mexican home $215. For brochure write: International Programs, #13, New Psychology, University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona 85721.

?
ng The Bus

20-25 persons alterations are runs from Burlington
morning hours.
Burlington Shel-
ier in the day
presence of the men ... attended workers to their on, provided it far out of the e company is ated with the

of fares and welcome an
,000 persons are underway
Transit with the Shelburne to m that "If they buses, the fixed won't work."

provement in is noticeable by the Shelburne be cancelled.
surance in the engers is needed,
dded, "Now or of the present portage." Chris ) it is nearly run buses on Although mass is supposed to e priority in the gas, Champlain Transportation too small to own ps, and must rely able at local gas

special provision forced to allow

that the station which the company deals with to receive special allocations for mass transit use; however at present, no special provision exists.

Chris praised the efforts of the State Department and Forest Orr's Department for their efforts to maintain adequate gas supplies in Vermont, but he added that the concept of allocating fuel is new for the government. The government is feeling its way through the "crisis" the same as the consumer. In effect, "The government doesn't know what it is doing, but the oil companies do."

While the government is working on ways to allocate gasoline, Champlain Valley Transportation Company is working on ways to provide bus service to [illegible] customers. Buses used by the company are new Dodge vans designed to carry fourteen passengers and they are easily recognizable by hand painted signs in the rear windows. If the people of Shelburne are sincere about their desire to have accessible bus transportation, it is imperative that fares increase substantially within the next two weeks. Cost of riding the bus varies according to zones: 1. South to the La Platte River—$.20, 2. From the La Platte River to Harbor Hide-Away—$.60, 3. From the Harbor Hide-Away to Shelburne town line is $.50.

's Side Of The Story

ce Maddern

unfolding story year's freshmen
Sisco discussed surrounding his
with the
of the book last e to the Senate's lack of interest
he should have to have a book.
claimed that e didn't have formation, he did al confirmation-
ets concerning the stated that S. A.
ek Houses are not
t technically from the very Sisco said that he t want to do the n. He had done it before and y asked the Sig Heller if they over command
ding to Sisco, no nded. Using the that having a better than no
sco undertook the nce again — this ever, for profit. He n't about to spend

e for nothing as he ar before.

It had been one of the best if best freshman the country. Sisco again, to make it better. However, rolled around and fraternities were all
y. Sisco said he had them from Europe to get confirmation ods. He claims he received verbal confirmations at least for the vast majority of the houses. Actual legal confirmation in the form of written contracts could not be obtained.

The various alumni and faculty advisors refused to sign for the contracts on the grounds that they were not authorized to do so. The year before they did sign but only decided by special vote and permission of the fraternities.

The confirmation couldn't be obtained. Sisco then sent in the layout for the register without the ads from the fraternities. He stated that if the Greeks didn't care, he "wasn't gonna care." However, the publisher asked that they be sent anyway and "if they don't pay, it won't be a real loss" as the book doesn't need the advertising at UVM.

The book was then published with the ads in question. Bills were sent to the fraternities and sororities. There is some question as to Sisco's contact with any of the sororities about the ads. Because they were not legally bound, all but two have refused to pay.

Sisco said that neither S. A. nor the Greeks are going to have to pay for it if they don't want to. Sisco, however, is looking for records of his telephone call with each of the fraternities. Sisco claimed he only wanted to fulfill the commitments he thought he made to the Greeks and also, hopefully, to better the failing Greek situation on campus.

the
IG SALE

tem no. 18:
truly high ower system

FOR THOSE WHO THOUGHT THEY COULDN'T
ORD ONE. THE STUDIOCRAFT 440, WITH WIDE-ERSION TWEETER ARRAY, HANDLES WITHOUT AIN THE 100 HONEST WATTS PER CHANNEL OF INTEGRAL SYSTEMS MODEL 200 POWER AMPLI-
THE PRE-AMP IS THE ULTRA QUIET, ULTRA CLEAN
GRAL MODEL 10, AND AN ELAC/MIRACORD 750
UTOMATIC TURNTABLE WITH DYNAMICALLY
ANCED PLATTER WEIGHING OVER SEVEN POUNDS,
AN ARM THAT CAN TRACK AT ½ GRAM, COM-ES THE SYSTEM (BASE, COVER, EMPIRE 999PE/X LUDED). THE LIST PRICE ON THIS MAGNIFICENT RMATION IS $1245. THIS WEEK ONLY:

$900.

ech hifi

Gene Nelson, Perry Bove, Mike Brace

Three UVM Students Run To Raise Funds For Special Olympics

by Rick Steinberg

To most people walking one block in the rain is an excessive burden. But to three UVM students, running 41.5 miles in a downpour was a gratifying experience.

This past December Perry Bove, Mike Brace, and Gene Nelson ran from Middlebury to Burlington in an effort to raise funds for the Vermont Special Olympics. Following their 8 hour 42 minute run the three UVM students went to local merchants in an attempt to collect donations. Thus far they have received several hundred dollars with money still coming in.

The Vermont Special Olympics were established through the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation several years ago. Since then its growth has been tremendous. It has branched out to every state in the nation.

The Special Olympics were brought to Vermont in 1968 by the Vermont Jaycees. Each year the organization sponsors state-wide games to give mentally retarded individuals a chance to compete and develop themselves physically.

The organization has also developed county-wide clinics and established teams throughout the state. With greater community involvement, the scope of the program can be expanded to involve a greater number of individuals. "We're trying to get people in the community to coach teams and conduct clinics," stated Frank Driscoll, who is the chairman of the program.

Brace, Bove, and Nelson came up with their idea to make the 40 mile run purely on impulse. It was Christmas time and they wanted to contribute to some worthwhile cause. They had originally planned to begin in Rutland, but a year earlier, Bove had attempted to run the distance and found it a bit too tiring. Thus, the three UVM physical education majors decided to begin in Middlebury.

Without well-developed plans, and despite a forecast for a three inch snowfall, they headed north at two in the morning. The run began in the pouring rain and the precipitation did not let up until they reached Burlington.

The run was covered by radio and periodic reports were given on their progress. Along the way Brace, Bove, and Nelson were cheered on by numerous citizens.

Despite the length of their course and the inclement weather they were only tempted to abandon the run at one point. A long extended hill outside of Charlotte was almost too much. But with determination and the importance of the cause in mind the three runners were able to make it all the way to City Hall in Burlington.

Due to the favorable reaction to their run, there are plans to organize another marathon next fall. Hopefully, a relay event will be set up stretching from the Vermont-Massachusetts border extending across the state up to the Canadian border.

With greater time to plan, and greater publicity, next fall's event could raise a few thousand dollars for an extremely worthwhile cause.

Initially, they had a modest goal of raising $200 in mind. But the response to their efforts has been tremendous. They have received contributions not only from merchants but students as well. Any individual interested in donating can contact either Bove, Brace, or Nelson, or write for further information to Vermont Special Olympics, Box 3121, Burlington, Vermont.

Salmon . . .

(continued from page one)

On Monday, Governor Salmon announced that he had cancelled the rationing plan because of "both massive misunderstanding of the plan and its purposes and because of strong evidence of the unwillingness by a substantial number of gas stations to comply."

Salmon, speaking at UVM, further recommended that those drivers who had at least half a tank of gas in their cars stay away from the gas lines. There will be a $2 minimum sale except in hardship cases. The individual dealer will decide what precisely is a "hardship case." Salmon added that this plan is "entirely voluntary" and that "nothing is irrevocably locked. We welcome new input to work out the rough edges."

He commended Vermont as number one in the nation in terms of volume energy conservation. Since last fall, "energy has saved 15 per cent, while the national average is only 1.9 per cent.

Salmon discussed the historical aspects of the energy crisis, reflecting that "Many Americans fundamentally don't believe that an energy crisis exists." He feels that the problem has been augmented over the years by complacency and by the lack of any real governmental policy. "Up until a few months ago, this republic didn't have any policy. Warnings were ignored... but how do you get people interested in an energy crisis when the supply is plentiful and the price is low?" Salmon, commenting that he received his B.A. in history, traced the energy supply problem from the days of Franklin Roosevelt's administration. Salmon's main thesis was that our society has become too dependent on the internal combustion engine. He hopes that the lessening of automobile use will bring people closer together through more sharing and interaction.

Following his speech, Salmon answered questions from the audience. Questions ranged from his opinion of nuclear power plants to the "Philosophy Four" situation. Salmon stated, in response to the latter question, that he did not wish to comment on an issue that was unfamiliar to him. A few highlights of the question-answer period were his disclosure that he did not favor legislation of marijuana and Salmon's reluctance to comment on his own political future.

He called the second conflict one of financial interests between the private individual who must also act as a public servant. The congressman explained that sometimes bank directors vote on issues directly affecting banks. He regretted that these conflicts do not always coincide with general public needs.

The third conflict, one between political and public interests becomes serious when a candidate becomes indebted to an organization, he maintained. He cited the milk fund as an example.

Mallary was quick to conclude, "What degrades the political process as much as anything is when members of political parties who do not level with their constituents."

Categorizing institutional problems as another factor causing public low esteem, Mallary said that legislative inefficiency and indirectness are detrimental to public images. The legislature seldom moves until a consensus is established and "you will not have effective legislation unless you compromise," Mallary suggested.

"Government is where the action is," Mallary said.

Mallary . . .

(continued from page one)

Citing Plato and Truman by explained the reasons for involving oneself in politics. Truman once said "If you can't stand the heat in the kitchen, get out of the kitchen." Mallary did not specify whether or not he could stay in the kitchen.

Mallary did not start an open campaign for the Senate seat, but directed himself to many poignant questions.

On the basis of the data to date, Mallary said he could not vote for impeachment if the issue were to come up today. However, the congressman was unable to draw a firm line between what he called an impeachable offense and an indictable offense. He stated that the present proceedings in the judiciary committee should continue and that although the process is slow, it is the right process.

Although Mallary felt a push should be made toward solar and fusion energy, he added "It is totally unrealistic to talk about the closing down of nuclear power plants." He did not address the considerable danger of nuclear melt down. He felt "secure" with the nuclear power plants Mallary who lives on the Connecticut River admitted that he would rather see thermal pollution of the Connecticut than Lake Champlain because of the flowing of the river.

Mallary blamed the energy crisis on government policies of the 1950's and criticized government programs that encouraged foreign oil exploitation and discouraged domestic development.

As a joint introducer of the Clean Elections Act of 1973, the congressman said the Bill puts a limitation on campaign contributions by encouraging small contributions and not large ones.

"I think legalization of marijuana is going to come," Mallary predicted, but he did not support such action. Instead he said, "I think it should be decriminalized." He felt his prediction was hypocritical in supporting legalization of alcohol and not marijuana but he was not prepared to see the green stuff sitting on the shelves next to the gin.

Mallary answers all letters personally and said that he would be willing to make an appointment with anyone who wished to speak with him.

One of Mallary's concluding remarks was "I guess maybe I am old fashioned."

Budget Goes To Legislature, Reaction Favorable

by John Van Hoesen

The legislature is commending the University for their management ability, but they are opposed to a raise in in-state tuition Chairperson of the House Appropriations Committee Emery Hebard said last week.

"I am pro-University because I think the management is excellent; you can ask questions and they know," he explained. The chairperson suggested that his committee would "probably buy the governor's recommended budget." Salmon recommended a $200,000 cut in UVM's request for fiscal 1975.

Hebard continued, "Their management system is good; this is partly what is holding off the state merger plan."

Adamantly opposed to increases in Vermonter's tuition rates Hebard said, "The subsidy is to make our students get a chance." How long can the University continue to jack the tuition rate for non-residents? "Just as long as private colleges can raise their tuition," the committee spokesman stated.

Hebard felt that UVM's future budget requests would be looked upon favorably by the legislature: "If inflation continues, UVM will continue to get more, but so much depends upon whether we wander on the edge of a depression."

The House Appropriations Committee hopes to have the UVM budget request on the floor of the House by February 26, but Hebard said the budget question would not be settled before April 1.

He added that the legislature retains the request until the end of the session.

SAGA Copes With Four-Day Week

by Randy Janson

The four day week at UVM has not only posed many problems for the administration and students but also to organizations involved with UVM, including SAGA. SAGA has attempted some new methods in order to cope with the four day week.

The closing of Waterman on Mondays was the biggest headache facing SAGA. Waterman serves off-campus students and residents of Jeanne Mance. These students were confronted with the thought of walking to Living/Learning or Harris/Millis on weekends. But SAGA came up with a new plan.

Off-campus and Jeanne Mance students are allowed to use their meal tickets to get $1.35 worth of food at the Den on Sunday nights and on Monday noon and night. They must pay for any amount over $1.35 and aren't allowed seconds. SAGA is handling approximately 250 students on Sundays and Mondays on this program.

For students with special scheduling problems, SAGA has other programs. Medical students with a specially marked ticket can use the Living/Learning snack bar at any time. (Most of these students have to work very late.) Many of the other allied medical students (such as dental hygenists) are permitted to use the Given Cafeteria. Any student who has scheduling problem can see either Wessa Bullard or Fred Smith, and they'll see what can be done.

Women's Caucus Makes Plans For Springtime Women's Week

by Melanie Choukas

The UVM's Women's Caucus is making tentative plans for a Women's Week in the spring. Gerry Bellush, head of the caucus' student affairs committee, led a discussion to air ideas for the week, at the noon-time February 13 meeting.

Bringing a woman speaker of national prominence to the UVM campus was suggested to highlight the week. Also discussed were possible themes for the week. Two thematic proposals made were a study of the way academic departments deal with the discrimination against women within their fields, and the consciousness of female students.

The creation of a week-long volunteer day care center was discussed. It would serve the dual purpose of freeing community women to attend Women's Week functions, as well as demonstrating the need for a permanent day-care center on the UVM campus.

Julie Delaricheliere, president of the Women's Caucus, reported expansive outside interest in the UVM group. She has been in contact with one of the authors of the Boston publication Our Bodies, Ourselves and with Karen Kent, chairperson of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, who plans to speak to a caucus gathering in the near future. Despite growing interest in the caucus, it is still not recognized by the administration as an official group. Ms. Delaricheliere stressed the importance of drafting a constitution as a statement of purpose.

The next caucus meeting will be held either Feb. 27 or 28 at noon in the president's dining room, Waterman. The exact date will be announced. The caucus urges all interested persons, faculty, staff, and students, female and male, to attend.

SUMMER JOBS

Guys & Gals needed for summer employment at National Parks, Private Camps, Dude Ranches and Resorts throughout the nation. Over 50,000 students aided each year. For FREE information on student assistance program send self-addressed STAMPED envelope to Opportunity Research, Dept. SJO, 55 Flathead Drive, Kalispell, MT 59901.
YOU MUST APPLY EARLY....

DUNHAM'S
campus
boots
HAZEL'S SHOE STORE
106 North Winooski

STUDY IN GUADELAJARA, MEXICO
Fully accredited University of Arizona GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL offers July 1 — August 10, 1974 courses in ESL, bilingual education, Spanish, anthropology, art, folk dance and folk music, geography, government and history. Tuition $170; room and board in Mexican home $215. For brochure write: International Programs, 413 Nov Psychology, University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona 85721.

LUXURY LOOKS in SPORT SHIRTS
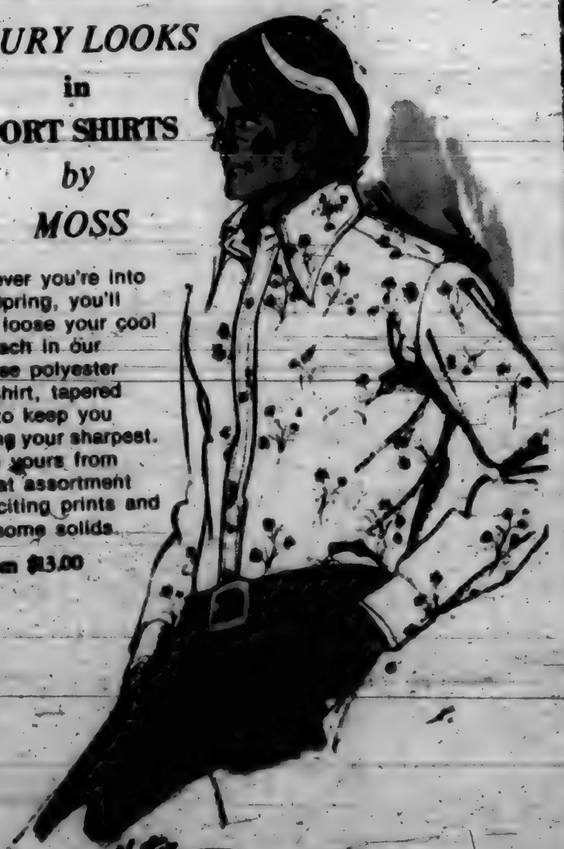
by
MOSS

Whatever you're into this Spring, you'll never loose your cool approach in our carefree polyester knit shirt, tapered lean to keep you looking your sharpest. Catch yours from a great assortment of exciting prints and handsome solids.

from $13.00



The Connection
1-5 Church Street Vermont's Largest Men's Clothiers

TRADE ONE TOUGH SUMMER FOR TWO GREAT YEARS

ENROLL IN THE ARMY ROTC TWO YEAR PROGRAM

Jack Schmidt did, and now he's receiving valuable training in leadership and management to prepare him for the responsibilities of a commissioned officer. He also receives an allowance of $100 each month of the school year until graduation.

So did Steve Emerson. Steve won a Two Year ROTC Scholarship which is paying for full tuition, books, and related educational expenses plus his $100 each month during the school year until graduation.

Pre-Med Psychology Major. Founder and first Director of Operations for UVM Rescue. Graduated Outstanding Cadet of his unit at ROTC Basic Camp. "I joined the ROTC Two Year Program because ROTC is providing me with the experience of dealing with people in stress situations that will enhance my future career."

Engineering Major. Two Year ROTC Scholarship winner. Ranked high in his graduating class at ROTC Basic Camp. "With my engineering education and the challenge and training that ROTC presents, I feel that I am preparing myself for a very rewarding career."

FOR MORE INFORMATION:
Attend our briefing on this program at the Department of Military Studies, 3rd floor, Williams Hall, Wed., Feb. 27 at 4 pm. or call 656-2966 / 2967

UVM's First Ice Show To Debut Friday

by Margo Howland

The premiere of the University of Vermont's First Annual Winter Week Ice Show will be held this weekend at Gutterson Field House, Friday, February 22 and Saturday, February 23 from 7:30 – 9:30 p.m.

The Ice Show, similar to a mini Ice-capades, will feature University students and students from the UVM Skating School, performing such numbers as "Up, Up and Away," "Hey, Big Spender," "Aquarius," "Don't Rain on my Parade," "Marching Down Broadway," and a hit song from the musical Oliver!

The three best skits from the UVM Skit Night, held February 16, will be selected to appear in the show. There will be, as an added attraction, a guest amateur skater on Saturday night.

The students involved in the show have been practicing since last semester, when Kathie Ryan, director and choreographer, first thought up the idea. Ms. Ryan, a junior at UVM, a physical education major, and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, has been skating ever since she was about three. She is rated as a professional skater and teaches skating at the UVM Skating School and at the Essex Rink.

All the costumes for the Ice Show are being made by UVM students Althea Ruland and Jean Morgan. Music is being arranged by Billy Johnstone and Duffy Miller. Susan Brooks is in charge of publicity. Judy Tetreault is in charge of courtesy tickets; Suzy Robinson is in charge of all tickets and programs.

Tickets for the First Annual Winter Week Ice Show are available at Billings Center, The University Store, Bailey's Music Store, Milk and Grears, and Valuga Sports. Admission: adults $1.50; students $1.00; children under twelve 50 cents. All proceeds will go towards a new sound system at Gutterson.

winter week

Coolidge Hall Slides To Win In Klondike Race

The University of Vermont's Post Field was the scene of the Winter Week's Klondike Race Saturday, February 16. Fifty spectators watched as teams from Coolidge, Hamilton, Davis, and Christie Halls and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity pulled makeshift sleds, each with one rider, over a half-mile course of what was mostly snow and some dirt.

Coolidge Hall edged Sig Ep with a winning time of a record three minutes and four seconds. Coolidge and Sig Ep both had sleds made from a chair on skis. Third place Davis Hall had a plastic toy boat for their entry, and fourth place winner, Hamilton Hall, had two Saga trays tied together. Christie Hall had a flying saucer.

The race was sponsored by Hamilton Hall, and prizes were distributed to the first place winner and first, second, and third runners-up, as follows:

Klondike Champions: keg of beer

First runner-up: one quarter keg

Second runner-up: tapper keg

Third runner-up: Gift certificate worth seven dollars at MacDonald's

A victory party at Coolidge Hall was held after the race.

Pi-Phi Takes The Powder

The fourth annual Powder-Puff hockey game between Pi Beta Phi and Delta Delta Delta sororities started off with a crunch this past Saturday night. Both houses were fired up and ready to hit the ice. At Pi Phi's helm was UVM hockey player Jacko Clifford with Chris Wallace at his side. Tri-Delt was coached by Gregg Batt and Joe Tatko, and officiating were UVM players Ted Child and Willie MacKinnon.

After one period of frightening forechecking and pitiful passing, scoring finally got under way, as Pi Phi's Sue Allen netted two, and Diane Batt scored Tri-Delt's first in the second period. After trailing by one, Tri-Delt rallied in the third with number two for Batt, and Pi Phi's Carol McManama scored their third goal of the evening. After a debatable call by the ref, however, McManama's goal was resoked and the game ended in sudden death, with Diane Batt completing a hat trick, ending the game 3-2, and Pi Phi's three-game winning streak.

Ski Club Sponsors Bus

"The wheels are rolling and the skis are turning" is the word from the UVM Ski Club. Last weekend some 75 students ventured up to Smuggler's Notch on the buses. The cost of the bus ride up and back is $3.00 and this is open to everyone. The buses will be leaving from Patrick Gym parking lot at 8:40 a.m. every Saturday, Sunday, and Monday. Only those students who have their ski club membership card can take advantage of the $6.00 ski lift ticket.

Remember – cards are required on the bus. If you cannot make the bus, be at the Morse Parking Lot the same time the bus is and show the student in charge the membership card and give her $6.00 for a ticket.

There will be a meeting for anyone interested in becoming a member on Tuesday, February 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Simpson Lounge. Also, this Saturday, there will be an Upper Parking Lot Party at Smuggler's Notch. At 12 a.m. on Saturday, February 23, look for a group of people in the Madonna Parking Lot.

Figi Hosts Broomball Tourney

by Margo Howland

"Play position! Hold it! AUGGHH! Nice try!"

The back yard of Phi Gamma Delta reverberated with the shouts and cheers of excited onlookers as the playoffs of the Winter Weekend Broomball Tourney got underway Sunday, February 17.

The tourney was open to all undergraduate university students, with the exception of varsity and junior varsity hockey players. The Greeks dominated the scene, as Lambda Iota, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Psi, Phi Delta Theta, Theta Chi, Phi Gamma Delta, Acacia, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Sigma Phi all put in an appearance. In the women's division, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Delta Pi, and Alpha Chi Omega all participated, along with Tupper Third which was the only women's dormitory in the contest.

Chittenden Hall, Living/Learning and Marsh Fourth were the representatives of the men's residence halls.

The tourney had been scheduled for 12 – 6 p.m. but with the unusually large, enthusiastic response, the contest was moved up to nine o'clock, and lasted well after sunset.

Broomball (for those unfamiliar to the game) is a take-off on the game of hockey – brooms are used instead of hockey sticks, an official rubber broomball (supplied by Fiji) replaces a puck, and skates, shoes with cleats, and shin guards are not allowed. The game is played with five persons (including a goalie) per team, on a broomball court, built of snow, 30 by 90 feet, with sides three feet high and a surface of hard-packed snow.

One of the Fiji's observing the game reported that it took the brothers two days to make the broomball court, and that they even had to truck in snow for the occasion!

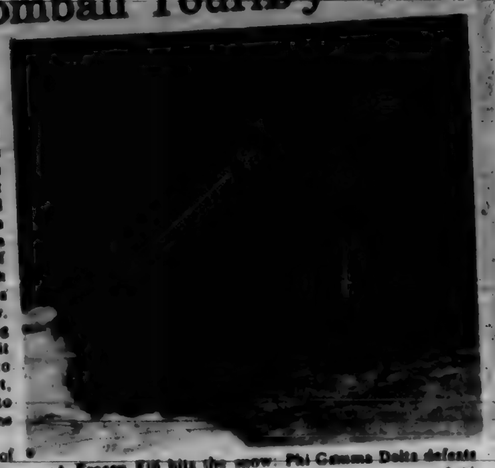
"This is not only a part of Winter Weekend – it's also served as a way to bring Greeks together," another Fiji noted.

In the first round of team playoffs, Delta Psi beat SAE, 2 – 1; Phi Delta Theta eliminated Chittenden Hall, 2 – 1; Fiji shutout Theta Chi, 10 – 0; Living/Learning defeated Acacia, 2 – 1; Alpha Chi Omega beat Alpha Delta Pi, 2 – 0; and Pi Beta Phi bested Tupper third, 4 – 3 in sudden death overtime. Lisa Kreiner scored the winning goal for the Pi Phis.

In the second round of playoffs, Delta Psi creamed Lambda Iota, 12 – 1; Pi Phi overcame Alpha Chi, 6 – 4 for the women's championship; Sig Ep defeated Sigma Phi, 2 – 1; Living/Learning trounced Marsh fourth, 6 – 1; and Fiji finished Phi Delta Theta, 6 – 2.

Sig Ep shut out Living/Learning, 1 – 0 and Fiji beat Delta Psi with the same score in the semi-finals. Fiji and Sig Ep faced off for the elimination round, and when the final whistle had blown, some twelve hours after the start of the tournament, Preston Lamberton had scored the winning goal, making Phi Gamma Delta the victor over Sigma Phi Epsilon, 4 – 3 in sudden-death overtime.

Fiji President Jeff Hayes accepted the championship trophy for the men's division, while Pi Phi's team leader, Becky Pardee, accepted the women's championship trophy. Sig Ep and Alpha Chi accepted runner-up trophies, and a door prize of a case of Schlitz was won by SAE.



A Frozen Fiji hits the snow: Phi Gamma Delta defeats Phi Delta Theta, 6-2

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Catamount 5 Down BU

The University of Vermont Basketball Catamounts continued to impress as they won their fourth game in a row beating the Boston University Terriers 65–62. The game took place Monday night at Boston. Terry Green was high man for the Cats with 19 points but Joe Greco hit a baseline jumper with a minute left to give Vermont a 63–62 lead and then hit a layup with 14 seconds remaining to seal the victory.

The game was nip and tuck most of the way after UVM battled back to tie the game 14–14 after having trailed 12–2. By halftime the Cats had their biggest lead of the night at 30–25. In the final moments of the game the Cats did not make big mistakes. BU gained a 61–59 lead on a Walt Chesley basket but Ron Gottschalk scored on a pass from Green to tie the game 61–61. Ken Boyd hit a foul shot to give BU a one point advantage and then the teams could not score for more than a minute. But Greco rose to the occasion and Warren Prehmus stole the ball with 34 seconds remaining to seal victory. Greco hit the layup after the steal.

The Cats shot 52 per cent from the floor as they upped their record to 8–14 and 3–7 in the Yankee Conference. Green was high scorer and Greco had 12. Prehmus added ten and Gottschalk and Charlie Trapani each had eight. Boyd was high man for BU in the game with 22. As the Cynic went to press the Cats were visiting UMass with upset hopes at the back of their minds, and also the chance for their fifth win in a row.

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

A week ago yesterday we had our last home meet of the season against Colby College. Even though we won the meet easily one couldn't help but feel a little disappointed. We swam a good meet but there were only a few spectators in the stands to appreciate our efforts. I should take some of the responsibility for the small crowd since I had stated in my last article that the meet would be on Tuesday instead of Wednesday. At the same time though, it is probably a little hard for students to get to a meet in the middle of the afternoon in the middle of the week. In fact, some of our own team had trouble getting there on time because of class conflicts.

Two days after the win over Colby we were on our way to the University of Rhode Island for a Saturday afternoon meet. Their facilities were very impressive and included two 25 yard pools (one eight lanes, the other four lanes) as well as a separate diving pool. The swim team at Rhode Island is newer than their three year old natatorium though, not nearly as impressive. Everyone turned in pretty good performances considering the six hour bus ride the day before. Freshman Kevin Fischer was a triple winner and Dave Phelan and Doug Piche were double winners. But the guy everyone was talking about after the meet was senior veteran Gary Shepherd (also known as ROTC-man.) He didn't swim his usual freestyle events but displayed his previously unheard-of talents in the individual medley and the breaststroke. He did his best career times in both events and came very close to winning in the breaststroke. No one was more surprised than Gary himself, who didn't even realize he had missed first place by just a second.

Our very adept bus driver (known to us simply as "Stan") got us home in record time and piped in WBZ and Arnie Ginsberg on the PA system to keep things hoppin'. This week Stan will be taking us south once again to the University of New Hampshire. It is our last dual meet of the year and if we win there, we will finish the season with an 8 and 2 record.

Schwartz On Sports...

(continued from page thirteen)

must be done.

Finally, a new rule that will take effect in the NCAA is that a professional in one sport can perform as an amateur in college in another. This shows another example of the closeness of the professional-amateur athletic status. This rule may come in confrontation such as the Olympics where the head of the International Olympic Committee said he would not allow such professionals to compete in another sport. This is another item on the national sports scene. As a final note to this event, Brad Van Pelt, a professional football linebacker with the New York Giants, planned on pitching for Michigan State University under this rule. But he won't since he broke his leg.

Skiers Place Second...

(continued from page thirteen)

with three finishers in the top five, and earned 47 points, eleven more than second place Middlebury. UVM's victory in the jump narrowed the Middlebury advantage to 28.5 points and concluded the scoring with the top five team totals as follows: Middlebury 165.5, Vermont 137, Dartmouth 91, New Hampshire 82.5, and New England College 60.

The next competition is the Eastern Championships at Middlebury next Friday and Saturday. This meet is shaping up as one of the most highly contested in recent years. Three teams have excellent chances of winning the Eastern Championships. Dartmouth, strong in all events, displayed their strength two weeks ago at the Dartmouth Carnival, but opted to send a B team to Williams accounting for their poor showing. Middlebury's team seems to have come together as can be seen by their impressive victory at Williams. UVM, the defending Eastern Champions, will have to put together an outstanding effort to retain their crown. This reporter feels the key to the weekend will be the cross-country. Should UVM be able to stay reasonably close to the other teams in the cross-country, I forecast a Vermont victory by approximately five points. If UVM runners have a disappointing day I see little chance of a Vermont victory.

Shakeys Great Pizza Mysteries

WED NITE

$1.00 OFF FAMILY SIZE PIZZA

SHAKEY'S Pizza

1665 WILLISTON RD.

658-4313

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER®

Downtown Burlington

+

Essex Junction

UNIVERSITY STORE

ON THE CAMPUS

GRADUATION ANNOUNCEMENTS - CAPS & GOWNS

Put You In The Picture

Watch the Cynic for Information

The Good Courts!

Modest rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons – Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den – Pro Shop • 24-Hour Stringing Service – Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 M Weekdays, 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays. Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS TENNIS CENTER

Kennedy Drive Ops. Pk.

Tel. 863-3439

Terry Green shoots for the hoop in UVM victor

UVM Bests Ba... Third V...

The University of Vermont Basketball team won its third straight game in six days by defeating Bates College of Lewiston, Maine, 77-59 last Saturday afternoon at the Patrick Gym. A matinee gallery of 1,000 looked on as the Cats upped their overall record this year to 7-14 and their series record against the Bobcats to 3-0.

Junior forwards Joe Greco and Terry Green led the Catamount hoopsters to victory as their efforts netted 22 points apiece and a combined total of 24 rebounds. It was a contest marked by sloppy, haphazard play throughout, attributable to tough man-to-man defense by both Bates and Vermont. This particular aspect of play was mostly responsible for the total of 38 turnovers and 40 personal fouls.

At the onset, Vermont jumped into a formidable 15-0 lead, taking advantage of a Bates cold spell from the field. It was not until seven minutes had passed that Bates was able to score. Forward Don Glenny hit a soft jumper that signaled the end of the dry spell.

Early in the game, Vermont again hacked its way into foul trouble. With just over eight minutes played and the score 18-2, center Charlie Trapani left for the bench with three personal fouls. He was replaced by freshman Stan Gottschalk.

Skiers Se...

by Dave Donahue

Despite a poor showing in the cross country event the University of Vermont Ski Team rallied to claim a second place finish at the Williams Carnival, being beaten only by Middlebury College. In the cross country, which proved disastrous, UVM missed the wax as temperatures rose unexpectedly late Friday afternoon. Morten Gaarud was Vermont's first finisher; he was thirteenth good for seven points. The only other finisher was Joey Lamb who was twenty-eighth, with Tom Lantz and Trygve Kjoseth unable to complete the race. The waxing miscalculation made the event extremely difficult for all Vermont competitors as they had almost no kick for the hilly Mt. Hope Farm, Williams course.

FOR A FORMAL RELATIO...

The engagement ring m...

the next stage in your love...

When you are ready to s...

your diamond and its mo...

please come in.

Our collection of styles is...

Our prices will fit your bu...

PRICES START UNDER $100

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN... PRESTON CHARGE ACCOU...

F.J. PRESTON &...

17 UPPER CHURCH STREET...

UVM's First Ice Show To Debut Friday

by Margo Howland

The premiere of the University of Vermont's First Annual Winter Week Ice Show will be held this weekend at Gutterson Field House, Friday, February 22 and Saturday, February 23 from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m.

The Ice Show, similar to a mini ice-capades, will feature University students and students from the UVM Skating School, performing such numbers as "Up, Up and Away," "Hey, Big Spender," "Aquarius," "Don't Rain on my Parade," "Marching Down Broadway," and a hit song from the musical Oliver!

The three best skits from the UVM Skit Night, held February 16, will be selected to appear in the show. There will be, as an added attraction, a guest amateur skater on Saturday night.

The students involved in the show have been practicing since last semester, when Kathie Ryan, director and choreographer, first thought up the idea. Ms. Ryan, a junior at UVM, a physical education major, and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, has been skating ever since she was about three. She is rated as a professional skater and teaches skating at the UVM Skating School and at the Essex Rink.

All the costumes for the Ice Show are being made by UVM students Althea Kuland and Jean Morgan. Music is being arranged by Billy Johnstone and Duffy Millet. Susan Brooks is in charge of publicity. Judy Tarault is in charge of courtesy tickets; Suzy Robinson is in charge of all tickets and programs.

Tickets for the First Annual Winter Week Ice Show are available at Billings Center, The University Store, Bailey's Music Store, Mills and Greers, and Valuga Sports. Admission: adults $1.50; students $1.00; children under twelve 50 cents. All proceeds will go towards a new sound system at Gutterson.

winter week

Coolidge Hall Slides To Win In Klondike Race

The University of Vermont's Post Field was the scene of the Winter Week's Klondike Race Saturday, February 16. Fifty spectators watched as teams from Coolidge, Hamilton, Davis, and Christie Halls and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity pulled makeshift sleds, each with one rider, over a half-mile course of what was mostly snow and some dirt.

Coolidge Hall edged Sig Ep with a winning time of a record three minutes and four seconds. Coolidge and Sig Ep both had sleds made from a chair on skis. Third place Davis Hall had a plastic toy boat for their entry, and fourth place winner, Hamilton Hall, had two Sam trays tied together. Christie Hall had a flying saucer.

The race was sponsored by Hamilton Hall, and prizes were distributed to the first place winner and first, second, and third runners-up, as follows:

Klondike Champions: keg of beer

First runner-up: one quarter keg

Second runner-up: tapper keg

Third runner-up: Gift certificate worth seven dollars at MacDonald's

A victory party at Coolidge Hall was held after the race.

Ski Club Sponsors Bus

"The wheels are rolling and the skis are turning" is the word from the UVM Ski Club. Last weekend some 75 students ventured up to Smuggler's Notch on the buses. The cost of the bus ride up and back is $3.00 and this is open to everyone. The buses will be leaving from Patrick Gym parking lot at 8:40 a.m. every Saturday, Sunday, and Monday. Only those students who have their ski club membership card can take advantage of the $6.00 ski lift ticket.

Remember - cards are required on the bus. If you cannot make the bus, be at the Morse Parking Lot the same time the bus is and show the student in charge the membership card and give her $6.00 for a ticket.

There will be a meeting for anyone interested in becoming a member on Tuesday, February 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Simpson Lounge. Also, this Saturday, there will be an Upper Parking Lot Party at Smuggler's Notch. At 12 a.m. on Saturday, February 23, look for a group of people in the Madonna Parking Lot.

Figi Hosts Broomball Tourney

by Margo Howland

"Play position! Hold it! AUGGHH! Nice try!"

The back yard of Phi Gamma Delta reverberated with the shouts and cheers of excited onlookers as the playoffs of the Winter Weekend Broomball Tourney got underway Sunday, February 17.

The tourney was open to all undergraduate university students, with the exception of varsity and junior varsity hockey players. The Greeks dominated the scene, as Lambda Iota, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Psi, Phi Delta Theta, Theta Chi, Phi Gamma Delta, Acacia, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Sigma Phi all put in an appearance. In the women's division, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Delta Pi, and Alpha Chi Omega all participated, along with Tupper Third which was the only women's dormitory in the contest.

Chittenden Hall, Living/Learning and Marsh Fourth were the representatives of the men's residence halls.

The tourney had been scheduled for 12 - 6 p.m. but with the unusually large, opthusiastic response, the contest was moved up to nine o'clock, and lasted well after sunset.

Broomball (for those unfamiliar to the game) is a take-off on the game of hockey - brooms are used instead of hockey sticks, an official rubber broomball (supplied by Fiji) replaces a puck, and skates, shoes with cleats, and shin guards are not allowed. The game is played with five persons (including a goalie) per team, on a broomball court, built of snow, 30 by 90 feet, with sides three feet high and a surface of hard-packed snow.

One of the Fiji's observing the game reported that it took the brothers two days to make the broomball court, and that they even had to truck in snow for the occasion!

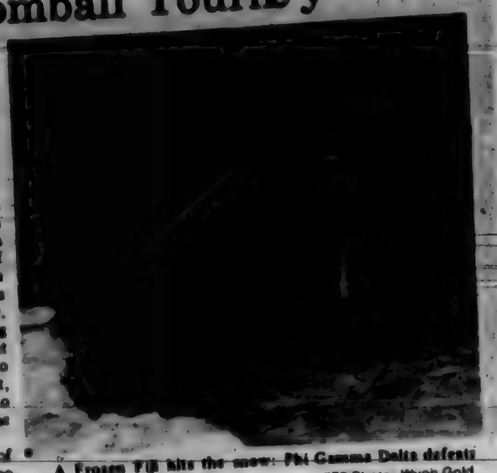
"This is not only a part of Winter Weekend - it's also served as a way to bring Greeks together," another Fiji noted.

In the first round of team playoffs, Delta Psi beat SAE, 2 - 1; Phi Delta Theta eliminated Chittenden Hall, 2 - 1; Fiji shutout Theta Chi, 10 - 0; Living/Learning defeated Acacia, 2 - 1; Alpha Chi Omega beat Alpha Delta Pi, 2 - 0; and Pi Beta Phi bested Tupper third, 4 - 3 in sudden death overtime. Lisa Kreiner scored the winning goal for the Pi Phis.

In the second round of playoffs, Delta Psi creamed Lambda Iota, 12 - 1; Pi Phi oversame Alpha Chi, 6 - 4 for the women's championship; Sig Ep defeated Sigma Phi, 2 - 1; Living/Learning trounced Marsh fourth, 6 - 1; and Fiji finished Phi Delta Theta, 6 - 2.

Sig Ep shut out Living/Learning, 1 - 0 and Fiji beat Delta Psi with the same score in the semi-finals. Fiji and Sig Ep faced off for the elimination round, and when the final whistle had blown, some twelve hours - the start of the tournament - Preston Lamberton had scored the winning goal, making Phi Gamma Delta the victor over Sigma Phi Epsilon, 4 - 3 in sudden-death overtime.

Fiji President Jeff Hayes accepted the championship trophy for the men's division, while Pi Phi's team leader, Becky Partlee, accepted the women's championship trophy. Sig Ep and Alpha Chi accepted runner-up trophies, and a door prize of a case of Schlitz was won by SAE.



A Frozen Fiji hits the snow: Phi Gamma Delta defeats Phi Delta Theta, 6-2.

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Pi-PhiTakes The Powder

The fourth annual Powder-Puff hockey game between Pi Beta Phi and Delta Delta Delta sororities started off with a crunch this past Saturday night. Both houses were fired up and ready to hit the ice. At Pi Phi's helm was UVM hockey player Jacko Clifford with Chris Wallace at his side. Tri-Delt was coached by Gregg Batt and Joe Tatko, and officiating were UVM players Ted Child and Willie MacKinnon.

After one period of frightening forechecking and pitiful passing, scoring finally got under way, as Pi Phi's Sue Allen netted two, and Diane Batt scored Tri-Delt's first in the second period. After trailing by one, Tri-Delt rallied in the third with number two for Batt, and Pi Phi's Carol McManama scored their third goal of the evening. After a debatable call by the ref, however, McManama's goal was recoked and the game ended in sudden death, with Diane Batt completing a hat trick, ending the game 3-2, and Pi Phi's three-game winning streak.

Catamount 5 Down BU

The University of Vermont Basketball Catamounts continued to impress as they won their fourth game in a row beating the Boston University Terriers 65-62. The game took place Monday night at Boston. Terry Green was high man for the Cats with 19 points but Joe Greco hit a baseline jumper with a minute left to give Vermont a 63-62 lead and then hit a layup with 14 seconds remaining to seal the victory.

The game was nip and tuck most of the way after UVM battled back to tie the game 14-14 after having trailed 12-2. By halftime the Cats had their biggest lead of the night at 30-25. In the final moments of the game the Cats did not make big mistakes. BU gained a 61-59 lead on a Walt Chesley basket but Ron Gottschalk scored on a pass from Green to tie the game 61-61. Ken Boyd hit a foul shot to give BU a one point advantage and then the teams could not score for more than a minute. But Greco rose to the ocassion and Warren Prehmus stole the ball with 34 seconds remaining to seal victory. Greco hit the layup after the steal.

The Cats shot 52 per cent from the floor as they upped their record to 8-14 and 3-7 in the Yankee Conference. Green was high scorer and Greco had 12. Prehmus added ten and Gottschalk and Charlie Trapani each had eight. Boyd was high man for BU in the game with 22. As the Cynic went to press the Cats were visiting UMass with upset hopes at the back of their minds, and also the chance for their fifth win in a row.

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

A week ago yesterday we had our last home meet of the season against Colby College. Even though we won the meet easily one couldn't help but feel a little disappointed. We swam a good meet but there were only a few spectators in the stands to appreciate our efforts. I should take some of the responsibility for the small crowd since I had stated in my last article that the meet would be on Tuesday instead of Wednesday. At the same time though, it is probably a little hard for students to get to a meet in the middle of the afternoon in the middle of the week. In fact, some of our own team had trouble getting there on time because of class conflicts.

Two days after the win over Colby we were on our way to the University of Rhode Island for a Saturday afternoon meet. Their facilities were very impressive and included two 25 yard pools (one eight lanes, the other four lanes) as well as a separate diving pool. The swim team at Rhode Island is newer than their three year old natatorium though not nearly as impressive. Everyone turned in pretty good performances considering the six hour bus ride the day before. Freshman Kevin Fischer was a triple winner and Dave Phelan and Doug Piche were double winners. But the guy everyone was talking about after the meet was senior veteran Gary Shepherd (also known as ROTC-man.) He didn't swim his usual freestyle events but displayed his previously unheard-of talents in the individual medley and the breaststroke. He did his best career times in both events and came very close to winning in the breaststroke. No one was more surprised than Gary himself, who didn't even realize he had missed first place by just a second.

Our very adept bus driver (known to us simply as "Stan") got us home in record time and piped in WBZ and Arnie Ginsberg on the PA system to keep things hoppin'. This week Stan will be taking us south once again to the University of New Hampshire. It is our last dual meet of the year and if we win there, we will finish the season with an 8 and 2 record.

Skiers Place Second...

(continued from page thirteen)

with three finishers in the top five, and earned 47 points, eleven more than second place Middlebury. UVM's victory in the jump narrowed the Middlebury advantage to 28.5 points and concluded the scoring with the top five team totals as follows: Middlebury 165.5, Vermont 137, Dartmouth 91, New Hampshire 82.5, and New England College 60.

The next competition is the Eastern Championships at Middlebury next Friday and Saturday. This meet is shaping up as one of the most highly contested in recent years. Three teams have excellent chances of winning the Eastern Championships. Dartmouth, strong in all events, displayed their strength two weeks ago at the Dartmouth Carnival, but opted to send a B team to Williams accounting for their poor showing. Middlebury's team seems to have come together as can be seen by their impressive victory at Williams. UVM, the defending Eastern Champions, will have to put together an outstanding effort to retain their crown. This reporter feels the key to the weekend will be the cross-country. Should UVM be able to stay reasonably close to the other teams in the cross-country, I forecast a Vermont victory by approximately five points. If UVM runners have a disappointing day I see little chance of a Vermont victory.

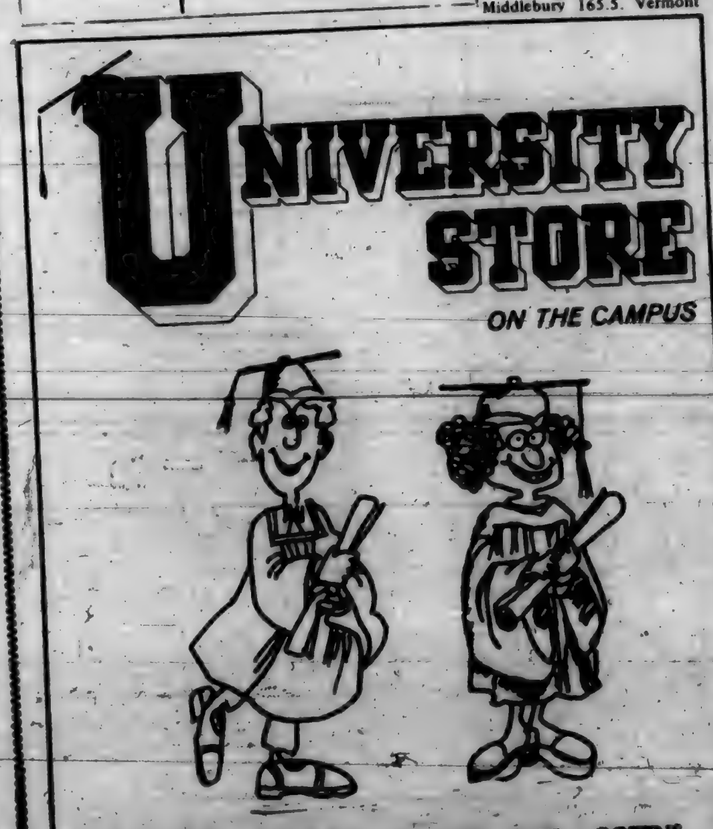
Schwartz On Sports...

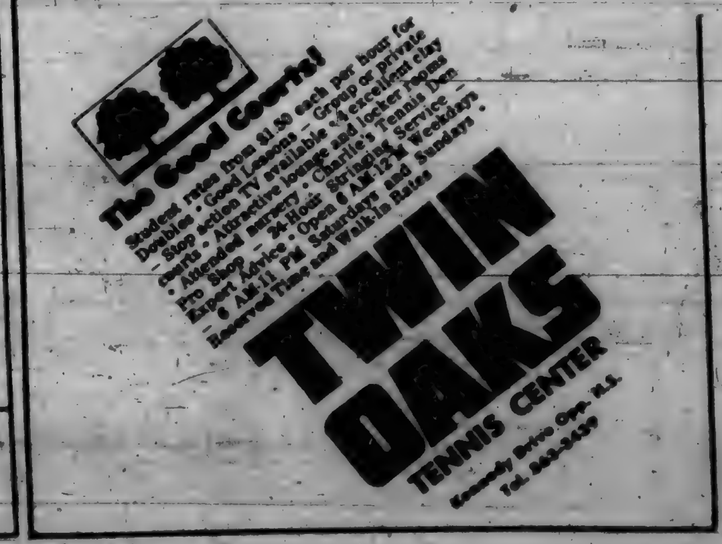
(continued from page thirteen)

must be done.

Finally, a new rule that will take effect in the NCAA is that a professional in one sport can perform as an amateur in college in another. This shows another example of the closeness of the professional-amateur athletic status. This rule may come in confrontation such as the Olympics where the head of the International Olympic Committee said he would not allow such professionals to compete in another sport. This is another item on the national sports scene. As a final note to this event, Brad Van Pelt, a professional football linebacker with the New York Giants, planned on pitching for Michigan State University under this rule. But he won't since he broke his leg.

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER®
Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction





Terry Green shoots for the hoop in UVM victo

UVM Bests Ba... Third W...

The University of Vermont Basketball team won its third straight game in six days by defeating Bates College of Lewiston, Maine, 77-59 last Saturday afternoon at the Patrick Gym. A matinee gallery of 1,000 looked on as the Cats upped their overall record this year to 7-14 and their series record against the Bobcats to 3-0.

Junior forwards Joe Greco and Terry Green led the Catamount hoopsters to victory as their efforts netted 22 points apiece and a combined total of 24 rebounds. It was a contest marked by sloppy, haphazard play throughout, attributable to tough man-to-man defense by both Bates and Vermont. This particular aspect of play was mostly responsible for the total of 48 turnovers and 39 personal fouls.

At the onset, Vermont jumped into a formidable 35-0 lead, taking advantage of a Bates cold spell from the field. It was not until seven minutes had passed that Bates was able to score. Forward Don Glenny hit a soft jumper that signaled the end of the dry spell.

Early in the game, Vermont again hacked its way into foul trouble. With just over eight minutes played and the score 18-2, center Charlie Trapani left for the bench with three personal fouls. He was replaced by Frosh ... Gottschalk ... aggressive pla... three points ... and he sat ba... four and a ha...

Vermont's ... and board ... have been ... Trapani playi... and more ca... Greco and G... occasion and ... rejuvenated ... the first half ... points, incl... seven from ... Green scored ... field goal and ... Guard Warre... eight points ... 30-25 at the ...

In the ... Bobcats' ma... caught fir... Vermont in... turnovers. ... minutes int... had cut Ver... at 45-35. ... was a tut... strategy a... Salzberg ... court man... with the Bat... prescribed ... Wiston.

After the ... 13 point le... back to ten ... with six min... But the fres... of Green an... in five str... ended upse...

Skiers Se...

by Dave Donahue

Despite a poor showing in the cross country event the University of Vermont Ski Team rallied to claim a second place finish at the Williams Carnival, being beaten only by Middlebury College. In the cross country, which proved disastrous, UVM missed the wax as temperatures rose unexpectedly late Friday afternoon. Morten Gaarud was Vermont's first finisher; he was thirteenth good for seven points. The only other finisher was Joey Lamb who was twenty-eighth, with Tom Lantz and Trygve Kjoseth unable to complete the race.

The waxing miscalculation made the event extremely difficult for all Vermont competitors as they had almost no kick for the hilly Mt. Hope Farm, Williams course.

Aside f... country ... performance... if not spect... the giant ... and finished ... a team ... Unfortunate... incurred in ... was too ... Middlebury ... defend its ... Title.

In the g... gentle ... B...

UVM's te... Chris Brov... Sustin thi... fifth. The ... of the even... of Middle... the field ... seconds w... slalom win... of Middle... McGlynn ...

FOR A FORMAL RELATI...
The engagement ring ...
the next stage in your lov...
When you are ready to ...
your diamond and its mo...
please come in.
Our collection of styles ...
Our prices will fit your b...
PRICES START UNDER $10...
YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN ... PRESTON & CHARGE ACCOU...
F.J. PRESTON &...
OF UPPER CHURCH STREET

Tourne y

Fiji hits the snow: Phi Gamma Delta defeats ...cts, 6-3
SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

...pha Chi, 6 ... 4
... women's ...
...p; Sig Ep ...
...ma Phi, 2 ... 1,
...ing ... trounced
..., 6 – 1; and Fiji ...
...Delta Theta, 6 ...

... shut out ...
...ng, 1 – 0 and ...
...lta Psi with the ...
... the semi-finals. ...
... Ep faced off for ...
...ion round, and ...
...nal whistle had ...
...e twelve hours ...
... start of the ...

tournament. Preston Lamberton had scored the winning goal, making Phi Gamma Delta the victor over Sigma Phi Epsilon, 4 – 3 in sudden-death overtime.

Fiji President Jeff Hayes accepted the championship trophy for the men's division, while Pi Phi's team leader, Becky Pardee, accepted the women's championship trophy. Sig Ep and Alpha Chi accepted runner-up trophies, and a door prize of a case of Schlitz was won by SAE.

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

...go yesterday we had our last home meet of the ...ast Colby College. Even though we won the ...one couldn't help but feel a little disappointed. ...good meet but there were only a few spectators ...s to appreciate our efforts. I should take some ...onsibility for the small crowd since I had stated ... article that the meet would be on Tuesday ... Wednesday. At the same time though, it is ... little hard for students to get to a meet in the ...e afternoon in the middle of the week. In fact, ...r own team had trouble getting there on time ... class conflicts.

...rs after the win over Colby we were on our way ...versity of Rhode Island for a Saturday afternoon ...e facilities were very impressive and included two ...ools (one eight lanes; the other four lanes) as well ...te diving pool. The swim team at Rhode Island is ...n their three year old natatorium though not ... impressive. Everyone turned in pretty good ...ces considering the six hour bus ride the day ...reshman Kevin Fischer was a triple winner and ...an and Doug Pighe were double winners. But the ...one was talking about after the meet was senior ...Gary Shepherd (also known as ROTC-man.) He ...im his usual freestyle events but displayed his ...y unheard-of talents in the individual medley and ...utstroke. He did his best career times in both events ... very close to winning in the breaststroke. No one ...e surprised than Gary himself, who didn't even ... had missed first place by just a second.

...very adept bus driver (known to us simply as ... got us home in record time and piped in WBZ and ...nsberg on the PA system to keep things hoppin'. ...k Stan will be taking us south once again to the ...ty of New Hampshire. It is our last dual meet of the ... If we win there, we will finish the season with an 8 ...ord.

...hwartz On Sports...

(continued from page thirteen)

...one.

..., a new rule that will take effect in the NCAA is ...ofessional in one sport can perform as an amateur ... in another. This shows another example of the ... of the professional-amateur athletic status. This ... come in confrontation such as the Olympics ... head of the International Olympic Committee ...ould not allow such professionals to compete in ...sport. This is another item on the national sports ...a final (note to this event, Brad Van Pelt, a ...nal football linebacker with the New York Giants, ...on pitching for Michigan State University under ... But he won't since he broke his leg.

...ch per hour for Group or private
...e. 4 excellent clay
...ge and locker rooms
Charlie's Tennis Den
...r Stringing Service
...ses 6 AM-12 M Weekdays
...Saturdays and Sundays.
...and Walk-in Rates

WIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
...Kennedy Drive Opp. M.S.
Tel. 862-3439

Terry Green shoots for the hoop in UVM victory over Bates. SPS Photo: R. R. Law

UVM Bests Bates For Third Victory In Row

The University of Vermont Basketball team won its third straight game in six days by defeating Bates College of Lewiston, Maine, 77-59 last Saturday afternoon at the Patrick Gym. A matinee gallery of 1,000 looked on as the Cats upped their overall record this year to 7-14 and their series record against the Bobcats to 3-0.

Junior forwards Joe Greco and Terry Green led the Catsmount hoopsters to victory as their efforts netted 22 points apiece and a combined total of 24 rebounds. It was a contest marked by sloppy, haphazard play throughout, attributable to tough man-to-man defense by both Bates and Vermont. This particular aspect of play was mostly responsible for the total of 48 turnovers and 39 personal fouls.

At the onset, Vermont jumped into a formidable 15-0 lead, taking advantage of a Bates cold spell from the field. It was not until seven minutes had passed that Bates was able to score. Forward Don Glenny hit a soft jumper that signaled the end of the dry spell.

Early in the game, Vermont, again hacked its way into foul trouble. With just over eight minutes played and the score 18-2, center Charlie Trapani left for the bench with three personal fouls. He was replaced by frosh standout Ron Gottschalk. Gottschalk's aggressive play netted him three points and four fouls and he sat back on the bench four and a half minutes later.

Vermont's inside prowess and board strength could have been nullified with Trapani playing a less mobile and more careful game, but Greco and Green rose to the occasion and held off a rejuvenated Bates quintet. In the first half Greco scored 11 points, including five for seven from the field, and Green scored seven with a field goal and five foul shots. Guard Warren Prehmus added eight points as Vermont led 39-25 at the half time.

In the second half, the Bobcats' man-to-man defense caught fire and forced Vermont into three quick turnovers. Four and a half minutes into the half, Bates had cut Vermont's lead to ten at 45-35. From then on, it was a battle of coaching strategy as Coach Peter Salzberg matched his half court man-to-man defense with the Bates full court press prescribed by mentor George Wilson.

After the Cats opened up a 13 point lead, Bates battled back to ten again at 65-55 with six minutes left to play. But the front court tandem of Green and Greco popped in five straight points and ended upset hopes for the Bates quintet. A semi-stall passing offense controlled the ball for Vermont and stymied the Bobcats as the Cats won it handily 77-59.

Joe Greco seems to have worked out of a midseason scoring slump. In games against St. Michael's and Bates he has scored consistently, rebounded well, and helped Vermont control the tempo of the game. He totaled 42 points and 21 rebounds in those two games while increasing his team leading scoring average to 12.6 points per game. In that department Warren Prehmus is second with 12.2 and Terry Green is third with an 11.7 average.

As the end of the season nears, the Catamounts continue to up their percentage of field goals. About 43 per cent of shots attempted have scored, but in recent games this figure has been well in excess of 50 per cent.

The season's final two home games are upcoming. On Saturday afternoon the final Yankee Conference battle takes place as Boston University invades Patrick Gym. Next Wednesday the final home game and Vermont series battle takes place when Middlebury plays the Catamounts in the lone game between the two schools this season.

SCHWARTZ ON SPORTS

by Mike Schwartz

Over the past few weeks some developments in the college sports world both at UVM and nationally are worthy of comment.

Although this article was written before the game against the University of Pennsylvania, the hockey team might still be left with a dilemma. The question involves the choice of competing in the Division I post-season tournament or in the Division II playoffs.

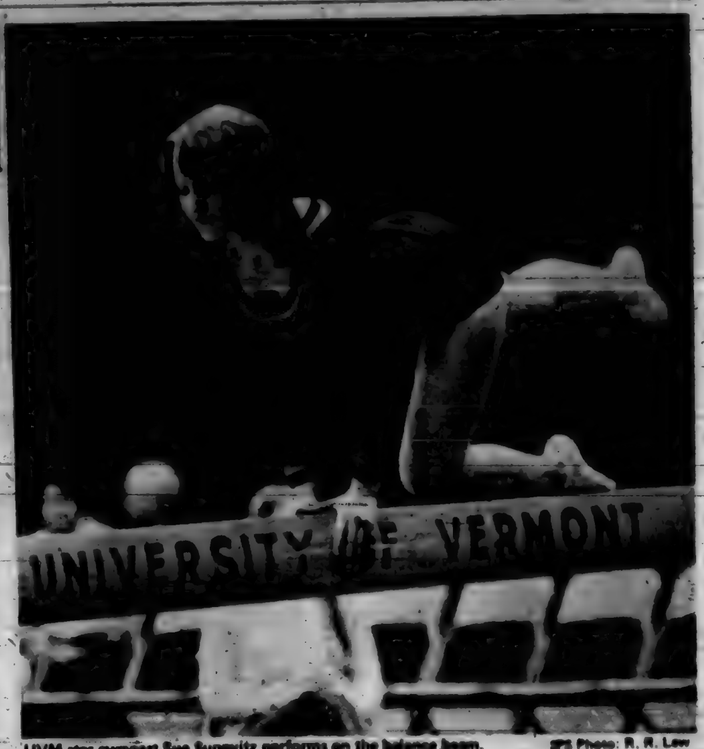
A spot in Division I would indeed be a choice of prestige. The team would face more difficult competition with the possibility of competing in the national tournament. Since the ECAC would have to vote on Vermont as a competitor it seems unlikely that the Cats would get a seed in the top four that guarantees the home ice for the first and second rounds of action. New Hampshire, Boston University, Harvard, and probably Cornell seem virtual shoeins for these spots. This would mean facing one of the above schools away from home. The chance for an upset under the circumstances seem unlikely. The feeling here is that Vermont should stay in the Division II tournament, the division of which they are a member this year. Although the other tournament may mean more prestige and a chance for the seniors to play in such a tournament, the obstacles are too many.

In Division II, the Cats will undoubtedly be the first seed and if they do win the tournament will go out of the division and onto the other one as a team deserving of praise and a foe to be challenged in Division I in 1974-75. Even the Division II tournament would not be the cinch that many people predict. Last year Merrimack gave Vermont a tough battle in the playoffs before losing 4-3. The playoffs can make anyone play to their best ability and for a Division II team, knocking off Vermont is a very pleasurable accomplishment if it is achieved.

The basketball team is also performing well as of late. With the win against Bates they now have won three in a row and four of the past five games. Since they were routed by UMass on January 15, the greatest margin of loss was 13 against Siena, the next greatest being only seven. The Cats beat St. Michaels for the first time since Peter Salzberg became coach. The young team is starting to come around. Not knowing the results of the UMass game (and indeed the recent events could make an upset a possibility) one can envision wins in the last three games of the season including BU and Middlebury on the home court. The young team is jelling, and maybe consistancy and a winner will be the result. The long losing streak is indeed a thing of the past.

On the national front, the sporting press occasionally writes about the freshmen that enter collegiate sports and quickly become national celebrities. Two such examples are Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, and UCLA's Marquis Johnson, both outstanding freshmen basketball forwards. What remains to be seen is the psychological effects of adjusting to college and also playing college sports. As the study of this subject continues one can observe the effects on grade point average, social status, and personal adjustment. Of Dantley, his coach noted that he was constantly calling home; perhaps the freshman was having difficulty. The effects of isolation that might result from having to study and spend most free time practicing remain to be seen. The effects of the freshmen rule may be more detrimental than had been expected. But, further study

(continued on page twelve)



UVM star gymnast Sue Supovitz performs on the balance beam. SPS Photo: R. R. Law

Women Gymnasts Face Heavy Schedule

by Linda Rough

The University of Vermont women's gymnastics team performed here last Saturday, February 16, in another meet with close competition. Boston State College finished in front of UVM with a 74.25 team score, as compared to our 68.80. After the uneven bars, and vaulting events, UVM led by 0.20.

Sue Supovitz was a triple winner, in floor exercise (7.15), the uneven bars (6.5), and vaulting, with her handspring vault score of 6.65. Sue placed second to Boston's Judy McMahon on the balance beam with a 6.25. Lauren Toffas' vault put her in third place for UVM; and Barbara Abrams' bars routine placed third with a 6.05.

The Vermont gymnasts will travel to the University of Connecticut on Friday, February 22. Then on Monday, February 25, they will be host to Plymouth State College, Castleton State, and Green Mountain. This will begin at 7:00 p.m. at Patrick. On February 26 the girls will travel to Green Mountain State College for the Vermont State Meet. The final home meet will be on March 2, at 1:00 p.m. when UVM will host the Tri-State Gymnastics Championships. UVM girls have won this championship for the past three years.

Skiers Second In Carnival

by Dave Donahue

Despite a poor showing in the cross country event the University of Vermont Ski Team rallied to claim a second place finish at the Williams Carnival, being beaten only by Middlebury College. In the cross country, which proved disastrous, UVM missed the wax as temperatures rose unexpectedly late Friday afternoon. Morten Gaarud was Vermont's first finisher; he was thirteenth good for seven points. The only other finisher was Joey Lamb who was twenty-eighth with Tom Lantz and Trygve Kjoseth unable to complete the race. The waxing miscalculation made the event extremely difficult for all Vermont competitors as they had almost no kick for the hilly Mt. Hope Farm, Williams course.

Aside from the cross country the Vermont performance was consistent, if not spectacular. UVM won the giant slalom, the jump, and finished a close second as a team in the slalom. Unfortunately the deficit incurred in the cross-country was too overwhelming, and Middlebury was able to defend its Williams Carnival Title.

In the giant slalom held at gentle Brodie Mountain, UVM's top finishers were Chris Brown second, Brian Sussim third, and Kirk Dice fifth. The individual winner of the event was John Jacobs of Middlebury who bested the field by a mere two seconds was won by the giant slalom winner John Jacobs of Middlebury, with Mde McGlynn of St. Lawrence in the second position. Chris Brown of UVM finished fourth, Dick Erdman, who won the Dartmouth Carnival slalom, was sixth, and Bill Rathbone was eleventh to round out the UVM finishers. Kirk Dice, skiing in his first carnival for UVM, ran last in this event and won the first run only to catch a tip in the second run and be eliminated. The team's efforts were good for 36 points, nine less than Middlebury's winning performance.

The final event, the jump, held at Berlin Mountain's 50 meter hill, was won by UVM's Tom Lantz. In second place was his brother David Lantz who attends Middlebury College. UVM's other two jumpers in the competition, Joey Lamb and MacCleod Oddy performed admirably taking fourth and fifth places respectively. Vermont easily won the jump

(continued on page twelve)

PLANTASIA
10:30—5:30 107 St. Paul St
COME IN & CHOOSE
from 21 varieties of herbs
in 3" pots from 85¢
...plus some exotic rarities
that don't often appear in Vermont homes, but are very suitable

The Most Complete Selection ... of DOING IT YOURSELF
SELF-SUFFICIENT LIVING
"The Garden Way"
How many of these subjects interest you?

Making a living in the country
Buying country property
Home building and remodeling
Vegetable gardening for beginners and experts
Soil improvement
Canning and freezing, modern, easy methods
Earthworms
Herb gardening
Mulching
Companion planting
Dwarf fruit trees
Plant propagation
Pruning, grafting
Goat-keeping, Bee-keeping, rabbits
Quilt-making
Low-cost greenhouses
Growing plants indoors

Here at Garden Way we specialize in publications covering every phase of self-sufficient living. Most are those of other publishers, but a goodly number we publish ourselves right here in Vermont, where self-reliance is the time honored way and the treasured skills, handed down from many generations, still abound.

On our shelves and in our 72 page catalog are books we believe will be most worthy of your time and money. Here is a wealth of expert advice on growing vegetables and fruits, preserving and preparing food, poultry and livestock raising, house building, wiring, plumbing, maintenance, making a living in the country, crafts, hobbies, country lore and customes, etc., etc.

If you are interested in self-sufficient living, in making your income go a lot further, you'll be completely delighted.

The Garden Way Living Center carries the hard-to-find tools to help you live a less consumptive—more self-sufficient life. We carry many products relating to subjects listed above like the Troy-Bilt Roto Tiller, beekeeping and poultry supplies, wood burning stoves, chain saws, canning and freezing supplies, and many more.

So:
*Please stop by for a free copy of our book catalog.
*Browse through all these wonderful books and bulletins.
*Ask us questions. If we can't answer right out of our own knowledge and experience, we'll help you seek the answer in our reference library or from our panel of experts living in this area.
*See our fascinating displays of tools, equipment and supplies for Garden Way Living...many, many items you won't find anywhere else in this area.

GARDEN WAY LIVING CENTER
1186 Williston Rd., next to Alpine Shop

CLINIQUE
is at the mayfair

FOR A FORMAL RELATIONSHIP
The engagement ring marks
the next stage in your love story.
When you are ready to select
your diamond and its mounting,
please come in.
Our collection of styles is large.
Our prices will fit your budget.
PRICES START UNDER $100.00
YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON CHARGE ACCOUNT
F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

Few things in life worry a Volkswagen.
Gas shortage worry a Volkswagen?
Not while the VW Beetle gets about 25° miles per gallon.
In fact, if every car used as little gas as a VW, there wouldn't be any threat of a gas shortage to begin with.
McNASH MOTORS inc.
Volkswagen
1325 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.

the
BIG SALE
item no. 6:
EMPIRE
999 pe·x cartridge list 65. $19.
item no. 15:
PIONEER 727 receiver list 400. $299
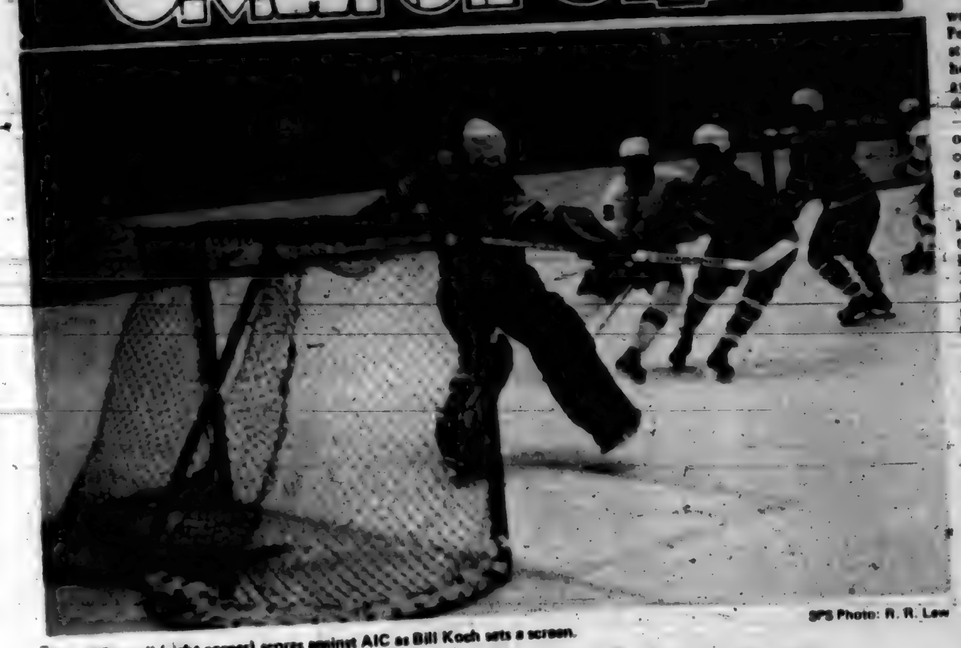
tech hifi

U.V.M. SPORTS



Tim O'Connell (right corner) scores against AIC as Bill Koch sets a screen. SPS Photo: R. R. Law

Icecats Rout AIC 10-2

by Al Patashnick

In a wide open hockey game, much different from the Vermont-Clarkson game the night before, the University of Vermont Icecats humbled the American International College Yellowjackets 10-2. With Tim O'Connell and Michel Lebeau scoring hat tricks and Ted Castle scoring his sixty-fourth career goal to surpass Fred Hunt's record, the home forces completely dominated the action from start to finish.

Vermont had a two-man advantage for one minute and forty seconds early in the first period but could not dent the scoring column. Finally, at 12:46, Roger Mallette took a pass from Bill Koch at the faceoff circle to the left of the AIC goal. Mallette wound up and rifled a shot to the upper left hand corner before goalie Belisle could react. At 16:12, O'Connell made it 2-0 as his centering attempt from behind the AIC net was deflected in by Belisle who was worrying about Bill Koch in the crease. Ken Yeates hustled well in keeping the puck in the AIC zone and allowing the Cats to set up the power play goal. The period ended with Belisle making 17 saves and John Kiely only four. AIC did not get a shot until almost thirteen minutes had elapsed.

Vermont scored early in the second period when Ted Curtis fired a long shot into the AIC zone. Castle swooped down for the rebound on the right side and whistled a slap shot into the far side. It was Castle's eighteenth of the season and 64th of his career. Ken Yeates made it 4-0 at 9:12 as he took the rebound from a Castle slap shot at the left face off circle and shot the puck under Belisle. AIC scored its first goal of the game at 11:00 on a power play goal. With Chris Miller off for high sticking, Crossman's slap shot from the left point was tipped in by Condon over Kiely's left shoulder. Vermont found time to score twice more before the period ended. Tom Colby passed to Miller who in turn found Lebeau alone to the goalie's left. Lebeau's backhander beat Belisle to the far side. Less than a minute later, O'Connell scored his second goal of the game with assists from Mallette and Curtis. Kiely had a two period total of twelve saves while Belisle had thirty.

The final period saw nine penalties being whistled by the officials including a ten minute misconduct on John Murphy. After Michel Lebeau had stopped AIC from breaking out of their own end, Tom Colby chased down the puck behind the net and centered it back to Lebeau at the goal mouth. Lebeau's wrist shot caught the right side of the net. O'Connell completed his hat trick at 10:30 after getting a pass from Ken Yeates. O'Connell streaked up the left side, cut around two defenders and drilled a hard slap shot into the upper left hand corner. It was O'Connell's eighteenth goal of the season. AIC scored their second power play goal of the season at 15:16 with Tom McNamara in the goal for Vermont. AIC's Alejandro took a hard slap shot from the left faceoff circle which trickled out of McNamara's glove and over his right shoulder. Vermont responded with two goals within a minute. Lebeau got his hat trick at 17:07, and Chris Miller completed the onslaught by scoring his twelfth of the season after Lebeau made a great rush into the AIC zone. Belisle stopped the attempt by Lebeau but the rebound got away to Miller who tipped it in making the final score 10-2. Overall, Belisle had 37 saves and the Kiely-McNamara combination, 27.

In addition to the hat tricks by O'Connell and Lebeau, Tom Colby added three assists and Ken Yeates contributed one goal and three assists while playing outstanding defense. The total defensive alignment for Vermont had eight assists for the night.

As of this writing, Vermont's record is 19-4 with games at Penn, Middlebury, Colby, and Bowdoin, and a home contest against Norwich, still to come. The return of Willie MacKinnon, absent since the Boston University game with a shoulder injury, bolsters the lineup at a time when the team is playing solid hockey once more. In the first game against Norwich, the Cats routed the Cadets 11-4. The return contest at Gutterion will be the last chance to see the hockey team perform in the regular season.

UVM Beats UPenn

The UVM Hockey team went down to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania to show their stuff to a relatively Southern hockey team. They came away with a rout, as they defeated the UPenn team, 6 - 1. The Cats are now 20 - 4 overall, the best record in the country, and stand at 7 - 2 against Division I competition.

Bill Koch and Ted Castle led the way for Vermont as they both scored two goals. Koch now has 19 and Castle 20 for the season. Castle moved into second place in the all-time scoring column in Catamount Hockey history.

UVM skated off the ice after the first period with a 1 - 0 lead as Koch converted a goal on assists from Child and O'Connell. In the second period the Cats added three tallies. On one of the Castle goals in this period, Willie MacKinnon added an assist as he returned to action. The Cats led 6 - 0 before Penn was able to score. John Kiely's shutout was taken away in the final moments as it had been against Clarkson. Penn scored with just 2:47 remaining in the game. After the goal, Peter Reynolds finished up the goalkeeping chores.

The Cats have now won three straight against the Quakers and head into the final Division II games of the season. They play against Middlebury, Colby, and Bowdoin before closing out the season in Gutterson against Norwich. For those interested in the national standings, New Hampshire remains in second place, BU stands fourth, and Harvard is eighth. Cornell is tied for ninth. The Catamounts do not stand in the top ten which has the powerful Michigan Tech hockey team in first place.

Women Lose To UMass

The University of Vermont Women's Basketball team lost a squeaker to UMass Sunday night. The score was 49-47. UVM led most of the game and the half time score was 28-21 UVM. In the fourth quarter there was a slump and with 45 seconds left UVM was behind by 6. Therewere two key steals and two hoops right off but time ran out before a third shot could be gotten.

The game was played very well. There were 25 turnovers by the UVM defense. The offensive and defensive boards were cleared each time by the UVM team. Chris Morgan was high scorer with 16.

Last Friday UVM lost to the University of New Hampshire by a score of 58-41. Pam Bateman was high scorer wi h 10 points.

The UVM record is now 3-2. The Cats will be going to Rhode Island for a key game this weekend.

Bill Looker jumps his way to fourth place in Yankee conference meet. SPS Photo: R. R. Law

Track Team Places Third In Conference Meet

Last Saturday, the University of Vermont hosted the annual Yankee Conference Track and Field Championships at the Gardner-Collins Cage. The final team placings found UConn on top with 81½ points, UMass second with 69 and Vermont third with 19. Maine placed fourth with 18½ and Boston University, Rhode Island, and New Hampshire rounded out the field with 15, 12, and 7 points respectively.

For Vermont there were many fine performances. Billy Looker placed fourth in both the 50 yard dash and long jump. Mike Berry, the outstanding distance runner, finished fifth in the two mile run. Nate Reeves finished third in the high jump with Jeff Lindgren fourth and Steve Lynch fifth in the same event. Heavyweight Mike Bilsza performed well in the shot put and 35 pound weight throw with fourth and second place finishes respectively. His second place performance in the weight throw was the top Vermont performance of the meet. Finally, the mile relay squad placed fourth in that event.

This Saturday the team travels to the University of Connecticut to participate in the New England Championships. It marks the final competition of the indoor season.

There's A Grls Ski Team--Too

This season under the excellent coaching of Penny and Phil Kirk (Alpine Team), and Perry Bland (Nordic Team), the women's ski team has been dominating much of the Eastern Division I circuit. This year's alpine squad consists largely of freshmen and transfers, the only returning members being Mary Martin and Pam Weiss. The squad is especially fortunate to have Gael Susslin and Leslie Orton, both of whom have won major races in the east this winter. Susslin completely dominated the Corcoran Cup at Waterville Valley earlier this year, winning both races by quite a large margin. Orton also won a pre-Can-Am slalom in January but injured herself at Waterville, and has been out of competition for a few weeks. Anne Ainsworth, a Class A racer from Central Division, has given strong support to the squad in addition to Lauren Tofias and Lori Raines.

On the Nordic Squad, Libby Tuthill, a member of the Eastern Team, has again been the squad's number one skier. Judy Robitaille also returns to the squad with several good results this season. New additions to the squad are Lynn Larosa, Nanette Nuebell and Nancy Jenkins who have placed high in the meets this season. The cross country team has been expecially handicapped by the lack of snow this season and has done exceptionally well considering the lack of on-snow training.

In the first three collegiate meets this year, the UVM skiers have done quite well. Starting off the season, the UVM skiers captured first place at the Johnson State hosted WEISA meet. The Alpine events were swept by Gael Susslin and Leslie Orton each taking a first and second in both the giant slalom and slalom. Nanette Nuebell had an impressive fifth in the cross-country event.

Travelling the following weekend to the Dartmouth Carnival, the UVM skiers slid to a third place finish of the ten schools competing in the division. This is the first year that girls have been included in the Carnival's events. The cross-country team had the most impressive results with Libby Tuthill tying for second place with Mary Heller of Dartmouth. Lynn Nanette, and Judy all placed in the top 15 in that race. The Alpine team was led by Gael's first place finish in the giant slalom.

This past weekend at the UNH meet, the Alpine team made a strong comeback with a first, third and fifth place finish in the slalom by Anne Ainsworth, Mary Martin, and Pam Weiss respectively. In the giant slalom, Gael Susslin was victorious followed by Anne placing sixth. In the cross-country events UVM was far ahead in firirst place.

This next weekend is the Middlebury Carnival which the UVM women skiers are eagerly anticipating and Leslie Orton will be back on her skis.

Swim Teams Perform Well

The men's and women's swim teams continue to perform impressively. In a dual meet at Kingston, R. I., the men's swim team defeated the University of Rhode Island 77-34. The men won all but two events as they upped their dual meet record to 8-2. The next action for the swimmers is this Saturday at New Hampshire. The season closes over the weekend of March 7-9 in the New England Championships at Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island.

The women's swim team performed admirably in the New England Intercollegiate Women's Swim Championships as they finished fifth out of 22 teams. The best performance in this meet held at Orono, Maine, was a second place finish by Laura Schriesheim in the 50 yard breaststroke. Cindy Prehmus finished fifth in the one meter diving competition and Andrea Kalish finished fifth in the 100 yard butterfly. The women will host St. Lawrence this week at Forbush and then Laura Schreisheim, Andrea Kalisch, Ann Behrenburg, and Christie Kurt will compete in the Eastern Intercollegiate Women's Swim Meet at Springfield College on March 1 and 2.

SUPER SALE

50%

Select groups of Mens-Ladies-Childrens : Parkas, Stretch Pants, Sweaters

All Gloves & Mittens

SISU & HARJU Crosscountry Skis

SKIS Spalding, 1973 K-2, Volkl

ALL DEMO SKIS

K-2 - Rossignol - Olin - Spalding

KIDS SKI SETS

SKI BOOTS

San Marco Pro + Super Pro

Nordica Foam: Mercury - Pro + Slalom

SKI POLES

Tomic Alpine + Aluminum Cross Country

CONVERSE ALL STAR SNEAKERS

Valuga Sports

1259 SHELBURNE RD. South Burlington, Vt. 862-1561

Open M-F 9-9 Sat. 9-5

One Mile South Of Burlington On Route 7

CLASSIFIED

STEREO SPEAKERS--New three way Ducted Port speakers with 12 inch woofer; highly efficient with attractive enclosure. Two year factory gusarantee. Special shipment. Fantastic discount, while they last. DYNACO KITS, ALSO AVAILABLE. Call John, 862-3814, anytime. Or ask for Gene at 658-3545, after 6 p.m.

For Sale -- Green down parka, never been worn -- Henke ski boots (9B) worn twice -- Fischer Alu skis, 200's -- excellent prices -- Call Chris, X4242.

Lost -- 1 blue parka (down) at MAT Dance. Contains eyeglasses, sooth retainer, hat, and wallet. Need badly, no questions asked. Contact Lost and Found in Billings Center. 656-2068.

Wanted -- Over 367 Full time undergrad student? I need you for a campus descriptive study of the "older" UVM student. Please contact Alverta Perkins, 863-4922, evenings.

Lost -- 1 blue down parka, contains wallet and most likely. Appreciate it if returned. Lost at MAT dance. Contact lost and found -- Billings.

Ski Sale -- Mostly 207's, VR 17, Rossignol, K2 with or without bindings. Very cheap ($20 - $60). Call 863-3689.

The Friday Afternoon Drinking Club of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity 439 College Street, welcomes anyone interested for beer and drinks this Friday and every Friday beginning at 6 p. m. Donation is $1.00.

JOB OPENINGS

People to sell advertising for this newspaper starting next semester.

A chance to express your creative ability.

Commissions paid.

Please fill out the below form and return to the:

Vermont Cynic
ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT
Box 20
Billings Center

NAME_____

ADDRESS_____

YEAR_____

TELEPHONE_____

THE LAST CHANCE

UVM'S SYN CITY STEAMERS Return

WEDNESDAY FEB. 27

147 MAIN ST. BURLINGTON

VOLUME XCII FEBRUARY 28, 1974

VE

Housing Of

by Rick Steinberg

For the past several months the Office of Residence Halls has been working to rectify and improve the housing situation at the university. Dr. Keith Miser, Director of Residence Halls, stated that several ideas and programs are in the planning stages for the upcoming semester. A modified food system and increased educational programs within the dorms were among the possible changes.

This past year the Housing Office experienced some difficulties which resulted in severe overcrowding. In analyzing the dormitory situation, there were many variables to consider. According to Miser, slight miscalculations in these variables causes overcrowding.

Specific plans for next semester will not be available until the office has a better grip on these variables. (Among the factors to be considered are the number and sexual ratio of the incoming freshmen; the number of present freshmen who will leave the dorm once they are no longer required to live on campus, and the number of off campus students who will return to dormitories due to the gas shortage and rising food prices.) At this point it is difficult to assess the impact of these factors.

"Three or four years ago estimates could be predicted within three or four per cent of the actual figures," stated Miser. "But now student life styles have changed greatly, making things more difficult." Miser is optimistic that the problems will be minimal for the upcoming semester.

As one means of alleviating the overcrowding in the dorms and as an added convenience for students, they considered purchasing homes and apartments in the vicinity of the university. But there were problems with city zoning ordinances which blocked this option.

Meal Plans

Plans are under way to alter the present food system, which in the past several years has undergone considerable revamping. With the food contract schedules to expire at the end of this year, a committee of students and administration was set up to look over the present system and make recommendations. Questionnaires were sent to students in an attempt to determine student views on

FEBRUARY 21, 1974

Yankee conference meet. SPS Photo—R. R. Low

Places Third erence Meet tively pond there with performances placed fourth in yard dash and Mike Berry, the distance runner,

in the two mile Reeves finished high jump with un fourth and fifth in the same eavyweight Mike rmed well in the and 35 pound weight throw with fourth and second place finishes respectively. His second place performance in the weight throw was the top Vermont performance of the meet. Finally, the mile relay squad placed fourth in that event.

This Saturday the team travels to the University of Connecticut to participate in the New England Championships. It marks the final competition of the indoor season.

Ski Team –Too

Team, has again
quad's number one Robitaille also the squad with od results this additions to the Lynn Larosa.
uebell and Nancy
o have placed high is this season. The try team has been handicapped by snow this season done exceptionally fering the lack of aining.
ral three collegiate s year, the UVM done quite well.
ff the season, the ers captured first
the Johnson State
EISA meet. The ats were swept by im and Leslie Orton
a first and second he giant slalom and anette Nuebell had sive fifth in the
ntry event.
ing the following to the Dartmouth
the UVM skiers slid d place finish of the ten schools competing in the division. This is the first year that girls have been included in the Carnival's events. The cross-country team had the most impressive results with Libby Tuthill tying for second place with Mary Heller of Dartmouth. Lynn, Nanette, and Judy all placed in the top 15 in that race. The Alpine team was led by Gael's first place finish in the giant slalom.

This past weekend at the UNH meet, the Alpine team made a strong comeback with a first, third and fifth place finish in the slalom by Anne Ainsworth, Mary Martin, and Pam Weiss respectively. In the giant slalom, Gael Sussdin was victorious followed by Anne placing sixth. In the cross-country events UVM was far ahead in first place.

This next weekend is the Middlebury Carnival which the UVM women skiers are eagerly anticipating and Leslie Orton will be back on her skis.

Perform Well

ped their dual meet to 8-2. The next for the swimmers is Saturday at New
re. The season closes weekend of March
the New England
onships at Brown
ty in Providence,
land.
women's swim team ed admirably in the ngland Intercollegiate en's Swim onships as "they fifth out of 22
The best performance
meet held at Orono,
Maine, was a second place finish by Laura Schresheim in the 50 yard breaststroke. Cindy Prehmus finished fifth in the one meter diving competition and Andrea Kalish finished fifth in the 100 yard butterfly. The women will host St. Lawrence this week at Forbush and then Laura Schresheim, Andrea Kalisch, Ann Bahrenburg, and Christe Kurt will compete in the Eastern Intercollegiate Women's Swim Meet at Springfield College on March 1 and 2.

THE LAST CHANCE

UVM'S SYN CITY STEAMERS Return

WEDNESDAY FEB. 27

147 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

VOLUME XCII
FEBRUARY 28, 1974

VERMONT CYNIC

"Tis A Privilege to Live In Vermont

University of Vermont
Burlington, Vermont

What do you do on Mondays?

Faculty Senate Okays 5 Day Week, Friday Cooldowns Deemed Unnecessary

by Bruce Maddern

Following the previous decisions of the Academic Council of Deans and the administration, the Faculty Senate voted to initiate the five-day week for September. Although Monday classes will resume next fall, the administrative offices in Waterman will probably go on a five-day week in April.

President Andrews explained at the Faculty-Senate meeting on Thursday, that the $100 tuition increase for out-of-staters was due to inflation, now running at nine percent and the energy crisis in terms of fuel and utility costs.

Andrews said he made "no promises" when it came to faculty raises. He termed the 8 percent salary and 2 percent fringe benefit as "probable." All of this he claimed was dependent on the approval of the new budget. This year's 10 percent faculty increase and 9 percent from last year make a 19 percent salary and fringe benefit increase in the last two years.

"The incoming freshman class," Andrews claimed, "will be smaller than last year's." Last year's freshman class had 1850 students as compared to projections of 1700 for this year.

Dr. Gobin, chairperson of the Academic Affairs Committee, introduced a "partial" report. The partial report, he said, was due to the fact that the committee cannot predict the situation, in terms of the energy crisis for Spring 1975 so the report on the calendar is for the first semester next year only. The first report for the actual five-day academic week was passed without substantial debate.

The second item, for a cooldown on Friday and calling of days off if necessary, was defeated. The debate termed it "superfluous" and "unnecessary," as well as the fact that it will already occur next year anyway. The Academic Council had planned, in September, to begin weekend "cool-downs" on Fridays. If further savings seem necessary, classes will be suspended for the last days of winter months.

The senate passed the final item of the report, which was to have the committee report again on the spring '75 semester.

Dr. London, chairperson of the Administrative Policy Committee, said that there was not much of a report because there was not much to do. He did discuss the recent administrative decisions on Vice-president Snelling and Associate Treasurer Paterson. A high degree of unanimimity, he said, was reached in their choices.

UVM's Projected Financial Plans Explained At S.A. Meeting

by Barbara Frankel

According to Executive Vice-President Wayne Patterson, all information concerning the University's financial plans for fiscal year '75, except individual salaries and contract make-ups, is available to the public.

On Tuesday night, Patterson, addressing a rather small S.A. Senate, discussed the University's projected revenues and expenditures. Patterson's talk was both lengthy and detailed, as he answered all questions put to him by the senate. He explained the administration's support of the increase in out-of-state tuition, adding [illegible] more out-of-state students than ever before. The ratio in the past, according to Patterson, has normally been about 60 per cent in-state to 40 per cent out of state. The projected ratio for next year will be approximately 55 percent in-state to 45 per cent out of state.

Patterson also discussed faculty salaries, which are the second lowest in the Yankee Conference (The University of Maine has the distinction of offering the lowest salaries). The faculty-student ratio at UVM is now 22.4 students to one faculty member. In 1973 it was 21.5 students per faculty member. In 1972 it was 19.5 to one. Patterson added that at most state universities the ratio is usually 17 to one. At most state colleges, it is usually 14 or 15 to one.

Additionally, Patterson discussed the five year projection for admissions to UVM. Next fall, there will be as many students admitted as had been this year, which leads to the problem of overcrowding in the dormitories. Patterson's address dealt with a variety of questions, ranging from the uses of Project Construction to the financial aid situation. He expressed his hope that, in the long run, the University will have more money and less students. The other major focus of the Senate meeting was S.A. Treasurer Steve DeCesznak's "Finance Committee Policy on

(continued on page eight)

The S.A. sponsored forums for presidential candidates will be held on:

March 1 - Living/Learning, Fireplace Commons, 7:30 p.m.

March 11 - WRUV, 7:00 p.m. AM and FM.

Voting will take place Tuesday and Wednesday, March 12 and 13 at the locations and times specified below:

Billings	9 a.m. - 7 p.m.
Waterman	9 a.m. - 7 p.m.
Simpson	9 a.m. - 6 p.m.
Living/Learning	9 a.m. - 7 p.m.
Library	9 a.m. - 8 p.m.

Housing Office Hopes To Avoid Overcrowding

by Rick Steinberg

For the past several months the Office of Residence Halls has been working to rectify and improve the housing situation at the university. Dr. Keith Miser, Director of Residence Halls, stated that several ideas and programs are in the planning stages for the upcoming semester. A modified food system and increased educational programs within the dorms were among the possible changes.

This past year the Housing Office experienced some difficulties which resulted in severe overcrowding. In analyzing the dormitory situation, there were many variables to consider. According to Miser, slight miscalculations in these variables causes overcrowding.

Specific plans for next semester will not be available until the office has a better grip on these variables. (Among the factors to be considered are the number and sexual ratio of the incoming freshmen; the number of present freshmen who will leave the dorm once they are no longer required to live on campus, and the number of off campus students who will return to dormitories due to the gas shortage and rising food prices.) At this point it is difficult to assess the impact of these factors.

"Three or four years ago estimates could be predicted within three or four per cent of the actual figures," stated Miser. "But now student life styles have changed greatly, making things more difficult." Miser is optimistic that the problems will be minimal for the upcoming semester.

As one means of alleviating the overcrowding in the dorms and as an added convenience for students, they considered purchasing homes and apartments in the vicinity of the university. But there were problems with city zoning ordinances which blocked this option.

Meal Plans

Plans are under way to alter the present food system, which in the past several years has undergone considerable revamping. With the food contract scheduled to expire at the end of this year, a committee of students and administration was set up to look over the present system and make recommendations. Questionaires were sent to students in an attempt to determine student views on the system.

Miser hopes to initiate "a more flexible system" whereby students can get the most for their money. Negotiations are presently under way with SAGA to make the appropriate alterations.

Another major thrust of the Office of Residence Halls has been aimed at developing programs within the dormitories that "residence halls are not only a place where students eat and sleep, but a place to live, learn and develop in an out of the classroom situation."

Through the various resident advisors and assistants working in conjunction with the Housing office, various educational programs have been set up. This has been a primary function of the Living/Learning complex.

"Our goal is to get students involved in an educational sense," noted Miser. "We're trying to enhance and enrich the lives of the students and have as much as possible going on. There is much to be learned outside of the classroom."

Differential Pricing

Miser also discussed the possibility of employing differential pricing for the various dorms. With the great variation in the physical facilities of the dorms there

(continued on page eight)

Millis Hall

U.S. University Offers Solzhenitsyn A Place

by Malcolm G. Scully
From The Chronicle of Higher Education

The telegram read, "Please know that should you desire to continue your research and writing, we will do all that we can to facilitate your work and to accomodate you and your family."

It was from Stanford University, to Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn, care of Heinrich Boell.

Stanford offered the exiled Russian novelist the "libraries and archives" of its Hoover Institution, and concluded: "Should you wish to establish a formal relationship with our university, we are prepared to discuss the possibility with you."

Whether the 55-year-old writer wishes to establish a relationship with Stanford, or with any of the many other institutions in the United States that have made overt or covert overtures to him to join their faculties, remains to be seen.

Public Announcement

While a number of institutions have sought to contact Mr. Solzhenitsyn, either through Mr. Boell, the German novelist who played host to Mr. Solzhenitsyn for his first days in the West, or through Felix Heeb, the Swiss lawyer who has handled Mr. Solzhenitsyn's affairs in the West, only Stanford has publicly announced its action.

The university revealed the invitation after the student newspaper learned of its existence.

Generally, experts on Soviet dissidents and on Mr. Solzhenitsyn's writing believe that he will do nothing until his family leaves Russia. Then, they say, he is more likely to come to the United States for brief visits than he is to make it his permanent place of exile.

They note that he does not speak English and that many of the other recent exiles from Russia are living in Western Europe.

Adam Ulam, director of the Russian Research Center at Harvard University, suggests that universities avoid making a barrage of invitations for the first few weeks of exile.

"This must be a period of great distress and difficulty for him. I think he should be left in peace for the present," Mr. Ulam said.

While Mr. Ulam said Harvard would be "very glad to host" the novelist, he added, "It is a little premature to start grabbing for him. The most important thing to him now is his family."

Kristina Hrzhalski, executive secretary of the American P.E.N. Club, the international organization of writers and editors that pledges its members to "oppose any form of suppression of freedom of expression in the country and community to which they belong," said that at least ten institutions had contacted her about how best to make an invitation to Mr. Solzhenitsyn.

"Before asking that citizens obey the law, learn how to observe it yourselves. Free the innocent, and punish those guilty of mass murder."

She has told them to write directly to Mr. Heeb in Zurich.

But, she added, she doubted that he would come to the United States.

"It's possible that he might come later, but I don't see him coming for the foreseeable future," she said. "I doubt that he is going to give up fighting for the other dissidents in Russia."

'Very Private People'

Once the writer's family is safely in the West, observers said, Mr. Solzhenitsyn will probably choose a permanent place of exile on the basis of where he can best continue his writing and his efforts to expose oppression in the

(continued on page nine)

Fired Professor Feels "UVM Is Not Awake"

by Bruce Maddern

In one of the continuing presentations of A.C.E. in the hall, Alan Paskow, one of the Philosophy Four talked on "UVM As I See It" and UVM's "special problems." Beginning by saying that he was "not totally negative" about UVM, he spoke on the good as well as the bad, about students and faculty in particular.

Among the few good points he mentioned were the small class size, good faculty, and the fact that UVM is "not ridden with strife." Commenting on the last item, he said that maybe it wasn't good because nothing happens and maybe that wasn't good.

Among the long list of problems, the "lack of consciousness" on the part of students and faculty was high up on the list. He commented on UVM's "privatism," the fact that people at UVM pursue their own interests and that they are not trying to initiate large social reforms.

He classified students under two headings, students without direction, and those with direction but no purpose, caused, he said, by a "lack of perspective."

Moving to the faculty and administration, Paskow talked on his student-product theory. He claims the University is divided into feudal states with different departments as warring factions, in combat over gathering students to fill their classes. The administration is only concerned about mass-producing graduates.

He said that the faculty here are frustrated, just wanting to seek new positions higher up the ladder. Paskow claimed that the administration is full of frustrated teachers, those who "were not good at it" or were "not rewarded" by it. The transformation from faculty to administration, he said, changed them from "thinkers to doers" and now they treat faculty paternalistically, guiding them and helping them along the road. The culmination is un-inspired instruction with the effects falling on the student.

"UVM is not awake," he said. He likened UVM to a noxious fog where we are just floating and where we can't realize that our environment is killing us. Paskow said Gerry Ford's son is applying here, not because of the academia as President Andrews puts it, but rather because there is good skiing nearby.

In closing he offered a solution or at least a help. He suggested organizing to form a student union. There are so many problems or areas for student input but none of the input ever happens. Paskow concluded by saying that UVM is not the only university with these problems, but that they are evident here.

The New Riders of the Purple Sage will appear in Burlington on April 10. The concert will start at 8:30 p.m. in Burlington Memorial Auditorium. The concert is being produced by the Community Media Project in association with UVM S.A. concerts.

Featured This Week:

Cynic Sponsors Photo Contest—p. 10

Bar Review-Hannibals—p. 5

Table Of Contents

Arts and Entertainment ..... p. 6
Calendar/Announcements ..... p. 2
Crossword Puzzle ..... p. 10
Doctor's Bag ..... p. 10
Editorial ..... p. 4
Op. Ed. ..... p. 5
Sports ..... p. 12

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar's Remarks

No classes Tuesday, March 5th – Town Meeting Day – VOTE!

Spring recess is March 25 – 30, No classes.

How about your local address – did you check it in our office yet? Next semester's enrollment information will be mailed there so please check to see we have yours correctly.

Many thanks to those of you who took the time to drop us a note on the adjusted class week. Your comments were very constructive and appreciated by those of us who work with your schedules.

Psych Majors To Meet

There will be a meeting of all psychology majors on Thursday, March 7 at 7:30 in Room 314, John Dewey Hall. Purpose: to elect an undergraduate representative to the Psychology Department Undergraduate Committee and to reestablish the Psychology Club.

Physical Therapy

There will be an important meeting Thursday at 9 p.m. in 313 Rowell for all physical therapy students and faculty. Discussion on setting up local APTA chapter, curriculum changes, seminars, and committee groups. After the business meeting, there will be an opportunity to meet other people in the program, get a free massage, and free coffee and doughnuts. All classes are urged to attend so each will have an opportunity to plan future directions of the physical therapy program.

Student Teachers

There will be an important meeting for all students who intend to student teach Fall semester 1974 or Spring 1975, Thursday, March 7 at 7 p.m. in 101 Votey Hall.

Senior Class Council Discusses Graduation, Parties

A meeting of the class of 1974 was held at the Living/Learning Center on Thursday, February 14 at 7:30 p.m. Seniors elected as class officers were: President, Mitchell Cooperman; Vice-president, Carole Lederberg; Secretary, Stephen Rice; Treasurer, Susan Wogel. Steve Rice volunteered to serve as chairman of the Commencement Committee and asked all seniors interested in helping plan graduation to contact him at ext. 2908. Graduation is scheduled for May 18 and 19, according to the college in which you are enrolled.

There will be a meeting of the senior class Thursday, February 28, at 8 p.m. by the fireplace, Commons Building, Living and Learning Center. Details about graduation, senior events, including a senior beer-pizza party will be announced. Seniors are urged to attend and voice ideas.

Pre-vets To Organize

The University of Vermont does not have and has never had a club or organization which was available to students who planned to attend a veterinary college after graduation. An organizational meeting for such a group will be held on March 6, 7 p.m., room 111, Rowell Building.

A pre-vet club, if formed, would hope to provide a means of getting around the red tape. It could inform members of the various residency requirements of the select states which have Veterinary Colleges. Many of these states have admission contracts with states which do not have a veterinary program of their own.

Other goals of this club would be to aid the members in finding summer or part time employment in related interest fields. This would include farm work, veterinary assistantships and research.

It is also hoped that a pre-vet club could help foster interest in the proposed Massachusetts Veterinary College for use by all of New England. This idea is being batted around the various state legislatures with no action in sight. The pre-vet club could provide a means for getting news out to the public and to other students on how great the need is and what currently is being done about it.

Lastly, at weekly, bi-weekly, or monthly meetings, depending on general interest, veterinarians and other animal practitioners would be invited to speak on numerous related subjects.

The competition to be admitted to a veterinary school is stiff. In the United States and Canada there are 18 veterinary colleges, and these schools show preferential treatment to in-state students.

Frosh And Sophs Elect Student Advisory Reps

All interested freshmen and sophomores are cordially invited to attend the next meeting of the Student Advisory Committee in order to elect four representatives from each class to that committee. The purpose of the committee is outlined in the Vermont Cynic issue previous to the last. On the most fundamental theoretical level, the committee has been established to advise and restrain certain actions involved in the College of Arts and Science's standards such as curriculum, studies, honors, admissions, faculty standards, and so on. The next meeting is on Wednesday, March 6 at 6 p.m. in Memorial Lounge of Waterman Building

Lyric Theatre Inc. Will Perform Musicals

"How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" will be the first musical to be performed by the newly organized Lyric Theatre Inc. group of Burlington, a non-profit organization formed exclusively for musicals. Performance dates are set for May 1 through 5 in the Flynn Theatre.

Tryouts for this musical will be held Sunday, March 3, from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. and 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. at Trinity College Auditorium. They also will be held Monday, March 4 from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. at Trinity. All people are invited to audition.

People should be prepared to sing a song from this musical or a song from a musical of their choice. An accompanist will be provided or interested people may bring their own.

People interested in playing in the orchestra should audition on Saturday, March 2 from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. at the University of Vermont Music Department on South Williams Street. Instrumentalists may play any music they wish.

Howard Delano, Headmaster of the Pine Ridge School in Williston, will be director, Jeffrey Pratt will conduct the orchestra and Allyson Davis will be the choral director and vocal coach. Polly Nulty is the choreographer.

Lyric Theatre is planning a gala opening night with a champagne reception. Tickets will go on sale in April at the Flynn Theatre. Any one interested in any aspect of this production with questions are asked to call 862-1218.

Home Ec Grads Discuss Food

The Phi Chapter of Omnicron Nu, a national home economics honor society will sponsor the second of a series of three home economics research symposiums, Thursday, March 7 from 7-9 p.m. It will be open to the University and public in the Vermont Room of Terrill Hall.

This second symposium will feature the recent research and study of home economics graduate students. They are; Debbie Goff, "Energy Conservation in Food Preparation," Julie Hoffman, "Protein Whey in Bread," and Ann Buller "Diet Therapy and Hyperlipidemia."

The third and final symposium will be in April and will include undergraduate study.

Experience

Experience in Experience. Subject for discussion is Oral Interpretation in focus. Thursday, February 28 at 7 p.m. in 120 Commons, Living/Learning Center.

Poetry Competition

The National Poetry Press announces its Spring Competition of the College Student's Poetry Anthology. The closing date for the submission of manuscripts by college students is April 10.

Any student attending either junior or senior college is eligible to submit his verse. There is no limitation as to form or theme. Shorter works are preferred by the Board of Judges, because of space limitations.

Each poem must be typed or printed on a separate sheet, and must bear the name and home address of the student, and the college address as well. Entrants should also submit the name of their present English Instructor.

Manuscripts should be sent to the Office of the Press, National Poetry Press, 3210 Selby Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif. 90034.

I.R.A. Elections

At dinner on March 13, the Inter Residence Association will be taking ballots in all the dining halls for the new officers of the I.R.A. All resident students are urged to make sure they familiarize themselves with this election for the I.R.A. is your organization. In the next issue of the Cynic each candidate will have a short write up of themselves, be sure to read it.

VPIRG Dance

VPIRG Energy Conservation Project and IRA present "The Pine Island String Band" in a Blackout Dance Friday, March 1, 8:30–11:30 p.m. in Simpson Cafeteria. Besides being an opportunity to hear some good music and boogie, the blackout will emphasize how much we depend upon electricity in our everyday lives, and how we would be affected if we were faced with a real blackout. It's free, open to all UVM'ers. Turn off all electricity, grab a flashlight and come.

Gaseous ?

Have you had any troubles with any gas station or service garage in the Burlington Area? Have you experienced overpricing, bad workmanship, or shoddy service at stations in the area? If so, please contact Andrew Morse at 656-2907. We are conducting an investigation of stations shafting students in the Burlington area.

S. A. Faculty Advisor

The Student Association President will be appointing a new Faculty Advisor during the latter part of April. The S.A. invites all faculty members to consider themselves welcome at the S. A. Office to ask questions, leave their names, etc.

It is hoped that this position will provide stability during the year to year transition. Although the person is mainly in an advisory capacity, it is an integral part of making sure that S. A.'s energies are well directed. The normal term of office is two years and a balanced knowledge of the University is necessary.

Printing Workshop

Anyone interested in participating in a weekly printing workshop is invited to come to the first class, February 28 from 7-9 p.m. in Room 166 D at the Living/Learning Center. Classes are free and will be held every Thursday until April 27. The workshop will explore two dimensional design through drawing, linoleum block printing, vegetable printing, silk screen and batik. Inexperienced students are welcomed. This is an introductory course. For further information contact Meg Hilly at 656-4260.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28

7 p.m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship meets, Room 131, Building A, Living/Learning Center.

7:30 p.m., ACE presents Executive Vice President Wayne C. Patterson, who will speak on "Administrative Morality," lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop "Communications Training," with Mike "School information and registration from 862-2013.

7:30 and 9:40 p.m., SAFilms presents Marlon Brando in "The Fugitive Kind," with Anna Magnani and Joanne Woodward, B106 Cook Bldg.; admission 75 cents.

8 p.m., L'Amicale Francaise presents "Les Biches," with English subtitles, Johnson Auditorium, (room 101), Votey Bldg. Admission $1 with UVM I.D., $1.25, general.

8 p.m., Women of UVM Book Discussion Group meets at home of Alison Etherton, 42 Elsom Pkwy., to discuss "The Practice of Creativity." Note date change.

Through March 13 at Fleming Museum "Photographs of the Slate Quarries" by Neil Rappaport, and "The Art and Design of Architecture," organized by NEH fellow Peter King with the assistance of undergraduate Ruth Nickerson.

Lane Series reminder: The Netherlands Wind Ensemble will appear on March 8, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium. Tickets are available at $3, $5, and $6 from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, tel. ext. 3418.

FRIDAY, MARCH 1

9:30 a.m.–4 p.m., APEX program information table at Billings Center.

2 p.m., Psychology colloquium, Dr. Theodore Barber of the Medfield Foundation and a leading authority on the subject will discuss "Hypnosis," Room 314 John Dewey Hall.

7:15 p.m., discussion group at Burgess Hall lounge, open to all students interested in raising questions of faith, religion, church or life as a student; led by Chaplain Odie.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., Lane Film Society Series presents "The War of the Worlds," based on the novel by H.G. Wells, Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg. Tickets $1 at the door or from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, tel 656-3418.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Dance Language," with Karen Aschenbach; call 862-2013 for reservations and information.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents Humphrey Bogart in "All Through the Night," with Peter Lorre, admission 50 cents at B106 Cook Bldg.

8 p.m., Burlington folk Dancers meet at Southwick, free and open to all.

8 p.m., illustrated lecture by Richard DeMarco; a leading figure in the British art scene and director of Edinburgh Arts, '73-'74. Mr. DeMarco's topic, with slides, will deal with Scotland, the lively arts in Britain and the continent, and his Edinburgh Summer Arts Program for artists and students of theatre, dance and studio art. Room 115, Commons Bldg., Living/Learning Center.

8:30–11:30 p.m., VPIRG Energy Conservation Project and IRA present "The Pine Island String Band" in a Blackout Dance in Simpson Cafeteria. It's free and open to all UVM'ers.

9 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, Basement, Billings Center.

SATURDAY, MARCH 2

1-4 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Altering Your State of Consciouness in Everyday Life," with Dan Meyer; phone 862-2013 for registration, information.

8 p.m., concert by pianist Claudio Vasquez, artist in residence at Rosary Hill College, Buffalo, N.Y., at Ira Allen Chapel. Hosted by the music department, the concert is free and public. (See story this issue.)

SUNDAY, MARCH 3

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall program, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper.

8 p.m., SAFilms Silent Cinema Classics presents "Tol'able David," with Richard Barthelmess, admission free, North Lounge, Billings Center.

MONDAY, MARCH 4

7 p.m., meeting for history majors, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop on "Synectics," with John Wilson; phone 862-2013 for reservations, information.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Bob Chalmers, president of the Burlington Chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous, who will talk about alcoholism, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

8 p.m., SAFilms "swashbucklers, archers and other good guys" series presents "The Crusades," directed by Cecil B. DeMille, admission free, North Lounge, Billings Center.

TUESDAY, MARCH 5

University Holiday. No classes scheduled; most academic and administrative offices closed.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Atty. Matthew Katz, who will discuss legal aspects of impeachment, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

I.R.A. Elections

At dinner on March 13, the Inter Residence Association will be taking ballots in all the dining halls for the new officers of the I.R.A. All resident students are urged to make sure they familiarize themselves with this election for the I.R.A. is your organization. In the next issue of the Cynic each candidate will have a short write up of themselves, be sure to read it.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

MONDAY NIGHT SPECIAL

4:30 pm to 7:00 pm

864-7444 WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333 N. WINOOSKI AVE

FREE DELIVERY

$1.00 off a LARGE PIZZA except large plain

NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE

1 coupon per pizza

Good for March 4, 11, 1974

MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm

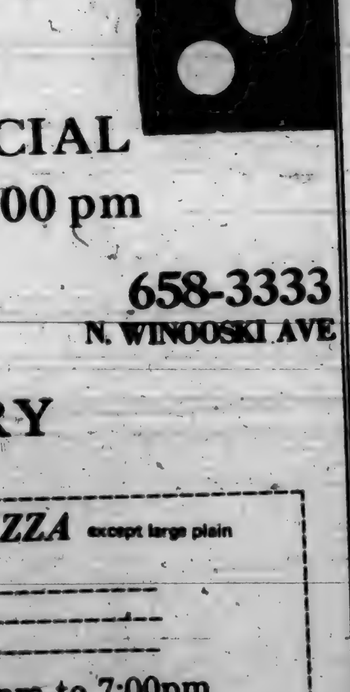
50¢ off a SMALL PIZZA except small plain

NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE

1 coupon per pizza

Good for March 4, 11, 1974

MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm



HUMILIATE

No one does that.

WEIGHT WATCHERS

Tuesday – St. Anselms Chapel – 12 Noon. For further information call 658–1820, 171 Church Street, Burlington

VALUABLE COUPON

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM The Medical Center

DOMINO'S PIZZA

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Name
Address
Phone

864-7444 Williston Road

658-3333 No. Winooski Ave

Void if not completed

Expires March 6, 1974

1 Coupon per pizza

7:30 p.m., Christian Science College Organiza... at 389 College St. (Hillel House), all are welcome

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for gospel mus... inquiry, library lounge, Marsh-Austin-Tupper... information call Sue K. at ext. 2952

7:30 p.m., UVM Student Wives Club meets f... Auction, at the community center, marri... apartments; Fort Ethan Allen. Find out mor... group from Kathy Welch, ext. 3370.

8 p.m., SAFilms present Alfred Hitchcock's ... with Ingrid Bergman and Cary Grant, admissio... Bldg.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6

9 a.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class ... Bldg. A, Room 131, Living Center.

11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Billings Center Board presents a film, North Lounge, Billings C...

12 noon, AIM (Associates in Ministry) ... weekly "Voyages in the Spirit," Conferenc... Billings Center. Coffee and tea provided.

3:30 p.m., Faculty Senate meets, Room ... Bldg. [Note change of place.]

6:30 p.m. meeting of Student Advisory C... College of Arts and Sciences, interested stude... Memorial Lounge, Waterman Bldg.

7 p.m., The Next Thing presents a wor... Politics of Women's Health," at the Wom... Center. Reservation are limited, so call 862-20...

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Pau... who will speak on "Radio Schools in Peru," ... of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 p.m., Outing Club meets, 196 Sou... behind Admissions Office.

8 p.m., SAFilms experimental series presents ... Computer Graphic Films," North Lounge, B... admission 75 cents.

8 p.m., Visiting Caribbean Scholar Dr. E... will discuss the environmental problems ... ecology of the Caribbean, Room 115, L... Center (Commons Building).

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets ... Ballroom. International dances of all ... Everyone welcome to attend.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, M... senior engineer, IBM, Essex Junction, on... forces" in circuit technology evolution, ... Building, talk preceded by coffee at 10:45 ... Votey.

2 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society cla... Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

3 p.m., Geography colloquium, Prof ... geography dept., "The Importance of Place ... Identity," 110-A Old Mill Bldg. Open to all.

VPIRG Denied Righ...

The Vermont Public Interest Research Group, Inc. (VPIRG) said today that it had been denied permission to made xerox copies of its own expense of a number of public documents held by the highway department. VPIRG said Attorney General Kimberly Cheney had been asked to make a ruling (see attached letter), but had indicated that he will not act in the near future.

"Denial of reasonable access to these materials is seriously hurting our efforts to better understand Vermont's highway program," said Len Bisson, VPIRG staff member who is coordinating the highway research project. Under his direction a number of college students are researching highway development in the state.

Bisson pointed out that all of the documents sought are available for public inspection at the highway department, and that the public is allowed to copy them by hand. "But it would take us a year to hand copy documents that could be xeroxed in an hour," Bisson said.

Bisson ... many d... highway ... been extr... assisting V... atmosphe... dramatical... ago, appe... from ... Engineer ... that time ... appears t... giving him ... VPIRG ... highway p... appears d... to discou... understan... plans. Bi... Bisson sa... could ... Environ... Statement ... pencil an... Gosa ... statement ... pages." L... had told ... we don't ... (corridor) ... time, we ... go to the ... prepared ... In the ... General ... pointed ... willing t...

English Departmenta...

The Department of English is making a special effort this year to bring to the attention of its majors the possibility of trying for departmental honors at the end of the senior year. This opportunity involves the writing of a comprehensive examination in English and American literature and does not penalize applicants who fail to achieve honors, and gains for the winners "honors" status both on the student's permanent record and on the commencement program.

Since 1964 several students in several ... Arts an... have ach... departme... themsel... departme... number ... from the ... in any o... in 1972. ... Stude... more ab... honors ... Profess... chairper... Depar... Commit... Old Mill...

BEVERAGE WAREHOU...

Rout...

FANTASTIC SEL... OF BEERS ALE... AMERICAN & IM... WINES... AT GREAT SA...

S

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28

m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship meets, Room ilding A, Living/Learning Center.

p.m., ACE presents Executive Vice President Wayne rman, who will speak on "Administrative Morality," of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, munications Training" with Mike Schaal. ation and registration from 862-2013.

and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents Marlon Brando in Fugitive Kind," with Anna Magnani and Joanne ard, B106 Cook Bldg. admission 75 cents.

m., L'Amicale Francaise presents "Les Bicots," with subtitles, Johnson Auditorium, (room 101), Votey Admission $1 with UVM I.D., $1.25 general.

m., Women of UVM Book Discussion Group meets at of Alison Etherton, 42 Elsom Pkwy., to discuss "The w of Creativity." Note date change.

ough March 13 at Fleming Museum: "Photographs of ate Quarries" by Neil Rappaport, and "The Art and of Architecture," organized by NEH fellow Peter with the assistance of undergraduate Ruth Nickerson e Series reminder: The Netherlands Wind Ensemble ger on March 8, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium." ts are available at $3, $5, and $6 from the Lane , 234 Waterman, tel. ext. 3418.

FRIDAY, MARCH 1

0 a.m. - 4 p.m.: APEX program information table at n Center.

m., Psychology colloquium, Dr. Theodore Barber of dfield Foundation and a leading authority on the t will discuss "Hypnosis," Room 314 John Dewey

5 p.m., discussion group at Burgess Hall lounge, open l students interested in raising questions of faith, on, church or life as a student, led by Chaplain Odie.

0 and 9:30 p.m., Lane Film Society Series presents War of the Worlds," based on the novel by H.G. Wells, dict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg. Tickets $1 r door or from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, tel. 2418.

0 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Dance ence," with Karen Aschenbach, call 862-2013 for ations and information.

0 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents Humphrey Bogart ll Through the Night," with Peter Lorre, admission 50 at B106 Cook Bldg.

p.m., Burlington folk Dancers meet at Southwick, free pen to all.

p.m., illustrated lecture by Richard DeMarco, a leading in the British art scene and director of Edinburgh '73-'74. Mr. DeMarco's topic, with slides, will deal Scotland, the lively arts in Britain and the continent, his Edinburgh Summer Arts Program for artists and nits of theatre, dance and studio art, Room 115, mons Bldg., Living/Learning Center.

0 - 11:30 p.m., VPIRG Energy Conservation Project IRA present "The Pine Island String Band" in a out Dance in Simpson Cafeteria. It's free and open to ryone.

p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a e house atmosphere, basement, Billings Center.

SATURDAY, MARCH 2

4 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Altering State of Consciouness in Everyday Life," with Dan r; phone 862-2013 for registration, information.

p.m., concert by pianist Claudio Vatquez, artist in nce at Rosary Hill College, Buffalo, N.Y., at Ira Allen el. Hosted by the music department, the concert is nd public. (See story this issue.)

SUNDAY, MARCH 3

30 p.m., ACE in the hall program, lounge of h-Austin-Tupper.

p.m., SAFilms Silent Cinema Classics presents ble David," with Richard Barthelmess, admission North Lounge, Billings Center.

MONDAY, MARCH 4

p.m., meeting for history majors, Marsh Room, Billings er.

30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop on nectics," with John Wilson; phone 862-2013 for rvations, information.

30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Bob Chalmers, dent of the Burlington Chapter of Alcoholics nymous, who will talk about alcoholism, lounge of h-Austin-Tupper halls.

p.m., SAFilms "swashbucklers, archers and other good " series presents "The Crusades," directed by Cecil B. lle, admission free, North Lounge, Billings Center.

TUESDAY, MARCH 5

niversity Holiday. No classes scheduled; most academic administrative offices closed.

30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Atty. Matthew Katz, will discuss legal aspects of impeachment, lounge of h-Austin-Tupper halls.

ALUABLE COUPON
AL TO STUDENTS FACULTY MEMBERS
DISCOUNT
YOUR PURCHASES AT PUS PHARMACY
ACROSS FROM
The Medical Center

PIZZA
RGE PIZZA
658-3333
No. Winooski Ave
mpleted
pizza

7:30 p.m., Christian Science College Organization meets at 339 College St. (Hillel House); all are welcome.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for gospel music and bible inquiry, library lounge, Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls; for information call Sue K. at ext. 2952.

7:30 p.m., UVM Student Wines Club meets for a Chinese Auction, at the community center, married student apartments, Fort Ethan Allen. Find out more about the group from Kathy Welch, ext. 3370.

8 p.m., SAFilms present Alfred Hitchcock's "Notorious" with Ingrid Bergman and Cary Grant, admission free, B106 Bldg.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6

9 a.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class for women, Bldg. A, Room 131, Living Center.

11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Billings Center Governing Board presents a film, North Lounge, Billings Center.

12 noon, AIM (Associates in Ministry) presents its weekly "Voyages in the Spirit," Conference Room C, Billings Center. Coffee and tea provided.

4:30 p.m., Faculty Senate meets, Room E-210 Given Bldg. (Note change of place.)

6:30 p.m. meeting of Student Advisory Committee of College of Arts and Sciences, interested students welcome, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Bldg.

7 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "The Politics of Women's Health," at the Women's Health Center. Reservation are limited, to call 862-2013.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Father Davignon who will speak on "Radio Schools in Peru," at the lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 p.m., Outing Club meets, 196 South Prospect, behind Admissions Office.

8 p.m., SAFilms experimental series presents "Video and Computer Graphic Films," North Lounge, Billings Center, admission 75 cents.

8 p.m., Visiting Caribbean Scholar Dr. Edward Towle will discuss the environmental problems and general ecology of the Caribbean, Room 115, Living/Learning Center (Commons Building).

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Southwick Ballroom. International dances of all levels taught. Everyone welcome to attend.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Mr. W.D. Pricer, senior engineer, IBM, Essex Junction, on determinant forces in circuit technology evolution, 305 B Votey Building, talk preceded by coffee at 10:45 a.m. in 307 A Votey.

2 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class, Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

3 p.m., Geography colloquium, Prof. S. McHenry, geography dept., "The Importance of Place in Maintaining Identity," 110-A Old Mill Bldg. Open to all.

Cunningham Newman Center

Weekend Liturgies: Saturday at 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. and Sunday at 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. Weekday Liturgies: Each day at 4:15 p.m. also Monday at 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday at 10 p.m.

Morning Prayer: Monday through Friday, at 8:30 a.m. Sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant, and Catholic Campus Ministries.

Evening Prayer: Each evening (except Tuesday because of 10 p.m. Mass) at 10 p.m. in the Chapel.

Pentecostal Prayer Meeting: Mondays, during Lent: begins at 7:30 p.m. with Mass followed by Prayer Meeting.

Pre-Cana Marriage Preparation -- begins Sunday, March 3rd, at 7:30 p.m.

Basic Catholicism: Each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Topic is Sacraments.

Bible Study: Each Monday at 8:00 p.m.

If there are other activities or Prayer Experiences you would like to see us offer during Lent -- Please let us know at the Center (telephone 862-8403).

Liberty Union Dinner

Liberty Union, Vermont's Third political party, is holding a Spaghetti fund raising dinner this Friday. Liberty Union is asking for a three dollar donation. The dinner will be held at Burlington's First Methodist Church (corner of South Winooski Avenue and Buell Street) on Friday, March 1st, at 7 p.m.

St. Anselm's Announcements

Services:

Sunday--11:00 a.m., Holy Eucharist. This Sunday's special guest preacher and celebrant will be the Right Rev. Harvey Butterfield, Bishop of Vermont. Bishop Butterfield has been one of the church's most outspoken leaders in the past decade. A very inspiring person, he was responsible for the founding of St. Anselm's Chapel here at UVM. There will be a special presentation of the songs of the Broadway play "Godspell" throughout the service.

Tuesday--10 p.m., Holy Eucharist.

Daily--5:45 p.m., Evening Prayer(All services are Episcopal -- All Denominations welcome!!)

Ecumenical Morning Prayer--Daily, 8:30, at Newman Center is Jesus Christ The Only Way? Part II Sunday, 6:30 p.m.

St. Anselm's is sponsoring this five part seminar series on Salvation, trying to get a better understanding of what the death and resurrection of Jesus means for our salvation and those of others. This week, Prof. Bob Gussner of the Religion department will be the guest speaker. He will present some of the views of the Far Eastern religions regarding salvation, and their relationship to Christianity.

Discussion Groups:

Monday--6:30 p.m. in the Common Room.

Friday, 7:15 p.m. in Burgess Hall

Both discussion groups are opportunities for students to raise any questions, doubts or problems they have about their faith, religion, or life as a student. The groups are led by Chaplain Odie and anyone is welcome to attend.

Spiritual Corner

Voyages Of The Spirit

VOYAGES OF THE SPIRIT: a weekly series of personal conversation about the spiritual dimension of life. The atmosphere is ecumenical and all are invited. The next guest will be Gaston Carrier, Minister of the First Unitarian Church. His subject will be "The Biggest Voyage: A Spiritual Treasure Hunt." Wednesday, March 6, 12:15 p.m. in Conference Room C, upstairs in Billings Center.

VOYAGES OF THE SPIRIT (downtown): The Associates in Ministry, in co-operation with the First Unitarian Church of Burlington, is sponsoring a series of Voyages of the Spirit to be held on the six Sunday evenings of Lent. Each Voyage will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the Parlors of the First Unitarian Church. The first of this series will be on March 3. The speaker is Ted Stronach, UVM Campus Minister. His subject is "Occult Magic and Christian Faith." All are welcome.

BIBLE STUDY: an informal study of selected passages from Scripture. Every Thursday evening at 9 p.m. in the T.V. lounge of Patterson Hall (Redstone Campus). Tonight (February 28) the subject will be David's Kingdom (II Samuel). Next week (March 7) the subject will be prophesy (The Book of Amos). All who come should read the text in question. All are welcome.

OPEN SUPPER: a time to share a meal and conversation and maybe meet some new people. Every other Thursday evening at 6 p.m. at the office of the Associates in Ministry (389 College St.). The next supper will be next Thursday, March 7.

SUNDAY MORNING CAR POOL: for those who would like a ride to the church of their choice. Call Ted Stronach Saturday or Sunday morning before 9 a.m. at 863-6970.

ECUMENICAL MORNING PRAYER, co-sponsored with the Episcopalian and Roman Catholic campus ministries.

Every morning, Monday through Friday, at 8:30 a.m. at the Newman Center on the Redstone Campus.

Associates In Ministry

This year the Associates in Ministry have been sponsoring a weekly series of spiritual dialogue entitled "Voyages of the Spirit." These discussions have taken place every Wednesday at 12:15 p.m. in Conference Room C of the Billings Center. This series is part of the work that the Associates in Ministry do on the UVM Campus.

The work of AIM, however, is not limited to the University. Part of its job is also to facilitate an exchange between the University and the Burlington community. Consequently, AIM, in co-operation with the First Unitarian Church, is sponsoring a series of "Voyages of the Spirit" to be held at The First Unitarian Church (141 Pearl St., Burlington). These Voyages will take place at 7:30 p.m. on the six Sunday evenings of Lent. At each "Voyage" a guest speaker will share something of what he/she has learned in his/her pilgrimage through life.

This series is ecumenical and all, regardless of religious background, who are committed to listen to one another respectfully are most welcome. If you're interested in an exciting and innovative spiritual exchange this Lent, plan on joining us downtown for the Voyages of the Spirit.

	Guest Speakers
March 3	Ted Stronach, UVM Campus Minister "Occult Magic and Christian Faith"
March 10	George Bolender, Chiropractor "Take Hold of Your Life"
March 17	Sr. Lindora Cabral, UVM Campus Minister "Today's Mortification -- Liberating?"
March 24	Stan Yarian, UVM Religion Department "A Christian's Journey to the East"
March 31	Luther Martin, UVM Religion Department "In Quest of the Numinous"
April 7	Ray Plankey, Missionary "Christian Liberation: Material and/or Spiritual"

Dr. Towle To Lecture On Caribbean

Dr. Edward Towle, Director of the Island Resources Foundation in St. Thomas, U. S. Virgin Islands, will be on campus during the period March 6 -- 8 as a Visiting Caribbean Scholar. He will give a public lecture on March 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Living and Learning Center, 115 Commons Building, on the environmental problems and general ecology of the Caribbean. The Center for Area and International Studies, 479 Main Street, will arrange interviews with Dr. Towle for those students who might be interested in spending a semester (or a longer or shorter period) working and studying in the Caribbean or Central America for academic credit at UVM. Please contact the Center for Area Studies at extension 4062 and leave you name.

VPIRG Denied Right To CopyDocuments

The Vermont Public Interest Research Group, Inc. (VPIRG) said today that it had been denied permission to made xerox copies at its own expense of a number of public documents held by the highway department. VPIRG said Attorney General Kimberly Cheney had been asked to make a ruling (see attached letter), but had indicated that he will not act in the near future.

"Denial of reasonable access to these materials is seriously hurting our efforts to better understand Vermont's highway program," said Leo Bisson, VPIRG staff member who is coordinating the highway research project. Under his direction a number of college students are researching highway development in the state.

Bisson pointed out that all of the documents sought are available for public inspection at the highway department, and that the public is allowed to copy them by hand. "But it would take us a year to hand copy documents that could be xeroxed in an hour," Bisson said.

Bisson emphacized that many divisions of the highway department had been extremely helpful in assisting VPIRG, but that the atmosphere changed dramatically about two weeks ago, apparently on orders from Acting Planning Engineer Arthur Goss. Since that time, Bisson said, there appears to be a "freeze" on giving him information.

VPIRG charged that the highway position on xeroxing appears designed specifically to discourage greater public understanding of highway plans. Engineer Goss told Bisson sarcastically that he could copy any Environmental Impact Statement. "But bring a pencil and lots of paper," Goss said, "They (the statements) average 200 pages." Last September, Goss had told Bisson, "Ordinarily we don't like people to see (corridor) maps ahead of time; we don't like them to go to the (corridor) hearing prepared."

In the letter to Attorney General Cheney, VPIRG pointed out that it was willing to bear all reasonable costs of xeroxing materials. VPIRG argued that not allowing the xeroxing of public documents "appears to be an arbitrary administrative decision designed to prevent us from making effective use of the documents which are long and complex."

Bisson promised that VPIRG would explore all possible steps to get the requested material. "It is pretty clear to us," Bisson said, "that the highway department considers itself to be a fourth branch of government with a deficient sense of its public responsibilities."

The materials that VPIRG is attempting to copy include: 1990 Needs Study, project program control status sheets, sufficiency rating breakdown sheets, corridor reports, design reports, and hearing transcripts.

Skinner said he was disappointed that the committee was not more upset over the incident. "I got the impression," said Skinner, "that this sort of thing happens frequently, and to some extent they take it for granted."

English Departmental Honors

The Department of English is making a special effort this year to bring to the attention of its majors the possibility of trying for departmental honors at the end of the senior year. This opportunity involves the writing of a comprehensive examination in English and American literature and does not penalize applicants who fail to achieve honors, and gains for the winners "honors" status both on the student's permanent record and on the commencement program.

Since 1964 several students in several departments of the Arts and Sciences college have achieved at least one departmental honors for themselves and their departments. The largest number to receive honors from the English department in any one year was six, listed in 1972.

Students who wish to learn more about the departmental honors program may see Professor Littleton Long, chairperson of the English Department Honors Committee, in Room 313, Old Mill.

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE
FANTASTIC SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS

The CORNER BOOKSTORE
The Corner Bookstore has an artistic side, too!
We may be known as Vermont's leading Bookstore, but the Corner Bookstore is also a leader in the field of Art. Prints and Posters abound in the Corner Bookstore and our Art Department has all the necessary materials to resolve your creative urge. Palettes, Paints, Easels, Inks and more are all stocked at the Corner Bookstore. For a finishing touch, we give knowledgeable, friendly advice and service to you . . . the Artist.
Art Shop Lower Level
Church and College Sts.,
Downtown Burlington
658-4554
The Corner Bookstore
"One stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

BIG SKI SALE
BINDINGS

HEAD Plate Binding	$29.50
ALL SOP	$32.50
MARKER	50% off
LOOK 55 NEVADIC	$29.95
GEZE (Ladies)	$36.00
GEZE Plate	$27.50
SPADEMAN	$30.00

SKIS

HEAD HOTHEAD	$79.95
HEAD GK03	$59.95
HEAD STANDARD	$79.95
HEAD HRP	$89.95
HEAD HRP COMP	$100.00
HEAD JUNIOR GKR	$44.95
HEAD JUNIOR COMP	$69.95
KNISSEL BLUE STAR	$109.95
KNISSEL RED STAR	$124.95
KNISSEL RED STAR RACING TEAM	$139.95
KNISSEL WHITE STAR GT	$164.95
KNISSEL DURAPLAST	$79.95
KNISSEL JUNIOR DURAPLAST	$44.95
KNISSEL JUNIOR RACER	$84.95
DYNAMIC 337	$139.95
DYNAMIC VR17	$149.95

BOOTS

THIS SEASON'S MODELS
HUMANIC 837	$89.95
HUMANIC 937	$94.95
HEAD AIR BOOT COMP	Reg. $165.00 SALE $82.50
HEAD AIR BOOT MASTER	Reg. $140.00 SALE $70.00
LAST YEAR'S MODELS
TEN PAIRS OF VARIOUS SINGLE BOOTS
REIKER, RAICHLE, TECHNICA	Regular $145.00 SALE $100.00 a pair
OTHER 1973 BOOTS	Reg. $135.00 SALE $37.50
1973 TECNUS PLUS	Reg. $165.00 SALE $66.95
1973 TECNUS CUSTOM	Reg. $150.00 SALE $69.95
1973 TECNUS RACING	Reg. $195.00 SALE $78.95

CROSS COUNTRY EQUIPMENT
TRAK PACKAGE $84.95
Skis, Boots, Poles, Bindings
HICKORY SOLE SKIS
Skis, Boots, Bindings, Poles -- PACKAGE $49.95
25% Off conventional CROSS COUNTRY Equipment
OPEN DAILY 9 AM-6 PM -- Saturday 'til 6 PM
Swiss Chalet
40 Pearl St., Essex Jct. 878-8901

VERMONT CYNIC

Founded In 1883

LaNoue Frankel '73, Editor-in-Chief
Rick Steinberg '73, Assistant Editor
Eileen Driscoll '75, Managing Editor
Bruce Maddaren '76, News Editor
Kathy Stearns '77, Assistant News Editor
Margo Howland '75, Feature Editor
Lisa Charles '75, Arts Editor
Peter Campbell '75, Assistant Arts Editor
Mike Schwartz '75, Sports Editor
John Van Hoesen '74, Copy Editor
Jim Bradley '74, Complaint Editor
Loren Wilson '74, Advertising Manager

Editorial

Two Student Associations

In view of the upcoming S.A. election, we feel the time has come to say a few things about our Student Association.

In the first place, do we need a Student Association? The answer is, unequivocably, yes. What we need, however, is two student associations. Our present S.A. functions very nicely as a budgetary organization which allocated funds to various clubs. The Finance Committee does a capable job of recommending S.A. allocations and the senators who show up vote on this. The other, related function of the present S.A. is to recognize clubs.

This is all well and good. Perhaps it keeps some people occupied with "worthwhile jobs." In that case, let the Student Association remain a budgetary organization.

What we, as students need is another student organization, a student union. This union's primary, and perhaps solidary aim would be to fight for student rights. The leaders of this union would work towards such concerns as getting student voting members on the Board of Trustees and having students get a real voice in administrative decisions. Under the union, an organized student strike could be called if necessary. Maybe something could finally be done.

There are some salvagable parts in our Student Association. As a purely budgetary organization, it could be efficient. And the other organization, the student union, could be what we've been waiting for.

B.F.

Support Of S. A. Candidates

Steve Rollins

by Steven C. Rice

As a senior, who will be departing in May, it's nice to see a number of people running for S.A. President. The election is slated for March 12-13. It promises to be a good race, and one, I hope, the campus will get excited about for once.

Dick Cassidy, a person who has been around S.A. since he was a freshman, is running. He's an amiable person with a quick smile who's always campaigning for something — and lately, he's been able to win. Last semester, he edged out S.A. President Sig Heller by a single vote to be elected Chairperson of the Student Representatives to the Board of Trustees. Now, he's off and running again. There are times when I wonder when Cassidy will stop and relax.

Cassidy, though he has done quite a bit, has been around too long. It's time for new blood which will give the Student Association the type of transfusion it needs to make it an exciting organization. And that kind of operation can only be accomplished with a president who has charismatic appeal, and one who offers creativity.

Enter the candidacy of Peter MacAusland. Those who have met MacAusland know that there is something unique about him. For one thing, he's not a politician, and no doubt, he doesn't desire to be one.

MacAusland is simply an exciting person who enjoys being at UVM And people who know him and who have worked with him enjoy being around him; it's charisma.

He coordinates the Friday night programs for the Roundhouse. And on many occasions, he has done this task alone. It may not seem like much to get a program together every week, but when you realize that you need people who are willing to perform for nothing, you realize that it takes a special kind of person to get it all together. It's analagous to getting the S.A. together every week.

There is a touch of informality and sincerity in the way MacAusland approaches people. It's certainly indicative in the way he dresses: unlaced sneakers, corduroy pants he has worn all week, a cotton knit shirt, and within these trimmings, a bundle of energy.

Peter MacAusland is a doer and he belongs in the S.A. President's chair. But MacAusland will be the first to admit it will be an uphill battle.

The primary opposition will be offered by Dick Cassidy. And Steve Rollins, chairperson of the S.A. Senate, is expected to wage a strong candidacy. Also running is Mario Marcias.

I know almost all of these candidates personally. All are sincere, and probably all will offer a good campaign. But the only one who has convinced me that he will make an exciting S.A. President is Peter MacAusland.

Dick Cassidy

We are supporting Dick Cassidy for S. A. President. We feel that Dick has insight into student needs and is accomplished at defining and acting realistically upon those needs.

Dick has proven that he is not overwhelmed by the administration and is realistic and constructive in his demands. For example, as Chairperson of the Student Representatives to the Board of Trustees he was instrumental in insuring that students will have input into tenure decision-making. We believe in Dick's ability to implement his ideas. Perhaps most importantly, Dick is also able to listen and respond to new opinions.

We support the stands that Dick has taken in his campaign. We see him as an effective leader and one who will move in positive directions.

Priscilla Elder
Paul Goodman
Bruce MacDougall
Alice Sargent
Susan Smallwood
Tony Blake
Moire Keon
Paul Cillo

From The S. A.:

Election Information

by E.A. Liberty

For the past couple of weeks, as you walked through the dorms or to classes, you have probably noticed several posters belonging to the candidates for S. A. President. Well, it is that time again! It is time for you to cast your vote for the person of your choice for S.A. President. This year the elections will be held on March 12-13. You now know when to vote but do you know where?

The voting polls will be set up at the following places and at the following times:

Waterman	9 a.m.-7 p.m.
Billings Center	9 a.m.-7 p.m.
Bailey Library	9 a.m.-6 p.m.
Living/Learning	9 a.m.-7 p.m.
Simpson Dining Hall	9 a.m.-8 p.m.

When to vote and where to vote has been established but do you know whom you have the opportunity to vote for. The candidates running for the office are Dick Cassidy, Mario Macias Peter MacAusland and Steve Rollins.

You, the student body, will have three opportunities through forums to ask the candidates what their views about the issues are. The three candidate forums will be open to the student body. The first forum will take place February 28 at 7:30 p.m. at Marsh Lounge in Billings. The second forum will also be at 7:30 p.m. in the Fireplace Commons of Living/Learning on March 1. WRUV-AM and FM will be sponsoring the third forum on March 11 at 7:00 p.m. Students will be able to call questions in to WRUV at 656-3220.

If there are any questions about the forums, candidates and the election, contact Chris Milanesi, Secretary of Elections, or Evelyn Liberty, Secretary of Communications, at the S.A. Office.

And—remember to vote on either March 12 or 13 for the candidate of your choice.

The Cynic welcomes letters and columns from students, faculty, or any other readers. Materials for publication must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request.

Letters To The Editor

S. A. Candidate Withdraws

To the Editor:

For the last few weeks I have been soliciting to have my name placed on the ballot for S.A. President. I have found this experience quite rewarding. I met a number of very nice people and gained valuable knowledge regarding the problems of the Student Association. Not surprisingly, I found that most students knew some small bit about S.A. which was tucked away somewhere in their incidental bank of trivia, between Captain Kangaroo's real name and Eddy Haskel's locker number. Who's responsible for this unmitigated lack of information? In my opinion, no one party is at fault. I strongly feel that our student government must be altered in some way as to allow for a great flow of information from Senate to Students and vice versa. We must ameliorate the present structure of our government to generate some direction for future student governments at the University of Vermont.

I don't wish to announce my candidacy for President, but rather a withdrawal from the race. I would not take such action unless I felt sure that the situation warrants it. I can think of no better reason for my resignation than that I feel there is someone more qualified for the position than myself, that candidate is Steve Rollins. Steve and I have discussed our platforms and found a great number of similarities, including the need for some structural change in our government. I hope that I will be able to work with Steve and the other members of the government to create a more effective Student Association.

In closing, I would like to thank all those people who allowed me to talk with them and especially those who signed my petition. I would also like to enclose a debt of thanks to all those people who worked with me on my brief campaign.

Bruce Lashley
Senator

Response From ATrustee

To the Editor:

As a former Trustee I was, naturally, interested in your item in the current Cynic about the newly elected Trustees.

Are your decisions and opinions based on any actual facts? Just what is wrong with being a banker or a successful business man? I have known the three new Trustees for many years. They are in their present positions, from a scratch start, thru their own effort and hard work – and, at the same time, have carried on many civic duties to the benefit of many people that includes the Univ. of Vermont.

Everyone knows and knew their business background. Where is the Watergate type cover-up you suggest? Why don't you take a look at the time, effort and money these men have put into sincerely trying to help the University over the years? If you think tuition is high you should also realize it would be a h-l of a lot higher if the University was not blessed with many loyal Alumni, like these men, who have been digging and scratching up dough for a long time to help you have what you've got at the University.

Sincerely,
Floyd M. James

Commercialism At UVM

To the Editor:

Every time that I've been to a UVM Hockey game, I have enjoyed the spirit and the enthusiasm of the game. However, at the completion of each period when the Zamboni makes its appearance upon the ice, I have been really turned off by the advertisements of the Howard Bank. Is it really necessary for such commercialism on the part of the University? I would think that the school has received sufficient money from the spectators such that we should not have to be forced to look at such repulsive advertisements such as "The Howard Hat Trick" & "Great Save at the Howard Bank."

I would personally think that the money, that the spectators provide is more that enough to fund UVM Hockey as I know of other high ranking schools that require only a student ID to get into the game and their tuition is the same as ours. I honestly don't mind paying admission as it is really worth the price, but it really doesn't seem necessary to loyal UVM fans to be forced to endure such an assinine spectacle as we have witnessed during these games.

A Concerned Fan

The Grading System

To the Editor:

Like a lot of colleges and universities around the country UVM has been faced with an increasing number of out-of-state applications. Many reasons have been given for this trend most notably the academic quality of the programs offered and the location of the school. The university certainly has a good reputation and does not need to go begging for students. On the contrary UVM has been admitting larger numbers of students than it can really handle over the past few years. If this practice continues the university will find itself in a situation of having to turn away larger numbers of applicants than it does already.

Just by chance it seems the S.A. has found a way to insure that UVM will not have to worry about a greater increase of students consequently, that will make the academic atmosphere even more competitive than it is now. The S.A. recently passed a motion whereby a new grading system be considered which would include the averaging in of +'s and –'s to a student's grades. A .25 would be added to or subtracted from the base grade earned. At first thought this sounds like a good idea, but how many people would really think so if they realized that a C– would now be equivalent to a 1.75 instead of a 2.0 under the old system?. A 1.75 is really a D+ because a 1.75 is still included in the D bracket which goes from 1.0–1.9.

It is a fine thing to reward people because they got a + level grade by adding .25 to their average, but why penalize people by subtracting .25 from the base grade and making it all the harder to maintain a consistently, steady average? The only real purpose it seems would be to weed out the mediocre people who were able to stay within the educational community under the old grading system. If UVM wants to reduce the number of out-of-state students both incoming and currently attending let them do it in the admissions office instead of weeding out the average students and making this institution another Sorbonne where only the top students would be left to continue their education. If the university is bothered by the fact that they admitted too many average student then perhaps another solution could be thought of to remedy the situation. Even Harvard University has average students on their rolls and it should be no disgrace to UVM to have a melting pot of intelligence here either.

Betsy Andrews
Buckham Hall

From The Senior Council

To the Editor:

As officers of the Senior Class Council, we wish to express our disappointment at the Vermont Cynic's failure to publish an article announcing an important Senior class meeting last week.

The article was prepared by the council's vice-president and delivered to an editor of the newspaper before the Monday noon deadline. It did not appear in Thursday's edition, and the meeting was held Friday.

We hope that in the future the Cynic will be more careful with its handling of articles that do indeed meet the required deadline. After all, the Cynic is funded, in part, by the students of this University.

In any event, the Senior Class Council is busy with preparation of senior class activities, culminating with graduation ceremonies May 18 and 19.

Some exciting ideas have been offered, and senior class meetings will be conducted now every Thursday evening by the fireplace in the Commons Building, Living/Learning, at 8 p.m.

Mitch Cooperman,
President
Carole Ledeberg,
Vice President
Sue Wolgel, Treasurer
Steve Rice, Secretary

Emergency Energy Powers

To the Editor:

How could Governor Salmon feel a "slap" from the insistence of a legislative limit on dictatorial energy emergency powers?

He has said repeatedly he needs to be given power to act, but will take the responsibility with or without 12 months a year legislative oversight.

It is speaker Kennedy of the House who has taken the unusual step of going personally to the House committee handling the Senate bill and insisting on removal of the Senate's provision for a veto by the legislature when in session, and by a special legislative committee when the legislature is not in session.

Kennedy has taken the second unusual step of putting himself twice on the committee of conference where he continued to insist on no legislative oversight for nine months a year.

If he were right, there would be logically no need for the veto power while the legislature is in session.

I feel the press is failing to stress that it is being proposed that the Governor have the power to suspend any law or regulation in the broad energy field; and promulgate orders equally broadly.

In spite of the Speaker's power of appointment of committees and their chairman, and thus power over the fate of the bills sponsored by legislators, and his deserved popularity with legislators of both parties, he is being opposed on principle by an increasing number of House members of both parties.

On the initial role call vote in the House only eleven voted against the House version, but even with greater restriction on the governor in the compromise, the House opposition rose to 27 including two Republican committee chairmen.

Also when the legislators did not have to be identified by name in a roll call, 60 protested the haste of House floor action and voted to be allowed overnight to read the compromise.

After seven weeks of legislative meetings, the House action on the bill and then action on the compromise were each forced into one morning. For ordinary bills the House has a day to read the bill, a second day on which to debate and take preliminary vote, and a third day to make often needed improvements before the final House vote.

Democracy is time consuming, but dictatorship is deadly in its efficiency, and in the long run gets a society into trouble by lack of the corrective wisdom of opposition.

I, for one, admire and respect Speaker Kennedy for his forthrightness, intelligence and knowledge.

But, if he were governor, as he is said to hope, he too would need the corrective oversight of others – a balance of powers.

I disagree with those who suspect only that the intention of Speaker Kennedy is to hold Salmon, the present governor, with sole responsibility for energy matters, and the inevitable blame for any decision. (For instance, the choice is hard between jobs for Vermont employees of the recreation industry by supplying gasoline for out of state skiers, or gasoline for Vermonters getting to their jobs.)

I feel Kennedy has confidence that he could handle such situations. He did ask the House committee for the unlimited powers for an indefinite period when he might be governor, but the committee did limit the grant of power to one year.

On this issue at least I support the Salmon position and reject the Kennedy one.

I am also led to question what I have until now supported the constitutional amendment to double the length of the governor's term to four years.

Until the House asserts its power more vigorously, there is a need for popular control of government through elections every two years.

Jordan D. Cole
Putney
VT House, District 13-2

P.S. The Attorney General, Kimberly Cheney, reversed his advice to the Senate, I hear, and told the committee of conference that the legislature could not delegate its power to a committee between sessions.

If Cheney is right, the present power of the emergency board to vote money and authorize action between sessions is also unconstitutional.

VERMONT CYNIC

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Dave Compagno, Bill Campbell, Cecilia Elwert, Andrew Morse.
FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Carol Dufault, Laurie Rasw.
ARTS: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Doug Collette, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Liel, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Calcoon, Elliott Freeman, Sig Heller, Randy Jansen, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Charlie Brace, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahue, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Dave Raner, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilensik.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Joan Westcot.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Watergate In Waterman?

by John Franco

Many have argued that it is necessary for the mo
the rich and powerful to be in top position University. Some have argued that Barb connections with the wealthy in Vermont make he to the University because she is in a position to endowment monies. The philanthropic nature endowment system is thus cited as a factor mitig charges that she has conflicts of interest.

On the surface this contention looks as thou some validity, but on closer scrutiny it is evident Snelling's job is instead to provide tax breaks fo and super rich, to deny the public treasuries, the of tax loopholes, monies which could be education, and to provide both the mechanism rationale with which the rich can demand high po thus control over the University. It is in short, provide the means by which the University is bo sold.

Last semester, seniors were treated to a UVM courtesy of Snelling's Office of Development and Affairs. That calendar, in its description of the endowment program, candidly revealed the natu endowment system. It read, "Increase the retur investments. Reduce your income tax. Avoid any capitol gains. Increase your spendable income estate taxes and settlement expenses. . ." In shor of paying taxes by donating stocks and securit University. This suggestion would not be so out stock ownership were equitably distributed throu population, and if the American tax system progressive. But neither is the case.

Stock ownership in the U. S. is extremely con
Apologists often refer to the statistic that Americans own stock. But in fact 61 per cent of stock is owned by the wealthiest 1 per ce population, and 83 per cent of the stock is own wealthiest 5 per cent – which are the income ce Barb Snelling, the trustees, etc. The remaining of the stock is owned by the rest of the 30 mill
So the Development Office's little calendar aimed, not at most alumni, but at a very, segment of society.

The tax-dodging mechanisms are very compl in simplest terms, this is how the endowment sy Suppose you are a fat cat millionaire and you a tax bracket. Theoretically you are supposed to 65 per cent of your income in taxes. This rat meant by a progressive tax structure: your taxes your ability-to-pay increases. But in the t Richard Milhous, you want to get out of payi taxes as possible. So you become "philanthropi own stock in Exxon, which you bought for $10 now worth $2000, and you are receiving div that stock. But that income is going to be taxed it is already the public's. So you give it to UV endowment plan.

While you are alive, you still receive dividen gift. UVM pays you earnings on the amount method a good proportion of that money is
And there are even more goodies. If you had that stock on the market, you would have to gains tax on the money you made. But by g

by Kleras Bell

come june of this year i'm going to b twenty two years old 22 years
out of all those nights
of all those years
i ain't never had an american dream.

i dreamed
that i was walking the hills
of san fransisco
looking for the ghost of an older l who had drunk himself
all the way to death
and back again

i dreamed
about a doctor
who was trying to get inside my skul with a rusty church key
with a set of golf clubs
with a two year subscription to sports illustrated.

i dreamed
a drunken rowboat
that floated on a sea of my mothe blood
that bloody rowboat leaked

i dreamed
i bought insurance

i dreamed
about a boyfriend who kissed me on the cheek
who brought me flowers
who took me to the high school pr

i dreamed
i had a hammer
and that i went hammer crazy ran down to washington
hit the president
right between his legs

i dreamed
a fifty seven chevy screaming through a one way asshole
the wrong way

i dreamed
an electric hero
whispered in my ear
a million mouths sat cheering
i got scared

...so i hear that an american drea
it missed the turn off
it bust a gut
it shattered
i never even had the chance to dream it.

ditor

onse From A Trustee

Trustee I was erested in your current Cynic
ently elected
and d on any actual hat is wrong banker or a siness man? I the three new many years their present ch a scratch
r own effort and, at the ave carried on duties to the ny people that Univ of nows and knew their business background. Where is the Watergate type cover-up you suggest? Why don't you take a look at the time, effort and money these men have put into sincerely trying to help the University over the years? If your think tuition is high you should also realize it would be a lot higher if the University was not blessed with many loyal Alumni, like these men, who have been digging and scratching up dough for a long time to help you have what you've got at the University.

Sincerely,
Floyd M. James

gency Energy Powers

uld Governor
"slap" from the e legislative limit
ional energy
wers?
d repeatedly he given power to will take the
with or without year legislative ker Kennedy of ho has taken the ep of going to the House handling the and insisting of the Senate's r veto by the

when in session
special legislative when the not in session has taken the usual step of elf-twice on the
of conference
ntinued to insist tive oversight for a year.
ere, right, there sically no need power while the
in session.
press is failing to t it is being that the Governor power to suspend regulation in the ergy field and orders equally of the Speaker's appointment of es and their and thus power

fate of the bills
by legislators, and ed popularity with
of both parties, he pposed on principle
creasing number of embers of both

initial role call vote
House only eleven ainst the House
ut even with greater on the governor-mpromise, the House
n rose to 27
two Republican
e chairmen
hen the legislators have to be identified in a roll call, 60
the haste of House
on and voted to be vernight to read the ue.

seven weeks of meetings, the tion on the bill and action on the ne were each forced e morning. For bills the House has a nd the bill a second day on which to debate and take preliminary vote, and a third day to make often needed improvements before the final House vote.

Democracy is time-consuming, but dictatorship is deadly in its efficiency, and in the long run gets a society into trouble by lack of the corrective wisdom of opposition.

I, for one, admire and respect Speaker Kennedy for his forthrightness, intelligence and knowledge.

But, if he were governor, as he is said to hope, he too would need the corrective oversight of others a balance of powers.

I disagree with those who suspect only that the intention of Speaker Kennedy is to hold Salmon, the present governor, with sole responsibility for energy matters, and the inevitable blame for any decision. (For instance, the choice is hard between jobs for Vermont employees of the recreation industry by supplying gasoline for out of state skiers, or gasoline for Vermonters getting to their jobs.)

I feel Kennedy has confidence that he could handle such situations. He did ask the House committee for the unlimited powers for an indefinite period when he made bid for governor, but the committee did limit the grant of power to one year.

On this issue at least I support the Salmon position and reject the Kennedy one.

I am also led to question what I have until now supported — the constitutional amendment to double the length of the governor's term to four years.

Until the House asserts its power more vigorously, there is a need for popular control of government through elections every two years.

Jordan D. Cole
Putney
VT House, District 13-2

P.S. The Attorney General, Kimberly Cheney, reversed his advice to the Senate, I hear, and told the committee of conference that the legislature could not delegate its power to a committee between sessions.

If Cheney is right, the present power of the emergency board to vote money and authorize action between sessions is also unconstitutional.

ERMONT CYNIC

...ssey Andrews, Dave ..., Bill Campbell, Cecilia ...drew Morse.
... Sari Bodi, Carol ...ette Rauer.
...n Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, ...yte, Barbara Freedman, ... List, Joseph Obhan, ...t.
...STS Scott Gibson, ...reeman, Sig Heller, ...ers, Alan King, Evelyn ...

...s expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the ...e not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University ...dents, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions ... by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinions ...jority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.
...ed yearly during the college year by the students of the ... of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and ... offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. ... 658-4911. Deadline for section is one week prior to date ...tion.
...ed in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ... Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Charlie Brace, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahue, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Dave Rauer, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilensik.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lhotka, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Joan Wescott.

Watergate In Waterman?

by John Franco

Many have argued that it is necessary for the members of the rich and powerful to be in top positions at the University. Some have argued that Barb Snelling's connections with the wealthy in Vermont make her an asset to the University because she is in a position to beat rare endowment monies. The philanthropic nature of the endowment system is thus cited as a factor mitigating any charges that she has conflicts of interest.

On the surface this contention looks as though it has some validity, but on closer scrutiny it is evident that Mrs. Snelling's job is meshed to provide tax breaks for the rich and super rich, to deny the public treasuries, through the use of tax loopholes, monies which could be used for education, and to provide both the mechanism and the rationale with which the rich can demand high posts at, and thus control over, the University. It is, in short, her job to provide the means by which the University is bought and sold.

Last semester, seniors were treated to a UVM calendar courtesy of Snelling's Office of Development and External Affairs. That calendar, in its description of the University endowment program, candidly revealed the nature of the endowment system. It read, "Increase the return on your investments. Reduce your income tax. Avoid the tax on any capitol gains. Increase your spendable income. Save on estate taxes and settlement expenses. . ." In short, get out of paying taxes by donating stocks and securities to the University. This suggestion would not be so outrageous if stock ownership were equitably distributed throughout the population, and if the American tax system were really progressive. But neither is the case.

Stock ownership in the U.S. is extremely concentrated. Apologists often refer to the statistic that 30 million Americans own stock. But in fact 61 per cent of corporate stock is owned by the wealthiest 1 per cent of the population, and 83 per cent of the stock is owned by the wealthiest 5 per cent — which are the income categories of Barb Snelling, the trustees, etc. The remaining 17 per cent of the stock is owned by the rest of the 30 million people. So the Development Office's little calendar is actually aimed, not at most alumni, but at a very, very small segment of society.

The tax-dodging mechanisms are very complicated, but in simplest terms, this is how the endowment system works. Suppose you are a fat cat millionaire and you are in a high tax bracket. Theoretically you are supposed to pay about 65 per cent of your income in taxes. This rate is what is meant by a progressive tax structure: your taxes increase as your ability-to-pay increases. But in the tradition of Richard Milhous, you want to get out of paying as much taxes as possible. So you become "philanthropic." Say you own stock in Exxon, which you bought for $1000, which is now worth $2000, and you are receiving dividends from that stock. But that income is going to be taxed. In a sense, it is already the public's. So you give it to UVM under the endowment plan.

While you are alive, you still receive dividends from that gift. UVM pays you earnings on the amount, but by this method a good proportion of that money is now tax-free. And there are even more goodies. If you had instead sold that stock on the market, you would have to pay a capital gains tax on the money you made. But by giving it to the University, you not only avoid this nefarious tax, but you also get a tax credit on part of the $2000 value of the stock. You then apply this tax credit to your other income which would otherwise be going to Uncle Sam. It is disputes this. For instance, the theoretical tax rate on the wealthiest groups is 70 per cent but because of the many loopholes available to the rich none of them pays more than 35 per cent, and the actual average rate among this group is 21 per cent. On the other hand, the national average of the actual tax rate is 34 per cent. This means that most people with far less money are paying a higher per centage of their income in taxes than are the rich! Endowment plans, trust funds, and foundations are the principle mechanisms which let the rich get away with this. The overall effect of this on income distribution is to leave everyone with about the same share of the national income after taxes as they had before. The rich can afford to pay more, but they don't.

It would be one thing if endowment were a case of simply transferring money, which would go to the public, to the University. But the endowment system must provide the rich with an incentive to donate. Thus, tax credits. The net effect is not a simple transfer, but is instead an actual loss to the public, and to education. If we closed the tax loopholes, then there would be more net money available to education than there is now through the endowment system, without the strings of the Snellings, the Chittenden, and the Howard Bank attached.

But advocating tax reform, income redistribution, and public finance of higher education opens another can of worms. It's bad enough that the rich and powerful like Barb Snelling and the trustees have the audacity to use this tax-dodge system, which works mainly to their benefit, as a rationale to demand control over the University, but it is this same coterie which also runs the legislature, the Congress, and just about everything else. Remember all the connections among Snelling, the trustees, and the high echelons of the two political parties? They aren't about to buck the tax system when it feeds their wealth and power.

So Barb Snelling's job as Vice President of Development and External Affairs boils down to this: 1) To offer tax breaks, under the guise of philanthropy, to her fellows among the rich; 2) to aggravate an already non-progressive tax structure; 3) to deny the public much of the wealth of the rich which could be available for education, and, 4) to maintain the mechanism by which the rich can "buy" the University, trading their "philanthropy" for control over UVM. You might even call it a legal form of swindling.

precisely this kind of "tax credit" which allowed Nixon to pay peanuts in taxes. You win and the U. S. Treasury loses.

The obvious retort by the folks in Waterman is that the University picks up much needed money. This is a very self-serving and short sighted view, however. As mentioned, the tax system in the U. S. is theoretically progressive. But studies of income distribution before and after taxes

We Have A University For Sale...

by Charles Cameron

people need to keep centered. it's no use taking the expressway from geneva to amsterdam, going a little off center, correcting by leaning right across two lanes of north bound traffic, down an embankment, through a hedge, and just narrowly missing a sturdy cow, so swing around, take another hedge, up the embankment, across three north bound lanes and the center barrier, across three south bound lanes, and down the other embankment, through a field with a small river running through it, through a farm gate, back up onto the road and right across it, and so to amsterdam, this is called reckless driving.

we have to take the middle way, and stay centered.

Press Your Gauge

A strikingly innovative plan was revealed by the Department of the Interior at a press conference in Washington D.C. last week. Second Assistant to the Under-secretary, George N. Gracie, announced plans to members of the press to convert South Vietnam into a National Park. "We figure it this way," Gracie explained candidly, "South Vietnam has now become a unique social and ecological manifestation of American culture."

The brief silence that followed was punctuated only by the furious scribbling of reportorial pens.

"The National Academy of Sciences has told us that up to 36 percent of the coastline mangrove forests have been defoliated, along with large portions of the interior, by chemical applications of the late '60's and early '70's! Amazing!" he enthused. "So why not turn it into a National Park?" he continued, "like Little Big Horn, Wyoming, where General Custer fought, or Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, or Los Angeles?"

"But Mr. Gracie," piped up a sharp young reporter from the Washington Post after a brief pause. "South Vietnam is not legally an American territory as are the aforementioned locales. Does it fall under your department's jurisdiction?"

"I thought you might ask that," replied the Second Assistant to the Under-Secretary with a gleam in his eye. "We are currently," he paused for dramatic effect before lowering his voice, "negotiating with General Thieu for the rights to the territory, and are confidant that an equitable transaction will be agreed upon shortly. So there!"

"But Sir!" came the voice of the New York Times over the disconcerted rumblings around it. "What's the point of all this?"

"Are you kidding?" said Gracie over the growing noise. "The place is practically a wasteland and will be for at least a hundred years, according to our sources at the National Academy of Sciences, if we protect it from unscrupulous development interests oblivious to the cause of conservation."

"Oh," said the Times.

"Now quiet down!" shouted Gracie over the pounding of his gavel.

We did and when order was restored the Boise Sunday Journal piped up, "Mr. Second Assistant, is the defoliation the only South Vietnamese landmark you wish to preserve?"

"A very sensible question sir. Of course; there's the craters."

"The craters?"

"Yes, the craters. According to our sources in the Southeast Asian Highway Commission there are over 25 million of these historic landmarks, caused by application of explository units, which have changed the once flat, unaesthetic terrain into a moon-like surface. These we plan to preserve as a motif for the new national park which will be called "Luna Land: A Glimpse of the Future.'"

At this point several reporters left the room hurriedly to reach the phone lines first.

"Well gentlemen if there are no more questions..."

"Sir!" interrupted the Christian Science Monitor, "Isn't any American intervention in Vietnam illegal after last year's Paris treaty?"

"That, sir," said Gracie sternly, "applies only to the

(continued on page eight)

by Kleras Bell

come june of this year i'm going to be twenty-two years old 22 years
out of all those nights
of all those years
i ain't never had an american dream...

i dreamed
that i was walking the hills
of san fransisco
looking for the ghost of an older brother who had drunk himself
all the way to death
and back again

i dreamed
about a doctor
who was trying to get inside my skull
with a rusty church key
with a set of golf clubs
with a two year subscription
to sports illustrated.

i dreamed
a drunken rowboat
that floated on a sea of my mothers
blood
that bloody rowboat
leaked

i dreamed
i bought insurance

i dreamed
about a boyfriend who kissed
me on the cheek
who brought me flowers
who took me to the high school prom

i dreamed
i had a hammer
and that i went hammer crazy
ran down to washington
hit the president
right between his legs

i dreamed
a fifty seven chevy screaming through
a one way asshole
the wrong way

i dreamed
an electric hero
whispered in my ear
a million mouths set cheering
i got pained

...so i knew that an american dream
it missed the turn off
it bust a gut
it shattered
i never even had the chance
to dream it.

The Bar Review: Where The Whipped Cream Is; Or, We Love You, Pedro Patachas

In the northwest corner, Derek Sanderson is being sent to the penalty box for two minutes for being Derek, all in living color. Nearby, a senior (obviously pre-law) is chasing something other than paper. "The District Court ruled that Crest has been shown to be an effective decay-preventive dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously-applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care," His guest, the Winnetka Warhol girl, is obviously impressed with his erudition and queries, "Canyagetmeanuddersombrero?" Her request is filled faster than a speeding ambulance chaser.

The literati are out tonight, too. A group of woman English majors are sitting closeby discussing parallelism, classical allusion, metaphor, and phallic symbols in James Joyce's Ulysses. Discussion of the last is tabled upon their being joined by a single male counterpart less interested in Joyce than in the overwhelming possibilities at the table. Woe to him if they knew that he was the perpetrator of the comment on the upstairs bathroom wall: "Hester Prynne fucks," scrawled in a moment of angry frustration with making himself literate, urbane, and witty. He is instantly hip to the discussion at the table, chiming in with, "In his use of alliteration, Joyce demonstrated that Crest has been shown to be an effective decay-preventative dentifrice. . . ."

For the forty-sixth time that hour, the jukebox (augmented by four, count 'em, four Bose 901 speakers) transmits the Cockney baritone of Ringo Starr crooning, "You walked outa my dreams and into my car— now you're my angel divine..." UVM jockettes dressed in white painters' pants, pastel-colored down jackets, salt stained Topsiders, and Moriarty hats that don't come off whether the temperature is more appropriate to a sauna or a ski slope, commence a poor excuse for dancing.

The atmosphere has lifted. An all male table stops its discussion of model railroading— and proceeds to sing like the entire Mormon Tabernacle Choir on a bender. A forty-five year old lecher boogaloos into the men's room. Out in the street, the mob waiting to get in is foxtrotting while cutting in line.

The place is packed, which means that it is impossible to move in any direction, even up or down. On Saturday nights; attempting to get loaded is comparable to drinking in New York City subway car at rush hour sans the convenient straps. Alas, the energy crisis hasn't bothered this place— on a weekend night, we recommend two extra squirts of Right-Guard or, under down-filled parkas, application of Five-Day deodorant pads. The place is so crowded that someone ought to do a study of how many apparently toilet-trained late adolescents and early adults lose the race to the toilet.

Like an enormous oil slick stuck in the Santa Barbara channel, the mob sticks to its position. No one can move, with the exception of the waitresses, by now experts at broken field running, carrying glass better than the John Hancock building in Boston. Everyone of them is a bra-less potential Csonka. But because the place makes more money on such nights doesn't necessarily mean the waitresses do; there are just more non-tippers on weekends. Hannibul's. Cannibul's. The Meat Market. McGrannibul's. Animabul's (according to our consultant inebriate).

The reigning champion of Burlington bars. An overwhelming tribute to popularity. Is it a cattlecar, or a diamond in a sea of quartz?

There's no question; the big H is easily the most popular bar in the outlying community; many devotees have seen none other in their four-year cycle of residence hall, class, dining hall, and Hannibul's. It even outdraws the dingy, aging, Billings Center; the morning home of Burlington's hung-over socialite denizens, who have the courage to wake up.

If a fire ever destroyed Hannibul's, several hundred regular dregs would be homeless. God forbid, what would happen then? Would dear old Bailey fill up? Would Sig Nu schedule parties nightly? Would the Ville engage in a renewed effort at higher education? Would an overwhelming number of UVMers make Phi Beta Kappa?

Hannibul'ses' (?) phenomenal popularity is basically due to the fact that it exists. It offers nothing particularly special; nothing novel; nothing creative. It offers its popularity—for weekenders, it is not a place to do, but a place to be seen in.

It is an escape from the dirty carpets of Bailey and the cinderblock elegance of Wing-Davis-Wilks. It is an escape from a dormitory room Saturday night with everybody else on the floor listening to Carly Simon, James Taylor, and Roberta Flack, giggling while greedily consuming the last "J" of Columbo and the bottom of a three-week-old bottle of Spanada.

Last week, Hannibul's celebrated its third birthday, resplendent with crowds and twenty-cent drafts. For all of us, it's been a long haul since Hannibul's predecessor, the Tariff, was closed down for conduct unbecoming a bar. Most of us envy the rapidity and duration of Hannibul'ses' success... how many of us could do in a lifetime what Hannibul's has done in three years?

Okay, aside from sheer numbers, what makes the place? Answer— the usual escape, a place to be fashionable and dirty-minded, and a common ground for a uniformly-deprived lot; you're either horny or a liar, irregardless of gender. All are the secret of success for any bar.

If UVM is nothing but a four year loaf on daddy's dough, then Hannibul's is what daddy has been busting his ass for all these years. Hannibul's is why daddy couldn't buy a new set of Jack Nicklaus irons this year.

The clientele is what will ultimately ensure Hannibul's success or contribute to its failure. Right now, the place is thoroughly heterogeneous; Greeks (not all from Barre) are well-represented; Sigma Nu, Phi Delt, TEP (Baron, von Savage is the only TEP never to have made an appearance there), Theta, and Pi Phi are all heavy contributors to the Billy, Billy, and Tommy early retirement fund. UVM's lunatic fringe is well-represented...and well dressed. Boy, were you ever wrong, Theodore Roszak!

Barring the influx of hockey fans, weeknights are paradise — music is loud, you can move easily, drink is readily accessible. Weeknight regs (dregs?) are really the underside of the community; the other half. You've heard their names called in class, but you've never seen them even if the class is an afternoon gut. They've acquired a certain mysticism about them. When you see them down at Hannibul's, and you learn to associate a frequently heard name with a honest, (o goodness face, you're often confronted with questions about how the class is doing.

Service is tremendous. The bartenders are not the run-of-the-mill faceless beerpumpers that usually characterize high volume bars. They know their reg dregs and take better care of them than the white coats on Baird Six ever could. Waitresses, we've already stated, are great and crazy. And you couldn't have a better pizza delivered.

The downstairs is best manned up by Burlington's only Dave Cowensized bartender. One of the columnists, temporarily flirting with effeteness, ordered a Sombrero recently. The drink was handed to him with the de rigeur topping of whipped cream noticeably absent. When asked to account for this absence; the taller member of the Odd Couple jerked his thumb upwards, indicating a suggestion that the reviewer go upstairs for his whipped cream.

Next week— we will.

An Overdue Apology for an Inadvertent Plagiarism

This column owes a debt of gratitude to an anonymous, superficially reputable faculty member in the College of Arts and Sciences who originally suggested the "R. Crumb" analogy used in our review of the Chickenbone Cafe last week. The heat of composition caused the inadvertent plagarism. Forgive us, we know what we do. A tip of the ole' Moriarty and prayer for forgiveness with the fading hope that you treat your enrolled jockettes with similar emphathy to that granted an L.A. Ram.

Netherlands Wind Ensemble To Perform Diverse Repertoire

The Netherlands Wind Ensemble, making its first tour of the United States, performs in the Lane Series on Friday, March 8 at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

Combining superb techniques with enthusiasm and youth (the average age is only 27) the ensemble comprises seventeen artists from the leading orchestras in the Netherlands. The Concertgebouw of Amsterdam, the Rotterdam Philharmonic, the Hague Philharmonic, and the Netherlands Radio Philharmonic.

The program of the Netherlands includes "Petite Symphony" by Charles Gounod; "Serenade" (K. 388) by W. A. Mozart; "Chanson et dances" (Op. 50) by Vincent D'Indy; and "Serenade", (Op. 44) by Antonin Dvorak.

Founded in 1960 by the solo bassoonist of the Concertgebouw Orchestra, Thom de Klerk, the ensemble's aim was to restore to popularity the undeservedly neglected wind music of the great masters and lesser-known composers. Through musical ability, zest, and ingenious programming, they have more than realized their goal.

They are, however, by no means confined to the music of the past. The Netherlands Wind Ensemble includes many modern works in their repertoire, and their reputation in this area is so great, thirteen contemporary composers have already dedicated new works to the group.

An instant recording success, their first record won an Edison Award in 1969. Since then they have been recording extensively on the Philips label.

The instrumentation for the Netherlands Wind Ensemble is as follows: 3 flutes, 3 oboes, 3 clarinets, 4 French horns, and four bassoons.

Tickets for the Netherlands concert, $3, $5, $6, are on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Memories Of JFK Reawakened By Book

American's memories of the late President Kennedy have been revitalized by the recent bestseller, Johnny We Hardly Knew Ye. The book is one of scattered personal memories written by two of Kennedy's closest friends Kenneth P. O'Donnell and David F. Powers. These two men, close and devoted companions of John Kennedy retell the story of his years as a politician from a warmly personal point of view. Thus throughout the document Kennedy is depicted appealingly and at times is regarded awefully.

From the beginning, which was with his bid for a position in Congress in 1946, "he was already instinctively setting the style of unpretentious restraint that was to set him apart from the old, familiar type of flashy hat-waving politician." Attractive, well-spoken, graceful, and witty, Kennedy possessed a dynamic charismatic appeal for the American voting public. Furthermore, his zest for politics is revealed, as is his incredible stamina during his campaigns. Kennedy was one of the first politicians who went directly to the people, who knocked on doors, who sent personal thank you notes to supporters, who campaigned for 18 hours a day.

The authors describe vividly the Kennedy family phenomenon. Kenneth O'Donnell recalls a statement made by Hubert Humphrey during Kennedy's presidential campaign. "They're all over the state, and they look and sound alike. Teddy or Eunice talks to a crowd, wearing a raccoon coat and a stocking cap, and people think they're listening to Jack. I get reports that Jack is appearing in three or four different places at the same time." This trend of staunch clan support followed the President to the White House, where he named his brother, Robert, attorney general. People sometimes asked whether he had two presidents or one.

Kennedy's presidential competence and courage are unquestionably asserted in Johnny We Hardly Knew Ye. It is, furthermore, fascinating to note the derogatory allusions to Richard Nixon and Lyndon B. Johnson who were also making headlines during the Kennedy era, and have been conspicuously influential since that time. Kennedy himself "remarked rather lightly, but perhaps not too lightly, that he owed it to the country to win the election in order to keep Nixon out of the White House."

Is there a better time for a book such as this one to be on the New York Times bestseller list, ten years after the tragic incident in Dallas and during the height of Watergate. Public dissatisfaction is rampant. Today's political password is impeachment. Even the spontaneous graffiti generation has declared itself and its desire to remove Mr. Nixon from office. A nostalgic retreat is occurring. Johnny We Hardly Knew Ye heaves a sigh for an era's past glory. It has been instrumental in the immortalization of John Kennedy.

Arts & Entertainment

Tyler Theatre Hosts Gala Costume Ball

by Karen Trott

The Royall Tyler Theatre entertained a host of glittering celebrities last Saturday evening at its Mid-Winter Costume Ball – a gala event which the University Players hosted with superb elegance and taste. The soiree was in full swing by nine-ish, when the lilting strains of the string quartet led the masqueraders to the upper lobby, where a sumptuous repast lay in waiting.

Jay Gatsby and Daisy Buchanan minded the punch bowl as the Trench Coat Exhibitionist slinked about suspiciously, putting El Zorro on his guard. Kung Fu and Matt Dillon feasted heartily on ham and cheese, while Kitty and National Velvet sampled the fruit. As the Dave Moore Four tuned up on stage, the party-goers migrated to candle-lit tables arranged on the stair levels, nightclub style. The band, with the addition of a female vocalist, provided a variety of dance numbers, to which Shirley Temple tapped (a la lollipop) and Raggedy Ann and Andy boogied. Scarlett and Rhett minced gracefully through the waltzes and the Gypsy Rover and his lady led the tango. Lois Lane and Clark K. sat by watching, as did Uncle Sam, the Merry Widow and an Idaho Potato, along with the numerous others who filled the rooms with color and chatter. . . . a sure sign of its immediate success.

In the meantime, Clarence the Clown traipsed about for his lost dog, Cecil B. DeMille scouted about for new faces and Lord Napier Alington smoked black cigarettes while indulging in tete-a-tetes on the chaise lounge. The band and quartet played alternately throughout the evening, which kept the crowd circulating until 11, when all were drawn backto their seats for the evening's entertainment highlights.

The Rivenburg Twins, known on stage as "Rum and Coca-Cola" delighted the audience with a well choreographed rendition of "The Boogie-Woogie Bugle Boy of Company B," and were followed by the great "Ned and Jim, the Vaudeville Two." Ned and Jim later returned for a second round of "Well, Ned, how's your wife?" one-liners, after which the band played for a final hour, capping off the evening to perfection.

It seemed refreshing for a change to slip off the old dungarees, get decked out and abandon the keg for a night, as the immediate response to reservations indicated. Not only did this year's Bal Masque amply display a wealth of imagination on the part of all who attended, but at the same time served to illustrate that the theatre-sponsored Costume Ball was not just for theatre people. It can only be hoped that this year's Ball, the second, has begun a new tradition. If it appears on the scene next year . . . don't miss it!

SPS Photo: Allan Soodak

First Annual Ice Show Skates To Success

The University of Vermont's First Annual Winter Week Ice Show was held this past Friday and Saturday at Gutterson Field House. The festivities started with "Balloon Power" to the tunes of "Up, Up, and Away." Friday night featured a guest amateur skater, Michael Maionis, who holds to his credit the titles of 1974 New England Freestyle Champion, 1974 New England Senior Men's Silver Medalist, 1974 Eastern Competitor, U.S. Figures Gold Medalist, and Former National Competitor. Saturday night, solos by Susan Mastroni and Kevin Kinby replaced those of Maionis. Susan Mastroni holds the titles of 1971 Middle Atlantic Junior Ladies Champion, Former Eastern Competitor, U.S. Dance Gold Medalist, and U.S. Figure Silver Medalist. She soloed to the tunes of "Skybird." "Skybird" was followed by "The Cool Cafe", "Hey, Big Spender"; "the Cafe's Cocktail Waitresses" with "Love Potion No.9"; "Winter Tradition–A Family Affair" with "Skater's Waltz," solos by Michael Masionis; "Charlie Brown Gets It In The End," a skit by Kappa Alpha Theta; "The Saturday Morning Ensemble" with "Who Will Buy" (featuring Irene Newsham). At intermission the winning skits were announced and trophies awarded. First place for the best Women's Skit went to Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority; first place for the best Men's Skit went to Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity; and the best mixed skit award was won by Alpha Chi Omega and Delta Psi. They did not appear in the program, as only the best overall skits, regardless of division, were featured at the show. Along with Theta's "Charlie Brown Gets It In The End" and Sig Ep's "There is Nothing Like A Dame" was Phi Beta Phi's "The Little People" with the "Roller Skate Rag." Following intermission, some good old nostalgia set in with "The Fifties" and "Rock Around the Clock." Barbara Levitt, U.S. Figure Gold Medalist and U.S. Silver Dance Medalist, and Kevin Kirby performed the number "Put Your Head On My Shoulder." Pi Phi's "Roller Skate Rag" followed, then "The Dawning of the Age," "America" by Michael Masionis, and Sigma Phi Epsilon's "There is Nothing Like A Dame" and Kathy Ryan's solo "Don't Rain On My Parade." Kathy Ryan acted as director and choreographer of the Ice Show, and holds several impressive awards: 1970 North Atlantic Silver Dance Champion, 1970 Silver Dance National Competitor, U.S. Dance Gold Medalist, U.S. Free Dance Gold Medalist, and U.S. Figure Gold Medalist. "The Catamountettes" followed, and then a finale by the entire cast wrapped up an impressive skating performance. To give credit where credit is due one should not overlook the patience and practice exhibited by the fraternity men and sorority women in the Ice Show and its forerunner, the Skit Night. Kappa Alpha Theta, Pi Beta Pi, Gamma Phi Beta, and Alpha Chi Omega were all involved along with Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Psi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and no doubt numerous others. It is the anticipation of skaters and audience alike that the Winter Week Ice Show will truly become an annual event.

"War Of The Worlds"

The Academy Award-winning color film "The War of the Worlds" will be shown on Friday, March 1, in the Science Fiction Movies series offered by the Lane Film Society.

There will be two showings, 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., in Marsh Life Sciences Building Auditorium. Tickets, $1, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at the door. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Based on the novel (1898) by H. G. Wells "The War of the Worlds" deals with the invasion of the earth by men from Mars. Suspense is built up and retained at a high pitch when the world's greatest minds cannot find a way to rid themselves of the enemy. Just when all has failed and it seems that the earth is doomed, an unexpected turn of events kills off the enemy and the world is saved.

The film, which runs for 85 minutes, was directed by Byron Haskin. It stars Gene Barry, Ann Robinson, and Les Tremayne, with Sir Cedric Hardwicke as narrator.

The critic of the New York Times called the film "an imaginatively professionally turned adventure, which makes excellent use of Technicolor, special effects by a crew of experts and impressively drawn backgrounds."

Claudio Vasquez, Pianist, Appears Saturday

Panamanian pianist, Claudio Vasquez, will appear as soloist in the Ira Allen Chapel on Saturday, March 2 at 8 p. m.

Vasquez completed his early studies at the National Conservatory of Panama, where, after winning first prize, he was awarded a five year scholarship. After graduating from the Peabody Conservatory of Music, he studied in Vienna, where he played a highly successful debut. He has performed in most of South America's principle cities with public and critical acclaim. Vasquez has appeared as soloist with the Buffalo Symphony Orchestra, Panama Symphony, and the Santiago Philharmonic Orchestra. Presently, Vasquez is a Professor of Piano and Artist in Residence at Rosary Hill College, Buffalo, New York.

Vasquez' program will include a sonata in F major, K. 332, by Mozart; a ballade, nocturne, impromptu, and scherzo by Chopin; and three etudes by T. L. Read. Read is on the music faculty of the University. Following will be 11 "Aguafuertes" by A. Ragos, a Venezualian composer who dedicated his last piano sonata to Vasquez. The program will end with a sonata by A. Ginastera.

The concert is free.

WOODY ALLEN TAKES A NOSTALGIC LOOK AT THE FUTURE. Final Days Leaves Tuesday

Woody Allen and Diane Keaton in "Sleeper"

Call theater for times PG

"WOODY ALLEN REMAINS THE FUNNIEST MAN IN MOVIES". New York News

BURLINGTON PLAZA CINEMA 1 & 2 RT 7 AT I 189 SO. BURLINGTON PHONE 862-5070 ANYTIME!

TUT'S
248 North Street
Burlington, Vt. 05401
"A NICE LITTLE JOINT"

THE ULTIMATE EXPERIENCE
WALT DISNEY'S FANTASIA
"AN INCREDIBLY REVOLUTIONARY FILM...THE MIND CAN RUN RIOT!" –N.Y. TICKER
A TOTAL EXPERIENCE IN SIGHT, SOUND AND COLOR...MAKE FANTASIA A MUST!" –BOB SALMAGGI, GROUP W NETWORK
STUDENT DISCOUNTS SUN THRU THURS. SHOW ID'S AT BOX OFFICE.
STATE NOW SHOWING! Eve. at 7:00 & 9:15 Late show Fri.–Sat. 11:30 Mat. Sat.–Sun. 2 p.m.

Sneak Preview
FANTASTIC PLANET
directed by Rene Laloux rated R
Sat. ONLY 8:45PM
CINEMA 1 & 2

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE
Fantasia
7 + 9:15

CINEMA 1 & 2
Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams
7 + 9
SLEEPER
Call theater for times

Showcase 1 & 2
THE STING
Call theater for times
No student discounts for this movie.
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
Call theater for times

FLYNN
SERPICO
Call theater for times

Essex Twin Cinema
A MATTER OF WINNING
7 + 9
CRY OF THE WILD
7 + 9

$1.00 SPECIAL $1.00
DOLLAR SHOWING
ONE DAY IN THE LIFE OF IVAN DENISOVICH
Today 4:00 P.M.
Merrill's Showcase 1 & 2
Williston Road
TICKETS ONLY AVAILABLE AT BILLINGS CENTER
A FILM ABOUT SOLZHENITSYN BOOK
TODAY $1.00

music thi

by Michael Thurston

Mose Knows/Mose Jones
Sounds of the South MCA
No price info

Mose Knows is the second album by Mose Jones, proliferating that music from the deep south is an ever-increasing, popular commodity. All the members of this band, growing up during America's mobile period, come from various parts of the country, and all did stints in high school bands and local groups. It's that age-old discovery story... they were playing in an Atlanta club and record producer-artist Al Kooper was in the audience. Mose Jones was signed, and both their albums were produced by Kooper.

Their latest is much more powerful, and yet controlled a collection than the first, having learned, with Kooper's assistance, how to sand down the rough edges. The music has a tell-tale t... the south could ... an obvious resu... the circuit for ... vocals are gutsy ... of second-gene... Project, which e... credited to Koo... album was an e... getting it all o... while this one ... experimentation ... running the ... balladry, ro... southern, up-t... Lead guitar th... one is the ... especially o... Before You N... Steve McRay ... outstanding ke... both on the tit... Stood Up. Th... handful of so... leading the w... their second ... Jones can be a... position.

Aikido, Newest ... Is Ultimate In ...

by John Lippincott

"Speak ill of others and it will surely come back to you. The mountain does not laugh at the river because it is lowly, nor does the river speak ill of the mountain because it cannot move about."

M. Ueshiba

That probably sounds like graffiti from the walls of Kung Fu's Shaolin Temple. It's not; it was said by a martial arts master who died in 1969. The popularity of television's Kung Fu is indicative of a dramatic rise in the level in the interest and popularity of the oriental martial arts. The Martial Arts Fair held at Billings points to a considerable interest in martial arts here at UVM. I've studied martial arts on and off for a few years and I was curious to see what martial arts were available around Burlington and UVM. What follows is what I found out.

What are the martial arts, anyway? In this context "martial" means military; which makes sense as they are derived from techniques of armed and unarmed combat and self-defense, they have become ways of achieving physical and mental well-being, and a source of deep personal satisfaction for those who stu... are many ... arts; the mo... from Japan, ... Korea. I'll b... aikido (Japan... them), judo (... chi ch'uan (C...

Aikido is th... martial arts. I... by Master Ue... years betwee... Wars. Aikid... different fro... martial arts ... kicking and ... karate and th... tripping of ju... of non-resist... the object ... neutralize an... as little inju... the attac... accomplishe... One is by ca... to fall by le... to a point o... the other ... the attacker ... in such a ... bring pain u... continues to ... time is the s...

of the ... violated, no... in an unnatu...

Philosoph... felt that ... was out of ...

Greeks Sponsor ...

by Margo Howland

An idea from St. Lawrence University has made a very popular impression at the University of Vermont. UVM's first Rotating Inter-Fraternity Party was held the afternoon of Sunday, February 24, from 1 - 6 p.m. Each fraternity was grouped with one or two others (usually for size) in a total of six groups. Each group then made the arrangements for a social hour at one of the houses. Each sorority was then presented with a separate schedule of which house to visit first, so that at a given time, six different parties were going on at once.

After the first hour at each house (including ten minutes walking time) there was a switch to the next, so that by the end of the afternoon, each sorority had been to each of the six fraternities hosting the parties. No doubt the schedule seemed a bit complicated and mysterious, but the whole affair went off rather well.

The whole idea started when Kevin Grady, Vice President of the Fraternity Forum, attended a similar inter-fraternity party at St. Lawrence. He came back full of enthusiasm for it, and the gears started to click.

Sigma Phi was the first house for Gamma Phi Beta and Tri-Delt (combined as one for size); hosting with them were brother fraternities Acacia and Lambda Iota. The jacket and tie were standard wear, and punch and Bloody Marys were served. Social chairperson hoped it w... semester ... turnout is ... seems to ... guaranteed. Sigma ... social ho... Alpha Ta... did not ap... Harvey Wa... were provi... of the bro... be mor... watching ...

inment

Costume Ball

SPS Photo: Allan Soodak

Masque amply wealth of on the part of all ed, but at the rved to illustrate theatre-sponsored t was not just for theatre people. It can only be hoped that this year's Ball, the second, has begun a new tradition. If it appears on the scene next year . . . don't miss it!

tes To Success

overlook the and practice by the fraternity prority women in Show and its the Skit Night. a Theta, Pi Beta Phi Beta, and Omega were all involved along with Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Psi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and no doubt numerous others. It is the anticipation of skaters and audience alike that the Winter Week Ice Show will truly become an annual event.

ar Of The Worlds"

Academy ming color film of the Worlds" will n Friday, March 1, nce Fiction Movies red by the Lane ay.

will be two 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 larsh Life Sciences uditorium. Tickets, ailable in the Lane 4 Waterman, and at For reservations, 656-3418.

on the novel (1898) Wells: "The War of ds" deals with the of the earth by men s. Suspense is built retained at a high hen the world's minds cannot find a way to rid themselves of the enemy. Just when all has failed and it seems that the earth is doomed, an unexpected turn of events kills off the enemy and the world is saved.

The film, which runs for 85 minutes, was directed by Byron Haskin. It stars Gene Barry, Ann Robinson, and Les Tremayne, with Sir Cedric Hardwicke as narrator.

The critic of the New York Times called the film "an imaginatively conceived, professionally turned adventure, which makes excellent use of Technicolor, special effects by a crew of experts and impressively drawn backgrounds."

udio Vasquez, Pianist, Appears Saturday

manian pianist, Vasquez, will appear at in the Ira Allen n Saturday, March 2

ed completed his dies at the National tory of Panama, after winning first scholarship. After g from the Peabody tory of Music, he in Vienna, where he a highly successful He has performed in f South America's cities with public cal acclaim. Vasquez eared as soloist with Buffalo Symphony Metro. Panama Symphony, and the Santiago Philharmonic Orchestra. Presently, Vasquez is a Professor of Piano and Artist in Residence at Rosary Hill College, Buffalo, New York.

Vasquez' program will include a sonata in F major, K 332, by Mozart; a ballade, nocturne, impromptu, and scherzo by Chopin; and three etudes by T. L. Read. Read is on the music faculty of the University. Following will be 11 "Aguafuertes" by A. Rago, a Venezualian composer who dedicated his last piano sonata to Vasquez. The program will end with a sonata by A. Ginastera.

The concert is free.

.00 SPECIAL $1.00
OLLAR SHOWING

ONE DAY IN THE LIFE OF IVAN DENISOVICH

Today 4:00 P.M.
Merrill's Showcase 1 & 2
Williston Road

TICKETS ONLY AVAILABLE AT BILLINGS CENTER

FILM ABOUT SOLZHENITSYN BOOK

TODAY $1.00

music thing

by Michael Thurston
Moss Knows/Moss Jones
Sounds of the South MCA
No price info

Moss Knows is the second album by Moss Jones, proliferating that music from the deep south is an ever-increasing, popular commodity. All the members of this band, growing up during America's mobile period, come from various parts of the country, and all did stints in high school bands and local groups. It's that age-old discovery story... they were playing" in an Atlanta club and record producer-artist Al Kooper was in the audience. Moss Jones was signed, and both their albums were produced by Kooper.

Their latest is much more powerful, and yet controlled a collection than the first, having learned, with Kooper's assistance, how to sand down the rough edges. The music has a tell-tale flavoring only the south could afford, and is an obvious result of playing the circuit for years. The vocals are gutsy and raw, sort of second-generation Blues Project, which again, must be credited to Kooper. The first album was an energy album, getting it all out on record, while this one shows more experimentation with style, running the gamut of balladry, rockers, and southern, up-tempo blues. Lead guitar throughout this one is the calling card, especially on Everyone Before You. Not far behind, Steve McRay provides some outstanding keyboard work, both on the title tune, and on Stood Up. There are just a handful of southern bands leading the way, and with their second album, Moss Jones can be assured of a pole position.

"Fresh Ground" Definitely Worth A Try

by Barbara Frankel and Sig Heller

The Fresh Ground Coffee House is a unique place to eat or to just hang-out. It's name is appropriate since the quality and variety of coffee offered is excellent, possibly the finest in Burlington. It also offers a tremendous assortment of teas, ranging from Rosehips to Irish tea. The hot chocolate, however, which goes under the guise of several colorful and romantic names such as "Utopian Chocolate" has a taste really no different from good old Ovaltine.

A small, intimate place, The Fresh Ground has a cozy, comfortable, atmosphere, complete with jazz and classical music in the background. It's all very informal, including food made-to-order just for you. One of the most remarkable aspects of The Fresh Ground is the great way everyone gets in on everyone else's conversations. You can make some good friends that way, or hear some strange conversations at any rate.

And now the most important aspect of the review -- the food. The food is certainly unusual; you probably can't get anything like it in Burlington. The menu is small, composed of three regular dishes- chili con carne, dart lasagna and ratatouille. All three are quite tasty and inexpensive. In addition to this, there is a "special" offered each night. Unfortunately for us, the proprietors ran out of the "special" quite early in the evening (before we got there!) Apparently this happens quite often, so get there early. If you like unusual tasting soups, try their Mulligatawny. The only complaint we have is that it's just a little too bland. Perhaps some garlic and bay leaves would do the trick. Desserts at The Fresh Ground Coffee House are well-known in this town, and justifiably so. We hear the cheesecake is especially good. Unfortunately, we were too full by that time to try it.

The Fresh Ground is a real college restaurant. It is good, cheap food and the atmosphere is straight out of Greenwich Village. We think you'll like it -- the food and the people are definitely worth a try.

Festive, Fascinating Entertainment Provided By Ambakaila

by Lissa Charles

Last Tuesday evening the Lane Series presented another program of light, festive entertainment. "Ambakaila," or the Trinidad Carnival and Steel Band, performed a delightful combination of dancing and singing, which created the effect of dance theatre. Each dance, accompanied by steel band music and chorus, was either a story within itself or a sacred African ritual.

Through a total of eight dances and musical numbers, the audience was able to experience the artistry and sensitivity of this intriguing culture. For example, in the first dance entitled "The Village," the company danced the Bongo, an African influenced movement which is customarily performed at the home of a dead person. The company also performed folk dances which expressed the joy and sorrow of a people whose ancestors were slaves.

The choreography, so to speak, was an unusual, aesthetic combination of ethnic and conventional movements. Perhaps the most enjoyable aspect of the dancing was the overall freedom, informality, and spontaneity. Each dancer executed the movements in a totally individual manner. Yet collectively these dancers created a strong wave of harmony and continuity. The costumes of brilliantly colored shirts, and full flowing skirts, added the final touch to this vivacious performance.

Unfortunately, it took a while for the audience to adjust to the unfamiliar sounds of steel drums and (what some consider monotonous) African chanting. But towards the middle of the program Kevin Pope, the Calypso King of Trinidad, captured the audience with his amusing songs about "gay" England and the "no-bra-look."

"Ambakaila" was not only a carnival, but a theatrical, cultural experience which educated as it entertained. Hopefully, the informality and flexibility of the dancing was not mistaken for carelessness, nor was the music regarded as monotonous or irritating. For this was creativity of another culture.

Aikido, Newest Of Martial Arts, Is Ultimate In Non-resistance

by John Lippincott

"Speak ill of others and it will surely come back to you. The mountain does not laugh at the river because it is lowly, nor does the river speak ill of the mountain because it cannot move about."

M. Ueshiba

That probably sounds like graffiti from the walls of Kung Fu's Shaolin Temple. It's not; it was said by a martial arts master who died in 1969. The popularity of television's Kung Fu is indicative of a dramatic rise in the level in the interest and popularity of the oriental martial arts. The Martial Arts Fair held at Billings points to a considerable interest in martial arts here at UVM. I've studied martial arts on and off for a few years and I was curious to see what martial arts were available around Burlington and UVM. What follows is what I found out.

What are the martial arts, anyway? In this context "martial" means military; which makes sense as they are derived from techniques of armed and unarmed combat and self-defense, they have become ways of achieving physical and mental well-being, and a source of deep personal satisfaction for those who study them. There are many types of martial arts, the most popular are from Japan, China, and Korea. I'll be dealing with aikido (Japan), karate (all of them), judo (Japan), and t'ai chi ch'uan (China).

Aikido is the newest of the martial arts. It was developed by Master Ueshiba during the years between the World Wars. Aikido is quite different from the other martial arts. It lacks the kicking and punching of karate and the grappling and tripping of judo. It is the art of non-resistance. In aikido the object is simply to neutralize an attack causing as little injury as possible to the attacker. This is accomplished in two ways. One is by causing the attacker to fall by leading his energy to a point of imbalance and the other relies on holding the attacker's wrist and arm in such a way that he will bring pain upon himself if he continues to struggle. At no time is the structural integrity of the attacker's body violated, no joint is ever bent in an unnatural manner.

Philosophically, Ueshiba felt that nothing in nature was out of harmony with the rest. A person who attacks another is out of harmony with the natural order. If one responds to this attack by counter attacking, then both are out of harmony. But, if one responds by placing himself in a position of harmony with the attack, then he (is in harmony with Nature; the attacker is not and will defeat himself. This concept applies to mental and spiritual attacks, as well as physical ones.

The word aikido translates as "the way of harmony with ki." Ki is a Japanese word which refers to an intrinsic, natural, universal energy. Many people use ki in their daily lives and are never aware of it. It should not be confused with muscular strength or power. The best way to describe how ki operates is that there is a total unification of mind and body in movement. Because aikido can be thought of as a study of ki, which is ageless and sexless; age, sex and size are not considered important in determining a student's success. Aikido is, perhaps, the most intellectual and probably the gentlest of the martial arts. You can get information on aikido classes from the Next Thing at 862-2013.

Album Review:

Stewart And Faces Join For Promising Lp

by Doug Collette

OVERTURE AND BEGINNERS
Rod Stewart/Faces
(Mercury SRM-1-697)

The key to understanding and appreciating the Faces, y'see, lies in realizing that they are direct descendants of all the British pop groups born in the mid-sixties. They're much superior musicians than Herman's Hermits, but then they should be: Kenny Jones and Ian McLagan were members of the Small Faces as commandeered by Steve Marriott, and Ronnie Wood was baptised in the fire of the original Jeff Beck Group. The substitution of Tetsu Yamauchi for Ronnie Lane hasn't hurt them a whit -- they're a nifty little band still.

Of course, they wouldn't be any more than that were it not for the magnificent throat of one R. Stewart, about whom more will be said later.

Faces music is ideal booze music, perfect accompaniment for soaking up the juice and Overture and Beginners catches that exuberant charm as no studio recording ever could. Recorded live here in the states, nearly fifty minutes of music (you really have to crank up the bass and volume, N.B.) proves that there's a fine line between laxity and looseness which, if trod correctly, can be exhilirating.

As it is through "Cut Across Shorty," "It's All Over Now" and "Stay With Me," vintage Faces, saucy in their inimitably amiable way. When he's not blocking out chunks of fuzzbuzz chords, Woody demonstrates just how proficient he is with the bottleneck: no flash, he just hits the notes square, which naturally causes the adrenalin to rush on his lengthy workout on "Borstal Boys/Amazing Grace." The other boys swing right along with him, Tetsu's bass anchoring down Jones' pounding drums as Ian keeps rollicking his piano. Listen close if you have the patience and you'll be able to see just how comfortable these guys are playing with each other; the intimacy of their playing keeps it from being over-controlled and lends it most of its relaxed finesse.

Rod's rasp is the ideal rock and roll vocal vehicle and the ballads show just how much that hoarse voice can get across. Buoyed by McLagan's luxurious organ fills, Stewart draws out all the soul-deep tenderness there is in Hendrix' "Angel." He always sounds like all the strength he can muster is flowing through his throat, which is why the old Tempts' tune "I Wish It Would Rain" takes a piece of my heart it aches. "I'd Rather Go Blind" is naked emotion which may sound corny, but Rod's voice moves me. He makes a song his own which in turn makes it mine and yours if you want it. Lennon's "Jealous Guy" is a part of Rod Stewart, who's probably the best exemplar of the theory that great singing is more than pronouncing the lyrics correctly and hitting the notes properly.

Overture and Beginners is an important lp and not only because it's the first Faces record to approach the depth of a Stewart solo. With Lane's discordant influence absent, the Faces will no longer have to move off on tangents and Stewart will now, in part by necessity and part by choice -- he's announced his next album to be the last apart from the Faces -- assume the dominance this band has always needed and never had. Overture and Beginners is the start of something new to which I propose a toast of two.

'The Black Cat' Exudes Timeless Aura

by Melanie Choukas

Someone at the bar is calling for "Black Cat Blues." Chuck is at the organ. Spankie, half-finished with her yard of beer, leans on it like a crutch and clears her throat to sing along. Behind them loom two perfectly-preserved palms. The glass black cat looks ready to spring. When Chuck breaks into the Blues, the lounge explodes with clapping and clicking and stamping of feet. Mary Pappas sings as she clears away the last of the lobster shells. It is 1:00 a.m. at the Black Cat Cafe.

More than a restaurant, more than a bar, the Black Cat Cafe is a legend with unique mystique. Its history reaches back 80 years; its aura is timeless.

Charles Channis has been dead for years. He owned the Black Cat when there was a nightclub upstairs and a whorehouse next door. He still visits the cafe late at night. According to owner John Pappas, Channis is a curious ghost. If you are afraid of ghosts you will not like the Black Cat. If you don't believe in them, you won't understand it. But for those of you who would like a touch of the unknown with your dinner or drink, the Black Cat Cafe is the place to be in Burlington.

The door on Bank Street is ajar for lunch, dinner, or a late night rendezvous. The food is good and reasonable.

The atmosphere unpredictable. On Friday and Saturday nights the Black Cat offers a whole lobster, steamed clams, corn on the cob, potatoes, salad, and homemade bread, all for $4.95. If you are any age, enjoy good food and drink, and are not afraid of who enters with you, step into the Black Cat Cafe sometime.

Greeks Sponsor 6 Simultaneous Social Hours

by Margo Howland

An idea from St. Lawrence University has made a very popular impression at the University of Vermont. UVM's first Rotating Inter-Fraternity Party was held the afternoon of Sunday, February 24, from 1 to 6 p.m. Each fraternity was grouped with one or two others (usually for size) in a total of six groups. Each group then made the arrangements for a social hour at one of the houses. Each sorority was then presented with a separate schedule of which house to visit first, so that at a given time, six different parties were going on at once.

After the first hour at each house (including ten minutes' walking time) there was a switch to the next, so that by the end of the afternoon, each sorority had been to each of the six fraternities hosting the parties. No doubt the schedule seemed a bit conplicated and mysterious, but the whole affair went off rather well.

The whole idea started when Kevin Grady, Vice President of the Fraternity Forum, attended a similar inter-fraternity party at St. Lawrence. He came back full of enthusiasm for it, and the gears started to click.

Sigma Phi was the first house for Gamma Phi Beta and Tri-Delt (combined as one for size); hosting with them were brother fraternities Acacia and Lambda Iota. The jacket and tie were standard wear, and punch and Bloody Mary's were served. Social chairperson Don Hunt said he hoped it would be held every semester. If the overall turnout is any indication, this seems to be just about guaranteed.

Sigma Nu hosted their social hour themselves, as Alpha Tau Omega and Phi did not appear as scheduled. Harvey Wallbangers and a keg were provided, although some of the brothers appeared to be more interested in watching a hockey game. It has been said that about half of the UVM Hockey team belongs to Sigma Nu, and the rest to Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Kappa Sigma hosted their social hour with Sigma Phi Epsilon and Theta Chi, having an keg and a bar available. The turnout appeared to be particularly strong here.

TEP, Phi Mu Delta, and Phi Delta Theta hosted their party at the TEP house. Rumors of the party must have spread by this time, as there were several visitors that did not appear to be Greeks.

The final party on this particular list was at SAE, with Delta Psi and Alpha Gamma Rho. At six o'clock the rest of the Greeks came for the closing finale. SAE served a punch which merits distinction as a recipe of the week. Pi Beta Phi brought their own cheering squad

Bermuda
Acapulco
San Juan
from $189. plus 10%
MARCH and APRIL DEPARTURES
For further information, contact:
Kathy Schwartz 656-2886 or 2866
Carol Desormeaux 656-3863
Penn Knights 649-1179
or call collect —
Garber TRAVEL
1406 Beacon Street, Brookline, Mass. 02146
COLLEGE PROGRAMS (617) 734-2100

Going to the movies?
DINE and have a few DRINKS before or after with us at SIZZLING STEAK
(We're located next to Showcase 1 & 2 and 1 block from Plaza 1 & 2)
• 12 oz. Bone-In Sirloin Steak Dinner $3.99
• 8 oz. Boneless Sirloin Steak Dinner $3.59
• 1/2 lb. Chopped Sirloin Dinner $2.59
• 10 oz. Top Sirloin Steak Dinner $5.89
(Our Finest)
All Dinners Include:
• Buttered Baked Potato • Hot Rolls
• Crisp Chef's Salad with our Homemade Dressing
We Serve Dinners from 4 P.M. till 11 P.M.
Our Lounge is Open till 1:00 A.M.
(Sunday from Noon)
SIZZLING STEAK
1216 Williston Road — Next to Showcase 1 & 2

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND
THE GREATEST AND MOST POPULAR EVER AT THE KEG ADOM
MARCH 4 - 9
MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED FEMALES FREE
WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10¢ NITE
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE
THE SILVER KEG
156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

bedspreads
walls
rugs
beads
pillows
antler pipes tapestries
hookahs
chess sets
wall hangings
boxes
mirrors
leather hats
Tiffany buckles
bags
wineskins
candles
silver turquoise and bone jewelry
oils
mugs incense
tea sets
toiletries
planters occult books
statues
CORAGULA
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
imports ovrsea
boutique
10% off with this ad
802-863-3712
shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

Budweiser presents
TONIGHT, EVERY NIGHT on RADIO
CBS RADIO MYSTERY THEATER
Check your local radio listings for time and station. Tune in, drink Bud., have fun!

Press Your Gauge ...

(continued from page two)

military. Our legal sources tell us that the Paris Treaty is positively non-applicable to the National Parks Service."

"Will South Vietnam be staffed and run like a normal public park, Yellowstone, for instance?"

"Oh yes indeed," smirked the Under-Secretary's Second Assistant. "You boys will have to do better than that. We are currently training 35,000 Special Forest Rangers in a government training ——"

"Special Forest Rangers?"

"Compound in New Mexico. The S.F.R. will be equipped with innovative forestry devices designed in cooperation ——"

"Innovative forestry devices?"

"—with several other government agencies. And now if there are no further questions, I have a very important appointment with the third legal advisor to the President's National Security Council. Don't take any wooden nickels boys."

"But Mr. Second Assistant..." pleaded one of the two remaining reporters — but Gracie was gone and another Washington press conference was concluded.

Twin Guardian

Hopes For Uncrowded Dorms...

(continued from page one)

have been suggestions to devise a system whereby higher prices would be charged in the newer dorms such as the Living/Learning complex and Harris-Millis.

This option was dismissed due to the possibility of socio-economic stratification arising within the university.

Several factors can account for this possibility. First, Vermont has the highest out-of-state tuition for a state funded university while there is little financial aid for these students. Thus, out-of-state students tend to come from the wealthy upper class.

Vermonters, on the other hand, come from small towns and farms with 80 per cent of the in-staters receiving financial aid. Most in-staters come from the lower socio-economic classes.

"If differential pricing were to be instituted," stated Miser, "the rich out-of-state students would live in the nicer halls and the less wealthy in-staters in the poorer physical facilities." The potential for UVM being a socio-economically stratified college would be a real possibility.

As an alternative to this, Miser hopes to equalize the facilities of the dorms by gradually improving the older residence halls. "Each summer we hope to have a project to improve the dorms," stated Miser. "This past summer we worked on Chittenden, Buckham, and Wills, and next summer we plan to work on Redstone."

Two deadlines have been set for reopening Redstone. There is an outside chance that it will be ready for this coming fall. But a more realistic target is January, 1975. Architects and former Redstone residents are presently working to clear up the problems which forced the closing of the dorm last semester.

The improvement of present facilities appears to be a fairly successful scheme as is evidenced by the tremendous demand to live in CBW, which were formerly highly undesirable dorms. There is now a waiting list to get into these halls.

Coed Facilities

Questions have been raised by students centering around the possibility of altering the sexual make-up of several dorms. Many residents of Jeanne Mance and Burgess Halls would like to see their dorms transformed into coed housing units. There have also been suggestions to modify the WDW complex.

These are options that the Housing office has looked into and are considering in the future. One problem in making more halls coed is that there are many more female than male students living in the dorms. Sixty per cent of the residents are female.

"With the present system we gain everything and don't lose anything," stated Miser. "Students can form peer groups of a single sex while at the same time experiencing coed living."

Further information concerning room choosing will be available in several weeks.

Extra-Curricular Activities Upswing This Year

by Peter MacAusland

Extra-curricular programs in residence halls have taken an upswing this year. Although some programs are relatively new and student input towards these activities has been limited, an increase in student participation is expected.

In an interview, Paul Stonely, area co-ordinator of Marsh-Austin-Tupper and Harris-Millis residence halls discussed several aspects of residence hall programming. He reflected that a program, a general term in itself, could range from a dance for several hundred people to a gathering of students for a turkey dinner. Many dorm activities could be classified as programs. Stonely expressed that innovative programming is a new concept for residence halls. For two reasons, time is a major factor in developing an organized program. First, the program itself may need alterations in its presentation, location, or time slot; these changes can be recognized only after actual programs have occurred. Second, effectiveness of publicity increases directly proportional to the length of time the program has been happening.

Few students help create these programs; the major ones being A.C.E. in the halls (Alternative Center for Education), located in MAT dorm complex, and the Health Lecture series in Harris-Millis. Two resident assistants devised the health series, while higher residence hall staff, including an administrator, implemented A.C.E. Only one student contributed a significant amount of time in the A.C.E. program. The bulk of the workload is therefore carried by staff. Yet Stonely explains that more students will contribute and participate when these programs become more organized. Again the time factor is significant.

Stonely is satisfied with the outcome of these two programs thus far. Both programs are designed to reach a select audience with similar interests. Many discussions arise after the formal programs. This is the new concept Paul Stonely emphasizes. He is very optimistic about the future of these residence hall programs.

Career Placement

Recruiting Period No. 7 and 8 March 6-15. Sign Up–February 26, 27, 28.

March 6 and 7–Jordan Marsh Co., Executive Trainee Positions. Open major.

March 7–Connecticut General, Sales and Mgmt. Trainees, Bus. Areas, Econ., L. Arts.

March 8–Defense Audit Auditor Trainees, Accounting.

March 9 – Student Alumni Career Day – sponsored by the Placement Office, Alumni Association, and Senior Class Council. Additional information available in the above offices and Billings.

March 12–Aetna Life & Casualty, Audit, data Proc., prod. systems, etc., Accounting, Math, Data Processing, L. Arts, Upjohn Co., Pharmaceutical Sales, Sci., Agr., Premed.

March 13–Ciba Geigy, Sales & Agr. Bus., Agr. Majors, Farm Background.

Group Meeting Mar. 12–Place to be announced. Abraham & Straus (Retail) Executive Mgmt. Dev. Etc., MBA & Lib. Arts. New England Life, Actuarial, Acct., etc., Bus. areas, Lib. arts.

March 14–Bambergers (Retail), Executive Training Prog. etc., Group Meeting, March 13–Place to be announced. Bus., Cloth. & Tex., Lib. Arts.

Stone and Webster Engrg, Career Devel. Prog., Engr., Chem, Geol.

The following Superintendents or their representatives are planning to visit the university to interview teaching candidates. Some have related they can only offer a low probability of fall positions.

March 19 – Mr. Charles Johnson – District No. 19, Montpelier, Vt.; Mr. Robert Twiss – District No. 50, Vergennes, Vt.

April 9 – Sr. Rita Marie Emerson – District No. 16, Manchester Ctr, Vt.

April 10 – Mr. Feloney – District No. 54, Essex Jct., Vt.

April 16 – South Windsor Public Schools, South Windsor, Conn.

April 18 – Mr. Paul Henry – District No. 14, Orleans, Vt.

April 23 – Morrisville Schools, Morrisville, N. Y.

April 25 – Representatives from greater Boston area: Belmont, Brookline, Lexington, Needham, Newton, Weston, Wayland and Winchester.

Please call our office at 656-3477 if you wish to make an appointment or for further information. Thank you.

Senate Hears Financial Forecast...

(continued from page one)

Allocation of S.A. funds." The main objection to the policy was the provision which states, "The Finance Committee shall rule out all transportation and travel on the basis that the organization can contribute more to the students if it remains on campus." In view of last week's discussion on allotment of funds for the UVM Band's annual trip to Vermont high schools, the provision was quite topical. Several senators felt that the policy was too harsh. They contended that, in some cases, trips were as much an educational experience as on-campus activities. Town Senator Dick Cassidy suggested an amendment which changed the meaning of the policy. The proposal was tabled with the hope that more Senators would be available to discuss this at the next meeting.

During the committee reports, Michele Kearney of the Concert Bureau reported that the Bureau had made a $550.62 profit on the Stephen Stills-Manassas-Muldaur concert. Due to confused dates, the J. Geils Band, which had promised to play before spring vacation, was forced to cancel. Evelyn Liberty, S.A. Secretary of Communications, made her recommendation that Steve DeCesznak and Gary Shaw work on the Freshman Register. She felt that DeCesznak's financial ability and Shaw's experience in student government were reasons for their choice. There was no opposition to this. On behalf of the Elections Committee, Chris Milanesi announced the dates of the forums for S.A. Presidential Candidates. The forums will be held on February 28, March 1 and March 11 (on WRUV). Steve DeCesznak gave the Finance Committee report, commenting that budget hearings for S.A. organizations will begin next Wednesday. They will run through mid-April. Any organization which did not have its request in by the deadline (today at 5 p.m.) can, later in the year, request funds from the Senate. DeCesznak also announced the resignation from the Finance Committee of Matt Jones, for reasons which DeCesznak stated, "I don't quite understand."

Only one motion was passed under old business, because a quorum was called soon after. The motion, to recognize the Baseball Club was passed. A motion to recognize the UVM Student Chapter of the Wildlife Society was tabled. Sally Keith, S.A. Secretary, also mentioned that Sarah Funkhouser, Student Activities Secretary, had resigned.

There will be no S.A. meeting next Tuesday night because of Town Meeting day.

OVP Task Force Swings Into Action

by Becky Burr

It was a cold, windy day but that didn't stop the efforts of the new Emergency Task Force at the Office of Volunteer Programs. Fourteen UVM students donated 12 hours of their time and moved an entire family from one end of Burlington to the other.

The Task Force, established by OVP at the beginning of the second semester to respond to emergency community needs, is under the co-direction of Judy Holmes and Gwen Kugler.

Ms Holmes explained that the Task Force was mobilized after she received a call from a community woman named Shirley who explained that she and her 4 children were going to be without housing if they could not find a means to transport themselves and their belongings within three days.

The newly formed Task Force had just begun to recruit volunteers for the program and it seemed questionable that enough students could be found to help. However, this proved no problem at all. As soon as students heard about the need they responded quickly and willingly.

At 7 a.m. the students arrived at Shirley's present apartment on S. Union Street, complete with a truck and the OVP Van. Together with Shirley and her children, they packed, hauled and loaded for several hours filling up both the truck and the Van. The volunteers proceeded to North Park on North Avenue where new housing was being provided for the family.

The trip between Union St. and North Park was repeated several more times during the course of the day and finally at 8 p.m. the last box had been carried in and unloaded. Minor problems had arisen during the day including the question of what to do with a dryer that was no longer needed. The Project Directors offered it to Reach, Howard Mental Health's Activity Center where it was gratefully received.

The following students are members of the Task Force and helped with the move: Tom Harrington, Mike Schwartz, Mark Bronstein, Dave Johnson, Ernest Janus, Mark Valle, Greg Dirmaier, Paul Thompson, Tom Gilmond and Steve Salls.

Project Director Judy Holmes summed up the feelings of the group and their endeavor by saying: "When we left Shirley at her new home, a far better place and far better surroundings, she got all choked up and could hardly speak. Perhaps it would be an understatement to say that the volunteers felt that it was a day well spent."

The Task Force is still looking for more volunteers. If you can donate time call the OVP office at 656-2062 or Judy Holmes at 656-2697.

but what happens after graduation?

FIRST ANNUAL

STUDENT-ALUMNI CAREER DAY

MARCH 9, SATURDAY

9AM - 6:15PM

LIVING-LEARNING CENTER

CONCERNED ABOUT YOUR FUTURE? HERE'S A CHANCE TO EXPLORE CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN EIGHT BROAD AREAS:

-Allied Health Sciences
-Agriculture
-Business Administration
-Civil Service in Vermont
-Education
-Engineering
-Food Service
-Social Services

Details on Alumni Guests and Program in next week's Vermont Cynic

SPONSORED BY THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION, PLACEMENT OFFICE, and CLASS OF 1974

New Panhel officers: First row, left to right: Becky ... Rose Crowley; Second row, Connie Keough, D... Roberts.

Panhel Elects ...

by Laurie Rapp

Panhel held elections for its 1974-1975 Executive Council on February 4, 1974. Each of the six houses nominated people for the eight positions on the council and after each house studied a list of qualifications for each girl nominated, the houses voted.

Replacing Nancy Dankbar as President will be Becky Pardee of Pi Beta Phi. Kendree Riley and Kathy Mullen from Delta Delta Delta will be the council's new first and second Vice Presidents. First Vice President will coordinate sorority rush as far as schedule quotas and the like ... President is re... Panhellenic ... constitutional r... helping to ... outstanding Gre... Woman and L... Secretary and ... be Connie ... Debbie Ryan, ... both from Alp... The Office ... Relations, ... responsible for ... such events as ... Spring Carnival, ... and Rush, will ... by two girls, N... of Gamma Ph...

S.A. Speaker ... Symposiums

by Amy Demarest

S.A. Speaker's Bureau, Arts Studies Committee and Asian Cultural Exchange will present, throughout the next two months a symposium of speakers and performances, designed to bring Asian cultural and scholastic happenings to the Burlington area.

The series will begin on Wednesday, March 6 with a lecture by Joseph Campbell, renowned scholar of world mythology. Author of The Masks of God, a comprehensive analysis in four volumes of Primitive, Oriental, Occidental, and Creative Mythology, Campbell sees the center of modern man's crisis as his need for myth. That is, myths that offer inspiring and creative symbols that hold his psyche and society together. He comments on completion of the Masks of God:

I find that the main result of this enterprise has been its confirmation of a thought I have long and faithfully entertained: of the unity of the race of man, not only in its biology but also in its spiritual history, which has everywhere unfolded in the manner of a single symphony, with its themes announced, developed, amplified and turned about, distorted, reasserted, and today, in a grand fortissimo of all sections sounding together, irrestibly advancing to some great climax, out of which the next great movement will emerge. The crisis in society is the failure of the old myths to satisfy and the society's inability to create viable new ones. Wednesday, 8:00 p.m., 235 Life Science Building, Campbell will talk about "Modern Man ... Mythology."

During the ... Campbell will ... workshops in ... Living/Learning ... 9:30 – 11:45 ... in Myth of ... will be discussed ... The spiritual ... Eastern myths ... as "the ... Chinese Com... rests on myth ... The worksh... 1:30 will de... "The Inner ... Modern World ... the strength ... and the myth ... mother. Disc... at 2:30. Peop... should do so ...

Haleh, Dir... Asia Cen... University, ... March 12 an... on "Changes ... 8 p.m. ... Living/Learni...

The next ... series will ... March 21. H... anthropologi... time in India ... deal to do ... refugees will ... afternoon, ... Living/Learn...

Philip Ka... Zen Buddhi... the Zen Cen... N.Y. will ... April 5. H... "Zen Disci... Life," 8:00 ... Chapel. Sa... zen worksh... room 115 ... for the ... available in ... prior to the ... April 7 ...

New Engla... Music ... wi... performan... by a table ... L/L time ... Kapleau ... appearance ... part of ...

Easter...
SPECIALISTS I...
EERING EQUIP...
100 DORS...
Open...
Monday thru...
9 — ...

Upswing This Year

...this major ...in the halls ...ster for ...d in MAT ...and the ...ester is ...o resident ...the health ...r residence ...ading — an ...mplemented ...ur student ...nificant ...the A.C.E. ...uit of the ...efore earned ...ely explains ...that more students will contribute and participate when these programs become more organized. Again the time factor is significant.

Stonely is satisfied with the outcome of these two programs thus far. Both programs are designed to reach a select audience with similar interests. Many discussions arise after the formal programs. This is the new concept Paul Stonely emphasizes. He is very optimistic about the future of these residence hall programs.

...er Placement

...od No. 7 and 8 March 6-15. Sign ...9, 21, 28.

...7–Jordan Marsh Co., Executive Trainees ...major.

...nnecticut General, Sales and Mgmt. Trainees, ...L. Arts.

...ers, Audit Auditor Trainees, Accounting ...Student Alumni Career Day – sponsored by ...Office, Alumni Association, and Senior Class ...tional information available in the above ...ings.

...Aetna Life & Casualty, Audit, data Proc., ...etc., Accounting, Math, Data Processing, L... ...o., Pharaceutical Sales, Sci., Agr., Premed. ...Ciba Geigy, Sales & Agr. Bus., Agr. Majors, ...and.

...tting Mar. 12–Place to be announced. ...Straus (Retail) Executive Mgmt. Dev. Etc., ...Arts, New England Life, Actuarial, Acct., etc., ...arts.

...Bambergers (Retail), Executive Training ...roup Meeting, March 13–Place to be ...n., Cloth & Tex., Lib. Arts.

...Webster Engrg. Career Devel. Prog., Engr.,

...ing Superintendents or their representatives ...to visit the University to interview teaching ...ome have related they can only offer a low ...fall positions.

... Mr. Charles Johnson – District No. 19, ...Vt.; Mr. Robert Twiss – District No. 50, ...

... Sr. Rita Marie Emerson – District No. 16, ...tr, Vt.

... Mr. Feloney – District No. 54, Essex Jct., Vt. ... South Windsor Public Schools, South ...n.

... Mr. Paul Henry – District No. 14, Orleans, ...

... Morrisville Schools, Morrisville, N. Y.

... Representatives from greater Boston area: ...rookline, Lexington, Needham, Newton, ...and and Winchester.

...our office at 656-3477 if you wish to make an ...or for further information. Thank you.

...on?

...ER DAY

...ER

...CHANCE

...ES

...ces

...d CLASS OF 1974

New Panhel officers: First row, left to right: Becky Pardee, Kendree Riley, Kathy Mullen, Elida Crowley; Second row, Connie Keough, Debbie Ryan, Roseanne Kellner, Nancy Roberts. SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Panhel Elects New Officers

by Laurie Rapp

Panhel held elections for its 1974–1975 Executive Council on February 4, 1974. Each of the six houses nominated people for the eight positions on the council and after each house studied a list of qualifications for each girl nominated, the houses voted.

Replacing Nancy Danielson as President will be Becky Pardee of Pi Beta Phi. Kendree Riley and Kathy Mullen from Delta Delta Delta will be the council's new first and second Vice Presidents. First Vice President will coordinate sorority rush as far as schedule quotas, counseling and the like. Second Vice President is responsible for Panhellenic elections, constitutional revisions, and helping to determine outstanding Greek Man and Woman and Lambda Cup. Secretary and Treasurer will be Connie Keough and Debbie Ryan, respectively, both from Alpha Delta Pi. The Office of Public Relations, which is responsible for publicizing such events as Greek Week, Spring Carnival, Orientation, and Rush, will be occupied by two girls, Nancy Roberts of Gamma Phi Beta, and Roseanne Kellner of Alpha Chi Omega.

The primary purpose for this year's Panhellenic Council has been summed up by Becky Pardee as being inter-sorority organization and unity. Panhel also hopes to work closer this year with Fraternity Forum to help promote Greek Rush as well as the traditional Greek Week and Spring Carnival. Furthering community involvement with the Greeks will be another large concern of the 1974–1975 Panhellenic Council.

U.S. University Offers Solzhenitsyn A Place...

(continued from page one)

Soviet Union.

They point out, as well, that he and his family are "very private people" who may not like the attention they most likely would receive in the United States.

"The aggressiveness of the American press could disturb him greatly," said Adele Donchenko, chairwoman of the department of Slavic and East European languages at the University of Minnesota.

Thus far, Mr. Solzhenitsyn himself has remained silent on his plans. His lawyer, Mr. Hoob, first indicated that the novelist was considering Scandinavia as his permanent residence, but later said it was only one option among several.

Charged with Treason

The Soviet Union banished Mr. Solzhenitsyn after publication in the West of a new book – The Gulag Archipelago – in which he attacked the rule of repression under Stalin.

He was charged with treason and found guilty of "systematically performing actions that are incompatible with being a citizen of the Soviet Union and detrimental to the U.S.S.R."

Mr. Solzhenitsyn remained defiant to the last. When he was summoned to appear in court following publication of The Gulag Archipelago, he refused the summons and issued this statement:

"Given the widespread and unrestrained lawlessness that has reigned in our country for many years, and an eight-year campaign of slander and persecution against me, I refuse to recognize the legality of your summons. Before asking that citizens obey the law, learn how to observe it yourselves. Free the innocent, and punish those guilty of mass murder."

The exiling of Mr. Solzhenitsyn has become for many a symbol of the conflict between East and West, and some observers feel it will strain the efforts at detente between the United States and the U.S.S.R.

But the novelist himself seems more concerned with fundamental moral issues than with geopolitical disputes.

In describing one of his two plays – Candle in the Wind – published in this country by the University of Minnesota Press – he said, "The action takes place in an unknown country at an unspecified period and the heroes have international names. I did not do this in order to conceal my thought. I wanted to treat the moral problems of society, in the developed countries, independently of whether they are capitalist or socialist."

Keith Armes, associate professor of Slavic literature at Minnesota say Solzhenitsyn has written that "he believes in two related innate human feelings: a personal sense of conscience which prompts man in his dealings with other individuals, and a personal sense of justice which prompts him in his attitudes toward society."

Ironically, Mr. Armes, who translated the play for the University of Minnesota Press, was doing research in Russia when Mr. Solzhenitsyn was exiled.

His colleagues at Minnesota did not know whether he had tried to contact the writer.

Wherever he settles, Mr. Solzhenitsyn can be expected to continue his struggle. He has sought and is sure to continue to seek to expose Soviet "lies" and to insist on freedom from repression.

'Crimes Concern Millions'

He once wrote:

"Stalin's crimes cannot be forgotten indefinitely. One cannot always run against the truth. These crimes concern millions and they must be revealed, for as long as they are kept secret nothing prevents their repetition."

Elsewhere he said: "Free speech, honest and complete free speech – that is the first condition of health for every society, including ours. Anyone who does not want free speech for our country is indifferent to its needs. . . . He who abjures free speech for the fatherland also does not want to cure it of its illness but to drive the disease inward so that the rot begins from there."

Burlington Police To Shrink Patrol Cars

by Douglas Beardsley

What are the chances that someday you could run a red light in Burlington and be pulled over by a black and white Ford Pinto with a siren wailing, blue flashing bubble gum machine on its roof and "Police" written across its doors?

Last fall the likelihood looked pretty good, at least according to a Burlington Free Press story dated November 15, 1973. At that time Burlington Police Commissioner, Antonio Pomerleau, announced that his department planned to purchase "two or three American compacts" as an experiment in the feasibility of using smaller, more economical cars as regular police patrol vehicles. The cars were bought within "a month or so," which would have put the delivery date close to the end of January, 1974 at the latest. It's now February and the smallest police car this reporter has seen cruising the streets are the regular big V-8 Fords.

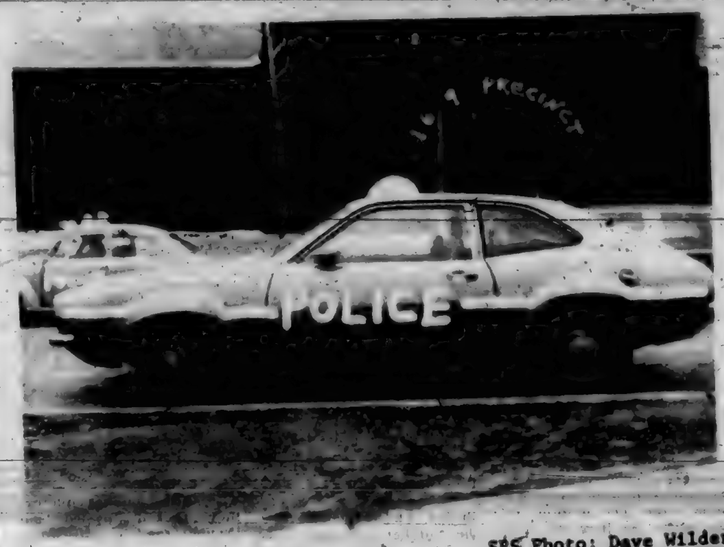
So where are the new mini squad cars? Burlington Police Chief Arthur Carron was quick to accuse the Free Press of printing misinformation. In fact he was even tickled by the idea of buying three new cars so soon after his entire patrol fleet had been completely replaced. "After all, even small cars cost money," he chuckled.

Burlington patrol cars are replaced annually because of their heavy usage (on the average each of these cars chalks up 70,000 miles a year.) The cars on the street now were bought last fall and the highest mileage on any one of them does not exceed 20,000 miles. Chief Carron explained that their intentions to add an economy compact to the force applied to next fall when the fleet would again be restocked.

The energy crunch seems to be the basis for Burlington's excitement over pint-sized cop cars. The patrol cars on the road today average a meager 9 miles to the gallon and have been consistently exhausting their monthly fuel allocations before the month is out, forcing them to borrow gasoline from the street department and other city sources.

When asked about the advantages and disadvantages of a small police vehicle, Chief Carron admitted that no research had as yet been

(continued on page ten)



SPS Photo: Dave Wilder

S.A. Speaker's Bureau To Present Symposiums On Asian Happenings

by Amy Demarest

S.A. Speaker's Bureau, Area Studies Committee and Asian Cultural Exchange will present, throughout the next two months a symposium of speakers and performances, designed to bring Asian cultural and scholastic happenings to the Burlington area.

The series will begin on Wednesday, March 6 with a lecture by Joseph Campbell, renowned scholar of world mythology. Author of The Masks of God, a comprehensive analysis in four volumes of Primitive, Oriental, Occidental, and Creative Mythology, Campbell sees the center of modern man's crisis as his need for myth. That is, myths that offer inspiring and creative symbols that hold his psyche and society together. He comments on completion of the Masks of God:

I find that the main result of this enterprise has been its confirmation of a thought I have long and faithfully entertained: of the unity of the race of man, not only in its biology but also in its spiritual history, which has everywhere unfolded in the manner of a single symphony, with its themes announced, developed, amplified and turned about, distorted, reasserted, and today, in a grand fortissimo of all sections sounding together, irrestibly advancing to some great climax, out of which the next great movement will emerge.

The crisis in society is the failure of the old myths to satisfy and the society's inability to create viable new ones. Wednesday, 8:00 p.m., 235 Life Science Building, Campbell will talk about "Modern Man and Creative Mythology."

During the day Thursday, Campbell will lead two workshops in room 115 Living/Learning Center. From 9:30 – 11:45 the "Dialogue in Myth of East and West" will be discussed ranging from the spiritual resurgence of Eastern myths in this country to the recent invasion of Chinese Communism, which rests on mythic foundations. The workshop starting at 1:30 will devote itself to "The Inner Journey in the Modern World" touching on the strength of inner symbols and the myth of the divine mother. Discussion will end at 2:30. People who drop by should do so quietly.

Haieh, Director of East Asia Center, McGill University, will be here on March 12 and present a talk on "Changes in Rural China," 8 p.m. room 115, Living/Learning.

The next event of the series will take place on March 21. David Barker, an anthropologist who has spent time in India and had a great deal to do with Tibetan refugees will speak Thursday afternoon, room 115 Living/Learning Center UVM.

Philip Kapleau, a master of Zen Buddhism and head of the Zen Center in Rochester, N.Y. will be the guest on April 5. He will speak on "Zen Discipline and Modern Life," 8:00 p.m., Ira Allen Chapel. Saturday, April 6 a zen workshop will be held in room 115 L/L. Free tickets for the workshop will be available in Billings the week prior to the event.

April 7 Peter Row from New England Conservatory of Music will give a sitar performance, accompanied by a tabla player, room 115, L/L, time to be arranged.

Kapleau and Row's appearances are being held as part of an Asian Festival planned by the Asian Cultural Exchange. Everybody's Gallery, L/L will hold an Oriental Art Exhibit. Sunday afternoon the Taj Mahal, a good Indian restaurant, will cater an Indian Banquet room 120, L/L. Tickets to the banquet will be sold along with "registration" for the Zen Workshop.

Three days later, Sjlas Wu, peasant born Chinese scholar, will show slides and speak about "Peasant Life in China" His presentation will take place in room 115 L/L. April 10.

Moving west, Stauffer, economist and energy consultant will speak on "Oil and the International Economy" on April 18, 8 p.m. Rm. 115 L/L. An expert on Oriental rugs as well he will speak the following day on "The Art of Oriental Rugs" 8:00 p.m., room 115, L/L.

On the same day, in the afternoon, J. L. Mehta, an Indian scholar from Benares Hindu University, now of Harvard will speak on "Comparative Religious Views of the Humanities in the Western University. Billings, Marsh Lounge, April 19, 3:00 p.m.

Most of the guests will be available for small group visits during their stay. If you are especially interested in a speaker leave your name at the Area Studies building, 479 Main St., Ext. 4062, or stop by.

Don't let the price of a college education stop you.

The price of a college education is skyrocketing. Fortunately the Air Force had done something to catch up with it. For the first time, the 6500 Air Force ROTC Scholarships include the 2-year program, for both men and women.

If you can qualify, the Air Force will pay for the remainder of your college education. Not only do ROTC 2-year college scholarships cover full tuition, but reimbursement for textbooks, lab and incidental fees, as well as a tax-free monthly allowance of $100.

To cash in on all this just apply, qualify, and enroll in the Air Force ROTC St. Michael's College Department of Aerospace Studies 655-2000 Ext. 281

It's a great way to finish your college education in the money, and enjoy a future where the sky's no limit... as an officer in the Air Force.

Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.

SPECIALISTS IN QUALITY, LIGHTWEIGHT CAMPING, MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT and CROSS COUNTRY EQUIPMENT

100 DORSET STREET–SOUTH BURLINGTON, VT.

Open Monday thru Saturday 9 am to 9 pm

PHONE 864-0473

WE WILL BE CLOSED

FRIDAY MARCH 1, 1974

until 1:00 PM

FOR INVENTORY

SENIORS, TAKE NOTE

ACADEMIC REGALIS (CAPS AND GOWNS) will be available for rental at the University Store from May 1, 1974 to May 18, 1974 during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon and 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

It is each graduate's responsibility to make their own rental arrangements at the store during the hours indicated above. Master and Doctoral Candidates have received literature in the mail re. the reservation of their regalia. If you have not been contacted by mail please make your arrangements at the store as soon as possible.

ALL ACADEMIC REGALIA MUST be returned immediately following your Graduation Exercise. It will be checked in at the place of your exercise, Guttersen Field House or Ira Allen Chapel on Saturday and Sunday.

Graduation announcement information has been mailed to your home address, however, additional contracts and information are available at the center counter of The University Store.

RENTAL RATES ARE AS FOLLOWS:

Bachelor Cap & Gown
Men	5.25	.16	5.41
Women (collar)	5.75	.18	5.93
Master's Cap & Gown	5.75	.18	5.93
Master's Hood	5.75	.18	5.93
Doctoral Cap & Gown	5.25	.19	5.44
Doctoral Hood	5.25	.19	5.44
Rental of Cap Only	1.75	.06	1.81

UNIVERSITY STORE

ON THE CAMPUS

Police To Shrink Cars...

(continued from page nine)

done on the subject, adding that such research will begin in spring. However, relying on his sheer common sense, Chief Carron did point out that the added upkeep associated with an inexpensive compact car would more than offset the savings on gas and oil. (but then, unlike fuel, mechanics are in abundance). Chief Carron seemed anxious to stress the fact that at most only half of the fleet would ever be replaced by small cars, implying in his careful political manner, that perhaps the compact would not make an ideal police cruiser.

According to good old down home Vermont horse sense, the factors to be considered in evaluating the effectiveness of an itsy bitsy cop car would have to include: the comfort of the officer who would spend the better part of his day in the vehicle, the disadvantages and advantages of a lighter car in terms of cornering and overall handling, the car's high speed chase ability (although this is, perhaps, a dying concern due to the increased use of radio-controlled road blocks), the ethical consideration of whether or not economy should be a factor when safety and security are concerned – in other words, can one forsake the need for power (speed) during emergencies when human lives are at stake (as in rushing someone to a hospital); or can one overlook the question of the actual physical space within the car itself, especially with regards to accomodating citizens in need of help or insuring the safety, for instance, of the officer transporting a homicidal maniac.

The use of small cars in area police work other than the regular street patrol is not new. In fact, Burlington has owned a couple of Ford Mavericks (although equipped with V-8's) for some time now. These cars, however are unmarked, and are used by detectives, primarily for drug busts. (Beware of Mavericks) Consequently, the cars get limited use and make lousy determinants as to how compact cars would stand up to the rigors of constant use as patrol cruisers.

Burlington is also by no means breaking new ground with its plans to experiment with half-pint patrol cars. The Greenwich, Connecticut Police Department, for instance, already owns a Toyota or two, and there's the story of Donald Debonaire from New York who casually rolled down the window of his 747 fuel injected, duel overload, 'Vette after being stopped for speeding, by a Volkswagon Beetle and said to the officer, "Don't bug me, man."

An Odd Kind Of Showroom L.I.Beration

by Douglas Brandsley

Fifteen minutes late and apprehensive about the prospect of being the only male at the meeting, I pulled my VW bus into the parking lot of Lake Buick's Dorset Street showroom. It seemed like an odd gathering place for Burlington's Women's Lib movement but the person who had tipped me off to the meeting insisted he hadn't made a mistake, and for the sake of a potentially good story I blindly believed him. I silently reprimanded myself for not leaving home earlier, and stepping out into the sub-zero night air, I quickly suppressed the desire to remove my leather high heeled boots and proceed in my stocking feet – a move which I hoped would make my entrance less conspicuous.

Just inside the door of the expansive high ceilinged service garage I froze, as if the hot air blower above me was some sort of immobilizing ray. There before me were the women – a large group seated in grey folding chairs on the grease stained cement floor. The air was heavy with the smell of oil and transmission fluid. It took me a couple of seconds to realize the women were facing in the opposite direction and that I entered unnoticed. Relieved, I slipped into a nearby chair next to a blue Buick LeSabre and waited for my heart to stop jumping before opening up my notebook and digging into my shirt pocket for a pencil. Settling back into my chair, my writing instrument poised ready, a few inches above the paper, I took my first good look around me. The women were apparently listening to some sort of a lecture, and lined up against the opposite wall were four cars, two of which were raised up on hydrolic lifts, while the other two were on the ground with their hoods up. It was then I noticed that the lecturer speaking to the seated group was a man. "That's odd," I thought, immediately dismissing the inconsistency and concentrating on what the man was saying. He was pointing to a diagram that looked remarkably like the dashboard of an automobile and emphatically repeating the phrase "never drive your car with your oil light on." Something was not quite right, and I was rapidly becoming more confused when another man stepped up behind my chair and leaning over my shoulder asked in a deep gravelly voice, "Can I help you?"

"Ah, yeah," I replied, somewhat taken aback by the mysterious appearance of this second man, "I'm, ah, covering this Women's Lib meeting for the Vermont Cynic – that's a newspaper, you know."

The man stood up. "This isn't a Women's Lib meeting" hee chuckled, "this is Buick L.I.B. – there's a difference you know," and I said, "There is?"

The fact is, there is indeed a difference between the two "libs" although one has a lot to do with the other. Women's Lib has been around for some time now, Buick L.I.B. is only a few weeks old. In the first instance, 'Lib' is a contraction of liberation; but L.I.B. stands for "Ladies in Buicks," and is the trademark of an auto mechanics course designed especially for women being offered by the Burlington Buick dealer.

The basic purpose of the weekly free instruction is to 'liberate' ladies from the clutches of crooked garage mechanics who delight in taking advantage of women ignorant in the workings of an automobile by charging exorbitant prices for unnecessary or nonexistant service. For those sheltered naive individuals who refuse to accept the reality of this problem there's the sad tale of Madame X (due to sheer embarrassment she has requested that her name be withheld), who paid $100 for the simple replacement of an $.80 head gasket– a job which should normally cost no more than $15. – $20. Madame X, pictured above, regained 80 of these dollars in small claims court and then enrolled in the Buick L.I.B. program, determined never to be burned again.

The material covered in the Buick L.I.B. ranges from why a tire blows and how to change it to what one woman can do on her own before calling a wrecker if her car miraculously dies, on the highway. The ladies are acquainted with common auto parts, and their locations, including points, plugs, distributor caps, valves, radiator hose, shocks, brakes, oil filter cap, etc. Safety and efficiency driving with the least overall mechanical and psychological wear are stressed, and each session is divided up between formal lecture and actual practical monkeying with the cars themselves. Each Wednesday before the class meets that night, the Buick people pull four or five cars out of their lots and place them on display in the garage in varying degrees of assessment, to let the women see just how everything fits together. What's more, they plan to bring in other model cars other than Buicks, including little foreign jobs to accomodate the non-Buick owners.

When asked just what she is getting out of the six weeks free program, a UVM secretary responded, "I think I'm getting my money's worth," while a female film editor commented "I'm going right home to rotate my radials."

Skiers 3rd...

(continued from page twelve)

unknown breaststroke talent, swam a fine race adding yet another first place to the Catamount display. At this point the UNH spectators were becoming burned by the deluge of first and second places taken by the Vermont swimmers. Fanning the fire was Mike Kurt and Doug Jefferson, placing first and second in the 500 yard freestyle. The worst was not over for UNH as the home forces took the 400 yard freestyle relay.

The Vermont swimmers wind up their dual meet season with eight wins and two losses. In two weeks they go to the New England Regional conference Meet at Brown University. The New England's are the biggest meet of their season as the team hopes to place among the top colleges in New England.

Swim Team...

(continued from page twelve)

Dartmouth's 175, and Middlebury's 166 Vermont's third place finish in the Championships qualifies the team for the NCAA Championships to be held March 7 – 9 at Jackson Hole, Wyoming.

Study Groups

Having trouble with study habits? Come do something about them! Study groups are being formed through the Counseling and Testing Center. For more information, call 656-3340.

Sailing Club Slide Show

UVM Sailing Club will present a slide show and talk about the Sailing Education Association (SEA), an oceanographic program for students aboard a 100-foot schooner, Thursday, February 28, 7:30 p.m. in Billings' North Lounge. Admission is free.

thedoctor's bag
Arnold Werner M.D.

QUESTION: Earlier this evening, I began to get some severe pains in my lower abdomen. In order to relieve this I went to the bathroom and tried to have a bowel movement. I continued to have the pains and as I was sitting there I blacked out momentarily.

As I came to, my legs were extended and locked, as were my arms. I couldn't move them and I couldn't speak although I was trying. My head cleared rapidly and in a few seconds everything was normal. A moment later I was able to have a bowel movement and I felt completely normal except that I felt very weak. When I came to, I had a similar feeling as when you suddenly stand up and become dizzy. This has never happened before. What I would like to know is, what caused the black out?

ANSWER: Occasional cramping abdominal pain is a common occurrence experienced by almost everyone and in itself has no clinical significance. Such pains are common with gastrointestinal viruses, excessive gas production because of the consumption of a particular food, anxiety or simply eating food which produces an idiosyncratic reaction.

Speaking of idiosyncratic reactions and keeping with the nostalgia renaissance, your passing out on the pot reminded me of "Jezebel," a 1950's song by Frankie Lane. The version I recalled was titled "Hemorrhoids" and started with the refrain: "I was such a fool for straining at the stool." Any local nostalgia buff should be able to hum the melody for you. The passing out occurs when you take deep breaths and then bear down without exhaling. This mansuver does increase intraabdominal pressure and facilitates a bowel movement. However, when done repeatedly with vigor, it also temporarily decreases blood flow to the brain and causes syncope (fainting). The stiff arms and legs were also probably due to the overbreathing.

Passing out is not conducive to good health, especially in bathrooms which have notoriously hard floors. The solution to your problem should be obvious. If the fainting recurs anyway, a physician should be consulted.

QUESTION: My problem is that my boyfriend is oversexed. Everytime we go out somewhere all he wants to do is to go back to my room and tell my roommate to get lost. I do love him very much, but I don't want anything to affect our relationship. How can I stifle him without this affecting us?

ANSWER: From your letter it is quite clear that it is already affecting you and is jeopardizing your relationship. Therefore, it seems necessary to deal with the situation directly with him.

There are several components to the problem, one clearly is the amount of your boyfriend's sexual interest. Another is the amount of your sexual interest. A third is your boyfriend's way of dealing with the situation, which includes interfering with your relationship with your roommate, with whom you have to get along many more hours of the week than you do your boyfriend.

It is not uncommon that younger men have a greater interest in sexual activity than women, or that they are less affected by fatigue and other factors in the expression of this interest. What is uncommon is that the man understands that there may be a difference between his sexual interest and his partner's interest and that the difference is not related to her lack of love for him.

You might begin by talking about the bind that he is putting you in by his behavior, and at the same time, reinforce the fact that you do love him and enjoy being with him in situations other than back in your room. Assuming that you care for him for some very good reasons, you might point out some of those other reasons as a means of providing further reassurance.

The open sharing of concerns and issues that make one partner or the other unhappy may be the crucial factor in making a relationship work over a period of time. Unfortunately, this is more easily said than done.

QUESTION: I recently heard that smoking one joint was equivalent in tar content to smoking a whole pack of cigarettes. I found this a bit hard to believe and am writing to find out what if any tar, nicotine or other carcinogenic stuff is in marijuana.

ANSWER: Cigarettes are one of the most remarkable agricultural products of our age. The growth of tobacco and the production of cigarettes are so carefully controlled, the presence of carcinogenic agents and other poisons can be precisely specified (as required by law) and held to constant amounts in each brand.

A marijuana joint on the other hand, is a haphazardly produced thing, usually homemade from black market weeds of varying quality. In addition, adulterants such as basil leaves and other spices are not infrequently introduced. Therefore, there is no way of accurately indicating what the tar content is of marijuana. But, it seems extraordinarily farfetched that anybody could smoke enough marijuana to do the type of damage to one's lungs that cigarette smokers do so commonly. There are individuals with very sensitive lungs who undoubtedly suffer distress at inhaling any smoke and these people might very well develop bronchial irritation with marijuana just as they would be by smoking cigarettes or being in a smoke-filled room or other polluted environment.

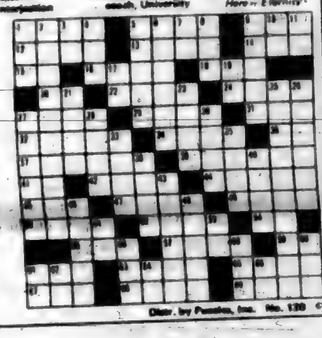
Photography Contest

The Cynic announces the "Fourth Annual Cynic Photography Contest." The rules are as follows:

1. The contest is open to all students of the University of Vermont who are amateurs. (Amateurs will be considered those people who do not support themselves by taking pictures.)
2. The pictures will be divided into the three following categories: faces, landscaping, and other subjects. The category of other subjects will include any picture not included in the categories of faces and landscapes.
3. All photographs will be black and white and will be approximately 8 by 10 inches. There is no limit to the number of photographs that each photographer may submit.
4. The pictures submitted will be the property of the Vermont Cynic which will have the consent of the photographer to publish them in the newspaper.
5. The Vermont Cynic has the right to request the photographer to submit a subject release form signed by those people who may appear in the photograph.
6. The pictures may have been taken at any time, past or present.
7. Pictures entered in the Fourth Annual Cynic Photography Contest could not have been entered in any other photography contest sponsored by the Cynic.
8. Photographs will be judged on print quality and composition by a board of judges.
9. The board of judges will consist of Wynn Gold of the Student Photography Service, Mike Hill of the University Photo Service, and Gene Perosi of the Living and Learning Center. The judges will be ineligible to enter the contest.
10. All photographs should be placed in the Cynic office or the SA desk.
11. The photographer's name, address, and telephone number should be lightly printed in pencil on the back of each photograph submitted, along with a title, if any.
12. Deadline for entries will be March 18, 1974.
13. One winner will be chosen from each category and the winners will be announced in the April 11 issue of the Cynic.
14. The winner in each category will receive $25.00.
15. All questions should be referred directly to the Cynic office in Billings, 658-4911.

crossword puzzle

Answer to Puzzle No. 119



Distr. by Puzzles, Inc. No. 120 ©

Shakey's Great Pizza Mysteries

SHAKEY'S Pizza The Pizza House

WED NITE $1.00 OFF FAMILY SIZE PIZZA

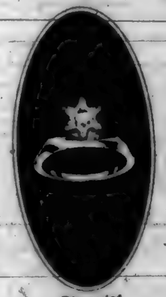
1653 WILLISTON RD. 658-4313

PRESTON'S presents

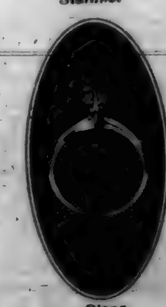
Orange Blossom Diamond Rings

Symbol of a Dream

Fleurette



Starmist



Diane

E.J. PRESTON & SON, Inc.

DUNHAM'S campus boots

MAZEL'S SHOE STORE 166 North Street

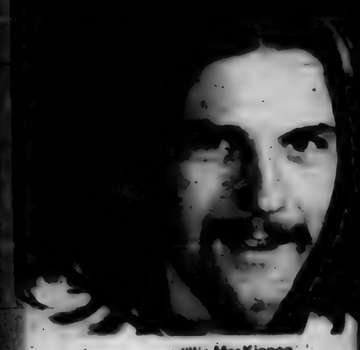
EVERYTHING FOR GARDENERS

VEGETABLE SEEDS

Before you buy seeds... visit Vermont's LARGEST selection of SEEDS. You'll find on hand...
•58,260 vegetable and flower seed packets
•6,000 lbs. of bulk and packaged vegetable seeds
•17 tons garden fertilizer
•Immediate delivery on Troy-Bilt Roto-Tillers – $6 on hand.
•8 Garden Tractors
•4280 peat pots and Jiffy products
•Fruit tree order desk
Plus garden books, tools, accessories. Catalogs too... Burpee, Harris, Nichols, Stark Bros. EVERYTHING FOR THE FOOD GARDENER.

Stop in or phone:

GARDEN WAY LIVING CENTER
1186 Williston Road
So. Burlington, Vt.
863-3458
Open daily 8:30 'til 5:30
Fridays 8:30 'til 9:00



Willie MacKinnon

Icecats W

by Fred Coombs

The Cats traveled to Middlebury Wednesday night to play the Panthers of Middlebury College. It was quite an interesting evening the Cats won 4-2. Larry Feriman, the Middlebury goalie, had 47 saves. There were fights in the stands and near-fights on the ice. A couple of UVM fans were thrown out, the Middlebury fans should have been. A couple of chickens were thrown out onto the ice, one was dead and the other wounded. The Middlebury elite sits behind the benches dressed to the teeth shouting obscenities and "Go Big Blue!" Visions of that sophisticated little, artsy craftsy school down the road go down the drain. Middlebury College is not unlike a sweaty armpit it stinks.

About the game: Middlebury came out flying in the first period, taking a 1-0 lead. UVM took the lead and held it in the second period with three goals. The MacKinnon line was smoking as it would be again in the next two games. Castle scored on the powerplay to tie the score at one apiece. MacKinnon skated in from mid-ice and hit Castle in front of the net. Cas twine to Perim at 4:50.

MacKinnon from Bill Spen a backhander out at 13:35 M it up on a g Tooley Kiely n save, went dow lifted it over, a

Tom Colby hung one in 16:25, after front of the was 3-2 at t second period doing most of the Panthers Barry Jones di played in over the game.

The third scoreless until polled in the play. MacKi second goal o mid-ice on the John Kiely for the Cats. 30 saves.

Kiely got Friday night traveled to W to meet Colb had to make Colby did no the puck in well be the between the

Vermont, A Small C

Copyright 1974 by The New York Times Company. Reprinted by permission.

by Arthur Kaminsky

How many college hockey coaches in 1972 both supported George McGovern and stole their power play from the Soviet national team? In a sport never known for innovation, there is clearly only one. He is Jim Cross, the young talented leader at the University of Vermont, whose team is currently the hottest in the sport.

The Catamounts, who also lead the league in long hair and beards, have used that power play (which purposely puts left-handed shooters on the right side and vice versa) to run up a 9-2 won-lost record with four straight upset victories over major Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference Division I powers. Vermont is still a small college Division II team, but in reality its 4-0, Division I mark leads the standing.

The most impressive performance came last weekend as flew west packed, two powerful S Bullikens (13 straight gam that streak Eastern visit game in sto 4-3.

With remaining, S but Tim sophomore face-off ba who rifled Then, in Willie MacK Vermont score.

Two nig loomed. Th led. 3-1, minutes le supercharg offense sur notched goals with 17:58 of th

The tw exceptiona Selman, th proclaim the best "C

WHO LIKES SO

IF YOU IDENTIFY WITH OUR OBJECTIVE MODEST PAYING JOBS IN SOC. CHANGE PROJ. OR ACADEMIC CREDIT

DAVES AUTOMO INC. Route 2, Williston, Vt. 863-7

FOREIGN CAR RE SPECIALISTS

• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batter
• Front end alignment • Spin b
• Undercoating • Engine rebu

VW BRAKE

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additio

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Front End Alignment $1

I.Beration

...rt, and then ...Buick L.I.B. ...need never lo... ...vered to the ...s from why ...d how to ...one woman ...own before ...if her car ...s on the ...ladies are ...h common ...and their ...ling points, ...caps, valves, ...ocks, brakes, ...Safety and ...g with the ...hanical and ...wear are ...h session is ...ween formal ...ual practical

...recently heard that smoking one joint was ...r content to smoking a whole pack of ...nd this a bit hard to believe and am writing ...t if any tar, nicotine or other carcinogenic ...rms

...arettes are one of the most remarkable ...ducts of our age. The growth of tobacco and ... of cigarettes are so carefully controlled, the ...rcinogenic agents and other poisons can be ...led (as required by law) and held to constant ...h brand.

...joint on the other hand, is a haphazardly ...g, usually homemade from black market ...ng quality. In addition, adulterants such as ...and other spices are not infrequently ...Therefore, there is no way of accurately ...t the tar content is of marijuana. But, it ...inarily farfetched that anybody could smoke ...ana to do the type of damage to one's lungs ... smokers do so commonly. There are ...th very sensitive lungs who undoubtedly ...at inhaling any smoke and these people might ...lop bronchial irritation with marijuana just as ...be by smoking cigarettes or being in a ...oom or other polluted environment.

monkeying with the cars themselves. Each Wednesday before the class meets that night, the Buick people pull four or five cars out of their lots and place them on display in the garage in varying degrees of assessment, to let the women see just how everything fits together. What's more, they plan to bring in other model cars other than Buicks, including little foreign jobs to accomodate the non-Buick owners.

When asked just what she is getting out of the six weeks free program, a UVM secretary responded, "I think I'm getting my money's worth," while a female film editor commented "I'm going right home to rotate my radials."

...otography Contest

... announces the "Fourth Annual Cynic ... Contest." The rules are as follows:

...ntest is open to all students of the University of ...ho are amateurs. (Amateurs will be considered ...se who do not support themselves by taking ...

...ictures will be divided into the three following ... faces, landscaping, and other subjects. The ... other subjects will include any picture not ... the categories of faces and landscapes.

...otographs will be black and white and will be ...ely 8 by 10 inches. There is no limit to the ... photographs that each photographer may ...

...ctures submitted will be the property of the ...ynic which will have the consent of the ...r to publish them in the newspaper.

... Vermont Cynic has the right to request the ...r to submit a subject release form signed by ... who may appear in the photograph.

...ctures may have been taken at any time, past or ...

...s entered in the Fourth Annual Cynic ...y Contest could not have been entered in any ...graphy contest sponsored by the Cynic.

...graphs will be judged on print quality and ...n by a board of judges.

...oard of judges will consist of Wynn Gold of the ...otography Service, Mike Hill of the University ...

...ce, and Gene Peroni of the Living and Learning ... judges will be ineligible to enter the contest.

...otographs should be placed in the Cynic office ...ek.

...photographer's name, address, and telephone ...uld be lightly printed in pencil on the back of ...raph submitted, along with a title, if any.

...line for entries will be March 18, 1974.

...winner will be chosen from each category and ... will be announced in the April 11 issue of the ...

...money in each category will receive $25.00.

...questions should be referred directly to the Cynic ...ings, 658-4911.

Willie MacKinnon

John Kiely

Icecats Win On The Road

by Fred Coombs

The Cats traveled to Middlebury Wednesday night to play the Panthers of Middlebury College. It was quite an interesting evening: the Cats won 4–2, Larry Perlman, the Middlebury goalie, had 47 saves. There were fights in the stands and near-fights on the ice. A couple of UVM fans were thrown out, the Middlebury fans should have been. A couple of chickens were thrown out onto the ice; one was dead and the other wounded. The Middlebury elite sits behind the benches dressed to the teeth shouting obscenities and "Go Big Blue!" Visions of that sophisticated little artsy crafty school down the road go down the drain. Middlebury College is not unlike a sweaty armpit—it stinks.

About the game: Middlebury came out flying in the first period, taking a 1–0 lead. UVM took the lead and held it in the second period with three goals. The MacKinnon line was smoking as it would be again in the next two games. Castle scored on the powerplay to tie, the score at one apiece. MacKinnon skated in from mid-ice and hit Castle in front of the net. Castle tickled the twine to Perlman's short side at 4:50.

MacKinnon took a pass from Bill Spence and banged a backhander from 10 feet out at 13:35. Middlebury tied it up on a goal by George Tooley. Kiely made the initial save, went down, and Tooley lifted it over, at 14:25.

Tom Colby came back and hung one in the hemp at 16:25, after a scramble in front of the net. The score was 3–2 at the end of the second period, with Perlman doing most of the work for the Panthers. Defenseman Barry Jones did the rest, as he played in over 50 minutes of the game.

The third period was scoreless until Perlman was pulled in the last minute of play. MacKinnon got his second goal of the night from mid-ice on the empty net.

John Kiely also played well for the Cats, coming up with 30 saves.

Kiely got his first shutout Friday night when the Cats traveled to Waterville Maine to meet Colby. Ironically, he had to make only 16 saves. Colby did nothing but dump the puck in what might very well be the last meeting between the two schools. MacKinnon got a pair of lamplighters and Michel Lebeau got the clincher. The Cats out shot them 43–16.

Willie MacKinnon moved on up to Brunswick, Maine to play the Bowdoin Polar Bears. The rest of the team went along for the ride, stopping at L.L. Bean's and seeing the sights. MacKinnon wrung the rope four times to bring his 3 game total to eight goals.

UVM scored three times in the first period and kept the Bowdoin Winter Carnival crowd quiet.

Tom Colby wristed one in from 15 feet at 9:30 when Bowdoin had trouble clearing it. MacKinnon got his show on the road at 12:15 when he stole the puck in the Bowdoin zone. Goalie Fred Green came out to meet him but Willie didn't have much to say as he stuffed the puck under and in.

John Murphy scored when he bounced one off Green's skate at 18:43 to end the scoring of the first period.

Bowdoin had something to sing about when Scott Blackburn scored on the powerplay, at 7:21 of the second period. You see, Bowdoin sings their school song after every goal; big save or more or less whenever they feel like it.

MacKinnon scored again, beating goalie Number 2, Steve Sozanski from the left face off circle, at 9:36.

UVM gave the crowd something to sing about with sloppy play that resulted in two Bowdoin goals by Mark O'Keefe and Bernard P. Gallagher. MacKinnon got Number 3 when he skated in, faked out Sozanski, and put it past at 18:35, to close out the scoring of the second period. UVM led 5–3.

MacKinnon opened up the third period scoring on a backhander off the cross bar unassisted at 9:35. Bowdoin's Bill Shanahan somehow squirted one past Kiely at 12:30 on the powerplay. Bowdoin converted on all three power plays. Ted Castle ended the scoring on a backhander from the faceoff at 16:00 of the third period.

The MacKinnon Castle Spence line had a hand in 11 of the 14 goals scored in the three games. MacKinnon took the scoring lead with 22 goals and 21 assists. Three Stars of the Week: MacKinnon, Castle, and Spence. The first playoff game is Sunday night against Army.

SCHWARTZ ON SPORTS

by Mike Schwartz

There are many parts to the sports program at UVM. Many go unnoticed. Besides varsity and club activities there is an aspect of Vermont sports that plays an integral part of campus life. This is the growing intramural program, one of the outlets for free time recreation and socializing at the University.

Chatting with Interim Intramural Director Chris Harris brought out the importance and the growth of intramural athletics for both males and females. There are still problems concerning the development of the program but these seem to be minor in comparison to the beneficial effects of intramurals.

A look at the figures shows the huge place intramurals plays in the athletic program. In the fall of 1972, 2333 students participated and by the fall of 1973 the figure was up to 2909. The total for all of 1972 – 1973 among faculty, graduate, and undergraduate groups was 4988 or 55 per cent of the campus population. The Physical Education department stresses the positive need of participation on the intramural level. Besides the maintenance costs this was an important factor in reserving time on Monday's for intramural programs only, and in opening the gym facilities on Sunday.

Among the 53 sporting activities in approximately 15 different sports, women have increased their participation. Harris pointed out, "The lack of organization makes it difficult to have an all-sports trophy at this time." This growth has occurred mostly in the past two years. A total of 332 girls participated in the fall of 1973. Growth is seen in that women's hockey has increased from six teams last semester to 16 teams this semester.

Among males, basketball remains the most popular sport. Racquetball has increased spectacularly and hockey has also become a very important intramural sport. A ski meet has been organized and future plans call for the organizing of cross country ski competition.

Despite the growth, problems do remain. At times there are not enough officials, especially for basketball. Another problem, even more important that the first, is the case of forfeits. There is a need for people to be more aware of schedules and filing dates for applications. Harris stressed the need for an intramural representative for all competing teams and there is a Residence Hall contact. According to Harris, publicity through publications such as the Cynic should also be increased.

Finally, there is the problem of conflicting schedules with other activities in the overused gym facilities. These conflicts with varsity team practices necessitates the scheduling of intramural activities around these practices. This overcrowding suggests the need for separate athletic facilities for varsity sports and the use of Patrick as an intramural and recreational facility. With the women's athletic department moving in from Southwick the study of a larger athletic complex at UVM, as at other major state universities, should be taken seriously. For now, intramurals must compete for time.

Needless to say, intramurals are an important outlet for free time recreation. They provide a place to socialize and to get away from the pressures of school. The program allows people to perform in sports that they may never be able to compete in and many people play in four or five different sports. For instance, certain dormitory hockey teams are really groups of people who occasionally go to the rink to skate. They might decide to try their combined talents just for the fun of play. They may look like clowns on the ice as they continually fall and trip over their skates but when they score a goal it's the biggest thrill that could be imagined. It shows sport as play and fun and not the serious business it has become in other areas of competition.

This shows the importance of recreation. The growth of intramurals is an indication of the popularity of sport among young people, older faculty members, females, and of course, the male of the species. Here at UVM, intramurals are an important part of physical education. It demonstrates the role of sport in our society as a recreational activity.

PFG Schedule

GYM: Friday, March 1 – Faculty and staff from 7 to 10:30 p.m.
Saturday, March 2 – Students from 1 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.
Sunday, March 3 – Students from 1 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.
Monday, March 4 – High school playoffs from 1 to 10:30 p.m.

RINK: March 1 – Faculty and staff from 7 to 10:30
March 2 – Varsity practice in the afternoon; students from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.
March 3 – Division II Playoff – no recreational skating.
March 4 – Students from 3 to 5, 8 to 9 p.m. Intramurals from 1 to 3, 6:30 to 8, and 9 to 10:30 p.m.

POOL: March 1 – Faculty and staff from 7 to 10:30 p.m.
March 2 – Students from 1 to 5 and from 7:30 to 10 p.m.
March 3 – Students from 1 to 5 and 7:30 to 10 p.m.
March 4 – Students from 1 to 5 and 7:30 to 10 p.m.

TRACK: March 1 – High School clinic and meet 4 to 10 p.m.
March 2 – High School clinic and meet 12 to 4 p.m. Students from 7:30 to 10 p.m.
March 3 – Students from 1 to 5, and from 7:30 to 10 p.m.
March 4 – Cage area - soccer and baseball practice 7:30 to 10 p.m. Track area – students from 1 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

We finished our dual meet season last Saturday with a relatively easy win over UNH. Throughout the season we have had very few, if any, disqualifications. Saturday, in the final event of the day, our freestyle relay was disqualified. This had little effect on the final score but it was a big disappointment to the team as a whole and to four freshmen in particular. The relay, consisting of Kevin Fisher, Kurt Haigis, John Blake and Mike Delaney, had just convincingly broken a longstanding freshman record. They had been hoping to break the record all year and Saturday was their last chance. All the freshmen on the team have performed exceptionally throughout the season. A record-breaking victory certainly would have been an appropriate way to end their season. The freshmen, in many ways, have made the team what it is both in and out of the pool. The other freshmen who have made big contributions are Peter Weiler (freestyle), Alan Kopel (breaststroke) and Joey Olshan (butterfly).

After seeing the situation that the UNH swim team is in, you can't help but stop and count your blessings. With the resignation of their talented but frustrated coach and a proposal to close the pool for two months next winter, the future of their team looks very dim. The coach's requests for more funds have been all but ignored. When you consider what is happening to the swim program at UNH you have to be thankful for what the coaches (especially Coach Leggett) and the Athletic Department have done to promote varsity swimming for both men and women at UVM.

Vermont, A Small College, But It Plays Big Hockey

Copyright 1974 by The New York Times Company. Reprinted by permission.

by Arthur Kaminsky

How many college hockey coaches in 1972 both supported George McGovern and stole their power play from the Soviet national team? In a sport never known for innovation, there is clearly only one. He is Jim Cross, the young talented leader at the University of Vermont, whose team is currently the hottest in the sport.

The Catamounts, who also lead the league in long hair and beards, have used that power play (which purposely puts left-handed shooters on the right side and vice versa) to run up a 9-2 won-lost record with four straight upset victories over major Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference Division I powers. Vermont is still a small college Division II team, but in reality its 4-0 Division I mark leads the standing.

The most impressive performance came last weekend as the Catamounts flew west for a tension-packed, two game set with powerful St. Louis. The Billikens (15-3) had won 18 straight games at home, but that streak ended as the Eastern visitors won the first game in story book fashion, 4-3.

With eight seconds remaining, St. Louis led, 3-2, but Tim O'Connell, a sophomore star, zipped a face-off back to Ted Child, who rifled in the tying goal. Then, in overtime, speedy Willie MacKinnon won it for Vermont on a power-play score.

Two nights later, a sweep loomed. The New Englanders led, 3-1, with only eight minutes left, but then the supercharged St. Louis offense surged. The Billikens notched three spectacular goals with the winner at 17:58 of the third period.

The twin 4-3 scores and exceptional play led Bill Selman, the Billiken coach, to proclaim that "Vermont is the best team we played all year, as good as Minnesota, who defeated us twice earlier." Dick Whittier, Vermont's sports information director, reported that opinion at the St. Louis Arena was unanimous that this was the best two-game series yet seen there.

Vermont is an exceptional skating team and one of the best is O'Connell, from Hingham, Mass., who had an excellent freshman year with 51 points and was drafted by the Buffalo Sabres. He comes from an athletic background. His father is Tom O'Connell who remains a favorite of trivia buffs since he was the Cleveland Brown's quarterback in their championship season of 1957.

MacKinnon, Ted Castle, Roger Mallette and Michel Lebeau, a freshman ace, are outstanding scoring and checking forwards. John Kiely, the goalie, who lives in Ithaca, N.Y., right under Cornell's nose, has been spectacular all year.

Will Vermont defend its 1972-73 Division II title in March or gamble for possible Division I and National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament bids? Although the Catamounts do not move up officially until next year, the E.C.A.C. has indicated that Cross's club will be considered for the major tournament if they want it.

WHO LIKES SCHOOL

IF YOU IDENTIFY WITH OUR OBJECTIVES CONTACT US AT:
IN SOC. CHANGE PROJ.
JOBS OR ACADEMIC CREDIT
S.E.E.D. Foundation
1711 18th St. NW rm. 1
Wash. D.C. 20009

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE
INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 863-7586
FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS
• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JOB
Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.
$49.95
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Front End Alignment $12.00

SOMETIMES THE BEST TAKES A LITTLE LONGER TO ARRIVE. LIKE US.

We're Data General Corporation.
You may have talked about jobs with other companies already, but don't sign up yet. We're coming on March 15, about a month from now.
And we're worth the wait.
You see, we're the fastest-growing company in the mini-computer business. Our operations nearly have doubled every year we've been around, and now we're in the $100 million bracket. Not bad for a company barely five years old.
And for a soon-to-be college graduate, we have a lot to offer.
Right now we have a host of professional openings—in engineering, sales, administration, and many others. Your next job might be one of them.
We offer excellent salaries and benefits, including a stock-purchase plan. And even more important, a great working environment, one very much to a college grad's liking.
You can find out more by talking with one of our representatives. To arrange a meeting, sign up in your Placement Office.
Hang on. Don't go away. We're coming soon and we're worth waiting for.
DataGeneral
The computer company you can understand.

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER®
Downtown Burlington
+
Essex Junction

Cheers!
Coca-Cola
It's the real thing. Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

U.V.M. SPORTS

Joe Greco goes up for a layup over Neil Burns of BU. Ken Boyd of BU and Charlie Trapani look on. SPS Photo: Craig Woodworth

BU Foul Shots Defeat UVM

by Mike Schwartz

A discrepancy in the number of foul shots and not the constant cries from the cheerleaders enabled Boston University to defeat the Univeruty of Vermont basketball team 81 – 74 last Saturday afternoon at Patrick Gym. While Vermont hit more field goals (34 – 31), the Terriers hit 19 – 24 from the foul line. UVM hit on 8 – 11. In fact, in the first half Vermont didn't even have a foul shot.

BU came into the game with a 7 – 13 record and were seeking revenge for a 65 – 62 defeat by UVM in Boston. They are led by an All-American candidate, Ken Boyd, who averages 21 points a game. Their record was not an indication of their abilities. They lost their starting center who joined the Buffalo Braves of the NBA before graduation and star guard Kerry Walker dropped out of school during the season. They had lost five Yankee Conference games by three or less points.

The first half was not much of a game. Play was sloppy and the pattern was quickly apparent. BU would fast break trying to hit Boyd on the break. If they set up, Boyd usually received the passes. With 11:57 to play in the half, the score was 14 – 14 with Boyd having ten points. Then BU pulled out to a 27 – 20 lead as Lance Tucker, Walt Chesley, and Neil Burns hit three baskets in a row. Before the game was over, Burns would make himself the star of the game.

Vermont went to the bench using Jeff Niles and Brian Donahue and the score stayed the same. At halftime BU led by 34 – 28.

In the second half, Terry Green picked up his fourth foul with 18 minutes still to play. The teams traded baskets back and forth and for the most part the action under the baskets was rough. Joe Greco took up the slack when Green left the game. Greco scored 12 points and with 5:42 left to play the score was 61 - 61. However, Burns started to roll into the basket for easy layups. He scored 17 points in the second half as BU did not have to rely on Boyd. Burns finished the game with 27 points hitting 12 for 22 from the field. With the score tied Burns hit a layup, Tucker stole the ball and scored and Burns hit a jumper. A Burns layup made it 69 – 64. Greco and Cohen hit short jumpers and with two minutes left to play the score was 69 - 68 BU. But Vermont needed the ball and had to commit fouls. Chesley hit three or four clutch fouls, Tucker hit one, Steve Dabney hit two and then hit a layup. BU now led 77 – 68 with 41 seconds remaining. The rest of the game didn't matter, as BU held on for the 81 – 74 victory. Chesley and Dabney were the clutch foul shooters despite having free throw percentages under the 60 per cent level.

During the game BU made up for sloppy passing due to their fast break style with tough rebounding. Boyd and Chesley were tremendous leapers, and had 10 and 15 rebounds respectively. Overall BU had 50 rebounds and Vermont 36. Most of BU scoring came from the fast break. In the past UVM has been able to slow down such opponents but today the fast breaking Terriers won out in the end. In the second half a BU full court man to man press hurt the poise of UVM. These factors led to the BU victory.

For the game Joe Greco led the Catamounts with 24 points, 20 in the second half. Charlie Trapani added 13 and Warren Prehmus 12. However, Prehmus was able to hit on only 6 of 16 shots. But Warren made some nice passes and had eight assists on the day.

B.U. was led by Burns and by Boyd who finished with 19 points. Chesley added 12 as did Dabney. Dabney also had six assists.

Despite the recent Vermont victory streak a crowd of only 933 showed up for the game. The Cats now stand at 8 – 16 on the season and close up Yankee Conference play with a 3 – 9 record. By winning the last two games a 10 – 16 record would show the improvement the team is making. In the BU game the play of Burns and the rough board work by the Terriers wore down the Catamounts. One of the two remaining games was last night against Middlebury. The final game is this Saturday at Brandeis.

A Story Of Two Roommates

by Barry Cohen

Two of the Vermont Basketball team's leading scorers and rebounders are Terry Green and Joe Greco. They both work hard to excel at the same thing; they both spend great amounts of time and energy on hot summer concrete to perfect their own styles: shooting and dribbling for hours at a time until they have improved the particular aspect of the game of basketball they feel unsure of. One sees the hours of practice when one watches either float through the air and make a jump shot. Both are outstanding shooters: Joe, more with a bending, twisting style, while Terry is a master at the fade away jumper. These two fine athletes have more than their good ball-playing in common, though, they are both very sensitive and considerate human beings. Perhaps they would have been good friends anyway, but as things worked out, Green and Greco met because they both played ball at UVM. Although from entirely opposite backgrounds, they became roommates this year. The only white in an all-black suite, Greco has become one of the boys and is "my main man" says roommate Green.

Joe Greco is from a friendly little country town called Whitehall. Although in the state of New York, Whitehall is not a very exposed area. He says that besides the newly opened drive-in that shows "dirty movies" the only excitement people get is supplied by the Lake George Resort Area, some miles away. When I first met him, it was obvious that he was shy and awkward with people. This was probably due to the fact that he had never before met so many new people as he had all at once that freshman year at UVM.

At the other extreme is Terry Green. Terry Green is from the other side of the tracks. It is the side that the sheltered white kids are never allowed to see for fear of reprimand by their parents. Just beyond the New Jersey side of the Holland Tunnel is Jersey City; it was here that he used to run home from grade school. Unlike Whitehall, his hometown was nowhere near sheltered. Blacks, Whites, Spanish, Puerto Ricans, Cubans; there are all different kinds of people living in Jersey City. There are no people here out in the meadows on Sunday Church picnics, as there might be in a place like Whitehall. Green had to run home from school because he was always afraid that some of the bigger kids would "kick my ass." There was no mommy waiting for him after school, and if he was caught by certain "dudes," his ass was kicked. It must be a paranoid feeling knowing that just for the sake of beating you up, certain guys were going to get you. Terry claims that because of this he learned to be fast of foot, but it seems a painful way to learn.

Greco started playing basketball in the fourth grade, in an organized league. Green never had any leagues at that early age, and didn't learn to play ball until junior high school. Greco never had much competition in Whitehall; he was always the acclaimed star. He scored well over 1000 points in high school, and broke more records than Elvis Presley has made! While all this was happening in Whitehall, Green was getting kicked out of playground ballgames in Jersey City and nearby Manhattan, because the competition was too rough for a newcomer. But slowly he would learn the game well enough to become the star of Hoboken High School. He would meet Joe Greco the next year as both of them merited attention by the UVM basketball staff. As high school seniors, they would both be recruited by Vermont, and convinced to attend UVM. Greco on an athletic scholarship, and Green on financial aid.

At Vermont Greco feels that he has improved greatly because of the better competition, while Green improves more as he learns the game that he started later than most players of his high caliber. They both have become fine ballplayers at Vermont, and I have had the pleasure of playing and working with both of them.

In this sad day of dehumanizing competition in college academics as well as in intercollegiate athletics, where the emphasis is on ends and not means, the commitment to friendship of two young men from two different worlds, can serve for a more favorable and optimistic commentary.

Skiers Third At Middlebury

by Dave Donahue

Despite heavy rains and resulting poor snow conditions, the Eastern Championships were staged at the Middlebury Snow Bowl last weekend, as scheduled. Only the jumping event was not held according to plans due to the high winds and blowing snow on Saturday afternoon.

In the opening event, the giant slalom, which was held on a rain soaked course, UVM finished second to Dartmouth with 32 points as opposed to Dartmouth's 41. The top finishers were Chris Brown, ninth, Brian Suslin, eleventh, and Kirk Dice, sixteenth. The individual winner of the event was John Macomber of Dartmouth.

In the cross-country at the Breadloaf Course, UVM lost more ground to Dartmouth and was overtaken by Middlebury. UVM's first finisher was Stan Dunklee who finished fifteenth. The team performance was good for only 11 points and sixth place. Dartmouth's Doug Peterson won the event and the Bi Green captured the team title with first, third, fifth, and seventh place finishes.

In the slalom which took place on Saturday morning, UVM finished a disappointing fourth behind Dartmouth, Middlebury, and St. Lawrence who defeated John Macomber by two-tenths of a second. Kirk Dice finished sixth and Dick Erdman thirteenth as both Brian Suslin and Bill Rathbone fell on their first runs for UVM. The event did however move Vermont into a tie with UNH for third place.

The final event, the jump, was held under brilliantly sunny skies on Sunday. Vermont won the event easily behind Trygve Roiseth's victory, Petter Kongsli's third place finish, and Tom Lantz's fourth place finish. Kongsli, who lost his first meet of the year, fell on two of his three jumps and still managed an amazing third place result. UVM's performance in the jump moved them into third place with a total of 123 points, considerably less than

(continued on page ten)

Speedskater Raneri Wins

by Barbara Fullem

The Somers Twelfth Annual Ice Carnival held at Lake Lincolndale New York was the site of several "firsts" for freshman Dave Raneri of Katonah, New York. Raneri, a business major, became the first member of the Green Mountaineers Speedskating Club, Vermont's first organized club, to participate and win in formal racing competition. Dave skated to a first place finish in the Senior Boys mile race on February 9 and won the James Duncan Memorial Trophy, a three foot high prize that he will keep for one year and which he will defend again next year. Dave also received a permanent plaque for his first place win in the 660 yard event. Raneri is looking ahead to future competition in the annual Ice Carnival to be held in his hometown on March 30 and 31.

Vermont Seeded First In Division II

The University of Vermont hockey team visited Maine this past weekend and came away with two big wins. Friday night at Colby, the Cats gave John Kiely his first shutout of the season. The Cats won 3 – 0.

On Saturday night, the offense was the story in a 7 – 4 victory over Bowdoin. Willie MacKinnon showed no ill effects from his recent shoulder injury as he scored four goals. MacKinnon, despite missing eight games this season, is now the top UVM scorer with 22 goals and 21 assists. It was a big game for the first line of MacKinnon, Bill Spence, and Ted Castle as they figured in the scoring of six of the seven goals. Spence had four assists and Castle had one goal and two assists. Tom Colby and John Murphy also had goals for the Cats.

After the final game of the season against Norwich, the hockey team enters Division II playoff competition. For the third straight year the Cats have been seeded first. This means that all games that the Cats are involved in will be played at the Patterson Field House. The first playoff game is this Friday night at 8:00 p. m. against Army. The Army Cadets are a newcomer to Division II play and have an 18 – 6 record. Other matchups in the playoffs find Merrimack hosting Norwich, Williams visiting Salem State, and Boston State entertaining Massachusetts. The playoffs figure to be very exciting and not an easy chore for the Cats. Of course, the Catamounts are attempting to win their third Division II title and enter next year's Division I season as the best team in Division II.

Swim Team Ends Season

by Mike Kurt

The University of Vermont swim team ended their dual meet season last weekend smashing the University of New Hampshire by a score of 70-25. The facility at UNH was very impressive with a separate diving area and a spectator seating capacity of well over 400. But with all this going for them the UNH swim team still bowed to Dr. Leggett's swim force.

Leading the attack was the 400 yard medley relay team and the Cats were ahead by 7-0. The thousand yard freestyle was next; Dave Phalen and Doug Jefferson placed one and two as they lapped their rivals. The 200 yard free style was dominated by John Blake, who set a grueling pace early in the race. John Mahoney capped it off, taking second place. Mike Jacobs won the 50 yard free style with Kevin Delany hot on his trail, again a one, two UVM finish. In the 200 yard individual medley, the Cat's performed impressively with Mike Kurt crushing his opponent by half a pool length. The one and three meter diving events were dominated by Doug Piche and Bob Neid, respectively. They took first and second in both events. Senior Gary Shepard, until last week an

(continued on page ten)

Women's Basketball Team Makes Tourney

The Women's Basketball team was elated to find out they were going to the New England Tournament for the fourth year. The tournament will be held at Brooklyn College March 7, 8, and 9. UVM has been seated ninth out of the sixteen schools participating. This is the highest seating the women have ever gotten. UVM will be playing Ithaca College in a 2:00 p.m. match March 7. This team has a lot of potential and is expected to go quite a ways in this year's tournament. The only other Vermont school to make the tournament was Lyndon who was seated sixteenth. They will play Southern Conn. who is seated first in the opener.

Seatings:
1. Southern Conn.
2. Queens College
3. Springfield College
4. University of N. H.
5. Herbert-Lehman
6. Brooklyn College
7. URI
8. Ithaca
9. UVM
10. Worchester
11. Northeastern
12. UMass
13. Fitchburgh
14. Bridgewater
15. Brockport
16. Lyndon

The UVM Cats will be playing the University of Connecticut Thursday and Springfield College Friday, both games on the road. The last home game will be March 5 at 6:30 against Plymouth State, then it's off to the tourney!

CLINIQUE is at the mayfair

THE LAST CHANCE
FIRST ANNIVERSARY
COSTUME PARTY
20¢ Drafts
ALL NIGHT
Prizes
THURSDAY
MARCH 14
147 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

PLANTASIA
10:30—5:30 107 St. Paul St.
COME IN & CHOOSE
from 21 varieties of herbs
in 3" pots from 85¢
—plus some exotic rarities
that don't often appear in Vermont homes,
but are very suitable

KALSØ earth shoe
139 BANK STREET BURLINGTON

JOB OPENINGS

People to sell advertising for this newspaper starting next semester.

A chance to express your creative ability.
Commissions paid.

Please fill out the below form and return to the:

Vermont Cynic
ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT
Box 20
Billings Center

NAME_____
ADDRESS_____
YEAR_____
TELEPHONE_____

CLASSIFIED

For Sale: 1964 V.W. Bug – Sunroof, new battery, starter, and recent brake job. Engine was rebuilt, but runs rough. Radio, Inspected $125.00. Call 656-3011, Rm. 304.

Female – roommate needed to share apartment with 2 other girls. 416 Pearl St. – close to campus – Rent $58/mo. Call 863-3623, Sherry or Dari.

Skis and Boots for sale – 360's with Look Nevada. Nordica and Lange Comps. Call Scott 878-8631.

PERU – If you've been there in the last few years and would be willing to give me some information, please call Jill at 3269, 106 Tupper. I could really use your help.

For Sale: One pair Fischer ALU RSL, 206 cm, 2 years old, good condition, $135 or best offer. Call Bruce X2912.

For Sale – One pair Reiker Ski Boots, were $70, will take best offer; size 11½ – 12½, Call bruce X2912.

Room for Rent – in large, 3 bedroom apartment on Park St. Total costs approx. $75/mo. We are two females looking for a third person preferably a female, call 864-7311, Judy.

Housemate Wanted – Walking distance to campus. Private Room $67/mo. inclu. heat, 658-3380. Ask for Mona.

For Sale: Sanyo Car Cassette Deck, 25 rms, automatic reverse. List – $129.95. Plus two comm. speakers, air suspended with 14 oz. magnet, List $30. Call Bob, 864-4307. All for $100.00

For Sale: SAAB 99E Fuel injection, Blue, 27 mpg, Kowis, snowtires, Michelins's, engine heater, nothing spared in upkeep, i.e. in excellent condition. Asking $2200.00. Tom, 862-1408, 496-3019 (Warren).

For Sale: One pair of Studiocraft 220 speakers system. They can handle 60 watts RMS apiece. Are only 5 months old. Sell both for $100.00. Call Ira at 656-4247.

U.V.M. SPORTS

Joe Greco goes up for a layup over Neil Burns of BU. Ken Boyd of BU and Charlie Trapani look on. SPS Photo: Craig Woodworth.

BU Foul Shots Defeat UVM

by Mike Schwartz

A discrepancy in the number of foul shots and not the constant cries from the cheerleaders enabled Boston University to defeat the University of Vermont basketball team 81 – 74 last Saturday afternoon at Patrick Gym. While Vermont hit more field goals (34 – 31), the Terriers hit 19 – 24 from the foul line. UVM hit on 8 – 11. In fact, in the first half Vermont didn't even have a foul shot.

BU came into the game with a 7 – 13 record, and were seeking revenge for a 65 – 62 defeat by UVM in Boston. They are led by an All-American candidate, Ken Boyd, who averages 21 points a game. Their record was not an indication of their abilities. They lost their starting center who joined the Buffalo Braves of the NBA before graduation and star guard Kerry Walker dropped out of school during the season. They had lost five Yankee Conference games by three or less points.

The first half was not much of a game. Play was sloppy and the pattern was quickly apparent. BU would fast break trying to hit Boyd on the break. If they set up, Boyd usually received the passes. With 11:57 to play in the half, the score was 14 – 14 with Boyd having ten points. Then BU pulled out to a 27 – 20 lead as Lance Tucker, Walt Chesley, and Neil Burns hit three baskets in a row. Before the game was over, Burns would make himself the star of the game. Vermont went to the bench using Jeff Niles and Brian Donahue and the score stayed the same. At halftime BU led by 34 – 28.

In the second half, Terry Green picked up his fourth foul with 18 minutes still to play. The teams traded baskets back and forth and for the most part the action under the baskets was rough. Joe Greco took up the slack when Green left the game. Greco scored 12 points and with 5:42 left to play the score was 61 - 61. However, Burns started to roll into the basket for easy layups. He scored 17 points in the second half as BU did not have to rely on Boyd. Burns finished the game with 27 points hitting 12 for 22 from the field. With the score tied Burns hit a layup, Tucker stole the ball and scored and Burns hit a jumper. A Burns layup made it 69 – 64. Greco and Cohen hit short jumpers and with two minutes left to play the score was 69 - 68 BU. But Vermont needed the ball and had to commit fouls. Chesley hit three or four clutch fouls, Tucker hit one, Steve Dabney hit two and then hit a layup. BU now led 77 – 68 with 41 seconds remaining. The rest of the game didn't matter as BU held on for the 81 – 74 victory. Chesley and Dabney were the clutch foul shooters despite having free throw percentages under the 60 per cent level.

During the game BU made up for sloppy passing due to their fast break style with tough rebounding. Boyd and Chesley were tremendous leapers and had 10 and 15 rebounds respectively. Overall BU had 50 rebounds and Vermont 36. Most of BU scoring came from the fast break. In the past UVM has been able to slow down such opponents but today the fast breaking Terriers won out in the end. In the second half a BU full court man to man press hurt the poise of UVM. These factors led to the BU victory.

For the game Joe Greco led the Catamounts with 24 points, 20 in the second half. Charlie Trapani added 13 and Warren Prehmus 12. However, Prehmus was able to hit on only 6 of 16 shots. But Warren made some nice passes and had eight assists on the day.

B.U. was led by Burns and by Boyd who finished with 19 points. Chesley added 12 as did Dabney. Dabney also had six assists.

Despite the recent Vermont victory streak a crowd of only 933 showed up for the game. The Cats now stand at 8 – 16 on the season and close up Yankee Conference play with a 3 – 9 record. By winning the last two games a 10 – 16 record would show the improvement the team is making. In the BU game the play of Burns and the rough board work by the Terriers wore down the Catamounts. One of the two remaining games was last night against Middlebury. The final game is this Saturday at Brandeis.

A Story Of Two Roommates

by Barry Cohen

Two of the Vermont Basketball 'team's leading scorers and rebounders' are Terry Green and Joe Greco. They both work hard to excel at the same thing; they both spend great amounts of time and energy on hot summer concrete to perfect their own styles: shooting and dribbling for hours at a time until they have improved the particular aspect of the game of basketball they feel unsure of. One sees the hours of practice when one watches either float through the air and make a jump shot. Both are outstanding shooters: Joe, more with a bending, twisting style, while Terry is a master at the fade away jumper. These two fine athletes have more than their good ball-playing in common, though, they are both very sensitive and considerate human beings. Perhaps they would have been good friends anyway, but as things worked out, Green and Greco met because they both played ball at UVM. Although from entirely opposite backgrounds, they became roommates this year. The only white in an all-black suite, Greco has become one of the boys and is "my main man" says roommate Green.

Joe Greco is from a friendly little country town called Whitehall. Although in the state of New York, Whitehall is not a very exposed area. He says that besides the newly opened drive-in that shows "dirty movies" the only excitement people get is supplied by the Lake George Resort Area, some miles away. When I first met him, it was obvious that he was shy and awkward with people. This was probably due to the fact that he had never before met so many new people as he had all at once that freshman year at UVM.

At the other extreme is Terry Green. Terry Green is from the other side of the tracks. It is the side that the sheltered white kids are never allowed to see for fear of reprimand by their parents. Just beyond the New Jersey side of the Holland Tunnel is Jersey City; it was here that he used to run home from grade school. Unlike Whitehall, his hometown was nowhere near sheltered. Blacks, Whites, Spanish, Puerto Ricans, Cubans; there are all different kinds of people living in Jersey City. There are no people here out in the meadows on Sunday Church picnics, as there might be in a place like Whitehall. Green had to run home from school because he was always afraid that some of the bigger kids would "kick my ass." There was no mommy waiting for him after school, and if he was caught by certain "dudes," his ass was kicked. It must be a paranoid feeling knowing that just for the sake of beating you up, certain guys were going to get you. Terry claims that because of this he learned to be fast of foot, but it seems a painful way to learn.

Greco started playing basketball in the fourth grade, in an organized league. Green never had any leagues at that early age, and didn't learn to play ball until junior high school. Greco never had much competition in Whitehall; he was always the acclaimed star. He scored well over 1000 points in high school, and broke more records than Elvis Presley has made! While all this was happening in Whitehall, Green was getting kicked out of playground ballgames in Jersey City and nearby Manhattan, because the competition was too rough for a newcomer. But slowly he would learn the game well enough to become the star of Hoboken High School. He would meet Joe Greco the next year as both of them merited attention by the UVM basketball staff. As high school seniors, they would both be recruited by Vermont, and convinced to attend UVM. Greco on an athletic scholarship, and Green on financial aid.

At Vermont Greco feels that he has improved greatly because of the better competition, while Green improves more as he learns the game that he started later than most players of his high caliber. They both have become fine ballplayers at Vermont, and I have had the pleasure of playing and working with both of them.

In this sad day of dehumanizing competition in college academics as well as in intercollegiate athletics, where the emphasis is on ends and not means, the commitment to friendship of two young men from two different worlds, can serve for a more favorable and optimistic commentary.

Skiers Third At Middlebury

by Dave Donahue

Despite heavy rains and resulting poor snow conditions, the Eastern Championships were staged at the Middlebury Snow Bowl last weekend as scheduled. Only the jumping event was not held according to plans due to the high winds and blowing snow on Saturday afternoon.

In the opening event, the giant slalom, which was held on a rain soaked course, UVM finished second to Dartmouth with 32 points as opposed to Dartmouth's 41. The top finishers were Chris Brown, ninth, Brian Sussiln, eleventh, and Kirk Dice, sixteenth. The individual winner of the event was John Macomber of Dartmouth.

In the cross-country at the Breadloaf Course, UVM lost more ground to Dartmouth and was overtaken by Middlebury. UVM's first finisher was Stan Dunklee who finished fifteenth. The team performance was good for only 11 points and sixth place. Dartmouth's Doug Peterson won the event and the Bi Green captured the team title with first, third, fifth, and seventh place finishes.

In the slalom which took place on Saturday morning, UVM finished a disappointing fourth behind Dartmouth, Middlebury, and St. Lawrence who defeated John Macomber by two-tenths of a second. Kirk Dice finished sixth and Dick Erdman thirteenth as both Brian Sussiln and Bill Rathbone fell on their first runs for UVM. The event did however move Vermont into a tie with UNH for third place.

The final event, the jump, was held under brilliantly sunny skies on Sunday. Vermont won the event easily behind Trygve Roiseth's victory, Petter Kongsli's third place finish, and Tom Lantz's fourth place finish. Kongsli, who lost his first meet of the year, fell on two of his three jumps and still managed an amazing third place result. UVM's performance in the jump moved them into third place with a total of 123 points, considerably less than

(continued on page ten)

Speedskater Raneri Wins

by Barbara Fullam

The Somers Twelfth Annual Ice Carnival held at Lake Lincolndale New York was the site of several "firsts" for freshman Dave Raneri of Katonah, New York. Raneri, a business major, became the first member of the Green Mountaineers Speedskating Club, Vermont's first organized club, to participate and win in formal racing competition. Dave skated to a first place finish in the Senior Boys mile race on February 9 and won the James Duncan Memorial Trophy, a three foot high prize that he will keep for one year and which he will defend again next year. Dave also received a permanent plaque for his first place win in the 660 yard event. Raneri is looking ahead to future competition in the annual Ice Carnival to be held in his hometown on March 30 and 31.

Vermont Seeded First In Division II

The University of Vermont hockey team visited Maine this past weekend and came away with two big wins. Friday night at Colby, the Cats gave John Kiely his first shutout of the season. The Cats won 3 – 0.

On Saturday night, the offense was the story in a 7 – 4 victory over Bowdoin. Willie MacKinnon showed no ill effects from his recent shoulder injury as he scored four goals. MacKinnon, despite missing eight games this season, is now the top UVM scorer with 22 goals and 21 assists. It was a big game for the first line of MacKinnon, Bill Spence, and Ted Castle as they figured in the scoring of six of the seven goals. Spence had four assists and Castle had one goal and two assists. Tom Colby and John Murphy also had goals for the Cats.

After the final game of the season against Norwich, the hockey team enters Division II playoff competition. For the third straight year the Cats have been seeded first. This means that all games that the Cats are involved in will be played at the Gutterson Field House. The first playoff game is this Sunday night at 8:00 p. m. against Army. The Army Cadets are a newcomer to Division II play and have an 18 – 6 record. Other matchups in the playoffs find Merrimack hosting Norwich, Williams visiting Salem State, and Boston State entertaining Massachusetts. The playoffs figure to be very exciting and not an easy chore for the Cats. Of course, the Catamounts are attempting to win their third Division II title and enter next year's Division I season as the best team in Division II.

Swim Team Ends Season

by Mike Kurt

The University of Vermont swim team ended their dual meet season last weekend smashing the University of New Hampshire by a score of 70-25. The facility at UNH was very impressive with a separate diving area and a spectator seating capacity of well over 400. But with all this going for them the UNH swim team still bowed to Dr. Leggett's swim force.

Leading the attack was the 400 yard medley relay team and the Cats were ahead by 7-0. The thousand yard freestyle was next; Dave Phalen and Doug Jefferson placed one and two as they lapped their rivals. The 200 yard free style was dominated by John Blake, who set a grueling pace early in the race. John Mahoney capped it off, taking second place. Mike Jacobs won the 50 yard free style with Kevin Delany hot on his trail, again a one, two UVM finish. In the 200 yard individual medley, the Cat's performed impressively with Mike Kurt crushing his opponent by half a pool length. The one and three meter diving events were dominated by Doug Piche and Bob Nold, respectively. They took first and second in both events. Senior Gary Shepard, until last week an

(continued on page ten)

Women's Basketball Team Makes Tourney

The Women's Basketball team was elated to find out they were going to the New England Tournament for the fourth year. The tournament will be held at Brooklyn College March 7, 8, and 9. UVM has been seated ninth out of the sixteen schools participating. This is the highest seating the women have ever gotten. UVM will be playing Ithaca College in a 2:00 p.m. match March 7. This team has a lot of potential and is expected to go quite a ways in this year's tournament. The only other Vermont school to make the tournament was Lyndon who was seated sixteenth. They will play Southern Conn. who is seated first in the opener.

Seatings:
1. Southern Conn.
2. Queens College
3. Springfield College
4. University of N. H.
5. Herbert-Lehman
6. Brooklyn College
7. URI
8. Ithaca
9. UVM
10. Worchester
11. Northeastern
12. UMass
13. Fitchburgh
14. Bridgewater
15. Brockport
16. Lyndon

The UVM Cats will be playing the University of Connecticut Thursday and Springfield College Friday, both games on the road. The last home game will be March 5 at 6:30 against Plymouth State, then, it's off to the tourney!

CLINIQUE is at the mayfair

THE LAST CHANCE
FIRST ANNIVERSARY
COSTUME PARTY
20¢ Drafts
ALL NIGHT
Prizes
THURSDAY
MARCH 14
147 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

PLANTASIA
10:30—5:30 107 St. Paul St.
COME IN & CHOOSE
from 21 varieties of herbs
in 3" pots from 85¢
—plus some exotic rarities
that don't often appear in Vermont homes,
but are very suitable

KALSØ earth shoe
139 BANK STREET BURLINGTON

JOB OPENINGS

People to sell advertising for this newspaper starting next semester.

A chance to express your creative ability.

Commissions paid.

Please fill out the below form and return to the:

Vermont Cynic
ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT
Box 20
Billings Center

NAME_____
ADDRESS_____
YEAR_____
TELEPHONE_____

CLASSIFIED

For Sale: 1964 V.W. Bug — Sunroof, new battery, starter, and recent brake job. Engine was rebuilt, but runs rough. Radio, Inspected $125.00. Call 656-3011, Rm. 304.

Female roommate needed to share apartment with 2 other girls. 416 Pearl St. — close to campus — Rent $58/mo. Call 863-3823, Sherry or Dari.

Skis and Boots for sale — 360's with Look Nevada. Nordica and Lange Comps. Call Scott 878-8631.

PERU — If you've been there in the last few years and would be willing to give me some information, please call Jill at 3269, 106 Tupper. I could really use your help.

For Sale: One pair Fischer ALU RSL, 205 cm, 2 years old, good condition, $135 or best offer. Call Bruce X2912.

For Sale — One pair Reiker Ski Boots, were $70, will take best offer; size 11½ — 12½, Call bruce X2912.

Room for Rent — in large, 3 bedroom apartment on Park St. Total costs approx. $75/mo. We are two females looking for a third person preferably a female, call 864-7311, Judy.

Housemate Wanted — Walking distance to campus. Private Room $67/mo. inclu. heat, 658-3360. Ask for Mona.

For Sale: Sanyo Car Cassette Deck, 25 rms, automatic reverse. List — $129.95. Plus two comm. speakers, air suspended with 14 oz. magnet, List $30. Call Bob, 656-4207. All for $100.00

For Sale: SAAB 99E Fuel injection, Blue, 27 mpg, Kowie, snowtires, Michelins's, engine heater, nothing special in upkeep, i.e. in excellent condition. Asking $2200.00. Tom, 862-1408, 489-3019 (Warren).

For Sale: One pair of Studiocraft 220 speakers system. They can handle 60 watts RMS apiece. Are only 6 months old. Sell both for $100.00. Call Ira at 656-4347.

Icecats Do It Again! Move Into Finals By Beating UMass

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME
NUMBER
MARCH 1974

'Tis A Pleasure to Live In Vermont

University of Vermont
Burlington, Vermont

S.A. Presidential Candidates Do Not Favor Major Change

by Barbara Frankel

Dick Cassidy

Rutland feels that function of the Student

Addition To Library Planned

by Andrew Morse

The planning, financing and building of a new addition to Bailey Library will be a top priority at UVM in the next few years.

According to Samuel Bogorad professor of English and chairperson of the Library Committee, Bailey Library has literally run out of shelf space and needs almost three times the number of seats it has now. When Bailey was built twelve years ago it was estimated that UVM's population would level off at 3700 students and subsequently Bailey was designed with a seating capacity of 860 (25 percent of the student population - this is a standard used in determinating the seating necessary in libraries). Since then the student population has almost tripled while the number of volumes, books and microfilm has nearly doubled (from 350,000 in 1963 to 618,000 in 1973). UVM is adding an average of 30,000 volumes a year to its already packed shelves. Volumes with the least use are now being stored in the old telephone building on Main Street in downtown Burlington.

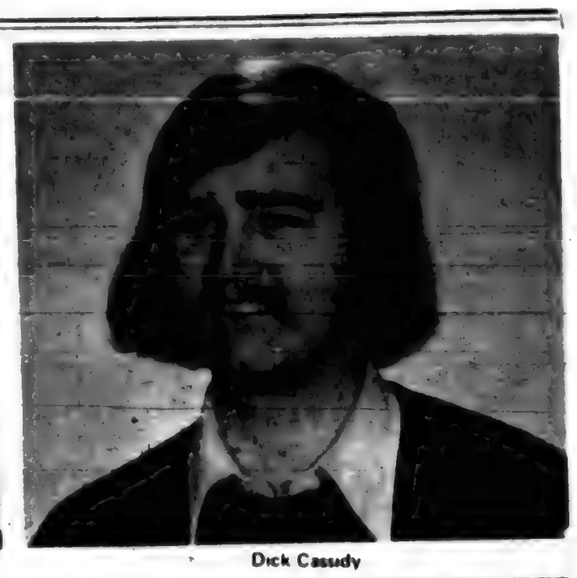
Bogorad explained that floors can not be added on top of Bailey because the existing walls are not strong enough. Thus the addition will probably be built to the north of Bailey. But because of gas, heat and water pipes underneath the fire road that runs behind the library the new addition will most likely be constructed across the fire road, with a connecting walkway above the road to Bailey Library.

Bogorad expressed hopes that the new addition would include separate reading rooms for the social sciences, English and natural sciences. Each room would be staffed by a trained librarian who would handle the reserved reading material for each room's subject. Continuing, Bogorad explained that higher education is entering a whole new era. He stated that libraries in the future will become total information centers that would include computerized information banks, audio visual centers and the traditional print media. Bogorad said that UVM's addition will primarily be geared to print media with appropriate areas for the use of audio visual materials.

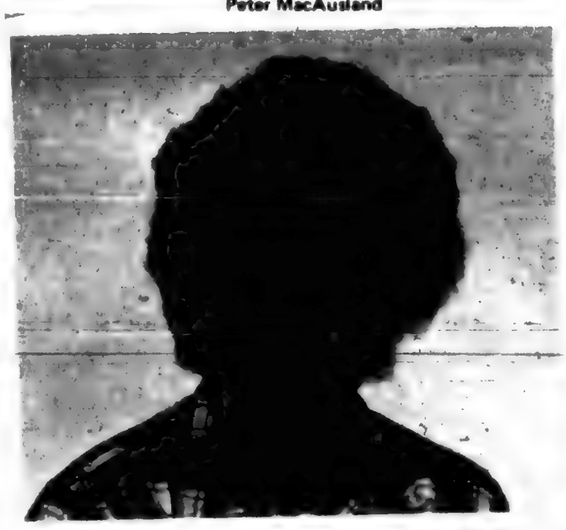
A committee representing the S.A., faculty and library staff are in order to formulate ideas about the additions design and content, travelling to universities and colleges in the East who have recently built additions or entirely new libraries. Data concerning the libraries needs in seating, shelving and reserved reading space is now being gathered. This data and the ideas for the additions design will be submitted to a professional library consultant who will assist the architects when the building is designed.

(continued on page ten)

Peter MacAusland



Dick Cassidy



Mario Macias

Steve Rollins

SPS Photo Wynn Gold

Four-Day Week's Academic Aspects Examined By Faculty Senate Committee

by Andrew Morse

A decision will be made by May 1 concerning the calendar for the Spring '75 semester. Between now and May 1, the four day week's academic aspects will be carefully examined by the Faculty Senate Subcommittee on Academic Affairs, chaired by Marilyn Osborn of the School of Home Economics.

According to John Moore, assistant vice-president for Academic Affairs, the decision to return to the five day week next semester was relatively safe since the fall's fuel demand is not as great as in the spring. Moore explained that the objective for next spring would be to design a calendar and class schedule that would maintain quality and responsive education while minimizing fuel consumption.

Marilyn Osborn's committee will consider three plans for next year's spring semester. They include the traditional five day plan, the present four day week, and a 2-1-2 plan. Under the latter plan regular classes would be held on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays with Wednesdays designated for reschedulable field trips, labs and seminars. In the event that a fuel shortage arose, Wednesday's activities would be rescheduled and the buildings would be closed down.

An extended winter break until February 1 will also be studied. Moore pointed out that January is the coldest month of the year and closing down during January would save considerable amounts of fuel.

Osborn will work with administration, faculty and students to collect data, ideas and opinions on the academic effectiveness of the four day week.

Some have questioned the May 1 decision date saying it would be premature. It has been argued that professors and students need the entire semester (final grades, etc.) to evaluate the four day week's consequence. But, according to Moore, the faculty and student senates dissolve after final exams and their consultation and advice is imperative for any calendar decision. Moore explained that if the decision was put off until September any proposed changes in class and labs would be cumbersome and inconvenient.

"Women's Week" Set For Late April

by Melanie Chouikas

The UVM Women's Caucus has chosen as immediate priorities the creation of a women's center, the drawing up of by-laws and a spring membership drive. At the noon-time February 27 meeting, Julie Delarchebiere urged the group to devote their energies to these three projects in order to establish the women's caucus as an important official organization at UVM.

The caucus has decided on the third week in April for "Women's Week". Jerry Belluish, chairperson of Caucus of Student Affairs would like to see the week concentrate on the roles of women in transition. She pointed out that this theme would be of interest to men, since men are also profoundly affected by women assuming other than traditional roles. The week will include workshops on continuing education women, life planning, health services, and changing opportunities for women.

Sally Stockwell, a UVM med student, spoke to the gathering about establishing weekly or bi-weekly health sessions for women to inform themselves and each other about medical care and anatomy. Ms. Stockwell informed the caucus that UVM gynecologists, the Women's Health Center in Colchester, and Ob-Gyn nurses at Mary Fletcher are interested in working with the Caucus to get such a program off the ground. At the first meeting, date to be set, Dr. Emma Wennberg from the Women's Health Center will speak about myths that need dispelling.

The caucus discussed the need to branch out to include high-school students and more older women in caucus.

(continued on page ten)

Presidential Candidates Label S.A. Ineffective

by John Van Hoesen

S. A. presidential candidates labelled the S. A. an ineffective organization last Friday night, but they were not willing to abolish the association. The candidates spoke to a handful of students in the Living Learning center in the second of three S. A. presidential candidates forums.

The candidates were asked their opinions on the total efficacy of the Student Association.

Peter MacAusland said, "The S. A. is totally ineffective in representing students (but) it is fairly effective in giving money to student organizations."

The same admonishment came from Mario Macias. "The S. A. is geared to a small amount of people who want to play politics." He summed up the S. A.'s accomplishments in one word, "none."

According to Dick Cassidy, "The S. A. does a semi-effective job." He added that the S. A. needs "a strong president with political savvy."

Steve Rollins, addressing the same question, explained that "personal conflicts and ideology created floor fights." He stated that the S. A. was basically effective as a social organization.

The S. A. has often been called a symbolic organization. However, all S. A. presidential candidates adamantly opposed the suggestion to abolish the S. A. and create two new associations, a treasury association and a student union.

Macias explained "If you get rid of the S. A. you're doing a bad thing." His solution to the S. A.'s problems is to inform the students with news letters. He said that he would urge his friends to become senators. Cassidy felt that the S. A. needed a strong president. MacAusland saw the president's duty as one to stimulate senators, he commented, "The S. A. is ineffective, but vital. . .it has great potential." The S. A. will "help keep ideas floating," Rollins added.

Although none of the candidates provided a prospective solution to S. A. reorganization, they did outline their basic platforms.

Politicking enthusiastically, Cassidy called the S. A.'s role twofold. The S. A. has a student activities role and a student advocacy role, he

(continued on page eleven)

Senate To Review Landlord-Tenant Bill; Time Element Crucial To Approval

by John Van Hoesen

"The chances are better than even" that the Uniform Landlord and Tenant Act will be passed by the Vermont Senate, this week, Senator Robert Daniels said Monday. However, the act must reach the House floor well before March 30 if the bill is to be acted upon by the legislature in this session.

Daniels is a co-sponsor of the bill which he described as "an attempt to put in black and white the traditional rights of landlords and tenants." The bill has experienced considerable difficulty in the Senate.

The bill would define and make uniform terms and conditions of rental agreements, landlord obligations and remedies, tenant obligations and remedies, periodic tenancy, and retaliatory conduct by landlords against their tenants.

"The critics started nit-picking," Daniels explained, "and they said that the bill was too long and complicated for Vermont politics." Twice referred to the Senate judiciary committee for simplification, the bill faced opposition from various interest groups. Daniels said that because of extensive simplification, the Landlord Tenant act is no longer a uniform act.

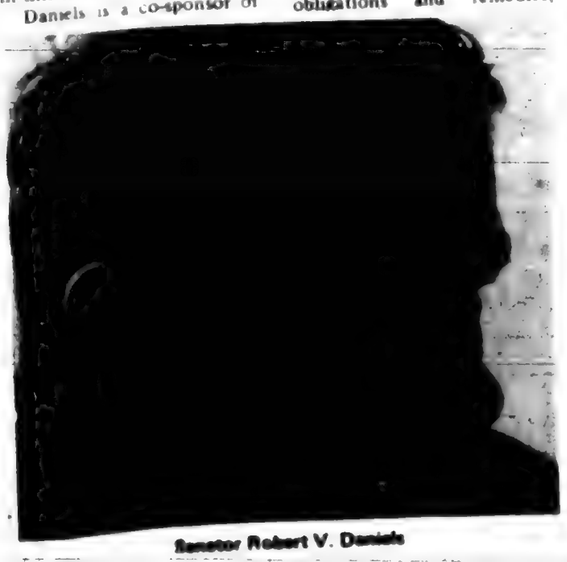
According to the senator, there's a tremendous housing problem in Chittenden County, houses are deteriorating. He cited South Union Street as a good example of building decay. Adding that some tenants have been thrown out of their apartment and into the street for invalid reasons, Daniels felt there was a real need for legislation to protect landlords and tenants.

"Landlords reacted blindly," he commented. He called landlord pressures unreasonable because "A decent landlord is doing everything the bill requires already." Daniels did not define what constitutes a decent landlord.

He refuted the economic argument against the bill. "We know there's not enough housing for people, that is not a legal problem, but an economic one. The bill just tries to attack the problems of legal rights."

The senator, who is also a history professor at UVM, said that, generally, support for the bill has come from the Chittenden area. The major opposition is centered in Montpelier, according to Daniels.

A real danger to the bill is that opponents could kill it by holding it in the House judiciary committee. This would prevent the proposed landlord and tenant reforms from reaching the House floor before the legislature adjourns on March 30. Should this happen, Daniels indicated that he would continue to fight for his legislation: "I'll be right back there next year with the same bill to try again."



Senator Robert V. Daniels

Chain Letter $candal Rips-Off UVM Students

by Wyatt Kash

"No shit! I couldn't believe it either. . . $640 comes rolling in without investing a cent.

"Look, here's a list with the names of seven people and a $5 money order which I sell to you for $10. Now. . .

"Hey, wait a second. That's a lot of money for not investing a cent!"

"Yeah, well here's what you do. This $5 goes to the guy on the top of the list, after which his name gets crossed off. You make two new lists putting your name last, everyone else moves up a notch. Now you go buy two $5 money orders and sell each with the new list to two other people for $10 apiece. That's how you break even. They put their names on the bottom of their lists, moving your name up to number six, and in turn, sell to two other people. Each successive selling moves your name up on the list while the number of people having a list with your name on it keeps doubling. After seven such successions, your name will be at the top of 128 lists, you know exponential growth.

"Now I'll tell you right now, you'll be lucky to get $5 from all those people, but even if half of them send you the money orders, look how much money you'll be making! So what do you say? Want to buy one?"

At first glance, this money making scheme brings one to wonder why such a brilliant idea had not occurred to him before. Nevertheless, the idea has been packaged and is currently spreading throughout the campus. The concept is not new itself. Its logic and appeal made easy prey of many New Yorkers a couple summers ago where $37.50 was the buying price for a list ten names long and the risk was mailing $25 savings bonds (initially $17.75) through U.S. mail - a federal offense.

Where's the Catch?

Upon viewing the power of the seemingly innocent term, exponential growth, some not so timid flaws come astonishingly into focus. Suppose I started this whole money making plot by selling my list to two people, Mickey Finnless and Carl Quickbuck. Not counting those people on the list, the population involved numbers three, myself and my two dollar-eyed buyers. They each sell to two more people adding four new people to the budding chain population. Thus in two series of transactions, seven people now have money making potential. After the third and fourth series of transactions, a rather quickly

(continued on page eleven)

Featured This Week

Cynic Sponsors Photography Contest—p.9

A Day In The Life Of SAGA—p.10

Table Of Contents

Arts and Entertainment . . . . . p. 6
Calendar/Announcements . . . . . p. 2
Crossword Puzzle . . . . . p. 8
Doctor's Bag . . . . . p. 9
Editorial . . . . . p. 4
Op. Ed. . . . . p. 5
Sports . . . . . p. 14

CALENDAR / ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar's Remarks

Spring recess is March 25-29. No classes that week. Classes resume as usual the first week in April. Advance enrollment for Fall 1974 information will be mailed to your local address on April 4. please insure that we have your correct local address so you receive this important information. Drop in at your convenience and let us check it for you. Seniors that expect to graduate should check the list on the Registrar's Bulletin Board outside Room 160 in Waterman. If your name is spelled wrong or there is any other problem with your name contact your College Deans directly.

SESH At Sig Ep

Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity introduces S.E.S.H. the Sunday Evening Social Hour which will commence this Sunday at 7 p.m. The Social Hour will be an evening of good conversation, good music and good people. Drop down between 7 p.m. and midnight for a relaxing end of the week. SESHion with the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon, 141 Main Street, Burlington 862-9881.

Student Teachers

There will be an important meeting for all students who [illegible] Fall semester 1974 or Spring [illegible] Thursday, March 7 at 7:30 p.m. in 101 Votey Hall.

Anthro Dinner

The UVM Anthropology club will host the annual ethnic dinner on Sunday, March 17, 1974 at 6 p.m. in the Living/Learning Center. This dinner will give the UVM staff, students, and friends an opportunity to experience foods from many different cultures.

Anyone interested in attending is asked to bring a drink, salad, side entree, entree or dessert of ethnic origin. All interested persons are asked to call the Anthropology Department at 656-3085 for reservations. It would be helpful to inform us of what you will bring.

Chess Anyone?

There will be a meeting of the Student Chess Association March 11, 1 p.m. in 102B of Living/Learning Center. Officers will be elected and plans for the spring and fall will be discussed. For more information, call Polly Petersen at 656-4747.

'74 History Majors

All senior history majors are reminded that to graduate in May they must submit as part of the major requirements an acceptable research paper to the department no later than May 2, 1974. Papers should be submitted to Professor Overfield in 433 Waterman or else dropped off at the department office. Papers already submitted and approved may be picked up at the department office.

Personal Growth Groups
(Sensitivity and Encounter)

Sundays — Mondays
15 Monkton — 7:30 – 9:30
(some available) — UVM

Contact The Next Thing, at UVM's Counseling Center, before Friday at 4 PM by calling 862-2013. (after Friday, contact Dave at 862-2351)

WRUV-AM

WRUV AM, Pomeroy Annex, is having an open house on Sunday, March 10 from 1-5 p.m. All students, faculty and staff are cordially invited. There will be demonstrations and a chance to ask questions for all those interested in finding out how a radio station operates.

All persons interested in working for the radio station are urged to attend. For further information contact Chuck Underhill at WRUV, Ext. 3220, or at 656-2518.

A special showing of Walt Disney's FANTASIA will be shown tomorrow (Friday, March 8) night at 11:30 p.m. at the State Theatre. Tickets are now on sale in Billings Center's main lobby from 1-5 p.m. at a special discount price of $1.50. Tickets must be purchased in advance for none will be sold at the door. This film presentation is brought to you by SAFilms and the State Theatre.

"Psychic Phenomena"

CAPE is sponsoring a lecture on "Psychic Phenomena" by Jeff Lallakson on Thursday, March 7th at 7:30 p.m. at Billings Center in Conference Room C.

ASCE Meeting

A.S.C.E. Meeting Thursday, March 7 at 7:30 p.m. in A101 Living/Learning. The guest speaker is Nils Ericsen of Dufresne and Henry. His topic will be Engineering of Snowmaking Past and Present.

VPIRG Trustees Vote

The trustees of the Vermont Public Interest Research Group, Inc. (VPIRG) have voted to oppose Proposal I, the amendment to the constitution mandating four year terms for state officers. The decision, which was by a 6-4 vote, came at the trustees February meeting held in Hanover, N.H. on February 16. In voting against the four year term, the majority argued that longer terms would lead to a lessening of governmental responsibility and accountability.

However, the Trustees voted to support Proposal V, the judicial reform amendment. The consumer organization has been active in court reform and has been leading a campaign to revitalize small claims court in Vermont. The other three amendments to the constitution were not discussed.

In other action, the Trustees voted to make housing a priority for the organization in the coming year. In addition to a staff member working full time in the housing field, a housing sub-committee composed of Trustees and staff was formed to begin formulating policy.

The meeting was held in Hanover, N.H. so that the Trustees could meet members of a new VPIRG chapter that has been formed in the Norwich-Hanover area. The new Upper Valley Chapter is largely composed of members of the Hanover cooperative and is the first non-student group to become a full part of VPIRG. With over 200 members, the new group is entitled to a voting trustee on the VPIRG Board.

VPIRG'S Trustees are selected from the student bodies of participating schools and groups. Schools belonging to VPIRG in Vermont are UVM, Johnson State, Windham College, Goddard College and Marlboro College. Community members who pay a $6.00 membership fee are represented by two At-Large Trustees.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7

4 p.m., Baha'i Club meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga class at the Unitarian Church, followed by group meditation at 8 p.m.

7 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Survival Values: Needs and Skills" with John Luppincott, registration, information from 862-2013.

7 p.m., an important meeting for all students who plan to student teach during the 1974 fall semester or the 1975 spring semester, Johnson Auditorium, Votey Bldg.

7 p.m., Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship meets, Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7:9 p.m., Omicron Nu, Pi Chapter, presents the second in a series of three home economics research symposia, Vermont Room, Terrill Hall. Featured will be the recent research and study of home economics graduate students. They are Debbie Goff, "Energy Conservation in Food Preparation;" Julie Hoffman, "Protein Whey in Bread," and Ann Buller, "Diet Therapy and Hyperlipidemia." A concluding symposium set for April will include work by undergraduates.

7:10 p.m., Drawing workshop with model, Williams Hall, third floor. Approximately $1.50 for model.

7:30 p.m., CAPE (Collegiate Association for Principled Education) meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Communications Training," with Mike Schaal, reservations and information from 862-2013.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents "Project Crash," with films and actual tests, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 and 10:20 p.m., SAFilms present Marlon Brando in "The Young Lions," with Montgomery Clift, B106 Cook Bldg., admission 75 cents.

8 p.m., Richard K. Miles, alumnus of UVM and a graduate of the Iowa Writers' Workshop program, will give a reading of his own poetry, Dewey Lounge, Old Mill.

This week marks the start of several days' festivities in honor of the opening of the new Royall Tyler Theatre. An exhibition and dedication ceremonies are on this week's Calender. Royall Tyler's "The Contrast" will be performed nightly at 8, March 15 through 19 (Box Office 656-2094). Scheduled on the afternoons of March 19 and 21 are symposia on Royall Tyler, and Marsh 20 and 21 two one-act plays (by Royall Tyler, Sr. and Royall Tyler, Jr.) will be performed, also starting at 8 p.m.

Available from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, 656-3418, are tickets for the Netherlands Wind Ensemble, appearing March 8, and for the Chamber Arts Series concert, Camilla Williams and David Glazer, March 13.

At Fleming Museum through March 13: photographs of the slate quarries by Neil Rappaport, and an architecture exhibition arranged by Peter King and Ruth Nickerson. Museum hours: Tues., 9 a.m.-9 p.m., Wed.-Fri., 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Sun. 1-5 p.m. Closed Sat. and Mon.

FRIDAY, MARCH 8

8:30-10:45 a.m., Student Association Finance Committee meeting, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

9:30-11:30 a.m., business administration students will provide free assistance to senior citizens and others within the Dept. of Labor poverty guidelines in preparation of Vermont income tax returns. Emphasis on homeowners, rentors, and sales tax rebate forms. North Lounge, Billings Center.

11 a.m.-6 p.m., Marsh Room, Billings Center, is home base for the Vermont High School Debaters.

12 noon-1:30 p.m., Environmental Forum "brown bag" lunch at Bittersweet Conference Room. Hear Dana Abell, environmental consultant, "The Overused Wilderness: Don't Fall Down, You'll Get Trampled." Those unable to attend but who would like to be on the mailing list for future Forums should contact Herb Leff, Ext. 2670.

7:15 p.m., discussion group at Burgess Hall lounge, open to all interested in raising questions of faith, religion, church or life as a student, led by Chaplain Odie.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms Humphrey Bogart series presents "Dead Reckoning" with Morris Carnovski, B106 Cook Building, admission 50 cents.

8 p.m., Lane Series concert with the Netherlands Wind Ensemble, Memorial Auditorium; tickets available at $3, $5, and $6 from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, Ext. 3418.

8 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board presents "Banjo Dan and the Midnight Plowboys," North Lounge, Billings Center, tickets on sale at Billings Information Desk and at the door. Admission is 75 cents with UVM ID or $1.50 for general admission.

SATURDAY, MARCH 9

9 a.m., coffee and registration at Living/Learning Center for "Student-Alumni Career Day." More information from Alumni Office, Placement and Career Planning Office, or information desk, Billings Center.

9 a.m., Chess Tournament, fifth floor, Waterman Bldg., more information from R. Keen, Ext. 2922.

SUNDAY, MARCH 10

1-5 p.m., WRUV-AM hosts an open house; open to all faculty, staff and students and those who may be interested in working at the station, at the WRUV studios in the barn behind Pomeroy Hall.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents the film, "Straw Dogs," lounge, Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

8 p.m., SAFilms presents "Tol'able David," with Richard Barthelmess, North Lounge, Billings Center, admission free. (Sorry we listed the wrong title last week)

MONDAY, MARCH 11

10 a.m.-3 p.m., first day of a four-day American Red Cross Blood Drawing, hosted by Ethan Allen Rifles, Pershing Rifles, and CAPERS with assistance from the Women of UVM. North Lounge, Billings Center.

3:45 p.m., Zoology colloquium, Dr. Jim Brammer, zoology, "Influence of Light Upon Mosquito Photoreceptors," Room 105 Marsh Life Sciences Bldg., coffee at 3:30.

7:9 p.m. Everyone's Gallery, Building B Living/Learning Center, free public opening of "Man and Beast," photos and artifacts of and about people and animals; continues through March 23. Gallery hours 3-6 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, 3-8 p.m. Fridays, 1-4 p.m. Saturdays.

7 p.m., Student Association Presidential Candidates Forum over WRUV AM and FM.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Ed Beimis, "Jazz in America," lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls.

7:45 p.m., Women of UVM Home Arts Group meet to hear Winston Way, Extension Agronomist, "Beauty Starts with Soil," Bld. A, Room 162, Living/Learning Center, parking available across the road near the Agricultural Engineering building, entering from East Ave., via Carrigan Drive.

8 p.m., SAFilms "Frenchman's Creek," originally scheduled for North Lounge, Billings Center, won't be there due to the blood drawing call Ext. 2068 for details as to cancellation or change of location.

TUESDAY, MARCH 12

Day-long open house and exhibits of Tyler memorabilia from the Vermont Historical Society and the Bailey Library Special Collections at the new Royall Tyler Theatre.

S.A. presidential voting, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Billings, Waterman, and Living/Learning Center, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Simpson Dining Hall, and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Bailey Library.

9:30-11:30 a.m., business administration students will provide free assistance to senior citizens and those within Department of Labor poverty guidelines in preparation of Vermont income tax returns; emphasis on homeowners, rentors and sales tax rebate forms; Conference Room C, Billings Center.

10 a.m.-3 p.m., blood drawing, North Lounge, Billings Center.

1:30-4:30 p.m., S.A. Finance Committee meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

4:30 p.m., faculty meeting of the College of Arts and Sciences, B106 Cook Bldg.

7:30 p.m., S.A. Senate meets, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Ted Stronach and Father Omer Dufault on "Exorcism," lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for gospel music and bible inquiry, library lounge, Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls; for more information call Sue K. at Ext 2952.

7:30 p.m., Christian Science College Organization meets at 389 College St. (Hillel House); all are welcome.

8 p.m., gallery talk at Fleming Museum, Peter King, NEH fellow, and undergraduate Ruth Nickerson on "Popular Sources for Architectural Design," refreshments served, public welcome. The talk is in conjunction with their current show.

8 p.m., Asia Symposium presents Prof. Hsieh Pei-chih, Director of East Asian Center, McGill University, "Changes in Rural China," Room 115, Commons Building, Living/Learning Center.

8 p.m., Rural Development Seminar, jointly sponsored by the Sociology department and the Resource Economics department, Sergio Sismondo, applied social scientist and research director, New Brunswick Project Newstart, "Data Analysis and Community Action in Situations of Social and Economic Change: The Case of Project Newstart, Inc., Kent County, New Brunswick," Dewey Lounge, Old Mill. Further information from Prof. Fred Schmidt, Ext. 3236, 3237.

8 p.m., SAFilms presents the Alfred Hitchcock movie, "Rope," with James Stewart and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, B106 Cook Bldg. admission free.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13

S.A. presidential voting, same places and hours as March 12.

8:30 a.m. to 10:45 a.m., S.A. Finance Committee meeting, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

9:30-11:30 a.m., business administration students provide senior citizens and those within Dept. of Labor

(continued on page three)

DOMINO'S PIZZA

MONDAY NIGHT SPECIAL

4:30 pm to 7:00 pm

864-7444 WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333 N. WINOOSKI AVE

FREE DELIVERY

$1.00 off a LARGE PIZZA except large plain

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
PHONE _____

1 coupon per pizza

Good for March 11, 18, 1974

MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm

50c off a SMALL PIZZA except small plain

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
PHONE _____

1 coupon per pizza

Good for March 11, 18, 1974

MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm

VALUABLE COUPON

SAVE

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM The Medical Center

Attention Juniors!

Attention all Juniors! Pictures for the 1975 Ariel will be taken March 18-23. Appointments can be set up from March 11-14 by either calling 656-2056 or stopping by the Ariel office, bottom floor of Billings. Office hours are Monday and Wednesday 11 a.m. – 5 p.m. and 7 – 10 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday 8. – 10:30 a.m., 3 -5 p.m., and 7 – 10 p.m. This is the only time pictures will be taken for the yearbook.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

864-7444 Williston Road

658-3333 No. Winooski Ave

Void if not completed

Expires March 13, 1974

1 Coupon per pizza

(continued from page one)

poverty guidelines, free assistance with Vt. income tax returns, Conference Room B, Billings Center.

10 a.m.-3 p.m., blood drawing, North Lounge, Billings Center.

12:15 p.m., AIM (Associates in Ministry) presents weekly "Voyages of the Spirit" program, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

6:30 p.m., Student Advisory Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building; meeting open to interested students.

7-10 p.m., Painting, drawing, sculpture workshop, model, Williams Hall, third floor. Approximately $1.50 per model.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Bill Stern, President, Vt. Council on the Arts, Sound Bites, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls.

7:30 p.m., Outing Club meeting, 208 North Prentiss (behind admissions office).

8 p.m., SAFilms presentation of "Animation," scheduled for North Lounge with cancelled or moved to blood drawing, call Ext. 2068 for information.

8 p.m., Lane Chamber Arts Series concert, Camilla Williams and Clarinetist David Glazer, Ira Allen Chapel. Tickets $3 from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, Ext. 3418.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Slade Ballroom, open to all. International dances of the world taught.

THURSDAY, MARCH 14

Women of UVM to attend address rehearsal on [illegible] and tour new facilities with Mr. Feidner, [illegible] Woolfson, 655-3500 or Christensen, 878-5567, by [illegible].

9:30-11:30 a.m., business administration students offer senior citizens and those within Dept. of Labor poverty guidelines free assistance with Vt. income tax forms, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Mr. [illegible], advisory engineer, IBM, Essex Jct., "Detection of a Signal in Gaussian Noise by Wald Sequential Test," Room 305 B Votey Bldg. Coffee will be served.

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus meets at the Cafeteria, bring your lunch or purchase one there, all interested UVM women students, faculty, [illegible].

2 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga class, Bldg. A, Room 162, Living/Learning Center.

3:30 p.m., dedication ceremonies at Royall Tyler Theatre, with UVM Brass Ensemble and Choral [illegible] invited!

4 to 5:30 p.m., UVM Baha'i Club meets, [illegible] Room C, Billings Center.

New Medieval Studies Progra[m]

Courses in European art, history and literature will combine next fall in a Medieval and Renaissance Studies Program based at the Living/Learning Center.

Involving twenty faculty from eleven departments, the Program hopes to enroll forty students who will live in adjoining suites of apartments for '74-'75. These students will share their different interests and major subject-disciplines in courses, symposia, and projects (plays, banquets, concerts, and the like) in their common attempt to come to terms with the two ages.

Co-ordinator James Howe of the English Department stresses that this Program does not introduce a new major to the University's curriculum. Rather, its students will continue in any of the traditional majors already offered. The two courses each participant takes each semester may therefore be counted toward an existing major, as an elective, or as a related course, whichever is appropriate. The class commitment required of a student in this interdisciplinary experiment is therefore not great.

The goals of the Program are to interest students in humanistic study by showing them how different kinds of knowledge are interrelated, and by showing that a full view of the [illegible] impossible wi[th] these interrelati[ons].

The Progra[m] method of gett[ing] see information[s] to have them [come] together on [a] require shar[ing] kinds of know[ledge]. At the same [time] interdisciplina[ry] traditional cou[rses] toward an [integrated] bias, will be [offered] Living/Learnin[g] other selected [courses] will be team-[taught] will have [visiting] lecturers fr[om] departments. [Student] hopes also [to] interdisciplina[ry] Renaissance [Studies] where students [can] disciplines can [be] to study and [integrate] ideas. The [program] developing ind[ividual]

projects also e[xist]

Faculty fro[m] departments [will] for this ex[perimental] classics, roma[nce] German, Mi[ddle] English, [philosophy] religion, theat[re] science. Info[rmal] courses, en[counter] anything else[.] Program may [benefit] from Pro[fessor] extension 305[3].

f diamonds won't do it, nothing will.

PRICES START UNDER $10[0]

You are invited to open a Charge [Account] at Preston's.

A family of jewelers in Vermont [since]

F.J. PRESTON & [Co.]

17 Upper Church Street

Member American Gem Society

(continued from page two)

poverty guidelines free assistance with Vt. income tax returns, Conference Room B, Billings Center.

10 a.m. 3 p.m., blood drawing, North Lounge Billings Center.

12:15 p.m. AIM (Associates in Ministry) present their weekly "Voyages of the Spirit" program, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

6:30 p.m. Student Advisory Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building, meeting open to interested students.

7-10 p.m. Painting, drawing, sculpture workshop with model, Williams Hall, third floor. Approximately $1.50 for model.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Bill Schubart, President, Vt. Council on the Arts, "Sound Business," lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls.

7:30 p.m., Outing Club meeting, 196 South Prospect St. (behind admissions office).

8 p.m. SAFilms presentation of "Animation Night", scheduled for North Lounge will be cancelled or moved due to blood drawing; call Ext. 2068 for information.

8 p.m. Lane Chamber Arts Series concert, soprano Camilla Williams and Clarinetist David Glazer, Ira Allen Chapel. Tickets $3 from the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, Ext. 3418.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Southwick Ballroom, open to all. International dances of all levels taught.

THURSDAY, MARCH 14

Women of UVM to attend a dress rehearsal on March 18 and tour new facilities with Mr. Feidner, please call Woolfson, 655-3590 or Christensen, 878-5567, by today.

9:30-11:30 a.m., business administration students will offer senior citizens and those within Dept. of Labor poverty guidelines free assistance with Vt. income tax forms, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Mr. Jacob Hohl, advisory engineer, IBM, Essex Jct., "Detection of a.d.c. Signal in Gaussian Noise by Wald Sequential Detection," Room 305 B Votey Bldg. Coffee will be served.

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus meets at Given Cafeteria; bring your lunch or purchase one there; open to all interested UVM women -students, faculty, staff, wives.

2 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga class, Bldg. A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

3:30 p.m., dedication ceremonies at Royall Tyler Theatre, with UVM Brass Ensemble and Choral Union; all invited!

4 to 5:30 p.m., UVM Bahai Club meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

VPIRG Holds Annual Meeting At Montpelier

VPIRG's 1974 annual meeting will be held this Saturday, March 9, at Christ Church in Montpelier. The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. with a report on the last year from director Scott Skinner to be followed by election of community trustees and election of officers. Immediately following, the new VPIRG Board of Trustees will meet to receive the report of the Auditor and to conduct other business.

The new VPIRG Trustees from UVM were elected last week. These are the new trustees: Sarah Hutchinson, John Burkett, Scott Bauer, Patty O'Brien, Cecilia Elwert, Steve Dunham, and alternate Chris Wing. Anyone interested in attending the annual meeting should feel welcome to call the office and VPIRG will try to arrange rides. (863-3435)

"The Art And Design Of Architecture"

"The Art And Design Of Architecture" is a current exhibition at the Robert Hull Fleming Museum—of tools, plans, and modern photographs pertaining to nineteenth century American building. The relationship between the painstakingly detailed work of the tool makers and the equally detailed work of the master builder is shown through related photographs of cornices, columns, frame details, and the tools used to make them. Of special interest are the plans drawn in 1840 by Ammi Young, an early nineteenth century Vermont architect, for Wheeler House, now serving the University of Vermont as Wasson Infirmary.

The exhibition is the work of Peter King, a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellow in the Webb Graduate Program in American Cultural History, and Ruth Nickerson, an undergraduate in American cultural history at UVM. Its organization and execution would not have been possible without the aid of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

In conjunction with the show, on Tuesday evening—March 12—at 8 p.m., Peter King and Ruth Nickerson will give a gallery talk entitled "Popular Sources For Architectural Design". The public is invited, and refreshments will be served.

"The Art And Design Of Architecture" will remain on view through March 14. Museum hours are Tuesdays 9 a.m.- 9 p.m.; Wednesdays through Fridays 9 a.m.- 5 p.m.; Sundays 1 p.m.- 5 p.m.; Closed Saturdays and Mondays.

Spiritual Corner

Voyages Of The Spirit

Voyages of the Spirit: a weekly series of personal spiritual exchange. All are invited. The next guest will be Chaplain Odie, UVM Campus Minister. His subject will be "Religion with a Smile??", Wednesday, March 13, 12:15 p.m. in Conference Room C (upstairs Billings Center).

Voyages of the Spirit (downtown): a series of six discussions on personal spiritual growth. Each Sunday evening of Lent at 7:30 p.m. in the Parlor of The First Unitarian Church (14 Pearl St., Burlington). Next Sunday evening, March 10, the special guest will be Dr. George Bolender, a local chiropractor. His subject will be "Take Hold of Your Life."

Open Supper: a bi-weekly happening at the AIM Center, a time to share a meal and meet some new people. The next supper will be tonight, March 7 at 6 p.m. at 389 College St. (basement of Hillel House). All are invited and most cordially welcome.

Bible Study: every Thursday evening at 9 p.m. in the TV Lounge of Patterson Hall. Tonight, the subject is prophecy and the text we will be examining is "Amos" from the Old Testament. Our special guest for this evening will be Bradley Gordon, Director of Hillel House. Newcomers are welcome.

Sunday Morning Car Pools: for those who would like a ride to the church of their choice. Call Ted Stronach at 864-6970 Saturday or Sunday morning before 9 a.m.

Ecumenical Morning Prayer: co-sponsored with the Roman Catholic and Episcopalian campus ministries. Every morning, Monday through Friday, at 8:30 a.m. at the Newman Center on the Redstone Campus.

Confession

Confession, or more properly, the Sacrament of Penance and reconciliation, will be the topic of a special explanation and discussion at the Cunningham Newman Center on Wednesday, March 20 at 7:30 p.m. Father Omer Dufault will be in charge of discussion.

Confession has always been of vital interest to Catholics and perhaps a curiosity to many non-Catholics. Like all of the Liturgy of the Catholic Church, so, too, the Sacrament of Penance has undergone some revision recently.

Here is an opportunity to take a serious look at the practice of telling one's sins and seeking forgiveness for them.

ACE

ACE in the Halls presents: March 10 — Sunday — at 8 and 10:30 p.m. "Straw Dogs" in MAT cafeteria.

March 11 — Monday — 7:30 p.m. Ed Bemis speaks on "Jazz in America" in MAT lounge.

March 12 — Tuesday — at 7:30 p.m. Ted Stronach and Father O. Dufault on "Exorcism" in MAT lounge.

March 13 — Wednesday at 7:30 — Bill Schubart from the Vermont Arts Association speaks on "Sound Business" in MAT lounge.

March 14 — Thursday — at 7:30 p.m. Lewis Gordon talks on the "Fundamentals of the Stock Market and Stock Pricing" in MAT lounge.

St. Anselm's Announcements

SERVICES:

Holy Communion: Sunday — 11 a.m., Tuesday — 10 p.m.

Evening Prayer: Daily — 5:45 p.m. (Services Episcopal — All denominations Welcome.)

Ecumenical Morning Prayer — Daily 8:30 a.m. at Newman Center

IS JESUS THE ONLY WAY?

Part III of this seminar series on salvation will be held on Monday, March 11 at 7 p.m. This week's guest speaker will be J.P. Moreland, leader of Campus Crusade on campus. He will be presenting the fundamental Christian views on Salvation. Next Sunday Patt IV will feature Rabbi Max Wall. The series is held in the Common Room at St. Anselm's Chapel.

DISCUSSION GROUPS:

Monday — 6:30 p.m. in Common Room.

Friday — 7:15 p.m. at Burgess Hall.

Both discussion groups are opportunities for students to raise questions, doubts or problems they have about their faith, religion, or life as a student. The groups are led by Chaplain Odie and anyone is welcome.

Cunningham Newman Center

MASS SCHEDULE:

Weekdays in Lent: Monday through Friday — 7 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Also, Tuesday evenings at 10 p.m.

Weekends: Saturday at 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. and Sunday at 9 and 11:30 a.m. and at 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

MORNING PRAYER: Sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant and Catholic Ministries Monday through Friday at the Newman Center. Time is 8:30 p.m.

EVENING PRAYER: Monday thorugh Friday at 10 p.m. in the Chapel.

BIBLE STUDY: Each Monday evening at 8 p.m.

BASIC CATHOLICISM: Each Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. Background material on the sacraments.

CROP WALK FOR THE HUNGRY: Organizational meeting will take place at the First Congregational Church on South Winooski Avenue, on March 11, at 7:30 p.m.

New Medieval Studies Program

Courses in European art, history and literature will combine next fall in a Medieval and Renaissance Studies Program based at the Living/Learning Center.

Involving twenty faculty from eleven departments, the Program hopes to enroll forty students who will live in adjoining suites of apartments for '74-'75. These students will share their different interests and major subject-disciplines in courses, symposia, and projects (plays, banquets, concerts, and the like) in their common attempt to come to terms with the two ages.

Co-ordinator James Howe of the English Department stresses that this Program does not introduce a new major to the University's curriculum. Rather, its students will continue in any of the traditional majors already offered. The two courses each participant takes each semester may therefore be counted toward an existing major, as an elective, or as a related course, whichever is appropriate. The class commitment required of a student in this interdisciplinary experiment is therefore not great.

The goals of the Program are to interest students in humanistic study by showing them how different kinds of knowledge are interrelated, and by showing that a full view of the two ages is impossible without seeing these interrelationships.

The Program's principal method of getting students to see information in this way is to have them live and work together on projects which require sharing different kinds of knowledge and skills. At the same time, both interdisciplinary courses, and traditional courses re-oriented toward an interdisciplinary bias, will be offered at the Living/Learning Center and at other selected places. Some will be team-taught, others will have several guest lecturers from different departments. The Program hopes also to develop an interdisciplinary Medieval and Renaissance Reading Room where students from different disciplines can come together to study and to exchange ideas. The possibility of developing individual research projects also exists.

Faculty from the following departments will co-operate for this experiment: art, classics, romance languages, German, Music, history, English, anthropology, religion, theatre, and military science. Information about courses, enrollment, or anything else related to the Program may be obtained from Professor Howe, extension 3056.

Environmental Fair

Been wondering what all those environmentalists from Robinson Hall do for the environment? Well, there is an environmental educational experience awaiting everyone at the Environmental Fair sponsored by the Robinson Hall students. The fair will be held on March 16 from 2 to 10 p.m. in the WDW lounge. Robinson students along with other interested students, faculty and interested environmentalists of the Burlington area will give presentations on: organic gardening, natural foods, wild foods, alternate life styles, ZPG, maple sugaring, pottery, spinning wool, homesteading, nuclear power problems, VPIRG, homemade foods, homemade ice cream, bicycle care, kayak making and much more.

The Delighted Eye Gallery

This Friday evening, March 8 at 7 p.m., The Delighted Eye Gallery at 94 Church in Burlington will open its second show entitled, "Vermont Women/ Group Art Show". The twelve exhibiting artists are Amrhein, Day, Ettlinger, Fialkoff, Low, Hazard, K. Kraft, Lloyd, Melnick, Rabidoau, Zalkind-Schur. The works include photography, sculpture, pottery and other mediums. During the sixteen day show continuing through March 23, many different events are planned—including a slide show, poetry reading, movement event, happening, and films. The Gallery hours are: Tuesday and Wednesday — 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Thursday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. For further information please call 862-4929.

Bahai Club

The Bahai Club will meet Thursday, March 7 at 4—5 p.m. to discuss the Meaning of Life. Readings from the writings of the Prophet Baha'u'llah and other Bahai literature will be presented. The discussion is open to all UVMers and will be in Conference Room C of Billings Center.

CALCULATORS at Lafayette

Performs most basic slide rule calculations . . . and has a memory
Reciprocals, Squares
Square Roots

- A memory with direct addition & subtraction
- Percent Calculations
- Squares, square roots and reciprocal keys
- Rechargeable Power-Pac
- Floating decimal point
- Chain & mixed calculations
- True credit balance calculations

$89.95

Commodore
MINUTEMAN 2SR
With most of the features of larger machines

Stereo HEADPHONES
Lists for 24.95
• Full comfort
• Hi-fidelity stereo
• Volume controls
$12.50

Superior Range STEREO HEADPHONES
List 42.95
Now ½ Price $22.50
• Advanced design • Extended range
18-24,000 H2 frequency response

Lafayette RADIO ELECTRONICS
• 157 Pearl St., Essex Jct.
• 370 Shelburne Rd. • Barre-Montpelier Road
Visit the New Store in Essex!
Listen To Us, You Can't Go Wrong
Sale Ends March 11

diamonds won't do it, nothing will.

PRICES START UNDER $100.00

You are invited to open a Charge Account at Preston's.

A family of jewelers in Vermont since 1844

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.
17 Upper Church Street
Member American Gem Society

Attention Juniors!

Attention all Juniors: Pictures for the 1975 Ariel will be taken March 18-23. Appointments can be set up from March 11-14 by either calling 656-2056 or stopping by the Ariel office, bottom floor of Billings. Office hours are Monday and Wednesday 11 a.m. — 5 p.m. and 7 — 10 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday 8 — 10:30 a.m., 3 -5 p.m., and 7 — 10 p.m. This is the only time pictures will be taken for the yearbook.

PIZZA
E PIZZA
658-3333
No. Winooski Ave
ted

VERMONT CYNIC

Founded In 1883

Barbara Frankel '75, Editor-in-Chief
Rick Steinberg '75, Assistant Editor
Eileen Driscoll '75, Managing Editor
Bruce Maddera '76, News Editor
Kathy Stetson '77, Assistant News Editor
Margo Howland '75, Feature Editor
Lissa Charles '75, Arts Editor
Peter Campbell '75, Assistant Arts Editor
Mike Schwartz '75, Sports Editor
John Van Hoesen '74, Copy Editor
Jim Bradley '74, Consultant Editor
Loren Wilson '74, Advertising Manager

Editorials

S.A. Endorsement: No Choice This Year

For the first time in several years, we are not endorsing an S.A. presidential candidate. We do not feel that any of the four candidates would make a viable change in an organization sadly in need of renovation.

None of the candidates will face the reality that most students are, and always will be, apathetic. For example, there were only eight or nine students present at each of the Presidential candidate's forums held last week.

In view of this, we would think that at least one candidate would advocate a profound structural change. Both Peter MacAusland and Mario Macias feel the S.A. is workable under its present structure. Based on its past performance, we cannot agree with this. Steve Rollins does support some minor changes, such as decreasing the number of senators by having each represent a larger constituency. This is constructive thinking. Rollins, however, is not willing to go far enough – he refuses to commit himself to any fundamental changes.

Dick Cassidy would take power away from the students. He wants to consolidate Concert Bureau, S.A.Films and S.A.Speakers under a professional manager. Macias also contends that professionals can do a "more efficient" job than student leaders. Probably they can. But a student association should be run for and by the students. We have enough professionals pushing us around. We need our own leaders, representing us. The only real representatives of students are other students.

All of the candidates want more communication with the student body. Dick Cassidy would like to give UVM "the kick in the ass it needs." Yef Cassidy is hardly the person to give UVM that kick. Cassidy has been around for a long time. He has been a member of many committees and organizations. Why hasn't he given UVM that "kick in the ass" before?

All of the candidates, with the possible exception of Steve Rollins, are involved in a variety of other activities. We've seen too many S.A. presidents who've had too many other committments. "Spreading yourself too thin" seems to be a policy on this campus.

Some of the candidates have concrete ideas. More publicity, possibly in the form of a weekly newsletter, is commendable. A new student union might be excellent – it depends on several variable such as where, when, and how much.

This is not, however, the major issue. We do not choose to endorse a candidate because none of them offers a tangible solution, a viable alternative to our existing problems. Anyone who still thinks the S.A. can be effective without major structural changes, will not give the students anything different.

Most of the members of this editorial board will vote in the election. Some of the candidates offer good suggestions; maybe they'll even be implemented. So vote, vote for the candidate who appeals to you. But don't expect any miracles until a candidate is willing to commit himself to a major structural change.

Kill The Death Penalty

The recent decision by the Senate Judiciary Committee to restore the death penalty in Vermont's revised criminal code was unnecessary and unwarranted. Capital punishment is ethically and morally undesirable and should not be employed in the administration of justice.

The contention that reinstatement of the death penalty will act as a deterrent to committing a capital crime must be seriously questioned. Extensive studies show that the death penalty does not deter crime. A United Nations report found that aboliton of capital punishment had no effect on murder rates. Psychological research confirms that individuals contemplating committing a crime are not thinking of punishment.

Granted, a murderer who is executed is not going to commit any more murders. But there are better ways of obtaining that assurance besides taking another life. Most crimes committed are a direct result of an individual's social surroundings. An ethical and desirable alternative to reinstatement of the death penalty would be to direct efforts toward improvement of the society as a whole. Capital punishment is merely a barbaric means of dealing with the ramifications of a much more deeply rooted problem – a decaying society.

With the improbability of immediately rectifying societal problems, the penal system should be geared toward rehabilitation. The systems must develop an institution with personnel and programs which will rehabilitate as many offenders as possible. It must also help those who cannot be released, to adjust as well as possible to the restrictions of institutional life. The death penalty is a stumbling block in this process. It brutalizes the administration of criminal justice and stands in the way of penal reform.

Another serious drawback of capital punishment is that, in the United States it has been prejudicially and inconsistently applied. Those who receive death penalty are usually the disadvantaged members of society – the uneducated, the mentally unstable and retarded, the poor and minority groups. More than half of those executed in the United States since 1930 have been blacks. Since blacks make up less than half of those who commit crimes punishable by death, this is hardly equality before the law.

The decision by the Vermont legislature to reinstate the death penalty is wrong. As one of the country's leading prison administrators has said, "Capital punishment is brutal, sordid, and savage – unworthy of a civilized people."

R.S.

Bartlett Announces IRA Candidacy

There are two basic areas that come to mind when someone mentions residence halls: the physical buildings themselves and secondly, the more intangible area of "life in the residence halls."

Life in the Residence Halls may be improved in several ways. IRA should more actively support the programs within the halls, whether they be social, recreational, or educational. For example, I would like to see Redstone Campus have a bluegrass festival next year. I feel that many of the dorms are too isolated, especially Living/Learning. By IRA supporting campus-wide events such as the above, this would breakdown some of this isolation.

Food is a key issue in the day of a student's life. I would strive to establish a student board that would meet with dining hall personnel. This would allow the student direct access to voice dissention, as well as opening another avenue of communication.

Improving student life would include a general improvement of recreational facilities on campus. Improvements would be made from the housing budget and not necessarily from IRA's. As IRA president, I would push for the lighting of the hockey and tennis courts around campus on the weekends. Finally, I firmly belilve UVM should have more popular movies and dances.

The other area which is of concern to the student living in the residence halls is the actual hall itself. It is great to live with lots of friends, but if ceilings weren't falling down piece by piece (as in Coolidge), I feel life could be that much better.

I strongly advocate the implementation of an effective solicitation policy to protect students from the annoyances experienced by, for example, Reverend Moon. Students must be protected. Furthermore, definite improvements on locks and keys are absolutely necessary, again to protect students. There should be other improvements made, such as more carpeting in the residence halls, various lounge improvements, the possibility of private music listening rooms, and quiet and comfortable study areas. It should be stressed that the above improvements would be funded by the housing budget and not IRA's budget.

Finally, if I am elected President, I will explore the possibility of a campus pub. Pubs are quite popular on other campuses and I'm sure that if we could work it out legally, this last idea would rapidly catch on.

Sincerity
Kenneth Bartlett

Letters To The Editor

Tax Evasion

To the Editor:

This past weekend I paid a visit to my dear and knowledgeable friend, the Lady from Philadelphia. During the course of our conversation, I expressed to her chagrin over the fate of what few liberal, federal programs are left. You see, the I.R.S. reports that people are demanding many exemptions and deductions this year, claiming that if the President can do it, so can they. In fact the I. R. S. expects one billion dollars less in tax revenues this year than were collected last year.

A long silence followed my reporting this news. Suddenly, my friend asserted, "Yes, Eric, the only solution is that our president be sent to jail for tax evasion. With a similar sentence hanging over their heads, the people will be less likely to demand so many deductions."

"Gee," I blurted, "do you think I could get a hold of a license plate he makes?"

"Only if you can afford the thousand dollars they'll probably charge for a pair of plates," she glibly retorted.

Later, as I rose to bid my friend goodbye, I mused out loud, "I wonder if our President should be sent to an island to spend the rest of his days, as Napoleon was sent to St. Helena?"

"Which island would you send him to?" she asked.

After a moment's thought, we both exclaimed, "Staten!"

Sincerely yours,
Eric Reines

Student Apathy

To the Editor:

We have trouble writing this without becoming too cynical. The subject is student apathy and the reason for writing this is just to give you something to think about – nothing else.

We've had the opportunity to become involved in an important university activity – that is – VPIRG. The percentage of students at this college who know anything about VPIRG is amazingly small. The only people who voted at the elections were friends of VPIRG people or the very small number of students who stopped and asked what we are all about.

As some of you know, the elections for S. A. President are approaching. This is very important whether you know it or not. Last Thursday night the four candidates had an open forum. Eight students were there.

This is going to amount to a pretty hotly contested campaign with all candidates expressing conflicting viewpoints. It might be worth your while to talk to these people if you plan to vote.

The Cynic is a fine newspaper and has improved greatly in the past three years. Lately, however, we've noticed an increase in their latest feature "The Bar Review." It's humorous, but it has its place. We don't believe it's worthwhile enough to take up a half-page of the Cynic.

The quality of life in the world, in the nation, in Vermont, at the University and also on an individual basis needs much improvement. We believe it can be done but it takes individual initiative. Think about it.

Thanks for publishing this.

Scott Bauer and Sarah Hutchinson

Be More Careful

To the Editor:

Egads! I sometimes wonder what the hell is going on in the Cynic office. It took me a little while to write a column endorsing Peter MacAusland for S. A. President. Unfortunately, another candidate's name appeared in the headline.

I thank the assistant editor's apology, but gee golly whiz, let's be a little more careful in the future.

Steven Rice

A Letter To Governor Salmon

The following was sent to Governor Salmon on February 25, 1974.

Dear Governor Salmon,

I understand that the Highway Board has nominated Highway Commissioner John Gray for another two year term and this nomination is now before you for your approval. I am writing to recommend that you delay your acceptance of this nomination.

Our reluctance to see Mr. Gray confirmed for another term of office stems from the Highway Department's policies on public access to documents. Quite frankly, these policies make a complete mockery of your administration's goal of 'open government.'

Over the past month, this organization has been researching highway plans for some specific roads in Vermont. In the course of this work we have requested permission to copy a number of public documents. Although we have offered to pay the cost of xeroxing these documents, the highway department will permit only hand copying.

Given the length and complexity of the documents, hand copying is virtually impossible. It appears that the highway department's policy is nothing other than an arbitrary administrative decision designed to prevent us from making effective use of the documents. Such a policy is a complete absurdity in terms of freedom of information and citizen access to government.

Because of our urgent need for information, however, we did begin to copy some documents by hand. We were then informed by the highway department that a "new policy" had been adopted and that documents can be copied only by appointment – which may take several weeks to arrange.

These incidents are clear-cut symbols of the highway department's general attitude of arrogance and suspicion toward the public. This attitude was summed up by Acting Planning Engineer Arthur Goss when he told us last fall that the department "doesn't like people to see (corridor) maps ahead of time; we don't like them to go to the hearings prepared."

We urge you not to confirm Mr. Gray's appointment until some meaningful and long over due policy changes are implemented in the highway department.

Sincerely yours,
Scott Skinner
Director, Vermont
Public Interest
Research Group

by Betsy Andrews

We cast black shadows together on the sand;
With arms upraised and heels turned to the sun,
Our shadows run as one.

Light and gay and blithe we run,
Our cares tossed away behind us.

The rays of the sun touch the grains beside us,
The rippling waves touch our eyes.
A tiny breeze caresses our hair,
Much like your hands that touch me.

I am a child of the Wind,
You a child of the Sun.
Together we can make the earth move,
But only if WE LOVE.

Senatorial Candidate

To the Editor:

Being an alumnus of the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Vermont and the College of Medicine of the University of Vermont, I am now announcing my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Senator, to succeed George D. Aiken, who will not be running this year.

Today, the senior senator from Vermont is from Putney, which is in southern Vermont; the junior senator from Vermont is from the city of Rutland, which is also in southern Vermont. In the Senate, therefore, southern Vermont is already overrepresented while northern Vermont is underrepresented. I propose to change this situation.

Please examine the following table:

County	Number of Legal Voters
Grand Isle	2,557
Essex	3,284
Lamoille	8,076
Orleans	11,255
Addison	14,564
Caledonia	14,566
Franklin	18,710
Washington	28,090
Chittenden	57,767
Total	158,869

All Vermont has 273,056 legal voters. The nine counties named in the foregoing table have 158,869 legal voters, or more than 58 per centum of the total, yet the senatorial delegation, in Washington, does not include a single resident from northern Vermont!!

Incidentally, fellow Vermonters, the town of Fairlee is not in northern Vermont !!!

A native of the city of Barre, Vermont, the Granite Center of the World, I am now a resident of Burlington, which I call "The Queen City of The Commonwealth of Vermont and Our Planet." The city of Burlington, the home of the late Senator Warren R. Austin, recently had 23,341 legal voters.

To restore and insure the proper geographical distribution of senators in Vermont, and to provide northern Vermont with a qualified senator whom, in the course of human events, it always merits, I seek to represent The Commonwealth of Vermont, in the Senate of the United States of America, for the full term of six years, commencing at noon, on the third day of January in 1975, and ending at noon, on the third day of January, in 1981.

Let's make it unanimous!

Harley Walter Kidder
Specialist in Constitutional Law and Chief Architect of Constitutional Legislative Reapportionment.

The Property Tax

To the Editor:

In debate in the legislature on state aid to local school districts, the Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Peter Giuliani, stated that the Miller Formula is based on a delusion – that land is wealth.

Many will agree that ownership of land does not represent ability to pay taxes.

It would be helpful to shift the burden of school support to income taxes without taxing the income from out-of-state owners of half the Vermont land.

But Mr. Giuliani says that a study committee on which he served proposes a two-part remedy in two bills now in the House.

However, both parts assume continued reliance on property taxes.

The first part of the proposed remedy merely provides that checking on the validity of each town's grand list shall be done not by the State Tax Department, but by a district (possibly county) board of listers. A "district' board does not end our present dependence on taxes on property for support of schools.

The second part of the remedy is to provide for a statewide tax on PROPERTY for support of schools, supplemented by other state funds. Also, towns may provide extra funds for schools, but again a tax on property.

I have yet to understand why Mr. Giuliani, with his judgment of property taxes as a poor source of money for public purposes, has so adamantly opposed even public explanation of the State Tax Department's proposal known as the Rockingham Plan.

The Rockingham Proposal was of enough value for the federal government to offer one million dollars and for the legislature to accept the money to accumulate data in computers to evaluate its effect on Vermont towns.

The pressure is building for abandonment of property taxes.

Someday, Mr. Giuliani's dam of opposition will go downstream.

Jordan D. Cole
Vermont House,
District 13-2
Putney, Vermont

Tuition Hike

To the Editor:

Tuition will be raised for out-of-state students in September 1974 $100 thus making tuition $2650 – the highest of any state school in this entire country. The question is: should the increase be directed only toward the out-of-state students?

President Andrews stated at a recent Faculty Senate meeting that out of state applications were up 17 per cent for fall 1974 semester. This fact enables the University to set its standards for admission higher thus increasing the academic reputation of UVM. More questions thus arise: could this University survive its present status without the present high 36 per cent out of state students and would it have its 'present admirable academic level?

Understandably the increase in tuition is probably necessary in accordance with rising costs everywhere. True, every out of state student came to this University on their own free will, but it is hardly desirable to jeopardize UVM's noteworthy reputation by discouraging out of state students to come here because of a overly high tuition rate.

Respectfully yours,
Pamela Hogarth

VERMONT CYNIC

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Dave Compagna, Bill Campbell, Cecilia Ehrert, Andrew Morse.
FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Carol Dufault, Laurie Kane.
ARTS: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Doug Collette, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, Elliott Freeman, Sig Heller, Randy Jansen, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Charlie Grace, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahue, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Pstudnick, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilenzik.
ADVERTISING: Bonne Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Camilyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Joan Westcot.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second-class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Proposed G

by Alan H. King

Well, what I was afraid would happen
During the past two weeks the Cynic has about the proposed revision of the grading credit for pluses and taking credit for min say that it was passed by the Student A Because no one has bothered to get the f matter, there is a lot of appa misunderstanding. The letter to the editor issue is an example. It was a good honest qu someone is trying to weed out mediocre stu response to that letter, and to clear up any about this grading policy proposal, I, summarize the whys and wherefores of the Last semester the idea first appeared calling for a revision in the grading polic numbers suggested came from those used

There was very little response to this article was was mostly supportive. In recognition Chairperson of the S.A. Senate, Steve Rolli hoc committee on grading at the first senat spring semester. I chaired this committee a three other senators, came up with this pro the present grading policy. The original p policy to be retroactive; that is, everyone's converted at the beginning of next seme was dropped for reasons to be stated later.

After the policy was put in the form o the senate, it was tabled for a week, as allow the senators to find what their about the matter. At the next meeting again tabled, because the senators want certain members of the administration policy. At the next S.A. Senate meeting passed and sent on to the administration a

I personally got in touch with the assis chairman of the academic affairs commit senate. I will detail their remarks by stati to the various alternative proposals

Why not go to a pass-fail system? This it isn't practical. There would be no w people, figure class rank, and the academ
UVM would soon be lost.

What about doing away with plu altogether? This is a plausible alternativ that you're generalizing the system too person with a numerical average of 81 w grade as a person with an 89. This isn't with the 89. People with a solid B av would slack off at the end, knowing th

by Jeff Rybeck

Try to imagine waking at the crack of wild coyotes or to the intermingling masked chickadees or pointy tufted t listen. . . can you hear? . . far out in t from the sturdy old farmhouse, a fleet to flight "cawing" their warnings expected invaders. And your mind dri there are no binding needs or bureauc for most commodities exchange hand bartering manner. The sounds do asthmatic forebodings and the eyes ca even count the white billowing puffs o
the days pass as usual, devoid of ma trivialities such as government, fo somewhere planning book sales or cake a gigantic party to celebrate the harve day work is hard, backbreaking, but it and it flows in your veins. And at the family joins together for a hearty vegetables, and a delicacy you trad Outside, the brazen shrill of myriad moonlit atmosphere drowning out whippoorwill. There. . .look up. . .h
stars are shooting leaving long, prisma Enough. . .off to sleep. . .hard day tom

And now you ask: "What's this guy
All this is foolish. Times have chang grand technocracy governed by Besides, who would give up a trip dan of Boston for the stagnation of one of said it right when he complained abo mortgaged to the farms, forever slavin died un-noticed. Give me today anytim

Then this guy answers: "Man, I'd sure as pie. But there's somethin' been clutchin' at my throat. And ya at it the tighter it grips; and I got a progress thing is behind it. . .just spec day I saw all these students millin' a cans to kick or the like; and on thei this thing that was clutchin' at my t
'em, 'Hey, if we all work together
But they all kinds shrugged and ke somethin' to kick around. Damn it how can they let those little gremi that. Well I managed to keep the d be my back, but heaven knows ho
And, believe it or not, they got som which is odd, considerin' they don't diseases 'less they do some kind o
But there's a powerful lot of deb damage physically or not, indirectl hear. . .d this one professor guy suppose to make ya come down wi think he called it paranoia or some says most people got that there generally it's A result of the big couldn't walk down the street with the other or over his shoulder or s ground without wishin' he were someone in a black coat was goin'

ditor

torial Candidate

nds of the and Sciences of Vermont
of Medicine
of Vermont.
nouncing my e Republican Senator to
D. Aiken, running this

nator senator t is from n in southern most senator
e from the which is also rmont. In the ge, southern already ed while Vermont is
d. I propose tuation.
amine the

Number of Legal Voters

	2,447
	3,284
	8,076
	11,255
	14,564
	14,566
	18,710
	28,080
	92,767
	158,869

has 273,086.
The nine
ed in the have 158,869 more than 58

per centum of the total, yet the senatorial delegation, in Washington, does not include a single resident from northern Vermont!"

Incidentally, fellow Vermonters, the town of Fairlee is not in northern Vermont!!!

A native of the city of Barre, Vermont, the Granite Center of the World, I am now a resident of Burlington, which I call "The Queen City of The Commonwealth of Vermont and Our Planet." The city of Burlington, the home of the late Senator Warren R. Austin, recently had 23,141 legal voters.

To restore and insure the proper geographical distribution of senators in Vermont, and to provide northern Vermont with a qualified senator whom, in the course of human events, it always merits, I seek to represent The Commonwealth of Vermont, in the Senate of the United States of America, for the full term of six years, commencing at noon, on the third day of January in 1975, and ending at noon, on the third day of January, in 1981.

Let's make it unanimous!

Harley Walter Kidder
Specialist in Constitutional Law and Chief Architect of Constitutional Legislative Reapportionment.

The Property Tax

the legislature local school hairman of the and Means eter Giuliani,
the Miller based on a that land is agree that land does not ty to pay taxes.

helpful to shift
school support taxes without income from owners of half land.
liani says that a tee on which he es a two-part o bills now in both parts ued-reliance on part of the emedy' merely checking on the ch town's grand done not by the Department, but rict (possibly t of listers. A rd does not end dependence on perty for support

The second part of the remedy is to provide for a statewide tax on PROPERTY for support of schools, supplemented by other state funds. Also, towns may provide extra funds for schools, but again a tax on property.

I have yet to understand why Mr. Giuliani, with his judgment of property taxes as a poor source of money for public purposes, has so adamantly opposed even public explanation of the State Tax Department's proposal known as the Rockingham Plan.

The Rockingham Proposal was of enough value for the federal government to offer one million dollars and for the legislature to accept the money to accumulate data in computers to evaluate its effect on Vermont towns.

The pressure is building for abandonment of property taxes.

Someday, Mr. Giuliani's dam of opposition will go downstream.

Jordan D. Cole
Vermont House,
District 13-2
Putney, Vermont

Tuition Hike

ill be raised for students in 1974 $100 thus in $2650 the y state school in country. The should the directed only e out-of-state

Andrews stated
Faculty Senate
t out of state were up 17 per 1974 semester.
enables the o set its standards
ion higher, thus the academic of UVM. More hus grow could

this University survive its present status without the present high 36 per cent out of state students and would it have its present admirable academic level?

Understandably the increase in tuition is probably necessary in accordance with rising costs everywhere. True, every out of state student came to this University on their own free will, but it is hardly desirable to jeopardize UVM's noteworthy reputation by discouraging out of state students to come here because of a overly high tuition rate.

Respectfully yours,
Pamela Hogarth

RMONT CYNIC

y. Andrews," Dave ell Campbell, Cecilia e Moore
Bari Rish, Carol
e Rann
Bodi, Jeffrey Blum,
, Barbara Freedman,
rd, Joseph Oldham,

Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Charlie Grace, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahoe, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Potashnick, Norm Robinson, Bob Wernick.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Jean Westcot.

Steve Gabree,
man, Sig Heller,
n, Alan King, Evelyn,

expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University ion, faculty or staff or the State of Vermont. Opinions the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion rity of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.
yearly during the college year by the students of the of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date in 1883. Subscription rate $4.00 per year, single copy second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Proposed Grading Policy Explained

by Alan H. King

Well, what I was afraid would happen has happened. During the past two weeks the Cynic has carried nothing about the proposed revision of the grading policy (allowing credit for pluses and taking credit for minuses) except to say that it was passed by the Student Association Senate. Because no one has bothered to get the full story on the matter, there is a lot of apprehension and misunderstanding. The letter to the editor in last week's issue is an example. It was a good honest query on whether someone is trying to weed out mediocre students or not. In response to that letter, and to clear up any other confusion about this grading policy proposal, I would like to summarize the whys and wherefores of the suggestion.

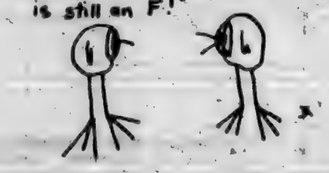
Last semester the idea first appeared in this column, calling for a revision in the grading policy at UVM. The numbers suggested came from those used by law schools. There was very little response to this article, but what there was was mostly supportive. In recognition of the idea, the Chairperson of the S.A. Senate, Steve Rollins, formed an ad hoc committee on grading at the first senate meeting of this spring semester. I chaired this committee and, together with three other senators, came up with this proposal for revising the present grading policy. The original plan was for this policy to be retroactive, that is, everyone's grades would be converted at the beginning of next semester. This clause was dropped for reasons to be stated later.

After the policy was put in the form of a motion before the senate, it was tabled for a week, as is customary, to allow the senators to find what their constituency felt about the matter. At the next meeting the motion was again tabled, because the senators wanted to know how certain members of the administration felt about such a policy. At the next S.A. Senate meeting the motion was passed and sent on to the administration and faculty senate.

I personally got in touch with the assistant registrar and chairman of the academic affairs committee of the faculty senate. I will detail their remarks by stating their reactions to the various alternative proposals.

Why not go to a pass-fail system? This would be nice, but it isn't practical. There would be no way to recommend people, figure class rank, and the academic accreditation of UVM would soon be lost.

What about doing away with pluses and minuses altogether? This is a plausible alternative. The problem is that you're generalizing the system too much this way. A person with a numerical average of 81 would get the same grade as a person with an 89. This isn't fair to the person with the 89. People with a solid B average for a course would slack off at the end, knowing they would get their 3.0. If they think they had a chance at a 3.25 they might work that much harder, and they might try to maintain that B knowing they would go to a 2.75 if they slacked off.



Why the .25 distribution around each grade, rather than a .33? I grant that .33 creates a more even distribution, but the fact is that there is still an ideological difference between an A and a B. The proposed system recognizes this fact, and allows .5 between say, a B+ and an A–. The system was not intended to divide all grades into an even distribution, but to surround each letter grade with a slight increase and decrease in corresponding quality points. Sure, this is going to penalize the student getting a lot of minuses, but it's also going to reward those getting pluses. Often times, the individual's record will balance out in the long run. The system will also cause professors to consider more when giving out pluses and minuses.

The main thing we are going to have to learn is that we are only fooling ourselves if we think that pluses and minuses don't really mean anything. Graduate and professional schools take your average and recompute it, taking these things into account. A student who received a large number of minuses may find his cume goes from a 3.0 to a 2.4! This can be quite a shock to the student who didn't know those grade additions meant anything until the time he went to apply to higher schools. The present system also adversely affects the student going to a job interview. Often times the prospective employer will want to know a student's rank in class. The way the register now computes class rank is very superficial, as he does not include these pluses and minuses. This leaves open the possibility that a person with a 3.0 with a lot of B minuses can be ranked above a person getting a 3.0 with a lot of B pluses. Now you tell me which would be the fairer system.

There are some who will claim that this system goes against the general trend in universities, that this is a more restrictive system. To these people I say that this is not a more restrictive system, but a more specific system. As it is, the pluses and minuses mean little more than a warning that you almost got a lower grade, or that you almost got a higher one. As long as the administration is going to allow these subgrades to be given, then they should also include some meaning to them.

As for trying to weed out the mediocre students.....jeezum crow (as they say in Vermont), if anything this will help students like my friend last year who received all C+'s on his grade report. I, myself, am the proud possessor of a 2.8, which is not the best cume to get into a law school with. All I can say is give the policy a chance. Talk to your S.A. Senator about it. Dr. Gobin of the academic affairs committee of the faculty has assured me that if there is sufficient student backing this proposal will get a hearing before the committee.

If this plan were to be adopted starting Fall '74, everyone would begin on the system at once. Your old cume would remain as it is. Your marks for that semester would, however, be computed the new way. The retroactive clause was eliminated because the process of recomputing everyone's average would be nightmarish (they would all have to be done by hand.) The next step in the process is for the faculty senate academic affairs committee to act.

From The S.A. Candidates

Cassidy

S. A. Senator Dick Cassidy has announced that he will be a candidate for the UVM Student Association Presidency. A junior majoring in Political Science, Cassidy has been active in UVM student government since he was elected S. A. vice president for Internal Affairs during his freshman year.

In his sophomore year, as a Senator from Mason Hall, he worked to prevent the allocation of student funds to non-student needs.

Cassidy is presently serving as chairperson of the student representatives to the Board of Trustees. He gained that position by defeating incumbant S. A. President Sigmund Heller in an election last fall.

This year as a town Senator, Cassidy has been highly critical of the present S. A. administration indicting it for its lack of purpose and disorganization.

Cassidy's goals include a substantial increase in the efficiency with which the Student Association functions. He suggested that this could be accomplished by reorganizing S. A. services and developing a set of equitable priorities for distributing S. A. money.

He also stated that students could gain a larger voice in University decision making if their efforts were more unified.

In addition to his wide range of activities in student government, Cassidy expects to bring to the office his experience in state government. He has recently completed a twelve month period as a University Year For Action Volunteer with the Vermont Department of Corrections where he was involved in the development of departmental policy and procedure.

Cassidy has served as a member of the Vermont Human Rights Commission since he was appointed by Governor Thomas Salmon in February of 1973.

MacAusland

by Peter MacAusland

As a candidate for S.A. President, I have the obligation to inform as many students as possible about my ideas, thoughts, and qualifications relevant to this candidacy. For one to run for the S.A. Presidency, a poster with a name and slogan on it is not sufficient information.

This past year, I have been chairperson of the Billings Center Governing Board, a recognized student organization. Its purpose is to provide programming and create policies for Billings Center. The B.C.G.B. has accomplished much since last semester. A few examples: the B.C.G.B. sponsored OZ productions, which put on two dances, Billings Bedlam, the all-night activities madness, last December, was one of our projects. I coordinated the event. Two and one half years ago, another student and I created Roundhouse, the Friday coffeehouse in Billings. I have managed Roundhouse ever since. The B.C.G.B. has done diversified programming including films, concerts, dances, and speakers. I have experience in promoting student activities on campus.

The S.A. Senate is seriously lacking student representation. The lack of communication between students and their senate makes the senate ineffective as far as organizing and coordinating student input, opinion. This problem has a difficult solution because many students are apathetic towards the Senate. Yet the S.A. President should provide the stimulant, the spark to unite the senate and the students. He should set an example for senators, creating initiative within them to help improve communications and lessen the degree of student apathy.

I am able to provide the necessary stimulant. I possess the desire to perform, to activate ideas. I am able to organize and coordinate ideas and students' input. Last fall I was dissatisfied with the administration's handling of the Philosophy Hour situation. In January, I wrote President Andrews, expressing my concern. After several meetings, President Andrews has agreed to speak on the procedural matters concerning faculty hiring, reappointment (not re-hiring is included in this term) and tenure. Although the decisions in this case have been final long ago, I believe it is better late than never for students to be heard by the administration.

The energy within me is at $6,000 a year program supported by the students of UVM, SAGA, and some businesses in the greater Burlington area. The Free Breakfast program has been in operation for over a year and provides a nutritious breakfast to about 200 children each morning.

I have been involved with the Equal Opportunity Committee for three years.

With decision-making and planning, I believe the S.A. should be a tool of the student towards making a designed progress. I encourage more student awareness of the S.A. and its function. Much could be accomplished if the majority instead of a minority interest existed to make the interest happen. The S.A. has to accommodate more of the direct needs of the students.

Here are some of my ideas in which the S.A. could act for the better interest of the student body:

1. More and cheaper concerts are needed at UVM with a variety of types of entertainment.

2. A housing office organized for the student interested in living off-campus to get the best situations for the cheapest price. It would be aimed at protecting the student's rents from high-priced deposits, unhealthy conditions, and exhorbitant rents.

3. I believe in the fair recruitment and employment of minority people, and women. The University of Vermont is well below the average figure for an institution of its size. More pressure could come from the S.A. in this area.

4. Since most students pay the Student Activities fee as a part of their mandatory fees, I think a sheet explaining how their money is being spent should be turned out and mailed to each student at least three times a year. I think this would perk up student interest in the S.A.

5. Handicapped persons in wheelchairs are literally barred from several buildings and areas because they have no access to them due to poor planning and neglect. The S.A. Office is off-limits to a student in a wheelchair, others are Bailey Library, Waterman, and some dormitories.

I propose a plan for more efficient use of the gymnasium and its facilities. Do you know that the Women's Locker Room is without a scale? It is also closed when the men's remains open. There are many needed improvements in this area which should serve, not frustrate the students.

I would promote more interested and unusual guest speakers. There are many people as valuable as Ralph Nader, Dick Gregory, etc., but they rarely, if ever, appear at UVM. I believe the University should be of more cultural value to its students and surrounding community and interesting speakers are one way to achieve this.

An immediate structure improvement for the student could be the construction of bicycle paths and bicycle storage areas. This would reduce bicycle accident and theft rate considerably.

creates the desire and initiative which I utilize. Personal traits are more significant than personal thoughts on basic issues. For the S.A. President represents the Senate, who represents the students (at least is supposed to) and personal opinions may end up on the short side. The greater the challenge, the more energy I generate results in a quality performance. And the S.A. Presidency is a great challenge.

Macias

by Mario Macias

At this time I would like to announce my candidacy for the office of President of the Student Association.

I am a junior in the College of Education. My major is Social Welfare. I am a University Year For Action student volunteer, which is a program designed to allow college students to work a full year within the community. My project is the Free Breakfast Program. This

The Big Bad "A"

by Jeff Ryback

Try to imagine waking at the crack of dawn to the bays of wild coyotes or to the intermingling crisp calls of black masked chickadees or pointy tufted blue jays. Then . . . listen. . . can you hear? . . far out in the fields, miles away from the sturdy old farmhouse, a fleet of crows are jetting to flight "cawing" their warnings of the soon to be expected invaders. And your mind drifts about at rest for there are no binding needs or bureaucracies to deal with, for most commodities exchange hand fairly enough in a bartering manner. The sounds do not smell or cough asthmatic forebodings and the eyes can see for miles and even count the white billowing puffs of condensation. And the days pass as usual, devoid of mail, uncluttered with trivialities such as government, for it is out there somewhere planning book sales or cakebakes or maybe even a gigantic party to celebrate the harvest moon. The day to day work is hard, backbreaking, but it is close to the earth and it flows in your veins. And at the end of the day the family joins together for a hearty dinner of potatoes, vegetables, and a delicacy you traded for a week ago. Outside, the brazen shrill of myriad cricket dampens the moonlit atmosphere drowning out the pert reply of a whippoorwill. There. . .look up. . .higher. . . .a flurry of stars are shooting leaving long, prismatic colored gas trails. Enough. . .off to sleep. . .hard day tomorrow.

And now you ask: "What's this guy mouthin' off about. All this is foolish. Times have changed, progressed into a grand technocracy governed by the un-technocratic: Besides, who would give up a trip dancing about the streets of Boston for the stagnation of one of those farms. Thoreau said it right when he complained about those poor families mortgaged to the farms, forever slaving until one day they died un-noticed. Give me today anytime?"

Then this guy answers: "Man, I'd like to agree with you sure as pie. But there's somethin' goin' about, somethin' been clutchin' at my throat. And ya know, the more I tug at it the tighter it grips; and I got a sneakin' suspicion this progress thing is behind it. . .just speculation of course. One day I saw all these students millin' about, wishin' they had cans to kick or the like; and on their backs was a replica of this thing that was clutchin' at my throat. Well, I yelled to 'em, 'Hey, if we all work together we can lick this disease.' But they all kinda shrugged and kep' lookin' for a can or somethin' to kick around. Damn it all, I say's to myself, how can they let those little gremlins take 'em over like that. Well I managed to keep the disease from climbin' up on my back, but heaven knows how long I can sustain it. And, believe it or not, they got some kind of name for it; which is odd, considerin' they don't usually give names to diseases 'less they do some kind of job on ya physically. But there's a powerful lot of debate on whether it does damage physically or not, indirectly of course. In fact, I hear. . .d this odd professor guy say, 'says in hall does,' suppose to make ya come down with another disease too. . .think he called it paranoia or somethin' like that. Then he says most people get that there paranoia today and generally it's A result of the big "A". Even claimed he couldn't walk down the street without lookin' one way or the other or over his shoulder or above his head or on the ground without wishin' he were dead, for he was sure someone in a black coat was goin' to grab him and flash a badge with weird letters on it. And bein' as simpleminded as I am I couldn't understand.

Then I made a survey, Yup, I asked all these different people if they had a slight case of "A" or expected to catch it. And sure enough, it was pandemic, they all had it. And when I offered some of my straightforward curlicue cure they swore at me and told me to mind my own business else wise I'd find a size eleven lodged somewhere painful. . .evidently they thought it was too powerful a disease to fool with, like a demon that only some guy riding a white horse clad in polished steel could exorcise. Sure was disheartenin'. So the next day I skipped all my classes and camped in front of the seediest bar in town – I think it was called the "noxiN etagretaW". I guessed it was about eleven when it opened but it really didn't matter for big "A" had control of time by now. I ordered three beers to start, hopin' that big "A" would let the beer pass down my throat unhindered. Then this old drunk with a smattering of white hair and a stubly grizzle of a beard starts talkin' to me. 'Down for some beer and broads, 'ey?' Well there was no sense foolin' 'im so I set him straight, 'there ain't no women here, bub.' He rubbed his rough old beard and agrees with me. Then he says, 'Hell, who needs 'em, liquor's just as good.' 'Ya,' I says. But ya know, as soon as I said that word, 'ya', the disease let go of my throat and grabbed my left cheek. A powerful fear came over me. . .I knew that damn disease was tryin' to get on my back. Quickly I quaffed down three beers, but it didn't help. The disease's vice grip had both cheeks and I began a squirmin'. Well the old man was feelin' no pain but was kind enough to ask what the hell was wrong. Then I told him about how every year this progress thing was reported to have spread the disease I had just lately incurred, the big "A". He starts laughin' and carryin' on. Then he tells me that the disease been around for a long time and there was only one hospital for it and one medicine; then he assures me I'm in the hospital and doin' it, 'after ten or twenty a them beers the thing will climb up on your back and, kid, all the pain goes. Really, once it's on your back you won't care for nothin'.' All of a sudden somethin' smapped and I jumped off my stool and slammed myself back first into a wall and I starts screamin', 'I'll squash you. . .you bastard. . .get off.' In a few minutes I found myself handcuffed and riding in a sporty black and white with screens inside and a big Christmas light on top. I told the two guys dressed in funny black clothes about big "A" climbin' up on my back. But all they said was some words I couldn't understand: "radical, leftist, communist, freak. . .they never leave things alone. . . What the hell is this big "A". . .D.T.'s if you ask me.". Let's book 'im. . . .damn kid needs a haircut anyway. . .you been listenin' to those newscasters, I tell ya they're tearing the country apart. . .why can't they let things alone. University's up with the times though, been cleanin' house. . .and the kids don't hassle us much. . .hell, they don't give a shit about nothin'. . .pure apathy. . . ."

The Cynic welcomes letters and columns from students, faculty, or any other readers. Materials for publication must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request.

Call A Plumber To Do Your Books

by John Franco

Watergate has, in a real sense, hit home in Waterman. It has been suggested that the analogy between the wheeling and dealing of the University and the crimes of the Nixon administration is a bit ludicrous. But you ought to take a look at whom the University hired as their new auditors, and the analogy won't see so hyperbolic.

Up until the end of fiscal year 1972, UVM employed the auditing firm of Archibald Peisch and Company. Of course the University was maintaining its long standing tradition of cronyism and self aggrandizement in employing the Peisch outfit. Archibald Peisch, as you have probably guessed is the father of UVM trustee Francis Peisch. But at the end of that fiscal year, the University decided to take on another more internationally recognized firm. If the Peisch Company had been retained, someone might have gotten the idea that this kind of cronyism was common, and would start checking into things. So at the start of the next fiscal year the University hired the auditing firm of Coopers and Lybrand.

UVM picked up a good set of accountants. After all, it is this same Coopers and Lybrand which pulled the bookkeeping razzle dazzle in Nixon's San Clemente purchase. Nixon hired Coopers and Lybrand last July at the suggestion of H. Chapman Rose and Kenneth W. Gemmill, both high ranking members of the GOP. Rose and Gemmill, who have been very close to Nixon since the Eisenhower days, were familiar with Coopers and Lybrand and recommended them highly. But suspicion has it that there were more compelling motives for Nixon to choose Coopers and Lybrand. Three former associates of the firm had been imprisoned for distributing false financial information, and for mail fraud involving the 1962 financial statement of the continental Vending Machine Company. Nixon, in his vaunted tradition of freeing teamster Jimmy Hoffa and mobster DeAngelo, granted the three former Coopers and Lybrand men an unconditional executive pardon on December 20, 1972. So in the case of San Clemente, Coopers and Lybrand were just returning Nixon a favor.

Coopers and Lybrand has also been doing some important work for the CIA. During the Watergate revelations of last summer, it was leaked to the Wall Street Journal that Southern Airways has been owned by the CIA for more than a decade. The reason the CIA squired Southern, a former Civil Aeronautics Board official explained to the Journal, was "because it was irritated over the way its Air America cover was so thin it had become a laughing matter." A study of Southern's financing also revealed the role of the CIA. On one 15 month period, Southern received a $14 million loan from Actus Technology. Actus, it turns out, had borrowed the money from Air America, and by sheer coincidence, Actus is owned by Southern Airlines President Stanley Williams, and Percival Brundage and Perkins McGuire. Brundage was director of the Budget Bureau under Eisenhower, and McGuire was Ike's assistant Secretary of Defense. According to one Southern official, "They are all part of the CIA old boy's club." And of course good ole UVM auditors Coopers and Lybrand is the auditing firm of both Air America and Southern Airways.

Air America is no small potatoes. For years the CIA has been accused of smuggling opium from the Meo tribesmen

(continued on page twelve)

Arts & Entertainment

Unusual Chamber Music To Be Heard At Wednesday's Lane Concert

The second Lane Chamber Arts concert will feature a most unusual program of chamber music: soprano Camille Williams and clarinetist David Glazer, with piano accompaniment.

The two world-famed artists will perform on Wednesday, March 13 in the Allen Chapel. The concert begins at 8 p.m.

The program will consist of selections from the works of Claude Debussy, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, Franz Schubert, Gordon Jacob, Arthur Bliss, Ludwig Spohr, Pierre Gaveaux, and others.

While the combination of soprano voice and clarinet can be regarded as a special presentation, many opera composers have often used the two for leading areas in their works. Many other composers have used the clarinet as a second "Voice" and as an obligato instrument in some of their greatest lieder.

Camille Williams, now at the height of a distinguished career in opera and concert, has sung with the N.Y. Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra, and the Chicago Grant Park and Hollywood Bowl orchestras. Her London debut brought immediate bids from the Continental festivals in Vienna, Salzburg and Berlin. In 1955 she made her Vienna State Opera debut.

Miss Williams made her international debut at New York City Opera Company in the title role of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," giving a performance that brought her into national prominence. Her appearance there also marked the first time that a singer of her race was to appear regularly with a major American opera company.

Other starring roles with the New York City Opera company here included those in "Aida," "Pagliacci," "La Boheme," "Faust" and Mozart's seldom-performed masterpiece, "Idomeneo" — each winning new laurels for this highly gifted artist.

David Glazer has established a unique reputation throughout the world as a leading interpreter of the solo and chamber repertory for the clarinet.

Mr. Glazer is well known to Burlington music lovers. Last season (March 14) he performed with the prestigious New York Woodwind Quintet on the Lane Chamber Arts Series.

Highly regarded as a "specialist" in chamber music, Mr. Glazer began to win recognition for his artistry with his participation in the Casals Festival, Prades, in 1953.

During ensuing European tours he won unanimous acclaim from European press as soloist with the major symphony orchestras and as a recitalist. By 1963 he had already appeared with such radio orchestras as the BBC, Copenhagen, Brussels, Hamburg, Holland, Frankfurt and Munich, and had performed at many international festivals. He records for Vox, Columbia, CRI, Concert Disc and Everest.

Tickets, $3, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at Bailey's Music Rooms, 88 Church Street, in downtown Burlington, for reservations, tel. 656-3418.

Buckham Opens Coffeehouse Featuring Singer Jim Ringer

by Wayne Bauer

A week ago, last Monday, Buckham Hall opened their doors of twice a week "coffeehouse" with folksinger and songwriter Jim Ringer. It proved to be an enjoyable evening for everyone who went, including the featured performer that night who got off on the attentive listeners.

The lounge that is used for the coffeehouse is not the most luxurious one in the world, but it's a nice size for performer-audience interaction and intimacy. Everyone there could hear and see well without any obstructions.

Jim Ringer, a regular on the U.S. coffeehouse and folk festival circuit, has recorded on Folk Legacy and just recently on Philo Records here in Vermont. In addition to amazing everyone with his capacity for bourbon and tequila, Jim turned a lot of hard rock acid freaks on to some real good country and traditional folk music. A long and beautiful ballad from the 1800's about "California Joe" brought tears to some folk's eyes while "I gotta get Drunk" had everyone laughing.

This past Tuesday, Bodie and Pop Wagner, popular performers at the Fresh Ground Coffee House in Burlington, were scheduled for Buckham, Bodie, a fine songwriter, is in the process of recording at Philo Records.

Coming up Sunday night will be blues and slide guitarist Martin Grosswendt. Martin has done session work for Jim Ringer and Utah Phillips, whom he used to travel with as a side man. He also has been a popular performer at the Fresh Ground Coffee House.

Performers at Buckham start around 9 p.m. Be good to yourself — go to Buckham Sunday night and get your money's worth and more for just $.75.

Banjo Dan To Pluck Banjo In Billings Friday Evening

by Brian Pahlow

Tomorrow night, Friday March 8, the popular bluegrass band Banjo Dan and the Midnite Plowboys will be performing at the North Lounge of Billings Center at 8 p.m. Banjo Dan and the Plowboys have performed as a group since 1972 in various well-known clubs in Killington, Rutland, Stowe and Burlington. During this time they have also played at many major festivals in Vermont and Canada.

The Plowboy's musical blend stresses bluegrass, but also includes a variety of traditional country and western, pop, as well as rock 'n' roll oldies. The group also performs a selection of original songs and instrumentals.

Banjo Dan Linder provides the backbone of the band's sound with his driving 5-string banjo, and occasional guitar. He also sings, writes, and arranges. Willy, Dan's brother, is featured on the other lead instruments, playing perhaps the finest mandolin in New England. The only Yankee in the group, Alan Davis, plays rhythm guitar, sings, writes, and occasionally helps out on bass. Pete Tourin, the Plowboy's bass player, has played in numerous folk and rock bands and is presently a member of the UVM Baroque Ensemble.

The combined talent of these four artists is a true experience in music appreciation, and one which you are not likely to forget. No matter what your musical mood this Friday night, the Plowboys can satisfy your needs.

Admission is $.75 with UVM I. D. or $1.50 general admission. Tickets are on sale now at the Billings Center Information Desk.

Netherlands Ensemble Tickets Still Available

When the Netherlands Wind Ensemble performs tomorrow night (March 8 at 8 p.m.) at Memorial Auditorium under the auspices of the Lane Series, UVM students will be able to see and hear seventeen performers whose average age is not much more than that of the attending students themselves — only 27.

Their program includes Gounod's Petite Symphonie, Mozart's Serenade No. 12, Dvorak's Serenade in D minor, and D'Indy's Chanson and Danses.

Tickets, $3, $5, $6, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, tel. 656-3418.

Warsaw Philharmonic Doesn't Quite Fulfill Potential

by Allyson Davis

The Warsaw National Philharmonic performed in the Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday, February 26, to a near capacity audience as part of the Lane Artist Series.

The program opened with a Concert Overture, Op. 12, by Karol Szymanowski. Conducted by Witold Rowicki, this selection was well played. But due to the acoustic difficulties of the auditorium, the strings were not bright sounding. The selection was reminiscent of a show tune, which was appropriate for this symphony as it was for a show orchestra.

"Les Illuminations" a song cycle for High Voice and Orchestra, by Benjamin Britten followed with Stefania Woytowicz as soprano soloist. Miss Woytowicz has a big voice, but in some areas of this beautiful work it should not have been employed, as it grew into a large vibrato. She did employ good control in her softer sections, and it was quite pleasant to hear. The poems used in this work were by French symbolist poet, Arthur Rimbaud. However, the soprano's pronunciation of the French text might as well have been Polish. Miss Woytowicz' mannerisms were quite distracting and her dress detracted from enjoying "Les Illuminations" to the fullest.

The second half of the program began with Capriccioso Notturno by Edward Boguslawski, a young Polish composer. This piece was fascinating in its dissonance and originality. The woodwinds of the orchestra are to be complimented here. It was the light note of the program.

The performance ended with a Suite from the ballet "Petrouchka" by Igor Stravinsky. Fine musicianship was illustrated here on all counts. Only the length of the work detracted from its performance.

After a half enthusiastic round of applause by the audience, the orchestra began to play, without the aid of the conductor, what we all thought to be the Polish National Anthem. Upon rising and still applauding, we were informed that it was the conductor's birthday, and what we had been hearing was Happy Birthday in Polish! So, for an encore, the orchestra performed their best piece, something which must have been Polish in origin. With the wealth of wonderful Polish works in existence, it is a shame that more of them were not done as part of the program.

S.A. Film Contest Winners Announced

In the contest sponsored by SAFilms in which contestants were to identify correctly twelve stills of popular or well-known films, the following students are announced as winning:

First Prize is Erica Koenig of 425 Tupper Hall ($25.00)

Second Prize is Michael R. Sullivan of 323 St. Paul Street in Burlington ($15.00)

Third Prize is Kathleen Potter of 236 Converse Hall ($10.00)

Runners up were Bruce Carpenter of Burlington, Shari Cantor of 105 Millis Hall, and Stephen K. Wetzel of Burlington. (who win a year's free pass to all SAFilms campus showings).

For those who are interested in the correct answers, simply drop by the Student Activities desk in Billings and ask to see the poster with the correct answers. Prizes will be in the mail shortly.

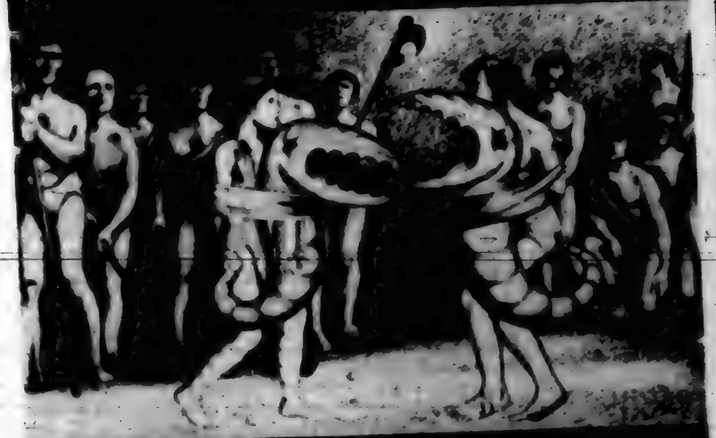
Every clue is cold. Every lead is blind. Every suspect is dead. When will the killer strike again... and why are the cops so scared?

EIGHT PEOPLE SAW THE FACE OF THE MURDERER.

Best Mystery Novel of the Year. — Mystery Writers of America

Walter Matthau
The Laughing Policeman
Eves 7 + 9 P.M.
BURLINGTON PLAZA CINEMA 1 & 2
RT 7 AT I 189 SO BURLINGTON
PHONE 862-5070 ANYTIME!

"'FANTASTIC PLANET' IS AN EXTRAORDINARY FEATURE-LENGTH CARTOON THAT MAY SURPASS BOTH DISNEY'S 'FANTASIA' AND KUBRICK'S '2001' AS THE ULTIMATE HEAD MOVIE...THERE HASN'T BEEN SUCH ANIMATED IMAGINATION ON THE SCREEN SINCE 'YELLOW SUBMARINE'" — Kevin Kelly, Boston Globe



FANTASTIC PLANET
GRAND PRIX
Shows Evs. at 7 + 9 P.M.
Matinee Sat., Sun. 2 P.M.
BURLINGTON PLAZA CINEMA 1 & 2
PHONE 862-5070 ANYTIME!

TUT'S
248 North Street
Burlington, Vt. 05401
"A NICE LITTLE JOINT"

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

CINEMA 1&2
THE LAUGHING POLICE
7 + 9:00 p.m.
FANTASTIC PLANET
7 + 9:00 PM
FLYNN
SERPICO
Call theater for times

ESSEX TWIN CINEMA
Double Feature
LADY SINGS THE BLUES
GODFATHER
Call theater for times
SEVEN UPS
Call theater for times

STATE
DAY OF THE DOLPHIN
7 + 9:15 p.m.

SHOWCASE 1&2
THE STING
Call theater for times
No student discounts for this movie.
AMERICAN GRAFFITTI
Call theater for times

ALL CAMPUS DANCE
FEATURING
'SATIN N' STEEL'
9:00 pm
SUNDAY MAR. 10
WRIGHT DINING HALL

GOOD WITH THIS COUPON ONLY
Visit the Colonel
$1
SAVE
on a Bucket or Barrel with this coupon OFFER GOOD ONLY DURING MARCH OF 1974
COLONEL SANDERS' RECIPE
Kentucky Fried Chicken.
SHELBURNE ROAD BURLINGTON
ESSEX JUNCTION
ONE COUPON PER BUCKET OR BARREL

Audience Nods To Y

by Doug Collette

YES
Montreal Forum
February 25, 1974

When I ran wrode regally on to the stage of the Forum to the grandiose strains of an excerpt from Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite," I was prepared to be dazzled by a machine-like perfection of live playing. It's easy to succumb to the misconception that the fine Yessmen have programmed themselves, but that's far from the truth.

Yes are masters of their machines, not machinemen. Much like the Band, their demeanor in concert is exactly that of their approach to music: intense and serious, but never mechanical. Yes play as if they're barely able to control the music inside them, but if their ardor seems great, it's matched by the discipline that makes their music so commanding. Their music doesn't assault you, it pulls you in, so far in that if you're as lucky as I was, you might feel that you were part of the music. Ensnared out of them into me.

Yes' lighting and special effects were more than stimulation don't need it, the gives enough ex the mind, the b imagination. there's much em on the techn uniting, seeing them live ... electricity is a not a joy; the sounds Rick Wa from his fort for example is instruments pat medium.

The sound of so awesome t entirely possibl that it's the pr individuals play but to watch only added to because there continuity to the set. I'm sure th that, but the 'f music flows suggests a deep of their composing, arra and playing.

The modified of "Siberian K You & I," and music

by Michael Thurston

Saints & Sinners
Johnny Winter
Columbia KC 32715
No price Info

Johnny Winter has been around. He's been one of the most consistent artists to emerge from the superstar days of Joplin, Hendrix, and his product appears unchanged after years of fads and showmanship. Johnny's a showman, too, don't forget, but the premise of his existence as an artist is head-on rock and roll. After a one year bout with heroin, Johnny came back, assuring everyone from Texas to Maine that he was, indeed, still alive and well. Saints and Sinners is further testament to the Winter declaration.

Saints and Sinners, a Rick Derringer production, is the strongest and most diversified album in the Winter discography. Johnny establishes no room for misconceptions in an album of strength, focusing particularly on that breed of Texas rock that has become the Winter trademark, in addition to a generous offering of raw-vocal blues. Winter has always been an outspoken dissenter in the business of labels and categorization. In terms of his own albums, he tends to provide a variety of material and styles, in a contrived effort to avoid being pigeon-holed. Winter's ability to pull it off, without appearing misdirected or ambiguous is a credit to his veteran versitility and dimension as a man immersed, rather than capitalizing on, music.

Brother Edgar joins Johnny, as does Rick Derringer, Rich Hughes, and Randy Hobbs. Cameo artists include JoJo Gunne and Dan Hartman. The best cuts from the album include "Riot in Cell Block No. 9," "Thirty Days," a Chuck Berry tune, and "Hurtin' So Bad." Johnny's demanding guidance is tempered proportionally with a good horn section, some nice keyboard work, and excellent production, in what has to be Winter's prime attempt. Go, Johnny, go!

First Time Out
James Montgomery Band
Capricorn CP 0120
List Price $5.98

Boston's most popular export is the J. Geils Band, and in that tradition comes James Montgomery and his crew. Funky, boogie, and footstomping Montgomery carries the Geils standard one step further, adding to that energized recipe the finest of studio production. One track from the album, "I'm Funky

But I'm Clean, best. The mus same contagi immersion, bu with tight, ca and blips, hart dime and give change struc Montgomery sloppy. Everyth in time, and in-t This band northeastern, of those roots the band w methodical, an billed as 'wolc times.' It was

Album

by Dou

BRAIN SAL
Emerson, Lak
(Manticore 6
First of questions:
Why inclu
Ginesters
interpretation
Does this trio need to cont
and us that good music?
Why aren smiling? Brain most fascinat its cover art poster — Sha contains portraits of by itself is a humorlessness on this album.
Is it my i
Greg Lake b
he sounds d Evil 9" refrai roll..."? Just his cohorts damned pomp Now I'll a of Emerso
Palmer, but of thier lates product of p me, I sear

Fri and Sat
Full Pound Lobster
$4.99
YARDS OF FUN
in our
Congenial Lounge
(half yards too)
Black C

k Banjo day Evening

as rock up also ent of
and provides band's driving casional writes,

. Dan's
on the rtments,
e finest England
in the , plays
, writes,
s out on

bam. Pete Tourin, the Plowboy's bass player, has played in numerous folk and rock bands and is presently a member of the UVM Baroque Ensemble.

The combined talent of these four artists is a true experience in music appreciation, and one which you are not likely to forget. No matter what your musical mood this Friday night, the Plowboys can satisfy your needs.

Admission is $.75 with UVM I. D. or $1.50 general admission. Tickets are on sale now at the Billings Center Information Desk.

ll Potential

ianship re on all length of from its ithuristic by the ates began he aid of at we all he Polish Upon uding, we were informed that it was the conductor's birthday, and what we had been hearing was Happy Birthday in Polish! So, for an encore, the orchestra performed their best piece, something which must have been Polish in origin. With the wealth of wonderful Polish works in existence, it is a shame that more of them were not done as part of the program.

nners Announced

St. Paul ($15.00)
een Potter
re Hall

n Bruce
Burlington,
105 Mills
K. Wetzel
tion win a year's free pass to all SAFilms campus showings).

For those who are interested in the correct answers, simply drop by the Student Activities desk in Billings and ask to see the poster with the correct answers. Prizes will be in the mail shortly.

S DANCE
RING STEEL'
m
AR. 10
ING HALL

COUPON ONLY

DERS' RECIPE
ied Chicken.
D BURLINGTON
NCTION
UCKET OR BARREL

Audience Nods 'Yes' To Yes At Forum

by Doug Collette

YES
Montreal Forum
February 25, 1974

When I strode regally on to the stage of the Forum to the grandiose strains of an excerpt from Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite," I was prepared to be dazzled by a machine-like perfection of live playing. It's easy to succumb to the misconception that the five Yeomen have programmed themselves, but that's far from the truth.

Yes are masters of their machines, not machinemen. Much like the the Band, their demeanor in concert is exactly that of their approach to music: intense and serious, but never mechanical. Yes play as if they're barely able to control the music inside them, but if their ardor seems great, it's matched by the discipline that makes their music so commanding. Their music doesn't assault you, it pulls you in, so far in that if you're as lucky as I was, you might feel that you were part of the music. It poured out of them into me.

Yes' lighting and special effects were more distraction than stimulation - they simply don't need it, the music alone gives enough excitement for the mind, the body and the imagination. And while there's much emphasis placed on the technology they utilize, seeing and hearing them live proves that electricity is a tool for Yes, not a toy; the source of sounds Rick Wakeman coaxes from his fort of keyboards, for example is his head, the instruments only provide the medium.

The sound of Yes is itself so awesome that it'd be entirely possible to forget that it's the product of five individuals playing together. But to watch them interact only added to the drama because there was so much continuity to their three-hour set. I'm sure they strive for that, but the fact that the music flows so naturally suggests a deep completeness of their talents for composing, arranging, singing and playing.

The modified arrangements of "Siberian Khatru," "And You & I," and "Close to The Edge" are strikingly different from the originals, but even that seemed to have a purpose since that earlier material now has more in common with the newest Yes, Tales From Topographic Oceans. It's all up to date, even though Tales has already begun to evolve and I was really surprised that it never once became tedious; the band never repeated itself which isn't that surprising since Steve Howe and Chris Squire contribute as much as Wakeman. Alan White's playing allows those three much more latitude, the result lying music that even as it becomes more steadily anchored, grows even more ornate.

Yes deserved each of their five minute ovations and after recharging themselves as well as us with "Roundabout," "Yours Is No Disgrace" must have been awfully powerful because I thought my responses had been exhausted - it's quite a pleasurable sensation to feel as though you've been taken apart and put back together again.

New Riders Of The Purple Sage To Hitch Horses Here

The wildest of the wild west bands, the New Riders of the Purple Sage, are set to play Burlington at Memorial Auditorium April 10 at 8:30 p.m. Concert producers Community Media and UVM S.A. Concerts report that the New Riders entourage will invade Burlington the morning of the tenth armed with a tractor trailor and three vans full of equipment, other paraphernalia and a crew of at least fifteen. The group itself, which makes up a healthy portion of the Grateful Dead family (also same management and office) and now includes Skip Battin, formerly of the BYRDS, will fly into Burlington the evening of the ninth and hole up at an undisclosed location prior to pulling their first Vermont job.

About the time the Grateful Dead emigrated to Marin County, Marmaduke (John Dawson) and David Nelson (present New Riders rhythm and lead guitars) lived in Whiskey Gulch, Palo Alto; together with other swarming multitudes. Bob Hunter (Dead lyricist) brought Jerry Garcia over to hear McDuke play. And in due course, McDuke was in Jerry's living room in Larkspur and Jerry learned to play pedal steel.

Nelson had been part of the New Delhi River Band in the Palo Alto area. Hunter and Nelson named the New Riders by numerological transposition from the New Delhi River Band. Other bands, too, had formed from time to time to time, comprised of these various persons together with many others. Again yielding to compelling thirst for music, Nelson, McDuke and Garcia formed the band which would become the NRPS. Phil Lesh (Dead bass) and Hunter each were their bass for awhile. The NRPS always were five men; the personnel changed fluidly largely by accident and at convenience in those days. Buddy Cage (present New Riders steel) was in Toronto then playing loud pedal steel bars full of Canadian loggers who wanted to hear the telly instead.

Spencer Dryden (present New Riders drum) was the Jefferson Airplane drummer. "I played lots of weird straight places too, when I was growing up in L.A." He left the Airplane for Mobey Grape; then he joined the Riders. Cage was with Ian and Sylvia at the time of the notorious Trans-Canadian Festival Express, 1970, during which he met the Riders, and in the following year Jerry Garcia was busy enough with his own albums that Cage was invited to join the Riders.

The NRPS' first album, New Riders of the Purple Sage (Columbia), was released last year, with ten of John Dawson's songs including "Henry," "I Don't Know You," "Portland Woman," "Glendale Train," "Last Lonely Eagle."

The Riders toured the U.S. with the Dead in October, November and December and toured Europe in April and May of 1972. Their second album, Powerglide, released after that tour included "Sing Me A Rainbow," "California Day," "I Don't Need No Doctor," "Running Back To You," "Willie and the Hand Jive."

The New Riders' third album was Gypsy Cowboy. Featured were: "Gypsy Cowboy," "Groupie," "Death & Destruction," "Sailin'."

Their current album is Adventures of Panama Red which comes complete with a comic strip story and a famed Nashville producer, Norbert Putnam, handling the production end. The album, recorded last June, features Buffy Sainte Marie, the Memphis Horns and Donna Godchaux. Peter Rowan, older brother of the Rowan Brothers, wrote two songs: "Panama Red" and "Lonesome LA Cowboy." John Dawson provided "One Too Many Stories" and "You Should Have Seen Me Running." Dave Torbert added "Ocean (Thank the Day)," "You Know It's All Right With Me," and with Tim Hovey wrote "Important Exportin' Man." Spencer Dryden and David Nelson put in "Cement, Clay and Glass" and Robert Hunter, lyricist for the Grateful Dead, added his composition "Kick in the Head." "L.A. Lady" was composed by three Nashville songwriters, Troy Seals, Don Goodman and Will Jennings.

A new and live album is expected from the New Riders in about two weeks. Tickets are on sale now at the UVM Bookstore and Bailey's. Folks are encouraged to pick them up early as this concert is set for Memorial Auditorium and seating is only about one-half of what the Gym holds. Happy trails....

music thing

by Michael Thurston

Saints & Sinners
Johnny Winter
Columbia KC 32715
No price info

Johnny Winter has been around. He's been one of the most consistent artists to emerge from the superstar days of Joplin, Hendrix, and his product appears unchanged after years of fads and showmanship. Johnny's a showman, too, don't forget, but the premise of his existence as an artist is head-on rock and roll. After a one year bout with heroin, Johnny came back, assuring everyone from Texas to Maine that he was, indeed, still alive and well. Saints and Sinners is further testament to the Winter declaration.

Saints and Sinners, a Rick Derringer production, is the strongest and most diversified album in the Winter discography. Johnny establishes no room for misconceptions, in an album of strength, focusing particularly on that breed of Texas rock that has become the Winter trademark, in addition to a generous offering of raw-vocal blues. Winter has always been an outspoken dissenter in the business of labels and categorization. In terms of his own albums, he tends to provide a variety of material and styles, in a contrived effort to avoid being pigeon-holed. Winter's ability to pull it off, without appearing misdirected or ambiguous is a credit to his veteran versatility and dimension as a man immersed, rather than capitalizing on, music.

Brother Edgar joins Johnny, as does Rick Derringer, Rich Hughes, and Randy Hobbs. Cameo artists include JoJo Gunne and Dan Hartman. The best cuts from the album include "Riot in Cell Block No. 9," "Thirty Days," a Chuck Berry tune, and "Hurtin' So Bad." Johnny's demanding guidance is tempered proportionally with a good horn section, some nice keyboard work, and excellent production, in what has to be Winter's prime attempt. Go, Johnny, go!

First Time Out
James Montgomery Band
Capricorn CP 0120
List Price $5.98

Boston's most popular export is the J. Geils Band, and in that tradition comes James Montgomery and his crew. Funky, boogie, and footstomping Montgomery carries the Geils standard one step further, adding to that energized recipe the finest of studio production. One track from the album - "I'm Funky But I'm Clean," sums it up best. The music emits that same contagious, physical immersion, but seasons it with tight, calculated riffs and blips, sort of a stop on a dime and give ya nine cents change structure. James Montgomery Band is not sloppy. Everything's in place, in time, and in-tentional.

This band is distinctly northeastern, and are proud of those roots. The growth of the band was slow and methodical, and could well be billed as 'welcome back hard times.' It was just two years ago that the boys would pack up aside from being hard up and travel anywhere in New England for $350! Localdom and dance gigs, aside from being hard work, were the best 'rehearsals' any band can be afforded. Getting the music to the people has given James Montgomery Band the stamina and professional polish they so desperately need to stay alive in pop music. First Time Out gives James Montgomery Band a crack at the top. It's a position they've worked hard to achieve, and one they assuredly deserve.

Album Review:

Brain Salad Surgery: More Pretense Than Craftsmanship

by Doug Collette

BRAIN SALAD SURGERY
Emerson, Lake & Palmer
(Manticore 66669)

First of all, a few questions.

Why include a blurb from Ginesters lauding ELP's interpretation of "Toccata?" Does this trio feel that deep a need to convince themselves and us that they're making good music?

Why aren't these men smiling? Brain Salad Surgery's most fascinating attribute is its cover art and the enclosed poster - Shades of Chicago! - contains three dour portraits of our heroes that by itself is a good clue to the humorlessness of the music on this album.

Is it my imagination or is Greg Lake being as snide as he sounds during the "Karn Evil 9" refrain "It's rock and roll..."? Just where do he and his cohorts get off being so damned pompous?

Now I'll admit I'm no fan of Emerson, Lake and Palmer, but this denunciation of thier latest opus is not the product of prejudice. Believe me, I searched for some worth in this album, but Brain Salad Surgery is hardly any different than the set I heard them do two years ago (minus the grandstanding theatrics, of course), and it leaves me just as cold and just as bored. Emerson, Lake and Palmer have talent, they just don't realize their limits and they don't know how to use the skills they so obviously have.

The fact is, this trio really have no music they can call their own. All are seasoned musicians, having passed through such notable aggregations as the Nice (Emerson), King Crimson (Lake), and The Crazy World of Arthur Brown and Atomic Rooster (Palmer), but they continue to perform pieces like this record's major piece, "Karn Evil 9," in which they flit from idiom to another, pausing only long enough to allow any or all of the three the opportunity to spew forth some technical flash before they gallop off elsewhere. It all ends up a formless fusion of chaotic, nervous energy instead of a craftsmanship-like blend of influences.

It really amazes me though, that Emerson, Lake and Palmer can string together musical strands as they do in that longer piece or juxtapose Blake's (yes, as in the William) "Jerusalem," "Toccata," and "Benny The Bouncer." The first two are the latest pseudo-classical epics and the third is a barrelhouser that would appear to be an attempt to lighten the mood; as such, it sounds so strained, it's painful.

What's worse still, Emerson, Lake and Palmer play alone together. They don't coalesce in their ensembel playing as any musical group should and at best, while one solos, the others accompany unimaginatively. At worst, it sounds like simultaneous soloing and while that approach can of course spark some fiery musicianship, when ELP do it, they sound like a musical representation of three Mack trucks harreline full speed down a two-lane highway. Collisions galore and lots of noise.

Emerson, Lake and Palmer obviously respect each other enough to play together, but they don't give each other or their trio as an overall entity the kind of direction necessary to create music that's both unique and personal. Instrumental prowess is not enough: Palmer is a brilliant percussionist, but Lake is no more than capable in his roles as bassist, guitarist, vocalist, composer, and producer.

Emerson is vastly overrated — technically, he's as good as it gets (except on the synthesizer where he produces sounds that wouldn't make the soundtrack of a grade-c sci-fi flick) but the emotional content of his playing is virtually nil. Keith just doesn't seem to know which way to go.

And that's the story of Emerson, Lake and Palmer. The sensationalism of Brain Salad Surgery substantiates that fakery by which they pretend their music is much more that it really is. It may dazzle someone who likes what he doesn't understand, but anyone who sees past the guise knows there's nothing to understand.

$1.00 SPECIAL $1.00
DOLLAR SHOWING
SERPICO
Today (3/7) 4:00 P.M.
Merrill's Showcase 1 + 2
Williston Road
TICKETS ONLY AVAILABLE AT
BILLINGS CENTER
TODAY $1.00

bedspreads
bells
rugs
beads
pillows
antler pipes tapestries
hookahs
chess sets
wall hangings
boxes
mirrors
leather hats
Tiffany buckles
bags windchimes candles
silver turquoise and bone jewelry
oils
mugs incense
tea sets
toiletries
planters occult books
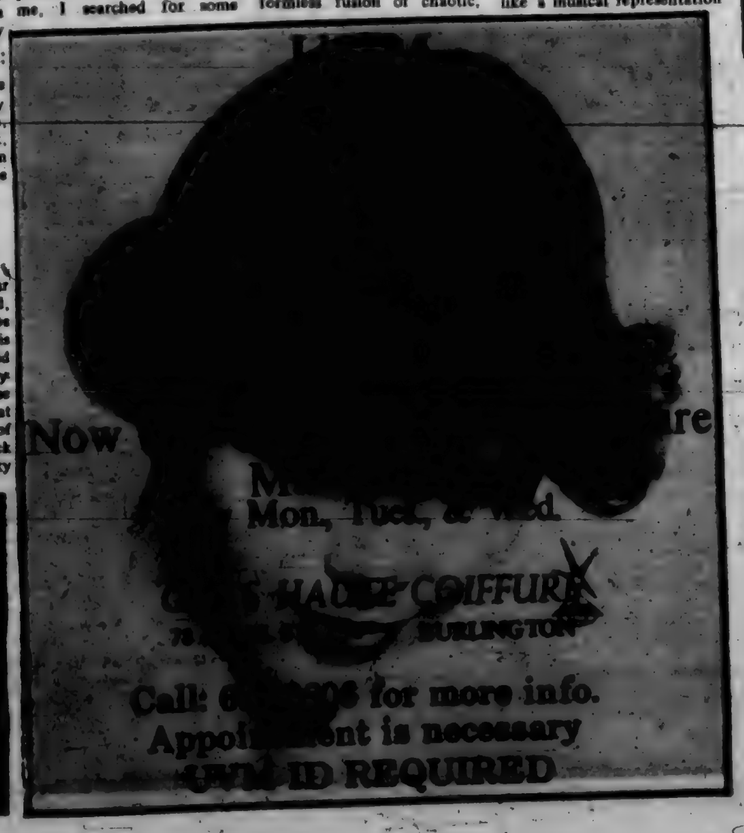
statues
Corgazil
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
Imports
boutique
10% off with this ad
802-862-3718
shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.



Fri. and Sat.
Full Pound Lobster
YARDS OF FUN
in our
Carpeted Lounge
(half yards too)

Fresh Ground coffee house Menu March 4-30
175 Church Street
Burlington, Vt. 05401
Mon-Thurs-11:30 AM - 10:00 PM,
Fri. Sat - 11:30 A.M. - 12 Midnight

Monday (3)	Tuesday (4)	Wednesday (5)	Thursday (6)	Friday (7)	Saturday (8)
Manzelli 1.65 Kabobs Pasta e Fagioli Soup	Sweet & Sour Pork or Veges 1.65 Chinese Vegetable Soup	Budapest Goulash 1.75 Cream of Mushroom Soup	Mexican Torte 1.75 Chicken Creole Gumbo Soup	Fillets Au Papillote 1.85 Magic Mixes Soup	Russian Beef Kabob 1.85 Russian Cabbage Borscht
March (10)	March (11)	March (12)	March (13)	March (14)	March (15)
Lasagna 1.65 Meat Balls Mulligatawny Soup	Eggplant Rollantine 1.75 Olla Podrida Soup	Mediterranean fish Stew 1.65 Mushroom Barley Soup	Lasagna 1.65 Knickerbocker Bean Soup	Crêpe 1.75 Provençale French Onion Soup	Cream 2.25 Baked Chicken Cream of Spinach Soup
March (17)	March (18)	March (19)	March (20)	March (21)	March (22)
Stuffed Pepper & spaghetti 1.65 Minestrone	Curry Chicken 1.65 & Veges Dutch Potato Soup	Beef Potatoes Americaine 1.65 Lentil Soup	Eggplant 1.85 Parmigiana w/ Navy Bean Soup	Sauerbraten 2.25 Cream of Celery Soup	Crêpe 1.75 Edinburgen Cockie Leekie Soup
March (24)	March (25)	March (26)	March (27)	March (28)	March (29)
Ham Crest 1.75 Main Black Bean Soup	Crêpe Cannelloni 1.75 Cream of Chicken Soup	Provencal gnocchi 1.75 Essence of Mushroom Soup	Enchiladas 1.70 Soupe Mexicaine	Paillard de Sole 1.95 Cream of Broccoli Soup	Sweet & Sour Chicken 1.85 Mulligatawny

Plus Everyday: Chili con Carne, Ratatouille, Salads, diet approved dishes, hot and cold beverages, sandwiches, and a variety of pastries

Karate : The Empty Hand Is A Weapon

by John Lippincott

Note: This is the second article in a series on the Martial Arts.

Karate is probably the most widely known and most misunderstood of the martial arts. Movies like "The Five Fingers of Death" and "Deep Thrust" have added to the confusion about karate, as well as the popularity.

Karate, among other things, is a system of fighting in which every part of the body that can effectively be utilized in attack or defense is used to its maximum efficiency. This means that the feet, knees, hands, elbows, and even the head can be used to strike or to block incoming blows.

In short, a karate student (karateka) learns to use his body as a weapon. He will learn how to kick, punch, and block through practice and hard work. At the same time he will be developing his body, his strength, his flexibility, speed and coordination.

The karateka uses two primary learning tools to perfect his technique. One is kumite. At the beginning, kumite consists of a series of attacking and defensive movements that is practiced with a partner at slow speed. Eventually, kumite becomes an open, non-contact, full-speed contest in which each karateka will use everything he has learned. The other tool is kata. Kata is a prescribed, precise, series of movements or forms that are the very essence of karate. Kata is generally done alone and whether it is done slowly or with speed, it is as finely studied as ballet.

The history of karate is lost in the legends of ancient China. The legends ascribe the development of karate to any one of a number of priests, doctors, or scholars, sometime between 100 and 900 AD. It is more probable that there were a number of regional styles of fighting and that they came together during the Manchu Dynasty.

Those people who supported the Mings (the rulers of China before the Manchus took power) were ruthlessly hunted out by the Manchu administration. For the most part, the Ming supporters were intellectuals and priests and they would have been versed in the fighting arts. The Ming supporters banded together in parts of China and waged a guerrilla-type war on the Manchu Dynasty. During this time the many styles of "karate" developed into one more or less homogeneous style of fighting.

Karate came to Japan primarily through Okinawa, which was originally Chinese territory. About 1600 the Japanese conquered Okinawa, and banned the possession of weapons. The already popular styles of unarmed combat flourished under this pressure. The Japanese have never been a people to pass a good thing by and, true to form, took karate back to Japan with them.

Today karate is known and studied all over the world. The major forms have come to be: Kung Fu, from China; Karate, from Japan; and Tae Kwon Do, from Korea. Besides the major forms, there are many different styles that all fall under the heading of karate. These styles reflect differences in emphasis or history. Whatever the style, karate is a worthwhile pursuit, leading to a harmony of mind and body, a sense of self-confidence, and, most important, an attitude that makes fighting unnecessary.

There are a number of karate schools in the area: Academy of Okinawan Karate, Uechi Associates, and Vermont Academy 2. These are professionally run schools and it will cost you a little to study. Or you can study at UVM, where Jim Ennis teaches Shaolin Kempo on Mondays and Wednesdays at 8 p.m. in the Wrestling Room at the Gym.

Craft Corner: Tiffany Lamp Shade

by Melody Martin

Burning candles to conserve energy? Piece together a Tiffany shade to add a little spice to your night light. It's easy to make and won't use up much time or empty your penny jar.

You will need a gallon glass mayonaise or pickle jar, and lid, a bottle cutter, three or four sheets of tinted glass, two bottles of liquid lead, glue and a small candle.

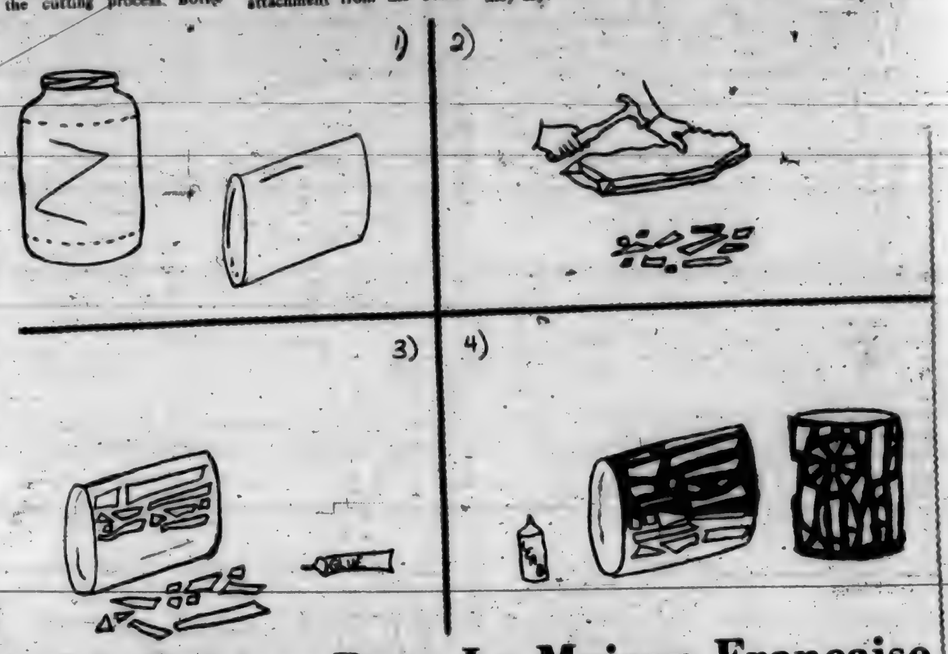
Ask at one of the dining halls or a restaurant for the gallon jar and lid. Be sure the lid fits because you'll use it in the cutting process. Bottle cutters can be expensive so it's wise to hunt around first and borrow from a friend if possible. Wash the jar thoroughly making sure you get all of the label off and wipe it dry. Cut off the top and bottom of the jar close to the curves for a taller cylinder. It will look like a stove pipe. Sand the sharp edges and wash. Be sure to save the lid.

Wash and dry the tinted glass. Cut the sheets in half (smaller sheets are easier to handle) with the glass cutter attachment from the bottle cutter. Cut up small pieces in desired shapes or put the sheets in a thick paper bag and break into bits with a hammer. You can get 8"x10" sheets of stained glass at "Russell's Hobby and Craft Center" on Pearl St. The textured glass is better because the glue is visible on the smoother sheets.

Stick pieces on the glass cylinder with a transparent or glass glue leaving a small space between them. Vary colors as you glue them on turning the cylinder slowly as they dry.

Squeeze liquid lead between pieces and around the top and bottom. After the lead has dried you might want to put on more to build up desired thickness.

Trim the candle wick and light it. Drip a few drops of wax in the center of the lid and stand the candle in it. This will keep your candle from tipping over. Now put the shade over the burning candle and watch the warm smiles appear!



Featured Recipes Of The Week

Summer Honey Taffy

Ingredients:
- 2 cups crystalized honey
- 1/8 cup evaporated milk
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Directions:

In large saucepan mix honey, milk, butter, and salt. Cook, stirring until mixture is clear. Continue cooking until a small amount of the mixture dropped in cold water forms a soft ball. Remove from heat and cool pan quickly in shallow, cold water, until lukewarm. Add vanilla and walnuts. Beat until mixture is thick. Pour into buttered 9 inch pan. When firm, cut into squares and wrap in saran wrap.

–Amy Bickford
381 Main Street

BARBEQUED SPARE RIBS

Brown the ribs for 15 minutes in 450 degree oven. Meanwhile mix over low heat two tablespoons each:
- onion flakes
- Worcestershire Sauce
- vinegar
- prepared mustard

Add: 3/4 cup or more of catsup to taste.

Reduce heat to 350 degrees and pour sauce on ribs. Bake for 45 to 50 minutes. Baste occasionally. Serve extra sauce over rice.

Freshman Register

The collection company involved with last year's Freshman Register wishes it to be known that they did not sue anyone.

Correction

In last week's issue, February 28,1974, Steve Rollins' name was erroneously used in a headline for a column written by Steve Ring in support of Peter MacAusland for S.A. President. Apologies to all concerned.

Qui Voudrait Habiter Dans La Maison Francaise

The French Residence Hall, La Maison Francaise, will be open during the academic year 1974-75 to Sophomore, Junior and Senior Men and Women who can and want to use the French Language as their prime means of communication. Those students desiring to live in La Maison Francaise next year should fill out and sign a special form which can be obtained in the Romance Language Department in the Secretary's Office, Room 520 Waterman, between 9 a.m. and 12 noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m., Monday March 4 through Friday March 15. These forms will be sent to Melle Suchet (520 Waterman) before March 18.

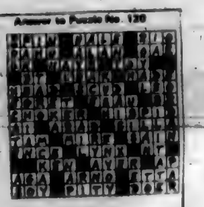
More information about La Maison Francaise may be obtained from Mrs. Geno, Mademoiselle Suchet or any other French Instructor.

Order of Priority

1. Students who intend to major in French are encouraged to live in La Maison Francaise.
2. Student planning to spend a year in France under the VOSP are encouraged to precede their overseas experience by living in La Maison Francaise.
3. Seniors planning to teach French, should plan to spend at least a year in La Maison Francaise.
4. Students currently living in La Maison Francaise and those returning to the U. S. after a year in Nice, France, with the VOSP.
5. All other interested students.

crossword puzzle

Answer to Puzzle No. 120



ACROSS
1 Kraft and ...
5 Which
8 Big man on campus (sl.)
12 Neglect
13 Shadowbox Indian
14 Singer Harris
15 Your opponent will get a kick out of this activity
17 Hawaiian dress
19 Inhabitants of the Emerald Isle
20 Disgusting (coll.)
21 Smartly stylish
23 City in Northern France where a heresy was burned (13 c.)
26 In the country of 28 Poems
29 Tombstone abbreviation
31 – rosin
32 Bernie Parent
35 Words for "Sir" with Lord
36 Dairy
38 Clerk
39 Beneath
39 Combining form: personal
41 Take out, as a letter or word
43 Kind of tiger
46 Unspoken
48 Grad
49 Immoral
50 Iowa city
51 Newspaper item (coll.)
52 Evasion
54 A certain event
55 Rocket
56 Set of mark
57 Jonathon publisher, 1869-1915

DOWN
1 Horse gait
2 Poet Khayyam
3 Judge who wants Nixon's tapes
4 Hide for future use (coll.)
5 Shade
6 – coat
7 Aired
8 Enlightened advancement
9 Biography
10 Burden
11 Cosmetics (pl.)
18 Demonstrative adjective
22 Repulsive
25 Brief dramatic piece
27 Available
24 Which was to be proved (lab.)
25 "One" in Valencia
27 Wishbone Cherry
29 Suffix: citizen of 30 Skin disease
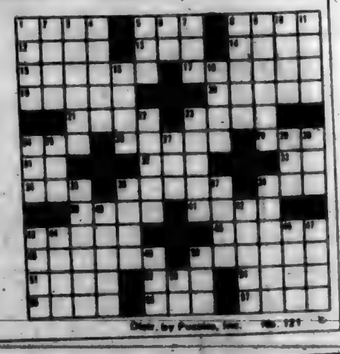
33 Warning
35 Play: There's a — in my Soup
37 Third son of Adam
38 Agitated
40 Bewilder
40 Combining form: on the left (var.)
43 Comedian Silvers
44 Fine rate (coll.)
46 Movie: The Seven Year —
47 Pedal digits
48 Impolite
50 Kind of – reaction (coll.)
53 Office of (immigration (ab.)



Dist. by Publishers Hall Syn. No. 121

The Most Complete Selection Anywhere of

BOOKS FOR MORE SELF-SUFFICIENT LIVING

'The GardenWay'

How many of these subjects interest you?

Making a living in the country	Mulching
Buying country property	Companion planting
Home building and remodeling	Dwarf fruit trees
Vegetable gardening for beginners and experts	Plant propagation
Soil improvement	Pruning, grafting
Canning and freezing, modern, easy methods	Goat-keeping, bee-keeping, rabbits
"Plain" living	Quilt making
Flowers, ground-covers and rock gardening	Low-cost greenhouses
Methane digesters	Growing plants indoors
Soybean cooking	Hydroponics and container gardening
Spinning and dyeing	Vegetarian cooking
Macrame	Natural foods
Solar Energy	Wine and beer-making
Pole Building	Simplified house care
Wild edibles	Carpentry, plumbing, electricity made easy
Mushrooming	Candle-making
Camping, back-packing	Wilderness survival
Skiing: cross-country	Fireplaces – planning, building: curing smoky fireplaces
Homemade cheeses	and many, many more
Canoeing	Organic gardening
Wind power	Pest and insect control, biological and other methods
Where it's still pleasant to live in the U.S.A.	Earthworms
Herb gardening

Here at Garden Way we specialize in publications covering every phase of self-sufficient living. Most are those of other publishers, but a goodly number we publish ourselves right here in Vermont where self-reliance is the time honored way and the treasured skills, handed down from many generations, still abound.

On our shelves and in our 72 page catalog are books we believe will be most worthy of your time and money. Here is a wealth of expert advice on growing vegetables and fruits, preserving and preparing food, poultry and livestock raising, house building, wiring, plumbing, maintenance, making a living in the country, crafts, hobbies, country lore and customs, etc., etc.

If you are interested in self-sufficient living, in making your income go a lot further, you'll be completely delighted.

The Garden Way Living Center carries the hard-to-find tools to help you live a less consumptive – more self-sufficient life. We carry many products relating to subjects listed above like the Troy-Bilt Rota Tiller, beekeeping and poultry supplies, wood burning stoves, chain saws, canning and freezing supplies, and many more.

So:
*Please stop by for a free copy of our book, catalog.
*Browse through all these wonderful books and bulletins.
*Ask us questions, if we can't answer right out of our own knowledge and experience, we'll help you seek the answer in our reference library or from our panel of experts living in this area.
*See our fascinating displays of tools, equipment and supplies for Garden Way Living... many, many items you won't find anywhere else in this area.

GARDEN WAY LIVING CENTER

1186 Williston Rd., next to Alpine Shop
Open daily 8:30–5:30, Fridays 8:30–9:00

SHELTER $6.00

In times past, people built their own homes, grew their own food, made their own clothes. Knowledge of the building crafts and other skills of providing life's basic need were generally passed along from father to son, mother to daughter, master to Apprentice. Then with industrialization and the population shift to the cities, this knowledge was put aside and much of it has now been lost.

This book is not about going off to live in a cave and growing all one's own food. It is not based on the idea that everyone can find an acre in the country or upon a sentimental attachment to the past. It is rather about finding new and necessary balance in our lives between what can be done by hand and what still must be done by machine. This book is about simple homes, natural materials and human resourcefulness. It is about discovery, hard work, the joys of self sufficiency and freedom.

It is about SHELTER, which is more than a roof overhead.

SHELTER is a truly outstanding compendium of domestic architecture from around the world and throughout history. Hundreds & hundreds of pictures, excellent textual analysis, and bibliography.

The Vermont Book Shop — 100 DORSET ST. S. BURLINGTON — OPEN: 10-5 (MON-FRI) 10-5 (SAT) — 862-8513

The Air Force Pilot has it made. Air Force ROTC will help you make it.

Here's how.
If you qualify, the Air Force ROTC will give you free flying lessons. It'll be in a Cessna 150—you're started towards the day when you'll solo in an Air Force jet.
That's only one of the fringe benefits of the Air Force ROTC Program. Consider all this:
Scholarships—6,500 of them that cover full tuition. Plus reimbursement for textbooks. Plus lab and incidental fees.
Plus $100 a month, tax-free, to use as you like.

Interested? Contact: Dept. of Aerospace studies, Saint Michael's College, Winooski, Vermont. Capt. Charles M. Shane.
at 655-2000 (802) ext. 281.

Get your college career off the ground in Air Force ROTC.

Where The Whipp... Or, We L...

Last week, to the best of its ability, this colum... the phenomenon known as Hannibul's. We co... review with an anecdote from the Bar Review A... of the reviewers, in a vain attempt at being urb... a sombrero to find it presented without a ... compulsory topping, whipped cream. Q... basketball-forward-sized bartender yielded the... suggestion (i. e. a jerked-upwards thumb)... inquisitive reviewer move upstairs for his dam... cream. At his suggestion, TBR (The Bar Revie... upstairs, zealous guardians of the public trust t... counting the steps from the lower landing t... (According to three counts on different eveni... twenty-two, should you be interested. Makes... question.)

B. T. McGuire's is a tough place for us to de... we can't make up our minds if it is a satellite o... the Downstairs. Second, product and service... expect for the price, bartenders, waitresses, ... continue the standards of excellence found... Libation is teensi-weensily costly, serving the ... of keeping the lunatics Downstairs and ar... obviously mind-boggling expenses of interio... Sandwiches are among the better served alon... St. Strip: they are substantial meals serv...

Photograph... Contest

The Cynic announces the "Fourth A... Photography Contest." The rules are as follow...

1. The contest is open to all students of the ... Vermont who are amateurs. (Amateurs will ... those people who do not support themselv... pictures.)
2. The pictures will be divided into the t... categories: faces, landscaping, and other ... category of other subjects will include an... included in the categories of faces and landsc...
3. All photographs will be black and whit... approximately 8 by 10 inches. There is n... number of photographs that each photo... submit.
4. The pictures submitted will be the pr... Vermont Cynic which will have the e... photographer to publish them in the newspap...
5. The Vermont Cynic has the right ... photographer to submit a subject release f... those people who may appear in the photogr...
6. The pictures may have been taken at a... present.
7. Pictures entered in the Fourth ... Photography Contest could not have been... other photography contest sponsored by th...
8. Photographs will be judged on pr... composition by a board of judges.
9. The board of judges will consist of w... Student Photography Service, Mike Hill ... Photo Service, and Gene Peroni of the U... Center. The judges will be ineligible to ent...
10. All photographs should be placed in... or the SA desk.
11. The photographer's name, address... number should be lightly printed in pencil ... each photograph submitted, along with a ti...
12. Deadline for entries will be March 18...
13. One winner will be chosen from e... the winners will be announced in the Apr... Cynic.
14. The winner in each category will rece...
15. All questions should be referred dir... office in Billings, 658-4911.

Please fill out ...

ADV...

NAME...
ADDRES...
YEAR...
TELEPH...

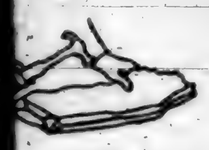
Lamp Shade

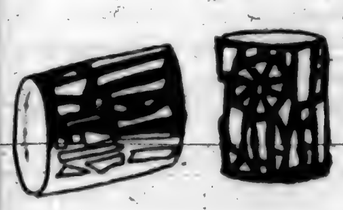
...p small pieces in ...es or put the ... thick paper bag ...nto bits with a ...u can get 8"x10" ...stained glass at ...obby and Craft ... Pearl St. The ...am . is : better ... glue is visible on ... sheets.

...ce on the glass ...h a transparent or ... leaving a small ...ces them. Very ...ou glue them on ... cylinder slowly as

Squeeze liquid lead between pieces and around the top and bottom. After the lead has dried you might want to put on more to build up desired thickness.

Trim the candle wick and light it. Drip a few drops of wax in the center of the lid and stand the candle in it. This will keep your candle from tipping over. Now put the shade over the burning candle and watch the warm smiles appear!





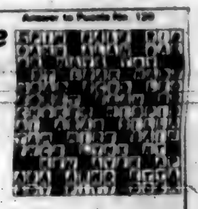
...aison Francaise

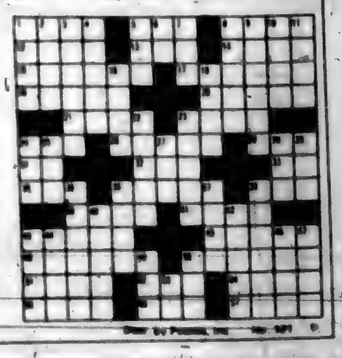
...year in La Maison ... after a year in Nice, France, with the VOSP.

...nts currently living ...son Francaise and ...rning to the U. S.

5. All other interested students.

...sword puzzle





The Air Force Pilot has it made. Air Force ROTC ...ll help you make it.

...e's how.
...ou qualify, the Air Force ROTC will give ... free flying lessons. It'll be in a Cessna 150—...re started towards the day when you'll solo ...n Air Force jet.
...t's only one of the fringe benefits of the Air ...ce ROTC Program. Consider all this: ...olarships—6,500 of them that cover full tui-... Plus reimbursement for textbooks. Plus ... and incidental fees. ...e $100 a month, tax-free, to use as you like.

...erested? Contact: Dept. of Aerospace studies, ...nt Michael's College, Winooski, Vermont, ...or. Charles M. Shane. ...655-2000 (802) ext. 281.

...your college career off the ground in Air ...ce ROTC.

Where The Whipped Cream Is: Or, We Love You, Pedro Patachas

Last week, to the best of its ability, this column analysed the phenomenon known as Hannibal's. We concluded our review with an anecdote from the Bar Review Archives: one of the reviewers, in a vain attempt at being urbane, ordered a sombrero to find it presented without a sombrero's compulsory topping, whipped cream. Querying the basketball-forward-sized bartender yielded the non-verbal suggestion (i. e. a jerked-upwards thumb) that the inquisitive reviewer move upstairs for his damned whipped cream. At his suggestion, TBR (The Bar Review) staggered upstairs, zealous guardians of the public trust that they are, counting the steps from the lower landing to the upper. (According to three counts on different evenings, there are twenty-two, should you be interested. Makes a fine trivia question.)

B. T. McGuire's is a tough place for us to deal with. First, we can't make up our minds if it is a satellite or a sibling of the Downstairs. Second, product and service are what we expect for the price; bartenders, waitresses, and bouncers continue the standards of excellence found downstairs. Libation is teensi-weensily costly, serving the dual function of keeping the lunatics Downstairs and amortizing the obviously mind-boggling expenses of interior decoration. Sandwiches are among the better served along the Church St. Strip; they are substantial meals served with the recently-instituted standard of pickledom, the elusive kosher half-sour. (We heard someone complain about these pickles recently; some people never know when they are well off.) However, buried underneath the sandwich is a collection of those awful adolescent late-night munchies, sour cream-and-onion potato chips.

While we admire the quality of product and service, we quarrel with the atmosphere; here, B. T.'s problem is that its quest for quality went upscale. The decorators forgot the admonition of a temporarily-forgotten German architect, "Less is more." Like TBR often, McGuire's is overdone.

One of the beauties of a quiet bar is that the atmosphere allows the mind to wander unhindered by the groupthink of required raucousness. McGuire's sought to provide that quiet bar as an escape from the madness Downstairs; we can't fully determine if it functions to keep the weirdos at street-level away from the unimaginative reputables upstairs, or vice versa.

Despite the drink, food, and delivery, the atmosphere is one of a museum of opulent Victoriana that positively victorianizes you. The decor compels a cloudy retrospective of past troubles, not the imaginings of a hopeful future. Imagination is restrained; you search your memory for a dirty joke and you retrieve one about pachyderms. (a "pachyderm" is an elephant.) Boogie is a four-letter word.

A bar is often a place to escape to, a place to bury the past temporarily. McGuire's evokes past memories; martini-guzzling, pinky-extended, tweed-jacketed, broad-"A" memories. The joyful experience of a Westchester WASP wedding between two competing stockbrokerage families with all the gin, mixed nuts, and wedding cake you can consume. Dad shot in the high nineties today and won't come down to dinner and there goes getting the keys for the Country Squire to take her to the Senior Prom in. It is the return of patched madras. It is home; home for all the children sired by the well-placed phonecall; the products of suburban wealth guaranteeing straight white teeth, four years of college, and a job with The Firm after graduation.

The opulence of B. T. McGuire's is almost funereal. No matter what the music is, it always seems to be a slow, gut-tightening Roberta Flack ballad atmosphere. It is the place to hold your head if you are a second-semester senior jockette lamenting the unsuccessful search Downstairs for the coveted diamond, constantly confronted with those having considerably less permanent intentions. Others, by investing textbook money in bourbon, regret the apparent impossibility of ever being Marcus Welby or Clarence Darrow. Faculty members can sit there, drunkenly cursing themselves for being surrounded by nincompoops who can't write, won't read, and will never think.

It is heaven for those who inherited their self-image, and are satisfied. For those still learning theirs, the atmosphere creates an agonizing review of the past.

Godalmighty, couldn't they leave well enough alone? Left a few pictures of Grandma and Grandpa and the sepia-tinted house at Pooh Corners, Kans. back in the attic where they belong. Left the beautiful brickwork on the southern wall less cluttered. Left that beautiful, soaring high ceiling do the thing that a high ceiling does, instead of building a claustrophobia-inducing upside-down partial Victorian hockey rink to obscure the view. McGuire's is like this column often; your imagining will be done for you. With food, drink, and people working there so excellent, why create such an atmosphere?

As usual, the best summary is found on the men's room wall: "Pedro Patachas was here and has been in other places."

The Redwood

The next time a Prof in one of those introductory Sociology/Social Welfare courses, in an attempt to enlighten his suburban Susies to "how it really is" over on the wrong side of the tracks, sends you down to North Street to "observe" and "briefly describe your observations" (in five pages or less, double spaced, of course), forget your camera, notebooks, and planned interview with the director of the Urban Center and instead spend the afternoon in the Redwood. You won't have to put up with the OVP-brand missionary zeal of the Urban Center director who seeks to rewrite Rudyard Kipling to

(continued on page twelve)

Photography Contest

The Cynic announces the "Fourth Annual Cynic Photography Contest." The rules are as follows:

1. The contest is open to all students of the University of Vermont who are amateurs. (Amateurs will be considered those people who do not support themselves by taking pictures.)
2. The pictures will be divided into the three following categories: faces, landscaping, and other subjects. The category of other subjects will include any picture not included in the categories of faces and landscapes.
3. All photographs will be black and white and will be approximately 8 by 10 inches. There is no limit to the number of photographs that each photographer may submit.
4. The pictures submitted will be the property of the Vermont Cynic which will have the consent of the photographer to publish them in the newspaper.
5. The Vermont Cynic has the right to request the photographer to submit a subject release form signed by those people who may appear in the photograph.
6. The pictures may have been taken at any time, past or present.
7. Pictures entered in the Fourth Annual Cynic Photography Contest could not have been entered in any other photography contest sponsored by the Cynic.
8. Photographs will be judged on print quality and composition by a board of judges.
9. The board of judges will consist of Wynn Gold of the Student Photography Service, Mike Hill of the University Photo Service, and Gene Peroni of the Living and Learning Center. The judges will be ineligible to enter the contest.
10. All photographs should be placed in the Cynic office or the SA desk.
11. The photographer's name, address, and telephone number should be lightly printed in pencil on the back of each photograph submitted, along with a title, if any.
12. Deadline for entries will be March 18, 1974.
13. One winner will be chosen from each category and the winners will be announced in the April 11 issue of the Cynic.
14. The winner in each category will receive $25.00.
15. All questions should be referred directly to the Cynic office in Billings, 658-4911.

«the doctor's bag»

by Arnold Werner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner
Box 974, Lansing, Mi. 48823

QUESTION: I am presently not eating meat and have been assured by several books and people that quality protein is more easily assimilated by eating cheese, milk, nuts, etc.

Recently, I have also read that dairy products may be bad to eat too. Do you think it's safe to eat only fruits and vegetables and drink their juices and, of course, drink water? A higher mental plane is said to be achieved, along with the disappearance of earthly or physical ailments. The protein requirement is satisfied by consuming the various amino acids present in fruits and vegetables.

ANSWER: An adequate diet is entirely possible to achieve without eating any meat since ample amount of necessary proteins can be obtained from milk, eggs, soy beans and other foods. However, once one abandons milk, cheese and eggs and moves to a more completely vegetarian diet, it becomes more and more difficult to maintain adequate nutrition and vitamin intake.

Eating only fruits and vegetables is bound to result in malnutrition sooner or later unless you are living in a metabolic research unit where they can carefully measure what they are putting into you and supplement your diet with various concentrated forms of certain foods.

I suspect that the higher mental plane achieved with such diets is hard to differentiate from the giddiness some people experience when they are delirious. I would discourage you strongly from trying any of the diets that eliminate dairy products.

QUESTION: Is it possible, physically and legally, for a women to rape a man? A member of a group interested in your response to this question cited an article about an Amazon civilization in which rape by women was a common mating practice. Is there any truth to this tale, or is it merely feminist propaganda?

ANSWER: Rape is defined as sexual contact between a man and an unwilling woman with violence or the threat of violence. According to common legal definitions a person cannot be raped by someone of the same sex, nor can a woman rape a man. Part of the problem with the legal definitions is that rape is treated as a sexual offense rather than a crime of violence.

A man would have an easier time getting a conviction than he would getting an erection in the situation you describe. In most frightening circumstances a man's capacity to perform sexually disappears. It is only because of anatomic considerations that a woman is capable of being raped. For her, the major issue is still physical assault, not sex.

I have no information on the Amazon civilization to which you refer, but suspect that someone is confusing ritual mating activities with genuine violence.

••••••••••

QUESTION: Throughout the years of reading your column, I have no recollection of you ever commenting on the use of mechancial vibrators by women to achieve an orgasm. Would you please comment on the "pros" and "cons" of this procedure for single women who have no regular sexual partners.

ANSWER: You missed it. A few years ago I indicated that the use of electrical vibrators was perfectly safe as long as they are correctly grounded so there would be no shock hazard. Many of the vibrators sold specifically for purposes of sexual stimulation are battery operated and seem to present no electrical hazard.

Masturbation as a means of sexual release is a perfectly satisfactory arrangement for the person who has no regular sexual partner or who feels the need for sexual release more often than one's partner does, whether the person is a man or a woman. Since the object of masturbating is to provide sexual pleasure, I hardly see what difference it makes if one uses the classical manual approaches or resorts to mechancial and electrical devices. Surely the energy crisis will be none the worse for electrical vibrators.

The key issue in self stimulation is the fact that many people have been taught that it is wrong and feel guilty or uncomfortable doing it. There are in addition, some people who just do not find masturbation pleasurable. Masturbation need not be considered an obligatory activity, not doing it is also alright.

••••••••••

QUESTION: I have a sensitive penis. After intercourse, I develop small cracks on my penis which can cause pain and soreness, especially during erection. I have been told this is due to a common vaginal acid. One time the acid caused such pain that continued erection was impossible. I understand I can use a condom to couteract this, but problems can arise, especially if the girl feels I do not trust her claim that she uses birth control. A discussion of the problem is also very mood breaking. Is there any other way to solve my problem?

ANSWER: Penises are extraordinary sensitive devices. The end of the penis, or glans, is especially sensitive being the area where the greatest number of nerve endings are concentrated. Many men have such sensitive penises that they experience great pain on stimulation of the glans following orgasm, but you seem to be describing something else.

The slight amount of acidity that might exist in the vagina is certainly not enough to cause disintegration of your penis. The most likely explanation is that you have a condition known as balanitis, an inflammation of the end of the penis, in which small cracks of the skin are not uncommon. With erection, stretching of the skin occurs and the cracks can open and just about anything will cause pain. The condition almost always occurs in the uncircumcised.

Curing it requires exposing the glans to air for substantial periods of time with the foreskin pulled back. Since it is illegal in most jurisdictions to stroll around with one's penis waving in the breeze, you can resort to small interludes of nudity in your domicile. This is often not enough. Therefore, if it is balanitis that you suffer from and you are not circumcised, circumcision is recommended. A visit to a urologist can help define your situation more accurately.

JOB OPENINGS

Thinking about next semester? about working and getting paid?

WELL, STAND UP

WE NEED YOU

BUT TIME IS SHORT

People to sell advertising for this newspaper starting next semester.

A chance to express your creative ability.
Commissions paid.

Please fill out the below form and return to the:

Vermont Cynic
ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT
Box 20
Billings Center

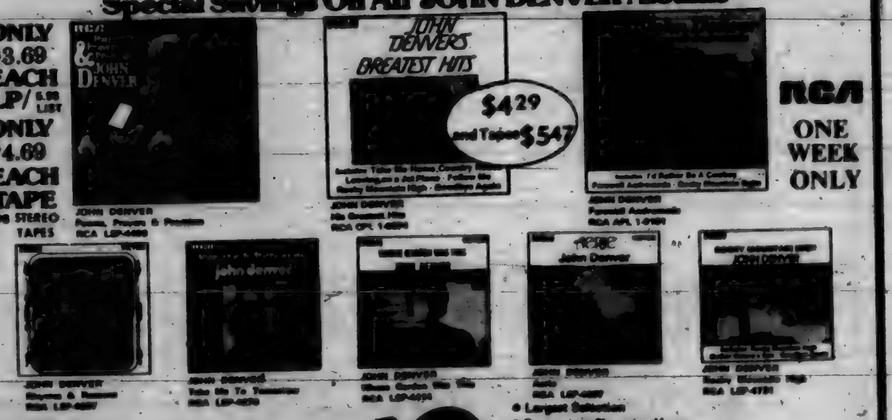
NAME_____
ADDRESS_____
YEAR_____
TELEPHONE_____

J.D. SUPERSTAR

And be sure to watch the JOHN DENVER TV SHOW Monday night March 11 CHANNEL 22 9-10 PM

Special Savings On All JOHN DENVER Albums

ONLY $3.69 EACH LP/ 6.98 LIST
ONLY $4.69 EACH TAPE 6.98 STEREO TAPES



ONE WEEK ONLY

discount records

- Largest Selection
- Convenient Shopping Hours
- Every Lp & Tape Guaranteed New
- Expert Salespersons to Assist You
- Bank Americard & Master Charge Credit

93 CHURCH ST
- Next to Magrams
- Burlington 863-4587

Store Hours Monday thru Friday 10:00 a.m. - 9 p.m.
- Saturday 10 a.m. - 6 p.m.

A Day In The Life: The Folks At SAGA

by Scott Cahoon

They call it the Green Death, but everyone gets hungry sooner or later. So bravely you truck on down to the dining hall and get in the queue. You hate standing in lines, but you don't want to be late for your 6 p.m. class. Finally you get to show your meal card and you head for the serving line.

After grabbing a tray and some silverware, you throw a look of disgust in the direction of today's offering. "If you can identify it, I'll eat it," you say to the girl serving the food. Congratulating yourself on your cleverness, you slide on down the line, pick up a stray dessert here and there, and carry your loaded tray out into the dining hall.

As you hurry through your meal (6:00 comes pretty fast, and that prof has an evil eye) the guy next to you starts getting creative. He mixes his mashed potatoes with pumpkin pie and thousand island dressing, then pours in coffee and grape drink. He smokes a cigarette over it, tossing in the match and generously sprinkling ashes over the concoction, and as a final touch, puts out his butt in the middle of it. Justifiably proud, he carries his tray away from the grossed-out table to the dish room.

In the dish room there's a person waiting to clean up that mess. (S)he's about as impressed with this particular work of art as the girl on the serving line was impressed by your witty comment. Someone does and says things like this at practically every meal.

The people behind the serving line, in the dish room, and the person who punches your meal card are all UVM students. They make up a large part of the Saga work force. At Waterman dining hall for example, there are 60 students working part-time with 25 full-time workers.

Earl Thorgaisen works in the dish room at Waterman. There are four basic jobs there: sorting out the dirty dishes and cleaning off the excess food, loading the dishwasher, unloading the dishwasher at the other end, and running the clean dishes out to the serving line. It gets brutally hot in there sometimes, especially in the Spring.

"The job doesn't require any great mental ability," he says. "You have to shut your mind off from what you're doing. It's very tedious and boring."

Barbara George works in the dish room too, ("The ventilation isn't too bad, unless there's a delivery truck parked outside") but she also spends time behind the serving line, stocking the desserts and other things. Her sentiments about the job almost echo Earl's.

"It's monotonous, tedious and mindless. It may seem like a fun thing to serve all those people coming through, but they end up as just a blur. The only thing I enjoy is seeing people I know that I haven't seen around campus."

Hedy Gross is a former Saga employee who spent some time working at Waterman behind the serving line and also as a ticket checker. "It wasn't like I hated it," she says. "It was very simple. I'm used to working in New York, and the attitude is much more casual here. But it was boring. It was a very menial, boring job."

People get a starting pay of $1.60 an hour on the serving line, $1.70 in the dish room. Up until about a year ago, the serving line was all women, the dish room had all men. Even now, one is predominantly female while the other is predominantly male.

Allen Dwyer, manager of the Waterman cafeteria, is very vague on the subject of pay raises. He says that part-time help gets a five-cent raise each semester, "or something like that." Earl, who has worked for Saga for five semesters, says he has had only two raises in that time. The full-time help get regular raises but, says Barbara, "the part-timers are really discriminated against" in terms of pay.

Saga employees have to pay for their meals. In fact, they are charged for the meals whether they eat there or not. They can't take time off for meals, either. They have to eat first and then punch in.

Manager Dwyer reports that the average student employee stays for one semester.

"Working there five days a week is really brutal," says Earl, who has cut down since his first days at Saga. "You just get so frustrated. One day we broke about $100 worth of dishes. He (the manager) blamed it on us, but it wasn't our fault. It was because there weren't enough people there to do all the work."

"There's no reward for doing a good job. Lots of days I haven't felt like going in, but you go in because the people that work there are your friends. It's not hurting the manager when you don't go in, it's hurting the people you work with."

Working for Saga may not seem very desirable, but it is often the only job available to students in the Burlington area. Barbara and Earl have jobs which fit in with their schedules, and they don't have to worry about transportation since they can walk to work. But to add to the other hassles, there is little or no job security.

"If a manager doesn't like you, he can fire you," Earl reports. Hedy confirms the statement. "Firing and hiring are completely arbitrary," she says. "If you do something that displeases the boss, he can fire you."

Hedy speaks from personal experience. She accidentally slept through her shift one day and was consequently fired, even though other employees had missed work more often for flimsier reasons. If a manager likes a person, she says, that person gets raises and special favors.

Barbara complains about the attitude of the students towards those working. "We're not treated like people. They demand things and are very disrespectful." Earl reports that they get notes in the dish room complaining about the food "as if we were the ones that cooked it."

Apparently people are friendlier toward the ticket checker. "There's a lot of flirtation," says Hedy. "There's no fear that they'll have to stop and be clever. But there was one guy who was very obnoxious. I used to dread his coming in every night. You're a captive, chained to that desk."

There are a couple of good aspects to the job. "The full-time women that work there are really nice people," says Barbara. "They treat us with respect as people, unlike the students. They are probably why I still work there. One of them talked to the manager about a raise for myself and another person, and she really didn't have to."

"Working at Saga gives you a different perspective on working-class people," says Earl. "Most students are in a sheltered environment as far as other people are concerned. It makes you appreciate what an education is."

From Boston, The Dead End Kids (formerly Park Street Under, who opened for Edgar Winter at UVM and have played with such boogie greats as J. Geils, Canned Heat, the Doobie Brothers, Sha Na Na and the Beach Boys) will be appearing at the "Rock and Rolling Lacrosse Ball" on Sunday March 17 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in MAT dining hall. Tickets — one dollar ($1.00) — benefitting the Lacrosse Club can be purchased now at the University Store and will also be available at the door.

Committee Works To Improve Input

by Sig Heller

Today with many students feeling weak and powerless when dealing with academic problems, a recently reformed Student Advisory Committee in the College of Arts and Sciences is working hard to change the situation.

The Student Advisory Group, also called the Dean's Advisory Committee, had for many years been just one of many student groups set up on campus for give advice which was rarely if ever listened to. Last year, however, a concerned few from the political science department decided that maybe this committee could play a more active and functional role.

Bill Wachtell, the new chairman of the Dean's Advisory Committee, has some interesting views as to the present situation and ways to improve it. He believes students have been "conditioned to have a certain scope" when dealing with the University and feel "stifled" when trying to insert input. Wachtell stated that students don't get involved because they feel they have no voice and have no direction as to which channel is open to their opinions.

The Student Advisory Committee has been created, Wachtell said, "to lift the consciousness of students, make the issues and procedures more visable, and to try to expand the role of students in decision making." He stated that student representation from all departments should be revitalized; at present there are few departments that allow students to take an active part in department affairs.

In the past few months, the Dean's Advisory Group has taken some important steps to become a functional, worthwhile committee. "We do have voting power and are playing active roles on university committees." The advisory group consists of two representatives from each department in the College of Arts and Sciences. These student representatives serve on various university committees such as Admissions, Studies, Curriculum, and Faculty Standards.

Wachtell claimed that the Dean of Arts and Sciences had been very cooperative but "these good relations may be because we haven't done anything to really upset him."

The Student Advisory Group has many plans for the future. They include a Student Information and Advocacy Board that would provide access to information and procedures that are needed in solving problems in the academic aspect of campus. Also, a handbook is planned that would explain "who to go to for what."

The committee meets Wednesday nights and meetings are open to all.

S.A. Presidential Candidates Do Not Favor Major Change. . .

(continued from page one)

Governing Board, believes the S.A. President should "coordinate all the Senate's activities by acting as a spokesman to the administration and an advisor to all S.A. organizations."

He supports the S.A.'s present structure, claiming that there are too many complications involved in changing. "The S.A. should be a good representation of both students' rights and finances. The change to two senates would be a bureaucratic mess. If the Senate is handled the way it should be, it could be effective and efficient," he stated.

MacAusland, an art major who hopes to work in the field of furniture design, commented on his candidacy: "I feel I have a way of communicating with people. If elected, I would talk to each senator on a one-to-one basis and show him his responsibilities. If he didn't work, I'd go to his constituency." MacAusland feels this would close the gap between the senators and the students. The major problem of the present S.A., he contends, is that it's a closed organization with no efficient means for students to coordinate input."

Hoping to provide more ways for students to communicate with their Senators, he would like to post minutes of Senate activities in every dormitory. He wants the Senators to act as the liasons between students and the university. Additionally, MacAusland, who wants town senators to have meetings with their constituencies, favors the recall of senators who have missed more than three S.A. meetings. "My first priority," he added, "is bringing the Senators and the students together."

MacAusland, unlike Cassidy, does not support a new student union. "Billings may be inadequate and overcrowded, but the atmosphere is what most people like. If you centralize everything, other places such as dorms, will become dead."

MacAusland supports the idea of more diversified activities all over campus. He does not advocate a liquor license for Billings because "it would become just a place to drink, totally changing the atmosphere. There are places downtown to drink."

Mario Macias

A junior from Union City, New Jersey, Mario Macias is a UVA worker and a member of the UVM basketball team. Macias, a social welfare major, hopes to go to law school.

Macias wants to "get involved with issues that concern students." He cited the treatment of the handicapped and equal-opportunity employment at UVM for women and minorities as examples. Macias also wants to send out a newsletter to everyone telling them what S.A. is doing.

"The newsletter can be a beginning," he stated. "If the student body doesn't get behind the S.A., nothing will be done. The S.A. should do something to show the students what they're doing—help with problems such as the Philosophy Four and the Parenti affair by putting pressure on the administration."

Macias supports the idea of more S.A. interest in off-campus affairs. He would like to see the Senate investigate rents and conditions of student apartments.

He advocates a change in the organization of the Concert Bureau by letting promoters bid on the performers and the price, instead of having student organizers. "I don't see how students can give us good concerts when they don't know anything about promoters," he contended.

"You don't need any major changes in the structure of the Senate. You need good Senators. The structure is good and can be made to work," commented Macias.

Steve Rollins

Steve Rollins, the fourth S.A. Presidential candiate, would like to be "the official representative of students, pulling things together on campus, coordinating the whole campus."

A junior from Chester, Vermont, one of Rollins' main priorities would be to have S.A. activities more publicized. "I want to make things come alive by getting things to the students through the media. Students don't appreciate what a lot of organizations have." In conjunction with this, he would like to set up an organizational fair, possibly on Redstone Campus.

Rollins, a political science major with aspirations in public administration, favors a reorganization of the Senate. "For future years, I'd like to see it all change. The basic problem is too many people, although we don't want an elitist group either." He advocateds decreasing the number of senators by having each senator represent a larger constituency.

Rollins' major plans include a major Winter Weekend and raft race. This, he feels, could bring students together and get them more involved in the Student Association.

"Every year the S.A. policy is a shambles," commented Steve Rollins. "If you could get certain permanent people, such as a faculty advisor, to help with the transition, S.A. could be a viable organ. You must get everything well publicized though."

Rollins wants all Concert Bureau openings to be widely advertized. He also favors the new student union building, including a liquor license.

One of Rollins' main criticisms of the S.A. is "When the President of the S.A. goes to the administration representing the students, he often comes back representing the administration."

Women's...

(continued from page one)

functions, since adolescence and menopause are difficult periods of transition in women's lives." Julie Delaricheliere is working with people at St. Michael's and Trinity to establish a consciousness-raising program for high-school freshmen girls in Vermont.

The next caucus meeting will be held March 14, Thursday, at noon in Given Cafeteria. All UVM faculty, staff and students, women and men, are invited to attend.

POVERTY, CHASTITY, OBEDIENCE
THEY CAN BE JUST THREE WORDS
OR THEY CAN BE A WAY OF LIFE

TO LIVE SO TOTALLY THE WORDS OF JESUS CHRIST THAT ALL MEN SEE IN US HIS PRESENCE AGAIN

BRING HIM AND HIS MESSAGE TO MANKIND TODAY IN THE MISSION LANDS OF THE DEEP SOUTH, AND THE SPANISH MISSIONS OF POOR VENEZUELAN PEOPLE; OR BRING CHRIST TO YOUTH THROUGH WORK IN AN EDUCATIONAL APOSTOLATE

IF YOU LIKE SHARING, LOVING, AND TRUSTING IN CHRIST'S WAY OF LIFE, MAYBE IT IS TIME TO BE SENT TODAY AS HIS SERVANT

Society of St. Edmund

For free information write

Admissions Director
Enders Island
Mystic, Connecticut 06355

S S E

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE
Retail Outlet
FANTASTIC SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS

PASSOVER SEDER
APRIL 6, 1974

Hillel Foundation and Saga Food Service are combining to provide a Passover seder to anyone interested in participating. Throughout the remaining week of Passover, complete meal service will be provided for those interested, by reservation only.

SEDER:
Place: Harris-Millis Dining Hall
Date: April 6, 1974, at 7:00 P.M.
Cost: $5.50 for meal ticket holders, $7.00 for others.
Reservations for Seder and/or meal plan are mandatory and are due at Hillel no later than March 20, 1974.
For more information, contact:
Brad Gordon at 656-3430
or
Mrs. Blistein at 656-3488, 864-7183 before 9:00 P.M.

IS CHANGE POSSIBLE?

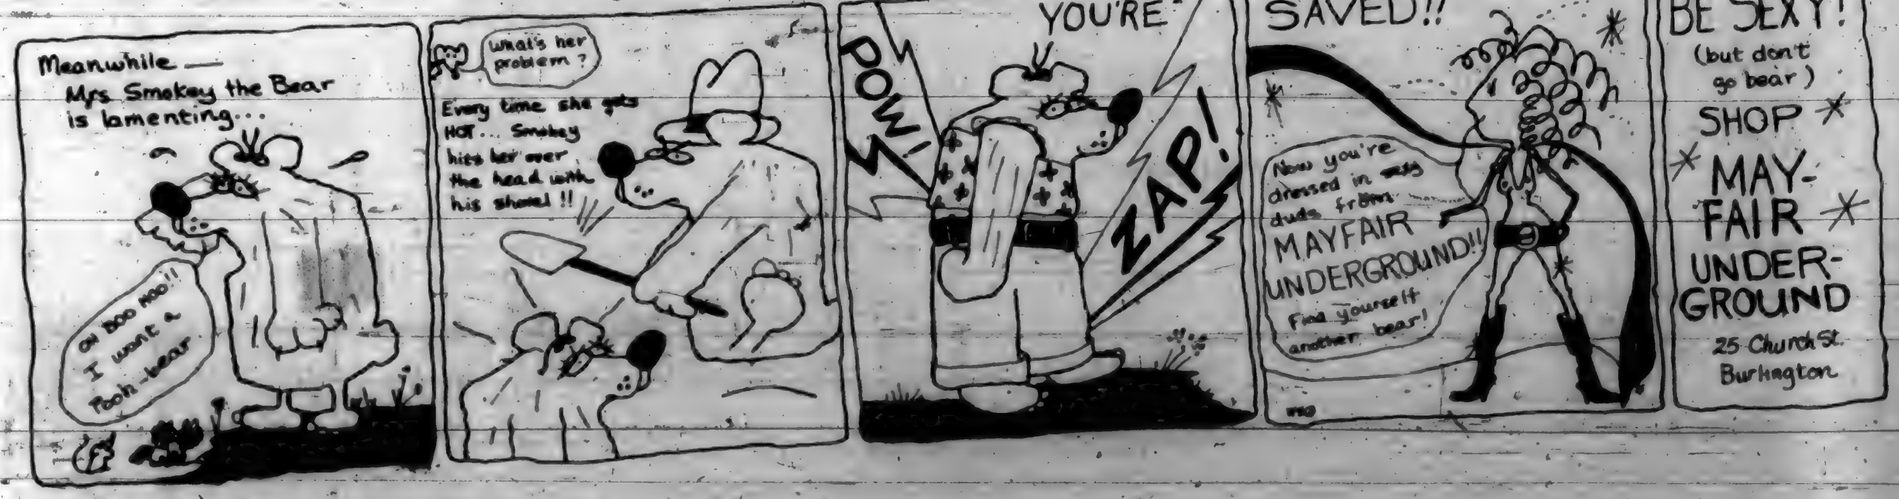
We're a newly formed public interest foundation, dedicated to fundamental social change, especially through public school education. We hope to contribute toward a less materialistic, competitive, and warlike world, and to the development of more interpersonal and humanistic values. Our independent long term funding enables us to develop pilot projects in non traditional human development areas, and to deal with issues only a significant social representation.

We NEED students, faculty, concerned individuals who are very intelligent, competent, smart, articulate, creative, resourceful, energetic, imaginative and committed.

Let us know your thoughts. We hope to hear an optimistic word.

IF YOU IDENTIFY WITH OUR OBJECTIVES CONTACT US AT:
S.E.R. Foundation
1711 16th St. NW rm. 8
Wash. D.C. 20009

BIGGEST PAYING JOBS IN SOC. CHANGE PROJ. OR ACADEMIC CREDIT



Historic Christian

February 18 in ...gton, the Reverend Sun ... Moon, of the ...cation Church heralded New Future of ...tianity." The ...ersality Christian ...rship asked Phil Adams, ... staff in Vermont, to ... on Reverend Moon's ...efs. Phil Adams ...onstrated that Rev. ...n's New Christianity ...rs greatly from historic ...tianity.

...ev. Moon professes to be ...prophet, based on an ...erience in which he claims ... Jesus Christ appeared to ... gave him a revelation, ... commissioned him to ...ad this "new truth" ...ughout the world. In this ...erience he was shown ...e true meaning" of the ...le, and thereby received ... key to unlock its ...steries. Rev. Moon claims ...at the Bible is not literally ...e but is totally symbolic.

...his words the Bible is ...itten in a secret code, ...locked only by the keys of ...un Myung Moon. The Jews, ...e says, did not recognize the ...essiah because they clung to ...he literal meanjng of the Old ...estament, father than ...ooking to the symbolic ...eaning. This view stands ...pposed to Jesus' teachings, ...since he quoted it often as ...authority, introducing the ...ext by the phrase, "It stands ...written..."

Rev. Moon's view of God ...and Christ is very difficult to ...put together. It is clear that ...he doesn't think of Jesus as being more than man, in the sense of being God in ... historic Christ... contends. This is ... view of salvation, ... man is perfected and ... by improving his love ... "saved" by "uniting ... Christ in His sacrifice ... love for others ... crucifixion of Christ ... Moon's belief accor... nothing in terms o... man, but it is sim... failure of God to esta... Kingdom on earth ... Jesus. As we lovingly ... ourselves and perf... love, we are saved. T... is consistent wit... Moon's view of "cre... that God identifies ... with the universe by ... with and becoming ... creation, thereby s... Himself. As God an... Himself in creation.

Senior

by Steven C. F...
Secretary, Senior Council

Enthusiasm is ... among members of ... class as the semest... closer to its end Sp... by the officers of ... Class Council ... advisor Arthur M. ... number of activ... been planned.

A Student-Alum... Day is slated for S... the Living/Learni... sponsored by th... Class, Alumni O... Placement Office...

'the exchange': Clearing Hou...

by Margo Howland

"The exchange" is an exciting new program designed to let the voices of the University be not only heard, but answered as well, by referring complaints, suggestions, and other remarks to the appropriate levels. It then follows up on these comments by informing the interested party of what action has been or will be taken regarding the situation.

Jointly sponsored by "The Next Thing" and the University of Vermont Counseling and Testing, "the exchange" was a product of many minds" according to assistant director John Lippincott.

Dr. Kaye Schmucker originated the program, and Dr. Richard Does, Director of Counseling and Testing, with Bruce Lavine, acted as coordinators.

"They thought it would be a good idea to see if there was a pulse at the University that wanted to be taken. It's pretty much e... now," Lippincott ...

He continued: ... of "the exchange ... clearing house ... and negative feed... all levels of the ... My fantasy is th... some points that ... taken care of. "T... serves as a ... facilitating ... within the UVM ...

"Students ... questions, compliments, ... comments on ... form. "The exc... keep track of d...

"We'll try to ... at the appro... know of the com... what action can ... will get in tou... person who had ... and tell him ... action will be ta...

The action ... upon the na... complaint. S...

Presidential Candid...

(continued from page one)

said. He said that he would merge the concert, the speakers and the films offices. The new organization would have a hired full-time director rather than a student director. Cassidy suggested this would lead to "continuity." He called for more student advocacy, a new student center, and a solution to the S. A. "ripoff" by graduate students. Graduate students do not pay the S. A. fee of $21.50.

MacAusland admitted that he was not familiar with the operation of the S. A. He emphasized student-senator communication. Ringing a worn bell he stated that "We have to get rid of student apathy."

Macias was concerned with minority hiring procedures and barriers to handicapped persons. He urged student involvement in the S. A. "Students should get an account of S. A... noted.

"We just ha... to the admin... hustle." This ... solution ... ineffectiveness. ... elected he wo... winter week ... would unify ... winter festivit...

DUN...
cam... bo...
MAZE...
CLINIQU... is at the mayfai...

mittee Works nprove Input

...y students ... power ... h academic ... (recently ... Advisory ... (College of ... is working ... attention ... Advisory ... the Dean's ... tee, had for ... just one of ... oups set up ... give advice ... ly if ever ... land year. ... cerned few ... ical science ... ended that ... mittee could ... active and ...

... The new ... the Dean's ... mittee, has ... views as to ... tration and ... rove it. He ... ts have been ... to have a ... when dealing ... rsity and feel ... trying to ... Schnell stated ... don't get ... use they feel ... voice and have ... as to which ... pen to their ...

... at: Advisory ... been created, ... "to lift the ... of students, ... issues and ... re visible, and ... nd the role of ... sion making." ... that student ...

...Major Change. . .

... n by letting ... d on the ... d the price. ... ving student ... don't see how ... give us good ... they don't ... thing about ... (extended)? ... I need any ... es in the ... n Senate You ... Senators. The ... od and can be ... " commented ...

Rollins-... ns, the fourth ... ntial candidate, ... he "the official ... of students, ... "together on ... ordinating the ... ... from Chester, ... e of Rollins' ... would be to ... ctivities more ... want to make ... alive by getting ... the students, ... media. Students ... le what a lot of ... have." In ... with this, he ... to set up an ... fair, possibly ... campus ... political science ... aspirations in ... istration, favors ... ation of the ... future years. I'd ... all change. The ... n is too many ... ough we don't ... st group either." ... In decreasing the ... nators by having ... r represent a ... ency.

Rollins' major plans include a major Winter Weekend and raft race. This, he feels, could bring students together and get them more involved in the Student Association.

"Every year the S.A. polick it a shambles," commented Steve Rollins. "If you could get certain permanent people, such as a faculty advisor, to help with the transition, S.A. could be a viable organ. You must get everything well publicized though."

Rollins wants all Concert Bureau openings to be widely advertized. He also favors the new student union building, including a liquor license.

One of Rollins' main criticisms of the S.A. is "When the President of the S.A. goes to the administration representing the students, he often comes back representing the administration."

representation from all departments should be revitalized, at present there are few departments that allow students to take an active part in department affairs.

In the past few months, the Dean's Advisory Group has taken some important steps to become a functional, worthwhile committee. "We do have voting power and are playing active roles on university committees." The advisory group consists of two representatives from each department in the College of Arts and Sciences. These student representatives serve on various university committees such as Admissions, Studies, Curriculum, and Faculty Standards.

Wachtell claimed that the Dean of Arts and Sciences had been very cooperative but "these good relations may be because we haven't done anything to really upset him."

The Student Advisory Group has many plans for the future. They include a Student Information and Advocacy Board that would provide access to information and procedures that are needed in solving problems in the academic aspect of campus. Also, a handbook is planned that would explain "who to go to for what."

The committee meets Wednesday nights and meetings are open to all.

Women's...

(continued from page one)

functions, since adolescence and menopause are difficult periods of transition in women's lives. Julie Delarischeliere is working with people at St. Michael's and Trinity to establish a consciousness-raising program for high-school freshmen girls in Vermont.

The next caucus meeting will be held March 14, Thursday, at noon in Given Cafeteria. All UVM faculty, staff and students, women and men, are invited to attend.

HANGE POSSIBLE?

...

...NTIFY WITH OUR OBJECTIVES CONTACT US AT:
...N SOC. CHANGE PROJ. OR ACADEMIC CREDIT
S.E.E. Foundation 1711 18th St. NW rm. 1 Wash. D.C. 20009

BE SEXY!
(but don't go bear)
SHOP
MAY-FAIR
UNDER-GROUND
25 Church St.
Burlington

Historic Christianity Vs. Reverend Moon

On February 18 in ...ington, the Reverend Sun ...ung Moon of the ...fication Church heralded ...e New Future of ...ristianity." The ...iversity Christian ...owship asked Phil Adams, ...F staff in Vermont, to ...k on Reverend Moon's ...ings. Phil Adams ...onstrated that Rev. ...n's New Christianity ...ers greatly from historic ...istianity.

...lev. Moon professes to be ... prophet, based on an ...perience in which he claims ...t Jesus Christ appeared to ...n, gave him a revelation, ...d commissioned him to ...read this "new truth" ...roughout the world. In this ...perience he was shown ...he true meaning" of the ...ible, and thereby received ...e key to unlock its ...ysteries. Rev. Moon claims ...at the Bible is not literally ...ue but is totally symbolic. ...o his words the Bible is ...itten in a secret code, ...nlocked only by the keys of ...n Myung Moon. The Jews, ...f say, did not recognize the ...Messiah because they clung to ...he literal meaning of the Old ...Testament, rather than ...looking to the symbolic ...meaning. This view stands ...opposed to Jesus' teachings, ...since he quoted it often as ...authority, introducing the ...text by the phrase, "It stands ...written..."

Rev. Moon's view of God and Christ is very difficult to put together. It is clear that he doesn't think of Jesus as being more than man, in the sense of being God in flesh as historic Christianity contends. This is clear in his view of salvation, wherein man is perfected and glorified by improving his love. We are "saved" by "uniting with" Christ in His sacrificial life of love for others. The crucifixion of Christ in Rev. Moon's belief accomplishes nothing in terms of saving man, but it is simply the failure of God to establish His Kingdom on earth through Jesus. As we lovingly give of ourselves and perfect our love, we are saved. This view is consistent with Rev. Moon's view of "creation" in that God identifies himself with the universe by merging with and becoming part of creation, thereby sacrificing Himself. As God annihilated Himself in creation, man is saved by a self-sacrifice and identification, with Christ, leading to man's annihilation.

Rev. Moon greatly emphasizes his prophecy of a coming Messiah born of a woman. In preparation for this event, the Kingdom of God must be set up in the western free world. The free world will be organized against communism, under this new Christianity and the Messiah, and will engulf the communist world. This view contrasts Jesus' words to his disciples in Matthew 28 where He states, "All authority on Heaven and earth is given to Me. Go therefore and make disciples of all nations," and promised to return in power and great glory to execute judgement on the world. The New Testament clearly teaches that the bounds of Christ's kingdom do not conform to man's political demarcations.

Reverend Moon's general world view is totally different from the Bible's teaching that God created the universe, which is external to and separate from himself. Man is hopelessly lost in his own sin and rebellion against the Creator, and therefore if he is saved from the judgement to come, must be saved supernaturally by God. Jesus comes as God in the flesh, and suffers the judgement of God, bearing the sin of man, that those who have faith in Him might be saved. The Scripture's contention that this is true is not based on one man's vision, but upon God's revelation of Himself in history, for every man to see.

Chain Letters Rip-Off UVM Students

(continued from page one)

accumulated total of thirty-one people are involved (7 + (8 + 16)). By the seventh series of transactions, at which time Messrs. Finnlem and Quickbuck will have reached the top of their list, the ever growing number of people involved will have risen to 255.

So far so good. Things are expanding nicely. Enter Miss Desiree Monnaie who pays $10 for the current list (Series of Transaction Number 8) with accompanying high hopes for a financial score. Knowing the only way to collect her waiting fortune is for her name to reach the top of the 128 (27) lists of those to follow, she gets out early one morning to sell her valuable lists. It will take only six more series of transactions (bringing the total to 14 until the money comes rolling in.

"No sweat! I've got loads of friends at other colleges. I'll just sell my lists someplace else."

Banking upon the faith of

A quick reference table might prove handy at this point: (see below)

Even Ms. Monnaie might be a bit disconcerted to learn that even if every person at UVM was willing to cooperate, there wouldn't be enough people around to sell all the lists to! Note that although Ms. Monnaie only needs the involvement of 255 people before she collects, she represents just one exponential extension of a previous 128 (27) people. Thus a total population of 32,767 would be necessary to absorb all the lists which have been generated after fourtern series of transactions.

A paradoxical logic, the unsuspecting buyer's realm of perspective lies within the bounds of the ever growing pyramid of exponential growth. She knows how many people must follow in the progression before she sits upon the throne, but is unaware of the number of people which preceeded her in that progression. To wit, in the 13 series of transactions which follow her purchase of the list, the chain population will have surpassed that of the United States; and in four more, that of the world. Considering only a small percentage of that number will be willing to buy the list, is it any wonder why two measely lists would be so hard to sell?

"Hey, that means I don't make my twenty bucks back!"

"Now you're catching on."

Series of Transactions (Powers of Two)	Number of People	Total Chain Population
0	1	1
1	2	3
2	4	7
3	8	15
4	16	31
5	32	63
6	64	127
7	128	255
8	256	511
9	512	1,023
10	1,024	2,047
11	2,048	4,095
12	4,096	8,191
13	8,192	16,383
14	16,384	32,767
15	32,768	65,535
16	65,536	131,071
17	131,072	262,143
18	262,144	524,287
19	524,288	1,048,575
20	1,048,576	2,097,151
27	134,217,728	268,435,455
31	2,147,483,648	4,294,967,295

A Way Out

It is still possible to beat the system. Who will know that you knocked off number four man on the list and put in the name of a collaborating friend to collect for both of you. Sure fewer people will have lists with your friend's name on it when he reaches the top but chances are a lot higher that the two of you will collect something. For that matter, seven friends could get together, start their own list and agree to split the income, which is probably how this whole thing started.

It is conceivable that if enough people kept their lists, we could trace who the originators were. In the meantime, the easy money bug is still loose about campus, biting those it can while its victim is left watching his "zero investment" transform into a fruitless $20 spent on a list he cannot sell. And while those lucky few no doubt will be rejoicing on the way to the bank, what of those still waiting?

Senior Council Plans Senior Activities

by Steven C. Rice
Secretary, Senior Class Council

Enthusiasm is operating among members of the senior class as the semester comes closer to its end. Spearheaded by the officers of the Senior Class Council and class advisor Arthur M. Brink Jr., a number of activities have been planned.

A Student-Alumni Career Day is slated for Saturday at the Living/Learning Center, sponsored by the Senior Class, Alumni Office, and Placement Office. Students will be given an opportunity to seek a clearer understanding of their post-graduate plans and how they might be able to fulfill them.

Brink, alumni secretary, hopes the program will create an atmosphere in which students feel comfortable asking questions about their future goals. The event, though opened to the entire campus, is being tailored especially for juniors and seniors.

The day will begin at 9 a.m. with registration. There will be group sessions in each of the eight topic career areas from 10 - 12 a.m. and from 2 - 4 p.m. Students may elect to attend one of the two-hour sessions. Registration for this will take place at the Alumni Office or Placement Office or at the main desk in Billings Center.

The topic areas and the alumni leaders are as follows:

- Allied Health Sciences, John P. Richwagon, administrator at Rutland Hospital, Rutland, Vermont, Class of 1958.
- Business Administration, J. Davis Marshall, personnel manager of Communications Systems Division of GTE Sylvania Inc., Class of 1966.
- Agriculture, Ray W. Allen, owner of the Allenholm Farm in South Hero, Vermont, Class of 1959.
- Civil Service in Vermont, Mrs. Sarah Cobb Philbrook, personnel recruitment chief for the State of Vermont, Class of 1954.
- Engineering, Kenneth McDonald, IBM.
- Food Service, Frederick A. Smith, SAGA food service director at the University of Vermont, Class of 1961.
- Social Services, Naomi Shapiro, social worker at the Howard Mental Services, Class of 1973.

Much planning has gone into the first annual career day, and it is hoped by those involved that a good turn-out will be on hand for the activities.

The Senior Class Council is also planning a Senior Beer-Pizza Party at the Commons Building of Living/Learning Center, Saturday, March 16, beginning at 8 p.m. It is anticipated that a number of seniors will attend and perhaps have some ideas for senior activities week in May.

In other business, the Senior Class Council has adopted a stand on commencement exercises, May 18 and 19. At the urging of President Match Cooperman, a meeting has been set with Dean John Weiger of the College of Arts and Sciences, March 13, to discuss the possibility of having a student speaker at the ceremonies. A list of the college's ceremonies will appear in next week's Cynic.

Seniors are encouraged by the class officers to attend the weekly Thursday meetings near the fireplace, Commons Building, Living/Learning, beginning at 8 p.m.

'the exchange':
Clearing House For Communication

by Margo Howland

"The exchange" is an exciting new program designed to let the voices of the University be not only heard, but answered as well, by referring complaints, suggestions, and other remarks to the appropriate levels. It then follows up on those comments by informing the interested party of what action has been or will be taken regarding the situation.

Jointly sponsored by "The Next Thing" and the University of Vermont Counseling and Testing, "the exchange" was a product of many minds" according to assistant director John Lippincott.

Dr. Kaye Schmucker originated the program, and Dr. Richard Does, Director of Counseling and Testing, with Bruce Levine, acted as coordinators.

"They thought it would be a good idea to see if there was a pulse at the University that wanted to be taken. It's pretty much experimental now," Lippincott stated.

He continued: "The object of "the exchange is to act as a clearing house for positive and negative feedback within all levels of the University. My fantasy is that there are sore points that need to be taken care of. "The exchange" serves as a medium for facilitating communication within the UVM community. "Students write their questions, criticisms, compliments, or other comments on an "exchange" form. "The exchange" will keep track of different areas.

"We'll try to let the people at the appropriate levels know of the complaint, to see what action can be taken. We will get in touch with the person who had the question, and tell him or her what action will be taken."

The action will depend upon the nature of the complaint. Some bogus complaints are expected ("that's part of the whole trip and there's no sense getting upset about it") It is important, however, for people to take this seriously.

"We are operating off the premise that people want to make life easier for other people. This deals not only with complaints, but with what makes people happy. For example, people love the S.A. movies. A communication to that effect will occur, and there is a possibility for action," said Lippincott. He elaborated further.

"Given a hypothetical complaint that is important, yet the agencies involved are unknown, "exchange" would find out at what level the problem can be remedied and whom to approach.

"A person faced with a personal grievance might not know where to get some kind of relief. Here, Counseling and Testing can serve as a vehicle for communication.

"An example might be someone who's afraid to walk through Waterman at night. We would contact Campus Security. If the person indicated a desire for counseling, we would refer him or her to Counseling and Testing."

Response to the 'exchange' comments are crucial to the success of the program. It is therefore in the student's own interest to put at least a first name and phone number on the "exchange" forms. The more specific the input, the more specific the output; and the easier it is to deal with the situation, Lippincott declared. One form of response to indicate what action is underway might be through a column in the Cynic.

Lippincott hopes that the administration and staff will make as much use of this as the students.

Posters will be going up all over campus explaining the program procedure. Boxes are being put in Billings, dorm complexes, dining halls and other frequently-visited locations. The complete listing of the box locations will appear in next week's Cynic. Until then, "exchange" cards or letters may be put in campus mail to:

"The exchange"
Counseling and Testing
146 South Williams Street

Presidential Candidates...

(continued from page one)

said. He said that he would merge the concert, the speakers and the films offices. The new organization would have a hired full-time director rather than a student director. Cassidy suggested this would lead to "continuity." He called for more student advocacy, a new student center, and a solution to the S. A. "ripoff" by graduate students. Graduate students do not pay the S. A. fee of $21.50.

MacAusland admitted that he was not familiar with the operation of the S. A. He emphasized student-senator communication. Ringing a worn bell he stated that "We have to get rid of student apathy."

Macias was concerned with minority hiring procedures and barriers to handicapped persons. He urged student involvement in the S. A. "Students should get an account of S. A. money," he noted.

"We just have to get over to the administration and hustle." This was Rollin's solution to S. A. ineffectiveness. If he were elected he would establish a winter week office which would unify students in winter festivities.

DUNHAM'S
campus boots
HAZEL'S SHOE STORE
100 North Street

CLINIQUE
is at the mayfair

Becoming a physician is a tremendous satisfaction.
Let us give you the job satisfaction that should go with it.

Whether you're still in medical school with the rigors of three to five years of graduate medical education still to be faced, or are already a practicing physician, it's our opinion that the Air Force can offer both professional and personal satisfaction hard to duplicate on civilian life.

An overstatement? Not if you consider the specifics.

Take the problem of graduate medical education. It's a period of your life the Air Force can make considerably easier with considerable salary and living compliments.

Crescent cushions aside, the Air Force offers professional advantages. Besides receiving training in your own specialty, you'd be in contact with physicians in all of the medical specialties. You'll function in an environment which is intellectually stimulating and professionally challenging.

Not all physicians pursue post residency fellowships. But if you are interested, the Air Force considers them both in-house and civilian institutions.

The physician already in practice can look forward to other things. If you want training in the practice of the medicine of the future, you'll find it in the Air Force. For example, there's emphasis on group medicine and preventive medicine, and the growing specialty of "family physician." Whatever your interest, there are few specialties which are not being practiced in today's Air Force.

The physician intending has practice in civilian life has to take into account the cost of setting up an office. The physician commencing his practice in the Air Force does not. He finds his office established for him. Suppliers and equipment readily available. He has many options available to him when treating patients. For example, he can consult with Air Force specialists. He also has referral to other Air Force facilities via aeromedical evacuation. Last, but not least, are the satisfactions that come with having the opportunity for regular follow-ups, and a minimum appointment time that is practically nil.

Whether you are already a physician, or seem to become one, you might find it extremely interesting to find out what the Air Force has to offer. We think it could be a real eye-opener. If you'll mail in the coupon, we'd be happy to send you detailed information.

CON-34
Please send me information on the Air Force Physician Program. I understand there is no obligation.
Name
Address
City
State Zip Phone
Soc. Sec. # Date of Birth
Health Care at its best.
Air Force.

WE DISCOUNT THE DISCOUNTERS
Save GAS!..Save CASH!
FREE BUS
TO AND FROM
TAPE CITY, U.S.A.
THIS SATURDAY ONLY-MARCH 9th
HERE ARE THE DETAILS
BUS WILL STOP AT ANY CHURCH STREET CORNER, FROM MAIN STREET, NORTH TO PEARL STREET
EVERY HOUR BEGINNING AT 11:00 AM THROUGH 4:00 PM AND FOR UVM STUDENTS, YOU CAN CATCH THE BUS IN FRONT OF THE IRA ALLEN CHAPEL
FANTASTIC BUYS!..SAVINGS
OVER 8,000 8-TRACK TAPES TO CHOOSE FROM
WE GUARENTEE ALL TAPES
If there is a problem with any tape, bring it in and we'll let you choose a new one.
$1.00 each
LIMIT 10 TAPES PER CUSTOMER EQUIPMENT 25% TO 50% OFF
tape city, u.s.a.
Route 7 & Blakely Rd., Colchester, Vt. 879-0443

Where The Whipped Cream Is...

(continued from page nine)

include "the upper-middle class college students' burden," bother with a camera you can't work properly anyway, or waste your precious gasoline in pursuit of a perk at Burlington's lower class. For no sojourn to North Street would be complete without a scrutiny of this section's numerous sin mills, and no scrutiny of the North Street gin mills would be complete without a trip to the Redwood.

The 'Wood has all the material an itinerant sociologist could ask for, and a little more. The interior is unfortunately panelled with Grossman's discount line, wallpapered with Marines posters and football banners and resembles the illegitimate child of an American Legion Hall and your local Elk's Club. Had the movie barons of Hollywood decided to film Joe in beautiful downtown Burlington, they could have used the Redwood for the cinematic Joe's basement. The place reeks with the locker-room machismo of the eternally frustrated jock: the television is always tuned to whatever sports event is available, the action on the pool table ceases only for an occasional fight and the ever-present cigarette smoke haze has yellowed the ceiling to the color of the urinal.

The clientele of the Redwood is among Burlington's most diverse. Once, in ancient times, before the lowering of the drinking age to 18, the 'Wood was the most popular watering spot of thirsty UVMers. It was a perpetual frat party where they never worried much about the date on your fake I.D., and if you could reach the bar you were served. If you were female, you at least had to brandish a training bra, and try not to cough as you inhaled your first pack of Marlboros.

But, these days, the 'Wood is a motley combination of pool sharks, unemployed construction workers, Lacoste-shirted liberals, the guys from the third shift at the factory, balding hockey fans, society's down-and-outs and mostly, perhaps, anyone who just like the cheap buzz provided by a seventy-five cent pitcher of Narragansett. It is the proverbial neighborhood barroom – the gin mill you hit when the factory bell finally ends your day and you need a couple of shots and beers before you can go home and face an overweight, nagging wife, three moronic kids and spaghetti (out-of-the-can variety) for the thrid night in a row. It's where the "boys" head for an afternoon of basketball, drunkenness, pool, shuffleboard and football/hockey games on the tube. It's the type of place that makes you realize that the movement blew it when they tried to start a revolution by radicalizing people around the Vietnam War; they should have closed all the bars like the Redwood, then we'd see revolution in the streets!

And the Redwood reflects its North Street surroundings. The single women, few that they are, perhaps reveal the starkness best. They all look like truckstop diner waitresses with too much make-up, divorced with three toddlers being brought up by her mother, all paradoxically in search of the cause of their real misery – another man. Outside the Redwood, the scruffy ten-year old is bringing Dad's Budweiser bottles back to the store on a Sunday afternoon to use the deposit for a loaf of bread, lunch money for the next day in school and trying to eke a candy bar out on the side for himself. Meanwhile, the ole man is sitting in the 'Wood, slugging down a shot, wistfully hoping the goddam factory would burn down so he wouldn't have to go back to work.

Despite the differences in age, social status and hair length, the motley clientele at the 'Wood has one endeavor in common: the need to alter one's consciousness with the sweet elixir of alcohol. The guys loading up beers at the Redwood really aren't all that different from the student who spends half his free time stoned in the dorm room, except that unlike the college kid, the guy in the 'Wood can't call home to his parent in New Jersey to pay the tab for his next Schlitz.

On Saturday nights at the 'Wood, we can guarantee you'll hear Danny Gallarin (there is even a yellowing autograph of Danny prominently displayed on the wall) intoning "from the Montreal Forum,...this is hockey night in Canada" as soon as you walk in the door. So long as you are a hockey fan, the length of your hair won't matter, except when you rap to a real French-Canadian Montreal fan and he keeps saying "Jeesus Crease" – you'll have to remember he isn't talking about the area around a goaltender, but if you feel comfortable spending your time in the Rathskellar, the Office or at the Burlington Country Club, and if your big time on Saturday night is attending the junior execs' cocktail party at I.B.M., forget the 'Wood. You wouldn't understand it anyway.

Call The Plumber...

(continued from page five)

in Laos, who have served as CIA-backed anti-Pathet Lao mercenaries, to Saigon via Air America. Alfred McCoy's The Politics of Heroin in Southeast Asia not only rigorously documents this accusation, but also withstood a censoring process by the CIA. According to McCoy, the CIA demanded that his manuscript be screened lest it contain false information. The CIA banned only 10 per cent of the book, and according to McCoy it was only marginal information. If this contention still seems exorbitant, check the writings of late Newsweek correspondent Francois Sully for similar information. And if that doesn't convince you, check the April 1971 issues of the Cynic for a Liberation News Service series on the same subject.

So it seems that Coopers and Lybrand have had a lot of practice in covering up some of the seamier sides of life. We can only hope that they are maintaining their fine tradition across the green at Waterman.

ROTC Sponsors Military Ball

Friday, February 22, the 106th Annual University of Vermont ROTC Military Ball was held at Marble Island Country Club. One hundred and eighty cadets and officers, their dates and wives, with Vermont Adjutant General and Mrs. Reginald M. Cram and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Snelling as Guests of Honor, took part in the evenings festivities.

Following the social hour and an excellent dinner, Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Douglas Bullard, Battalion Commander, and Lieutenant Colonel William Haponski, United States Army, Professor Military Studies, gave the welcoming and opening remarks, respectively. This was followed by the presentation of awards and the announcement of the new cadet officers for the remainder of the academic year. Upon completion of the presentations and announcements everyone retired to the lounge to dance to the music of the Conquista Brass.

The new officers installed were Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Bullard, Battalion Commander; Cadet Major Lawrence Doton, Battalion Executive Officer, S-1, S-4; Cadet Major David Flood, S-3; Cadet Captain Scott Whitted, Company A Commander; Cadet Captain Dale Norton, Company B Commander; and Cadet Lieutenant Thomas Tennant, Company B 2nd Platoon Leader. Among the presentations made, the cords of the Ethan Allen Rifles, an honorary society for those juniors and seniors who best exemplify scholastic and military attributes, were awarded to Cadets Donald Naramore and Jack Schmidt.

This year's Ball set two precedents. First, unlike previous years, no young lady was selected the Military Ball Queen. This formality was dropped since there are now lady ROTC Cadets at UVM. Second, during the presentation of awards, one of these young ladies, Cadet Sue Mackin, was recognized for outshooting 40 male cadets on the 45 caliber pistol range. It was her first time to handle a pistol.

SPEAKING OF HOCKEY

by Bob Wilenik

By the time this story goes to press the University of Vermont hockey team will be headed for the final game of its Division II campaign. After last Sunday's flogging of our men in uniform there is no doubt in my mind that the Cats will defeat UMass. The players are hoping that Merrimack can get by Salem State in the semis and will come up to Gutterson next Saturday night to play in the championship game. The Cats have only lost four contests this season. They split a pair with St. Louis, split with Boston University, were defeated by New Hampshire, and were handed their first loss of the season by Merrimack in overtime. Vermont wants to show Merrimack that their early season win was a fluke. This reporter is certain they will, but UVM still might face Salem so we will have to wait and see. No matter who they face, I am sure Vermont will win.

The freshmen on the team had a solid game against Army as well as the "veterans." They accounted for three goals and three assists and played like they have been participating in college tournaments for years. Lebeau was the freshman standout with his second hat trick of the season while Hooper, Spence, and Colby added assists. After being flattened to the ice early in the game, Tom Colby came back and played with abandon without even missing a shift. Tom is a very gutsy player which he proved against Army. Bill Spence dealt a very hard check to Army standout Clark in the third period. Spence gave him a natural high. Tom McNamara continues to look very confident in the nets. It will be quite a battle for the goaltenders job next year because Kiely will be playing his last season.

Next week I will talk about the championship game and those seniors who will be graduating.

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

Right now 13 members of the UVM swim team are en route to Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island for the 1974 New England Swimming and Diving Championships. There will be about 30 schools represented in the three day meet and if all goes well we should place among the top ten teams.

This meet marks the end of four years of varsity swimming for the three senior members of the team. They were among the first class of freshmen allowed to compete on the varsity level and have been great assets to the team for the last four years. The three seniors are Bob Nold, Gary Shepherd and Jim Werther. Bob is one of our top divers and last year came very close to placing in both the one and three meter boards. Jim specializes in the backstroke and individual medley and is very popular around fourth floor Harris where he is an R.A. Gary is basically a freestyler, but he also has a strong breaststroke. However over the past four years he has probably competed in just about every event at one time or another. When he isn't swimming Gary spends a lot of his time working in the trainer's room.

Two other seniors who have been invaluable to the team this year are Perry Bove and Gary Fifield. As our managers they have done all the work behind the scenes to keep things running smoothly at home and on the road. On behalf of the team, thanks for everything, Gary and Perry.

Chaplain Odie --Lacrosse Coach

Robert "Odie" Odierna, Episcopal Chaplain at UVM's Saint Anselm's Chapel, recently became the first coach in the so-far short history of Catamount Lacrosse. Coming from an undergraduate career at Hobart College and advanced study at Manhattan's General Theological Seminary, Odie brings to the club a unique mix of idealism and the realities of competitive athletics.

The twenty-four year-old native of Seaford, Long Island, has maintained a highly active persoqal life. In addition to his athletic involvements at Hobart (soccer, squash, and baseball - a berth at the 1971 NCAA National Squash Championships), he kept active through his membership in Kappa Sigma, chairing the Campus Community Chest Drive in 1971 and playing the clarinet in the Hobart Concert Band.

After Hobart, he attended General Theological Seminary as a candidate for the Master's Degree in Divinity. He spent one academic quarter in clinical training as Chaplain of the Central Islip (New York) State Hospital, a psychaitric institution.

Since his appointment to the UVM Chaplaincy, he has maintained his involvement in several areas related to the University. Besides fulfilling his duties as Chaplain, Odie is part of the Office of Volunteer Programs interviewing staff responsible for placing student volunteers in community agencies. Last fall, Odie served as assistant coach of the UVM Frosh soccer team.

UVM's first lacrosse coach was asked recently for his definition of the relationship of his ministry to his involvement in competitive athletics. He emphasized that he had always been active in various activities and found them to be personally satisfying in addition to their importance in shaping his own life. Most of all, athletics to a great extent help him in making additional contacts with students, his primary objective.

Waterboy For Basketball

by Melanie Choukas

Dana Pappas is the first waterboy in the history of the UVM basketball squad. According to Coach Peter Salzberg, who is pictured with him in the picture above, it is good for the team to work with a young boy. "College students get cynical," says Salzberg. "Having an interested kid around gives them an enthusiasm for life that is easily lost in the college environment." Adds the coach, "I imagine he is the envy of his class in school." He is.

PFG-Schedule

GYM –
Friday, March 8 – High School basketball tourney
Saturday, March 9 – High School basketball tourney
Sunday, March 10 – OVP Children's program; Students from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.
Monday, March 11 – Intramurals and Students from 1 to 5 and 8 to 10:30 p.m.
POOL –
Friday – Faculty/Staff from 12 to 1 p.m. and 7 to 10:30 p.m.
Saturday – Students from 1 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.
Sunday – OVP Program in afternoon and students from 7:30 to 10:30
Monday – Students from 1 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.
RINK –
Friday – Faculty/staff from 12 to 1 and Staff Children only from 7 to 8 p.m.
Saturday - none – ECAC Division II final at night
Sunday – start conversion to tennis courts
Monday – Rink is closed.
TRACK
Friday – Faculty/staff from 12 to 1 and 7 to 10:30
Saturday – Students from 1 to 5. Closed at night.
Sunday – students from 1 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30
Monday – Student from 1 to 5, Baseball Club and Soccer from 7 to 10:30 p.m.
HANDBALL AND SQUASH COURTS:
Call 3069 for reservations.
Tuesday through Friday – Pool – 8:30 to 10:30 p.m., other facilities 8 to 9 p.m. for Students. These periods may be superseded by varsity activities or special events.

Hockey Playoffs

(continued from page fourteen)

will be a well-qualified opponent in the finals.

The matchups in the Division I tournament find UNH hosting RPI, Providence at Harvard, Dartmouth visiting Boston University, and Cornell entertaining St. Lawrence. The finals of this tournament are held in Boston Garden.

As for opponents of the UVM basketball team, many of them will see action in post-season competition. St. Michael's will once again be in the NCAA college division regionals. They will play the University of Hartford. Massachusetts has been invited to the N. I. T. in New York City and there is a possibility that UConn will also play in that tournament. Of course the nationally ranked North Carolina State, North Carolina, and Vanderbilt teams are in line for possible bids to the NCAA championship tournament.

Cats Beat Army

(continued from page fourteen)

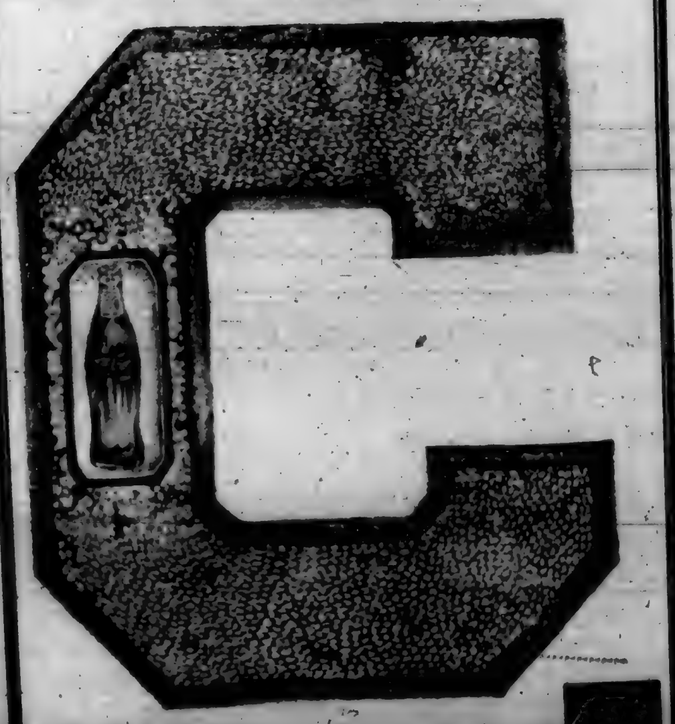
goals in their last three games.

The Cats were especially impressive in the victory in their ability to play good clean hockey. They didn't let Army's rough house tactics change their style of play.

A victory over the University of Massachusetts Wednesday night will send the Cats into their second straight Division I championship final. Vermont is now 25-4 overall and 16-1 in Division II.

MAGRAMS OFFERS THIS 200 YEAR OLD CANVAS TOTE AT SPECIAL PRICES TO INDUCE OUR PATRONS TO CONSERVE ON OUR NATURAL RESOURCES OF PAPER, PULP AND PETROLEUM

Good sport.



It's the real thing. Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

THIRD ALARM
55 NORTH ST.
Happy Hour 4-6pm Everyday
Draft Beer and Your Favorite Mixed Drinks
TRY A NEW BAR ON
POOL TABLE

The Tri-State Champion women's gymnastics team, to right, Mary McAdam, Sue Supovitz, Nancy Cicino, Anabe. Missing are Debbie Light, Joanne Houbali and

Women Gymn Meet Fourt

The UVM Women's Gymnastics team came in a close second behind the University of Connecticut in a triangular meet at Storrs, Connecticut on Friday, February 22. Final team totals were U. Conn. 64.75, UVM 62.40, and Salem State with 58.35. The Cats invaded Husky territory with high hopes for continuing its winning ways. However disaster struck early in the warm-up hour when team captain Linda Rough fell from the unevens, injured her back and spent the duration of the meet in Windham Hospital. The UVM girls performed well even though they were obviously concerned about their captain's welfare. Sue Supovitz took first place on beam, floor exercise, and vaulting, and second on bars. Nancy Cicino was fourth on bars, and Debby Light placed third on vaulting, and fifth on Floor.

On Monday, February 25 the UVM gymnasts [illegible] home meet with P[illegible] State, Castleton and Mountain College. T[illegible] this meet with P[illegible] State placing second, [illegible] below UVM. C[illegible] through the toughest [illegible] the season: the nex[illegible] Tuesday, February [illegible] UVM women tra[illegible] Green Mountain [illegible] Vermont State Me[illegible] was the first ann[illegible] competition, in w[illegible] meet was organ[illegible] Olympic Meets a[illegible] competitor did [illegible] compulsory routine[illegible] event she entered. [illegible] four girls from [illegible] who placed w[illegible] compulsory routi[illegible] performed their [illegible] (original) routines. [illegible] for the two rou[illegible] totaled for each [illegible] came home with [illegible] Trophy with a [illegible] score of 128.45. [illegible] Mountain finishe[illegible] with 120.6. Su[illegible] placed first for

Cat Five Beat

by Charlie Grace

Basketball fans at the Vermont-Middlebury court clash last week were treated to a breathtaking, see-saw battle. Game momentum and winning desire switched back and forth throughout.

In the end, those supporters who had come to root for UVM were pleased as pie as the Cats held off the surging Panthers in winning their ninth game of the season 67-64.

With the win (Vermont's 76th over Middlebury since the series began), Vermont grabbed a share of the mythical state title, the ever elusive Green Mountain Conference Crown. The Cat cagers were 4-1 against state opponents this year, as was St. Mike's.

After the tip-off both teams exchanged baskets and turnovers. The full court, man-to-man defense of Vermont was countered by Middlebury with a forecourt man to man defense which bottled up the lane and the baseline.

The first scoring surge in a game of pulsating action commenced with just over six minutes gone by. Vermont had struck a lethal blow. With 13:53 to play, the Cats sleeped on to a narrow 10-9 lead. But in the next four minutes, Warren [illegible] Terry Green, a[illegible] Trapani had dazzle[illegible] crowd of 783 with[illegible] points and. Verma[illegible]

The UVM benc[illegible] breath easier and[illegible] Gottschalk and [illegible] entered the game [illegible] minute mark.

But the Midd[illegible] spell was soon [illegible] began to break lo[illegible] Vermont press a[illegible] all over the court[illegible] seven minutes t[illegible] out-tallied Verm[illegible] trail at halftime [illegible] 32-31

The second st[illegible] unlike, the Catamounts wh[illegible] made a habit of [illegible] by 10 or 12 [illegible] losing momentu[illegible] to their form.

Vermont storming with [illegible] deadly shooting, [illegible] $1-37 lead. C[illegible] Trapani, Joe [illegible] Mario Macias all [illegible] surge. Vermont [illegible] aggressive-type b[illegible] was winning.

The Middleb[illegible] the darlings of [illegible] basketball in th[illegible] again on the b[illegible] stuffed into o[illegible] Davidson, their [illegible] sitting on the b[illegible]

DAVES AUTOMOTIV[illegible]
INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7886
FOREIGN CAR REPAI[illegible]
SPECIALISTS
• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JOB
Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional. $49
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Front End Alignment $12.00

EAKING HOCKEY

by Bob Wilensk

his story goes to press the University of team will be headed for the final game of mpaign. After last Sunday's flogging of our there is no doubt in my mind that the Cats m. The players are hoping that Merrimack m State in the semis and will come up to Saturday night to play in the championship have only lost four contests this season. pair with St. Louis, split with Boston defeated by New Hampshire, and were first loss of the season by Merrimack in nest wants to show Merrimack that their was a fluke. This reporter is certain they still might face Salem so we will have to wait tter who they face, I am sure Vermont will on the team had a solid game against Army "veterans." They accounted for three goals sists and played like they have been college tournaments for years. Lebeau was standout with his second hat trick of the Hooper, Spence, and Colby added assists. ttened to the ice early in the game, Tom ack and played with abandon without even . Tom is a very gutsy player which he proved Bill Spence dealt a very hard check to Army in the third period. Spence gave him a Tom McNamara continues to look very the nets. It will be quite a battle for the next year because Kiely will be playing his will talk about the championship game and ho will be graduating.

SWIM TALK

by John Mahoney

members of the UVM swim team are on University in Providence, Rhode Island for New England Swimming and Diving . There will be about 10 schools represented y quiet and if all goes well we should place em teams.

marks the end of four years of varsity the three senior members of the team. They e first class of freshmen allowed to compete level and have been great assets to the team our years. The three seniors are Bob Nold, and Jim Worther. Bob is one of our top year came very close to placing in both the e meter boards. Jim specializes in the d individual medley and is very popular floor Harris where he is an R.A. Gary is stroker, but he also has a strong breaststroke, the past four years he has probably competed very event at one time or another. When he Gary spends a lot of his time working in the assistant who have been invaluable to the team Perry Bove and Gary Fifield. As our managers e all the work behind the scenes to keep g smoothly at home and on the road. On team, thanks for everything, Gary and Perry.

ule

tourney
ll tourney ram; Students

nts from 1 to and 7 to 10:30

to 10:30 p.m.
students from

to 10:30 p.m.

Staff Children

at night to 10:30

t night.
o 10:30
ball Club and

to 10:30 p.m., ose periods may events.

RM

eryday
Favorite

R ON

Hockey Playoffs

(continued from page fourteen)

will be a well-qualified opponent in the finals.

The matchups in the Division I tournament find UNH hosting RPI, Providence at Harvard, Dartmouth visiting Boston University, and Cornell entertaining St. Lawrence. The finals of this tournament are held in Boston Garden.

As for opponents of the UVM basketball team, many of them will see action in post-season competition. St. Michael's will once again be in the NCAA college division regionals. They will play the University of Hartford. Massachusetts has been invited to the N. I. T. in New York City and there is a possibility that UConn will also play in that tournament. Of course the nationally ranked North Carolina State, North Carolina, and Vanderbilt teams are in line for possible bids to the NCAA championship tournament.

Cats Beat Army

(continued from page fourteen)

goals in their last three games.

The Cats were especially impressive in the victory in their ability to play good clean hockey. They didn't let Army's rough house tactics change their style of play.

A victory over the University of Massachusetts Wednesday night will send the Cats into their second straight Division I championship final. Vermont is now 23–4 overall and 16–1 in Division II.

The Tri-State Champion women's gymnastics team. Kneeling with the trophy is Captain Linda Rough. Standing left to right, Mary McAdam, Sue Supovitz, Nancy Cicino, Carol Shriter, Candy Goerler, Barbara Abrams, and Coach Holly Arobo. Missing are Debbie Light, Joanne Houbolt, and Pam Burns.

SPS Photo: R. R. Low

Women Gymnasts Win Tri-State Meet Fourth Year In Row

The UVM Women's Gymnastics team came in a close second behind the University of Connecticut in a triangular meet at Storrs, Connecticut on Friday, February 22. Final team totals were U. Conn. 64.75, UVM 62.40, and Salem State with 58.35. The Cats invaded Husky territory with high hopes for continuing its winning ways. However disaster struck early in the warm-up hour when team captain Linda Rough fell from the unevens, injured her back and spent the duration of the meet in Windham Hospital. The UVM girls performed well even though they were obviously concerned about their captain's welfare. Sue Supovitz took first place on beam, floor exercise, and vaulting, and second on bars. Nancy Cicino was fourth on bars, and Debby Light placed third on vaulting and fifth on Floor.

On Monday, February 25 the UVM gymnasts hosted a home meet with Plymouth State, Castleton and Green Mountain College. They won this meet with Plymouth State placing second, 9 points below UVM. Continuing through the toughest week of the season: the next night, Tuesday, February 26, the UVM women traveled to Green Mountain for the Vermont State Meet. This was the first annual State competition, in which the meet was organized as Olympic Meets are. Each competitor did the same compulsory routine for each event she entered. The top four girls from each team who placed with their compulsory routines, then performed their optional (original) routines. The scores for the two routines were totaled for each event. UVM came home with the State Trophy with a total team score of 128.45 and Green Mountain finished second with 120.6. Sue Supovitz placed first for All-Around, Deb Light was third, and Candy Goerler was fifth. Sue was first on floor, beam and vaulting, and second on bars. Deb Light came home with two seconds, in vaulting and floor exercise. She also placed fourth on balance beam.

To end the week, the University of Vermont women proudly accepted the first place plaque for the Northern New England Tri-State Gymnastics Championship. The meet was at UVM on Saturday March 2. This is the fourth consecutive year that UVM has won the meet. Seven schools from New Hampshire, Maine, and Vermont competed for the championship. Because there were seven schools, the meet was run in two rotations, with UVM, Green Mountain and Keene State competing first. Then all they could do was wait and watch the second rotation, Vermont College, Plymouth State, U. Maine at Presque Isle, and Colby College finished the second half. The competition was close, but UVM won with a total score of 69.35, just two points above Plymouth State's 67.6. U. Maine was third with 58.25. Sue Supovitz was the number one All-Around gymnast. She placed first in all four events, tieing team member Barbara Abrams on the uneven bars. Deb Light placed fifth on floor exercise, and eighth on vaulting tieing UVM's Candy Goerler. Nancy Cicino was eighth on the uneven bars in the Tri-State competition, while Mary McAdam placed eighth on the beam.

The UVM women have competed against a total of 15 different schools this season, and scored higher than ten of the opposing teams. Three of these losses were by only two or three points. The season will end when UVM travels to the University of Massachusetts for the Eastern Regional Championships on March 14–16.

Hoopsters Lose Last Game

The UVM basketball team finished up the second year under Coach Peter Salzberg on a negative note. They lost their final game of the season to Brandeis and finished the season with a 9 – 17 record. The final score in the game at Waltham, Massachusetts, was 82 – 63.

The Catamounts were in the game for the first 12 minutes but UVM turnovers started to hurt. Brandeis was able to pull out to a 39 – 23 halftime advantage. In the second half the Cats were able to cut the gap down to 12 but not any closer. A final spree at the end enabled Brandeis to remain in control for a 82 – 63 victory.

Despite having a height advantage, the Cats were outrebounded 53 – 44. Nobody was particularly outstanding offensively as Joe Greco and Charlie Trapani were high scorers with 12 points each. Warren Prehmus added 11 points. The high scorer in the game was Mike Fahey of Brandeis with 24 points.

UVM-Norwich

(continued from page fourteen)

with a slap shot to Cantwell's right. O'Connell's final goal finished the scoring and Vermont had won 8-3.

John Kiely did not have one of his better games but ended up with 21 saves and John McNamara finished the last minute and a half with no saves.

For Norwich, Bill Cantwell added 45 saves to his ECAC record for career saves. Cantwell was definitely the star for the Cadets. He appeared tired in the last period but still turned in a performance equal to his All-American rating.

Vermont ended the season with a 24-4 record overall and 15-1 in Division II. With his three goals and two assists Tim O'Connell ended the regular season as the team's top scorer with 47 points and Willie MacKinnon was second with 44, even though he missed eight games with a shoulder injury.

Chaplain Odie demonstrates the use of the lacrosse stick.

SPS Photo: David Legrow

The New UVM Lacrosse Club Starts Practice

by Doug Beardsley

The UVM Lacrosse Club, having partially overcome the obstacles of fund-raising and local unfamiliarity with the sport, has finally started practice in the Gutterson field house anticipating a first season schedule of nine games beginning in six weeks.

The club, now with a membership of sixty, commenced conditioning and fundamental drills at the cage two weeks ago. Large turnouts at the three evening practices each week reflect an enthusiasm more characteristic of an established varsity sport than a first year club.

The workouts are also varsity material: the two hour conditioning sessions include loosening-up exercises followed by formal calisthenics and plenty of long and short distance running. "I can't remember standing still; we seem to be running all the time," complained one winded club member after completing the final mile run. At last Tuesday's practice his strained pronouncement suggested why the sport is known as "the fastest game on two feet." In his next breath (which promised to be his last) that same athlete admitted that despite the agony he wouldn't dream of dropping out. "It's actually pretty enjoyable," he panted, especially just after each practice . . . It's like beating your head against a wall – feels great when you stop." Such is the attraction, beauty, and reward of compulsory conditioning. Most club members agree that the grueling practices are necessary in preparing for a successful season.

Despite an epidemic of pulled hamstring muscles, charley horses, and heavy breathing, Coach "Odie" Odierna is confident that conditioning is progressing favorably

Hired by the club, Coach Odie, alias Chaplain Odie – Episcopal chaplain at UVM's St. Anselm's Chapel, although a newcomer to lacrosse coaching, is no stranger to competitive athletics. Last Fall, Odie served as assistant head coach of the successful Freshman soccer team, and while an undergraduate at Hobart College, he played inter-collegiate soccer, squash, and baseball, as well as "sandbox" lacrosse (played in a dry hockey rink) on a club level. More recently, Coach Odie has participated in several lacrosse coaching clinics held in various places in the northeast.

With the help of IRA and SA funding, augmented by extensive, additional fund-raising, the club is now partially outfitted in brand new equipment and has taken on the additional responsibility of paying a coach and covering the expenses of transporting the club to several scheduled away games. Striking game uniforms and additional second hand equipment have been ordered. Finally, with an eye on better support of the present program and hopes for future expansion, the club is planning new fund-raising efforts including an all-campus dance at MAT in mid-March.

The Lacrosse Club is BY NO MEANS CLOSED to new comers: cuts do not exist; all are welcome, and everyone will get a chance to play in an actual game situation. As it now stands, the 1974 UVM Lacrosse Schedule includes competition with The St. Lawrence varsity–noted for some of the toughest, sharpest lacrosse in New England. Four (and possibly more) of the scheduled games will be played here at UVM. Anyone interested in joining the club should come to practice at 7:00 Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in the Fieldhouse.

The Schedule:
April 4 – Castleton Varsity (H)
April 6 – St. Mike's Lacrosse Club (H)
April 10 – Middlebury 'B' Team (H)
April 13 – St. Lawrence Varsity (A)
April 17 – Middlebury 'B' Team (A)
April 20 – Massachusetts Lacrosse Club (A)
April 21 – Springfield College Varsity (A)
April 27 – Dartmouth 'B' Team (A)
April 29 – Norwich Varsity (H)

Cat Five Beat Middlebury

by Charlie Grace

Basketball fans at the Vermont-Middlebury court clash last week were treated to a breathtaking, see-saw battle. Game momentum and winning desire switched back and forth throughout.

In the end, those supporters who had come to root for UVM were pleased as pie as the Cats held off the surging Panthers in winning their ninth game of the season 67-64.

With the win (Vermont's 76th over Middlebury since the series began), Vermont grabbed a share of the mythical state title, the ever elusive Green Mountain Conference Crown. The Cat cagers were 4-1 against state opponents this year, as was St. Mike's.

After the tip-off, both teams exchanged baskets and turnovers. The full court, man-to-man defense of Vermont was countered by Middlebury with a forecourt man to man defense which bottled up the lane and the baseline.

The first scoring surge in a game of pulsating action commenced with just over six minutes gone by. Vermont had struck a lethal blow. With 13:53 to play the Cats clasped on to a narrow 10-9 lead. But in the next four minutes, Warren Prehmus, Terry Green, and Charlie Trapani had dazzled the small crowd of 783 with 13 straight points and Vermont led 23-9.

The UVM bench began to breath easier and subs Ron Gottschalk and Jeff Niles entered the game at the eight minute mark.

But the Middlebury cold spell was soon over. They began to break loose from the Vermont press and hit from all over the court. In the final seven minutes the Panthers out-tallied Vermont 22-9 to trail at halftime by but one, 32-31.

The second stanza was not unlike the first. The Catamounts who have now made a habit of surging ahead by 10 or 12 points, then losing momentum, kept true to their form.

Vermont came out storming with its press and deadly shooting, to open up a 51-37 lead. Green, Niles, Trapani, Joe Greco, and Mario Macias all scored in this surge. Vermont was playing aggressive-type basketball and was winning.

The Middlebury quintet, the darlings of private college basketball in the state, were again on the brink of being stuffed into oblivion. Dave Davidson, their 6' 7" ace was sitting on the bench with five fouls and only ten minutes left in regulation playing time. Dave Penttowski the runner and gunner from southern Vermont was having difficulty buying a basket.

Nevertheless, good coaching, clutch shooting by senior Jack Kirsh, and a number of Vermont miscues brought Middlebury back on the road to an upset. The Panthers crept up on the still UVM hoopsters. A Kirsh layup with 1:10 left brought the Panthers to within three, 63-60. But Prehmus slammed the door shut as he converted four clutch free throws in the final 26 seconds and the Cats held on to win 67-64. Prehmus is one of the top free throw shooters in New England and the Yankee Conference.

Charlie Trapani took high honors for the game with 17 points and 10 rebounds. Premus, who was six for six from the foul line added 14 and Green had 11. Kirsh and Nelson led Middlebury with 13 points each and Pentowski finished with 11. Vermont shot 53 per cent from the field in their final home game of the season.

Streaking Strikes !

On most ordinary Saturday nights it is very hard to find a novel idea or a new activity filled with ingenuity. However one person, who for obvious reasons will remain anonymous, found an idea fit for the times: Redstone Campus last weekend was host for the new craze that has been hitting college campuses. Just this past week the New York Times reported three people arrested at Yale for this new pastime.

This activity is known as streaking. A person (or for those without any guts, a group of persons) removes his clothes and proceeds to run from dorm to dorm, or building to building. In this case of streaking, rumor has it that a single person was coaxed into the activity for monetary reward. He was also a bit drunk at the time. However, the money became his as the anonymous hero ran back and forth along a floor in Patterson Hall last Saturday night. In the laughter and rowdiness that followed most of the Patterson-Wright-Christie complex was looking out their windows wondering what was happening. But the streaker did not strike again after his initial trot in Patterson. At last report, he went downtown to spend his money and get a bit more drunk.

The novelty involved here is that a person who does not normally perform the unusual made the effort to improve a normally dull Saturday evening. For his trainer and his group of followers it was perhaps the highlight of the semester.

YANKEE DOODLE CATERING
864-5718
Now guarantees deliveries within 45 MINUTES or you pay ½PRICE
CLIP THIS COUPON
50¢ OFF with any order of 2 subs or more

OPEN DAILY 9:30 AM TO 9:00 PM
Bass 1705 WILLISTON ROAD Bass
Bass Shoe Factory Outlet

WOMEN'S BASS SADDLE SHOES
OUR REGULAR PRICE $15.95
$9.95
A group of sandals that, if perfect, would sell for $22.00. These are factory irregulars and it is difficult for a nonexpert to find the imperfection. They are available in white suede, blue and bone, black and white, brown and white, and football brown. All popular sizes.

SMALL CAR OWNERS and DEALERS UNITE !
don't feel guilty when you pass that eight cylinder monster! you're probably using less gas at 70 than he is at 50!
75¢ each
if you drove a car like mine... THERE WOULDN'T BE A GAS SHORTAGE
3 for $2.00
I DON'T DRIVE A GAS HOG
quantity prices also available
DESIGN(R) PO BOX 117 dept m SPRINGFIELD VERMONT 05156

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7886
FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS
• Final work on American cars!
• Firestone tires • Estate Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JOB
Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.
$49.95
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Front End Alignment $12.00

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER®
Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

U.V.M. SPORTS

Eli Tubbs (not in picture) scores one against Army: Pete Brady and Jack Clifford rejoice and Army goalie Tom Garver looks down.

SPS Photo: Barb Miller

Icecats Rout West Point 10-1

by Neil Gruber

Last Sunday night the Catamounts soundly defeated the Cadets from West Point in the quarterfinals of the Division II hockey tournament. The victory was an impressive one as the Cats have now won 11 straight games.

The first period had good end-to-end action with both teams getting good goaltending. When the goaltenders were not making the save the posts were. Each team hit the post several times in the first period.

The Cadets let the Cats know what type of game they were going to play early in the first period. An Army player leveled Tom Colby with a cheap elbow check when Colby was skating with his head down. It was apparent that Army wanted to play a physical game. The officials soon recognized what type of game this could develop into and they wisely took control of the action.

The Cats put great pressure on Army goaltender Tom Garver when the Cats had a two man advantage for more than a minute and a half. Several shots by the Catamounts just slid past the posts, and Garver was equal to the other Vermont shots.

Vermont territorially dominated most of the first period but they could not find the net. The period ended scoreless with the Cats outshooting Army 14-8.

It did not take the Cats long into the second period to score. At 0:53 Captain Ted Castle put the Cats on the scoreboard. The play developed as Bill Spence stole the puck in the Army zone and passed it into the corner to Willie MacKinnon. MacKinnon hit Castle with a pass at the left side of the crease and he put his own rebound into the net over the downed Garver.

Junior Bill Koch gave Vermont a 2-0 lead as he fired a wrist shot past the Army goaltender. Roger Mallette gave Tim O'Connell a long lead pass up the left sideboards. O'Connell reached the pass at about the face-off circle and he centered the puck back to Koch who was trailing. Koch fired the puck past Garver to the far side.

The Cadets got their only goal on a power play. John Kiely stopped George Clark's shot but freshman Dave Rost converted the rebound from about ten feet out as he slid a backhand shot just inside the far post.

At 8:33 Mallette hit one home from about 15 feet. Ted Curtis passed the puck to O'Connell behind the net. His centering pass was taken by Mallette who fired a wrist shot over the shoulder of Garver.

Vermont followed with two more goals in less than 90 seconds and the Cats had clinched the contest.

The fourth goal was scored by Michel Lebeau, as he went on to get a three goal hat trick. Lebeau intercepted an Army pass at the Vermont blueline, went in on goal with good stickhandling. He skated by a defender and got off a backhand shot which found the net.

The fourth line on its first appearance of the night wasted no time in scoring. At 9:54 Eli Tubbs scored his first goal of the year as he took a face-off pass from Peter Brady and beat Garver with a wrist shot. The period ended with Vermont leading 5-1.

The Cadets in the third period started playing bush hockey by taking cheap shots at the Cats. Perhaps it was frustration from being so badly outplayed in the second period that made them resort to such dirty tactics. They were called for six penalties in the third period alone. At any rate Vermont scored five more goals in the final period to further frustrate the Cadets.

Mallette scored his second goal of the game as he slipped in an O'Connell pass behind Garver with Koch assisting.

Lebeau made the score 7-1 when he scored his second goal on a weak backhander that went between the goalie's legs. O'Connell scored at 12:when he took a pass from Mallette and fired a hard slapshot between the pads of Garver.

Lebeau scored his hat trick on a power play as he carried the puck over the blueline and skated in on goal. He went around the defensemen and put a backhand shot into the net.

Castle finished the scoring for Vermont as he scored his second goal of the night. MacKinnon skated in on the net and passed the puck to Castle. Castle fired a wrist shot high into the net from about ten feet out.

The victory, like most of the Cats' wins, was a team effort. The defense played excellent hockey especially in the last two periods. Many of the Army shots on net were weak ones that were partially blocked by the defense. John Kiely continues to play excellent hockey in the nets. The Catamount offense is still proving that it is plenty potent, and has scored 25

(continued on page twelve)

SCHWARTZ ONSPORTS

by Mike Schwartz

As on the national scene, women's varsity sports at UVM has grown by leaps and bounds. Nationally, we hear of Billie Jean King fighting for equal tournament pay for men and women in tennis. The professional track circuit features women's events. And, in Olympic competition women excel in swimming, gymnastics, and track and field. By no means has discrimination or the fight for equal participation ended, but the growth of women's sports in recent years reflects the changing role of women in our society.

In the same way, the athletic program for women has become more organized and has grown much larger in recent years at UVM. Miss Marilyn Chase, the head of the women's athletic program, is correct in stating that "the joys of participation for women are just as great as they are for men." This is seen in the variety of women's sports. The women's basketball team has made the ninth seed in a tournament to be held at Brooklyn College. The women's ski team is highly organized and is one of the top ones in New England. Women's gymnastics competition continues to grow. The women's swim team has gone undefeated in its dual meet competition and many competitors performed admirably in the recent New England meet. Women also compete in field hockey and other sports in varsity competition.

Miss Chase emphasized the growth, the organization, and the positive effects of the program in a chat with me last week. In the nine years that she has been involved with women's sports at UVM the intercollegiate program has become an outgrowth of the Women's Recreation Department. It has become a separate entity within the physical education department with its own budget. About 450 people now are involved in the athletic program. In a comparable manner, the women's intramural program has also grown.

The most significant reason for growth is organization. On a national level this has also been the case. Teams have their separate coaches and the program is a separate entity. Although recruiting does not take place as on the men's scale, the incoming woman student is given knowledge of the program and background information allows the athletic department to know the possible skills of a particular girl. Miss Chase believes the program is good without the recruiting that has had many negative connotations as far as men are concerned. However, Miss Chase did refer to a Florida case where the courts allowed a woman to receive a scholarship to participate in athletics. If this is an indication of equality between women's and men's varsity athletics perhaps recruiting for top women athletes may become a reality in the not too distant future.

Finally, Miss Chase referred to the upcoming move of the women's athletic department to Patrick because of the music department moving to Southwick. This will increase the overcrowded Patrick facilities which must bear the burden of all the office space but also the demand for practice time. With the tremendous growth of all types of competition it becomes increasingly difficult to get the time women need for practice. They also compete with intramurals, men's varsity sports, and gym classes. Miss Chase asked in an inquiring manner about the building "soon" of a new gym area around Patrick.

With growth, organization, and increasing publicity from the press and media (even to the point that women's basketball scores in Vermont sound like a dull rundown of all the men's scores) women's sports is gaining a greater place in the sports world. One can only hope that growth will not lead to the competitive problems of the men's world but reflect the joy of participation as reflected in various intramural programs. This would be the most healthy aspect of women's varsity sports competition.

UVM Beats Norwich In Season Finale

by Norm Robinson

It's been quite a while since Vermont has had to come from behind in the final period to win a hockey game, but it was necessary last Tuesday night when the Norwich Cadets came to town for the final regular season game of the year.

Trailing 3-1 going into the final stanza, the Cats clawed into the Cadets and won going away, 8-3. Tim O'Connell played one of his finest games of his career by scoring three times as well as assisting on two others, and Michel Lebeau added two more.

The first period saw a hard-working Norwich squad against the persistant forechecking of the Cats. Both teams played free-wheeling hockey and checking was at a minimum. UVM dominated the early going and play was continually in the Norwich zone but Bill Cantwell, the Cadet goalie, was superb.

Norwich scored first when Jim Segar battled for the puck on the right side of the UVM zone, and passed behind the net to Cam McGregor. McGregor found Mike Stevenson unmolested in front of the cage and Stevenson flipped a wrist shot over Kiely's right shoulder.

Stevenson scored again six minutes later at the 16:49 mark. The Norwich center had a breakaway down the left side but Ken Yeates caught up and rode him into the boards. Stevenson got off a whirling shot that bounced off the boards behind the net, deflected off UVM goalie John Kiely's stick, and into the net, making it 2-0, Norwich, after the first period.

Tim O'Connell got his first of three early in period number two, when he fired a slap shot past Cantwell. Rogie Mallette and Ken Yeates received assists on the play.

UVM appeared to be gaining momentum when John Kiely stopped Dave Otterman on a breakaway. The Cats were playing a much tighter defense. Mark Quigley changed matters a few minutes later, however, when he got off a perfect slapshot that found its way past Kiely to give Norwich a two goal lead going into the final period.

It appeared that Vermont was going to lose its first game of the season as they continually had trouble clearing their own zone and Norwich was playing a tight defensive game, waiting for the breaks and capitalizing on them. Cantwell was playing like there was no tomorrow as he piled up 30 saves in the first two periods and robbed UVM numerous times.

The Cats came out roaring in the last period. Passes that had just missed in the previous periods began to click and the barrage on Cantwell began.

O'Connell scored his second of the night after he took a pass from Ken Yeates at the Norwich blue line, skated in toward the face off circle and fired a quick wrist shot to the far side under Cantwell's leg.

Willie MacKinnon scored his twenty-third goal of the year when he picked up a rebound off Yeate's shot and flipped it over a sprawled Cantwell. MacKinnon's goal tied the score at three apiece and the crowd could sense a victory as they came alive.

At 12:56, freshman Michel Lebeau gave UVM the lead as he angled a backhander to the short side off Cantwell.

The first of three goals in a 51 second span was scored by Roger Mallette at 15:59 after O'Connell stole the puck and fed Mallette who was unguarded in front. Roger lit the light to make it 4-3, Vermont.

Thirty-seven seconds later Lebeau scored his second of the night. After taking a pass from Chris Miller, Lebeau's first shot was kicked out but Michel fought for the puck in a crowd and got off a backhand shot that eluded the Norwich goalie.

Jack Clifford got into the action 14 seconds later, after taking a pass from Koch and flipping the puck past Cantwell on a screen shot.

With just eleven seconds remaining in the game, Tim O'Connell got his hat trick

(continued on page thirteen)

Vermont First Selected For N.I.H.T.

The University of Vermont Hockey Team has become the first squad to be invited to the National Invitational Hockey Tournament in Duluth, Minnesota. The Cats were selected on Monday night and become the first team selected for the tournament to be held March 14 to 16. No matter what the final results of the Division II playoffs, it is now official that the Cats will participate. The other teams to be selected are not known yet. There is a possibility that the other three teams will all be from the west or that one more Eastern team will be selected. The eventual selection process will take into consideration which teams participate in the NCAA Championships and which do not.

For the Catamount hockey team the seniors now have the extra incentive they might have missed by graduating before the Cats enter Division I. The format of the tournament calls for single games the nights of March 14 and 15 with a consolation game on the afternoon of the sixteenth and the championship that night. The game will be held in the 6000 seat Duluth Arena. Among Western teams under consideration are Michigan Tech, Minnesota, Michigan State, Denver, and St. Louis. For the Vermont hockey team it's a great way to end the current season which has produced a 25-4 record. And for the last two years the record is now 50-10.

Hockey Post-season Action Starts

The Eastern College hockey season has now ended and the action turns now to playoff competition. The first round of Division II playoffs was played this past weekend. By press time this week the second round of Division II and the first round of Division I will have been completed.

Besides the Vermont rout over Army, the other three games were very exciting. UMass, the fifth seed, upset fourth seeded Boston State by a 7 – 4 score. Mike Merchant, a UMass forward, led the way with two goals and one assist. The Minutemen invaded Gutterson last night in the semi-final action. In other first round action Merrimack, the second seed, defeated Norwich 4 – 3. Billy Cantwell, in his final game for Norwich, had 47 saves and closed his career with 2993 saves. But it wasn't enough because Merrimack scored two goals in the final period to break open a 2 – 2 hockey game.

The final first round game saw Salem State upend Williams 9 – 6. State outshot the Ephman 57 – 33 in a wide open game. Dick Lamby a defenseman with 22 goals, was the star for Salem with a hat trick. Salem State is now 23 – 3 and 18 – 3 in Division I. The winner of the Merrimack-Salem State game

(continued on page twelve)

THE LAST CHANCE
FIRST ANNIVERSARY
COSTUME PARTY
20¢ Drafts
ALL NIGHT
Prizes
THURSDAY
MARCH 14
147 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

JOB OPENINGS

People to sell advertising for this newspaper starting next semester.

A chance to express your creative ability.
Commissions paid.

Please fill out the below form and return to the:

Vermont Cynic
ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT
Box 20
Billings Center

NAME
ADDRESS
YEAR
TELEPHONE

CLASSIFIED

Lost and Found – Ladies Watches – Inquire Information Office – Waterman.

For Sale: Green Down Parka – never been worn – Henke ski boots, 9B, worn twice – Fischer Alas skis, 200? – excellent prices – Call Chris, 4342.

For Sale: Knitted Afghan, Lacy Square Pattern, Off-white 42" x 76". Best offer. Come to 230 St. Paul Street, Apt. 208 after 4 p.m.

For Sale: 2 EPI 60 speakers – brand new with warranty cards – Cost $110/pair – asking $80 negotiable – call Tom 656-6948 – Eve. best.

Vega "Wonder6" – 6 string banjo – 3 years old, absolutely mint condition with hardshell case, $300 firm. Ehren 862-7162.

Where to find
EXCELLENT VW SERVICE
McNASH Motors
1325 Shelburne Rd.
658-1135
BODY SHOP
OPEN
MONDAY thru FRIDAY 8am to 5pm
SATURDAY 8am to 2pm
Courtesy Bus to UVM Campus daily at 8:30am

VOLUME XCII
NUMBER 8
MARCH 14, 1974

VE

College Of Ar... Must Grant Cre...

by Bruce Maddern

The College of Arts and Sciences must grant credit for Military Science courses for non-ROTC students. Recently, this development has created campus-wide controversy.

At a press conference last Friday, Colonel Haponski and Dr. Gobin, chairperson of the Faculty Senate discussed the recent "discovery" of the April 1965 resolution. A previous Arts and Sciences resolution not to grant credit for ROTC courses was thought to be valid until an investigation by the Faculty Senate reviewing the whole MS/ROTC problem discovered the April 1965 resolution.

No one from the Dean's office of the College of Arts and Sciences attended the conference even though an invitation had been extended. Dean Weiger, in a conversation before the press meeting, stated that it was a faculty matter to grant credit and that his office only administers the college. The Academic Council of Deans met Thursday and discussed the problem.

Colonel Haponski, chairperson of the Military Science Department discussed the background to the present problem. He stated that in 1965 ROTC was made optional for students and that the April resolution was an outcome of that. It was also, he claims, the last official action of the Faculty Senate concerning MS/ROTC.

In 1969, he states, the College of Arts and Sciences adopted a resolution to deny credit for its students not in ROTC. Haponski claimed that this was a reaction to the Viet Nam War as well as the "academic worthiness" accusations.

Dr. Gobin explained that no action was required by the senate on the discovery nor was any action initiated. In defense of the Military Science position, Haponski stated that he "assumed the Faculty Senate was a superior body to the College of Arts and Sciences" and that he has been "fighting against a paper tiger."

As to who authorizes academic credit, Dr. Gobin

Student H... To Fu...

by Carol Dufault

A projected $15-$20 increase in health fees will be imposed on the student body next September, bringing the yearly health fee total to approximately $60.

According to George Clerkin, UVM Treasurer, the increase is necessary to fund the move to the new infirmary on East Avenue, but because construction bids for the alteration of the present nursing home into a

The Vermont-Nov... Mobile come to Bu... by Ethan Allen H... blood drive has be... twenty years. At pr... been donated. The

MARCH 7, 1974

Beats Norwich Season Finale

Robinson

uff a while has had to nd in the final hockey game, ecessary last t when the
to come to final regular
the year.
going into the e Cats clawed rts and won 6-3. Tim yed one of his r career by goals as well as o others, and e added two period saw a Norwich squad

e persistant
of the Cats.
me played hockey and at a minimum ted the early play was the Norwich Cantwell, the
as superb.
ured first when battled for the ght side of the and passed net to Cam
rGregor found m unmolested
the cage and
ped a wrist shot
ght shoulder.
scored again six
at the 16:49
Norwich center way down the t Ken Yeates
d trade him into Stevenson got ing shot that the boards
t, deflected off
John Kiely's
into the net,
Norwich, after
d. nnell got his first
arly in period
when he fired a Cantwell Rogie
d Ken Yeates
sts on the play.
ppeared to be mentum when stopped Dave a breakaway
e playing a much ne Mark Quigley
hanan a few
r, however, when perfect slapshot
that found its way past Kee to give Norwich a two goa lead going into the fina period.

It appeared that Vermont was going to lose its fifth game of the season as they continually had trouble clearing their own zone and Norwich was playing a tight defensive game, waiting for the breaks and capitalizing on them. Cantwell was playing like there was no tomorrow as he piled up 30 saves in the first two periods and robbed
UVM numerous times.

The Cats came out roaring in the last period. Passes that had just missed in the previous periods began to click and the barrage on Cantwell began.

O'Connell scored the second of the night after he took a pass from Ken Yeates
at the Norwich blue line, skated in toward the face off circle and fired a quick slap shot to the far side under Cantwell's leg.

Willie MacKinnon scored his twenty-third goal of the year when he picked up a rebound off Yeate's shot and flipped it over a sprawled Cantwell. MacKinnon's goal tied the score at three apiece and the crowd could sense a victory as they came alive.

At 12:56, freshman Michel Lebeau gave UVM the lead as he angled a backhander to the short side off Cantwell.

The first of three goals in a 51 second span was scored by Roger Mallette at 15:59 after O'Connell stole the puck and fed Mallette who was unguarded in front. Roger hit the light to make it 4-3, Vermont.

Thirty-seven seconds later Lebeau scored his second of the night. After taking a pass from Chris Miller, Lebeau's first shot was kicked out but Michel fought for the puck in a crowd and got off a backhand shot that eluded the Norwich goalie.

Jack Clifford got into the action 14 seconds later, after taking a pass from Koch and flipping the puck past
Cantwell on a screen shot.

With just eleven seconds remaining in the game, Tim O'Connell got his hat trick
(continued on page thirteen)

THE LAST CHANCE

FIRST ANNIVERSARY

COSTUME PARTY

20¢ Drafts
ALL NIGHT
Prizes

THURSDAY
MARCH 14

17 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTON

PENINGS

dvertising for this ting next semester.

press your creative paid.

the below form and

ont Cynic
G DEPARTMENT
20 ngs Center

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XCII
NUMBER 8
MARCH 14, 1974

'Tis A Privilege to Live In Vermont

University of Vermont
Burlington, Vermont

College Of Arts & Sciences Must Grant Credit For ROTC

by Bruce Maddern

The College of Arts and Sciences must grant credit for Military Science courses for non-ROTC students. Recently, this development has created campus-wide controversy.

At a press conference last Friday, Colonel Haponski and Dr. Gobin, chairperson of the Faculty Senate discussed the recent "discovery" of the April 1965 resolution. A previous Arts and Sciences resolution not to grant credit for ROTC courses was thought to be valid until an investigation by the Faculty Senate reviewing the whole MS/ROTC problem discovered the April 1965 resolution.

No one from the Dean's office of the College of Arts and Sciences attended the conference even though an invitation had been extended. Dean Weiger, in a conversation before the press meeting, stated that it was a faculty matter to grant credit and that his office only administers the college. The Academic Council of Deans met Thursday and discussed the problem.

Colonel Haponski

SPS Photo: Lew Comenetz

Colonel Haponski, chairperson of the Military Science Department discussed the background to the present problem. He stated that in 1965 ROTC was made optional for students and that the April resolution was an outcome of that. It was also, he claims, the last official action of the Faculty Senate concerning MS/ROTC.

In 1969, he states, the College of Arts and Sciences adopted a resolution to deny credit for its students not in ROTC. Haponski claimed that this was a reaction to the war in Viet Nam as well as the "academic worthiness" questions.

Dr. Gobin explained that no action was required by the senate on the discovery nor was any action initiated. In defense of the Military Science position, Haponski stated that he "assumed the Faculty Senate was a superior body to the College of Arts and Sciences" and that he has been "fighting against a paper tiger."

As to who authorizes academic credit, Dr. Gobin believed it was "basically a Faculty Senate action." He also claimed that the action by the College of Arts and Sciences was an improper one, although he said the "Senate's overriding authority must be reexamined."

In closing, Colonel Haponski said that the Arts and Sciences action had a serious effect by not having credit. He estimated as many as 75 students have wanted to take courses but couldn't because of the credit rules.

The Academic Affairs Committee of the Faculty Senate explained the situation to the senate last week. The committee found an April 1965 resolution which reads "That four hours credit be granted within the total degree requirements of the various colleges for the successful completion of each of the first two years of military science and that these hours be accepted to meet the requirements of the free electives in the various colleges." According to this resolution the College of Arts and Sciences is required to grant credit for MS courses for non-ROTC students.

The committee report then claimed that this was the last action taken by the Senate in the Military Science issue and therefore it is still in effect. The College of Arts and Sciences, however, voted in 1969 to deny credit for MS courses if the student was not enrolled in ROTC.

According to the Faculty Senate, the College of Arts and Sciences must now grant credit for all students as well as grant retroactive credit for students who took courses since 1969.

The senate passed three resolutions concerning the Military Science question or lack of a question. First the reconstruction of university committee or Military Science/ROTC as a subcommittee of the
(continued on page nine)

In Close Student Association Election, Peter MacAusland Declared President

by Barbara Frankel

As of 9 p.m. last night, Peter MacAusland was the winner in the S.A. presidential election. In a very close election, results of which were to be verified at computers in Waterman at midnight, Chris Milaneni, S.A. secretary of elections, announced that MacAusland received only 37 votes over his nearest competitor, Steve Rollins.

A total of 1654 students voted in the election, held on Tuesday and Wednesday. As of this writing, the official results were: MacAusland — 517 votes, Rollins — 480 votes, Maclab - 351 votes and Cassidy - 242 votes. Most observers had expected Cassidy to make a stronger showing in this election.

MacAusland, head of the Billings Center Governing Board, is a junior from Windham, Vermont. MacAusland advocates assigning one or two senators as advisors to each funded S.A. organization. He has called for much more "one-to-one personal contact with the senators."

MacAusland believes the president should "coordinate all the Senate's activities by acting as a spokesman to the administration and an advisor to all S.A. organizations."

Like all of the other candidates, MacAusland does not favor a major change in the structure of the S.A. He feels the Student Association is a workable organization and can do a lot for the students, providing the right people provide more direct communication for the senators.

MacAusland is an art major who hopes to work in the field of furniture design. He feels he has a way of "communicating with people. If a senator doesn't work, I'll go to his constituency."

At Tuesday night's S.A. Senate meeting, there was some controversy over election procedures. On Tuesday, students' I.D.s were not marked, thus enabling a student to vote three or four times at different booths. Milaneni changed this on Wednesday when I.D.s were marked. There has been some speculation that some of the losers may call for a revote. This remains to be seen.

The voting turn-out was higher this year than in the last few years. Milaneni had no explanation for this. "It's funny," commented an interested observer. "Students seem more and more apathetic these days. I wonder why the turn-out has increased. Maybe there are just more students."

More Out-Of-Staters Seek Vermont Resident Status

by Randy Jansen

In increasing numbers, out-of-state students are applying for Vermont resident status and unfortunately or fortunately (depending on your outlook) some will be rejected. The procedures UVM utilizes to decide whether a student is a Vermont resident are simple, but difficult decisions have to be made.

On applying for a change in status, a student must first process his application through one of three people. If one is an undergraduate, one must go through Dr. Steele's (Director of Admissions) office; graduate students (except medical) are handled by Dean MacMillan, and medical students see Dean Turney. Operating under the guidelines set down by the trustees, these three men decide if the applicants have met the requirements that qualify him as a Vermonter.

If granted in-state status, the registrar would be informed of the change and make the necessary adjustments. A student's status does not change during a semester, but in the following semester.

In case of rejection, a student can appeal to Dean Powers, head of the Residency Committee. The Residency Committee is composed of faculty, students and administrators. They can overrule any decision made by either Dr. Steele Dean MacMillan, or Dean Turney. Decisions made by the Residency Committee are final and cannot be appealed.

There are several courses for a student who appeals to the Residency Committee. He can appear in person, or he may submit his case in writing. A counsel may also be present. (The UVM lawyer sits in on the meetings.)

The major problem facing Admissions and students in proving domicile. The trustees' In-State Status Regulations define domicile as "Domicile shall mean a person's true, fixed and permanent home, to which, he intends to return when absent. A residence established for the purpose of attending an educational institution or qualifying for resident status for tuition purposes shall not of itself constitute domicile."

Dean Powers further explains this by saying that there are two basic components of this definition. One is the actual physical presence of a student in Vermont and the intent of the student. Intent is basically the behavioral aspects. Does a student plan on making Vermont his home? How has the student become involved in Vermont life and culture? These and other questions are taken into consideration when an
(continued on page nine)

WRUV Shut Down Temporarily For Coordinating Campus Streak

by Sig Heller

Early Wednesday morning, March 7, the University of Vermont gained national attention through a UPI press flash that told of campus security officers shutting down the student radio station for "coordinating a mixed group of about 200 streakers."

The press report told a Kafka type tale in which a campus security sergeant entered the radio station while streak broadcasting was going on and said over the air, "Hang up the phone," "Don't say who I am," and "We'd like you to shut down."

At first glance it seems to be a job for the American Civil Liberties Union, as student rights may have been disregarded and a censuring of free media may have occurred. But the story has other aspects left out in the UPI release.

The shut-down occurred because of two problems. One was a report by Bill Compton, Resident Advisor in Davis Hall, claiming that WRUV was broadcasting false information and inciting people to streak. The other incident was a statement from Mitch Fried, night clerk at Harris-Millis Hall, who reported three suspicious men carrying iron pipes in the lounge. They were talking about "getting those perverted streakers." Security has said that other warnings had been received of possible confrontations and that they had been trying to avoid them.

Can you recognize anyone?

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Chief Barrett, who wasn't present at the time of the shut-down, says that in retrospect "possibly a little more thought could have been given at the time, the sergeant did the best he could." Barrett also stated that if security had gone through the proper administrative channel, such as the faculty advisor, the situation could have been handled better.

Tim Lewis, Station Manager of WRUV-AM, admits that the station was coordinating the streaking effort and possibly inciting people to streak, but Lewis would have been glad to cooperate with Security and hold down the broadcasts, had he known of the problems occurring in other parts of the campus.

Apparently the university administration gave no orders as to the shutting down of WRUV. This conclusion stems from several announcements dealing with streaking which were played on Dr. Larry McCrorey's jazz show on WRUV-FM. Dr. McCrorey, Acting Vice President of Academic Affairs, even played music to streak by.

The result of all this radio coordination led to a very successful streak. About 60 naked males streaked by the torchlight from the green in front of the shoeboxes, around Cook building, into the all-night study room of the library, and back. One streak occurred around 12:15 and observers claimed that another episode took place at 1:00 a.m. with a bigger and more enthusiastic crowd.

Student Health Fees Rise $15-$20 To Fund Infirmary Move

by Carol Dufault

A projected $15-$20 increase in health fees will be imposed on the student body next September, bringing the yearly health fee total to approximately $60.

According to George Clerkin, UVM Treasurer, the increase is necessary to fund the move to the new infirmary on East Avenue, but because construction bids for the alteration of the present nursing home into a university health facility are not closed, no exact fee hike has been determined.

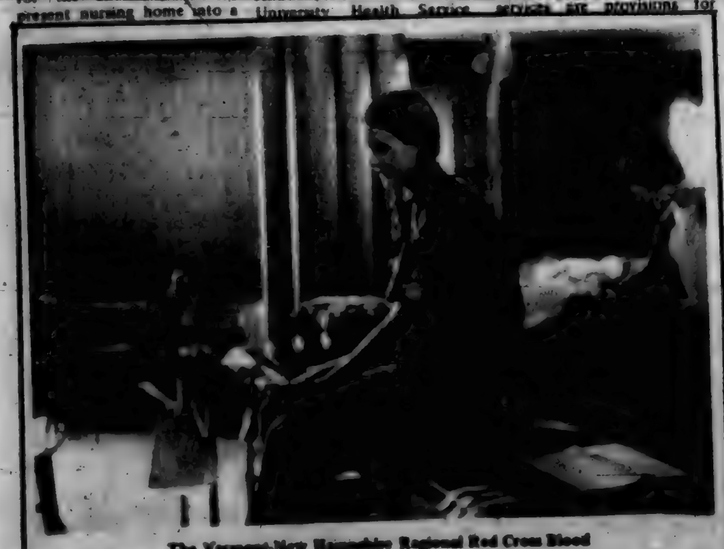
The total cost in transferring the university infirmary from its present location to East Avenue includes $150,000 for the purchase of the nursing home and the lot, plus an estimated $600,000-$700,000 for alterations. Dr. Richard Amidon, director of the University Health Service, stated that the new infirmary will become an auxiliary enterprise responsible for the payment of utilities such as electricity and water as well as maintainence and janitorial care. He said, "We will have to paddle our canoe to meet expenses."

Aside from the new location, new services will be initiated at the university infirmary. Included in the services are provisions for x-ray facilities and full-time laboratory work. Amidon also stressed the importance of student input in the form of recommended needs and dislikes with the University Health Service, and a student advisory board may be established for this purpose. A potential exists for the development of student programs such as weight watchers and a service geared at the prevention of high blood pressure. According to Amidon, the new infirmary will be "a more complete and satisfactory health service to students."

Originally, the university was awarded a $1.2 million HUD grant for the transference of the student health center from Main St. to East Avenue. However, HUD demands the enforcement of supervision and legal guidelines for construction, and university officials speculated that in the long run, the university would save money by obtaining a loan locally.

Amidon expressed hope in finding ways to legally go around the rigid guidelines established by HUD and still obtain the loan through Housing and Urban Development at the yearly rate of three percent.

Officially, the University will take over the new building on July 1, 1974, and if reasonable bids are received, alterations will begin immediately. It is hoped that the building will be ready for use by January 1975.



The Vermont-New Hampshire Regional Red Cross Blood Mobile stops in Billings for four days this week. Sponsored by Ethan Allen Rifles, Pershing Rifles, and Capers, the blood drive has been a bi-annual event at UVM for over twenty years. At press time approximately 580 pints had been donated. The drive ends today at 3 p.m.

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

News Analysis:

Nationalized Teacher's Union Can CreateMore Academic Freedom

by Kathy Stiasni

The John Dewey Federation of the University of Vermont is emerging as a representative union for faculty. The recent decision of UVM's local union to join forces with the American Teacher's Federation will create potentially a new atmosphere for the discussion and determination of issues such as salaries, tenure, professional standards, and academic freedom.

The 80 current members of the John Dewey Federation are drawing up a constitution to deal with basic procedural questions. Presently, one of the union's crucial tasks is that of defining its qualifications for a membership body. There has already been a decision to exclude department chairpersons in order to avoid the possibility of splitting the union into two opposing or incompatable factions of management and labor. It has been stipulated that only in the event that a chairperson has been democratically elected by his department will he or she be eligible to become a union member.

The present membership is mainly within the College of Arts and Sciences with only 12 members in other colleges. A more formalized recruiting process will commence in the near future. Members now see their role in the recruiting process as an educative one. Non-members must become aware of the potenital for decision-making afforded by a union. Once 30 per cent of the University's faculty have signed a petition, a vote for or against collective bargaining will ultimately determine the success of the union. If the organization remains without the power to bargain collectively it will be an ineffective one.

As a collective bargaining unit the union will be in a position to negotiate financial priorities. Questions, for example, as to why the promised eight percent faculty wage increase fell far short of that figure when matched against the rising cost of living will need answers from the administration. Union members will expect to attend trustee meetings. They will demand clearer explanations of budgetary procedures. Administrative costs will be evaluated.

Salaries "across the board," comparative earnings from one college to another will be discussed. These demands will influence increased input into the decision-making process. It is hoped that a vote on collective bargaining will take place late this semester or early next fall. However, until such a time the union will assert opinions rather than make monumental decisions on university policy.

One prime concern at present is the increased out-of-state tuition. Many union members share union convener Justin Joffee's opinion that "tuition increase
(continued on page nine)

Featured This Week:

UVM Wins Division II—p.12

Thoughts On Streaking—p.9

Table Of Contents

Arts and Entertainment ..... p. 8
Calendar/Announcements ..... p. 2
Editorial ..... p. 4
Sports ..... p. 12

This paper is recyclable — bring this and other newspapers, magazines, and other paper to Robinson Hall or Davis Hall, Monday and Thursday nights — 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

CALENDAR / ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar's Remarks

Spring recess is March 29-30 - No classes that week. Classes resume the next week as usual.

Does the registrar have your current local address? If not, you won't receive your advance enrollment information when it is mailed to you on April 4. Stop in at your convenience soon and have it checked.

Suspicious Persons

Campus Security reports a number of complaints of persons being accosted in the Living/Learning Center and Cook Building, especially in the latter. If anyone should encounter such a situation, or see any suspicious persons around after hours, contact Campus Security at once. Extention 3474.

P&SS Lecture

The UVM Plant and Soil Science Society presents the second of fours public lectures. The topic will be 'Horticulture in Scandanavia and Northern Europe.' The speaker will be Norman Pellett, Vermont's extension service ornamental horticulturalist, who has just returned from a sabbatical in Scandanavia. The lecture will be at Rowell Auditorium, 7:30 Wednesday, March 20. The public is welcome. Admission is free.

Forthcoming Student Handbook

Due to the lack of a comprehensive source of information on campus, a student handbook is being developed by a group of students, faculty and staff. The handbook will serve both the incoming freshmen as well as all other students on campus. Its development is in answer to expressed needs for an efficient vehicle for informing students of student organizations, on-campus survival services, area recreational programs, athletic facilities, and community services. In addition to these topics the handbook will include information concerning student rights and responsibilities, university procedures, and academic policies.

Work has already begun on the handbook, but there is a need for additional input in all the areas mentioned above. Anyone interested in contributing to the publication of the handbook should attend the next meeting, which will be held at Billings Center on Sunday, March 17, at 8:00 p.m. Any questions concerning the handbook should be directed to Jeff Thaxter at 656-2060.

Four Or Five Day Week?

On February 20 the Faculty Senate voted to return to the conventional five-day week for scheduling classes Fall Semester. The academic calendar for fall remains as it was previously approved beginning with registration on August 29-30. Classes will end on December 10 and exams will end December 18. The Senate also approved a recommendation by the Academic Affairs Committee which called for a May 1, 1974 decision about the 1975 Spring Semester calendar.

The Academic Affairs Committee is considering alterations to the spring calendar and class scheduling. It is concerned with maintaining quality instruction, research, and service programs while at the same time operating in a way that will lower fuel consumption and minimize fuel costs.

The committee would appreciate your reactions to the four-day week and five-day week. Any suggestions you have for Spring 1975 would be helpful. Please address your comments to Marilyn Osborn, Terrill Hall.

SHEA

The Student Home Economics Association (SHEA) will be having a bake sale Friday, March 15 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Bookstore.

Bedlam II

The Billings Center Governing Board will sponsor its second Billings Bedlam on Friday night April 5. The all-night programming will last from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. with movies, music, recreation, food, and other varieties. Look out for further details.

VPIRG Debate

On Tuesday, March 19, at 7:30 p.m. at 235 Benedict Life Sciences auditorium, there will be a debate between Scott Skinner, the Director of the Vermont Public Interest Research Group and James Finneran, lobbyist for the Vermont beer distributors.

The bill the two men are debating calls for a ban on flip top cans and a two cent deposit on "certified" bottles (i.e. bottles that are refillable and can be used by two or more companies.) An amendment to the bill helps grocers by allowing them to only accept back bottles eight hours per day with the option of not accepting bottles one day per week.

At press time the bill is in the Senate Natural Resources Committee. The audience at the debate in all likelihood will be a good indicator of public feelings for the bill. Since the bill is in committee now, the debate will be very timely. Public opinion has a strong influence on legislators.

The members of the Senate Natural Resources Committee are: Ed Janeway - R-Windham, John O'Brien - D-Chittenden, Frank Smallwood - R-Windsor, Ed Janeway - R-Windham, John O'Brien - D-Chittenden, Frank Smallwood - R-Windsor, Fred Smith - R-Chittenden.

Any correspondence relative to the bill should be addressed to them. For further information concerning the bill or debate contact VPIRG, 49 N. Prospect St., call 863-3435.

This week marks the start of several days' festivities in honor of the opening of the new Royall Tyler Theatre. An exhibition and dedication ceremonies are on this week's Calender. Royall Tyler's "The Contrast" will be performed nightly at 8, March 15 through 19 (Box Office 656-2094). Scheduled on the afternoons of March 19 and 21 are symposia on Royall Tyler, and Marsh 20 and 21 two one-act plays (by Royall Tyler, Sr. and Royall Tyler, Jr.) will be performed, also starting at 8 p.m.

Lane Series still has tickets to the science fiction film, "The Time Machine," and to the concluding concert on the major series, "The Welsh Choir of Cardiff," appearing here March 19. Contact the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, Tel. 656-3418.

ACE has nothing scheduled this week.

ACTION recruiters will be at Billings Center all week - University Year for Action there March 19-22, and VISTA/Peace Corps on March 20-21.

THURSDAY, MARCH 14

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga class at Unitarian Church, followed at 7:30 by meditation class.

7 p.m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Bldg. A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7:30 p.m., CAPE (Collegiate Association for Principled Education) meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., Lecture and discussion on Commune Living, One Family, Room E166 Living/Learning Center. Sponsored by C.A.P.E.

7:30 p.m., ACE in the hall presents Lewis Gordon, "Fundamentals of Stock Markets and Stock Pricing," lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Communications Training," with Mike Schaal; call 862-2013 for information, reservations.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents Marlon Brando in "Tea House of the August Moon," with Glenn Ford, B106 Cook Bldg., admission 75 cents.

8 p.m., WRUV-FM does their live recording in the round room, Billings Center; open to all.

FRIDAY, MARCH 15

8:30-10:45 a.m., Student Association Finance Committee meeting, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

9:30-11:30 a.m., business administration students offer senior citizens and those within Dept. of Labor poverty guidelines assistance in filling out state income tax forms, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

7:15 p.m., discussion group open to all students interested in raising questions of life, faith, church, etc., Burgess Hall lounge, led by Chaplain Odie.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Dance Language," with Karen Aschenbach; call 862-2013 for reservations.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., Lane Film, "The Time Machine," showings at Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Building; tickets $1 at the door or from the Lane Office.

7:30 and 9:40 p.m., SAFilms presents "The Birds," Johnson Auditorium, Votey Bldg. Admission 75 cents.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents "Casablanca," starring Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman and Conrad Veidt, B106 Cook Bldg., admission 50 cents.

8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick Ballroom; all are welcome.

8 p.m., music department recital by Edward Spence, in partial fulfillment of the requirements for a master's degree in music, Ira Allen Chapel. Mr. Spence will be accompanied by UVM graduate Cindy Mathews, and assisted by several other instrumentalists. On his program are works by Hindemith, Sanders, Malcolm Arnold, and Bertali (for sackbut and harpsichord). (Music department watch for: April 5 inaugural recital on the new Tourin harpsichord).

8 p.m., Opening Night at the new Royall Tyler Theatre. Royall Tyler's "The Contrast," a musical adaptation by Anthony J. Stimac, music by Don Pippin, and lyrics by Steve Brown; reception following. Box Office, 656-2094. ($1.50 with UVM I.D., $3 general). The play will run nightly through March 19.

9 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement, Billings Center.

SATURDAY, MARCH 16

2-10 p.m., students in Robinson Hall, the environmental interest hall, present an Environmental Fair, at the lounge of Wing-Davis-Wilks halls, Redstone Campus.

8 p.m., "The Contrast," at Royall Tyler Theatre. Box Office, 656-2094. Details under March 15.

8 p.m., "Festival of Sound," contemporary folk song, spiritual and classical music, with chance to sing along, at Ira Allen Chapel. Admission is absolutely free; UVM Lamplighters promise a great evening. Tickets at Billings Center and MAT desk as seats are limited.

8 p.m., Senior beer and pizza party for seniors only. Bring ID's, 115 Commons, Living/Learning Center. Sponsored by the senior class.

SUNDAY, MARCH 17

2 p.m., Royall Tyler Theatre dedication events continue with a concert by the UVM Baroque Ensemble: "Music for a While: Selections from the Age of Elegance." Admission free.

6 p.m., Anthropology Club Ethnic Dinner, at Living/Learning Center. Contact the Anthropology Department in advance.

9 p.m., Lacrosse team St. Patrick's Day dance, dining room of Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls with The Dead End Kids.

8 p.m., "The Contrast," at Royall Tyler Theatre. Details under March 15.

MONDAY, MARCH 18

Enrollment for fall semester, originally set to begin today, has been postponed until April 23-26.

1 p.m., informational meeting at Room 115, Commons Building, Living/Learning for those interested in enrolling in the new Medieval and Renaissance Studies program. More information from Professor James Howe, English Department, 309 Old Mill, 656-3056. See also story this issue.

2 - 5 p.m., open house and tours at the new Royall Tyler Theatre.

3:45 p.m., Zoology seminar, David A. Drebert, zoology department, "Comparative Water Balance of Peromyscus leucopus and P. maniculatus," Room 105 of Marsh Life Building, coffee at 3:30.

4 p.m., meeting of Premed Club, mainly of interest to juniors, North lounge Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., a study of the Bible is conducted Monday nights at the Newman Center; open to all.

7:30 p.m., UVM Sailing Club meets, B106 Cook Building. On the agenda: organizational meeting for spring racing team, fall racing series, and discussion of boat purchase. All invited.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Fair Fighting for Couples," with Dan Meyer and Nancy Koch; dial 862-2013 for reservations, and information.

8 p.m., "The Contrast," Royall Tyler Theatre. Details under March 15.

8 p.m., Phi Beta Kappa lecture by Visiting Scholar Dr. Harry B. Gray, professor of chemistry at California Institute of Technology, "The Science Funding Roller Coaster and the PreMed Bust," Carpenter Auditorium, Given Building. Open to all.

8 p.m., SAFilms presents "Beau Geste," with Gary Cooper in North Lounge, Billings Center. Free.

TUESDAY, MARCH 19

College of Education and Social Services hosts visit by Mr. Charles Johnson and Mr. Robert Twiss, Vermont School superintendents, who will interview teaching candidates. Call 656-3477 to make an appointment.

10 a.m. - 6 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board hosts a print sale by Gallery 410, Marsh Room Billings Center.

10:50 a.m., Chemistry Colloquium by Visiting Scholar Dr. Harry B. Gray, "Electron Transfer Pathways Employed by Metalloproteins," B-112 Cook Building.

1 p.m., Royall Tyler Theatre dedication events include today, a seminar on "Tyler, Man of Letters and Affairs," at the Theatre.

3:30 p.m., meeting of Art Education and Elementary Education students expecting to graduate in December '74 or May '75, Faculty Lounge, fifth floor, Waterman Building. Distribution of graduation check sheets and discussion of job placement, certification procedures, etc. with faculty and staff members.

4:10 p.m., College of Agriculture faculty meeting, B-112 Cook Building.

6 p.m., Rugby Club meets, North Lounge, Billings Center.

(continued on page three)

OVP Openings

People with ideas, ambitions, goals and energy. OVP would like you to become part of the community, and its happenings. There are still many openings left in all areas, working with children, teens, young adults, up to and including the elderly. If you are interested in academic credit, or just the plain good feeling of what helping someone can do for you, stop in at the OVP office in Mansfield House, behind Ira Allen Chapel.

SESH

SESH at Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity will be in full force this Sunday evening from 7 to 12 p.m. Come on down for the Saint Patty's day special time at the Sunday Evening Social Hour for a great time with the Brothers and guests of Sig Ep. And, it's every Sunday evening at 371 Main Street, Burlington, away from the maddening crowds.

Reading Center

Are you tutoring, student teaching or participating? If you need materials or suggestions, come and visit the Reading Center in 409 Waterman. We have books (all levels), games, kits, magazines, and records. All items can be signed out.

Man And Beast

Everyone's Gallery presents Man and Beast on March 12 - 23 in Room B161 of Living/Learning Center. The exhibit will be from 3-6 and 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 3-8 p.m. Friday, and 1-4 p.m. on Saturday.

German Film

Tuesday, March 19, the German Club will present the film Der Hauptmann von Koepnick' in German. The film will be shown in Johnson Auditorium, Votey, at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

VISTA & PEACE CORPS HAVE THOUSANDS OF INTERESTING JOBS

Both Peace Corps and VISTA have job openings for college grads, people with some practical experience in a trade and people with a first-hand knowledge of poverty problems. VISTA wants people to serve in places as diverse as Appalachia and Detroit; Peace Corps has requests for volunteers in 58 developing nations.

Representatives will be on campus soon looking for people with majors and experiences like these, to go into programs beginning in July-September:

VISTA: Law, Pre-school, Special Ed., Psychology, Guidance Counseling, Social Sciences, Recreation, Journalism, City Planning, Home Ec., Construction work, Carpentry, Community Health, Lab Technician, PE, Elementary/Secondary Teaching, BBA's, Accounting, Architecture, Civil Engineering, Voc Ed, Spanish majors & fluent speakers, Personnel Administration, Pharmacy, Agriculture, LPN.

Peace Corps: Architecture, Ag Economics, Biology, Liberal Arts, Ag Engineering, Accounting, Public Administration, Agronomy, Plant Pathology, Business Administration, Geology, Home Ec/Nutrition, Hospital Administration, Construction work, Auto Body Repair, Medical Technology, OT, Public Health, Plumbing, Elementary & Secondary Teaching, Civil Engineering, Speech Pathology, Cabinetmaking, Surveying, Statistics, Heavy Equipment Operators, Industrial Arts, French/Spanish majors and fluent speakers, MS and BSRN's, Math and Science.

The above is only a partial list. We're looking for people about to graduate in many fields and people with farm experience and rural backgrounds, problem-solving experience, literacy, tutorial and organizational experience.

Peace Corps and VISTA pay a living allowance, travel, medical expenses and a completion-of-service allotment of $50-$75 per month on the job.

Representatives will be on campus March 20-21. Stop by the Placement Office now for more information and to sign up for an interview.

VALUABLE COUPON
SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS
10% DISCOUNT
ON YOUR PURCHASES AT
CAMPUS PHARMACY
ACROSS FROM The Medical Center
SAVE

DOMINO'S PIZZA
MONDAY NIGHT SPECIAL
4:30 pm to 7:00 pm
864-7444 WILLISTON ROAD
658-3333 N. WINOOSKI AVE
FREE DELIVERY
$1.00 off a LARGE PIZZA except large plain
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
Good for March 18, 25, 1974
MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm
1 coupon per pizza
50c off a SMALL PIZZA except small plain
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
Good for March 18, 25, 1974
MONDAY NITE 4:30pm to 7:00pm
1 coupon per pizza

DOMINO'S PIZZA
50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA
Name
Address
Phone
864-7444 Williston Road
658-3333 No. Winooski Ave
Void if not completed
Expires March 20, 1974
1 Coupon per pizza

(continued from page two)

7:30 p.m., German Club film, "Der Hauptmann von Koepenick," in German, Johnson Auditorium, Votey Building; free.

7:30 p.m., S.A. Senate meets, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., UVM Lamplighters meet for group bible inquiry, library lounge, Marsh Austin; more information from Sue K. Extension 29[illegible]

7:30 p.m., Christian Science College Organization, 389 College Street. (Hillel House, all are welcome.)

7:30 p.m., CAPE lecture, "The Last Days of Tolkahsn, Room A-102, Living/Learning Center.

8 p.m., SAFilms presents "Macbeth," Billings Center, admission 50 cents.

8 p.m., "The Contrast," Royall Tyler [illegible] under March 15. Concluding performance.

8 p.m., Lane Series presents the final [illegible] the season, the Welsh Choir of Cardiff, Auditorium; tickets still available from the Lane Office.

8 p.m., SAFilms presents "Under Capricorn," Bergman and Joseph Cotton, B106 Cook Building, admission is free.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20

9:30 - 10:45 a.m., SA Finance Committee, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

9 a.m. - 5 p.m., ACTION recruiters will be at Billings Center - sign up now - it's getting close to spring programs, and a good time for fall programs for returned volunteers. Also interviews to apply for Career Planning and Placement Office.

10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and 7 - 10 p.m., [illegible] Marsh Room, Billings Center.

11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., Billings Center Program Board presents the movie, "An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge," in North Lounge of Billings Center.

12:15 p.m., AIM, "Voyages in the Spirit," Room C, Billings Center.

1:30 - 4:30 p.m., S. A. Finance Committee, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

3 p.m., Mechanical engineering seminar, Vermont Agricultural Development and Control, "Industrial Development in Vermont," 231

3:30 p.m., meeting for Music Education and Secondary Education students graduate in December 1974 or May 1975, fifth floor Waterman Building. Distribution of check sheets and discussion of job placement procedures, etc. with faculty and staff members.

6:30 p.m., meeting of Student Advisory College of Arts and Sciences, Memorial Lounge, Billings.

7:30 p.m., Confession, or more properly, Sacrament of Penance and reconciliation is the topic of discussion and explanation at the Cunningham Center, with Father Omer Dufault.

7:30 p.m., Outing Club meets, 196 [illegible] behind Admissions Office.

8 p.m., Royall Tyler Theatre presents the first of a Reader's Theatre production of Tyler's "King Solomon," directed by Prof. Jennifer Cowden, and "The Dumb Gent," directed by Charles [illegible], free.

8 p.m., Women of UVM Book Discussion Group meet at the home of Madeline Nash, 9 [illegible] Essex Jct., to discuss "Madame Bovary" by Flaubert.

8 p.m., SA Films presents a foreign [illegible] Lounge, Billings Center; admission 75 cents.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club [illegible] international dances taught, all welcome, Southwick Ballroom.

THURSDAY, MARCH [illegible]

9 a.m. - 5 p.m., ACTION recruiters [illegible] Center, for Vista and Peace Corps, appointment at the Office of Career Placement.

10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and 7 - 10 p.m., [illegible] Marsh Lounge.

10:50 a.m., Chemistry Colloquium, [illegible] Clarkson College of Technology, Room [illegible]

11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Steffens, history, on formulators of the energy principle, 305 B Votey Bldg., [illegible] will be served.

2 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class, 131, Living/Learning Center.

3 - 5 p.m., Asia Symposium presents [illegible] anthropolotist who has done field work with Tibetan refugees. Topic: "Cultural Identity of the Anthropolotist," Room 115, Living/Learning Center.

4-5:30 p.m., Bahai Club meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

4:30 p.m., Faculty Senate meets, Carpenter, Given Bldg.

A gift of diamonds is a beautiful tribute to the woman you love.
Prices start at under $[illegible]
You are invited to open a Charge Account at Preston's.
F.J. PRESTON & CO.

...e Contrast," at Royall Tyler Theatre. Bus ...04. Details under March 15.
...estival of Sound," contemporary folk song... ...classical music, with chance to sing along, at ...spel. Admission is absolutely free; UVM ...promise a great evening. Tickets at Billings ...T desk as seats are limited.
...ter beer and pizza party for brewers only. ...115 Commons, Living/Learning Center. ...the senior class.

SUNDAY, MARCH 17

...yall Tyler Theatre dedication events continue ...by the UVM Baroque Ensemble: "Music for ...tions from the Age of Elegance." Admission ...

...Anthropology Club Ethnic Dinner,' at ...g Center. Contact the Anthropology ...ndance.
...across from St. Patrick's Day dance, dining ...h Austin-Tupper Halls with The Dead End ...

...e Contrast," at Royall Tyler Theatre. Details ...15.

MONDAY, MARCH 18

...s for fall semester, originally set to begin ...en postponed until April 23-26.
...formational meeting at Room 115, Commons ...ng/Learning for those interested in enrolling ...Medieval and Renaissance Studies program. ...ation from Professor James Howe, English ...309 Old Mill, 656-3056. See also story this ...

...., open house and tours at the new Royall ...

...Zoology seminar, David A. Drebert, zoology ..."Comparative Water Balance of Peromyscus ...P maniculatus," Room 105 of Marsh Life ...ce at 3:30
...eting of Premed Club, mainly of interest to ...Lounge Billings Center.
...a study of the Bible is conducted Monday ...Newman Center; open to all.
...UVM Sailing Club meets, B106 Cook Building. ...da: organizational meeting for spring racing ...ng series, and discussion of boat purchase. All ...

...The Next Thing presents a workshop, "Fair ...Couples," with Dan Meyer and Nancy Koch; ...for reservations, and information.
..."The Contrast," Royall Tyler Theatre. Details ...13.
...t Beta Kappa lecture by Visiting Scholar Dr. ...ray, professor of chemistry at California ...Technology, "The Science Funding Roller ...the PreMed Bust," Carpenter Auditorium, ...p. Open to all.
...SAFilms presents "Beau Geste," with Gary ...sh Lounge, Billings Center. Free.

TUESDAY, MARCH 19

...Education and Social Services hosts visit by ...Johnson and Mr. Robert Twiss, Vermont ...rintendents, who will interview teaching ...all 656-3477 to make an appointment.
...8 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board hosts ...Gallery 410, Marsh Room Billings Center.
..., Chemistry Colloquium by Visiting Scholar ...Gray, "Electron Transfer Pathways Employed ...teins," B-112 Cook Building.
...Royall Tyler Theatre dedication events include ...ssay on "Tyler, Man of Letters and Affairs," at ...

...meeting of Art Education and Elementary ...dents expecting to graduate in December '74 ..., Faculty Lounge, fifth floor, Waterman ...istribution of graduation check sheets and ...job placement, certification procedures, etc. ...and staff members.
..., College of Agriculture faculty meeting, B-112 ...g.
...Rugby Club meets, North Lounge, Billings.

(continued on page three)

...VP ...nings

...with ideas, ...ools and energy, ...uld like you to ...part of the ...Y, and its ...There are still ...ungs left in all ...ing with children, ...g adults, up to ...ng the elderly. If ...interested in ...redit, or just the ...feeling of what ...neone can do for ...ple at the OVP ...Mansfield House, ...Allen Chapel.

...ESH

...Sigma Phi Epsilon ...will be in full force ...evening from 7 ...Come on down for ...Patty's day special ...Sunday Evening ...for a great time ...rothers and guests ... And, it's every ...ning at 371 Main ...ington, away from ...ing crowds

...PIZZA
...GE PIZZA
...
...
...
...656-3333
...No. Winooski Ave
...ted

Reading Center

Are you tutoring, student teaching or participating? If you need materials or suggestions, come and visit the Reading Center in 409 Waterman. We have books (all levels), games, kits, magazines, and records. All items can be signed out.

Man And Beast

Everyone's Gallery presents Man and Beast on March 12 - 23 in Room B161 of Living/Learning Center. The exhibit will be from 3-6 and 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 3-8 p.m. Friday, and 1-4 p.m. on Saturday.

German Film

Tuesday, March 19, the German Club will present the film Der Hauptmann von Koepnick in German. The film will be shown in Johnson Auditorium, Votey, at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

(continued from page two)

7:30 p.m., German Club film, "Der Hauptmann von Koepenick," in German, Johnson Auditorium, Votey Building. Free.
7:30 p.m., S.A. Senate meets, Marsh Room, Billings Center.
7:30 p.m., UVM Lamplighters meet for gospel music and bible inquiry, library lounge, Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls. more information from Sue K., Extension 2952.
7:30 p.m., Christian Science College Organization meets, 589 College Street. (Hillel House); all are welcome.
7:30 p.m., CAPE lecture, "The Last Days," by Jeffrey Tallakson, Room A-102, Living Learning Center.
8 p.m., SAFilms presents "Macbeth," North Lounge Billings Center; admission $1.
9 p.m., "The Contrast," Royall Tyler Theatre, details under March 15. Concluding performance.
9 p.m., Lane Series presents the final major concert of the season, the Welsh Choir of Cardiff. Memorial Auditorium-tickets still available from the Lane Office.
9 p.m., SAFilms presents "Under Capricorn," with Ingrid Bergman and Joseph Cotton, B106 Cook Building, admission is free.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20

9:30 - 10:45 a.m., SA Finance Committee meeting, Conference Room C, Billings Center.
9 a.m. - 5 p.m., ACTION recruiters will be in Billings Center - sign up now - it's getting close for summer programs, and a good time for fall programs. Talk with returned volunteers. Also, interviews by appointment at the Career Planning and Placement Office.
10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and 7 - 10 p.m., print sale continues, Marsh Room, Billings Center.
11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board presents the movie, "An Occurence at Owl Creek Bridge," in North Lounge of Billings Center.
12:15 p.m., AIM "Voyages in the Spirit," Conference Room C, Billings Center.
1:30 - 4:30 p.m., S. A. Finance Committee meeting, Conference Room C, Billings Center.
3 p.m., Mechanical engineering seminar, John Farmer, Vermont Agency of Development and Community Affairs, "Industrial Development in Vermont," 231 Votey Building.
3:30 p.m., meeting for Music Education, Physical Education and Secondary Education students expecting to graduate in December 1974 or May 1975, Faculty Lounge, fifth floor Waterman Building. Distribution of graduation check sheets and discussion of job placement, certification procedures, etc, with faculty and staff members.
6:30 p.m., meeting of Student Advisory Committee of College of Arts and Sciences, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.
7:30 p.m., Confession, or more properly, the Sacrament of Penance and reconciliation is the topic of a special discussion and explanation at the Cunningham Newman Center, with Father Omer Dufault.
7:30 p.m., Outing Club meets, 196 S. Prospect St., behind Admissions Office.
8 p.m., Royall Tyler Theatre presents two one-act plays: a Reader's Theatre production of Tyler's "Judgment of Solomon," directed by Prof. Jennifer Cover, and Tyler, Jr.'s "The Dumb Gent," directed by Charles Towers. Admission free.
8 p.m., Women of UVM Book Discussion Group will meet at the home of Madeline Nash, 9 South Hill Drive, Essex Jct., to discuss "Madame Bovary" by Gustav Flaubert.
8 p.m., SA Films presents a foreign cinema night, North Lounge, Billings Center; admission 75 cents.
8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets; all levels of international dances taught; all welcome. Place is Southwick Ballroom.

THURSDAY, MARCH 21

9 a.m. - 5 p.m., ACTION recruiters will be at Billings Center; for Vista and Peace Corps. Interviews by appointment at the Office of Career Planning and Placement.
10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and 7 - 10 p.m., print sale at Billings, Marsh Lounge.
10:50 a.m., Chemistry Colloquium, Prof. R. E. Partch, Clarkson College of Technology, Room B-112 Cook Bldg.
11 a.m., Electrical Engineering seminar, Dr. Henry Steffens, history, on formulators of the conservation of energy principle, 305 B Votey Bldg.; coffee and cookies will be served.
2 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class, Bldg. A, Room 131, Living/ Learning Center.
3 - 5 p.m., Asia Symposium presents David Barber, an anthropolotist who has done field work in India with Tibetan refugees. Topic: "Cultural Identity of Today's Anthropolotist," Room 115, Commons Bldg., Living/Learning Center.
4-5:30 p.m., Bahai Club meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.
4:30 p.m., Faculty Senate meets, Carpenter Auditorium, Given Bldg.

Medieval And Renaissance Studies Program Reception

The faculty of the Medieval and Renaissance Studies Program planned for next fall at the Living/Learning Center will hold a reception for interested students on Monday, March 18, at 1 p.m. in 115 Commons, Living/Learning. Refreshments will be served.

Most of the 25-or-so participating faculty members are expected to attend this reception. They want to meet prospective students, to exchange ideas and good fellowship with them, and generally to give students an idea of what the program will be like. In this way the faculty hopes to help interested students decide if they wish to commit themselves to living in the Center for a year, taking two courses in the program each semester. At the same time, the faculty would like more definite ideas about the interests of prospective student participants, so they may finish plans for the program with these interests in mind.

Its general goals are to give a fuller sense of these two periods than is possible in a conventional program of courses. At the same time, the faculty hopes to interest students in humanistic study by showing them how different kinds of knowledge are interrelated, and by showing that a full view of the two ages is impossible without seeing these interrelationships.

Faculty involved in this Program include Professors Andrea, Steffens, Metcalfe, and Overfield, History; Bryan, Theatre; Chapman, Music; Ambrose and Gilleland, Classics; Engroff, Dean of Students' Office; Haponsky, Military Science; Fengler and Roland, Art; Nunez-de-Cela and Wesseling, Spanish; Wiley and Whitebook, French; Webster, German; Magnarella, Anthropology; Pillsbury, Library; Yarian, Religion; and Bandel, Dickerson, Howe, Long, Rothwell, Stephany, and Simone, English.

For further information about the reception for students, about the program itself, or about procedure for enrolling in it, contact James Howe in 309 Old Mill, or telephone ext. 3056.

Premedical - Predental Meeting

All premedical and predental students who will be applying for admission to professional schools in September, 1975, are strongly urged to attend a special meeting to be held on Monday, March 18, at 4 p.m. in the North Lounge of Billings Center.

Members of the premedical-predental Advisory Committee will be present to discuss recent admission trends, changes in admission policies, and, in general, what the medical and dental schools are looking for in today's candidates.

In addition, the committee plans to begin its work as early as possible in helping you fulfill all requirements. Pre-application forms, required by the committee in order to initiate letters of recommendation, will be available. The committee also plans to begin arranging its interviews at that time.

There will be ample opportunity to raise questions about any aspect of the application process, from first contact with our committee to your ultimate acceptance or rejection. Juniors and other applicants for next year's entering classes, don't miss this meeting! Any other premeds or predents are invited to attend.

Education Students

Students in teacher education programs who expect to graduate in December 1974 or May 1975 are urged to attend an informational meeting to receive copies of graduation check sheets and to discuss completion of degree requirements, job placement and certification procedures with faculty and staff members. Art, Education and Elementary Education students will meet on Tuesday, March 19, and Music Education, Physical Education and Secondary Education students on Wednesday, March 20, both at 3:30 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge, on the fifth floor of Waterman. Further information available at Room 306 Waterman, Ext. 3468.

Lamplighters

The UVM lamplighters have planned a Festival of Sound including contemporary folk songs, spirituals and classical music for March 16. The audience is invited to join in with various groups and soloists who will be performing.

The music begins at 8 p.m. in the Ira Allen Chapel. Tickets for the Festival of Sound are free and may be picked up at Billings Center, or the main desk of the MAT dormitory.

Sailing Club

There will be a meeting of the UVM Sailing Club Monday, March 18 at 7:30 p.m. in B 106 Cook. It is an organizational meeting to discuss the Spring racing team, a Fall racing series, the possible purchase of a boat, and the election of officers. All are invited.

Spiritual Corner

Voyages Of The Spirit

VOYAGES OF THE SPIRIT: a weekly series of personal spiritual exchange. All are invited. The next guest will be John Perry from the UVM Psychology Department. His subject is "Telling Your Story: Exploring Harvey Cox's Ideas of Theology as Autobiography or What to do When you No Longer Believe The Old Myths," Wednesday, March 20, 12:15 p.m. in Conference Room C (upstairs Billings Center).

VOYAGES OF THE SPIRIT (downtown): a series of six discussions on personal spiritual growth during the season of Lent. Every Sunday evening of Lent at 7:30 p.m. in the Parlor of The First Unitarian Church (141 Pearl St., Burlington). Next Sunday evening, March 17, the special guest will be Sr. Lindora Cabral, UVM Campus Minister. Her subject will be "Today's Mortification: Liberating?".

OPEN SUPPER: a bi-weekly get-together, a time for a meal with some friends you haven't met yet. The next supper will be next Thursday night, March 21, 6 p.m. at the AIM Center (basement of 389 College St.). Everyone is welcome.

BIBLE STUDY: every Thursday evening at 9 p.m. in the TV Lounge of Patterson Hall (Redstone Campus). Tonight's (March 14) subject is "The Deuteronomic Law. Those who come should try to read the first eleven chapters of the Book of Deuteronomy.

SUNDAY MORNING CAR POOL: for those who would like a ride to the church of their choice. Call Harry Brooks at 862-9280 Saturday or Sunday morning before 9 a.m.

ECUMENICAL MORNING PRAYER: co-sponsored with the Roman Catholic and Episcopalian campus ministries. Every morning Monday through Friday at 8:30 a.m. at the Newman Center on Redstone Campus.

Cunningham Newman Center

BIBLE STUDY: Conducted by Fr. Dufault at the Center each Monday evening at 8 p.m.

BASIC CATHOLICISM: Each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Background material on the Sacraments.

FRESHMAN CREATIVE DISCUSSION: Next one on Monday, March 18, at 2 p.m.

MORNING PRAYER: Sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant, and Catholic Campus Ministries Monday through Friday, at 8:30 a.m. at the Newman Center.

EVENING PRAYER: Monday through Friday, at 10 p.m. in the Chapel at the Newman Center.

WEEKDAY MASS SCHEDULE: Monday through Friday, 7 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. ALSO: Tuesday evening at 10 p.m.

MASS SCHEDULE: Saturday at 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. and Sunday at 9 and 11:30 a.m., and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

Country Music

There will be a Saint Patrick's Day Country Music Benefit for the Meeting House School, Sunday, March 17, 4 - 11 p.m., at Silver Ridge Pavilion, Morrisville, $2 donation. Soup supper $1. Featured groups: Texas Driver, Road Apple, Tony Washburn and the RFDs, Mogus Bopen, Brian Bull.

Andrews To Speak

On Tuesday March 19, President Andrews will speak informally on the topic of procedural matters of faculty hiring, reappointment and tenure. The talk will be held at 12 p.m. -noon- in North Lounge of Billings Center. A question and answer period will follow. All interested people are invited to attend.

Political Science

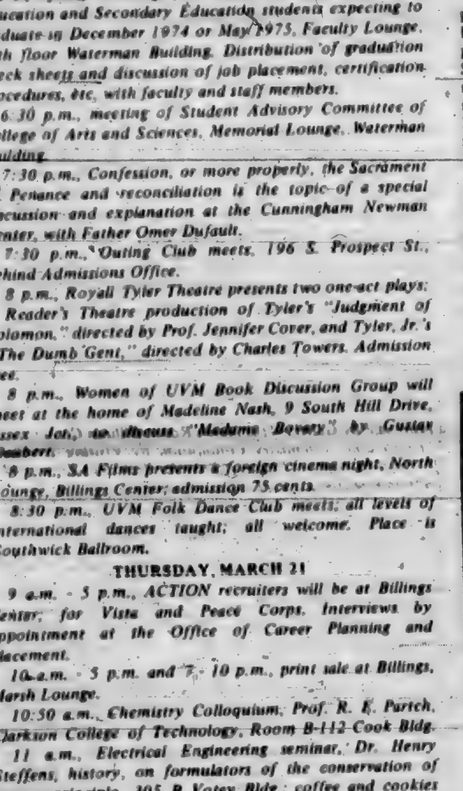
The faculty and student representatives of the Department of Political Science extend a cordial invitation to all political science majors and interested students to the Pact Revue to be held on Friday, March 16 at 5 p.m. in St. Anselm's Chapel. Admission is $1.

Art Show

The Student Alumni Art Show will open Tuesday, March 19, 8 p.m. in the Gallery of Williams Science Hall-second floor. Studio Art graduates Tim Crowley, Terry Dinnan, Scoot Gordon, Steve McDonald, John Noveau, Jill Stevenson, John Witterberg; and others will be featured.

Rugby Team

The University of Vermont Rugby Team will hold its pre-season meeting Tuesday, March 19, in North Lounge Billings Center at 6:30 p.m. The Rugby Team is looking forward to improving its fall season record of six wins and two losses. A ten-game schedule is planned which will include games against St. Michael's, Middlebury, Johnson State, Norwich and several Canadian teams. As in previous seasons no experience is required to play. Like other club sports there are no cuts and all members of the team will play during the regular season. Weather and field conditions permitting, outdoor practice will begin on March 20.



A gift of diamonds is a beautiful tribute to the woman you love.
Prices start at under $100
You are invited to open a Charge Account at Preston's.
F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

CALCULATORS at Lafayette

ADDS
SUBTRACTS DIVIDES
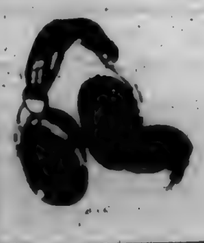
MULTIPLIES

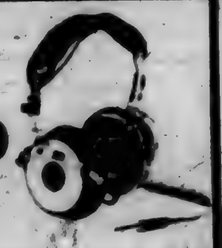
DC OPERATED
9V standard battery

$29.95



Stereo HEADPHONES
Lists for 24.95
• Full comfort
• Hi-fidelity stereo
• Volume controls
$12.50

Superior Range STEREO HEADPHONES
List 42.95
Now ½ Price $22.50
• Advanced design • Extended range
18-24,000 H2 frequency response



• 157 Pearl St., Essex Jct.
• 370 Shelburne Rd. • Barre-Montpelier Road

Lafayette RADIO ELECTRONICS
Visit the New Store in Essex!
Sale ends MARCH 22, 1974
Listen To Us, You Can't Go Wrong

VERMONT CYNIC

Founded In 1883

Barbara Paddock '73, Editor-in-Chief
Rick Stromberg '75, Assistant Editor
Eileen Driscoll '75, Managing Editor
Bruce Maddara '76, News Editor
Kathy Stiassni '77, Assistant News Editor
Margo Howland '75, Features Editor
Lissa Charles '73, Arts Editor
Peter Campbell '75, Assistant Arts Editor
Mike Schwartz '75, Sports Editor
John Van Hoesen '74, Copy Editor
Loren Wilson '74, Advertising Manager

Editorial

Landlords', Tenants' Rights Ignored

Landlords will continue to take advantage of students while slumlords will continue to let their buildings fall into disrepair. The Vermont Senate has unjustifiably tabled the Uniform Landlord and Tenant Act. We cannot agree with this action to kill the bill.

Opponents of the bill claim it would hinder developers from constructing new housing. They also claim the bill would inhibit prospective landlords from entering the landlord business. We question whether uniform laws and clarification of landlords' and tenants' rights would result in fewer new landlords.

The bill was labeled a "rough proposition," and because the Senate found it too complicated, it was tabled. Senator Daniels, who sponsored the bill, simplified the act three times. Should politicians dismiss a bill because it is too complicated? Legislation cannot be tabled because it requires thought.

We feel the bill would protect tenants and landlords; it would clarify damage deposit procedures; it would set down criteria for eviction; the bill would define required landlord services and required tenant responsibilities and improve the quality of housing in the state.

Economic arguments against the bill are faulty. The bill deals with a problem of legal rights, and it is deplorable that the Vermont Senate has chosen to ignore these rights.

J.V.H.

Sentimental Journey

by Steven C. Rice

March 10, 1974: As I turn age 22 today, I reflect on age 21 and remember. It was a year that began with tears and ended with laughter.

It had been more springlike a year ago, and my walk to Battery Park was taken without a scarf or gloves. I sat on a bench and stared beyond the lake, thinking that 21 would be an important age. It meant that I was a legal adult throughout this nation, and it meant I could get drunk in Massachusetts...

I didn't get drunk in Massachusetts, though the opportunity occurred when I journeyed to Lenox and listened to the sad songs of Joan Baez and looked at the balloons rising to the summer sky, fading in the sunset, and Joan's voice sang with the wind...

It was the summer of the Watergate hearings, and I sat, mesmerized by the television, with an ankle injury. The injury had happened when I jumped backwards from a highway truck. It gave me a couple of weeks to relax, but I couldn't. The men who paraded before Ervin's eyebrows were indeed young and one who worked closely with the president, advised other young people not to trust their government, and I asked myself, "Does he mean me?"...

It was the summer of working with men of the Vermont Highway Department... flagging traffic, and having the audacity to stop tankers... drinking good coffee in a Manchester restaurant with co-worker Tom, who was more nervous than I and both of us listening to Dylan's old tune, "Lay Lady Lay," looking over the "scene" in the restaurant, realizing there wasn't much of anything, and so we returned to the garbage truck to empty the barrels along the picnic areas, until I jumped, one day, backwards...

It was the summer of riding with Dad, realizing how much love I felt for him, but the silence between us was deadening, and I cried that night, after getting drunk...On another ride, we laughed and we remembered a fishing trip on a summer evening so long ago, and I cried that night and knew happiness...

It was the summer of walking alone on railroad tracks, whistling a tune, staring at the sunset ahead, ignoring the construction of a new super-duper highway to the right and left of those tracks...

It was also the summer of trips to the Nineteenth Green, a nightclub in Rutland, Vermont with my friend, Steve Gangloff... dancing with many women... and returning in the early morning to Steve's camp in the woods of Danby, both of us reminiscing the days of Mt. Anthony Union High School in Bennington, and remarking how old we were getting...

It was the Fall and a reluctant return to the University of Vermont... the men on the highway, who lacked education, who were poor, who had many dreams deferred, had taught me a more valuable lesson about communicating and being honest... UVM was the same as always, full of noise....

It was late October, and the clouds over Washington D. C. were growing black... I stood before the S. A. Senate and called for the resignation of President Nixon, and my heart thumped with every word and with every emotion... My appeal for resignation cost me a friend... October was not a very good month....

It was December 2, 1973, and my oldest sister, Gloria, walked down the aisle in her wedding gown and cried softly, arm-in-arm with Dad... She and Frank kissed... and the church was silent....

It was the same day, and my kid sister, Anne Marie, was the life of Gloria's reception, as she danced with every man, from age eleven to seventy... For a girl of ten, she acted twenty with her grace and smile...

It was the same day, and my mother, dressed in blue, danced with me... a warm and beautiful woman, doing the polka, reliving moments I never knew in her before....

It was the same day, and my brother, Jim, a restless 17, played a song he wrote for Gloria, and swallowed as he sang his words....

It was the winter when Mrs. Grace Hess, desk hostess at the Marsh-Austin-Tupper main desk, died suddenly in Florida... I miss her smile... She had told me on more than one occasion to believe in myself... And she was one of a very few who meant it with love....

It was a year that ended this morning with another woman's smile and touch....

It was a year that began with tears and ended with laughter.

More Letters...

An Open Letter To Juniors

Dear Juniors:

This year has been particularly rewarding to many members of the senior class. The Senior Class Council has become a viable, working organization on campus, dedicating themselves to making the senior year more profitable to the class as a whole. During the year, activities have ranged from fund-raising mum sales to a student-alumni career day to an upcoming beer and pizza party. Opportunities are great as much of the work is original to each graduating class. Possible committee work can be concerned with commencement exercises, senior week activities, and monthly newsletters to the class.

The time to start work for the class of '75 is now. It is amazing how quickly the senior year can go. Preliminary organization is very important to generate interest in the next senior class. Are you willing to give some of your time? The only prerequisites are a desire to work and your energy.

The present members of the Senior Class Council would like to meet with you. A get-together is scheduled for Wednesday night, April 3 at 8 p.m. in the Marsh Lounge, Billings Center. If you are interested in working on the Council, please attend this meeting. A sign-up sheet for the election of Council members will be at the Student Activities desk in Billings or you can call me at 656-4256.

The senior year can be very rewarding if you are willing to make it so. Your involvement is necessary.

See you on April 3.

Sincerely yours,
Mitchell A. Cooperman
President – Senior Class Council
Class of '74.

FRANKLY SPEAKING....by phil frank

©COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 691-BERKELEY CA 94709

Accounting Flunkee

To the Editor:

If the truth must be known I intend to make the final proclamation. Yesterday afternoon while I was drowning in a quagmire of accounting principles God appeared to me, not in a vision, but in the flesh. He told me the following: "He who has synthesized a complete understanding will hereafter be known as a heretic and must enjoy the security of my now empty throne." Following his speedy departure I was left alone with two distinct problems. First, how could I alleviate the fear I have for this ultimately incomprehensible world by assigning to it the design of an equally incomprehensible god? Secondly, how could I convince myself that this incomprehensibility in itself was not the explanation? Now, after eagerly digesting the writings of the world last night, I can say that I am that heretic God, and have always been. I now understand that I am afraid, scared to death of flunking Accounting I.

Yours in fright,
Arthur Brown
Cont. Ed. '75

Letters To The Editor

Franco Misleading ? ...

To the Editor:

I have seen a copy of a story by Mr. John Franco in which Mr. Franco makes reference to a letter sent by me to the attorney for Dr. Alan Paskow. In that letter, I comment on certain impressions of the position of the UVM Department of Philosophy vis-a-vis the UVM administration which I received during the Spring, 1973. Mr. Franco, I believe, had not seen my letter which was intended for legal uses; his account of the letter is misleading in certain important respects.

Yours sincerely,
Betsi Lang

... Accurately Reported

To the Editor:

I do not believe that Mr. Franco's account is "misleading in certain important respects." It is unfortunate that I am not at liberty to publish Professor Lang's letter; if this were possible, the reader could judge for himself whether Mr. Franco's article was misleading. In my view, Mr. Franco conveyed accurately the major points of Professor Lang's letter.

Alan Paskow

Editor's Note Professor Paskow has shown us Professor Lang's letter to Paskow's attorney. We wish it could be published, for it is a very revealing document. Moreover, it would prove to the reader that both Professor Paskow and Mr. Franco faithfully reported the contents of the letter.

Another Response ...

To the Editor:

John Franco's recent series on Waterman as Watergate was thorough and unusually well-investigated. He worked harder on it than a hiker scaling Camel's Hump backwards, but it was pointless. He was less effective than the D.A. on the Perry Mason Show in proving criminal behavior.

He demonstrated, quite conclusively, that the Board of Trustees and the administration are intertwined in a web of relationships. So what? It's only reasonable that everyone should be acquainted simply because Vermont is a small state and Burlington is a small community.

If there is a connection between Waterman and Watergate, it's in the sensationalism. Mr. Franco, for instance, could just as easily have investigated the public service inter-involvements of the trustees and the administration—MS, Community Chest, Red Cross—as the business tangle. But he went digging for dirt instead.

Frustrated in his search for crime, he introduced a new element: guilt by association. He discovered that the accounting firm of Archibald Peisch (father of Francis Peisch: memben of the state legislature and the Board of Trustees) had been replaced by Coopers and Lybrand. If you assume that Mr. Franco was pacified by the elimination of a possible conflict of interest, you're wrong. He was still obsessed with the evil he could feel in the governing bodies of the University. So he pointed out that Coopers and Lybrand was the very same firm that had handled Mr. Nixon's San Clemente tax deal and inferred that the company had been retained for dirty work here at UVM. In his words, "so it seems that Coopers and Lybrand have had a lot of practice in covering up some of the seamier sides of life. We can only hope that they are maintaining their fine tradition across the green at Waterman." That kind of reasoning is illogical, needlessly vicious, and almost slanderous.

Mr. Franco has probed the administration and the Board of Trustees in depth, and they have come up with their hands clean. So it's time for a halt to character assasination by inference and frivolous reasoning.

There's no more connection between Waterman and Watergate than there is between UVM's Mr. Franco and fascism.

Tom E. McCormick, '75

... Comic Journalism

To the Editor:

I would like to be the first to thank Mr. John Franco for a marvelous contribution to high comic journalism. Armed with an incisive wit and a flair for the drollest sort of mock righteous indignation, Mr. Franco has created, in his "Watergate in Waterman" series one of the best tongue in cheek satires of journalistic muckraking I have ever read. Probably the highest compliment that can be paid him is that the legions of peripheral thinkers on campus think he's serious. It is a satirical confounding of small minds to compare with Swift's Modest Proposal.

First, in the grand satirical tradition of feigning outrage at that which you most admire, Mr. Franco has engineered a triumphant welcome for Vice President Snelling. He convinces us that he actually believes it is the most heinous sort of crime for a vice president for development to have any connections with business, financial, or educational interests. Then, in a tour-de-force mockery of information charts, he uncovers the incredible scandal: the new vice president is living with the President of Shelburne Industries! By the time he finishes his startling revelations of information that everyone is aware of already, he has us certain that he believes that the best possible vice president for development would be an antisocial nun.

Mr. Franco then turns his jaundiced eye to the Board of Trustees. So persuasive is his facade, that he almost has us believing that it is an impeachable offense for a trustee (who's primary job is to deal with the financial affairs of the university) to be a banker. Again we believe the riduculous: the ideal trustee, to Mr. Franco, would be a bankrupt hermit, preferably from out-of-state.

Then, while we are still convulsed with laughter from his first two sallies, Mr. Franco lets fly with his most recent salvo: he attacks private endowment, and persuades us that the loopholes in the nation's tax structure are the University's fault. We must stop the influx of this tainted money, he tells us. Far better for the money to come through the government, so that the university can be subjected to even tighter government control. We all know how free from special interest group persuasion the governing bodies of the nation are. It is these pristine hands that should control the university's purse, he tells us.

The entire series has been a breath of fresh air. We are all better, I think, for this excursion into the realm of the absurd.

Carry on, Mr. Franco. Fortuna favet fatuis.

Cordially,
Andrew Vesel
Graduate College

The Cynic welcomes letters and columns from students, faculty, or any other readers. Materials for publication must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request.

WRUV Shut Down

To the Editor:

I feel now is a prime opportunity to voice my extreme anger towards certain occurrences that I feel the campus should be made aware of. I have worked at WRUV-AM for three years and in that time we have been commandeered and shut down twice by our men in the blue and white. Once in 1972 during The Haiphong incident when the station was being used to spread opinions of all walks of campus life-radicals, rightwingers, etc., and again on Wednesday night for playing part-host to a sporting event that is catching on rapidly nationwide — namely streaking. It is on these two points that I strongly question the University's right to shut down broadcasting and cut off the communication network we have worked so hard to provide our campus with. And the students should be mad! They are paying for that radio station out of S.A funds and I think it's time they thought hard and long about these shutdown tactics and stand up for the first ammendment. You've heard of Radio Free Europe – what about Radio Free UVM?

Flash Gordon

To The UVM Streakers

To the streaking students of U.V.M.,

As you run across the campus or through lecture halls with your hats pulled over your heads and your genitals flapping in the warm Spring breeze, stop for a moment and envision the administration, with big smiles on their faces. They're laughing at all you pin-ups, whose clothes have melted off like the Vermont snow, retreating farther and farther from reality: the reality of the highest tuition rates for a state school in the nation, the firing of professors without consideration of student opinions, and an overall dwindling quality of education. The fascination and intrigue of streaking will soon wear off, but the ink on your Fall '74 bill will remain, as will the overcrowded classes taught by middle-of-the-road professors. Perhaps it is time to strike, not streak!

Tim Marr
Janet Morris
Margery Kaye
Priscilla Elder

A Question Of Ethics

To the Editor:

With the large number of streakers present on the UVM campus within the last week, a grave moral issue has arisen. Should a streaker wear sneakers? We must agree with the true aficionados of the sport, who say absolutely not. The devotion of the streaker to his sport is in question when he wears sneakers. When streaking was conceived, the idea was for the feet to be attired as the rest of the body; naked.

We can't help but wonder what will happen if streaking with sneakers on spreads to all parts of society. It staggers the imagination just to think of the repercussions. Will feet become the most erotic part of the body? Will young men try to lure young maidens to their room, to remove her sneakers and feel her toes? Will Thom McAnns replace Bertha Church as the Burlington store for intimate apparel? Will Penthouse go as far as to show pedal hair? Will women start wearing sneakers with revealing slits? Will cleavage refer to the space between your big toe and the toe next to it? The list goes on and on.

We fully realize that there are occasions when climatic conditions or social mores require the conscientious streaker to don some type of apparel. When streaking in the rain, it is perfectly all right to wear galoshes but not hip boots or waders. Snow shoes or cross country skis are acceptable when streaking in deep snow. And when streaking at a formal affair, what cad would dare show up without wearing his top hat and black tie.

We believe the moral question of whether or not to wear sneakers when streaking is a personal one; but we urge the novice not to take the decision lightly, for he may hold the fate of society as we know it between his toes.

John M. Allen

Ticket Policy Outrageous

To the Editor:

I quite honestly do not understand some of the policies of this university, in this particular instance the functioning of the Athletic Department.

Last Saturday morning I was planning to go up to the gym to buy a ticket to the hockey game against Merrimack. However, I had been informed that all of the available tickets were sold the day befory to season ticket holders.

I do not mind the fact that season ticket holders were given first priority, however these people were allowed to buy more than one ticket for this game. This to me is outrageous! I know some of the season ticket holders who were allowed to purchase as many as seven tickets on one season pass. It should have been the responsibility of the Athletic Department to see that only one ticket was sold to each season pass holder, so that those of us who did not have these passes could have had somewhat of a chance to purchase a ticket also.

It is a disgrace that the Athletic Department was so remiss in the allocation of the hockey tickets.

Joseph Rosenblum

VERMONT CYNIC

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Dave Compagna, Bill Campbell, Cecilia Elwell, Andrew Morse.
FEATURE: Bari Bodi, Carol Dufault, Laurie Rann.
ARTS: Bari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Doug Collette, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, Elliott Freeman, Sig Heller, Randy Jansen, Alan King, Evelyn Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.
SPORTS: Charlie Grace, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahue, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilensky.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Carolyn Hay, Ruth Hay, John Londe, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyou, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 656-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Auto-Seizure Bi
Mobile Smokers

by John Van Hoesen

While the legislature could decriminalize marijuana during this legislative session, they could also pass a controversial auto-seizure bill which has already been okayed by the House.

According to State's Attorney Patrick Leahy the auto-seizure bill has serious ramifications as an harassment measure.

The House has approved an auto-seizure bill which would allow police to seize an individual's car and require them to post $250 bond until they proved their innocence. All that would be necessary for the police to seize the car would be suspicion by the police that there was intent to use the car for the transporting of drugs.

Leahy said would put th proof of inno individual. Th question would to prove he under this bill.

Calling the "bad" bill, Le it be killed. ultimate ramifi bill "staggering.

Opponents maintain th unconstitutiona who are fighti drug abuse p that the bill is come down users who prosecuted constitutional

While the S the auto-sei

VPIRG Discusses I

by Kathy Stiassni

At their 1974 Annual Meeting, the Vermont Public Interest Research Group was actively concerned with identifying their role as an organization. Discussion centered around the question of whether VPIRG's priorities should lie with campus or with community issues.

Scott Skinner, VPIRG's attorney, briefly reviewed the past year's events. He discussed the numerous legislative battles, the Tooth Fairy Bill, the upcoming "Lifeline" bill, which deals with selling electricity, and the Bottle Ban. He saw the passing of Tooth Fairy Bill, which has been the basis for a Dental Health Program, as VPIRG's most visible accomplishment. However, Mr. Skinner concluded that there have been no "striking legislative victories."

Several trustees and staff members commented on the possibility for more projects involving investigative research. There was a general feeling that VPIRG should direct itself increasingly towards educating and informing and teaching people skills. As a student-based and funded organization, greatest challe stimulating campus. Less insufficient while the situ an ideal on "general tone and optimism Mr. Skinner agreed that V a dual focus, state legislatu concerned community n

The secon agenda, the trustees highlighted identity and Though V student-base since its co public issues itself to the large. For battles inevi communi Furthermore recognize th as well as isolated co Especially many stud families w Vermont, interest to away from VPIRG's o Vermont st

Hockey I

Listen

Auto-Seizure Bill To Threaten Mobile Smokers Of The Weed

by John Van Hoesen

While the legislature could decriminalize marijuana during this legislative session, they could also pass a controversial auto-seizure bill which has already been okayed by the House.

According to State's Attorney Patrick Leahy the auto-seizure bill has serious ramifications as an harassment measure.

The House has approved an auto-seizure bill which would allow police to seize an individual's car and require them to post $250 bond until they proved their innocence. All that would be necessary for the police to seize the car would be suspicion by the police that there was intent to use the car for the transporting of drugs.

Leahy said that the bill would put the burden of proof of innocence on the individual. The person in question would be required to prove he was not guilty under this bill.

Calling the proposal a "bad" bill, Leahy urged that it be killed. He called the ultimate ramifications of the bill "staggering."

Opponents of the bill maintain the bill is unconstitutional. Supporters who are fighting to increase drug abuse penalties argue that the bill is a good way to come down hard on drug users who cannot be prosecuted because of constitutional protections.

While the Senate deals with the auto-seizure bill, the House will see a bill which would decriminalize marijuana. The legislation would reduce the penalty for possession of less than one half ounce of marijuana to $25. The penalty could not exceed $100 for a second conviction and a jail sentence could not be imposed for a first offense.

The present penalty for a first offense is $500 or six months in jail. Leahy described this unreasonable fine as "unenforceable." Legislative spokesmen feel that this bill is in some danger. The bill must come out of the House Judiciary Committee within the next two weeks for any action to be taken by the legislature before April 6.

Streaking Strikes And Support For Skinny-Dip Bill Grows

by R.A.S. Schaefer

Is it an initiation rite of spring? Perhaps an art form? Is it political? A challenge to authority? Nonsense? Perverted? Relief?

Streaking – the act of unclad bodies zipping past gawking startled audiences – has vaulted our wintery hibernating nation into the sensuous awakenings of spring time.

Between 150 and 200 sneaker-clad streakers sprinted across the UVM green, much to the excitement of 500 rooters.

A cadet at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point claimed to be one of a dozen streakers who raced around in the nude "...with officers chasing us. We did it to relieve the monotony. Everybody was cheering."

One Yale streaker, placed on probation for a torch-light dash, called his action a simple prank. "We had no message to get across," he said, "...college students are supposed to have fun."

At Princeton University, three streakers appeared at a lecture on Roman history. With our "new-found morality" in mind, it is not known whether the pranksters were commenting on the decline and fall of civilizations.

Other streaking incidents have been reported from Harvard Square to Mississippi. One lone streaker invaded the hallowed halls of the Michigan House of Representatives. Shopping centers in Rutland, Vermont, baseball games in Atlanta, Georgia, and delicatessens at 115th St. and Broadway have been the site of streakings.

Eminent Discussions

The craze is being discussed everywhere. Not only have participants and college students been overheard, but the subject has been analyzed and guessed at by psychiatrists, sociologists, Vermont legislators, and even a governor.

Marshall McLuhan, noted author and communications theorist, offers an opinion. "It's an art form, of course. All entertainment has elements of malice and power in it. Streaking has a political point, too. It's a form of activism." McLuhan continues in linguistical and nonsensical riddles, noting that streakers are nude but never naked. "It's only when you don't want to be seen that you're naked," he said. "A stripper backstage is naked, but when she is in front of an audience, she is wearing her public."

Dr. Robert Michels, a New York psychiatrist, described streaking as "the defiance of accepted cultural norms–more naughty than sexual." Paralleling the craze to goldfish swallowing and panty raids, Dr. Michels claims, "The inherent meaning is just silly." Politically speaking, perhaps the younger generation is telling a more powerful older generation that "social customs and norms are based on arbitrary rules."

The gasoline shortage has been coupled to streaking. It is more difficult for youngsters to "use" cars parked on deserted lanes. The resulting sexual frustration has been vented by the streaking phenomenon.

Dr. Robert J. Lifton of Yale throws streaking onto the pile of college pranks – "a challenge to authority and a mockery of authority." Dr. Lifton is sure what streaking is not. "It's not a return to the fifties; it's not a sign of corruption of American morality and it's not a threat to national security."

Governor Bill Waller of Mississippi denounced streaking as "lewd exposure of a serious nature. It must be stopped now."

Locally, in this humble author's opinion, streaking is an open-arms welcome to the delights and warmth that spring presents after months of gray Vermont winter. Last week, the greatest bulk of streaking events occurred on the unseasonably warm days, the broken shackles of wintry yesterday being greeted by fun-loving pranksters. (Of course, who would frolic outdoors today in sneakers alone at 25 degrees!)

Streaking in the Vermont Legislature

Streaking has aroused support for an anti-skinny dipping bill in Vermont. Twice this year, Reps. Robert Emond, D–Brattleboro, and Kenalene Collins, R–Readsboro testified in favor of legislation that calls for stiffer penalties for public nudity.

Rep. Collins feels that her rights are being infringed upon by the unclad pranksters who parade in the night. She also charged streakers with insincerity. Some individuals have worn masks to conceal their identity beyond what the night hides. Rep. Collins said, "If they have to put on a mask to streak, that's not being honest."

Mrs. Collins is also concerned with one upcoming "epidemic" of summer months, skinnydipping. She testified in committee that on many summer days, hundreds of nude bathers have been seen at Whittingham Lake. After local police reported that at the most five to seven nude bathers were seen, Mrs. Collins stuck to her position, saying, "There were 200 there one Sunday."

Rep. Emond has other worries and reports. "The boating season will shortly be upon us," he poetically said, and families will be "subjected to seeing boatloads of nude people pulling nude water skiers across their fish lines." Emond has heard of several instances where nude people have stopped at filling stations to purchase gasoline. He states that almost all the members of the House have been forced into instances of seeing nude people.

With these events taking place, Emond has been receiving mail on the subject of nudity, and nine out of ten are in support of a "skinnydipping" bill. Those writing in opposition to the bill, Emond maintained, are homosexuals. He thinks the arrest of a nude person would be for the protection of this unclad being otherwise, "some ex-football player" is likely to "beat these kids to a pulp."

VPIRG Discusses Identity At Meeting

by Kathy Stissani

At their 1974 Annual Meeting, the Vermont Public Interest Research Group was actively concerned with identifying their role as an organization. Discussion centered around the question of whether VPIRG's priorities should lie with campus or with community issues.

Scott Skinner, VPIRG's attorney, briefly reviewed the past year's events. He discussed the numerous legislative battles, the Tooth Fairy Bill, the upcoming "Lifeline" bill which deals with selling electricity, and the Bottle Ban. He saw the passing of Tooth Fairy Bill, which has been the basis for a Dental Health Program, as VPIRG's most visible accomplishment. However, Mr. Skinner concluded that there have been no "striking legislative victories."

Several trustees and staff members commented on the possibility for more projects involving investigative research. There was a general feeling that VPIRG should direct itself increasingly towards educating and informing and teaching people skills. As a student-based and funded organization, one of VPIRG's greatest challenges is that of stimulating involvement on campus. Last year there was insufficient interest, and while the situation now is not an ideal one, there is a "general tone of enthusiasm and optimism" according to Ms. Skinner. Thus, it was agreed that VPIRG must have a dual focus, to lobby in the state legislature and to recruit concerned students and community members.

The second item on the agenda, the election of trustees and officers highlighted questions of identity and public image. Though VPIRG is a student-based organization, since its concerns are with public issues it must extend itself to the community at large. For instance, legal battles inevitably tangle with community affairs. Furthermore, students should recognize their role as citizens as well as members of an isolated college population. Especially at UVM where many students and their families will remain in Vermont, it is to their interest to deal with problems away from college campuses. VPIRG's obvious relevance to Vermont students has caused out-of-state students to complain about supporting an organization which fails to serve them. However, though VPIRG's dealings with issues such as nuclear power, prescription drug prices, and food price surveys are informationally relevant to Vermont, these topics are simultaneously being explored on a national level. More importantly, VPIRG offers an opportunity to all UVM students for alternative education. It is available to students as a training ground away from the classroom.

Student-Alumni Career Day Is A Success

by Mitchell A. Cooperman

The Senior Class, in conjunction with the Alumni and Placement Offices, held the first Student–Alumni Career Day Saturday, March 9, in the Living/Learning Center. Areas discussed included Agriculture, Business Administration, Allied Health, Engineering, Social Services, Civil Services, Food Services, and Education. Alumni were invited to return to campus for a free–wheeling day of group sessions discussing the job market and jobs available in the near future. The purpose of the day was not one of recruitmen, but the exchange of knowledge between various members of the UVM community on and off campus.

Registration began at 9:00 a.m. with coffee and doughnuts available then and throughout the day. Informal sessions began at 10:00 with interested students speaking with those alumni they felt could give them the best assistance. The first session broke for lunch at noon and a second, afternoon session ran from 2 to 4 p.m. Better than 50 students, mostly juniors and seniors, attended the sessions.

All involved felt the day was highly worthwhile. Alumni commented favorably about the enthusiasm shown by those students taking part in the sessions. It gave them an excellent opportunity to share their experiences gathered since the Class of '47 graduated to the Class of '72. Students taking part felt the day was profitable, suggesting extensions into other fields. The sponsoring offices were very pleased that they could tap such a resource to benefit the campus. It is hoped by those concerned that such a day would be an event available to students every year.

Career Placement

Employers interviewing on campus Week of March 19 – 22

Sign Up Now:

Geotechnical Engineering Inc., seeks BS/MS Civil Engineers

J. C. Penny, seeks Business, Marketing, Mathematics, and accounting majors for New York City offices.

Beth Israel Hospital, seeks nurses

Yale-New Haven Hospital, seeks nurses

ACTION (Peace Corps and Vista), seeks all majors.

Seniors and Graduate Students are invited to set up credential folders with the Placement Office to assist them in their career pursuits. Forms for this purpose are available in the Career Planning and Placement Office.

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686
FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS
• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding
VW BRAKE JOB
Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional. $49.95
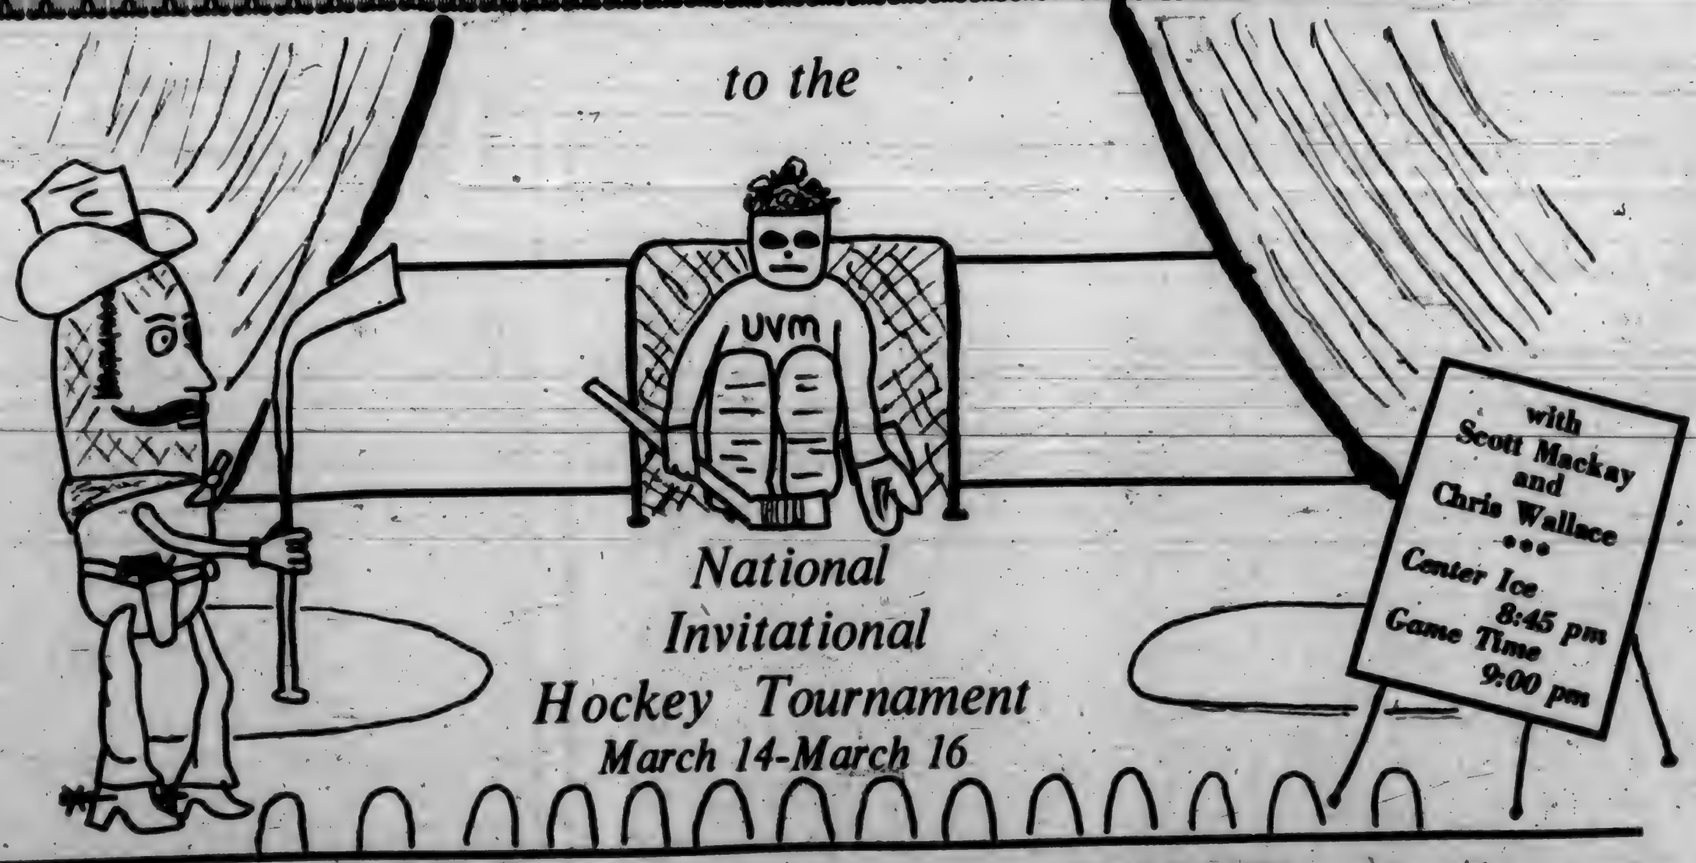
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $29.95
Spin Balance $8.50 per Wheel
Front End Alignment $12.00

Hockey Night In Catamount Country... GOES WEST



National Invitational Hockey Tournament
March 14-March 16

Listen to the UVM-Lake Superior State game TONIGHT at 8:45p.m.

WRUV-FM 90.1 Mhz

WRUV-AM 580 Khz

MARCH 14, 1974

Editor

VRUV Shut Down

...w is a prime ... to voice my ...nger ...towards ...ecision that ... should be made ... have worked at ... for three years ...me we have been ...d and shut down ... men in the blue ...times in 1971 ...honing incident ...ation was being ...d opinions of all ...f campus ... rightwingers. ...m on Wednesday ...ying part-host to ...event that is ... on rapidly nationwide ... namely streaking. It is on these two points that I strongly question the University's right to shut down broadcasting and cut off the communication network we have worked so hard to provide our campus with. And the students should be mad! They are paying for that radio station out of S.A. funds and I think it's time they thought hard and long about these shutdown tactics and stand up for the first ammendment. You've heard of Radio Free Europe – what about Radio Free UVM?.

Flash Gordon

The UVM Streakers

...king students of ... run across the ... through lecture ... our hats pulled ... heads and your ...ing in the warm ...ee, stop for a ...t's environ- the ...n, with big ...ir faces They're all you-pin-ups. ...es have melted ... Vermont snow, ...rther and farther ... the reality of ...tuition rates for a ...in the nation, the ...ademics without consideration of student opinions, and an overall dwindling quality of education. The fascination and intrigue of streaking will soon wear off, but the ink on your Fall '74 bill will remain, as will the overcrowded classes taught by middle-of-the-road professors. Perhaps it is time to strike, not streak!

Tim Marr
Janet Morris
Margery Kaye
Priscilla Elder

Question Of Ethics

...large number of ...ment on the UVM ...m the last week, ...l issue has arisen ... streaker wear ... must agree with ...ctionados of the ... say absolutely ...devotion of the ... his sport is in ...hen he wears ...hen streaking was ...the idea was for ...be attired as the ...ody; naked.

...help but wonder ...ppen if streaking ...rs on spreads to ...ociety. It staggers ...tion just to think ...cussions. Will feet ... most erotic part ...? Will young men ...roung maidens to ... to remove her ...d feel her toes? ... McAnns replace ...hurch as the ...tore for intimate ... Penthouse go as ...w pedal hair? Will ... wearing sneakers ...ding slits? Will ...ter to the space ...ur big toe and the ...-it? The list goes

We fully realize that there are occasions when climatic conditions or social mores require the conscientious streaker to don some type of apparel. When streaking in the rain, it is perfectly all right to wear galoshes but not hip boots or waders. Snow shoes or cross country skis are acceptable when streaking in deep snow. And when streaking at a formal affair, what card would dare show up without wearing his top hat and black tie.

We believe the moral question of whether or not to wear sneakers when streaking is a personal one; but we urge the novice not to take the decision lightly, for he may hold the fate of society as we know it between his toes.

John M. Allen

...ket Policy Outrageous

...honestly do not ... some of the ...this university, in ...ular instance the ... of the Athletic ... ...urday morning I ...g to go up to the ...y a ticket to the ... game against ... However, I had ...ned that all of the ...kets were sold the ... to season ticket ... mind the fact that ...ket holders were ... priority, however ...e were allowed to ...than one ticket for this game. This to me is outrageous! I know some of the season ticket holders who were allowed to purchase as many as seven tickets on one season pass. It should have been the responsibility of the Athletic Department to see that only one ticket was sold to each season pass holder, so that those of us who did not have these passes could have had somewhat of a chance to purchase a ticket also.

It is a disgrace that the Athletic Department was so remiss in the allocation of the hockey tickets.

Joseph Rosenblum

...ERMONT CYNIC

...ley Andrews, Dave ..., Bill Campbell, Cecilia ...drew Mann.

... Bert Bodi, Carol ...ane Rann, ... Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, ...ie, Barbara Freedman, ... Lief, Joseph Gleban, ...

...TS: Scott Cahoon, ...rman, Big Heller, ..., Alish King, Evelyn ... Liberty, Steve Rice, Jeff Ryback.

SPORTS: Charlie Grace, Fred Coombs, Dave Donahue, Gene Goldberg, Neil Gruber, Al Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Bob Wilensik.

ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.

PRODUCTION: Camilla Hay, Ruth Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Torpey, Debbie Tatro, Jean Westcot.

...s expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the ... not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University ..., faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions ... by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion ...rity of the members of the Cynic Editorial Board.

...ed yearly during the college year by the students of the ... of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and ... offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. ... 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date ...

...d in 1951. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ... Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Arts & Entertainment

Royall Tyler Theatre Proudly Presents: Contrast, Dumb Gent, Solomon

by Margo Howland

After over two years of lengthy renovations at the Old Gym, the new Royall Tyler Theatre is ready to open its doors to the public. The formal dedication of the theatre will be held today at 3:30 p.m. Descendants of Judge Royall Tyler will attend the ceremony as special guests of the University. The public is cordially invited to attend.

An exhibition of Tyler memorabilia was put on display in the theatre lobby on Tuesday, March 12. Before and after the dedication there will be an Open House at the theatre, and then, at 8 p.m., a special preview showing of Royall Tyler's famous comedy, The Contrast, will be held for invited guests. A reception will follow the play, both on Thursday and Friday nights.

On Friday, March 15 at 8 p.m., the Royall Tyler Theatre will officially open with the first public production of The Contrast, marking the final realization of a long-awaited event. The play will run for five days, concluding on March 19.

Judge Royall Tyler (for whom the theatre is named) was a distinguished American playwright, novelist, essayist, poet and lawyer, born in Boston in 1757. His play, The Contrast, written in 1787, was the first American comedy and second play to be written by an American.

Judge Tyler moved to Guilford, Vermont, in 1791, where he continued his legal career. He received an honorary Master of Arts degree from the University of Vermont in 1811 and was a member of the Board of Trustees.

He was the first (and only) Professor of Jurisprudence at the University of Vermont, serving from 1811 to 1814. Tyler was also a State's Attorney, a justice of the Vermont State Supreme Court, a Chief Justice and a Register of Probate for Windham County from 1815 to 1822. Royall Tyler wrote five other plays, four of which have never been performed.

SPS Photo: Allan Seadale

It is most appropriate that the new beautiful theatre, named for one of UVM's most prominent faculty members should open with his most famous play. The Contrast is a tale of Old England versus New Frontier America, a most timely topic of that era, and one in tune with our approaching bicentennial. The aristocratic Continentals think themselves miles above the unpolished Americans and are quick to point out the contrast between the two. The ways of the Old World are not the ways of the New, as this delightful musical, an American Restoration play, tells us. The adaptation of the play to a musical was skillfully accomplished by Anthony J. Stimac, with music by Don Pippin and lyrics by Steve Brown. The results have prompted rave reviews from such distinguished critics as Walter Kerr and Clive Barnes of the New York Times.

Maria Van Rough, a true-hearted American, with no English airs about her is engaged to the "odious" Mr. Dimple, who, far from being the country lad she used to know and respect, has come back from England an insufferable fop. She must please her father and marry for money, and not for love. In contrast are two lovely schemers, Charlotte and Letitia, who have their own plans concerning Dimple, and who are out to flirt and primp and dress for men. Things are complicated by the actions of Mr. Dimple burning the candle at both ends—but there are three ends.

Into the plot cometh an English dandy, out to win a lady and use an honest Yankee to his own advantage: enter a valiant brother, and top the whole story with witticisms, catchy songs, and the ring of history, and the result is The Contrast.

Perhaps the best description of The Contrast's plot might be found in Manly's speech at the beginning of the play: "In the....young country the simple virtues of honor and patriotism were held in high esteem. A few people, however, wealthy enough to travel, tried desperately to cling to the customs and manners of the Continent—with what success you are about to see. So, tonight, look with us through the eyes of a citizen of the times, Mr. Royall Tyler, at the conflict, that CONTRAST."

In addition, the UVM Chamber Ensemble will present a concert in the theatre lobby on March 17, at 2 p.m. On March 19, at 1 p.m., a Symposium, "Royall Tyler, Man of Letters & Affairs" will be held in the Upper Lobby, and is open to the public. Charles A. Tillinghast, of the University of Vermont, will serve as moderator.

Concluding the schedule of events will be two evenings of Tyler presentations, at 8 p.m., on March 20 and 21. First will be a one-act play, The Dumb Gent, by Royall Tyler Jr., and directed by Charles Towers; and then a readers' theatre production of Royall Tyler Sr.'s short play The Judgment of Solomon, directed by Jennifer Cover. Both plays are free and open to the public.

An interesting sidelight to The Dumb Gent is that it was written by Tyler's son, Royall Tyler Jr., while a student at the University of Vermont. The play was first performed at the University of Vermont Commencement in 1812. Young Tyler, however, never lived to see his play performed. He died in the Old Mill following complications of an accident during vacation.

Tickets for The Contrast are available at the Royall Tyler Theatre, at $1.50 with UVM ID; $3.00 general admission. For reservations call Extension 2094.

Lane Series:

Welsh Choir Program Includes Sacred Music, Folksongs

The Welsh Choir of Cardiff (Wales) will sing in the final major Lane Series Concert on Tuesday, March 19 at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

A mixed group of 35 singers, the Choir is conducted by Roy Bohana. The professional musicians include housewives, teachers, civil servants, businessmen and others – all from Cardiff, Wales, making their third tour of the United States.

The program includes a selection of sacred music by Mozart, J. S. Bach, and Benjamin Britten; a number of folk songs of the world; several Welsh folksongs, sung in Welsh; and a group of spirituals.

Founded in 1964 by Roy Bohana, the choir has toured extensively in Belgium, England, Japan (at Expo '70) and Wales, as well as in the United States and Canada.

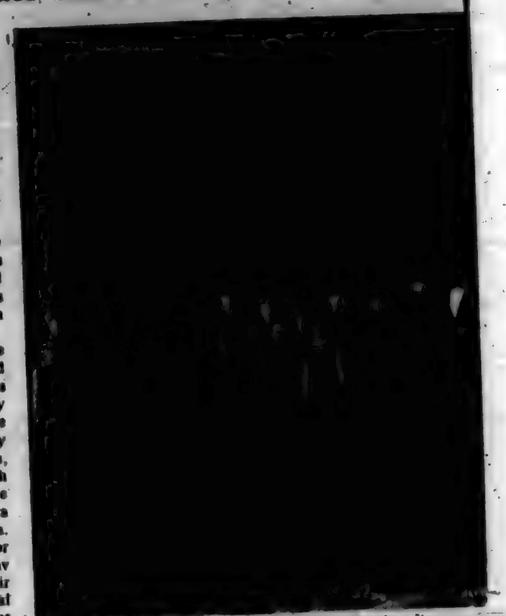
The group has participated with enormous success in the Festival of 20th Century Music, the Angiesey Festival and the Cheltenham Festival, and it was the first Welsh choir to perform on three major London concert stages - Royal Festival Hall, Royal Albert Hall and Queen Elizabeth Hall.

Singing modern as well as standard repetoire works, the Choir gave the first performance in Wales of Stravinski's, "Symphony of Psalms," and has premiered many new Welsh compositions, including one by Hoddinott at a concert in honor of the investiture of the Prince of Wales.

The mixed choir has made several radio broadcasts, has sung on BBC Television and Television Wales and has recorded for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Roy Bohana, the conductor, has toured Germany and America as conductor of the University of Wales Madrigal Singers. He has also conducted at many festivals with orchestras, including the English Chamber Orchestra, the London Chamber Orchestra and the BBC Welsh Orchestra. He has been guest conductor of the Bulgarian Svetoslav Obretenov A Capella Choir and the Rumanian Madrigal Choir of Budapest. Each year he conducts the Festival of 1000 male voices at the Royal Albert Hall in London.

The glowing tone and musicianship of the Choir have given it a world-wide reputation. The London Times (1970) spoke of the "35 singers, all of one quality; a blend as pure as a cathedral choir, but with a warm even vibrato the men and women's voices."



Tickets, $3, $5, and $6 are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Mandolin And Fiddle Player Kenny Hall Plays At Buckham Coffeehouse Tonight

by Wayne Bayer

Kenny Hall, from Sweetsmill, California, and founder of the "Sweetsmill String Band," will be playing at the Buckham Coffeehouse tonight at 9:00. Kenny is one of the finer mandolin and fiddle players in the country. In addition to fiddle tunes and traditional music, he plays what is called "old time music." If you were one of the many who enjoyed "Banjo Dan and the Midnite Plowboys" at Billings last Friday you should also enjoy Kenny Hall.

His first album, the "Sweetsmill String Band" was recorded on Bay Records in San Francisco. His second album, recorded at Philo Records in Vermont, will be out next month.

The Buckham Hall Coffee House is a once or twice a week experiment. It's an experiment in music appreciation to determine if UVM students have interests and taste in music that aren't predetermined by AM & FM rock stations, the big record companies, and Rolling Stone-type magazines. It's an experiment to determine if UVM students will pay a fraction of what it costs for big name concerts at UVM. The entertainment is by no means "super name" music but most of it is in the quality of some of the better coffee houses in the country.

There's truth in the last statement because the people scheduled are scheduled around their studio appointments at Philo Records and their appearances at the Fresh Ground Coffee House in Burlington.

Last week Buckham had Bodie and Pop Wagne from Ohio. This past Sunday "Hoss" Bone from UVM filled in for blues guitarist, Martin Grosswendt, who will be re-scheduled sometime soon.

Coming up Sunday night will be Dakota Dave Hall (no relation to Kenny). Dakota Dave, who picks guitar like Doc Watson (not all that much of an exaggeration), toured England as a sideman for Utah Phillips last year.

Speaking of Phillips, there's a possibility he may be at Buckham next week. Watch for signs near the dining halls and other obvious places in addition to tuning into WRUV-AM and FM. Jane Voss is tentatively scheduled for April 9.

Admission for the 9:00 starting time is $.75. Performers usually do two or three sets and play until 12 or 12:30. "Come on down!"

Friday's Sci-Fi: The Time Machine

The Academy Award winning "The Time Machine" will be unveiled on Friday, March 15 as the next film in the Science Fiction Movies Series presented by the Lane Film Society. There will be two showings in Marsh Life Science Building: 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. The color ffilm runs for 103 minutes.

Based on the novel by H.G. Wells and directed by George Pal, "The Time Machine" stars Rod Taylor, Yvette Mimieux, Alan Young and Tom Helmore. The scenario was written by David Duncan.

The story concerns the inventor of the Time Machine, who, on the eve of the year 1900, tries to explain his invention to some friends, but they find it hard to believe. To prove his point, he undertakes a journey into the infinity of the fourth dimension. He passes through an episode during World War I, through the bombing of London in 1940, and through the global war of 1966, and finally discovers life as it endures in the 802,701. What he finds man has become does not please him; so he tries to change the people and their living conditions. He returns to 1900, explains his travels to his doubting friends, but realizes to satisfy himself he must return to the year 802,701.

Tickets are available for $1 in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at the door. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Dead End Kids. . .

(continued from page seven)

